EIGHT MACHINE GUNS
MOUNTED UPON PLANE

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 6.—An airplane equipped with eight machine guns and capable of firing approximately 5,000 rounds was tested by Brigadier General William S. Mitchell, assistant chief of the air service, at Kelly field yesterday. The plane is the first that has ever been equipped with such a number of machine guns, Kelly field officers said. Previous experiments have been made with planes mounted with four guns. The results of the initial test, General Mitchell said, were highly satisfactory.

GALVESTON LIVESTOCK
OWNERS ARE HIT HARD

Galveston, Texas, Feb. 7.—Loss of 3,000 to 4,000 head of cattle in Galveston county in Sunday night's freeze is estimated by stock men. Crops suffered but little, it is believed, although strawberries will be delayed a month perhaps. Driving sheets of rain accompanying the sudden drop in temperature were largely responsible for deaths of cattle. Ranchmen were unprepared to protect their animals, due to the long period of unusually warm weather. Loss was heaviest in the flat, open stretches around Virginia Point, but the League City district suffered heavily also. Motorists coming to the city early Monday said they had seen hundreds of dead cattle huddled along the roads.

South of Hitchcock herds were heavily cut down. Roads of the county were made bad in spots, but not badly damaged, reports say.

COST OF SHOPMEN'S STRIKE
St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 7.—The shopmen's strike last summer cost the Burlington system more than $3,000,000, it was testified today at the government hearing here.

EIGHT PERSONS HURT IN FREAK TRAFFIC CRASH

Houston, Texas, Feb. 7.—Eight persons were more or less seriously injured when a large truck loaded with gasoline crashed into a street car late yesterday in one of the strangest freak accidents ever seen here.

The truck, moving south, struck the front of a one-man car, knocking the front wheels from the rails. The rear end of the street car then swung clear of the tracks, battering a large hole in the right side of the truck. Locked together, truck and street car slowed down diagonally across the street. At the southeast curb the light street car climbed over the curbstone, its front wheels ploughing nearly to the sidewalk.

Neither the car nor the truck turned over. The tank of the truck sprang a leak and gasoline spread over the street, but there was no blaze.

Clyde Williams, driver of the truck, was hurled from his seat by the first impact and fell on the car tracks. He was unconscious and was rushed to a hospital. His injuries are serious.

All of the other injured were in the street car.

Another unusual feature of the accident was that following the smash-up, the street car was pulled back to the rails by another car of the same line and able to continue the trip.

GERMAN OCCUPATION TROOPS HAVE REACHED HOME SOIL

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 7.—The transport St. Mihiel, with the American troops from Germany, arrived at Tybee bar at noon. She proceeded to quarantine conveyed by the cutter Yamacraw and the tug McFaulley. Preparations made to welcome the returning soldiers include an official greeting by a congression delegation and a parade.

OCCUPATION EXTENDED

Essen, Feb. 7.—The German information bureau announces that the French have occupied Lennep, the Rhenish textile city, as well as two smaller towns nearby. Lennep is 22 miles southeast of Dusseldorf. The French advance apparently is part of an encircling movement to include the occupation of Elberfeld and Barmen, textile centers.

HIGH COURT DECISIONS

Austin, Texas, Feb. 7.—The Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the case of B. L. Lovell, convicted of murder in Ellis county and sentenced to 25 years in connection with the killing of J. N. Hale. Affirmed the case of Ernest Pinson, convicted of murder in Shelby county in connection with the death of Mrs. Melissa Jones, for which he was sentenced to 25 years.

FATAL HOTEL FIRE

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 7.—One woman and two men lost their lives early today in a fire in the Hotel St. Charles, at El Paso and Overland streets. Five others were injured. The dead are J. L. Stiff of Poplar Bluff, Mo., suffocated; a Mrs. Jinki, suffocated; and an unidentified man, who was injured when he jumped from a third-story window. The loss is estimated at more than $4,000. The origin of the fire is uncertain.

PLANE SAVES SNOWBOUND

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 7.—W. Kenneth Unger, of the United States mail service took his machine yesterday to the head of the American Ford Canyon, southeast of Salt Lake City, and dropped from the air 200 pounds of foodstuffs to three persons marooned at the Pacific mine because of deep snows. A telephone message from the mine said the food supply was nearly exhausted and then arrangements were made with the mail service to bring Unger's plane into action.

TURKS THREATEN ALLIES

Constantinople, Feb. 7.—The Turkish commander at Smyrna has informed the commanders of Allied warships that he had orders to enforce withdrawal if they do not comply with the Turkish order to leave Smyrna. Ismet Pasha and the principal members of the Turkish conference delegation left Lausanne for Angora this morning.

$500,000 LOSS RESULTS
FROM TIDAL WAVE

Honolulu, Feb. 6.—Governor Wallace R. Farrington received a message from the American Red Cross at Washington offering whatever aid that might be needed here following the tidal waves of Saturday. He will probably reply that aid is not needed.

Revised estimates placed the damage at Kahului at $500,000. This port was one of the hardest hit. The damage includes four scows loaded with lumber and sugar which were driven ashore by the waves, damage to the wharf, roads and houses. No lives were lost at Kahului.

It has been impossible to check exactly the loss of life at Hilo. One body so far has been recovered.

AUTO ACCIDENTS CLAIM
THOUSANDS DURING YEAR

Chicago, Feb. 7.—More than 12,000 persons were victims of automobile fatalities in the United States in 1922, according to statistics for the National Safety council, made public today.

New York had 785 auto fatalities, which did not include the month of December, and Chicago had 736. Los Angeles ranked third with 321. Other cities ranged as follows:

Pittsburg 188, Detroit 148, Saint Louis 131, San Francisco 129, Cleveland 124, Baltimore 122, Boston 105.

In 78 cities over 50,000 population 1347 children lost their lives. Springfield, Ohio, and Holyoke, Mass., had the best records, each with two fatalities. Other cities had the following automobile death records: Dallas, Texas, 25; Kansas City, Mo., 58; Wichita, Kan., 14.

FILE DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST RAILWAY

From the Lufkin News. A suit for damages against the Houston, East and West Texas Railway Company in the sum of $60,000 has been filed in a district court in Houston by Mrs. Alice Baber, Orgin and Willia Baber as a result of the death of W. A. Baber in the Humble train wreck of December 13.

The above information comes from the Houston Chronicle which stated that "four additional damage suits growing out of the wreck were filed Saturday." The four suits ask for an aggregate of $170,000. The Baber suit was filed in the Fifty-Fifth district court in Houston. The late W. A. Baber, who lost his life by being scalded by steam in the Humble wreck, was a citizen of Lufkin and the plaintiffs in the above mentioned suit are members of his family and reside in Lufkin.

COLLECTS $70,000,000
FOR MOTOR LICENSES

London, Feb. 7.—The British government collects annually approximately $70,000,000 in motor license taxes, and uses this money in keeping up the roads. The General Omnibus Company, which operates busses in greater London, alone pays $1,225,000 a year for license plates.

TRYING FOR SETTLEMENT

Washington, Feb. 7.—Congressional approval of the war debt funding agreement with Great Britain was requested by President Harding as a "recommitment of the English speaking world to the validity of a contract." He added in his message that congress should enact into law the administration shipping bill because it was as important to avoid losses as to secure funds on debts. He said congress had ample time to enact these measure before adjournment on March 4.

Senator Smoot immediately introduced a bill to amend the debt law to provide acceptance of the British settlement and the settlements with other debtor nations upon similar terms.

GETS COMPETITORS' GAS

Washington, Feb. 7.—Describing the Magnolia Petroleum Company as "the bad boy of big business," Charles Wrightman of the Wrightman Petroleum Company, an independent Tulsa concern, charged that the Magnolia Company had drained the gas from his company's well in the Healdton field before the senate oil investigating committee. He said relief was obtained through the Oklahoma Corporation Commission.

TEXANS PROPOSE TAX ON SHOWS AS REVENUE

Austin, Texas, Feb. 6.—An amusement tax upon road shows and circus organizations, except private, amateur, or non-profit performances, was reported favorably by the house committee on revenue and taxation last night.

A minimum tax of $40 for the first day and ten dollars for each succeeding day of performance at one point was recommended for circus and road shows.

The revenue and taxation committee considered bills on severance, gross production of sulphur and inheritance taxes last night, but passed them without final action.

NEAR EAST SITUATION
NOW SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Lausanne, Feb. 6.—Riza Nur Bey of the Turkish delegation at the Near East conference said today that Turkey and the powers had reached an accord on jurisdiction capitulations, but there still are important financial matters in which this agreement was not affected. He said Turkey believed the objectionable clauses of the treaty should be eliminated or revised. Indications are that the ultimate fate of the treaty rests in the hands of the governments at London, Paris and Rome. Reuter's correspondent said the head of the French delegation intimated the possibility of the treaty being signed almost immediately.

HOUSE PASSES MEASURE TO AID PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Austin, Texas, Feb. 7.—By a vote of 110 to 7 the house yesterday passed finally the Melson bill carrying an appropriation of $3,000,000 for the available school fund to be distributed immediately for the relief of schools now about to close for lack of funds.

The state has no money with which to pay the appropriation. Only two or three members voiced their disapproval of the bill from the floor of the house, and this opposition was based on the fact that the state has no money and none in sight with which to pay the $3,000,000. Debate on the bill lasted for more than an hour.

The proponents of the bill claim that it is not yet too late to enact revenue legislation and put it into effect to produce the $3,000,000.

CLARA PHILLIPS LOCATED

Los Angeles, Feb. 7.—"Clara Phillips is the prisoner of Mrs. Catherine Uribe, in a little adobe hut on the outskirts of Chihuahua City.

"She is being held as hostage.

"The hammer murderess is guarded by two Mexican men who are the devoted servants of Mrs. Uribe. The latter's husband, Herbert, and her brother-in-law, Fernando, are in jail here on an automobile theft charge.

"Clara is Mrs. Uribe's ace in the hole in the game she is playing to free her husband and brother-in-law from custody.

This startling information came from the lips of Mrs. Uribe herself, who is now in Chihuahua City, guarding Clara, and awaiting developments in the complicated case, according to a San Francisco business man, who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday and declared he rode with Mrs. Uribe on the train from Mexico City to Chihuahua last Sunday. He asked, for obvious reasons, that his name be not disclosed at this time.

TO INVESTIGATE RATES

Washington, Feb. 7.—State railroad commissions of ten Middle-Western states, including Texas and Oklahoma, have agreed to co-operate with the Interstate Commerce Commission in an investigation to determine whether the minimum carload weights fixed by the railroads on interstate shipments of hogs throughout their territory are reasonable. Preliminary hearings will be held in Kansas City, beginning March 20. Minimum weight regulations will have an important effect in fixing freight charges actually made, the commission said.

HARDING WANTS DELAY

Washington, Feb. 6.—President Harding decided today to postpone until tomorrow, at least, his message to congress asking modification of the debt-funding law to permit approval of the settlement negotiated with Great Britain.

CATTLE PERISH OF COLD
IN JEFFERSON COUNTY

Beaumont, Texas, Feb. 6.—Thousands of head of cattle are believed to be dead in this county as a result of the blizzard which came Saturday. One ranchman reported yesterday that he counted 175 head of cattle frozen to death in the fields between Amelia and Nome. He estimated that fully one-fourth of the cattle in the county had died of exposure. Other ranchmen declare the loss will not run this high.

There are more than 25,000 head of range cattle in Jefferson county. Little protection is afforded the vast majority of range stock. Because of the torrential rains, ranchmen found it virtually impossible to aid their suffering herds.

More than five inches of rain fell here from Saturday until Sunday night. With cessation of rain the temperature dropped and soon streets were covered with a thin coating of ice. Early truck and fruit are believed to have suffered great damage.

BUFFALO'S FIRST COUSIN
MAKES APPEARANCE ON RANGE

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 7.—The first cousin of the buffalo has appeared on the Texas range. He'll be known to the livestock world as Vernier and he's a second cross of the cattle and the buffalo—something once considered impossible.

The first Vernier seen at the Fort Worth stockyards and the packing houses came from the ranch of J. B. Slaughter in Garza county. The buffalo bulls came from the famous Goodnight buffalo herd in the Panhandle, and the cattle from the Slaughter ranches. The first cross were the catties which are more or less common in certain cattle raising districts. The second cross have been termed "Vernier." This is a new name in the history of breeding.

WIFE KILLED IN SCUFFLE

Tyler, Texas, Feb. 6.—J. L. Braziel, 50-year-old retired merchant of Lindale, was released on bond Monday afternoon to attend the funeral of his wife, who was accidentally killed Sunday afternoon while the two engaged in a scuffle for possession of a shotgun, according to report made to Sheriff W. S. Strange.

Braziel is said to have returned to his home Sunday from Waco in an intoxicated condition and became engaged in an altercation with a Mrs. Copeland, a visitor, and H. Wade, a friend of the Braziel family when the latter objected to Braziel's abuse of his eldest daughter.

The girl is understood to have attempted to placate her father and thereby incurred his wrath which resulted in the intervention of Mrs. Copeland and Wade whom Braziel ordered from his home. It was when he attempted to get the gun to enforce his order, reports say, that Mrs. Braziel engaged in the fatal struggle for possession of the weapon.

Braziel is well-known throughout this section and is wealthy, being a big stockholder in the Lindale Guarantee bank, besides being interested in a mercantile house. He has two sons and two daughters. His wife was formerly Miss Daisy Hill. Braziel's grief was so great Sunday night when he realized that he had slain his wife that it was necessary to give him medical attention.

IMMIGRATION CUT UNDER NEW HOUSE PROGRAM

Washington, Feb. 6.—The number of immigrants eligible to admission to the United States under the existing restriction act would be reduced by more than half under a section of a new immigration bill approved by the house immigration committee.

Admissions under the proposed act would be limited to 2 percent of the number of foreign born individuals of any nationality resident in the United States as determined by the census of 1890. The present restriction is 3 percent as determined by the census of 1910.

Members of the committee estimate that under the new restrictions clause the total of immigrants entering the United States in any one year would not exceed 168,837. Admissions under the existing law total 358,023 yearly.

WHERE BELGIUM STANDS NOW

From the Houston Chronicle.
French troops holding the Ruhr basin, the industrial heart of Germany, of Europe for that matter, are being made targets for criticism by editors and statesmen and labor leaders. Somehow France is losing the heart of the world, which once throbbed in sympathy with her every desire, effort and achievement.

France, except at Sedan, has always been a match for Germany, and on several occasions, as at present, the master of that Teutonic empire. The world is prone to forget sacrifice and to remember selfishness, and then, too, size and strength are not the elements that invoke sympathy.

So France, being strong at the moment, is losing sympathy in the forgetting by the world of recent terrible sacrifice.

But how about Belgium? Who will ever forget how that doughy little nation stood up with deathless courage in the face of the mighty Prussian lance when it first flashed on a world stunned with terror.

Germany had signed a treaty which guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium. "It's a scrap of paper," said the German overlords, "but for the sake of appearances we will pay you, Belgium, with pure gold for free passage so that we may crush France at one smashing blow and reach the channel ports from which we can cut the throat of England."

Did Belgium take the gold? No, Belgium never even hesitated as she bared the breasts of her brave sons to the onrushing Huns. It was a company against a corps, a few thousand against a million, but they stood, as St. Paul says, every man in his place, and there they died.

King Albert and the few that survived the onslaught, fighting inch by inch, held the "last ditch in Belgium" for four years until the doughboys of Uncle Sam expelled the Germans from a soil they had desecrated, whose people they had forced into bondage and whose cities they had burned.

In view of these things, let us not forget that Little Belgium, along with Big France, is holding the Ruhr Basin. For four years we fed the Belgians and thereby kept from death by starvation a breed of men whom Caesar called the bravest the Roman legions ever encountered or attempted to subdue.

Let us remember French sacrifice and Belgian size and sacrifice and lay them along side events of the present. Then our sympathies of the present are likely to be more in harmony with those of the recent past.

TURKISH ATONEMENT

From the Shreveport Journal.
"Vengeance is mine, and I will repay, saith the Lord." The Terrible Turk may be paid in full, as time passes, for his hideous cruelty in slaughtering and exiling nearly all the racial minorities within the shrunken border of present Turkey.

It has been remarked often that the Turk has never been successful except as an overlord of subject populations. In history he has been a conquerer, taskmaster and tax collector. Until the Turkish conquests of the middle ages, there was no Turkish history. The Turks were merely a wandering tribe. They have never absorbed the civilization they invaded and domineered over. They have never learned modern industry and commerce. They have shown little capacity for art, literature and science. Greeks and Armenians and other subject people have done their manufacturing and trading and much of their agriculture. Speaking in general, they have lived as parasites on races superior to them in nearly every respect except that of brute force.

There is nothing in the Turks' record indicating ability to function and thrive as a nation, in competition with modern nations, on a normal peace basis. The more they get rid of their hated racial rivals, therefore, and the more they are thrown back upon their own resources, the less of a menace Turkey is likely to be a generation from now.

INDICATIONS OF MADNESS

While the war was in progress a round robin denouncing the attitude of Senator LaFollette was signed by a large number of the professors of the University of Wisconsin and others. It was in the nature of a protest against the stand taken by the Wisconsin senator which, in the opinion of the signers, was one of disloyalty and not representative of the sentiment of a large portion of the people of the state.

In some manner that paper became filed in the records of the commonwealth. Now, at Governor Blaine's instigation, a bill has been introduced in the legislature providing that the instrument shall be burned publicly. Since the LaFollette forces are understood to be in control, it is probable that the program will be carried out.

The preceding savors of methods of the dark ages. If the paper stated a truth, burning it, either in a public bonfire or privately, will not affect its truthfulness. Had Senator LaFollette in any way recanted his stand of wartime there might be justification for such a measure. There is nothing to show that he has amended his views. Then the fire which consumes the document will prove futile to erase from the minds of men the causes which led to its execution.

Burning the paper may serve to fix more firmly in history its contents and the fact that it existed. The incident affords evidence that the Wisconsin politicians have gone mad, if they believe that such a proceeding will be effective in obliterating Senator LaFollette's record in regard to the war.

THE ENORMITIES OF FANATICISM TRANSCEND
HUMAN IMAGINATION

A remarkable address was recently delivered in the house of representatives by Hon. Bourke Cockran, a member from New York City. Mr. Cockran is an orator whom millions of Americans hear gladly on every subject of public interest. In his long public service he has perhaps never spoken on a more important subject than the one which engaged his powers of analysis on this occasion.

"It is also an essential feature of the Christian moral law that no man can be improved in morals by government or by any agency except himself. The Christian revelation was not given to a government. Not a word of it was addressed to a ruler, nor to a senate, nor to a committee, nor to an aggregation of men. Every word was addressed to the individual, enjoining him to effect his own improvement by observance of its injunctions. He is commanded to govern himself but to refrain from attempts to govern anybody else; to judge himself with severity but he must never assume to judge his neighbor. From the lips of divine gentlemen words of reproach seldom issued, except to those who violated the injunction, Judge not lest ye be judged; be not critical of the mote of your brother's eye, but be careful to take the beam out of your own eye. Who, then, in a state of Christian civilization has any right to judge the morality of my own conduct but myself?"

"Every attempt to enforce morality upon people through government has always been productive of disorder, frequently of the worst cruelties that have ever disgraced human nature. Man has always been capable of doing violence to his brother; of killing him under the influence of passion. But where appetite, lust, fear, thirst for vengeance, moves the slayer he is always satisfied by the prompt death of the person standing in the way of gratifying his desires. He never becomes so perverted from all the instincts of humanity as to torture any man in addition to killing him, except under one influence and that is of fanaticism. And what is fanaticism? It is a purpose to make men good, not according to their own conscience and by their own free will but according to some rule prescribed by others. And this fanaticism, I repeat, has been the source of the most horrible enormities that have ever disgraced humanity.

"I have read the history of awful cruelties practiced by some men upon others, but I have failed to discover a single one that was not the fruit of fanaticism, the attempt of some men to regulate by law the conduct of others.

"I have said that attempts to regulate morals and improve them by statutes—well intentioned though they may have been—have caused the worst cruelties, the blackest persecution which stain the record of humanity. And this is mentioned not as an abstract reflection but as a warning against dangers which are very real and ominously imminent. Persistence in the effort to make men good by law—must in the very nature of things bear the same fruit here that it has always borne. It will light the fires of persecution in this country as it has lit them in Smithfield and in every country where similar attempts have been made. Nay; it has already lighted them.

"In the newspapers during the last few days there have been accounts of a tragedy in Louisiana so unspeakably horrible that a great many of us found it difficult to believe that such enormities could possibly be perpetrated by human beings. In fact, a leading article in the New York Times, after these bodies had been found and after the frightful injuries which had been perpetrated upon them before death had been proved by overwhelming evidence, expressed disbelief in the whole report as absolutely irreconcilable with human nature. And that statement was perfectly natural. It is irreconcilable with human nature except under the influence of fanaticism. Fanaticism—that is to say, regulation run mad—it is now clear can produce enormities which even human imagination can not realize.

"I have mentioned the tortures with which we have become familiar through the study of history. I have read of Christians wrapped in cloths saturated with oil and then set afire, to light the footsteps of Caesar on his way through the streets of Rome to the temple of worship or the scene of festivities. Why? Because Christian men and women refused to burn incense before some tutelary diety of the pagan world and this was considered gross depravity by the lawmakers of the time. To eradicate it from society men and women of the purest lives and noblest characters were thrown to wild beasts, torn apart with red hot irons, scalded in cauldrons of boiling oil, roasted on gridrons, and all this, not by the rabble or the worthless, but by elements that were considered the best of the community. In later years the thumbscrew and the rack were employed with dreadful frequency, not to make men mad, but in a perverted nation of making them good.

"I have seen at Nuremberg that female figure known as The Maid, which when opened disclosed a chamber, the sides of which were lined with spikes, which closing upon the victim of fanaticism made death as agonizing as it was slow. Yet in all history there is nothing recorded of ferocity and cruelty which parallels that hideous slaughter and torture in Louisiana. It is so far beyond any human experience that we can find no words to describe it. It includes the torturers from all right to be classed among elements of humanity, to be classed even with the brutes. For the brute does not destroy his fellow brute and prolong the killing to enjoy his dying agonies. He kills that fellow brute because he fears him, or because he wants something which that brute holds or threatens to take; and when he kills him he does it as fast as he can, just as a human being perpetrating murder to gratify any ordinary passion or impulse accomplishes the task as rapidly as possible and then flees from the scene of it. It is only under the influence of fanaticism, this fanatical desire to make men good, not according to their own free will, but according to the notions of others, that such fiendish enormities could have been possible as have been perpetrated here in our own country by men calling themselves apostles of morality and order. This horror can not be adequately described in words, because words are evolved from experiences. The world has hitherto been free from any such experience. It can not be called savage, because no savage inflicted injury so atrocious. It can not be called bestial without grave injustice to the beasts.

"This is not the time nor the place to denounce in adequate terms that particular manifestation of unparalleled human ferocity. I mention it only to emphasize that these fiends in human shape who sank to such awful depths of ferocity were not the evil disposed people of the community. They are said to be the best people. And I do not find according to the testimony that is now coming out that they ever undertook an act of violence for any other reason than to enforce what they conceived to be the moral law. A man is flogged or tortured or killed in ways that can not be described because he is a bootlegger. A woman is taken from her home and sent drift in the woods and the darkness of night because they think her morals are below the standard which they have prescribed for the regulation of human conduct. There is not a suggestion that the perpetrators of these outrages were moved by any desire to make men bad according to their notion of morals. And, indeed, it would have been impossible for any human beings for any beings with the semblance of humanity—to have perpetrated these fiendish acts if they had not been under the mistaken but grossly perverted impression that they were advancing the cause of humanity.

"Now, my friends, this warns us, or should warn us, that Almighty God, who has specifically reserved to himself the right to punish for violations of the moral law, will not suffer man or society to usurp his authority. From the dawn of creation men have attempted to invade his jurisdiction in this respect, and the result has always been that they have been turned into fiends by the awful deeds they have perpetrated. It must now be perfectly clear that when the state or any of its members invades that domain which God Almighty has reserved for himself by undertaking to enforce any notion of morals on human beings by the club of a policeman, hideous results inevitably follow, of which the Louisiana butchery and torture are the latest example."

Who can remember when republican papers used to rail at the "watchful waiting" policy of President Wilson?

This plow is made especially for stiff, black, waxy soil. Because of the shape of its share, it penetrates readily. Because of its long tapering moldboard, it sheds clean.

OIL PRICE CLIMBING

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 1.—The price of Mexia crude oil was advanced to $1.90 and Currie to $2.30 per barrel by the Texas Company today.

OIL PRICE SOARING

Independence, Kas., Feb. 2.—The fourth consecutive 10-cent rise in the price of Midcontinent oil in the last three weeks was announced by the Prairie Oil & Gas Company today. Prices now range from $1.30 to $2.40 per barrel.

DEBT COMMISSION MEETS

Washington, Feb. 1.—Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American Debt Funding Commission, called a meeting of the commission for late today to make plans for presenting to congress the American-British agreement accepted in London yesterday. The call for the meeting followed official notification to the State Department by the British embassy that the British cabinet had acted favorably to the American funding plan.

NO OFFICIAL ACTION

New Orleans, La., Feb. 2.—No official action will be taken by Attorney General Cocco in connection with the receipt of a threatening letter by Mayor Dade of Mer Rouge, it was learned today. Mr. Cocco said the identity of the writer was unknown and he could not act unless an attempt was made to execute the threat.

Kirk Martin, who has for a long time been with the firm of Swift Bros. & Smith, has sold his interest in this popular firm and will go to Houston, where he will be district sales manager for the Yuba Refining Company of Nacogdoches. Kirk's many friends here regret to see him leave the Stone Fort City. During his connection with the popular drug company, he made many friends, both personal and business, and these predict for him a successful career as district manager of the new refining company.

IN MEMORIAM

The death angel has visited our home and taken from us a precious jewel, little Annie Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lilly. She was born February 1st, 1922, and January 5th, 1923, was taken seriously ill and for 18 days was a patient little sufferer and all that loving hands and medical skill could do was done for her, but it was not God's will for her to get well and stay with us, and with sad hearts we humbly bow to His will, for He doeth all things well. I never knew a sweeter child—always good and happy, had a sweet smile for every one. To know her was to love her, and oh, it is so sad and lonely without her little presence. She was only loaned to us for a while and God plucked the pure little bud and transplanted it in the rose garden of heaven, there to dwell with Jesus and the loved ones gone on before. We miss her, oh, so much; but it brings heaven nearer and her going brings to our minds more forcibly the words of our Master when he said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." We say good-bye little one, but for a while, for when death comes to us we will meet you in the skies. Her Grandmother.

TAX RECEIPTS DELAYED.

Owing to the big rush of tax payments by mail which reached the collector's office on the last days of the limit, the force has been unable to make out and send the receipts to those entitled to them as soon as they might be expected. The work of mailing these receipts is progressing as rapidly as possible, though it probably will take ten days or two weeks, so don't become impatient if you fail to receive yours at once. It will get to you in good time.

Messrs. Alton E. Stewart, John A. Barford and T. H. Henderson of the Texas State Fire Insurance Commission are here for the purpose of inspecting and re-rating the entire city. They will visit probably every home and business concern in town in pursuance of their duties, and our people should cheerfully aid in making a thorough inspection of all buildings.

Architect C. H. Page of Austin, representing the educational department, on Saturday accepted the new additions to the high school and the rooms will be occupied Monday. Work on these buildings started in July, 1922.

MOVING TELEPHONES COST TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 3.—A substantial portion of the operating expense of a telephone company is due to installing and removing telephones. In the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company of Texas, the annual number of installations exceeds 70,000, while the disconnections number some 52,000 annually, both figures excluding the moving of telephones on the same premises.

It is necessary to connect over seven telephones to secure a net gain of two.

When compared with the total volume of the telephone company's business as presented by the number of telephones in service, these conditions are highly important. The number of installations amounts to thirty-five per cent of the telephones in service during the year. These figures indicate that telephones are being installed at a rate that would account for the equivalent of these telephones in less than three years.

The expense of installing and removing these telephones runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. This enormous expense item is partly offset by the revenues collected for telephone service to all subscribers. If there were no service connection charge, this expense would be met entirely through the regular monthly rate. The service charge, therefore, enables the telephone company to maintain a lower level of monthly rates than would be possible otherwise.

YUBA GETTING BUSY

Local Manager Jack Waste of the Yuba Refining Company states that the new concern has already arranged for warehouse space in Tyler, Beaumont and Dallas, and that a car of this high-grade oil will be shipped to each of these warehouses not later than Monday.

As an evidence of the thoroughgoing business policy of the Yuba Refining Company, mention might be made of the splendid sales force this organization is getting together:

Lake Orton has charge of the distribution of the output from the refinery over 22 counties adjacent to Nacogdoches.

Kirk Martin heads the sales force out of Houston and Claud Hazle will be connected with the distributing agency out of Dallas.

With such men as these in the selling end of the game and with Jack Waste, C. C. Chappell and N. A. Linnvall in the producing and refining end, the success of the new concern is assured. And it would be pretty hard to over-estimate what the success of this big enterprise means to Nacogdoches. It means nothing less, in fact, than the realization of a dream that has, like a will-o'-the-wisp, led us on and on for these 35 years.

A SPOTLESS PLACE

Yes, it may be called a "spotless" place, for that is what it is—Charley McClain's new market located in the Cason building formerly occupied by Greene & Muller, on East Main street. Every sanitary contrivance that can be provided has been installed, and the room is one of glass and porcelain.

A large ice box preserves the fish and oysters just as they come to the market. A glass refrigerator showcase takes care of the choice packing house cuts, dressed poultry, fruits and bread. The top of this showcase, of solid glass, is cooled to refrigerator degree by the frigid air in the lower part, supplied by inlets from a big ice chest at the end. Stone's famous cakes will be kept for sale. You know what these cakes mean to the discriminating housewife whose time is fully occupied with other duties than baking. Oysters in season and fish will be at the call of the customer.

This is perhaps the neatest, nicest place in East Texas. And Charley assures us his prices will be right. Of course the service will be impeccable.

How times change. In days of old, when knights were bold, the maids were not.

J. E. Fuller of Olton, one of the county commissioners of Lamb county, was in the city Saturday for a visit with the family of his uncle, County Clerk J. F. Perritte. He had been in Shreveport for the purpose of buying a supply of lumber, three cars of which he purchased and shipped. The crying need of his section of the state appears to be building material; it being a long way from the source of supply and lumber is very costly. When laid down here on account of the long freight haul. This was Mr. Fuller's first visit to Nacogdoches in 20 years, and of course he found many changes for the better.

The ship subsidy goes down for the third time.

A ONE THOUSAND MAN-POWER MACHINE

The Chamber of Commerce in a progressive little city of the middle west is described by one of its members as a "One Thousand Man Power Machine" for the upbuilding of that community.

Our Chamber of Commerce here in our own city will be just as powerful and just as effective as the members make it. Our duty does not end with the payment of dues. When we have paid our dues our duties just begin. The payment of dues is merely a contribution toward the promotion of an institution through which we can work for a bigger and better community. You then have the privilege and duty of suggestion, criticism, advice and work.

The work of our Chamber of Commerce is never finished. It never will be finished. New successes merely open the doors to bigger avenues of effort. The only kind of a city where chamber of commerce work is ended in a city swallowed by an earthquake, completely destroyed from end to end by fire, blown away by storm or dead from dry rot inside.

No organization can be more active than its members. The work of the Chamber of Commerce will be big, constructive, helpful to our city in exact proportion to the individual efforts of the chamber's members.

Are you putting more than money into the Chamber of Commerce? When you are blessed with an idea that you believe might be developed into something of value to your community, do you bring it before the Chamber of Commerce? Do so. Go to your Chamber of Commerce with your ideas, with suggestions, with helpful, friendly criticisms.

The stars that twinkle brightly today in the big league baseball firmament, once shone dimly in the "bush" leagues. The biggest men in New York were born in the little towns. Most of the big ideas that have become national in community building have originated in the smaller cities.

If you have an idea regarding the future growth and development of your community, don't conceal it. Don't be ashamed of it. Let's exchange value.

Our ideas and suggestions for the good of our city. Five out of six of these ideas may not be practical—but the sixth may develop into an item of inestimable value.

It is service through your Chamber of Commerce that you can get the most out of life as a citizen. Older persons tell us, as they begin to look toward the setting sun that material gains, money and success, shrink into insignificance unless the owner of these blessings also has friends and neighbors and the pride that comes from knowledge that he has done his part as a citizen and has made his town a little better for having lived in it.

J. B. Smith, former traveling salesman for Goldsberry Bros., wholesale grocers of this city, was arrested at Jacksonville a day or two ago on a charge of embezzlement growing out of an alleged holdup occurring at an isolated point on the road between Etowah and Chireno several weeks ago. The warrant was issued on January 29th out of Justice of the Peace Frank Huston's court. Smith gave bond for his appearance before Judge Huston for preliminary hearing on the 7th inst.

MUCH-NEEDED RELIEF EVERY SUFFERING WOMAN SHOULD HAVE

San Antonio, Texas.—I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for feminine trouble. Before taking this remedy I suffered with my back and sides and weighed only about 125 lbs. The 'Prescription' has done so much for me, it cured me of all of my pains and nervousness, and I now feel very well and weigh 177 lbs; therefore, I am glad to tell of its wonderful merits. Mrs. E. LAST SURVIVOR ANDREW JACKSON'S FAMILY DEAD

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Rachel Jackson Lawrence, daughter of General Andrew Jackson's adopted son, died here at 7 o'clock this morning at "Birdsong," her country home, aged 90 years. She was the last surviving member of the Hermitage household of "Old Hickory's" time. She had been confined to her bed for more than a year.

A TRIBUTE

Whereas, The Great and Supreme Ruler has in His infinite wisdom, taken from us one of our worthy and much esteemed members, Mrs. Pearl Jenkins; and,

Whereas, The intimate relations held with her in the Nacogdoches Chapter, No. 428, O. E. S., makes it highly befitting that we record our appreciation of her; therefore, be it

Resolved That the removal of such a noble life from among us leaves a vacancy that will be felt by all the members and friends of this chapter.

Resolved, That we tenderly sympathize with the family of our deceased sister in their hour of trial and affliction and earnestly commend them to the keeping of Him who looks with a pitying eye upon the motherless and enables them to look forward to a reunion in that better world, where there are no partings and no tears shed.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the records of this Chapter, a copy printed in the county papers and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

Respectfully submitted,

THE NEGRO, NORTH AND SOUTH

From the Houston Post. The inconsistency of the attitude of some people of the North toward the negro is never brought out so clearly as when some shocking crime happens in which a negro is involved.

Ever since the days of abolition, the North has loved to lecture the South on the treatment of the negro. There has been much agony of spirit north of the Mason and Dixon line over the wrongs of the negro of the South. If a negro is mishandled in the South for some heinous crime, it is evidence of a lack of civilization in the South.

But let a negro commit a serious offense in the North against a white person and what happens? Are all the beautiful platitudes on racial equality and brotherly love put into practice? The race riots in the North now and then answer that question. Lawlessness is not to be condoned, either South or North. The best people of the South are just as much opposed to lynching as are the best people of the North. But for the sake of consistency, the North might well study its own methods.

The difference between the way the South meets a situation in which a negro is involved in unspeakable crime and the way the North meets a similar situation, lies in that while the South charges the crime to the individual negro, the North is prone to charge it to the race.

An example has just occurred in Indiana. Following the commission of a crime by a negro, the white population immediately demanded the evacuation of the negro population of several towns. The negroes were warned to leave before a certain hour. Negroes not remotely connected with the crime were classed with the criminal, and an attempt was made to wreak vengeance on them.

Contrast that action with the people of Houston at the time of the mutiny of negro soldiers in 1917. If ever the white people had provocation to wreak vengeance on another race it was furnished in that case. Bullying negro soldiers, encouraged by an undesirable class of vicious local negroes, openly attacked the town. A score of innocent white people were shot down in cold blood. Most of them died in ignorance of the mutiny.

Yet there were no reprisals by white citizens of Houston. There was no semblance of riot. White citizens who aided the military forces in rounding up the members of the murderous negro troop, were duly deputized by the authorities. The negroes were lawfully apprehended, legally tried and convicted, and legally punished.

And after the disturbance, not a single negro was molested. No thought of driving the negro population from Houston ever entered the minds of the white people of the city. But had such an outrage occurred in the North, the chances are ten-to-one that the negro district would have been burned and the negroes driven out. Witness East St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia and other centers of recent racial disturbances.

who commits the unpardonable crime runs a risk of being lynched, it is unfortunately true. But if the negro race as a whole would perceive who deals most justly with them, let it compare the actions of Northern and Southern people when a negro gets into serious trouble.

FREIGHT CAR BURGLARIZED

A box car in the Southern Pacific yards here was burglarized Friday night, the thief breaking the seal and making away with a 40-pound box of candy consigned to Blackshear & White of Appleby. Deputy Sheriff R. E. Booth had his suspicions fastened upon a strange negro who had been loafing around the station for a day or two, and upon taking the man in charge, a confession was immediately forthcoming. The negro gave his name as Dock Sowell and his home in San Augustine county. He said he recently had been working in Houston. He told Mr. Booth where the stolen candy had been sold and the officer went to the store of Ben Patton, colored, near the Frost-Johnson mill, and the goods recovered. Patton had paid Sowell a dollar for the candy. Sowell is in jail to answer a charge of burglary at night. It was quick work on the part of Deputy Booth.

FORD-GREVE

Mr. Cates Ford of this city and Miss Bernie Greve of New Orleans were married in the latter city Saturday, the 3d inst., and arrived in Nacogdoches Sunday. They will make their home for the present with the groom's father, Dr. F. C. Ford.

The groom is a Nacogdoches boy, a member of one of East Texas' best families, and has many friends in this section who will rejoice in his new-found happiness and wish for him all the prosperity possible in this life. He is engaged with the Pierce-Fordyce Oil Company as traveling salesman and is making a success of it.

The bride is a sister of Attorney J. J. Greve and is a young lady of many charming womanly qualities. She will prove a valuable addition to the younger social set of the city of her adoption, and the Sentinel joins in extending a hearty welcome.

KENNETH WILLIAMS

At Drumright, Oklahoma, there was an editor of a newspaper. This editor's name was Moore. He is no longer at Drumright. In his paper he opposed the Ku Klux Klan. For this "offense" he was overpowered by a band of hooded ruffians and unmercifully beaten. As he had attacked no one but the Klan as an organization it is logical to suppose the Klan, the "injured party," was his assailant. No one outside the Klan had any grievance. At least the assault was in harmony with Klan precepts and practices.

In the same town of Drumright there was a little boy 9 years old, named Kenneth Williams. Kenneth is no longer there. He is dead—murdered. His little body was found last week in a ravine near Drumright, whither he had been enticed by a stranger. This was last June.

A short time before his disappearance a childish quarrel arose between Kenneth and a little playmate. This playmate said to Kenneth: "If you don't do as I say, I'll put tar on you like my father and uncle put it on Mr. Moore. Come to my house and I'll show you." Kenneth told his parents and grandparents of the threat, quoting the other boy's language. He was warned to say nothing about it, but ignored the injunction and talked, as any other child would have done.

A few days afterward, about sunset, he was playing with another companion, when a stranger accosted him and offered him a job. The child probably thought it would be a great thing to have a job, so he accepted the offer and started off with the unknown man, according to his little companion. That was the last seen of Kenneth alive. He had paid the penalty for talking about the assaults of Editor Moore. The Klan, or its imitators, had proved its loyalty to the tenets of the hooded organization. An innocent baby was slain as a warning that the fine sensibilities of the Klan must not be wounded by mentioning its lawless performances. A great principle of the Klan had been upheld by the shedding of the blood of a little, helpless child.

The months of agonized suspense of the stricken parents, as they vainly sought for news of their vanished boy, was probably viewed with indifference, if not with glee. If the Klan was not guilty of this foulest of murders in all the red annals of crime, it was technically so because its teachings fostered and its practices encouraged the real perpetrators of the hideous outrage. So far as is known, the Klan has never repudiated or uttered a word of condemnation of the revolting assassination. Its silence can only be construed as a passive endorsement of the act, at least.

Drumright, Mer Rouge, Goose Creek!
How long will the law-abiding Christian men and women of America tolerate such practices?

What if Kenneth had been YOUR child?

TRYING TO COVER UP

From obviously authoritative sources, Washington dispatches say that the white house brands as "the unreasoning state of mind" that of those Americans and others who think that the whole European situation would have been altered had this nation joined the League.

That is exactly the attitude to be expected from an administration that has failed to function on foreign policies. Knowing what it can and ought to do to promote peace and order throughout the world but cringing before the threats of the "irreconcilables" in its own party, it assumes that it can conceal its embarrassment by charging that "unreasonable state of mind" to those who are showing the administration's delinquencies.

The white house says in a flippant sort of fashion that if the League can do anything let it do it. This is its answer to those who claim that the League of Nations with the United States a member, could with little doubt have averted the increasing world chaos. The white house might just as well say to a wagon that has lost a wheel to "move on" as to expect an organization like the League, lacking the moral and material influence of the United States, to accomplish all the things set out.

When the United States for reasons too embarrassing for the white house to mention, refused to join the league, it deprived the covenant of one of its most essential units. The League is built upon unity. To achieve the ultimate it had to have the nations of the world in its membership, especially the most powerful nations like the United States. All such nations joined except ours. Every wheel in this hopeful vehicle of world peace was in place except that to be furnished by the United States. How can the League hope to make all the progress expected of it? To have made much as it did is remarkable.

When those who conspired to bring about this regrettable situation as why has not the League settled the problems of peace, they ought to ask why they themselves did not help it do so. The question can be answered by advocates of the League. It ought to be answered by its enemies at Washington. It will become a group of a party of an administration that has helped to contribute to the present deplorable situation to belittle the method or the policy that would have avoided the situation.

A SMALLER LEGISLATURE

From the Houston Chronicle.

The senate joint resolution, introduced by Senator Baugh, providing for a reduction of the membership of the senate to 25 and of the house to 75, should meet no objection in either body.

The Chronicle inclines to believe that 31 members is not too large a number in the senate, and has in the recent past advocated a reduction of the membership of the house to 62, or two members from each senatorial district, but there need not be any sticking over the exact extent of the reduction, but reduction there should be.

The best and highest interests of the state imperatively demand it. A membership in the house of 150 is inexcusable and harmful large. The overwhelming flood of bills introduced already in conclusive evidence of that fact.

It is impossible for 150 men to legislate as speedily and as efficient as would 62 men or even 75 men.

The greater the number, the greater the diversity of views, and the larger the number of incompetents. By electing two members from each senatorial district, the field of selection being larger, the choice would be far less influenced by local issues having no relevancy for the performance of legislative duties.

No impeachment of the patriotism or integrity of conviction of any legislator is intended when it is said that any member who votes against a reduction of the membership of the house will grievously err against the public interest.

The present membership is cumbersome, unwieldy and its efficiency is by that fact greatly lessened, and the best efforts of efficient members are thwarted by those who neither by education nor experience are fitted for the duties of legislation.

PERSUING THE PERJURER

From the Dallas News.

Perjury is an ugly crime. Perhaps none is uglier. The prevalence of it in the trial of criminal causes is a matter within the experience of those who frequent the courts with any regularity whatever. A bill recently introduced in the legislature seeks to make it easier for the state to convict the perjurer. At present when a man swears to one statement before a grand jury and to its opposite before the trial jury it is obvious that he is a perjurer. But the burden on the state in prosecuting him for perjury goes beyond establishing the fact that he swore to contradictory testimony on two occasions. The purpose of the proposed law is to relieve the state of the burden of electing which of the versions of the perjurer it will hold to be true and which it will hold to be false. Surely the bill ought to have the sympathetic consideration of the legislature.

Of course the theory of the requirement of the courts at present is that the defendant ought to have a clear knowledge of what he is charged with before he is required to come into court and defend himself. But frequently, where he swears in one place that an event took place, he himself is the sole eyewitness to that event. The fact of his perjury, which is the body of his crime, is established by the contradictions in his testimony. On the issue as to which of the versions is true he has better information than the state, and his defense is in no way embarrassed by the failure of the state to elect on that issue.

Th gradual elimination of smooth dodges such as this by which are defeated the efforts of the law to catch up with deliberate criminals is perhaps the chief basis for hope that we will in time come into a just administration of criminal law. Hitherto the development has been largely in the effort to obtain justice for the criminal and the man falsely charged with crime. But the state is entitled to justice also. And the punishment of perjury is a step toward justice for all.

They say bandits in Mexico are courteous. Well, once in a while you find a courteous hat-checking boy in that country.

ABOVEBOARD WITH THE BOYS

William H. Morgan's Remarks to a Woman Who Questioned His Habit of Smoking.

William H. Morgan, who conducts one of the best boys' camps in Maine, has studied human nature in both boys and men, and knows just what to expect of people. The mother of a boy at his camp noticed that several of the instructors smoked and she wondered if this wasn't setting a bad example to growing boys. Mr. Morgan replied, remarks Collier's:

"Regardless of what we may think about the propriety of smoking, we are obliged to recognize the fact that the majority of active men do smoke. If you select instructors who do not smoke you limit your field and may have to do without other desirable qualities. Or if you ask men accustomed to smoking suddenly to change their habits and do without tobacco for two months, the chances are that they will slip away and smoke when nobody is looking. The boys are bound to learn of this and then they have the example of men doing things on the sly, which is infinitely more harmful than the example of smoking would be. I don't care anything about smoking myself, but I do fight a cigarette occasionally before the boys so that they won't think that maybe I smoke only in secret. Nothing is so important for a boy as to learn to do whatever he does do in the open."

PARTICULAR ABOUT HER VEIL

Rummage Saleswoman Learned Something From Woman Customer She Failed to Please.

The Woman Who Sees had had no acquaintance with rummage sales other than seeing such posted signs, so when she was asked to be such a saleswoman she was puzzled. Her table was covered with scraps of silk, lace, velvet, beaded collar and cuff sets and things in their category. Late in the afternoon a dear old lady, wearing an expensive Persian lamb coat, came up to her and asked if she had any gray veils. The Woman Who Sees said that she had, and immediately produced one from among the veil pile.

"This is a very pretty one, and it has a deep, lacy border; it ought to look well on you, it is such a good-looking taupe shade."

The dear old lady held the veil up to her face, and asked how much it was.

"Eight cents, madam."

"But isn't it too gray for me, dear? No, I shouldn't think so. Besides, it is the best veil I have here; no holes in it, and scarcely worn."

The old lady fussed a bit, smiled, and walked away. But in ten minutes she had returned and said, "Dear, I'm afraid the color is too deep for my skin. Thank you."—Exchange.

Learned Methods of Eagle.

Making the young eagle scream is one of the most trying duties of the father bird, and it would never learn to fly if it wasn't starved into it. Francis H. Herrick of Cleveland, Ohio, lived in a tree for two months to learn these and other inside facts on the domestic life of eagles, according to a paper he read at the meeting of the American Ornithologists' union at Field museum. Mr. Herrick said he observed from a tree house the hatching of two eagles and their early life. The youngsters were tantalized into their first screaming by their father and mother, which soared above them with fish in their talons. The young eagles learned to fly by the starvation system also, he said.—Chicago Tribune.

John Galsworthy.

John Galsworthy looks like a family lawyer or a high court judge. He is clean shaven, urbane, genial, but certainly not expansive. His voice is low, and it is difficult to believe that he could ever be violent or provocative or even excited. He may find many things in life that are cruel and unjust, but he declines to be angry about it. There is an entire absence of "side" (I know no polite term as expressive as this vulgarism) about John Galsworthy. He is not effusive, but he is modest and gently kindly. He is precise in his dress, and neatness characterizes his appearance as well as his writing. I imagine that few people have ever called Mr. Galsworthy Jack!—Sidney Dark in John o' London's weekly.

The Teaching Spirit.

One of the most important things a training school can do is to get teachers into the spirit of their jobs. Training schools cannot send out teachers imbued with the spirit of their jobs, having pride in their profession, and a belief in teaching as a life career unless they develop a love and consecration to their work. It is the lack of this spirit which is responsible for the unwillingness of young teachers to do the work of the rank and file, and diplomas should be refused those who lack it.—Principal Olive Jones, New York City.

Mutes Hold Congress.

The Latin love of gesticulation had full play in Rome at the first national congress of deaf-and-dumb Italians, the delegates to which represent 40,000 deaf mutes throughout the country. Eloquent and lengthy speeches were delivered, but not a sound was heard. The speakers used only their fingers. The congress wants compulsory free education for all their kind.

PROPOSES BARK FOR FUEL

Properly Prepared, According to One Who Should Know, It Could Be Substituted for Coal.

In a report to the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry, which has been holding its annual meeting at Detroit, George D. Bearce, engineer for the News Print Service bureau, described experiments on the substitution of wood bark, properly prepared, for coal, stating that the "enormous quantity of pulp wood which is used in the paper business is evidence of its potential fuel value to the industry."

The quantity of bark in pulp wood, said Mr. Bearce, amounts to approximately ten per cent of the volume and weight of the rough wood, or 250 pounds of dry bark per cord of wood. One hundred cords of pulp wood represents approximately 25,000 pounds of dry bark that has a fuel value equal to eight tons of coal, if the moisture of the bark is reduced by one-half. The heating value, Mr. Bearce stated, increases greatly if the moisture content of the bark is lessened.

A large number of mills using pulp wood were visited or questioned by Mr. Bearce and the committee which he headed. Many stated that they considered the bark of little value. Tests made for the committee showed that two types of processes were able to reduce the moisture content to about 60 per cent, and that it would be necessary to have at least 50 per cent of the moisture removed if the bark were to serve as a suitable substitute for coal. Special draft conditions, a grate surface giving correct combustion, and refractory walls to dry out the moisture are required, said Mr. Bearce.

Under these conditions it was held by the committee that the bark could be used as fuel and thus effect a saving of a large amount of coal.

MAN HAS MADE NEW FRIEND

South Africa Reported to Have Developed New Animal Entitled to Distinctive Phrase.

A new friend of man has been found. This good news was announced by Professor Myers at the congress of the scientific association recently held at Hull, England.

This animal, not foreseen by Noah, is a dog. But a singular dog, which inhabits Rhodesia, and which, on account of the abundant mane that adorns his neck and shoulders, and also because of his moral qualities, has been named the "dog-lion." The inhabitants from South Africa had already begun to despair, so much had the wild beasts been multiplying there. The birth rate of the lion, in particular, according to reports, was incomparable. But now this dog-lion has appeared.

He was still in the state of possibility in the course of nature when illustrious experimenters and savants resolved to combine an animal which joined to the lion's force and courage the fidelity of the dog.

And now that the dog-lion has been launched the true lions are taking fright. They do not recognize this false brother and flout by a drop of their royal blood flows in his veins; for they had not thought themselves so cowardly, and they ask themselves if their reputation is not a little overdone. The other pursues them, closes them round, and compels them to run.

Queer.

For twenty years no visitors were allowed in the Mellon home in Milwaukee. Firemen broke in. They found the place a dog temple. Nine mummified dogs, expensively draped, lay in state in the candle-lighted parlor. In an upstairs room a queen dog presided over eight living dogs, blinded by lack of light. It all sounds like some weird religious rite.

No one would think it queer, however, if the Mellons had kept mounded fish, deer heads or animal pelts instead of dog mummies. The strangest things in the universe are inside the human skull. The brain is so complicated that no one understands it, not even the owner.—Chicago Evening Post.

A Vanishing Art.

Postal busybodies have been weighing letters and have found that their average weight is decreasing. From this the conclusion is drawn that the public is writing shorter letters than it did in other days.

This is confirmatory information, not news. The art of letter writing has been decadent for more than a generation.

There has been a conspiracy of reasons to bring this to pass. Perhaps the most important is that we live too busy lives to spend time filling reams of good white paper with our opinions, observations and knowledge, if we have any. What is more, letters of the ancient volume and content are not likely to be read any more than written.

Fled From Volcano.

The volcano of Stromboli, the island off the southeast coast of Italy, is very active. Ashes, cinders and incandescent stones are being flung high into the air, while rivers of white-hot lava are flowing down the sides of the mountain, which is 3,040 feet high. By day a smoke-cap and by night the glow of the crater can be seen for many miles at sea. Deep underground rumblings are heard and earthquake shocks are taking place. The few people who live on the mountain left their homes and rushed to the shore, whence they embarked for the mainland.

Austin, Texas, Feb. 7.—Extension of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe railroad from Somerville to San Antonio will be discussed at a conference of representatives of towns along the proposed route here in the near future. Mrs. Sharp Declares Daughter Helpless for Months, Restored by Tania—Gains 45 Pounds.

"My daughter, who is now eighteen, says 'Tania and mamma' are the dearest friends she has," recently stated Mrs. H. A. Sharpe, 2504 N street, Richmond, Va.

"Alma first began to have slight trouble with her stomach and soon rheumatism developed all over her body. When she began taking Tania she had been in bed seven months and was as helpless as an infant. She grew so pale and thin it brought tears to my eyes, for I had little hope of her getting well.

"After a few doses of Tania she asked for something to eat and soon she was sleeping better and complaining less. Her improvement from then on was rapid and I was the happiest woman in the world when I saw her health was restored. She now weighs one hundred and forty-five pounds, which makes a gain of forty-five pounds, and her cheeks are like roses. Tania will have my life long praise."

Tania is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

WHOM JOHN BULL OWES

The rate of interest to be paid by John Bull on the debt he owes Uncle Sam makes argument between the two. The British refunding commission naturally came to our country seeking a low rate of interest. Uncle Sam's side is this:

The money loaned to Britain was provided by selling Liberty Bonds. Uncle Sam has to pay, to the owners of these bonds, certain rates of interest. If Britain pays less than that rate, the rest of the interest will have to be raised by taxing Americans. The British debt is owed, primarily, to our Liberty Bond owners.

BOOSTER MEETING

Notwithstanding the temperature was at the freezing mark, the Booster Club held its regular weekly luncheon at the Lockey Tea Room Monday night with only a few absent.

A. T. Mast being in charge of the program for this meeting entertained the boys for something less than thirty minutes with many valuable suggestions for the future welfare of the Club.

Committees on several matters reported on the progress of their work, and while their plans are not yet complete, they will be at an early date and the public will be able to see some more of the things being accomplished by the Boosters.

One of the important matters brought up was an adequate fire alarm system for our town. Realizing that we have one of the most efficient volunteer fire departments to be found anywhere, a committee was appointed to confer with the city council with a view of prevailing upon them to install an up-to-date fire alarm system, which will add much to the efficiency of our fire department and also mean a reduction in the fire insurance key rate of our town.

Mention was made of the few remaining old front yard fences on Mound and North Streets. Most of the property owners on these two prominent streets having realized the attractiveness to be added to their homes and lawns by the removal of these old fences. We hope within the next few days to see those who have not yet removed theirs joining in to assist in making Mound and North streets still more attractive.

YOUNG FRIEND! IF GEORGE WASHINGTON COULD RISE FROM HIS GRAVE ON HIS BIRTHDAY, THE 22ND OF THIS MONTH

And see our cities at midnight lighted as bright as day, hear the whirl of the electric car, talk over the wireless telephone, send a message by wireless to a ship far out at sea, examine his own bones with an X-ray, view the sunny plains and canals of Mars through a telescope, take a flight from America to Europe in an airship, and return under the waters of the ocean in a submarine, get run over by an automobile running ninety miles an hour—but what's the use going back a hundred years? A system of Shorthand and Bookkeeping thirty years old is of but little use today.

As the steamship has crowded out the sail boat, as the typewriter the goose quill pen and the pokeberry ink, so have the famous Byrnes systems of Bookkeeping, Business Training and Shorthand taken the place of the old systems, and the Tyler Commercial College with its modern progressive business methods has taken its place at the head of the American business training schools. The reason is plain; these systems cut in half the time and cost of becoming an expert accountant or stenographer; they teach business as well as bookkeeping; they make it possible for the student to graduate and begin earning while the student of other systems is less than half through his course; they give the student a more thorough practical working knowledge which means a higher salary and the college has kept abreast of the times and met the demands of the most exacting business office.

These practical, modern, time-saving systems can be had in this section only in the Tyler Commercial College. You would not think of riding in a horse-drawn vehicle in preference to an automobile. Then why think of studying the old oxcart systems of accounting and stenography when you can get the Byrnes Systems which possess such wonderful advantages that they enabled the management of the Tyler Commercial College to build the largest business training school in America, with an annual enrollment of four thousand.

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

The eighth Biennial General Convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Presbyterian Church in the United States will meet in six Regional centers as follows: Houston, Texas, Feb. 13-14; Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 15-16; Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 20-21; Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 22-23; Richmond, Va., Feb. 27-28; Huntington, W. Va., March 1-2, 1923.

5621 registered delegates attended the Regional Conventions in 1921. This so far exceeded the attendance of any single convention that we feel the Regional plan is more than justified.

Because every church needs a world field. We want to study larger maps.

Why a Convention?

Because every church needs a world field. We want to study larger maps.

Because every man needs a vision. "He who has a task without a vision is a drudge." At all previous conventions scores have caught a real vision—a vision abiding through the years transforming men's thinking, giving, living. We believe that with God's help the approaching conventions shall be no exception.

We can promise a constructive convention. Vital questions affecting the life and progress of our church will be faced and seriously considered. We will hear from the Permanent Committee on Men's Work appointed by our assembly. This committee is now diligently considering all phases of men's activities and will unquestionably present a constructive and aggressive program that will call for our best effort.

We will hear from our foreign fields, from men who know what they know and how to make it known. We will hear from our field in the Southland, and from men who have a thrilling story to tell of how God is winning men by the old, old method of using men and their testimony. The South is leading our country today in aggressive evangelism by laymen.

The program will be strong. Already a sufficient number of speakers of spiritual vision and power have accepted our invitation to assure our program being not one whit behind our former conventions.

We are glad to announce that the Woman's Auxiliary will hold Parallel Conventions in every city at the same time for the women of our church. The same plan will be pursued as at our former conventions. The women meet separately in the day sessions, and both conventions unite for the evening sessions. Mrs. W. C. Winnsborough, the superintendent of the Women's Auxiliary, will be in charge and is enthusiastically enlisting the co-operation and support of the women. Mrs. Winnsborough will spend several weeks this winter in Southern Texas and Mexico and will return in time to bring a full report of her personal observation of our greatly enlarged and rapidly developing work in Mexico and also among the Mexicans in Texas.

We are promised 25 percent reduction in round trip railroad rates. This makes it possible for a large attendance.

The convention will be self-entertaining, as heretofore. The registration fee is $2. Circulars will be issued in regard to railroad rates, hotel accommodations, etc. These will be gladly mailed upon application.

Executive Committee.

INCOME TAX FACTS NO. 1

Revenue officers are visiting every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in the preparation of their income tax returns for the year 1922. Information concerning the date of their arrival and the location of their offices may be obtained by writing the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives.

Forms for filing returns of individual net income for the year 1922 are being sent to taxpayers who filed returns for the year 1921. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15, 1923. The forms, 1040A for filing returns of net income $5,000 or less, and 1040 for filing returns of net income in excess of $5,000, may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors.

Returns are required of ever single person whose net income for 1922 was $1,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more and of every married person whose net income was $2,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more. Careful study of the instructions on the forms will greatly aid in making a correct return.

No doubt the capitalistic system seems worse while you are a part of it than it does after you are deported to Russia.

TO OUR FARMERS

On next Wednesday, February 21, Mr. J. C. Pridmore of the Southern Soil Improvement Association, headquarters at Shreveport, La., will deliver three lectures on "Soil Improvement and Soil Building," in Nacogdoches county. Prof. Pridmore is one of the leading authorities on soils in the entire South. He has made it a life time study. His lectures consist not in a jumble of high-sounding words and phrases, but in simple, everyday farm terms easily understood by anyone. Also, he uses physical equipment to illustrate his teachings so that his hearers can "see" what he is saying as well as hear his words.

The first lecture will be given at Melrose and will begin at 9 o'clock. The exact spot on which the lecture is to be given will be arranged by a committee composed of J. M. Stallings and Bob Stripling.

This committee will probably select a spot on some farm near the school house.

The second lecture will be given on the farm of Tom Maroney, 3 miles east of Nacogdoches. This lecture will be given at 2:30 p. m.

The third lecture will be given at 7:30 p. m. at Appleby. This lecture will be given in some room or place to be named by a committee composed of Joe F. Slay and D. L. Campbell.

There is no expense of any nature or kind connected with any of these lectures. They are free and are given for the benefit of the farmer who wants to know how to handle his soils, how to fertilize different kinds of soil so as to secure the biggest yields of the various crops grown in this county.

The farmer who listens to Mr. Pridmore's lecture and then feels that his time would have been worth more if put in on his farm work will be paid a reasonable wage for the time spent at the lecture.

Hear this man tell the story of the soil and its needs.

MORE ABOUT OLD FENCES

It is only with pride that the attention of the property owners along Mound and North streets is called to the old front yard fences still standing.

In our clean-up campaign during the fall of 1922 an appeal was made to those along these two streets to assist in beautifying their homes and lawns by the removal of these old fences. Many of the property owners, not only on these two streets but elsewhere in town, unhesitatingly complied with this request, there being only a few still remaining, some of which have no gate, in many instances an opening which is used as a driveway, thereby rendering the remaining portion of the old fence absolutely useless. We would indeed be pleased to see these good citizens join in this movement for the civic pride of our town.

FREEZE GOOD FOR FARMERS

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 5.—The freezing weather, accompanied by rain, sleet and snow, which swept Texas Sunday killed millions of crop pests in the northern section, where the mercury registered around 20 above, according to the Dallas Weather Bureau. It was also of immense value to winter wheat and put the soil in fine condition for spring plowing. The cold in the Panhandle was of such short duration that range cattle suffered very little. Citrus fruit and garden truck in the Lower Rio Grande Valley escaped with little if any damage.

Heavy Snowfall

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 5.—Snow is reported in West Texas four to six inches deep, in East Texas six to seven inches and in the Central part of the state about two inches. A coating of ice is reported in the vicinity of Houston and Beaumont along the Gulf Coast.

A report from Orange said 50 prisoners in the county jail were saved from suffering by removal to the jury room. Arrangements are under way to obtain bond for them through United States authorities, a large number being federal prisoners arrested by prohibition officers.

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 5.—One man was killed and two injured this morning when a Katy passenger train struck an automobile at a grade crossing in South Fort Worth. J. C. Cockrell was killed and his son, Alfred, critically hurt.

Alfred Cockrell died in a hospital, making two dead. W. S. Goodwin, the other occupant of the automobile, is not expected to live.

PHYSICAL INSPECTIONS NECESSARY TO HEALTH

Austin, Texas, Feb. 3.—"The time is now at hand when every person in Texas should have an inspection of their physical machinery," said D. E. Breed, executive secretary, Texas Public Health Association.

A periodic physical examination by your physician at least once a year is one of the best methods of combating tuberculosis and other preventable diseases. At these examinations one is enabled to have located minor defects and have them corrected before they become serious. Out of the average group of one hundred men, women and children, 70 percent will have various defects and impairments of the body ranging from minor infection of the teeth to a serious condition of the lungs or heart.

If an inspection of your body reveals some slight impairment that can be remedied at a very little expense think what a saving would be accomplished if it was remedied at once. If allowed to develop it might develop into tuberculosis or some other disease that would take hundreds of dollars to cure or treat. The time to prevent disease from sapping your vitality is before it gets a foothold. You will find it much better to pay a doctor to keep you well rather than pay him to get you well.

Wichita, Kas., Feb. 5.—Thirty-one were injured, some perhaps fatally, and four others are believed to have died in an early morning blaze which destroyed the Getto building, a landmark here. The cause of the fire is undetermined. The flames cut off escape by the stairway and many occupants of the four-story building slid down ropes.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 5.—It is "hardly respectable nowadays to ignore bad eyes," says Albert H. Hill, superintendent of city schools, in an interview just issued.

The Virginia educator reviews the success of the Richmond medical department in combatting defective vision, and advocates prompt attention to the slightest eye trouble.

"Our medical department was established in 1911," Superintendent Hill says. "In the first year of our work we found sixteen and one-half percent of all the children examined had eye defects sufficiently pronounced to require treatment. As a result of persistent testing and treatment we now find that in any one year about 7.6 percent of the pupils examined need treatment."

"In our first year of work we were enabled to have only 35.1 percent of the children who needed treatment treated. The average number treated for the past ten years, however, is 85.5 percent. This includes, of course, several treatments for some of the children."

"Too much care and attention cannot be given to the conservation of the eyesight of the pupils, and many failures can be eliminated if proper treatment is sought and sought quickly. The indifference to eye trouble is growing less, I am glad to say, and it is hardly respectable nowadays to ignore such troubles."

CHOOSING GOOD-LOOKERS

Austin, Texas, Feb. 5.—Florenz Ziegfeld will select the eight most beautiful girls in the University of Texas this year to be presented in the Bluebonnet Belle Section of the Cactus, the college year book. Maurice Angley, of Palestine, is editor of the Cactus and has arranged to have the forty most beautiful girls in school to be selected from the various dormitories, sororities and other women's organizations. Three poses of each of the girls selected will be sent to Flo Ziegfeld, and he has promised to make the final selection of eight girls.

NACOGDOCHES GIRLS ARE LISTED ON HONOR ROLL

Official announcement of the University of Texas honor roll for the fall term was made last week by Dean H. Y. Benedict of the College of Arts and Sciences.

"The object of this honor list is to commend officially one-tenth (approximately) of the student body, that tenth whose grades during the term rank them scholastically above the remaining nine-tenths. This 'top' tenth is subdivided into five groups, the students in each group being listed alphabetically," Dean Benedict declared.

In the first group is found the name of Miss Mildred Beall, who ranks among the best 37 out of 3,032 students, and in the second group Miss Elizabeth Tucker is listed among the best 97 out of 3,032 students. This splendid record of our Nacogdoches girls is very gratifying to their many friends here.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Investigation by the United States Court of Claims of the alleged damages claimed by about 285 cotton oil companies in the South, aggregating around $6,000,000, for losses in crushing cotton seed upon government orders during the war was proposed in a bill by Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

The Civil War between the Confederate States and the United States formally ended in April, 1865, but bad feelings lasted for months after that. It was a bitter dose for the South to swallow the humiliation and oppression produced by the surrender. It was not in accordance with Southern chivalry to lick the hand that smote the victim.

At Nacogdoches and other points in Texas there was an outcropping of resentment prevalent among the residents, stimulated and inspired by the various conditions and consequences of the subjugation.

At first the Southern States undertook to resume their former place in the Union, by acquiescence in and obedience to their former laws and formalities.

The counties adopted the modes of election of officers. In Nacogdoches county R. D. Orton was elected sheriff, L. S. Taylor county clerk, J. E. Mayfield district clerk. But the federal authorities knocked all this out by disfranchising and removing such officials, and setting up a provisional government, filling all offices with loyal appointees. Dr. M. J. Graham was appointed county clerk. He was a young surgeon in the U. S. army. James Clark, an ex-U. S. soldier was appointed district clerk. There was also an appointed board of state rangers or police under Governor E. J. Davis' authority. And there were many appointees from the North sent here to make us be good. We called them carpetbaggers.

A board of registration of three loyal non-residents made a formal list of loyal voters. This list included negroes, and a small percentage of whites who were selected by the whims of the board. But the old time voter was not in it. When elections were held U. S. soldiers were stationed at the polls to see that no rebellious obstructions were used to prevent the negroes and other loyal voters were prevented from voting and to prevent the ex-Confederate from voting. A black man, T. J. Finley, was elected county commissioner of precinct No. 1. Another black man, Fields, was elected school superintendent. They made no trouble.

Two U. S. Military companies were stationed on the grounds where the H. E. & W. T. freight depot now stands, and after several months, these were removed and others came. These soldiers and officers kept peace and order. They were not oppressive but the head officers made their authority observed. The ex-Confederates regarded them as unfriendly. However, some of these became loyal and stood in with that side. A few frictions occurred, and at times serious troubles were feared, but soon vanished. Several arrests were made by the soldiers, but they were not pressed far.

This was under what was called the provisional state government, appointed by U. S. authorities. It was succeeded by elective system, by vote of loyal enfranchised citizens. It was generally spoken of by the name of E. J. Davis rule. Under this the Linn Flat riot occurred. It would require pages to recite this Linn Flat war. It was due mainly to bad conduct on the part of the state police in the Davis administration. It was quiet a serious and extensive trouble. But of course it finally subsided, under the guidance of conciliatory democratic leaders. Dick Orton was sheriff and his conservatism was one of the influences that brought order. Esquith Murph, the sage of Linn Flat, was in the hot bed of the disturbance, and is one of the few survivors who witness the scenes. He wrote it up, and knows more about it than any one living. Rev. L. S. Baumco was there. John B. Nelson was a late volunteer aid to the sheriff. He rode a borrowed horse.

BODY OF SON THROWN IN FRONT OF FATHER'S HOME

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 1.—Police have started a search for the unidentified man who drove an automobile up to the curb in front of the residence of J. A. Horner early today and threw the body of his son, Valera, on the sidewalk after summoning the father from his bed. The car sped away before the father could question the occupant.

FORTY-NINE YEARS AGO

Folks boiled coffee and settled it with an egg. Little Johnnie wore brass-toed boots and Daddy wore brogans. Leeches operated more frequently than the surgeon's knife. When the preacher said the truth the people said Amen. Left-over noon victuals were finished at supper time. Neighbors asked about your family and meant it. Merry-Go-Rounds were called Flying Jennies. Folks used tooth picks and were still polite. A tin cup of red liquor sold for five cents. Ladies' dresses reached from their necks to their heels. Hogs were slopped on buttermilk. It took twenty minutes to shine shoes with Mason's blacking. People served pot liquor instead of canned soup. Only crooks on record were lightning rod agents. Indigestion was called plain belly-ache.

Quinine was taken in coffee, molasses or tissue paper. The Kaiser was wearing knickers. Vermillion was used as hearth paint instead of face paint. Babies were rocked in cradles without adding their brains. Doctors worked their patients instead of patients working them. Men played mumble-peg instead of poker. The neighbors all got fresh meat at hog killing time. Cotton seed was considered a good fertilizer. And men made the same wife do a life time.—Exchange.

DISAPPROVE RATES

Washington, Feb. 1.—Increases amounting to approximately 7 percent in freight rates on fruits, melons, and vegetables from the Southeast to Indiana, Ohio and New York consuming points were declared unreasonable and unjustified by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The railroads proposed to make the rates effective March 4. They were ordered to maintain the present schedules. The increases would have affected a large volume of traffic from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

SOME "MIGHTY" SALARIES

The mighty of this earth do not seem to be faring as well as in former times. Lenine's salary, under present rates of exchange, is equivalent to only $12 a week. Trotzky is getting the same. President Ebert of Germany, has a salary of 300,000 marks a year. That's less than 35 cents a week. When gloomy, say, "Oh, well, I earn more than those big fellows over yonder."

LADY WAS IN A BAD FIX FROM NERVOUS INDIGESTION

"Blotz, Miss.—I had, for a year or more, nervous indigestion, or some form of stomach trouble," says Mrs. Alonzo Ford, 1117 Clay Street, this city. "The water I drank at that time seemed to constipate me. I would suffer until I got so nervous I wanted to get down on the floor and roll. I felt like I could tear my clothes."

"Every night, and night after night, I had to take something for a laxative, and it had to be kept up nightly. My side would pain. I looked awful. My skin was sallow and seemed spotted. I would look at my hands and arms, and the flesh looked lifeless."

"I happened to get a Birthday Almanac, so I told my husband I would try the Black-Draught, which I did. I took a few big doses. I felt much better. My liver acted well. I made a good, warm tea and drank it that way. Soon I found that nervous, tight feeling was going, as was the pain in my side. I found I did not have to take it every night. Soon, after a few weeks, I could leave it off for a week or so, and I did not suffer with constipation. . . I gained flesh. I have a good color, and believe it was a stubborn liver, and that Black-Draught did the work."

"I went to my mother's (Mrs. Deeters) one day, and she wasn't well at all. . . I told her we'd try Black-Draught. We did, and now she keeps it to take after eating. It certainly helped her, and we neither will be without it in our homes. It is so simple, and the dose can be regulated as the case may be. We use small doses after meals for indigestion, and larger doses for headache or bad liver."

HIGH RAILROAD OFFICIALS VISIT NACOGDOCHES

A special train running over the H. E. & W. T. and T. & N. O. and carrying the "Guadalupe," private car of Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific system, and the "Alamo," private car of President W. R. Scott of the Texas & Louisiana Lines of the Southern Pacific, stopped here a short time Thursday. The train was met at the station by Secretary-Manager H. L. McKnight of the Chamber of Commerce, D. K. Cason, T. E. Baker, John Schmidt, Robert Lindsey, J. H. Buchanan and Agent D. A. Washburn.

President Scott invited the committee aboard the "Guadalupe," introduced them to Mr. Kruttschnitt, with the statement, "These gentlemen are among the best friends the S. P. has anywhere."

In addition to Messrs Kruttschnitt and Scott the party contained Chief Engineer Lull of the Texas lines, R. T. Walker, superintendent of the E. & W., Henry Micksch, superintendent of the Sabine-Dallas division of the T. & N. O., and other division officials.

Both Mr. Kruttschnitt and President Scott expressed keen interest in the ballasting of the T. & N. O. which is now under way. Mr. Kruttschnitt, speaking of the undertaking, said "We are very anxious to get this big task finished. It is going well, though somewhat slower than we anticipated. You see it required some time to locate the material out of which we are making this ballast. Then it required time to burn it. And finally it requires several months for the material to cool so we can handle it. We do not want any more mud railroads. We mean to have a good foundation under all our rails."

Assurance was given by these officials that as soon as the ballasting of this line is complete, through fast trains will be put on the Sabine-Dallas division between Dallas and Beaumont.

This will mean much to the people of Nacogdoches. Among other advantages it will shorten the time required to make a trip to Dallas by a day and night.

The career of W. R. Scott, president of the Louisiana and Texas lines of the S. P. system, is another evidence that there is "room at the top." Mr. Scott has fought his way step by step from the ranks to his present position of directing head of 3,745 miles of one of the biggest railway systems in the country. In addition to his great executive ability, Mr. Scott is one of the gentlest of men with the ease and grace of the scholar and gentleman.

The career of Mr. Kruttschnitt reads almost like a romance. His first railroad experience was as a telegrapher. His rise has therefore been from "the ranks." His position as chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific System is proof positive that he is a man of wonderful capacity. The young man of today who wondering perhaps, if there really is any chance for promotion for the man of the ranks will do well to study the career of men like Mr. Kruttschnitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Roberts and baby boy, who are living in Arizona, arrived in the city Saturday for a visit with the former's father, E. M. Roberts.

VALUABLE RECIPE
The Sentinel has been furnished by a Nacogdoches friend with the following recipe:

Having been asked very often recently for a method of removing the salt from mackerel or other fish put up in salt water or brine, I wrote to the State Board for Vocational Training at Austin, and also to one of America's largest packers of salt fish for the above information. Both courses very kindly and promptly sent me a recipe for removing the salt; and reduced on one recipe as follows:

First—Thoroughly wash such salt fish in hot water; then place said fish with skin turned up into a dish large enough to hold the fish and two gallons of fresh water for every pound of fish you have. Allow the fish to soak from 12 to 24 hours, changing the water from three to four times during that period. Then prepare to suit and a very palatable fish is assured.

Believing many readers of the Sentinel will be glad to know this, I for one will thank you to publish it at your earliest convenience.

"SERVICE ABOVE SELF"

Did you ever stop to think of the meaning of this phrase? Well, any way, ask some of the good ladies of the Civic Club of this town, or any other town for that matter, ask the chamber of commerce members, ask the Booster's Club, ask the Rotarian and, above all, ask the members of the Volunteer Fire Department.

The Volunteer boys were entertained by the Nacogdoches Rotary Club at a luncheon at the Lockey Tea Rooms 7 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. January 31st, and the Rotarians felt themselves honored in having these men as their guests and throughout the entire meeting the pleasure was unlimited.

Although a regular meeting of the Rotary Club all business matters were suspended and all present abandoned themselves to the spirit of good-fellowship and "get together."

The luncheon in itself was up to the Lockey standard, and who in Nacogdoches does not know the delight of one of Mrs. Lockey's banquet luncheons.

Robert Lindsey, the Handy Andy of Rotary, acted as master of ceremonies, and carried the affair through to conclusion in the manner known only to Andy himself.

R. F. Davis, acting president of the Nacogdoches Rotary Club, acted as toastmaster and acquitted himself throughout in the usual "Flatfork Bob" style.

After thanks had been returned by Rotarian C. D. Atwell the Rotary Orchestra rendered several delightful selections and as this orchestra has attained celebrity not only through the state of Texas, but even to the Pacific coast as the best organization of its kind, it may readily be believed their music was of the best. Rotarian John Crawford sang "In the Old Town Hall," and his singing added happiness to the gathering.

Our own H. L. McKnight (Rotarian Hye) was then introduced and responded in his inimitable manner, delightful from start to finish, filled with wit and humor, song and verse, even a pathos that stirred the emotions of all present.

Mr. McKnight was followed by Rotarian T. E. Baker, who gave a delightful talk in reminiscence of the old bucket-brigade days, telling instances which occurred when the town was protected only by the use of well water supported by fire water and galvanized pails.

Dr. A. A. Nelson then gave a very pleasant talk.

At the beginning of the affair each fireman present had called upon to stand and Mr. Lindsey, assisted by Mrs. Lockey, and several Rotary members, pinned a lovely carnation on the lapel of each fireman's coat and at the close of Dr. Nelson's talk it was discovered that he was celebrating his 25th wedding anniversary and that it was also his birthday; therefore, the doctor was given a carnation.

Mr. Guy Blount was then called upon and responded in a brief but most pleasing way, putting out some facts and driving home the importance of recognizing the firemen, as they should be recognized, in the most forcible way.

Captain Sturdevant was then called upon and gave a very interesting talk, recounting some of the incidents of the fire service, bringing before all present the fact that a number of these men now in the service had served eight years and longer; also the fact that these men are serving the city unstintedly without pay, ready for service at any hour—in fact "rearing to go" all the time.

To cap the climax, Mr. Lindsey was asked to name the closing feature of the program and he called upon Mr. McKnight to present a bouquet of carnations to Dr. Nelson in behalf of Mrs. Nelson; this was done in a manner which could not have been surpassed. It was brought clearly before all present that the Volunteer Firemen of Nacogdoches are following the Rotary motto of "Service Above Self" in the most unselfish manner.

Miss Rosalind Stripling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stripling, has applied for a position as chemist in the State Health Department at Austin. This talented young lady graduated from the Nacogdoches High School at the age of 15, went to the State University to continue her studies, and at the age of 19 years was awarded the B. A. degree of that institution. She has delved deep into the science of chemistry, which she will make her life work, and all her Nacogdoches friends are confident she will attain to a high place in her chosen field.

At the beginning of the affair each fireman present had called upon to stand and Mr. Lindsey, assisted by Mrs. Lockey, and several Rotary members, pinned a lovely carnation on the lapel of each fireman's coat and at the close of Dr. Nelson's talk it was discovered that he was celebrating his 25th wedding anniversary and that it was also his birthday; therefore, the doctor was given a carnation.

Mr. Edison Proves to You

Mr. Edison doesn't want you to buy his phonograph on a "hunch." He gives you proof positive that the New Edison should be your one and logical choice.

Over 3,000 times, before over 3,000,000 people, the New Edison has successfully sustained the test of direct comparison with the living artists.

No other phonograph has dared this test. Draw your own conclusions. Then come and hear an exact replica of the instrument used in these startling tests.

ANOTHER HOUSTON WOMAN EXPRESSES GRATITUDE FOR HEALTH RESTORED

SHOOK LIKE SHE HAD PALSY

"I Don't Know What I Should Have Done If It Hadn't Been for Stella Vitae."

"I was in such a terrible condition when I began taking Stella Vitae I don't know what I should have done without this wonderful treatment," said Mrs. Theo Harris of 1012 Harris street, Houston, Texas.

"I had suffered for a long time from irregular periods and was constantly in misery from which it looked like I never could get free. My head would ache fit to burst for days at a time and those griping pains all about my stomach would nearly drive me distracted. My lower limbs would ache and I would feel so weak I couldn't stand, my nerves would go all to pieces so the least little thing would excite me and set me to shaking and trembling like I had the palsy.

It seems to me I have taken about everything there is on the druggist's shelves trying to get something that would ease my pains and straighten me out, but all in vain. Finally I got hold of Stella Vitae, through hearing it talked about so much, and I felt so much better that I knew I had found what I needed at last. I have kept it up and now I feel like a new person. My periods are regular and those awful pains are gone. I recommend Stella Vitae with all my heart and wish I could get every suffering woman just to try it."

Note.—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief.

WOODMEN WILL MEET IN DISTRICT COURT ROOM

The Woodmen of the World will meet Tuesday night in the district court room, the lodge room being too small to accommodate the growing membership. It is pleasing to note the additions to this great order. Nine new applications were received at the last meeting, and within the past six weeks more than 50 new members have been received. The new building will be ready very soon, when the Camp will be under its own roof, with ample quarters for all purposes. Construction work has been completed and the finishing touches are being applied. The W. O. W. of this city will have one of the handsomest buildings in the state, which is a matter of pride to every progressive citizen.

THE WILLARD FARMS
The Willard Farms, Jason, Texas, are doing a splendid service to East Texas by demonstrating that here in the "piney woods" we can grow as fine white faced cattle as are produced in Texas.

The Willard Farms belong to Captain J. Lewis Thompson and associates of Houston. Captain Thompson is a real believer in the agricultural and livestock possibilities of East Texas, and he is not content to just dream about these things. He is putting his theories to the actual test.

The Chamber of Commerce has on display a poster card showing the pictures of some of the Willard Farm Herefords. It is worth looking at.

A small blaze, starting from an overheated stovepipe, caused considerable commotion in the express room at the depot at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. It was soon extinguished by employees at the station and the damage was trifling, consisting in the loss of a few shingles. Notwithstanding the storm of sleet and rain the fire company turned out almost to a man, thus showing their disposition to give service in spite of handicaps, which, by the way, never interfere with their work. The fire was out when they reached the scene.

Those who recently put in their time abusing the dust are now busy "cussing" the slush in the streets following the thawing of the sleet and ice.

Jim Manchaca, a Mexican residing in the Loco bottoms, was desperately injured Monday by the accidental discharge of his gun. Information is that he and a number of companions were rabbit hunting, when he laid his gun down while he ran a rabbit out of a brush heap. The rabbit sprang out, and Manchaca seized his gun to shoot the fleeing animal, when the gun was discharged, the charge striking effect in his head and inflicting a wound from which his recovery is very doubtful. He was taken to his home in an unconscious condition and had not revived at latest accounts.

Hon. W. E. Thomason left on the noon train for a business trip to Austin. He will likely be in the capital city several days.
