A Short Talk on a Grave Subject

Druggists as a rule don't go much on graveyards. No doubt they all get there in the end same as other people, but we mean during life. In his leisure hours [it he has any] the druggist seldom puts in his time in the graveyard. If he is out for a stroll he is more likely to turn his steps away from it. This is usually for one of two reasons. If he is a good druggist and understands his business he regards the graveyard as a sort of enemy which he is fighting all the time trying to keep his customers out of it. If he is a dealer who thinks more of his profits than his customers, he fights shy of the graveyard for conscience sake; remorse perhaps for having substituted something cheap in filling prescriptions for the deceased. We have as much antipathy for graveyards as most druggists, not because our conscience troubles us. We stay away because it makes us feel bad. We are always sorry when one of our friends and customers is called to "the life beyond," but if we had anything to do with his last illness our conscience is clear. We filled the prescription exactly as the doctor ordered. It is our duty to fill prescriptions. It is our principle and invariable rule to fill them exactly as ordered and we never let the work be done by inexperienced help. We use the right drugs, the right proportions and of the quality the doctor expects; with this our duty is done. Bring your prescriptions to us where you get what the doctor wants you to have.

Big Land Deal On.

Capt. John S. Doughtie left this morning for Houston where he went to close a big land deal in which about 14,000 acres of land lying in this county will change hands. The Sentinel is not informed of the exact location of the land nor the amount of the consideration, but the latter will not be less than $50,000. When the transfer is made the land will be subdivided and settled by a large body of colonists who will farm it in small tracts. It is to be hoped that there will be no hitch in the deal, for it is not so much the mere trading in land that Texas needs as its occupation by actual settlers who will develop its resources with plow and hoe. A large body of colonists settled upon 14,000 acres of land within easy distance of this city would be a big thing for county and city alike.

Hardy Hughes.

Married, at the residence of Capt. and Mrs. Hughes, at Redfield, Nacogdoches county, August 10th, Mr. Ovid Hardy and Miss Nannie Hughes. Rev. C. A. Tower officiating. The groom is one of Rusk county's best young men. The bride was one of Nacogdoches county's most charming belles. The wedding was a quiet affair, witnessed by a few friends and relatives. The supper was all that heart and palate could wish. The whole affair was ideal, no effort whatever at display. The bride was beautiful and beautifully dressed. The groom was handsomely donned in a citizen's suit. They start on a smooth sea. May their sailing be sweet and their landing triumphant. Selah. Anthony.

KILLED FATHER AND SON.

Two Men Assassinated Near Overton, Rusk County.

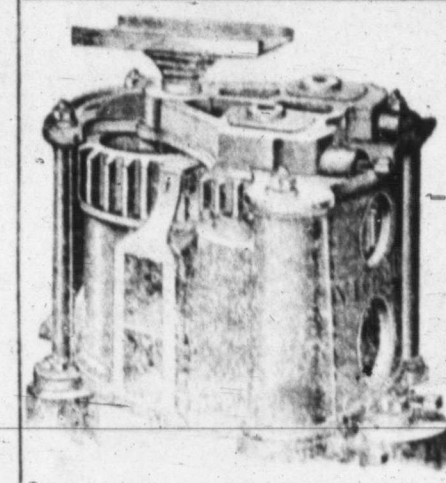

Rusk County News.

Saturday night at an early hour Arthur Gray and his son John, living in the Red Level community, a few miles north of Overton, were shot from ambush and instantly killed. Sunday morning in response to a phone message Sheriff Hale, Deputy Rosson, Constable Standard and County Attorney Futch went to the scene of the killing, where, soon afterward they arrested John Yancey, a white man, and Wash and Lewis Jenkins, negroes. According to the best information the reporter has been able to gather, the facts in connection with the homicide extend over a period of some six or seven months. It seems, early in February, two of Gray's sons had a difficulty with the Jenkins negroes. Later on Gray reported the Jenkins for failure to answer summons to work the road. In retaliation the Jenkins gave information against the Gray boys on a pistol charge. Yancey's connection was brought about by his taking part of the negroes. This led to hard feelings between Gray and Yancey. Saturday evening they met near Wash Jenkins' house. Abusive language was passed between them, but a difficulty was prevented by the interference of outside parties, they leaving each other with the understanding they would meet again and settle their differences. Shortly after this they met at Wash Jenkins' house where the quarrel was renewed. In the meantime Yancey had armed himself with a shot gun, Gray being unarmed, it was agreed between them to meet again, naming the place on the railroad nearby, and shoot it out, giving Gray time enough to go home and arm himself. With this understanding Gray went home, while Yancey instead of going to the place appointed, after Gray had left, went in the direction of his home. After arming himself Gray went back to the place appointed, and was heard calling to Yancey. Failing to find Yancey and getting no response to his calls, Gray returned to the negro house and was talking to Jenkins when his son, John Gray, rode up and joined him. This was between eight and nine o'clock. From here Gray and his son left in the direction of Yancey's house, the negro following close by. They had proceeded only a short distance when a gun shot wound in the right breast while young Gray had a similar wound in the face both being made at close range and evidently causing instant death. Yancey was found at his home by the officers and when asked if he knew anything about the killing confessed that he was the one who did the shooting. It developed that Lewis Jenkins was with Yancey at the time he did the killing and was also armed. Complaints were filed before Squire Wood at Overton charging Yancey and the two negroes with murder.

PIERFONT MORGAN was Cleveland's hoodoo and we are glad he has gone over to Roosevelt.

TEDDY looks like a little tin soldier on a toy pony since Parker unlocked his jaw at Rosemount.

"The voice of one crying in the wilderness" in the fine Scriptural way Watterson puts it in describing Judge Parker's address.

THE weather remains too warm for people to feel more than a languid interest in politics, national, state or county, but just wait till frost touches the persimmon.

FRANCIS MURPHY, the celebrated temperance evangelist, said in a recent interview that the drinking man was the most respectable sinner in the world. The editor of the Alkale Eye will doubtless give his enthusiastic assent to this proposition. Its a fine subject for a leader in the Eye.

MR. CORTELYOU, who is managing Roosevelt's campaign, says that his boss is as good as elected. This is the mere freshness of a young man without experience and is an obviously absurd thing to say before the campaign has really opened. Mr. Cortelyou is getting the horse laugh all over the country.

IT may be true that figures can't lie but the fellow who handles them can, and this is especially true of the fellow at Russian headquarters who sends out the figures of the Japanese losses in battle. "We love a liar but you please us too well," is a classic adage that fits his case like the paper on the wall.

As a booster for bar rooms Bishop Potter seems to be a success. The "model" saloon which he helped to open with prayer a few days ago in New York City got such an advertising in consequence that the management has been compelled to employ an additional barkeeper. The W. C. T. U. ought to fire the bishop.

THE Louisiana state troops now in annual encampment at Covington in that state are about to mutiny and want to go home to their mamas because it has rained every day on them in camp and they can't have any fun. This is the result of the prevailing idea that an encampment of state troops means a frolic.

AMONG the states of the Union Texas is first in area, first in the size of her democratic majority, first in cotton production and first in railroad mileage. Her railroads in a continuous line would go nearly half around the globe and her democrats and cotton bales in single file would about complete the circuit. "All wool and a yard wide" is no figure of speech to describe the greatness and goodness of Texas.

GO SLOW ON DOGS.

The Galveston News feels strongly on the subject of dogs and finds in the growing number of worthless and vicious canines all over Texas, unrestrained by law and unenlightened by education, an urgent subject for legislation next winter in Austin. The point is well taken and we'll bear it in mind. But to speak of dogs makes us think of people; and when we permit our shuddering vision to rove up and down the news columns of the press every day in the year and attempt to keep up with the interminable catalogue of evil resulting directly from the weakness and wickedness of man—when we note the stupendous butchery now in progress in Manchuria, the bloody and almost daily collisions between the enraged hordes of strikers, strike-breakers and policemen in Chicago; when we read of murder, arson, rape, embezzlement and every form of felony and misdemeanor continuously staining the current history of the human race; when we see men in every rank and condition in life incessantly striving to overreach, undermine and circumvent each other, consumed with envy, jealousy and resentment; slander and detraction dripping in myriad streams of poison from human lips, and everywhere selfishness, greed and lust—when we see and hear and read all these things which make up the awful chapter of each day's experience of the human race, we are disposed to go slow on dogs, even those without a pedigree, steeped in all the humiliation of mange and fleas, and pardon much to them because they are compelled to associate with men.

YESTERDAY at Sweet Springs, Mo., after a long illness ex-Senator George Graham Vest of that state, passed away. A great former leader of democracy has fallen and he will be sincerely mourned. He was among the few really eloquent senators in his day, and he combined force of character with charm of speech in unusual degree.

MISSISSIPPI has a vagrant law that has worked wonders in solving the problem of vagrancy in that state. Her cities and towns are no more infested with robust vagrants and loafers preying upon the community for the new law reaches for them with a grasp that gets there every time. Texas has no adequate law on the subject and the next legislature should look into the Mississippi statute.

THE spirit of prophecy is on us and with calm confidence we state that this fall will be one of extraordinary prosperity for the people of Nacogdoches. The boll weevil has failed to come up to popular expectation and we are going to have a cotton crop larger than last year and it will bring a price that will put lots of money in circulation. There are really no hard times anywhere in Texas. All kinds of crops have been good, failures in business have been few and we have safely emerged from the swollen and abnormal boom period and have settled down on the substantial basis of our actual and abundant resources. Nacogdoches is all right and we may look out for a record breaking fall trade.

ROOSEVELT has come around to the Southern idea that there should be no mercy for negro rape fiends. In refusing to commute the death penalty in a case of that kind in the District of Columbia he grows really eloquent in denouncing the black monster who assaulted a little girl four years old and says: "It is to be regretted that we do not have special provision for more summary dealing with this type of cases." "Summary" is the word, Mr. President, and down this way we are very summary indeed, in handling such cases. Our "special provision" is always in working order.

No part of Judge Parker's address accepting the presidential nomination was more impressive and significant than that which stated that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself. His reasons therefor are worth repeating: "Several reasons might be advanced for this position, but the controlling one with me is that I am fully persuaded that no incumbent of that office should ever be placed in a situation of possible temptation to consider what the effect of action taken by him in an administrative matter of great importance might have on his political fortunes." Put that in your pipe and smoke it, Teddy.

At the populist state convention held in Ft. Worth Wednesday, W. A. Skillern of this county was chosen as a presidential elector for this congressional district, and A. J. Murphey of this county was chosen as a member of the state executive committee. The following state ticket was nominated: Governor, Dr. Pat B. Clark, of Red River county; Lieutenant Governor, Clarence Nugent of Erath county; Comptroller, E. P. Alsbury of Harris county; Treasurer Capt. Sam Evans of Tarrant county; Land Commissioner, S. C. Grandberry of Travis county; Railway Commissioner, H. P. Jones of Jack county; Attorney General, George T. Todd of Marion county.

THESE railroad traffic managers and passenger agents in Texas are about the most useful and enthusiastic boomers the state has nowadays. They are always working for Texas and talking for Texas and their talk is not mere hot air, for they are thoroughly well informed on the subject and are unromantic, hard-headed business men who do things in a business-like way. Their enthusiasm is genuine and it brings results. Mr. Bryan Snyder, traffic manager is the latest to yield to the infection and begin to talk Texas. He was in Houston the other day, and among other things said: "More produce has been raised on one acre of Texas soil than on twenty acres in the years gone by. An official of the International & Great Northern Railway tells me his company has shipped over fifteen thousand carloads of truck, fruit and vegetables this year. Just think of it. Texas is coming to her own and, as I predicted years ago, anything that can be grown on God's green earth will sprout in this state. A party coming down on the train with us last night estimated this year's cotton crop at 5,000,000 bales. I will divide that by two and yet see what an enormous crop you will have. All this in spite of the boll weevil."

THERE is authentic information to the effect that the Guatemalan ants got away with the right hind leg of a despondent grasshopper imprisoned in a bottle down at Victoria, and this seems to be as far as they have progressed in destroying the boll weevils in Texas.

COL. G. W. BURKETT, of Palestine, republican candidate for governor of Texas two years ago, respectfully but firmly declines to accept the nomination of his party for congress in the seventh district. There is neither fun nor glory to balance the expense account in that kind of a race.

TEXAS FARMER says there is not a morning paper in Texas governed by political convictions. Commercialism, it alleges, is the governing motive. Where is the commercialism in supporting Parker for president and Larham for governor, as some of our morning dailies are doing? We are not prepared to believe so ill of all of them.

THE first issue of "The Opportunity," the new paper established at Caro in this county by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, has reached us. It is a neatly printed 4 column folio and it talks for Caro vigorously and well. The paper is non-sectarian and non-political and will devote itself to the agricultural and horticultural development of the Caro country.

THE recent speech of ex-Governor Hogg has not given the aid and comfort to the enemies of democracy that was asserted by some of the anti-Hogg papers. Col. Cecil A. Lyon, the official head of the republican party in Texas, says that the ex-governor's attitude will in nowise help the Texas republicans and that he is the strongest democrat in Texas today.

FORMER GOV. HOGG is overwhelmed with invitations to address political meetings but declines them all. The working men of Houston among many others have written him to address them on Labor Day. If his late speech in the state convention "killed him off" as some of the anti-Hoggites are asserting his corpse is the recipient of an amazing quantity of the most flattering attentions, attentions of a kind usually paid to people very much alive. The truth is that Hogg has as strong a tol-lowing as ever and the frankness of his convention speech has done him no harm. There was no treason to the democratic party in that speech, nothing inconsistent with the big ex-governor's record and character, and if the occasion should arise he could carry more people in Texas his way than any other man in the State.

THE populists will fuse with the democrats in Nebraska on condition that the electoral vote of the combined parties shall go to populist presidential nominee. This won't do of course. The electoral vote of the state could do Watson no possible good as he has no chance of election, and it might give just the strength necessary to put Parker in.

THE land and immigration department of the Southern Pacific Railway is in session at Houston and a small army of agents and boomers from Texas and Louisiana are there talking Texas and her resources in the most encouraging fashion. This department of the Southern Pacific is doing more to bring in immigrants and capital to Texas than perhaps any other single agency and it deserves all the good words that can be said for it.

THE Czar is happy at last even though all the war news is bad news and he can't see the sun rise in the East for the clouds of wicked little Japs hovering on the horizon. His wife has presented him with a boy baby to inherit his throne and empire. Congratulations to the Czar, who is a good man with bad counselors, and profound sympathy for the poor little kid! The humblest nigger baby born this year in Texas has a better prospect for a serene and contented future.

THE terrible little Japs are closing in for the final assault on Port Arthur and making its last hours under the Russian flag hideous beyond description. The doomed fortress is a veritable hell on earth with its thousands of dead and wounded soldiers, its panic stricken inhabitants, the air almost incessantly vibrant with the diabolical noises of battle, and the implacable foe without creeping like Fate upon it and as sure of its victim as the coiled snake of the fluttering bird it has marked for its own.

THE people of Galveston are making preparations for a grand celebration on the 20th of this month of the completion of the great sea wall which will be the life harness of that city. Doubtless there will be railroad excursions at reduced rates from all parts of the state and the celebration should be made the grandest and most memorable fete in all the history of Galveston. The completion of the sea wall has attracted favorable attention in every part of the country and the Island City has a right to plume herself on such an achievement. Advertise the event properly, get the right railroad rates and a tidal wave of Texans will overflow the island on the 20th.

In this issue of The Sentinel appears the speech of Judge Parker delivered yesterday at Rosemount, New York, when he formally accepted the nomination as the democratic candidate for president of the United States. The speech is as plain, clear and pointed as a judicial decision and without going into the full details which will appear in his later letter of acceptance, it reaches every issue in national politics and stands clearly and firmly for the democratic view on those issues. There is a plain, old-fashioned ring about it, a recurrence to first principles, in gratifying contrast with the fortunate periods of Roosevelt in which he incessantly poses for effect, hurls valorous platitudes at the public and talks like a war lord in uniform instead of a salaried servant of the people. On such issues as the tariff, the trusts and imperialism Judge Parker speaks decisively and clearly states the democratic position that the tariff should be revised and reduced, the anti-trust laws enforced and the Filipinos given the right of self government in due season. He denounces militarism and his views on this subject are presented with great force and will be read with deep interest by men of all parties; and he is no less severe in denouncing the autocratic methods of the republican state government in Colorado by which citizens are arbitrarily deported from the state and the plainest constitutional guarantees defied. In closing he announces with emphasis that if elected he will not be a candidate for re-election under any circumstances. The address is sure to please the thoughtful and conservative people of the country. There is not a strenuous, radical or sensational suggestion in it, nothing evasive or uncertain, and it covers the case.

If the organization of fruit growers and truckers is completed as begun at Jacksonville last Saturday, and the matter of marketing the crop is put squarely on a business basis, then we will expect to see Anderson county get fully into the business. Commercial orchards will be organized and financed by our business men, and good results will follow.—Palestine Advocate.

Anderson is not the only county interested. The success of the fruit and truck industry of East Texas in its entirety depends on the success of this move.

East Texas is the most delightful spot on earth. No trouble to find a cool spot in which to eat a 70 pound watermelon, and no trouble to get the melon.—Palestine Advocate.

The dog is "tied loose" and the farmer sleeps in his melon patch over here, brother. Taint so easy as you heard it was.

And Editor Haltom, of the Nacogdoches Sentinel goes to the legislature. Of course he will make a good record, for it is in him to do so.—Tyler Courier.

Thanks. We are going to make two efforts; one to "get thar" and the other to do right afterwards, thus coming up to the Courier's expectation.

Mr. Hardeman, however, has not given any information, but we are hopeful that he will find inducement to make the rumor a certainty.

No new developments have been made in the oil field this week, though everything is busy out there. A load of pumping machinery was carried out to the Thresher well today and it may be that there will be something interesting to give out within the next few days.

TRAWICK LOCALS.

Trawick, Aug. 10, 04.—We have all been hopeful with the prospects of a good cotton crop till now. The insects are doing more harm to the cotton now than ever before in this section, owing to the many showers of the last few days which has caused the boll worm to do as much damage as the weevils. They are boring half grown bolls.

The protracted meeting is under full headway at Linn Flat this week. Have had some professions and good meeting in general.

SSS THE OLDEST AND BEST BLOOD PURIFIER

THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS.

A Spring Medicine that adds vigor and strength to the system, purifies and enriches the Blood, and lays the foundation for a strong constitution and good health during the hot sultry summer.

Most everybody feels bad in the spring. Some have no particular ailment but are just tired, worn out and totally unfit for work or anything else that requires energy or effort. They mope around upon the border-land of invalidism, irritable, peevish, hysterical and unreasonable.

A good appetite in the spring is a rarity, and we sicken at the sight of food, or thought of eating, and what little we do eat is a burden to the stomach and a tax upon the digestion.

Warm weather is sure to bring out the hidden poisons, germs and seeds of disease that have been collecting in the blood and system during winter, and you may look for some old chronic trouble to make its appearance. It is a time, too, when boils and carbuncles, and pustular or scaly skin eruptions like eczema and tetter, pay their annual visits and make life miserable by their intense pains and intolerable itching and burning.

The fight for health should begin before any warning symptoms of physical collapse are felt, or before the seeds of disease have time to germinate if we would avoid the usual spring sickness; and with S. S. S., the acknowledged king of blood purifiers and greatest of all tonics, you can put your blood and system in such perfect condition and so strengthen the constitution that one may be as free from sickness and as vigorous and strong during the trying months of spring and depressing summer season as at any other time.

S. S. S. not only builds you up, but searches out and destroys any poisonous germs or impurities that may be lurking in the blood. The benefits derived from the use of S. S. S. are permanent because it acts directly on the blood and purifies and cleanses it of all impure matter, leaving nothing to cause fermentation and deterioration of this life-giving fluid.

In selecting your blood purifier and spring tonic get one that long experience and thorough test have proven the best. In S. S. S. you will find a remedy whose purifying properties are unquestionable, and just such a tonic as your system needs. Ask your druggist for S. S. S.—there is nothing else just as good.

For the past 40 years we have had a standing offer of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains the least particle of any mineral whatever, and this offer is still open.

It is officially given out by Chairman Paul Waples of the Texas World's Fair commission that the entire indebtedness of the commission has been paid and it is maintaining its exhibit up to the former high standard of perfection. But the people of Texas are expected to put up $2,000 per month to pay the current expenses of the commission.

FORMER GOVERNOR HOGG will have his little joke. He has stuffed some of the newspaper correspondents at Austin with the statement that "he knew a piece of political news which would cause a great sensation throughout the United States when it was made public." That sort of "copy" may help out a correspondent's "string" but it holds no thrills for an up-to-date newspaper reader.

A PARTIAL HISTORIAN

The way we of the South "get it in the neck" because we permit Northern men not only to write our history to our own disparagement, but not infrequently to publish it in our own newspapers as well, is strikingly illustrated in a series of historical articles written by Rufus Rockwell Wilson and now being published in the Sunday issues of many leading Southern papers, some of them here in Texas. The last of the series, published Sunday, under the caption of "Noted Orators" is particularly irritating for its flagrant errors of omission. Here is one for instance: "The greatest campaign orators of the decade preceding the civil war were William H. Seward, Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln." Here we have the South absolutely ignored by one who writes of a period when she occupied the center of the stage, when the burning issue of the day was an essentially Southern issue and when this section was peculiarly rich in eloquence. Not to mention Jeff Davis, Toombs, Stephens and many others, what possible excuse can Rufus Wilson offer for omitting from his list the great name of William L. Yancey of Alabama, the incomparable champion of secession whose eloquence moved men as they were never moved before nor since in the South, and whose single voice did more to create the Southern Confederacy and make the biggest chapter in American history than the speeches of any half dozen of his contemporaries? It was an unpardonable omission in a man who claims to write honest history. And he is fully as unfair to the South when he leaves out every representative southern name from his list of great orators for the era succeeding the civil war. How could he mention Blaine and forget Ben Hill who pilloried the "Plumed Knight" in the reconstruction debates until he shrunk by comparison with the great Georgian? How could he name Roscoe Conkling and be silent about L. Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi who beat down Conkling's guard in a celebrated debate and brought him to his knees in the open Senate, and who on a previous occasion in the House thrilled the nation with a single speech (his eulogy on Sumner) and put himself in the very front rank of American orators? Mr. Rufus Wilson should enlarge the area of his knowledge before he writes history—even reminiscences for the daily press. With his present stock of historical lore he is inadequate to his task if we may judge by the article we have quoted from.

THE Grand Army of the Republic is in annual encampment at Boston and a noteworthy feature of the meeting is the presence there of a body of Confederate Veterans by special invitation of the G. A. R. people. This is as it should be and as it should have been years ago. The men who made up the opposing armies of the civil war have been mingling without constraint in business and social relations for thirty years past and there is no sensible reason why there should be any quasi-hostility between them during their annual reunions. War prejudices on either side poisoned with malice or vindictiveness are as irrational as they are antiquated and belittling.

"THE greatest show on earth" now open in St. Louis isn't drawing the crowds as the Chicago fair did. The total attendance at the latter was 28,140,353 and the St. Louis show will hardly exceed 18,000,000 judged by the present rate of attendance. The only assignable cause is that people are tired of monster entertainments whose very bigness fatigues attention and bewilders the mind.

FOR a nice, well-behaved, lady-like affair, with nothing to mar the pleasure of the occasion and everybody satisfied, commend us to the strike of the "Katy" telegraph operators. The company says it has won the strike and is running all trains on schedule time, and the operators say they have got the company in a hole and it can't get out until they are reinstated and all their demands satisfied.

CONGRATULATIONS to Stanley H. Watson, industrial agent of the Central-East & West Texas Railways upon his selection for the position of chief of the land and immigration department of the Southern Pacific Railway. He hasn't yet been appointed but Col. Anderson, the general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, has recommended him for the place and he is pretty sure to get it. Mr. Watson was born and raised on a Texas farm and is fully qualified for the big job he is slated for.

TOM WATSON, the populist candidate for president, has agreed to make one speech in Texas during the campaign. Good! Tom won't get an electoral vote in this state nor deprive Parker of one, but he is an orator who makes the fur fly and is always good for purposes of entertainment if not instruction. We should like to hear the famous cracker historian on the stump, for he is a big man full of dynamite, vitriol and things, and when he explodes in oratory he is said to suggest a Japanese torpedo boat in action.

OVER in Temple in Bell county, the board of trade acting in conjunction with the merchants is making a determined and intelligent effort to draw to that market every bale of cotton possible by offering to the farmers substantial extra inducements. Temple has strong competition in Belton and other surrounding towns and the method it has selected to get the larger part of the trade might be adopted with advantage by Nacogdoches. We haven't learned the details of the Temple plan, but in outline it is a series of prizes awarded weekly to the farmers bringing their cotton to that market, the money to buy the prizes being contributed by the business men of the city. The plan worked successfully there last year and brought in much cotton that would have otherwise gone elsewhere. Nacogdoches has strong competition as a cotton market now and if our city is to maintain its supremacy we cannot afford to sit still and wait for trade to come. We must go after it. The farmer will take his cotton to the best market, and the best market means not only the best price but the extra inducements thrown in. Those most interested should take hold of this question at once.

THAT thick and thin organ of the railways and enemy of the Texas Railroad Commission, the Railway Age, made a mistake in its last issue when it viciously attacked the commission and said among other things that "the survival of any railways in Texas has been in spite of and not as a result of the commission." The survival of Texas in spite of the railways, would be a statement equally as near the truth. In an open letter to the press the commission has fully exposed the silly and malicious slander of the Age.

JUDGE PARKER has agreed to speak in New York, Chicago and Indianapolis during the campaign but will make no other appointments. Mr. Bryan gave us two campaigns of continuous speech-making and lost both times. Voluble men are rarely chosen by the American people for the great office of President of the United States. Impressive taciturnity in a presidential candidate catches the popular imagination much more generally than bawling from the rear platform of a railroad train or any other platform.

DAY after day furnishes cumulative evidence that old Tony Weller was strictly within the fact when he said to his son Sam: "Women is rum creeters, Sammy." Now here for instance is a Kansas City woman who has recently brought suit against her husband for divorce, and the ground for her suit is that the old man is too good and always gives her everything she asks for without question. "There is no satisfaction in that humdrum existence for me" says the poor, unhappy, persecuted woman. She wants an occasional argument with the rolling pin and the poker to vary the monotony of her married life.

NACOGDOCHES might as well get in on the ground floor of the new system of drawing trade. Temple and other towns in Central and South west Texas adopted it last year and Tyler comes to the front as the first of East Texas towns to fall into line. The Tyler Commercial Club has taken the matter in hand and announces that it will give away $100.00 in cash prizes each month during the cotton season. The prizes to be given away on October 3rd will be: First prize $20 in gold; second prize, $10 in gold; third, $5 in gold, and fifteen $1 prizes. The monthly prizes will range: First prize $10; five of $5 each, sixteen of $2.50 each, and twenty-five of $1 each. The prizes will be awarded to cotton growers who trade in Tyler and will be a drawing contest, every farmer getting one ticket with each $1 purchase and one ticket for every bale sold in Tyler. The movement is to attract cotton and trade to Tyler this fall.

AN impressive warning not to monkey with the deep, dark secrets of nature nor attempt to cross the mysterious line which divides the knowable from the unknowable comes to us from a late issue of the Los Angeles (Cal.) Examiner which says: Professor James Lester, the famous Texas calculator, and author of a book bearing his name, knows how to add ten columns of figures at once, but the insanity commission decided yesterday that on other points of life his mind was not so clear. Too many hours have been spent by the professor in trying to discover the age of Ann. At last he imagined he was being pursued by Ann's father, who took offense at his prying into the age of a young girl—or spinner—and threatened to kill him.

A POLICE court item in one of the big dailies states that John L. Sullivan was arrested for drunkenness in Boston the other day, hauled to the station in a patrol wagon and arraigned and fined for his offense. Truly we live in a swift age and great men tumble from their pedestals all about us and we give scant heed to their fall as the human herd goes rushing on. It seems but yesterday that poor old drunken John was acclaimed "the greatest on earth" and toured the country like a monarch, with big crowds following at his heels in every town and city. The newspapers were full of him and the people generally made more of the champion prize fighter than of their greatest and best in politics, religion, art, science and industry. It was the apotheosis of an animal and he larded it until Corbett knocked him out. After that the terrible bruiser swiftly descended to the role of the terrible boozier, and now he goes to the calaboose in the hurryup wagon with the other plain drunks. Sic transit.

TEXAS is pretty sure to be represented in the cabinet of President Parker but we doubt if ex-Governor Hogg will be the man.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

Parker could not find a better man for attorney-general than Hogg. He would "bust" the trusts if it took the entire strength of the government to do it.—Henderson Times.

The wish was not father to the thought in The Sentinel paragraph, and we heartily agree with The Times that ex-Governor Hogg would make an ideal attorney-general. Wouldn't it be fun to watch him sock it to the trusts and ride full tilt down upon them, with President Parker to back him up in all he did? The air would be full of the detonations of busting trusts and the land covered with their debris.

Taxable Values.

Eden Baptist Church.
Rev. H. M. Huston has just closed a good meeting at Eden Church, thirteen miles West of Nacogdoches. The meeting lasted three days and there were sixteen accessions to the church, fourteen for baptism and two by restoration. Rev. Huston assisted by Rev. G. W. Jefferson, of whom the former speaks as a power for good and stands upon honest conviction. Sixteen dollars were raised for missions and ministerial aid. Rev. Huston writes, "I am proud of this noble crowd of Christian workers."

Oil-Field News.
The J. M. Thresher well is down 300 feet and a good tratum of oil sand was struck at a depth of from 180 to 200 feet. The well will be put down 1500 feet unless a flowing well is struck at less depth. Quite a lot of land is changing hands. Yesterday 100 acres adjoining the wells was sold to W. F. Price, Ed Prather, W. P. Binyon, E. A. Sterling, F. L. Benkenstein and A. M. Britton, all oil men from Beaumont.

George Watford of the Lufkin Tribune has declared for Tom Campbell of Palestine for governor two years hence. As between the present governor and the one thus prospectively mentioned, what a mighty flight upward in favor of the latter. Why disturb harmonious relations by such "odious comparison," George?—Houston News.

The entire press of East Texas has been "declaring" for Tom Campbell for governor the past six years. About the only chance to get him in will be to get him to move to the Pan Handle. No East Texas man need apply.

One of the very best dailies published in East Texas in the Nacogdoches Sentinel, which comes to this office laden with daily happenings in our sister city. There ought to be some advertising done in the adjoining counties to bring trade to Nacogdoches. There is lots of cotton in Angelina, Cherokee, Rusk, Sabine, San Augustine and Shelby counties that Nacogdoches can get for the asking. Let's go after it.

Protracted meetings are now the order throughout the county.

Too Much Rain.

This section has been deluged with rain at short intervals for several days and the streets and roads was almost impassable in places. These every day rains and showers are having a very deleterious effect on the cotton, as it not only causes the squares to fall off, but very materially increases the ravages of both the boll worm and boll weevil. Unless the rains cease very shortly the cotton raised in Angelina county will be but very little. However our farmers do not seem to be greatly disturbed, as they are gradually turning their attention to something besides King Cotton, and fruit, orchard and truck cultivation is fast turning the tide away from the fleecy staple, which will be better for the farmer and the balance of us if it continues to the end.—Lulkin Herald.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport, was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around the next day. The incident speaks highly in favor of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader Iowa Argus.

A Snake Scare.

W. E. Wilson went into Crow's harness shop recently to buy a set of harness. Mr. Crow, always anxious to sell, began extolling the good qualities of his harness which were hanging against the wall, when Mr. Wilson remarked that he handled very odd and very heavy lines to such light harness. Mr. Crow said they were just the right kind. He was just going to take one of the lines down when he noticed that one of them was a snake about three feet long, with his tail wrapped in the line ring and his body hanging straight down with his head turned up toward Mr. Crow and his red tongue darting fast enough to play a tune on a piano. Mr. Crow said he had often heard of people having snakes but this his first realization.

Gillam, the boss ball player, captured the reptile, and added it to his list of pets.

It is needless to say that Mr. Crow lost the sale of his harness.—Center News.

Was in Poor Health for Years.

Ira W Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa, writes: "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure, and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." Refuse substitutes. Perkins Bros.

Nacogdoches, knowing the great benefits to be derived, has from the first made vigorous efforts to secure the terminal and division headquarters of the T. & N. O. The fact that it has a water supply will make that point a serious competitor to this, and every other desirable prize. We do not envy her, but admire her pluck. If she takes the cake it will be because the enterprise of her people entitles her to first place among East Texas towns. But how would Jacksonville feel when she came to confess that she is outclassed, and must give up a place she might have had but for her weakness at these points?—Jacksonville Banner.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and insist upon having it. Perkins Bros.

Can't Come in August.

Last week The Sentinel mentioned the probability that Senator Culberson would speak here next Saturday, but a letter from him has put that date entirely out of the question. In answer to a letter from the editor in regard to his speaking here, Mr. Culberson writes as follows:

Dallas Aug. 15, 1904.

Dear Haltom:

Your letter of yesterday is just received. Since I saw Garrison I have made some personal engagements which will prevent my being in Nacogdoches during August. I do not know exactly when I can come after that but will bear the matter in mind and write you later on.

Yours truly,

C. A. Culberson.

The Garrison referred to is H. D. Garrison, of this city, who was in Dallas last week and met Senator Culberson, who renewed the promise that he had previously made to speak at Nacogdoches during the present campaign. He will doubtless be able to give us a date early in September.

Tyler's First Bale.

The first new bale of cotton brought to Tyler this season came in yesterday, the 9th, at 5 o'clock p. m., and was the property of Joe Johnson, living 5 miles northwest of the town of Bullard. This bale brought $45. It weighed 450 pounds. Mr. Johnson received the premium offered by the Tyler Commercial Club for first bale, $25. The total for this bale to Mr. Johnson is therefore $70.—Tyler Courier.

Oil Indications.

The second artesian well is being bored at the Hayward mill and has gone down to a depth of about two hundred feet. In drawing out the casing Saturday it was discovered that a small seepage of oil had settled around a section of the pipe, indicating that a small vein of oil had been passed. It is believed that oil exists almost anywhere around Nacogdoches, though it may not be in paying quantities. It is believed by many, however, that in the northern part of the city some where there is a vast pocket of oil, as indications are found in almost every well dug in that part of town. Poulter & Son have the contract for the well now being drilled at the Hayward mill, and while they have no expectation of striking oil, they are convinced from the indications that there is oil somewhere in the vicinity.

Jacksonville's First Bale.

The first bale of cotton for 1904 came to town yesterday. W. A. Stripling of Nebo raised it, and received for his trouble the sum of $71.30. The bale weighed 477 pounds, and was bought by W. A. Newton for 10 3/4 cents per pound. A premium of $20 was added to this.

Mr. Stripling is a cotton raiser of no mean ability. Last year he picked 24 bales from 26 acres and this year has in 30 acres with fine prospects. He uses the latest improved methods of cultivation, and plants King's Improved seed.—Jacksonville Banner.

VIEWS OF THE JUDGE

Democratic Presidential Nominee Is Formally Notified.

IDEA OF GOVERNMENT

Questions Now In the Public Mind Are Dealt With and Suggestions Relative to the Same Imparted Also.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee: I have resigned the office of chief judge of the court of appeals of this state in order that I may accept the responsibility that the great convention you represent has put upon me, without possible prejudice to the court to which I had the honor to belong, or to the eminent members of the judiciary of this state, of whom I may now say as a private citizen, I am justly proud.

At the very threshold of this response, and before dealing with other subjects, I trust, in justice to myself, and to relieve my sense of gratitude, express my profound appreciation of the confidence reposed in me by the convention. After nominating me, and subsequently receiving a communication declaring that I regarded the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established a matter concerning which I feel it incumbent upon me to make known my attitude, so that hereafter no man could justly say that his support had been secured through indirection or mistake. The convention reiterated its determination that I should be the standard-bearer of the party in the present contest. This mark of the highest honor that could be conferred upon me—an honor that, whatever may be the fate of the campaign or the future in no degree lessens or impairs.

The admirable platform to which the party appeals to the country for its confidence and support clearly states the principles which were so well condensed in the first inaugural address of Thomas Jefferson, and points out with force and directness the course to be pursued through their proper application in order to insure needed reforms in both legislative and administrative departments of the government. While unhesitating in its promise to correct abuses and to right wrongs wherever they appear, however caused; to investigate the several administrative departments of the government, the conduct of whose officials has been the subject of scandal, and to punish those who have been guilty of a breach of their trust; to oppose the granting of special privileges by which the few may profit at the expense of the many; to practice economy in the expenditure of the moneys of the people, and to that end to return once more to the methods of the founders of the republic by observing, in disbursing the public funds, the care and caution a prudent individual observes with respect to his own; still the spirit of the platform is conservative, instead of rash action; the protection of the innocent as well as the punishment of the guilty; the encouragement of industry, economy and thrift; the protection of property and a guarantee of the enforcement for the benefit of all of man's inalienable rights, among which, as said in the declaration of independence, are "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Liberty, as understood in this country, means not only the right of freedom from actual servitude, imprisonment or restraint, but the right of one to use his faculties in all lawful ways, to live and work where he will, and to pursue any lawful trade or business. These essential rights of life, liberty and property are not only guaranteed to the citizen by the constitutions of each of the several states, but the states are, by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, forbidden to deprive any person, or any one of them, without due process of law.

Occasionally by reason of unnecessary or impatient agitation for reforms or because the limitations placed upon the departments of government by the constitution are disregarded by officials desiring to accomplish that which to them seems good, whether the power exists in them or not, it becomes desirable to call attention to the fact that the people in whom all powers reside have seen fit, through the medium of the constitution, to limit the governmental powers conferred and to say to departments created by it: "Thus far shall thou go and no farther." To secure the ends sought, the people have, by the constitution, separated and distributed among the three departments of government, the executive, legislative and judicial, certain powers, and it is the duty of those administering each department so to act as to preserve, rather than to destroy the potency of the co-ordinate branches of the government and thus secure the exercise of all the powers conferred by the people.

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to Wm. C. Jarvis, touching the perpetuity of our institutions, written many years after he had retired to private life, said:

"If the three powers of our government maintain their mutual independence of each other, it may last long but not so if either can assume the authority of the other."

It must be confessed that in the course of our history, executives have employed powers not belonging to them; statutes have been passed that were expressly forbidden by the constitution and statutes have been set aside as unconstitutional when it was difficult to point out the provisions said to be offered against their enactment; all this has been done with a good purpose, no doubt, but in disregard, nevertheless, of the fact that ours is a government of laws, not of men, deriving its "just powers from the consent of the governed." If we would have our government continue during the ages to come, for the benefit of those who shall succeed us, we must ever be on our guard against the danger of usurpation of that authority which resides in the whole people, whether the usurpation by the officials representing one or more of the great departments of the government or by a body of men acting without a commission by the people.

Impatience or restraint of law as well as of its delays, is becoming more and more manifest from day to day. Within the past few years many instances have been brought to our attention where in different parts of our beloved country supposed criminals have been seized and punished by a mob notwithstanding the fact that the constitution of each state guarantees to every person within its jurisdiction that his life, his liberty and his property shall not be taken from him without due process of law.

In a struggle between employees, dynamite is said to have been used by the latter, resulting in the loss of life and the destruction of property. The perpetrators of this offense against the laws of God and man and all other engaged in the conspiracy with them should, after due trial and conviction, have had meted out to them the most vigorous punishment known to the law. This crime, added, perhaps, to others, led to the formation of a committee of citizens, that, with the support of the military authority, departs from the state, without trial, persons suspected of belonging to the organization of which the perpetrators of the dynamite outrages were supposed to be members. In both cases the reign of law gave way to the reign of force. These illustrations present some evidence of the failure of government to protect the citizen and his property, which not only justified the action of your convention in this regard but made it its duty to call attention to the fact that constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, to acquire and to enjoy property, or to reside where his interests or inclination may determine; and the fulfillment of the assurance to rebuke and punish all denials of these rights, whether brought about by individuals or government agencies, should be enforced by every official and supported by every citizen. The essence of good government lies in strict observance of constitutional limitations, enforcement of law and order and rugged opposition to all encroachments upon the sovereignty of the people.

The foregoing suggestions but emphasize the differences which exist between our own and many other forms of government. It has been said well, in substance, that there are but two powers in government, one the power of the sword, sustained by the hand that wields it, and the other the power of the law, sustained by an enlightened public sentiment. The difference in these powers is the difference between a republic, such as ours, based on law and written constitution, supported by intelligence, virtue and patriotism, and monarchy, sustained by force, exerted by an individual, uncontrolled by laws other than those made or sanctioned by him. One represents constitutionalism, the other imperialism.

The present tariff law is unjust in its operation, excessive in many of its rates, and so framed in particular instances as to exact inordinate profits from the people. So well understood has this view become that many prominent members of the Republican party, and at least two of the state senators, have dared to voice the general sentiment on that subject. The party seems, however, to be collectively able to harmonize only upon a plank that admits that revision may, from time to time, be necessary, but it is so phrased that it is expected to be satisfactory to those in favor of an increase of duty to those who favor a reduction thereof, and to those opposed to any change whatever.

Judged by the record of performance rather than that of promise on the part of that party in the past, it would seem as if the outcome in the event of its success, to gratify the latter class. With absolute control of both the legislative and executive departments of the government since March 4, 1897, there has been neither reduction nor an attempt at reduction in tariff duties. It is not unreasonable to assume, in the light of that record, that a future congress of that party will not undertake a revision of the tariff downward in the event that it shall receive an endorsement of its past course on that subject by the people. It is a fact, and should be frankly conceded that though our party be successful in the coming contest, we cannot hope to secure a majority in the senate during the next four years, and hence we shall be unable to secure any modification in the tariff save that to which the Republican majority in the senate may consent. While, therefore, we are unable to give assurance of relief to the people from such excessive duties as burden them, it is due to them that we state our position to be in favor of a reasonable reduction of the tariff, that we believe it is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer, and that a wise and beneficent revision of the tariff can be accomplished as soon as both branches of congress and an executive is in favor of it are elected without creating that sense of uncertainty and instability that has on other occasions manifested itself. This can be achieved by providing that such a reasonable period shall intervene between the date of the enactment of the statute making a revision and the date of its enforcement as shall be deemed sufficient for the industry or business affected by such revision to adjust itself to the changes and new conditions imposed. So confident am I in the belief that the demand of the people for a reform of the tariff is just that I indulge the hope that should a Democratic house of representatives and a Democratic executive be chosen by the people even a Republican senate may heed the warning and consent to give at least some measure of relief to the people.

The combinations popularly called trusts, which aim to secure a monopoly of trade in the necessities of life, as well as in those things that are employed upon the farm, in the factory and in many other fields of industry, have been encouraged and stimulated by excessive tariff duties. These operate to furnish a substantial market for the necessities of 30,000,000 people by practically excluding competition. With so large a market and highly remunerative prices, continuing long after the line of possible competition would naturally be reached, the temptation of all engaged in the same business to combine so as to prevent competition at home and a resulting reduction of prices has proved irresistible in a number of cases. All men must agree that the net result of such combinations is to foster such inequitable conditions as most unfortunate for the people as a whole, and it would seem as if all ought to agree that the effective remedy would be to appropriately modify the offending law. The growth of monopoly, of which complaint is justly made, cannot be laid at the doors of the courts of this country. The decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the court of appeals of this state and the courts of last resort in many other states warrant the assertion that the common law, as developed, affords a complete legal remedy against monopolies. The fact that they have been multiplied in number and increased in power has been due not to the failure of the courts to apply the law when properly moved, but to administrative officials or private individuals, but to the failure of officials charged with the duty of enforcing the law to take the necessary procedure to procure the judgments of the courts in the appropriate jurisdiction, coupled with the fact that the legislative departments of some of our state governments, as well as congress, in the manner already referred to, by legislation, encouraged their propagation. What is needed, in addition to the passage of a statute revising the tariff duties to a reasonable basis, is not so much other and different laws, as officials having both the disposition and the courage to enforce existing laws. While this is my view of the scope of the common law, it should be made to appear that it is a mistaken one, then I favor such further legislation within constitutional limits, as will give the people a just and full measure of protection.

It is difficult to understand how any citizen of the United States, much less a descendant of revolutionary stock, can tolerate the thought of permanently denying the right of self-government to the Filipinos. Can we hope to instill into the minds of our descendants reverence and devotion for a government by the people while denying ultimately that right to the inhabitants of the island countries, whose territory we have acquired either by purchase or by force? Can we say to the Filipinos, "Your lives, your liberty and your property may be taken from you without due process of law for all time," and expect we will long glory in that feature of Magna Charta which has become incorporated in substance and effect, into the constitution of the United States? Can we hope for the speed of the civilized world, while proudly guaranteeing to every citizen of the United States that no law shall be made or enforced which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, or deny to any person the equal protection of the laws, and at the same time not only deny similar rights to the inhabitants of the Philippines, but take away from them the right of trial by jury and place their lives and the disposition of their property in the keeping of those who we send to them to be their governors? We shall certainly rue it as a nation if we make any such attempt. Viewing the question even from the standpoint of national selfishness, there is no prospect that the twenty millions of dollars expended in the purchase of the islands, and the six hundred and fifty millions said to have been since disbursed, will ever come back to us. The accident of war brought the Philippines into our possession and we are not at liberty to disregard the responsibility which thus came to us, but the responsibility will be best subserved by preparing the islanders as rapidly as possible for self-government, and giving to them the assurance that it will come as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it. There need be no fear that the assertion, often made of late, that we have now become a world power will then be without support. Ours is a world power, and as such it must be maintained, but I deny that it is at all recently that the United States has attained that eminence. Our country became a world power over a century ago, when, having thrown off foreign domination the people established a free government, the source of whose authority sprung, and was continuously to proceed, from the will of the people themselves. It grew as a world power as its sturdy citizens, to whose natural increase we added immigrants from the old world seeking to obtain here the liberty and prosperity denied them in their own countries, spread over the face of the land, reduced the prairies and forests to cultivation, built cities, constructed highways and railroads till now a nation, which at the formation of the government numbered only three millions in population has become 30,000,000 and from ocean to ocean and the lakes to the gulf, the country is the abode of a free and prosperous people, advanced in the highest degree in the learning of arts and arts of civilization. It is the liberty, the advancement and the prosperity of its citizens, not any career of conquest that makes the country a world power. This condition we owe to the bounty of Providence, unfolded in the great natural resources of the country to the wisdom of our fathers, manifested in the form of government established by them, to the energy, industry, moral character and law abiding spirit of the people themselves.

We are not military people, bent on conquest or engaged in extending our domains in foreign lands, or desirous of securing natural advantages, however great by force; but a people loving peace, not only four ourselves, but for all the nations of the earth. The display of great military armaments may please the eye, and for the moment, excite the pride of the citizen, but it cannot bring to the country the brains, brawn and muscle of a single immigrant, nor induce the investment here of a dollar of capital. Of course, such armament as may be necessary for the security of the country and the protection of the rights of its citizens, at home or abroad, must be maintained. Any other course should be not only false economy but pusillanimous. I protest, however, against the feeling, now far too prevalent, that by reason of the commanding position we have assumed in the world, we must take part in the disputes and broils of foreign countries, and that because we have grown great we should intervene in every important question that arises in other parts of the world. I also protest against the erection of any such military establishment, as would be required for governing the country in that attitude. We should confine our international activities solely to matters in which the right of our country or our citizens are directly involved.

The government of the United States was organized solely for the people of the United States. While it was contemplated that this country should become a refuge for the oppressed of every land who might be fit to discharge the duties of our citizenship and while we have always sympathized with the people of every nation in their struggles for self-government, the government was not created for a career of political or civilizing evangelization in foreign countries or among alien races. The most efficient work we can do in uplifting the people of other countries is by the presentation of a happy, prosperous and self-governing nation, an ideal to be emulated, a model to be followed. The general occupation of our citizens in the arts of peace is the absence of large military armaments tends to impair neither patriotism nor physical courage, and for the truth of this I refer the young men of to-day to the history of the civil war. For fifty years, with the exception of the war with Mexico this country had been at peace with a standing army most of the time of less than 10,000 men. Who thinks that the nation had grown effeminate during that period should read the casualty rolls of the armies on either side at Shiloh, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, at Stone River and Chickamauga. I would be the last man to pluck a single laurel from the crown of the military heroes to whom this country owes so much, but I insist that their most heroic deed was infinitely more from devotion to the country than from martial spirit.

As I have already proceeded at too great length, other questions suggested in the platform must await my letter of acceptance.

Mr. Chairman: In most graceful speech you have reminded me of the responsibility as well as the great honor of the nomination bestowed upon me by the convention you represent this day. Be sure both are appreciated—so keenly appreciated that I am humbled in their presence.

I accept, gentlemen of the committee, the nomination, and if the action of the convention shall be endorsed by an election by the people I will, God helping me, give to the discharge of the duties of that exalted office the best service of which I am capable and at the end of the term retire to private life. I shall not be a candidate for nor shall I accept a renomination. Several reasons might be advanced for this position; the controlling one with me is that I am fully persuaded that no incumbent of that office should ever be placed in a situation of possible temptation to consider what the effect of action taken by him in the administrative matter of great importance might have upon his political fortunes. Questions of momentous consequence to all the people have been in the past and will be in the future presented to the president for determination, and in approaching her consideration as well as in weighing the facts and the arguments bearing upon them, he should not be embarrassed by any possible thought of the influence his decision may have upon anything whatsoever that may affect him personally. I ever make this statement, not in criticism of any of our presidents from Washington down who have ever held the office for two terms or sought to succeed themselves; for strong arguments could be advanced in support of the re-election of a president.

It is simply my judgment that the interests of this country are now so vast and the questions presented are so momentous of such overpowering magnitude to the people that it is indispensable to the maintenance of a befitting attitude before the people, not only that the chief magistrate should be independent but that that independence should be known of all men.

CALL ON PRESIDENT
Natives of the Philippines Visitors at the White House.
Washington, Aug. 10.—Picturesque, but adequately garbed, a party of eight Moros and Iroquois chiefs, constituting a part of the Philippine exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, Monday paid their respects to President Roosevelt at the white house. The exchanges between the chiefs and the president was informal but happy in tone. Through Antero, a bright fifteen-year-old Iroquois boy, who acted as interpreter, the Moros Dalios and the Iroquois chiefs expressed their pleasure at being received by the president, and 'old him he might depend upon their loyalty to the American government.

The reception took place in the president's private office and the adjoining cabinet room. While it was in progress the members of the cabinet arrived to attend the regular semi-weekly meet. Each in turn was presented to the Filipinos, who paid them the highest respect known to their people.

Before the conclusion of the reception the chiefs, through Antero, presented the president some handsome native gifts, including curiously carved metallic pipes, a beautifully embellished spear and two shields, one of closely woven native grass and the other of wood covered with hide. After they left the executive offices the Filipinos were shown through the lower apartments of the white house.

They left for St. Louis at night.

AT THE HAYWARD MILL.
Both Mill and Railroad Making Progress.

Work is being pushed rapidly at the Hayward Mill. The buildings are sprading out and are rapidly approaching completion. Ponderous machinery is being placed in position and there is little doubt but the mill will be in operation within six weeks.

The railroad has been completed for a distance of about eight miles and log trains will put in operation this week. There is a large logging force getting stock on the timber holdings of the company at the present terminus of the road, which will probably support the mill until the rail road reaches their extensive body of timber in the Southeastern portion of Nacogdoches and the Southwestern part of San Augustine county. It is expected that the railroad will be completed, equipped and in operation as a public carrier to Woden within a few weeks, after which the work will be pushed more rapidly until the road is completed a distance of about twenty miles, or to the nearest point where it touches the immense body of timber that must be reached before the mill is in full blast.

NEW FERTILIZER DISCOVERED

Large Deposits of Green Sand Marl in this County.

A display of a number of large dark green lumps of apparently mineralized substance in front of the office of the Nacogdoches Land Company this morning attracted the attention of all passers, and inquiry from Mr. Lindsey as to the nature of the substance brought out some interesting information. The lumps in question are specimens of a substance found beneath the soil in various parts of the county which has been designated as green sand marl, and it can do all that is claimed for it our county has a new source of wealth equal to if not superior to the best phosphate mines in Florida. This marl lies in large deposits at an average depth of from eight to fifteen feet beneath the surface, and its value is in its soil-fertilizing properties. Tests have been applied to it which seem conclusive as to its superior qualities as a fertilizer. Among others Mr. Sam Rider, a well known farmer living near Mahl, has tried it on cotton with the result that a certain number of cotton rows to which it had been applied showed an increased production of nearly 100 per cent over an equal number of unfertilized rows near by. Mr. Lindsey has tried it on vegetables with equal success. The marl is easily ground to about the consistency of meal before it is used. Specimens of it will be sent to the State chemist for analysis and if it shall prove what is expected the Nacogdoches Land Company will endeavor to get capital to take hold of it and build a factory here to convert it into a commercial fertilizer. The marl lies in inexhaustible quantities within well defined geological limits in various parts of the county, some of it within a mile of this city, and the discovery of its extraordinary value as a fertilizer seems to mean nothing less than a large and permanent source of wealth to the county. Large sections of Florida but a few years ago unknown to fame and steeped in poverty are now prosperous because of the discovery of great phosphate deposits which capital eagerly seized upon and is now manufacturing on a large scale into commercial fertilizers. There seems to be no reason why this Nacogdoches county marl should not be equally valuable.

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE.

Hyomei, the Guaranteed Catarrh Cure, Prescribed by Physicians.

No one should confound Hyomei with patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as far superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians.

Its base is the valuable eucalyptus oil, famous for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gums and balsams, making a pure liquid which, when used in the Hyomei pocket inhaler, fills the air you breathe with germ-killing, disease destroying and healing power that restore health to every part of the throat, nose and lungs.

Is it not foolish to try and cure catarrh by swallowing tablets or liquids? The only natural way to cure this disease and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei. This treatment has been so successful, curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by Stripling, Haselwood & Co under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomei. If it did not possess unusual power to cure it could not be sold upon this plan.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and comprises a hard rubber pocket inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a life time, and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

Hon. S. T. Fleshman, mayor of Center, contractor and builder and a man of many business interests, has purchased property in Nacogdoches with a view of making this his future home. Should he move here he will put up an extensive brick manufacturing plant and enter into the contracting and building business here. He is a man that gets in front of the procession in all public moves and has been an important factor in the progress of Center, which has made such rapid strides of recent years. Nacogdoches will accord Mr. Fleshman a cordial welcome should he carry out his intentions to become a citizen of this city.

Test Its Value.
Simmon's Liver Purifier is the most valuable remedy I ever tried for constipation and disordered liver. It does its work thoroughly, but does not gripe like most remedies of its character. I certainly recommend it whenever the opportunity occurs.—W. M. Tomlinson, Oswego, Kan. 25c. w

TERRIBLE OCCURRENCE.

"Bud" Nesbert Accidentally Shot and Killed by Hays Elliott.

On Saturday night last, William J. Nesbert, a well known young man living near Frost mill in the suburbs of this city, was accidentally and fatally shot by his brother-in-law, Hays Elliott, dying Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock.

The circumstances of the sad accident are about as follows: Numerous depredations by young boys had recently been made upon the melon patch of "Uncle" Jimmie Nesbert, and young Nesbert and Elliott concluded to teach the youngsters a lesson and give them a serious fright. Hearing some noise in the vicinity of the melon patch, the two young men armed themselves, went into the field and fired several shots in the air, causing the depredators to take a hurried departure. As they were upon the point of returning to the house, Elliott thinking he had exhausted the cartridges in his gun, snapped his pistol, but the weapon proved to be loaded and was discharged, the bullet taking effect in the side of young Nesbert, inflicting a wound from which he died as above stated.—Lutkin Herald.

Cures Sciatica.
Rev. W. L. Riley L.L.D., Cuba, N. Y., writes: "After fifteen days of excruciating pain from sciatica rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment; the first application giving my first relief and the second entire relief. I can give it unqualified recommendation." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Perkins Bros. w

There is more improvement going on in and around Nacogdoches than one would think unless he went out on a tour of inspection. There are quite a number of residences being built besides the several brick buildings now under construction.

Herbine
Renders the bile more fluid and thus helps the blood flow; it affords prompt relief from biliousness, indigestion, sick and nervous headaches, and the over indulgence in food and drink. Herbine acts quickly, a dose after meals will bring the patient into a good condition in a few days. G. L. Caldwell, Agt M K & T R R, Checotah, I. T., writes April 18, 1903: "I was sick for over two years with enlargement of the liver and spleen. The doctors did me no good, and I had given up all hope of being cured, my druggist advised me to use Herbine. It has made me sound and well." 50c. Sold by Perkins Bros. w
