STATE INTERSCHO

LASTIC LEAGUE

Austin, Texas, April 19 .- Active preparations have begun for the big annual state meet of the University Scholastic League to be held at Austin on May 5, 6 and 7th. A total of 864 officially recognized contestents from the schools in various parts of the States will come to Austin for this meet, according to Dr. E. D. Shurter, director. As a result of the district elimination contests now in progress, there will come to the state meet 128 debaters and 256 contestants in the high school and rural school devisions in declamation. There will be also 128 tennis players on the ground (boys and girls teams), and 352 entrants in track. In addition to these student delegates there will be about 250 teachers representing as many schools, who are also included in the list of official delegates, or a grand total of 1,124. Adding to these a number of other teachers and members tendance of fully 2,000 people from outside of Austin is expected.

LIP STICKS AND STATISTICS

The women of the country, says the department of government that collects the war tax, spent $500,000,-000 in 1920 for jewelry, perfumes, powder, rouge, lip-sticks and other frippery. And the statistcian, who is inclined to moralize on the fact, says that the amount would build twenty-two of the latest type of battle cruiser. And we are supposed to say something immediately about the terrible economic waste that woman's vanity imposes on the United States. Every man, at least, who will smile superior fashion - until happens to wonder what was the tobacco bill of the men during those twelve months. Grand American The Prerogative

THE right to choose is the grand American Prerogative—the glory of American democracy.

And a most important part of it—the right to choose what you buy—was bestowed upon you by advertising.

Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or motor traction. It is the system whereby a man who has something to sell tells about it to those who do or should use it. For no one can want anything until he knows of its existence.

Advertising is the way by which you are told why you should have certain goods and how to identify those goods. So the advertisements you find in this newspaper make up a catalog of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and pictures. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements will help you in the selection of all manner of things.

Was Very Weak

"After the birth of my baby I had a back-set," writes Mrs. Mattie Crosswhite, of Glade Spring, Va. "I was very ill; thought I was going to die. I was so weak I couldn't raise my head to get a drink of water. I took . . . medicine, yet I didn't get any better. I was constipated and very weak, getting worse and worse, I sent for Cardui."

The Woman's Tonic

"I found after one bottle of Cardui I was improving," adds Mrs. Crosswhite. "Six bottles of Cardui and . . . I was cured, yes, I can say they were a God-send to me. I believe I would have died, had it not been for Cardui," Cardui has been found beneficial in many thousands of other cases of womanly troubles. If you feel the need of a good, strengthening tonic, why not try Cardui? It may be just what you need.

An Ohio judge urges the return to old formality in the courtroom to judge resume the fashion of wearing caps and gowns, open the court with formal exercises and bar anything which looks like disrespectful behavior on the part of the judges, lawyers, persons on trial or court at-

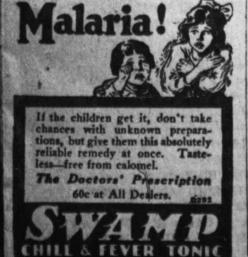

"are conducted like barrooms. The at- election. torneys stand around and smoke, spectators read newspapers and others carry on conversations in whispers or talk in loud tones."

The judge's suggestions, in the main, are admirable. Unformality in the courts has resolved itself into undue familiarity and lack of respect. This leads ultimately to disrespect for law itself. All men may be equal before the court, but the court represents something higher than an individual-law. A return to such observances and dignity in court as would would be an excellent thing in every community.-Ex.

Only in Comparatively Recent Years Have They Received Recognition Under English Laws.

Our laws regarding dog bites, which Judge Cluer declares to be full of anomalies, are all of modern date, says Tit-Bits.

There seems to be no reference to dogs in any law passed before the accession of Queen Victoria. In a case heard by Mr. Justice Eliot in 1535 it was ruled that dogs were vermin, and for that reason the church would not degrade itself by taking tithes of them. Nor was a dog the subject of larceny at common law, the ruling being that "a man shall not hang for a dog."

Parliament first began to notice dogs In 1838, by passing a statute increasing "the resources of civilization" against the lawless doings of Irish

Ten years later, dog fighting, bull baiting and bear baiting were prohibited by parliament. Between 1854 and 1882 no fewer than eight statutes were passed regulating the condition and social status of the dog, one of which placed him in a position of a taxpayer. In addition to these which applied throughout the United Kingdom-a special act was framed to curb the sheep-worrying propensities of dogs in Scotland.

Further Advance in Quotations on Prepared Foods.

A prominent curb broker, wishing to make his lunch period as brief as possible, forsook his accustemed restaurant, a very exclusive place, for a "trust system" buffet.

Glancing up at the price board, he noted "Pot Roast Beef with Corn Muffins, 30 cents," which he ordered. As he "self-served" himself to a vacant place at one of the tables, he again turned his gaze to the board, where he noticed an attendant was now doing some sleight-of-hand work. With much astonishment he beheld the 30, denoting the price of "P. R. B. with C. M. common" dexterously changed to a 35. When he had sufficiently recovered from the shock, with plate of victuals in hand, he approached the food trader, and indignantly inquired as to the cause of the sudden change in price.

"Why, I bought this hardly three minutes ago," he protested, "when it was quoted 30."

The lunch room profiteer smartly answered, "I know, but the asked price is now 35.

Will Not Let Women Pay.

K. U. men are hopelessly old-fashloned. The 50-50 idea, that is, that a girl pay for half the treats, which was started recently in an eastern university, did not appeal to them when it was discussed the other day.

A woman may work and by her efficiency earn as much as a man, but if she pay for one-half the treats she takes away the divine right of man, opinion had it.

Pride was not the only thing that influenced them. A man must shoulder responsibility through life so it is well for him to start early. The idea of protection of women extends even to paying for the sundaes she consumes.

It was the general opinion that if girls would realize that the resources the sheriff's office was notified of of most men are not unlimited, there would not be any occasion for thinking about this matter.-Summer Session

LOCAL PARCE , POST

The use of the postoffice for the delivery of local parcels, as well as local letters, is attracting a good deal of interest. Postmasters of several large cities have reported to the postmaster general that the merchants of their communities are considering the property rights in the people and matter. The idea is for all the merchants to abolish their individual delivery systems and turn that branch of their business over to the govern-

It looks like a logical extension of the parcel post. No doubt a considerable saving could be effected this way. Chicago merchants have reported that it costs them on an average of about 30 cents a piece to deliver pårcels to their customers. That is unasually high, but it is likely that the most economical delivery system a merchant can maintain nowadays, anywhere, will cost him more than the government would charge.

Not that Uncle Sam is a better business man; but with the private delivery system there is too much duplication and wasted effort. Every merchant has his own personnel and equipment, and every merchant's wagons duplicate and cross the routes of other merchants. The desired economy and efficiency might be effected by a pooling of the delivery business among all the merchants of a community, but that is a difficult thing to organize and manage. The postoffice has the organization and method, and is already entered upon this field in a modest way. It is only a question ; of enlarging its present facilities.

Such extension of service is probably as desirable in smaller communities as the larger ones, because in the small communities the deliveries extend at considerable distances into the country, and so are expensive when handled individually. Hence, in any plans for extending its usefulness in this way, the postoffice department should treat all communities alike.-Ex.

REPUBLICAN LAWLESSNESS

Something happened in the nation- Palestine Herald. al house of representatives Monday of last week the significance of which is too important to be allowed to go unheeded.

When Mr. Richard Bird, representative-elect from the state of Kansas, presented himself before the speaker to be sworn in. Representative Flood of Virginia offered a resolution that the question of his eligibility to a seat be determined by a committee of the house charged to investigate his statement of campaign expenditures, it being alleged that over $10,-000 had been expended in his behalf to insure his election. $5,000 is the limit allowed by law.

The resolution was voted down by a strict party vote and the republican representative from Kansas was sworn in despite the fact that he had violated the law of the land by condoning if not actually approving an expenditure 100 percent in excess of the amount a candidate for congress may legitimately expend under the Federal Corrupt Practice Act.

It was perfectly obvious that Mr. Bird had not only "constructive" knowledge but actual knowledge of the detailed expenditures made in behalf of his election and duly sworn ronage. to by his campaign manager.

Surely the only conclusion which in logic and common sense can be drawn from this very significant incident, occurring as it did on the first who was the victim at Mansfield of day of the new administration, is that, flushed with victory at the polls, drunk with power the majority party in congress has decided to ride roughshod over the minority regardless of the merits of the issues involved and apparently careless of the conse- ed on the pie counter. The government wants three $100,-000-a-year men, it is said, but will be able to pay them only $5000 or $10,000 per year. If the government can not afford to pay them $100,-000, it is doubtful if their private employers can. Too many $1 000-s-year men in industry are helping to keep up the cost of things. A great deal is being heard about reducing the pay of the $5-a-day men, but not much about reducing the $200-a-day-man. In this reducing process, industry ought to start at the top.-Houston Post.

BUCK THE GAME

Hundreds of men, who, a few months ago were feeling chesty over the situation and who evidently believed they had the world by the tail on a down-hill pull, are now fussing about the sudden reversal of conditions. All of us are in pretty much the same fix. And yet we distinctly recall that government experts, bankers and economists told us right along, as long as a year or more ago, that things were not going to stay at as high a pitch as they were; the Treasury Department and its Government Savings Division pleaded with the people to put some of their extra savings in government bonds and war savings stamps. We were repeatedly warned that we had better lay by symptoming for a rainy day.

But now that the slump has come there is just one thing to do, and that is fight it through and use our every effort to hurry normal conditions on again. The very best that any of us can do at present is to be as cheerful as possible and put everything we have behind our work. If we cannot get the kind of work we want, take what we can get and work at it. Be an optimist in spite of everything; and if enough of us keep cheerful and hopeful and busy things will straighten out one of these good days. It does no good to be sour over things. PURE WATER FOR HOLY CITY

British Have Repaired Pontius Pilate's Reservoir and Death Rate Has Dropped One-Half.

Jerusalem, situated outside the valley of the Kedron, boasts of only one small spring, the Virgin's fount, so named because it is believed the Mother of Christ drew water from it. Ever since Solomon's day the want of water has been felt in Jerusalem, and the British, since their occupation, decided to repair and use the old reservoir, now known as Birkett Assoub and lying a few miles to the south of Solomon's pool. It was built by Pontius Pilate and it was from here that he brought water to the city in the days of Christ. Pilate's old reservoir was repaired and enlarged, its capacfty today being 5,000,000 gallons. Galleries were built in various directions to tap the numerous surrounding springs, including those of Ain ed Dirweh, in which, it is said, Philip baptized the eunuch. A powerful pumping plant was installed by which the water is pumped up to large reservoirs built on higher ground on the Hebron road, the water flowing from here by its own gravity in one-foot iron pipe to twin pools on the hill west of the city, from whence it is conducted to various standpipes in and around Jerusalem. Pilate's aqueduct, ruins of which dot the landscape today, stretched for a distance of 40 miles, though as the crow flies the Holy city lies but 13 miles away. The British pipe line, however, is but 15 miles in total length. As a result of this British enterprise the death rate in the city has dropped by one-half,

"Not long ago a friend of mine from Birmingham was sitting out on my front porch when a flock of crows flew across one of my fields," said R. B. Posey, "and he remarked that it was the biggest lot he had seen for years, and asked if they did not injure my crops. I replied that until 1 got onto a way to keep them out of my watermelon patch they ruined a lot of them by pecking holes in one and then hopping for another.

"I tried various ways but without success, until I put poles around the patch and ran just an ordinary piece of cotton around them about eight feet from the ground, and between the poles tied pieces of cotton to flap in the wind. It worked like a charm.

"A neighbor of mine used to say that he was advised to put an old umbrella in the middle of the patch, and he did it, but one day creeping up behind it, he peeped over it and there sat a bunch of crows having a watermelon feast."-Los Angeles Times.

No New-Fangled Notions,

His mother thought the course of study should be identical with the one which had held sway in into society, only to find when they the faraway red schoolhouse. She objected strenuously to physical culture and music, saying they were a waste

And then came John's first day at manual training. The next day came an indignant note to the teacher from John's mother. It read: "Dear Miss _ I want you to quit having John waste his time at school. That music and physical torture exercise was bad enough, but now you begin to learn him to whittle. Please stop it immediately or I'll change him to another school. He inherits whittleing from his fasher and his brains from me I'm paying to educate him, so educate his brains."-Indianapolis News.

Superheated Steam.

Two decades ago few would have admitted the possibility of permanently regularly producing steam at temperatures of from 550 degrees to 650 degrees Fahrenheit within the restricted area of the ordinary locomotive boiler. Now thousands of locomotives use this superheated steam, and its use is increasing.

By heating steam 180 degrees Fahrenheit above the saturation temperature "hot steam" is produced. With this increase of temperature the steam is dried and the volume is increased. But the increase of volume is less important than the suppression of all condensation in the cylinders if the superheat is sufficiently high, Hot steam being a bad conductor it also reduces loss by cooling in the cylinders from 25 to 30 per cent, according to type and structure of the China's Potential Armies, If, in a war, an enemy started killing Chinese soldiers at a million men a year, and if China were using 10 per cent of her population in that war, it would take fifty years to destroy her first armies, and in that period two further Chinese forces of fifty million would grow up to con-front their enemy.—Basil Mathews in the British Review of Reviews.

HONORED NAME IN MEDICINE

Henry Detwiler, Native of Switzerland, the First to Practice Homsonathy in America.

Among the first, if not the first, to successfully practice homeopathy in America was Henry Detwiler, who was born in Langenbruck, Switzerland. December 18, 1795.

He studied medicine a number of years before he came to this country on a vessel containing 400 French refugees who left their country after the defeat of Napoleon Bonaparte. He was appointed ship physician, and successfully treated an epidemic of dysentery which had broken out during the pas-Coming to Pennsylvania, he settled in the Lehigh Valley, and gained promipence by treating a large number of people who were attacked with a mysterious disease which he finally diagnosed as bilious colic, resulting from eating apple butter.

He early made a study of the system of medicine founded by Hahnemann, and in 1828 dispensed the first remedy in Pennsylvania, in accordance with the law of similars, and during the remainder of his life was a devoted homeopathist.

Doctor Detwiler formed an intimate acquaintance with Hahnemann, who gave him a wonderful reception in Paris, where he met other noted physicians and scientists. He gave many natural history specimens to various colleges, founded an iron industry and finally died at the advanced age of ninety-two.-Chicago Journal.

"The 'hill' itself was blasted to dust long before the struggles for its possession had ended. Its name will endure as long as British history, and it is perhaps as well that a monument should mark the site of so many heroisms, even if the monument presents a commercial aspect."

Pueblo-Type Cottages Are Cement All the quaint charm of the old pueblo style of architecture is preserved in concrete in a series of little cottages now under construction in Monrovia, Cal. The one-story buildings are most remarkable for their complete use of cement, woodwork being practically eliminated. Even the roofs are concrete, and the doors are made of magnesite, according to an illustrated article in the January Popular Mechanics Magazine. The poured walls, five inches thick, inclose a web of waterproofing material, while the cement floors are stained in Spanishleather effect, waxed and polished. The little structures are wholly fireproof, and easy cleaning is assured by the absence of moldings, casing and baseboards. Inclosed courts off the kitchen and sleeping chambers, partly roofed and partly screened, provide outdoor protection and privacy.

Making Pictures Popular. A circulating library of pictures, to-stead of books, has been opened by the Y. W. C A., of Brooklyn, N. Y. Good reproductions of the best pletures of today and earlier periods, are kept on hand to be loaned out for two weeks or a month. Accompanying each picture is a brief account of the artist's life, the significance of the painting and data about the school and period of art to which the artist belongs. The idea behind the scheme is to familiarize the subscribers with some of the best examples of art, which they might not otherwise obtain and which they may eventually wish to own, after having lived with them a short time.

Plant Discases Costly. Millions of bushels of grain, fruit and vegetables and a big tonnage of cotton were lost to American farmers last year by plant diseases, according to figures compiled by the plant disease survey of the Department of Agricuiture. The survey said that the statistics indicate that lack of prompt application of known measures of control was largely the cause of the loss. The plant disease survey estimated the losses at 112,000,000 bushels of wheat, 50,000,000 bushels of oats, 80,-000,000 bushels of corn, 50,000,000 bushels of potatoes, 40,000,000 bushels of sweet potatoes, 185,000 tons of tomatoes, 850,000 bales of cotton, 5,000,-000 bushels of peaches and 16,000,000 bushels of apples.

YOUNG FOLKS DID IT EVER OCCUR TO YOU THAT:

The business world wants thinkers and doers. There is a scarcity of high priced men and women today; many are worth a thousand dollars a year, but only a few are worth ten thousand. The late Prof. James of Harverd declared that the average man uses only ten per cent of his brain power. Suppose you are twice as capable as the average man, you are using only twenty per cent of your maximum power, only onefifth of your greatest possibilities. Eighty-five per cent of the men in this country are earning only twentyfive dollars or less per week. Ninety-two per cent of those in business fail between the ages of forty and fifty. Ninety-five per cent have no money at the age of sixty. Our business is to take you out of the eightyfive, the ninety-two and the ninetyfive per cent class. As a soldier D. H. King served the Confederacy for a little more than four years. He was a member of Walker's Division, Wells' Brigade, Eighth Texas Regiment, Col. Overton Young commanding.

Dear Sentinel-This man was a son of John Turner King, who at one time owned the land that Sacul is located on and John H. Lucas bought the west side of Sacul about 1868, paid one yoke of oxen at $50, one wagon with wooden axles and linch pins at $100 and $150 in money. They neved did survey it-just called it 100 acres more or less and called for the boundary lines.

It had a horse gin on it and later John H. Lucas bought the gin and complete outfit for about $200. The gin was located just north of the Mr. M. S.
