LOCAL OFFICERS ARE WARNED TO WATCH FOR BANK ROBBER.

Local officers were advised at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to be on the lookout for the Fort Worth bank robber and they have been furnished with a description of him. The reward offered is one thousand dollars.

News of the affair was received in this city very shortly after it happened yesterday afternoon and it at once became a leading topic of conversation. While there was much regret over the incident, not a few expressed their admiration for a man who could rob a bank in a big city single handed.

A PLUCKY LAWYER.

The late Senator Stewart believed muscular Christianity, and many a rough and tumble fight did be have in the old days in California and Nevada," said a California congressman.

"He was not quarrelsome, but he was never known to run away from an encounter, and as he was a powerful man physically there were not many who were keen to tackle him. On one occasion a noted desperado was interested in a mining suit and sent word to Stewart, who was attorney for the other side, that if he appeared to argue the case he might count on being killed. The fellow had slain half a dosen men, but his threat in nowise intimidated the plucky young lawyer. The desperado had a well known system of hiding a pistol in his coat pocket and shooting his man without openly drawing the weapon. This, Stewart knew, and so when he walked into the courtroom the first thing he did was to lay down a bowle knife about a foot and a half long and a six shooter as big as a young cannon on the table directly in front of him. Then, sternly eying the bad man, he said: I hear you mean to kill me if I argue this case. That's a game two can play at. That pistol you have in your coat isn't worth a cent against this layout. The minute you put your right hand in your pocket I'll send a bullet into you. and if that doesn't finish you this knife

"An old miner who was present and told me the story said the fellow turned white as a sheet and slunk out of the courtroom to appear no more."-Baltimore American.

To Improve Flight.

During a big Presbyterian convention in 1865 a rhetorical Scotchman from Ohio got the floor. His speech was replete with mingled humor and sarcasm. In the course of it, says the Rev. Galusha Anderson in a book entitled "A Border City During the Civil War," he made this remark about his own eloquence:

"The speech of the brother from this city brought to my mind an experience of my school days. I wrote an oration and handed it to my teacher.

"When he had examined it he called me to him and said:

"Taylor, if you would only pluck a few feathers from the wings of your imagination and stick them into the tall of your judgment you would write a good deal better."

The Best Part of the Speech. Young James had never heard his papa speak in public, and it was thought time to take him to hear his father deliver a lecture. During the evening a stray dog which ventured upon the platform was disposed of as gracefully as possible. On the ome James was asked how he liked his father's lecture and gave the answer, "It was all right, pape, but I liked the part where you put the dog out the best."-Delineator.

WELL KNOWN LAMPASAS MAN LOUD IN PRAISE OF WICHITA.

J. W. Moore of Lampasas is here isiting his brother, J. L. Moore, and family. It will be recalled that Mr. Moore laid the original system of water mains in our city. Mr. Moore thinks very highly of Wichita. When questioned, he said:

"Without question, you have one of the best in the State. The growth is phenomenal, of the most substantial nature. Your magnificent brick buildings of three, four and five stories, and your beautiful modern, imposing quitoes are getting in their heavy work. residences recently constructed and now under construction would do credit to a city of many times your populadences recently constructed, the supply is inadequate to the demand. My brother tells me that your public enterprise has not a parallel. In my judgment, this is very extensive, as I have been in public work for twenty years, building water and sewer sys tems in some 60 different towns. This has given me a wide field for observa-

It seems that this ought to satisfy the most ambitious community, but not so with Wickita Falls. You continue to enlarge and extend your achievements. The latest that I note is the electric railway to Lake Wichita, where there is being erected a pleasure resort of a very imposing nature. There your busy people can go and take the needed rest and recreation that such a class of people are entitled to. So you have laid the foundations deep and strong for a great city and you are going to have it. You are now ready to establish all kinds of manufacturing, having natural gas and coal, and the distributing facilities which are needed for this purpose. In my judgment you will move by leaps and bounds. You are expecting great things and will not be disappointed. The most sanguine will be surprised.

When he reaches the point where he could be of great value to his community he sits down on it, and continues his skinning process. A few of this class are found in almost every community and make what his customers call a fortune. But let someone of a public spirited disposition suggest something of a public nature, such as building a railroad or giving a bonus get a road or factory or anything else that will tend to build up the town and he will tell you that if the road wants to come, well and good; that if

If you were a Frenchman with small surplus to invest, if even surpius were but a modest franc, might become the holder of a French government bond, From the cradle to the grave the French subect is taught to save and to turn his saruings into safe income producing secount, says Charles Speare in the Review of Iteviews.

The state pays a premium on thrift. It rewards its school children for varius good performances with a tiny bank deposit which invariably will have grown into goodly size when the recipient has reached maturity. Having nursed its people through the early stages of economy, it directs their steps in the choice of investments and even assumes paternal power in arbitrarily transforming the savings bank account into government bonds or rentes. Thrift is a national characteristic. France is a nation of little savers, of little incomes and of little

Collectively these exercise a tremen dous power on the affairs of Europe. The holder of the one or two franc bond and the possessor of the bank account, so small that bankers of other countries would scorn it, have built up a monetary power that commands the respect of the world and indeed regulates the finances and politics of nuch more presumptuous nations. Bonds of states and governments, of railroads with a government guarantee, bonds of cities and towns, of mortgage companies, are the Frenchman's choice. Hackmen Believe They Have Been Unjustly Dealt With and Will Attack Validity of Measure.

J. G. Gilbert, who was arested recently for violating the city's new hack driving ordinance, has sued out a writ of habeas corpus and the hearing will be held at Austin shortly.

It is the intention of Mr. Gilbert to est the ordinance and with this in view the writ was sued for. Just how well the ordinance can stand the test of the courts it is hard to say.

The ordinance was passed by the city council following the action of the cab drivers in advancing prices from twenty-five cents to fifty cents, in all parts of the city. The council deemed this excessive and the ordinance provided that only twenty-five cents should be charged on this side of Broad street. The cab drivers then withdrew their cabs altogether, soliciting no fares, and the city then threatened to revoke their licenses. M: nearly every government under the Gilbert's arrest followed and the court of criminal appeals will be called on to decide whether or not the city council had a right to pass such an ordinance.

Southwest Texas Cat Claw Honey

We have just received a shipment of this celebrated honey direct from one of the best Aparies of Southwest Texas. This honey is finished. A great deal of Texas honey is taken before the bees are through with it and it contains a large percentage of water. The honey as gathered contains water and the cells are gradually sealed and more honey added as the water evaporates until a tiny hole, almost invisible, is left until the last vestage of water is gone, then, and not until then, the cell is entirely capped over and there is nothing but honey. This kind of honey retains its original flavor indefinately-And this is the kind of honey we sell. Let us show you.
