STATE UNIVERSITY Austin, Texas, March 29.-Health conditions at the University of Texas are much better at the present time than for the past few years, according to Dr. C. V. Goddard, chief of the medical staff of that institution. Dr. Goddard highly recommended the system of health promotion now in operation among the students, stating that the system is a notable success. The health of the students has been exceptionally good during the past year. A careful examination of raids ever made here occurred early every student is made upon entrance and a report of his health during the year is faithfully kept. FOLLOWING WILSON'S STEPS

Only when the facts are grouped does it become apparent to many persons how closely the Harding administration has adhered to so many foreign policies of Woodrow Wilson, And the emulation is creditable to Mr. Harding's advisers though less so the mouthy talkers of the last presidential campaign who condemned en bloc all and everything Mr. Wilson did.

"There will be a complete reversal," said candidate Harding when referring to the Wilson policies. And then followed the adoption of the treaty, Mexico, Russia, Ireland, China, Haiti, Gorman reparations, Mesope tamia, Yap and others. This was done not for the love of the former president but because of the absolute correctness of his position. Had there been another way the Harding administration might have chosen it. There

This evidence makes all the strong er the conviction of the spreading further and further over the country that the attack on Mr. Wilson stands without parallel for mercilessness and injustice and that the only reason the republican leaders have not adopted, even if grudgingly, the Wilson view point on the League of Nations is their own pettiness. Many of them know that the League is the only practical method of composing the world's differences and preserving its peace.

Chief Justice Taft, Secretary Hughes, Secretary Hoover, former Attorney General Wickersham, President Lowell of Harvard, E.ihu Root and others equally distinguished are all League of Nations men. In the ranks of the party are thousands more who believe as they do and yet cheap politics continue to stand between these Americans and the hundreds of thousands of others and their desire for a pact that will preserve peace and permit America to do its part in the solution of the problems of the world and alleviate its agonies.

Few pages in American politicat histery will be more aggragating than those which record honestly and accurately the wretched conspiracy against Woodrow Wilson and his ideals for a better world.

A REAL MENACE

Statistics show that 90 percent of the girls in the State Training School met with their downfall in automobiles; still there are parents who look with horror upon the dance and yet ellow their girls every liberty as to auto riding, when if the truth were known it's about 25 to 1 in favor of the auto victim.-Itasca Item.

The unchaperoned and uncensored automobile ride is a grave danger to reputation, if not to virtue. It is a great deal more to be dreaded by responsible parents than the dance is. Parents who permit their daughters to go and come at all hours of the night, without regard to the undeniable risks involved, repose much more confidence in their young than the neighbors de. It is certainly true that a sense of personal responsibility is not bad for a sensible girl. For a woman with brains to know that upon herself rather than upon her motner or father, or big brother, depends the respect in which she shall be held, and in which she shall hold herself, is usually to give her that poise and balance which preserve dignity of soul and body. But there are so many girls ous feather brained, impulsive little creatures, pretty to look at and easy to pet-and these are in imminent danger when intrusted to the unquestioned companionship of male youths of their own stripe. In all the large cities the courts have noted the increasing number of those of the "flapper" age. Automobiles and jellybeans are fascinating to the flapper type of girl. She hasn't gumption enough to turn the balance in her favor when the weight of a young libertine's importunity is on the other side .A silly girl in a lighted ballroom is comparatively safe; in a dark automobile, with temptation, she is extremely unsafe. Pardon't care, they are sorry citizens .- ed. State Press in Dallas News.

GIVE THE PUBLIC THE FACTS

The solution of the coal dispute lies with public opinion. That public opinion may express itself it is necessary that the issue be dragged forthwith from the realm of angry phrases and threates uttered by either side, and formulated in definite facts which can be investigated and assayed on behalf of the public.

It is an axiom such dispute can arise without one side being wrong The public has to find out which.

WOMEN ON JURIES

Popular predictions of the course of mixed juries in capital cases involving sex issues have been subjecta severe reversal in two cases in fall. Wilson policies toward the Colombian California within a few months. In the Arbuckle and Obenchain trials many of the elements were presented to test the common theories that under given circumstances women jurors would vote to acquit men defendants of serious offenses and to condemn women defendants. The woman jurors in both instances crossed the wires, voting in the Arbuckle case to convict and in the Obenchain trial to acquit the defendant.

The obvious inference, if these juries are to be taken as the standard set by the forecasters, that women make up their minds about the same box satisfactory or the reverse, ac- in which it is reported now by the cording to their verdicts. In the Obenchain case the "dope" of the cynics and labor make it particularly enthat women instinctively condemn smashed to fragments, for the three in the United States this year with female jurors voted constantly for ac- much other construction also. quittal

Whatever may have been their reasons, the fact remains that all women do not turn thumbs down for all other women solely because the circumstances that drag them into the pitiless light of publicity especially when the light is thrown upon the acts of capital crime.

What a harvest he could have garnered from a modern newspaper! And not the least interesting to him would have been the advertisements, with their pictures of products, appliances and services that have smoothed the course of life to a degree unknown and unbelievable in the rough pioneer days.

Nowadays new comforts and conveniences slip into our lives almost without our realizing it. We are liable to be rather matter-of-fact about it all. And advertising that has made it simpler to make and distribute profitably innumerable products at reasonable prices, has played a leading part in making our life so eminently easy to live.

Read over the advertisements and try to think what the the things you see there would have meant to our forefather. Then you'll realize what a service and what a convenience advertising is to you.

Again, the story of the old Tyler Road, includes or laps on the story of the first brick dwelling in the county, both of which have heretaire been written up in this line.

It is worth repeating that the old house still stands on that old red hill, seven or eight miles northwest town, on that same old Tyler road, which was moved up to this big house from its original location, and thus caused a local row. It was built my R. W. McLain, the father of Bob Mc-Lain and Walt McLain, about 1856, and was many years the well known McLain family home.

The writer is in receipt of an appreciative letter from Mrs. Jim Thrash a friend of many years, saying that she enjoys reading these Traditions. She adds stories of her early day ancestors, Rev. Dock Brittain, Baptist preacher, and he rother great grand father, Haily, who were slave owners from Virginia, and who settled with a bunch of twenty families, on the west bank of the Sabine river, where old East Hamilton was afterward founded, back in the 30s. The name Hamilton had an important reference to early day events in Texas.

These settlers all had hard experiences and exciting adventures. The remarkable career of the far famed John S. Roberts, was recently repeated, as starting in that vicinity, and East Texas was a fertile field of adventure. Nacogdoches was the point in mind whenever Texas, the wonder-Mrs. S. A. Doyles' Mill, away up in the Linn Flat vicinity, was another early day resort, and Stiven's mill, away down on Mast's Creek ("Moss" Creek) afterwards known as Parrish's mill, which superseded it. It supplied a large territory, some of it more than ten miles distant. Often the farmer would hitch up a wagon and a yoke of steers and haul his own corn and take turns for his neighbor, and send to mill and camp over night till his turn came around.

BOOZE AND LITERATURE

Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, novelist and professor of English in Cambridge University, has lost much of the respect in which he was formerly held by his silly statement that the drinking of alcohol is indispensable to the production of great literary work. It is to be hoped that he did not deliberately reach this conclusion, to which he gave utterance in the course people. The present method is very of a controversy with the president of the Wesleyan conference over the de- Honey Grove Signal. sirability of prohibition, but that it is an extravagance to which he was tempted by the heat of the debate.

That the use of alcohol beverages promotes brilliant thinking is an exploded theory. It has been established by careful scientific experiment that intoxicants have no such effect. It is gratifying to note that several literary men of established reputation have promptly taken issue with Quiller-Couch. George Bernard Shaw remarks that Shakespeare knew what he was talking about when he said the effect of drink on a man is to steal away his

It is rgrettable to see a scholar lending his name to the absurd theory that it will put an end to the production of great literature in the United States. It is of a piece with the psychologist's warning that the sense of humor in human beings has been bred of alcohol and after a prolonged era of dryness man will lose his power to laugh.

STILL NOT AT PEACE

The basing upon the armistice agreement of the American claim for sharing with the allies in money coliected from Germany for maintenance of the forces of occupation brings up again the opinion of some that the separate and negotiated peace made by the Harding administration with the Berlin government settled little if anything.

It is commonly understood that the armistice agreement is superseded by a peace treaty; that the allies are operating now wholly under the treaty of Versailles and that the United States, refusing to ratify that pact, is to be expected to proceed under its separate and negotiated arrangement with Germany. At any rate, when the state department sought to collect from the allies some of the newspapers of Europe suggested "Go to Ber-

The machine, we are told, cost $30, 000, but it decan't take much legislative time to run up to the thirty thousand dollar mark, and the machine will soon save the state far more than it cost. Perhaps this machine is a fore runner of a device that will be used in county and state elections. If a machine can receive and tabulate votes for lawmakers, surely it can also receive and tabulate the votes of the slow and therefore unsatisfactory .-

Most inconsistently, the very people who proclaim most loudly that prohibition is a failure-and that more liquor is drank now that ever before—are the very ones who want the eighteenth amendment and the Voltstead law repealed.

The truth is, all the hue and ery tude must have been in striking con- is the veriest sham. More liquor is not used than ever befere, and it is a hundred times harder to get and costs from 10 to 20 times as much.

Official records prove the truth of this statement. Prior to prohibition liquor was being drawn from bonded warehouses at the rate of 8,000,000 gallons a month, while now it is being drawn at the rate of about 12 percent of that amount.

All the vile "moonshine" and all the importations that slip through would not add more than another 12 percent to the total.

If liquor is easier to get than ever before, then a lot of New York hotel men do not know it.

Prior to prohibition they sent 2,500 barrels, or about 100,000 gallons, to Bermuda for storage. One of the group said the other day that "at prevailing prices that liquor was worth three million dollars, but we will sell the whole lot for $300,000. We will not deal with bootleggers; nor will we break the law. We do not consider prohibition a "joke."

One piece of testimony like that answers and destroys a million bald naked assertions that liquor is as easy to get as ever.

Naturally the law is violated. There ever was a law that wasn't. Four thousand years ago there were written on tablets of stone some divine canons against murder and theft and perjury, and based on that authority men ever since have legislated against low to high temperature is registered. these, and many other crimes. Yet men still kill and steal and rob and swear to lies, but nobody has ever yet suggested repealing the law against such crimes.

Nobody expected the prohibition laws not to be violated. Nobody ever dreamed that the doing of that which had been encouraged and licensed for 300 years could be stopped in a day by any statute. Present conditions surprise no intelligent person.

Many people seem distressed because we hear of many deaths brought about by sirinking unlawfully made compounds.

The law is not to blame for that. If any man deliberately equips himself to violate the law and flaunt the people's will, and proceeds to concoct a make money by selling it to others: who know its unlawful origin, and either he or his vendees become victims of their own unlawfulness, then society is not to be blamed, but the guilty persons only.

As never before the farmers are studying political methods and remedies. Their representatives in congress are getting a good deal of publicity and are praised or blamed according to the point of view.

And one of the remedies to which the farmers are particularly pinning their faith is the tariff.

But some of them who are studying the proposed tariff bill have come to realize the striking truth that the farmer is a consumer as well as a producer. Later he went to Paddington station and worked the dining-car train to Plymouth. When he returned to London he discovered that he had his wallet. He had not the faintest idea where or how he had lost it, and although he made inquiries he could find no trace of it. The other morning he walked up the same private path on his way to work, as he has done scores of times since he lost the wallet, when he stopped for a moment, and looking on the bare ground just at the side of the path he was amazed to see his wallet lying there. He picked it up, and was further amazed to find that the contents had not been touched. The wallet was weather-beaten and the notes were soiled as though they had been scaked in rain, but when he found them they were dry. The path is used by hundreds of men every day.

INVALUABLE AID IN COOKING

British Journal Points Out How the Use of Thermometer Will Help the Housewife.

Every housewife is aware that the actual cooking of a dish is a very important factor of success or failure. "hot oven" and a "moderate oven" are often referred to, and testing by holding the hand inside for a few seconds is a method frequently employed.

But there is no real dependency on such haphazard methods, since one person can bear much more heat than another. Therefore, in an efficient household in kitchen thermometer to register coeking heats should be considered as ascessary as a slinical thermometer. There are two varieties of kitchen thermometers to be had. The cheaper kind is of white chine. and can only be used for oven cooking A more durable make, of brass, which costs a little more, can be used for testing frying fats, etc., and will not break so easily. An iron leg supports the thermometer, so that it stands upright and can be read at a glance when in the oven. Every degree of heat from and at the side the standard temperatures for cooking are printed.-Manchester Guardian Weekly.

vivid pictures of our country, pointing out that the condition of China, Japan and India will be rivaled here. They predict a starving country with too many inhabitants and too little space in which to house them. In their minds are scenes of war, famine and misery as a result.

On the other hand, John S. Summer, secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice. says: "Overpopulation is not a menace to the peace of the world, because there is no overpopulation. It is not the phyhell's brew to drink himself, or to sical fact of population, but the mental and spiritual condition of people which determine the question as a menace to continued peace."

> Little-Known Washington Portrait. Discovery of a long-lost portrait of George Washington by the American artist, Gilbert Stuart, in New York city, directs attention to the Stuart portrait of Washington which hangs in Memorial hall in the State Library building at Hartford, Conn. It was bought direct from the artist by virtue of a resolution of the general assembly in May, 1800. The understanding was that it had been painted by order of committee from South Carolina, and was then declined on the ground that it was not a portrait of Washington. A committee from Connecticut conferred with Gilbert as to a Washington portrait, and purchased the one he had painted for South Carolina.

New Harbinger of Spring. There was a drumming roar above the city the other day, rising and waning and passing into distance. "Listen to her," said the man in the street, "that's the first plane I've heard for months. Sounds kind of good." His companion was equally pleased. "You know what that means don't you?" he rejoined. "Means it's spring, that's what it means. We used to depend on the robins, but now a very different sort of bird flies when the weather gets decent again. Look at her, would you?" New and Successfull Industry Has Been Developed of tate Years in the Pacific Northwest, Shortage in the cranberry crop in other parts of the United States last year has focused, attention upon this new-industry of the Pacific Northwest. which promises to furnish strong competition for the product of the eastern part of the American continent, as de-scribed in Popular Mechanics Magazine. After years of experimentation and selection and the development of artificial growing areas the states of Washington and Oregon have come to the front as producers of cranberries in large commercial quantities.

Lewis and Clark, in the log of their trip across the continent in the early part of the Nineteenth century, mention the fine flavor of the wild cranberries purchased from the Indians along Columbia river. Cultivation of the wild cranberry bogs was not attempted until about thirty-five years ago, and continued in a desultory manner until recently, when a successful means of preparing growing ground was developed Preparation of cranberry ground in the Pacific Northwest is an expensive undertaking, the cost being around $1. 000 an acre. A wild marsh is selected, drained by ditches, cleared of trees and brush, then the turf is removed by what is called the "scalping" process, laying bare the peat of the bog. Over the peat is spread a four-inch layer of clean white sand. Planting is the next proceeding. Vine cuttings are used for this purpose and are pressed through the sand into the peat with a dibble or planting tool. The vines are planted ten inches apart, which makes about 60,000 to the acre.

WILL DEVELOP JET INDUSTRY

Company Fermed to Work Large De posits Recently Found in Wayne County, Utah.

What is believed to be the first jet eposit to be developed in the United states is now being successfully mined in Wayne county, Utah, where recently mineralogists discovered the largest ommercial body of the mineral known to exist in the world. Singularly, discovery of the jet was accidentally made by a party of miners engaged in esement work for a copper company. The work of mining the jet began late in the summer of last year and, with financial backing assured, is expected e develop into great proportions.

At the present time the work of nining the mineral is more or less crudely done, but it is the intention of the owners of the decidedly valuable deposits soon to install modern machinery and develop the industry intothe largest of its kind in the world,-Baltimore American.

Smoking at Washington.

The Japanese were the most incessant smokers of all the visitors to the conference on limitation of armaments, said a newspaper man who attended the meetings. Baron Kato seldom is seen without a cigarette, and quite frequently lights one with another. Prince Tokugawa does likewise, while the diminutive Mr. Dubuchi is never seen without a cigarette. Mr. Hanihara is more temperate in his use of the weed. There was never any prohibition about smoking in the Japanese conference rooms. Mr. Hughes prohibits smoking when the correspondents gather. They park their partly smoked weeds on the outside. The Chinese never offered any objection to the cloud-filled conference rooms. For the French, M. Briand was the principal user of tobacco, and when he was not in a plenary session, where no one is permitted to smoke, he never was seen without his Turkish cigarette.

Niagara's Future City.

An idea which has occurred to many minds since the last "harnessing" of Niagara falls was clearly put by a speaker before the Engineers' society of New York. It is that most of the electric power obtained from the falls will be used within a few miles of its place of origin instead of being transmitted to distant cities. In other words, it is believed that at and near the falls will be situated the future industrial center of America. It would be theoretically possible, it is stated, to transmit power from Niagara as far as San Francisco, but the cost would be prohibitive. It is much cheaper to locate factories near the falls.

Dire Threat.

Bartholomew had been very naughty, and at last in despair his mother shut him up in a large cupboard, wherein were stored all sorts of articles. He immediately began to bellow and stamp and make a terrific noise generally. Finally stlence ensued, and his mother who was just showing his auntle out remarked as they passed the cupboard "I think Bartle has broken the record this time!"

"Yes" came the unexpected joinder from within. "I have, an' if you don't let me out I'll smash the machine as well!" - Detroit Free

Impressing the Visitors.

You never can tell what will impress the stranger within the gates. The foreign correspondents "doing" the conference were curious spectators of congressional proceedings when the President delivered his message, but the thing that most attracted their attention was the sight of William Allen White of Kansas sharpening a pencil as he sat in the press gallery and letting the shavings fall on the digni-taries below.—Manchester Union.

Londoner Gives Interesting Description of Manner in Which He Made Important Find.

A simple carbon rod has been discovered by A. E. Baines, a leading galvanemetrist of London, which if held in the hands five minutes will recharge the human system with nerve energy that lasts 12 hours. He says it is nothing new, but, on the contrary, was known to the ancient Egyptians. said the secret of it was lost many conturies ago. Mr. Baines said that years age while he was standing in the British museum before a painted limestone sculpture of Kharfra, an Egyptian king of the fourth dynasty, who built-the second of the great pyramids of Gisch, he noticed the figure was holding two small rods shaped something like the grip on a bicycle. Thereafter he began a series of long experiments to discover the substance which the king held, but he failed in his search until one day when he was trying to improve the microphone, for which he prepared several carbon pen-cils which had been hardened by a special process of his own. He said that quite accidentally he touched one of these carbon pencils and was surprised to find that his galvanic deflection swung from positive to negative. This led to further experiments, and he finally found that the ordinary arc carbon, when hardened by his process, gave out a force which could not be distinguished from nerve force. The bars are about six inches long and are capped at the ends with celluloid. Mr. Baines asserted the carbon rods have. been of great aid in treating cases of nervous breakdown, deafness, anemia and many other complaints. He declared he did not know what the new

Hears Concert in Bed.

The acme of comfort and convenience in the hearing of wireless concerts has been achieved by Ronald Gurd, an amateur operator of London, Ont. By using a little originality he is now able to lie and listen to the reproduction in his own room of music played several hundred miles away. Bed springs solved the problem for Mr. Gurd, who realized that the supports of his mattress made excellent terminal connections. He capitalized on his knowledge by eliminating the outdoor aerial wires over his home. One end of the springs is grounded and the other end is used for the attachment of the receiving instrument and the sound amplifier.

Shrunken Body is Two Feet Tail. Preserved better than many an Egyptian mummy, a shrunken body of an Indian chief who died more than 400 years ago has been brought to the United States by Jaun Kratiel, a Peruvian engineer. The mummy is only 25 inches high, for the body was shrunk and preserved by a secret "pickling" process known only to the South American Indians.

Tradition records that this is the mummy of Karruba, a Peruvian chief who led his tribe against the Spaniards in 1535. The beads worn by Senor Kratiel were found with the shrunken warrior.-Popular Science Monthly.

PRIZE FOR BRITISH MUSEUM

Institute Presented by Sir Rider Haggard With Ring Taken From Peruvian Mummy.

A ring with a romantic history has recently been presented to the British museum by Sir Rider Haggard. He first saw it 57 years ago, attached to the watch chain of the headmaster of his preparatory school, who had received it from a friend who had traveled much in America. The friend's story was that while traveling in Peru he had opened a gravemound in which he found a stone table with 13 mummified figures seated round it. On the finger of the principal figure was this ring, which the discoverer withdrew; and the bodies, according to his story, crumbled into dust It was the legend attached to this ring which, according to Sir Rider Haggard, first turned his imagination toward the invention of stories of adventure; and readers of "King Solomon's Mines" will recognize in it the origin of a striking episode in that book. Fifty-five years after he first saw the ring it still remained vividly in Sir Rider Haggard's memory, and he described its appearance in a story which is now on the eve of publication. Shortly after he had done so, he chanced to renew acquaintance with his former schoolmaster's family, and made inquiries about the ring, of which he eventually became the possessor, and he has now given it to the British museum.

FISH THAT SWALLOW STONES

Antarctic Seals and a Certain Species of Whale Need Them to Aid in Digestion.

Stones are commonly found in the stomach of the crab-eating seal of the Antarctic seas; and it is believed they, with a certain amount of grit, are scooped up with the crustaces from the bottom of the sea. The emperor penguin, on the other hand, shows an instinctive craving for stones for gizzardgrinding purposes, and these stones nust be assiduously sought, since these birds never rest upon dry land, but only upon ice.

Another unexpected name in this list of stone-swallowers is that of the Lesser Rorqual. This is a "baleen" whale, feeding upon minute crustaces, and fish. From the peculiar method of feeding which is, so to speak, forced upon this animal, it is unlikely that any portion of its food is secoped up from he sea-floor; hence the pebbles found in its stomach must be deliberately swallowed, and it is supposed, for the purpose of digestion, or, rather, of trituration. They are hardly likely to be derived from the fish which are engulfed, for these are mostly herring.

Spider Outdone by Man.

Romance in business? Of course there is. As soon as we think of foreign trade we get the glamor and thrill of it; and to Joseph Pennell's eyes a giant crane or a viaduct or a with wire rope?

John Kimberly Mumford has not taken wire for granted. In "Outspinning the Spider." he has told the story rival the fictionist. Let a single passage speak:

"Seven one-thousandths, three one thousandths, one one-thousandth-one record after another was passed.

"At last a wire was drawn that measured one four-thousandths of an inch in diameter-twelve times finer than the hair on your head." The spider, so long counted a master workman, had been outdone.-Nation's

And Now the "Finale-Hopper."

That section of Manhattan called the Acropolis of America, extending from Riverside drive to Morningside park, has a new designation for ultra-modern girls-"finale-hoppers." They are the young women who are a year ahead of the present, or think they are doing now what the rest of their sex will be doing at some time in the future, Raymond G. Carroll writes in the Philadelphia Ledger.

A finale-hopper is never in style. She is a trail blazer, a pathfinder. She anticipates style. As soon as what she is doing is taken up and adopted by the crowd she drops it and turns to something else that is absolutely new. That applies to music, art, dancing, dress and even slang. She is ever on the still hunt for anything fresh that has never before been done or known.

A motor-operated rubbing machine for wood surface finishing has been developed by an American concern. The horse-power motor, which moves the rubbing blocks together and apart at an even speed. The machine is inclosed in a dust-proof aluminum case and weighs about thirgives sufficient pressure for ordinary that this will soon be possible. purposes, additional pressure can be applied by the operator if it is desired. METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

The services at our church on Sun-day, March 26th, were greatly helped by the presence of our presiding elder, Rev. V. A. Godbey, one of the greatests preachers in our conference and indeed in the whole of Texas. The atter tendance at Sunday-school was smaller than on the previous Sunday, butthe attendance at the other services was increased.

There was a special program at Sunday-school given by members of the Wesley Bible Class for young women. Miss Louine Loden told of some of the things that organization had done for the class, among them being an increase in attendance, enfollment and study. Miss Edna Earl Dent told us in a very interesting and mpressive manner about the Koreans in Siberia and Manchuria, and the great opportunities our churches have for educating them and guiding them into the ways of salvation. The great question is, "Will we hear the call?" Mrs. Wm. Calvert gave a fine report of the work that is being done for the Mexicans in our Wesleyan Institute in San Antonio. It was a pleasure to listen to her as she told of the work for she put into it the interest and enthusiasm she feels in that great

Dr. Godbey preached at both morning and evening services.

The Scripture lesson for the morning was from Matt. 5:13-20. The text was from Isaiah 6:8 "Also I heard the the voice of the Lord, saying, whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I, send me." In this sixth chapter of Isaiah is in a testimony meeting. The seraphims were there to lift up Isaiah, but he had not realized it until this visit to the temple to worship when he heard the antiphonal choir singing "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts, the whole earth is full of His glory." And when he caught the vision of the Lord of Hosts he cried out for pardon and forgiveness for his sins; and when the ry came, "Whom shall I send?" Issiah was ready with the answer "Here am I, send me." Isaiah saw the world's hope in Divine Leadership. The nations of the earth are crying to us to come over with our missionaries. The church alone holds the golden key to the redemption of the world. Whether or not you hear the cry depends on who you are, whether you are obedient servants of God.

The Scripture lesson for the evening service was from Matt. 24:42-51: 25:1-46 and was quoted by Dr. Godbey withour reference to the text or any notes. The text was from Matt. 24:24: "Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the son of man cometh." The exhortations of steel mill is a picture. But who of us the preacher were for preparedness ever thought of romance in connection for Christian service. The dominant note of Christ's teachings were service. Jesus taught service by precept and example: he teaches also sacriof an amazing industry in a fashion to fice, for he says "Unless a man will deny himself and take up his cross and follow me, he can not be my disciple."

"We minister unto Christ when we minister to the wants of even the least of his children, the starving millions in Europe, the homeless waifs of our cities, and the people everywhere to whom we give a word of comfort and cheer when they are in distress."

The topic for the Epworth League program was "What the World Owes to Foreign Missionaries." Both leagues had very interesting meetings and very instructive programs. Miss Virginia Baxter rendered a vocal solo, "Open My Eyes, That I May See," and the music of her clear, sweet voice was very much enjoyed by everyone.

The Intermediate League will have a social meeting in the basement of the church on Friday night of this

The quarterly conference was held at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. They report the salaries of the pastors and presiding elder paid to date. Three new stewards were elected: John P. Nelson, Le: Gaston and J. W. Mitchell. The Junior Missionary Society will meet in regular session on Thursday afternoon, at which time they will have 'be opening of their mite boxes and a very cordial invitation is exdevice is operated by a fractional tended to the mothers to be present at that hour.

Pains Were Terrific

Read how Mrs. Albert Gregory, of R. F. D. No. 1, Bluford, Ili., got rid of her ills. "During . . . I was awfully weak . My pains were terrific. I thought I would die. The bearing-down pains were actually so severe I could not stand the pressure of my hands on the lower part of my stomach . . . simply felt as if life was for but a short time. My husband was worried . . One evening, while reading the Birthday Almanac, he came across a case similar to mine, and went straight for some Cardui for me to try.

TAKE

The Woman's Tonic

"I took it faithfully and the results were immediate," adds Mrs. Gregory. *I continued to get better, all my ills left me, and I went through . . . with no further trouble. My baby was fat and strong, and myself—thank God-am once more hale and hearty, can walk miles, do my work, though 44 years old, feel like a new person. All I owe to Cardui." For many years Cardui has been found helpful in building up the system when run down by disorders peculiar to women.

DROPPING THE "EX"

Marshall, Texas, March 23 .- The local post of the American Legion quite agrees with the Rotary Club poster advertising motto, "It is our Country. Yours and Mine. We fought fer it, now let us work for it." And this was evidenced at the meeting held here last night at which formal resclutions were adopted tabocing the use of the word "ex-service" men, but intead to use the term ex-soldiers, and to retain the "service" part of "exservice" men. It was explained that while no longer in the army, "we are still in the service of our country and we will always put our country before our party, business, social or fraternal obligations."

Resolutions were also adopted appropriating $200, of post funds for the purchase of American Legion Honor Bonds and approving the action of the state commander, Wayne Davis and his advisory board on the repayment to the state of the $20,000 of hospital funds which former officers of the Legion had received as a trust fund.

In yesterday's Sentinel an annoucement was made using my name as a candidate for Trustee of the Nacogdoches Independent School District I am sure these friends thought I would accept the nomination, but am declining today because I have not discussed this proposition with anyone and do not think this is the way to elect candidates. My idea of selecting a lady for nomination is this: If and after mature deliberation has deour citizens really want the mothers of our town represented on the Board of Trustees, the citizens should call a mass meeting for the purpose and discuss the problems more fully.

If I should decide to be a candidate for this office, I would much prefer entering independent of outside influence and would then feel that the votes in my favor were won by my own efficiency and capabilities rather than by the influence of someone else.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of placing through the columns our sincere thanks and appreciation of the kindness and help rendered during the illness of our loved one, who only a few hours ago was called to take her place with God, who is the Giver and the

May the blessings of God fill the hearts of each one of us with more love for one another, guide us, brace us up through our sorrows and at all times. Some of you have experienced this change, and some of you have not. May you put your trust in God, ask him to help you, live closer to Him. It will help you as it has helped

While we do not understand why we are born into this world to die, we have been taught by the Blessed and Holy Bible that there is a better world for those of us that live righteously and do unto others as you contestants your schools will have would like for them to do unto you. Which you have shown that your heart was with us, offering all the assistance possible, so we thank each one of you for what you have done and tried to do for us during our troubles.

May the Lord's blessings shir you each day. W. D. McCormicvk and Family.
