MATTERN OWES HIS LIFE TO A GIFT RIFLE

MOSCOW, July 10.—James J. Mattern, American round-the-world aviator, owes his life to a rifle given him by Russian aviators when he took off from Khabarovsk, before straying from his course and landing in barren northeastern Siberia, it was revealed today.

Living an epic of adventure, Mattern, with the aid of the rifle, lived for three weeks on wild birds, which he roasted over log fires.

He landed his plane while the black country was still frozen. The Anadir river opened and the first Russian coastguard launches nosed their way up from the coast. They found Mattern and brought him to their post at Anadirsk.

The fuselage of Mattern's plane, the chassis and one wing were damaged in landing. He was not hurt.

Mattern, eager to start, and Russian authorities, eager to be of aid to him, concentrated today on getting his plane repaired or if that proved impossible, getting him a new plane.

RODEO DRAWS BIG CROWD TO RANGER TODAY

One of the best rodeos, with one of the largest crowds, was presented this afternoon, after a committee composed of A. N. Larson and G. A. Murphy had secured money for prizes from the merchants.

A crowd estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000 was on hand when the rodeo began, with a slight increase in attendance shortly after the opening features.

It was thought for a time that the rodeo could not be staged, because of lack of support by the merchants, but after seeing the crowd that attended today many of the merchants were more enthusiastic over the affair than ever before.

These rodeos have become monthly affairs in Ranger, being held every second Monday, and the fame of the performances is spreading rapidly over this section of the country, so that now people come from over a territory of 50 miles in each direction from Ranger, many of them leaving home early in the morning in order to be on hand at the opening.

Some of the merchants who saw the crowd that was present today said that it would be a shame to let this feature drop, especially when it can be put on at the cost of only $25 to $30 a month, which means only $1 a month from a few of the merchants.

The expedition is financed from funds provided by the late Julius and Augusta Rosenwald.

This was the first of a series of meetings planned for this section by prohibitionists between now and the election Aug. 26.

POLICE PROBE MYSTERY OF MISSING MEN

FORT WORTH, July 10.—Murder charges were filed here today against four men as the result of intense police work after the discovery of the clothing of three missing men in the Trinity river near here.

Those charged with murder were O. D. Stevens, who lives near where the clothes were found, W. D. May, M. T. Howard, and N. B. Howard, all of Fort Worth.

At the same time, District Attorney Jesse Martin advanced the theory that the three had been slain in a fight over disposition of $70,000 taken Feb. 22 in a postal robbery at the Texas & Pacific Railway station here.

Stevens lives near Handley, on a farm near the river crossing, where the clothing was found.

The missing men, whose clothing was identified by relatives, are Jack Sturdivant, 24, of Eula; J. B. Rutherford, 30, of Dallas; and Harry H. Rutherford, 28, of Abilene.

Their clothing, blood-stained and slashed to shreds, were found in a basket crudely constructed of hog wire. A shirt, identified as that of Sturdivant, had a hole in it which looked as if it had been made by a bullet.

Mrs. Jack Sturdivant and Mrs. J. B. Rutherford, wives of two of the men and two men companions were questioned as was O. D. Stevens, near whose palatial country home the clothing was found and with whom, relatives said, the three men told them they were to talk on business when they left the Rutherford home Saturday morning.

Two Fort Worth men were arrested and held for questioning. Deputy Sheriff Rimmer, who knows Stevens, said he saw Stevens and the two Fort Worth men talking with three men late Saturday on a street corner in Handley. Rimmer identified the clothing brought from the river as that of the three strangers.

Oklahoma Will Vote on 3.2 Beer

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 10.—Traditionally dry Oklahoma heard its last arguments today on legalization of 3.2 beer.

All predictions were that voters would decide in a special election tomorrow to let the prohibition bar down a notch for the first time in 26 years of statehood.

If Oklahoma approves 3.2 beer in tomorrow's referendum as non-intoxicating and a good source of revenue to help the schools, only eight states will remain in which traffic in the new deal brew is forbidden.

The money must be spent in not less than 75 per cent of the counties of Texas, Gilchrist said. New highways will not be designated unless in emergency cases, or where the new highway would link major traffic arteries.

Ranger Loses First Game By Default

The Olden club of the Tri-County league won the first game of the season by default Sunday afternoon when Ranger showed up with but seven eligible players.

HIGHWAY BODY TO OPEN BIDS LATE IN JULY

AUSTIN, July 10.—Highway construction costing approximately $4,000,000 will be contracted by the highway commission late this month, it was learned today when commissioners met to hear 75 county delegations seeking to share in the $25,000,000 federal highway fund allotted Texas.

Highway Engineer Gilchrist explained details of the federal state road building program today, and indicated that first contracts may be let July 28.

Under terms of the federal act, not more than 50 per cent of the fund may be applied on the costs of federal designated highways, not more than 25 per cent on secondary roads and not less than 25 per cent on highways traversing municipalities.

The money must be spent in not less than 75 per cent of the counties of Texas, Gilchrist said. New highways will not be designated unless in emergency cases, or where the new highway would link major traffic arteries.

FARM PRODUCT PRICE INCREASE HELPS FARMER

By W. WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
FORT WORTH, July 10.—Wheat prices have brought the Texas farmer out of the slough of business despondency and set him on the high road to business stability.

This applies not only to the wheat farmer but to all farmers as well, with other farm commodities, led by wheat, soaring toward pre-depression levels.

Such is the firm belief of many farmers and grain dealers, according to G. E. Blewett, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Grain Dealers association and one of the foremost authorities in Texas on grain.

Texas farmers today heard the jingle of added dollars in their pockets, vast monetary benefits, hundreds of thousands of dollars, of two weeks of $1 a bushel wheat. They scanned jubilantly the horizon of a brighter future and increasing purchasing power, long considered the backbone of American business prosperity.

Belief that wheat is to stay above the $1 level and may even go higher is evinced by the way farmers are holding their crop this year.

It is estimated by those in close touch with the situation that the farmers have marketed less than one-fourth of the crop. A large amount of the wheat coming into Fort Worth is being stored by the farmers who produced it.

The exact monetary return to the wheat farmer from the increased price this year is hard to determine. Grain dealers and farmers alike see a net return to farmers of a much larger amount than last year's bumper crop. Some estimate the benefit at $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 above last year's returns.

This is in spite of the drought that has reduced the output this year to around 15,000,000 bushels for Texas, about half of last year's crop.

At this time last year the farmer received around 27 to 30 cents a bushel. On basis of the price level of the last two weeks, he is receiving upward of 80 to 85 cents a bushel. His share of the profit rises in greater proportion than the grain dealer's as the price climbs higher.

Perhaps the only Texas wheat farmers who will not benefit by the hike are those in the Panhandle area north of Amarillo, where the crop has been reduced to virtually nothing by the drought. The returns from wheat have enveloped other grains, some of the gains even in greater proportion.

Justice Department To Probe Unjust Hike In Prices

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The full force of the United States Department of Justice will be brought to bear against conspiracies to boost prices above normal levels, Attorney General Cummings warned today. Cummings said he had received many complaints of rising bread prices and wherever the facts warranted he was sending operatives to investigate.

He said that many of the rises reported were sporadic and contained no evidence of price fixing. In the case of concerted efforts to boost prices, however, he said the department of justice would proceed under the anti-trust laws.

TEXAS LEADS IN CONTRACTS OVER SOUTH

Eastland County Has Completed 245 Contracts To Plow Up 2,672 Acres.

COLLEGE STATION, July 10. At least 4,429,308 acres of Texas cotton will be retired under the National reduction campaign on the basis of contracts already signed or about to be signed, state extension service officials estimated today.

Of this number 2,705,833 acres have been retired from retirement in contracts from 207 counties, O. B. Martin, extension service director, revealed.

An estimated 1,423,475 acres are expected to be signed up, Martin said, and will be included in contracts as soon as local committees can complete their campaign in the field.

Texas leads the south in the reduction campaign during the first week.

A total of 245 contracts with Eastland County farmers agreeing to plow up part of their cotton in connection with the government's plan for cotton acreage reduction, had been completed, signed and approved by the county committee and sent to Washington up to Saturday night, according to County Agent J. C. Patterson. These approved contracts total 2,672 acres on which the yield is estimated at an average of 123 pounds of lint cotton per acre.

Mr. Patterson estimates that Eastland county farmers will sign up 8,000 acres of cotton to be plowed up. Much of this has already been signed and the committee is working completing the contracts and sending them into Washington as rapidly as possible.

Midnight July 12 is the limit for signing contracts.

The entire exhibit takes only a portion of an hour and yet covers all the important steps in the development of mankind.

A PROLEADER CALLS FOR A NEW PARTY

There may be a national prohibition party without feathers or frills in the near future.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole of New York is the national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Well, the union is holding its 59th annual convention in Wisconsin, in the city where mighty brewers in other days turned out the beverage "that made Milwaukee famous." President Boole has grown weary of the two major parties.

In her opening address she declared that both the democratic and republican parties had betrayed their constituencies. Looking to the future this distinguished advocate of worldwide prohibition said:

"We need a new party of moral ideas. A party that stands for the policy of prohibition and its administration by its friends."

There is an open road. A democratic senator drafted the 18th amendment. Politicians of the major parties, members of the senate and the house, voted for the submission of that amendment to the American electorate. Thirty-six states ratified it. Then the Volstead enforcement act came in. Now another congress has submitted a repeal amendment to the people. To date 16 states have declared for the adoption of the repeal and the limitation of the 18th amendment.

Rally, the stalwart pros should organize a new party in nation and state. As it stands today the democratic party of the nation is the party of repeal, and the national administration is a repeal administration. As for the republican party, its lamented chieftain who was tossed into the political ditch last year regarded prohibition as a "noble experiment" and that's all.

Away down here in Texas in 1928 225,000 men and women who classify themselves as democrats voted for President Hoover and the financial policies of Wall Street and the international bankers of the World. They said they did it "to save prohibition." Four years later they cast their ballots for a democratic nominee who had declared for repeal all along the line, and who had announced that if elected he would redeem every pledge made by the drafters of the Chicago platform. This, with their eyes open, the army of Hoover democrats marched to the polls and cast their ballots for a repeal candidate for president of the United States. There may be four national parties functioning in this country long before the coming of the presidential election in 1936.

Mrs. Boole should jump in—the water is said to be fine.

COTTON FARMERS GIVEN A WARNING

Director H. H. Williamson of the Texas Extension service has warned farmers to refrain from plowing up or otherwise destroying their cotton acreage offered for re-entment in contract with the government "until so instructed by local committees." Business is business. Uncle Sam is a benevolent administrator. It would be well for cotton growers to heed this warning.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

"There is a constantly increasing inclination on the part of persons of means to make their permanent homes in a high class modern hotel" was a statement made to me by James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore hotel while I was chatting with him in the air-cooled lobby of that hotel. He further said:

"Many of this class of people are weary of the problems of the domestic servant and the ever present small annoyances of the maintenance in the private dwelling.

"In a hotel, they have discovered that one may live as a 20th Century Aladdin, with the numerous geni of the hotel staff to do their bidding. In place of a brass lamp, the hotel guest announces his wishes to a telephone and, as magically as in the fairy stories of old, there appear waiters, bearing perfectly served meals, valets with newly pressed suits, boys with fresh laundry, the guest's car brought around from the garage to the front door! Truly, no Arabian Nights fantasy pictures anything half so alluring!

"The cost, at the end of the month, is considerably less than the guest could have maintained a private residence on the same standards.

"So convinced are we," continued Mr. Barrett, "on account of the growing number of inquiries from those who desire to live at a high class hotel, we are advertising in local newspapers what we have to offer, with splendid results."

HUBBY, WIFE AND BRIDGE

We went to Molly's home last night

A party to attend
 She wanted everything just right,
 My whole help did I lend;
 Yet, ere we left that party gay,
 My wrath was in a ridge.
 I need not tell you that we played
 The friendly game of bridge.

I've always thought I had some sense,
 And I still think I have,
 But when bridge playing I commence

It takes bright wit to solve,
 The awful blunders that I make,
 And that makes hubby mad—
 When he is mad, offense I take,
 And then—it's just too bad.

The party that was once so gay,
 Takes on a somber hue,
 I never know just how to play,
 I always miss my cue.
 And then I think how nice 'twould be,

If we would all assume,
 Bridge could be played so gay and free,
 Not like the day of doom.

TURN TO CAMELS

"A man can't fence his best unless his nerves are healthy," says George Santelli. "Fencing is one of the fastest sports there is—you've got to keep your reflexes and nerves in perfect condition. As a coach, I have fencing appointments from seven-thirty in the morning until ten or eleven at night. I can enjoy as many Camels as I want and still know that my nerves are ready and fit when fast action is needed."

Camels, with their costlier tobaccos, give a pleasure that never fades. Steady smokers find them always mild...cool...pleasing. They do not fray the nerves or leave a "cigaretty" aftertaste. Start smoking Camels today—for the new enjoyment you will find in a milder cigarette—for the sake of your nerves.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

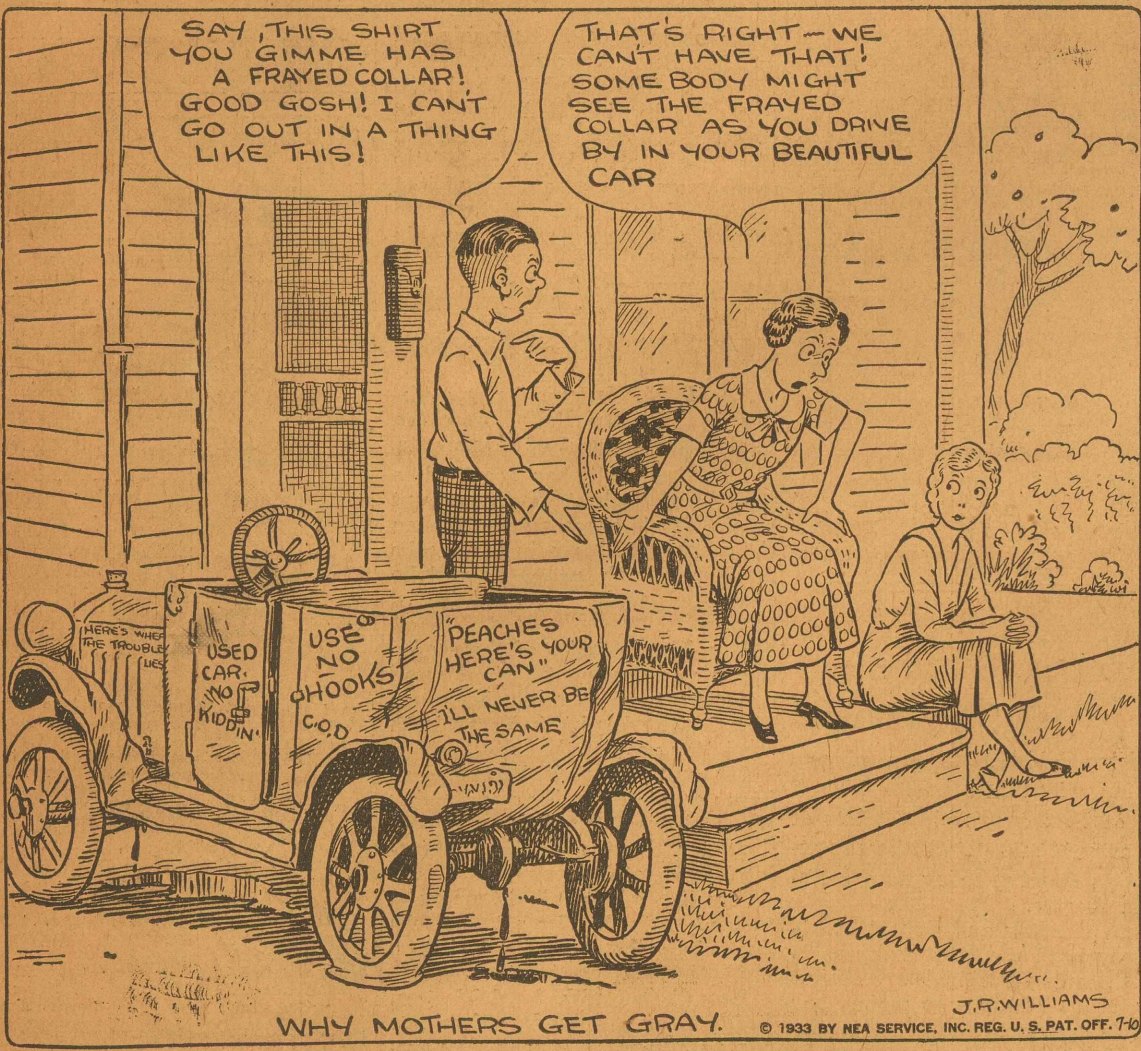

—that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

● WHEN THE THRILL of a brilliant saber bout brings the crowd to its feet, and you know that you are excited, tense—light up a Camel and learn for yourself how true it is that Camels are the cigarette for steady smoking.

BARGAIN BRIDIE

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

looking over her frocks, suddenly wished she had something that was very, very pretty to wear down to luncheon. She finally elected a soft tan silk frock which brought out the warmth of her hair. Celeste had said it was becoming. She must remember to tuck Celeste's handkerchief into her sleeve in order to show it to Barrett.

She dressed her hair in a roll at the back of her neck. She had worn it that way during those falsely happy days when Barrett had spent so much time with her. He had admired it that way.

Then, looking at the small clock on the mantelpiece, she hesitated. It was only one o'clock. It seemed incredible that the whole world could have changed as it had in the space of an hour. She wanted to go down but she did not want to intrude upon Barrett. Perhaps he would not want her to come down before she must. As she hesitated she heard a tap on the door. She opened it to find Higgins, the stolidness of the perfectly trained servant's face erased by the smile he could not subdue.

Mr. Colvin, said the butler, had sent word that he wished to speak with Mrs. Colvin. Would she join him down stairs whenever she was ready? "Thank you, Higgins," Elinor said. He disappeared and after a deep breath she stepped into the upper hall. Barrett was standing at the foot of the stairs, one hand on a newel post, looking up at her.

"Look out for that treacherous step!" he called warningly. He found he could not keep his eye from her as she came down. He had never seen her looking more beautiful. "I've good news for you!" he announced. At his words she paused, two steps up, her face level with his. "Your father's nurse — Miss Hemmingway, I think — answered my call and said that for the first time your father has shown real improvement."

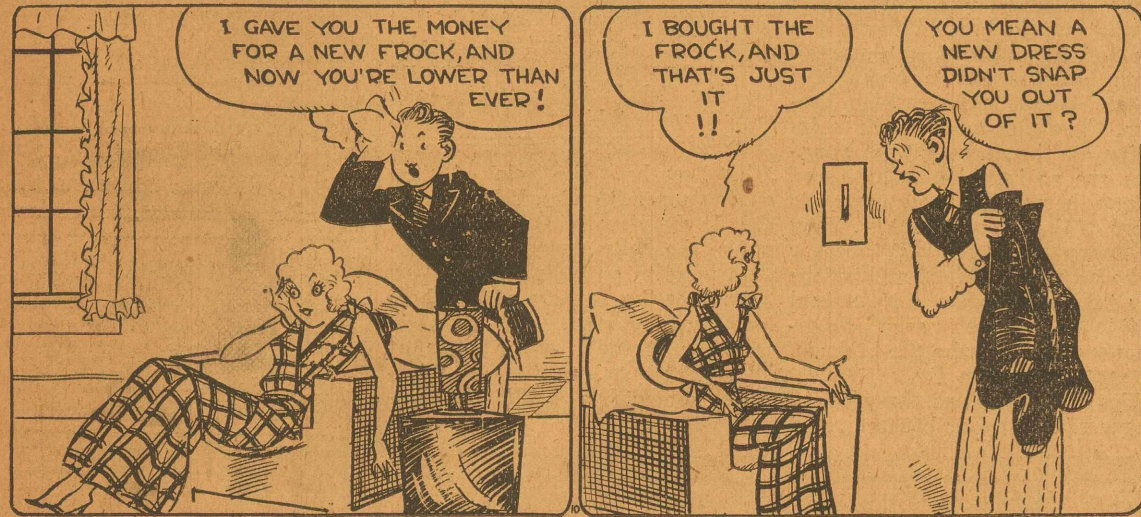

"Oh!" she whispered on a deep intake of breath. "I'm so glad!" "I wanted you to know right away because I understand what it means to you."

"It means everything," she stated in a hush. "Suppose we go into the library," he suggested. "You haven't seen it yet, have you? Odd how old houses insist upon having libraries, isn't it? Remember the husband, important way Miss Ella always spoke of her library?"

The girl laughed, nodding. She liked the rear room to which he led her. Its solidity spoke of all she had missed without knowing it. The room had a look of plenty and of peace. She could not imagine her mother whining for money in that room or anyone planning to deceive an old lady in order to be remembered in a will.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

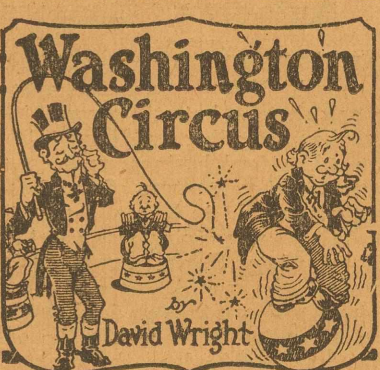

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT

PARIS, Fr.—Madame Jaepues Lescable, one of the smart Parisiennes here to whom the chic set look for much of their style, has added laurels with the choice of a Chantal model in black mat crepe. It has one of those heart-shaped back décolletages—nothing over the shoulders, the gown being held up from the front of the bodice which drapes around the neck. In the back, suspended from the band of crepe that circles the throat, are two mousseline roses, one black and the other pink, which serve to break the wide expanse of bareness. Mademoiselle Gloria de Beauvoise is one of the younger exponents of smart dressing and among her spring selections is a Marcel Rochas ensemble in black and white. The skirt and bolero jacket with long, tight bolero jacket with long, tight weight wool while the blouse and large pleated collar are of white pique. A black and white leather belt draws the line between the blouse and skirt, and a little skull cap with a flare at the top is of black, dull-surfaced straw.

FARM PRODUCT

Continued from page 1) nine to 10 cents a bushel. Today the figure is around 40 cents, four times as much, with farmers showing little interest in marketing their oats. "An even stronger position maintains in milo and kafir," Blewett pointed out. "Last winter milo and kafir sold as low as 17 cents a hundred to the farmers, whereas today the farmer is receiving around $1 a hundred." The crop has been greatly reduced by the drought. The material monetary benefit, however, is but one factor in the new ascendancy. "There has been a noticeable change in the morale, as well as the attitude of farmers and grain dealers, since President Roosevelt was inaugurated," said Blewett. "The grain dealers are just as happy over the big advance in grain value, for while it takes more money to handle this same amount of grain than in former years, they find a much better feeling and a more optimistic spirit prevailing which permits and encourages trading. "The grain trade, as well as the farmers with whom I have talked, feel that recovery is on the road and the depression is ended." The boost in prices, he said, are from natural causes. "The action of the grain, as well as the cotton market the past few months, should dispel any doubt as to the influence that supply and demand exert over the value of grain and cotton," he said. "Nature has done in a few months what the republican farm board tried for three years to do. "The big advance in the value of farm products the past four months was caused directly by crop and climatic conditions, supported and abetted by the confidence of the people and the unrestrained and unhampered markets which permitted the trading. "Since speculators are always bullish, they seized the opportunity and caused a sharp advance in all values of farm products, some of which are selling at over 300 per cent increase since March 1."

WASHINGTON.—The hot weather has been affecting some of the republican party wheelhorses who seem to think their special duty and privilege to suggest tentative candidates for G. O. P. nominations. With a democrat only four months in the white house the wheelhorses are this early saying who are the most likely group from which the republican standard-bearer will be selected for 1936. Bertrand H. Snell, they are saying, looms as the best choice. But any discussion of possible presidential candidates, they add, must include Ogden Mills, Patrick J. Hurley, Charles L. McNary, David A. Reed and James W. Wadsworth. Where have we heard these names before? Not only that, but the corporal's guard in the house, which is being led by Mr. Snell, is expecting to add a round 50 republicans to the minority roll in the mid-term election a year from November. The republicans are now outvoted 3 to 1, and although an additional 50 would strengthen the minority morale, the democrats would still be in control by a wide margin. At any rate, optimism in politics is never at a premium when it is most needed. In almost his last official act as retiring president of Harvard, A. Lawrence Lowell conferred upon Alfred Emanuel Smith the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. The degree was given for his long and distinguished service as governor of the Empire State, not for what he did to the eighteenth amendment. It is now in order for Mahomet Walker Willebrandt's alma mater, the University of Southern California, to give Al one of those funny degrees called Doctor of Foreign Service, invented by the eminent Dr. Rufus von KleinSmid. A recent questionnaire distributed in the United States and Canada revealed that Eddie Cantor and Ed Wynn topped the list of favorite radio entertainers in the American list, while the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia and Boston Symphony orchestras were recorded as leading favorites in Canada. Nothing was said as to where the American questionnaires were distributed. On the eve of the opening of the North American radio conference, which opens in Mexico City on July 10, it is announced that a license to erect a 500,000-watt broadcasting station near the border has been issued by the secretary of communications of Mexico. It will be powerful enough to be heard all over the United States and would seriously interfere with every American broadcasting station. This is the second station authorized by Mexico to operate on a 500,000-watt basis. The reason for issuing such licenses is plain to all students of the radio broadcasting situation. Mexico was not even invited to participate when the wave lengths were distributed; she was ignored when American private commercial interests grabbed the ether and all the best channels for the purpose of using a radio as a money-making business for the few individuals and corporations holding licenses. Issuance by the Mexican government of these high-powered station licenses is seen as a move to force the American radio industry to redistribute broadcasting channels and to give Mexico the consideration which has been denied up to now.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Two tickets to fashion!
For Ladies Only:

Bangs are here again... slightly waved and alluring: If you can wear them... which we doubt.

Color blending is out! Contrast makes a goddess of our most anemic... the kind of a goddess one expects today, which would hardly do Homer's ideals justice.

Fans are back... for evening... (and day time... behind closed shutters).

Be brawny. Your shoulders must suggest the expansion of a tape-buster or you are counted as nil. Adopt ruffles, puffs, pads... anything. But do be brawny while clinging.

Big, little, flapping, prim hats. Checked, plain, gaudy, striped, neat hats. But by all means, adorn yourself with something above those fashionable...

Ringlets. They sweep the neck... high and low. They pile on top of the head. They drip about the ears. Sometimes they add charm to Mademoiselle... often, they look terrible.

Gloves, vanity, slippers, handkerchief (we brag)... match them and you're set for the admiration of the Joneses. Don't do so and we brand you as practical... sensible... honest with yourself and God. They do look nice... but, well, sort of overdue.

Be No. 399 of your favorite 400... be faithful to your ideals and hopes... fear neither man nor beast... BUT! Watch your jewelry.

Hands express character... must be covered with sparkling things so loudly unreal! And your eyebrows... don't! Men hate them... too thin.

Hair should never drip and drizzle with oil. This season sees it crisp and dry on the edges... only unkept creatures' necks need greasing. And do wear a hat!

Fuss about your gifts and grow about the selection, but it is evident man glories in his socks and ties. Head-splitting contrast ceases here... let there be peace... and at least a tinge of blending.

Belts are not trophies of scalp conquest. They needn't hang in fragments with age. And may they recognize friend trousers as co-partners in color crime.

When you take on nail polish, add a faint touch of lip rouge, pluck your brows, dye your lashes... and kindly extinguish yourself from the sight of woman... Siberia is kind to the deranged.

By the patron saint of manhood... don't crook your little finger. Sleep your soup and gulp your buttermilk... but keep that wayward finger masculine and close to the cup. It creates admiration.

Quick... two tickets to fashion... before we miss our train.

Novel Entertainment
A delightful evening was spent by a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hyer and Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Chaney, Saturday, on the handsome Chaney lawn, when an impromptu chicken barbecue was the novel offering of the hostesses, who supplied the brick oven with savory foods, that did justice to the culinary skill of the chefs.

A long buffet table spread with linen and centered with flowers, colorful zinnias, was generously supplied with potato salad, iced savory tomatoes, pickles, olives, coffee, and iced tea, with the barbecued chickens, and a top off, in ice cream and cake.

An undertone of music was furnished throughout the evening and the nine tables appointed for supper, were afterwards used for informal bridge.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Carl Angstadt, Homer Brelsford, J. M. Armstrong, L. E. Edwards, Alex. Clarke, Curtis A. Hertzig, D. S. Howard, Harry Porter, John W. Turner, P. E. Lewis, W. H. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson Honored
Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Nicholson were tendered a farewell party Saturday night at the city park, in the form of an informal picnic supper, arranged by the Booster Bible class of the Methodist church, of which the Nicholsons were valued members.

Great regret is expressed over the going of this fine couple, who have had a prominent part in the life of their church.

Mr. Nicholson has been in Fort Worth for a few days, and returned for the week-end, to assist Mrs. Nicholson in getting their household effects packed.

The family will leave about the middle of the week for their future home.

Several members of the class were unable to attend on account of illness or absence from the city.

The long buffet table was spread with a delicious supper and presided over by Mrs. W. W. Kelly, president of the Booster class. Invocation was offered by Rev. Sam G. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church.

Those attending were Rev. and Mrs. Sam G. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kelly and daughter Carolyn; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Price, their twin sons, and Mrs. Price's mother and two sisters; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robey; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Willman; Mrs. Anna Perkins Stewart; Mrs. W. P. Leslie; Misses Lillian Thompson, and Jessie Lee Ligon, and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson, the honor guests.

Miss Tanner Arrives
Miss Blanche Tanner of Seattle, Wash., a prominent educator of that state, arrived Saturday to visit her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Tanner.

Miss Tanner expects to be here until time for her school duties in middle of September.

Mrs. Key in Austin
Mrs. Scott W. Key left Friday for a week's visit in Austin with her son, Howard, who is attending the summer school at the University of Texas, and while there will resume her browsing in the wonderful library of the university.

Few people in Eastland realize that Mrs. Key has her feet well set in the path of glory.

She has had any number of contributions in verse and blank verse published by the leading poetry magazines of several states, and is busily at work preparing her manuscript for publication in book form.

Booster Class
The Booster Bible class of the Methodist church heard an interesting lecture on "Self-Confidence" from Rev. Walker Sunday morning who substituted for Judge W. P. Leslie, who is out of the city.

The session was opened by Mrs. W. W. Kelly, their president. Mrs. Ed Willman was pianist for the song service, "Revive Us Again," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood."

Those attending were Mmes. Neal A. Moore, P. L. Crossley, Carl Garner, Galand Poe, Joe C. Stephen, Joe Creamer; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Willman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kelly; Misses Jessie Lee Ligon, Lillian Thompson, Alene Walker; Rev. Walker, and Mrs. A. E. Her-ring, a guest.

Eastland Again Honored
Eastland friends will be happy to learn that the family of Judge Joe H. Jones will remain in Eastland for at least the next few months, though Judge Jones will have his headquarters in Dallas, in his new office as assistant federal district attorney.

Mr. Jones is one of four assistants and the appointment is for four years.

At Arcadia Today

Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery Co-Star at Arcadia

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's cinema version of "When Ladies Meet," one of Broadway's biggest hits of the current season, will be the attraction starting today at the Arcadia theatre.

Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery have the co-starring roles and the other principals are Myrna Loy, Alice Brady who makes her first talkie appearance in this picture following her recent stage triumphs.

The thesis of "When Ladies Meet" is based on the conclusions of what would happen when the wife of a philandering husband meets the woman on whom this husband is now lavishing his attentions. The plot achieves its originality on the fact that its situations are so ingeniously arranged that neither of the rival women is aware of the other's identity. They are unexpectedly brought together at the home of a friend and before long take each other into mutual confidence. When each subsequently discovers who the other is, the sparks begin to fly.

Miss Harding plays the wife in danger of losing her husband, and
