Prices Raise Potential Wealth Of Farmers

Cotton Inspection In Ranger Area Is Completed Today

Inspection of cotton to be plowed up under the plan to stabilize the price, has been completed in the Ranger territory by the committee composed of E. H. Mills, W. C. Hickey and Lenon Bethel. It was announced today and the contracts have been forwarded to the county committee.

J. C. Peterson, county agent, announced, too, that orders to plow up cotton would be mailed from Washington and some of these orders should be received in the county the latter part of this week, and should be in the hands of farmers who have contracted to plow up part of their cotton not later than the first of next week. Some of these contracts, however, may not be approved immediately because of the large amount of work involved at Washington, and farmers were again warned not to plow up any cotton until they had received orders from Washington to do so.

The cotton stabilization plan has been declared a success by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, but no cotton should be plowed up until official notice to do so has been received.

France Hunts for Relatives of Her Orphans of War

PARIS.—More than 5,000 young men and women, born during the World war, are being helped to determine their identity.

Ranging from 15 to 20 years in age, most of them were born under fire, their fathers and mothers later killed, or scattered as troops advanced or retreated. When the waves of fighting receded these waifs were picked up and lodged in orphanages or adopted.

The work of determining who they are is one of the most difficult tasks of the government, which is aided by several private agencies.

The growers will be compensated for their loss under the terms of the farm relief law.

HARRIMAN IS STILL MISSING IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 18.—Joseph W. Harriman, remained on the missing list when his sanity hearing was called in federal court today, and Federal Judge Francis Caffey ordered forfeited the $25,000 bail on which the banker has been at liberty.

A bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

Harriman, gray-haired, former president of the Harriman National bank, was sought in New York city, in New Jersey and on Long Island as fears grew that when he slipped away yesterday he went with the intent of committing suicide.

Special watch was kept at the Long Island grave of his son, who died in 1928. His death was said by relatives, testifying in an attempt to prove the former banker irresponsible and save him from trial on charges of falsifying his bank's books, to have started the day, which they swore had gone so far that Harriman could not follow trains of thought or help prepare his own defense.

Leader in New Industry Plan Show Big Gains During June

AUSTIN.—The record of Texas charters made impressive gains during June, as recently reported by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. According to the secretary of state, charters were granted to 187 new corporations during June, a total which, according to records going back to 1915, has been exceeded only by the totals of 244 for June, 1927, and 205 for June, 1928. Last year in June, 174 charters were granted.

Total capital stock authorized during June amounted to $2,732,009, a gain of 39 per cent over that for May, but scarcely half that for June a year ago, $6,461,000. Six of the new corporations had authorized capital stock of $100,000 or more, whereas 66 were capitalized at $5,000 or less.

Oil companies numbering 49 received charters during the month of June, the largest individual group; merchandising firms accounted for 44 of the new corporations, and manufacturing firms were third with 29 new corporations. New charters were granted also to 18 real estate and building companies and to 11 banking and finance concerns.

Also included in the total were five transportation corporations, two public service companies, and 29 firms grouped under the miscellaneous heading.

Permits to operate in Texas were granted to 24 out-of-state corporations, a rather small number. Last year in June, 27 out-of-state corporations received permits to do business in Texas.

"Roma—Please get in touch with me. Signed Manny." The name "Manny" was believed to refer to Manny Strewel, an executive of the Port Orange distributing company, who was mentioned as a possible go-between in previous messages.

Realtor Collects Cancelled Checks

His collection, the fruit of years of tireless effort, includes the checks of Charles Dickens, Robert Louis Stevenson, Sir Walter Scott, John Greenleaf Whittier, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, and a host of other notables.

Oddly enough, Henderson has found that the rarest modern check is that of the late President Warren G. Harding. There's a Harding check in his collection but it cost him $50.

Repeat Drive In Crucial Test As Two States Vote

The drive to repeal the 13th amendment underwent its crucial test today as the first states of the dry south to consider the issue voted on the 21st amendment. The states were Alabama and Arkansas. A light vote was being cast in most sections of Arkansas in the first hours of balloting.

The vote for the state probably will be less than 200,000.

If wets take the two states, repeal was believed likely this year. Sixteen states have voted repeal. None, so far, have voted against it.

A flash received over the wire by D. E. Pulley at 3 o'clock this afternoon indicated that Arkansas was voting wet and Alabama was voting dry. No indication of the leads by either side was given in the report.

BILLIONS ARE ADDED IN FOUR MAJOR CROPS

Increase is Almost Half of Years Gross Farm Income of Five Billion.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Commodity prices have increased the American farmer's cash and potential return on four leading crops by more than $2,150,000,000.

This huge gain, attributed partly to effects of the Roosevelt recovery program and partly to unfavorable crop reports, was calculated today on the basis of the increase in prices of cotton, corn, wheat and oats since March 1.

Its significance is best realized when compared with other depression statistics. It is equivalent to one half the year's gross farm income, tentatively estimated at $5,000,000,000.

If the rise can be converted into crop dollars, it will turn a heavy deficit from farm operations in 1932 to a tidy profit in 1933. The increased values were being most appreciably felt in the 16 cotton states, the great western wheat plains and the middle western cotton belt.

Veteran Officer Goes 6500 Miles To Get His Man

Traveling 6,500 miles in ten days and passing through 11 states in doing so is the record made by D. S. (Sy) Bradford, officer at Strawn, who brought Roy Cox into Eastland Monday night and filed complaints against him for burglary and theft for more than $50 values. The complaints were filed with Justice of the Peace Milton Newman.

Cox was located in Miles City, Mont., and the trip to get him and pick up four saddles that had been stolen in Eastland county took Bradford into Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona and New Mexico. When Bradford arrived in Montana, Cox readily signed an agreement waiving all rights that would require extradition proceeding and willingly returned to Texas with the officer.

On May 5, three saddles were stolen from the B-Bar ranch located in Eastland county. (Continued on page 2)

PLUGGING THE HOLES IN THE INCOME TAX LAW

A senate finance sub-committee is preparing to draft a new revenue law, which, "among other things, will be written with the intention of ending practices by which some of the nation's wealthy have escaped incomes taxes." Sen. W. A. King (d) a Mormon leader of Utah, is the chairman of the sub-committee. He is an able lawyer, a student of taxation and is said to be an honest man—meaning an intellectually honest man as well as an honest man according to the code and its underlying principles. Barkley of Kentucky, Byrd of West Virginia, and Reed of Pennsylvania are members of the committee. Senator King is very outspoken about the work of the committee. In an interview he said: "The perfectly scandalous revelations of income tax avoidance during the senate's investigation of private and commercial banking are sufficient warrant for thorough revision of the revenue structure."

It will be well for the ousted "invincible rulers" of this government to keep their eyes open and bow to the inevitable and thus prevent the coming of a fourth revolution at the polls ten times more radical than the one recorded in the history of the November of a dead year. A vast majority of Americans are for the government of their fathers, but they are likewise for a government where the many are given the same protection and the same privileges as the few.

MURRAY FOR AN EARLY VOTE ON REPEAL

Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, when he makes up his mind, is a rapid worker. He sent a special message to his lawmakers "permitting" them to set up machinery for an early vote on repeal of national prohibition. In his message he specifically stated he was not opening the question of repeal of prohibition sections of the home-dry constitution of the Oklahoma commonwealth. Now a referendum will take place in our neighbor state long before the coming of Jan. 1, and why not? Aren't the people the masters? They make and they unmake governors and senators and presidents. They have the power to make and unmake all statutory laws. It is their American privilege and birthright to make or unmake constitutions, federal or state, or to amend or revise sections of constitutions, either of the federal or state brand. This is said to be a government of and for and by the people. Prohibition is not a political issue. It is a non-partisan issue. It is a matter of where the police power shall be lodged—at the capital of the state or the capital of the federal government. It is for "the wisdom of the majority" to return the verdict in Texas and all the sister commonwealths.

KEGS OF GOLD SHIPPED TO THE FRENCH REPUBLIC

According to Paris advices, a shipment of gold valued at $4,250,000 consigned to the Bank of France arrived on an American steamship. Shipper of the gold brought on a vessel from the United States was not announced. Moreover, the yellow metal was in 78 kegs and another American vessel will land $5,000,000 gold for the French banks at Cherbourg this week. Of course, it is all earmarked stuff. In other words it carries the brand of France. What was it doing on this side of the Atlantic?

Reputation is an ugly word and has been used carelessly by many.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

ARTHUR J. MANSFIELD, publisher of the Arlington (Mass.) News, says:

"Almost everybody has something to sell and in order to make a sale there must first be a contact of some kind.

"Newspaper advertising is for the purpose of helping to sell either merchandise or ideas or both. The appeal of the local newspaper is universal; its news is eagerly sought and it offers an excellent opportunity for the local merchant to bring his merchandise to the attention of the local constituency.

"Through the newspaper the merchant has localized and concentrated circulation, permitting a hold upon public attention within a confined trading area. The newspaper invites immediate attention and permits flexibility in planning and carrying out advertising schedules.

"The newspaper, with proper management, should have a real place of influence in a community and as such make it perhaps the most effective advertising medium.

"Advertisers, both large and small, having confidence in themselves and in their goods will find newspaper advertising the safest, quickest and most effective means available for obtaining and holding satisfactory patronage."

Gangsters In New York Turning To New Rackets Since Beer Has Been Legalized Over the State

EDITOR'S NOTE: This the third of a series on the present status of the racketeer in American cities.

BY C. C. NICOLET
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 Copyright, 1933, by United Press
 The underworld of New York is in a state of flux, revolutionized by the rapid change in status of the liquor trade, but the racketeers go on collecting just the same.

The once profitable illicit beer business is gone, and whiskey has become an over the counter commodity which offers only a meager portion of the revenue it provided until a few months ago. As far as New York is concerned, the 18th amendment already has been repealed.

Thus the dependable revenue from alcohol for which the gangs once fought with guns and knives has been eliminated and the "mobs" are at the crossroads. They must increase materially their revenue from rackets, or face extinction.

"If we can get the racketeers on the run they will never come back," says Chief Assistant District Attorney Thomas Kane. "I believe we are getting the upper hand."

New York is the ideal city, geographically, for the racketeer. Except for the Bronx it is built on islands, and that makes it easy for the underworld robber barons to control the passage ways through which all commodities must come. From a head of lettuce to a carload of steel, everything shipped into New York pays its tribute.

A Gloucester fisherman cannot dock his schooner and put ashore his cargo without paying a "membership fee" to a "protective association." If he pays, he is unmolested; if he does not, his fish may rot on the docks or his crew may be beaten, even shot, by waterfront thugs.

The racket permeates New York so thoroughly that from the baby's milk to the grandfather's coffin, tribute may be exacted.

"We go about racket prosecutions quietly," Kane explains. "We try to get the victim before the grand jury before the racketeers know we are preparing a case. That way we can get his story without having him intimidated first. But the victim almost never makes the complaint. We have to find out about it from some outside source, and go to the victim, and persuade him to tell his story."

With federal action, the racketeer will lose the tremendous advantage—that he now has, Kane points out, because of the fact that New York City itself is divided into five counties, each with a different prosecuting organization.

The city's gangs are disrupted by assassination and federal prosecutions on income tax charges.

Vincent Coll and Vannie Higgins are dead.

Arthur Flegenheimer, better known as Dutch Schultz, is in hiding because of an income tax indictment.

Owney Madden has just gotten out of Sing Sing on parole and he is behaving with circumspection.

Of all the metropolitan gangsters, Waxey Gordon, safe in his Jersey strongholds, comes closest to exercising his told time sway.

By an accident he escaped assassination in the first days of legal beer when the Schultz mob from New York tried to keep him from stretching his influence across the river. Max Hassel, his Pennsylvania ally, was killed instead.

In both New Jersey and Pennsylvania the Gordon-Hassel gangs and their allies have succeeded to some extent in putting legal beer on a racketeering basis, and there is ample evidence the New York gangsters are exercising all their influence in the hope of getting money from beer and later from legal hard liquor—if the 18th amendment is repealed.

But the New York beer commission, under the leadership of Edward P. Mulrooney former New York City police commissioner, has succeeded so far in keeping the racketeers out.

Nothing further was heard concerning them until about two weeks ago when a message was received from the sheriff at Miles City, Mont., stating that they were holding in custody Roy Cox, who had one of the saddles in his possession and had disposed of the others.

Mr. Bateman employed Officer Bradford to go and get Cox, together with the saddles, furnishing Bradford with a car in which to make the trip, with traveling expenses and with his ranch foreman, Bailey Woods, to drive the car. Starting last Saturday a week ago they started on the long trek. They found one of the saddles in Protection, Kan., where it had been sold, one in California, one at Miles City where Cox was and one in Oklahoma. The three belonging to the B-Bar ranch they brought back with them but the one in Oklahoma which belonged to Walter Coleman they did not get.

Mr. Bradford stated that Cox and a man who has been implicated with him were at a rodeo at Miles City when Cox and his wife had some trouble in which the wife was abused. During the time she was angry she went to the sheriff and told him about the four saddles that had been stolen in this county as well as about a

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

Armless Youth Got Two Degrees

By United Press
LETHBRIDGE, Alberta.—W. R. Watson, deprived of the use of his hands and arms since infancy, literally won two degrees from the University of Alberta with his feet and teeth.
Watson early learned to write by holding a pen or pencil with his toes. At the university he took notes by holding his writing implements between his teeth. He now holds an A. B. and LL. B. degree from the provincial university, and has written a book.
He shaves and eats with his feet, can handle a telephone receiver and dial with his feet, swims, skates, skis, and can play a good "hand" of bridge with his feet.

HOW YOU CAN HELP PUT OVER INDUSTRIAL ACT

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson Urges Every Citizen To Put His Shoulder to the Wheel in the National Push for Prosperity

EDITOR'S NOTE: The National Industrial Recovery Act, now commonly called the NIRA, from its initials, is perhaps the most far-reaching measure ever passed by Congress in peace time. Enacted by the last Congress as part of President Roosevelt's "new deal" program, it literally puts the government in partnership with business. It aims at putting men back to work, increasing their pay, and shortening their hours by eliminating cut-throat competition within each industry by mutual agreement of producers (with government sanction) on hours, minimum pay and trade practices. It also gives the government a measure of control over production, and insures the right of labor to organize and negotiate collectively. Codes of industries are now being submitted for government approval, and the whole complicated machinery set under way by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, an army officer with a splendid record of service, notably in administering the draft in 1917-18. General Johnson here tells YOU what YOU can do to help put over the measure and bring the recovery desired.

By GEN. HUGH JOHNSON
Written for NEA Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17.

The national recovery administration is to operate publicly, as far as that is humanly practicable. That means something to the man in the street of cities far from Washington. It means a duty, a part in this administration, that is up to him, and that seems to me worth explaining.

Here we are holding hearings on the first of the codes to be submitted, which are to become a body of industrial law for the different industries. It's all being in a gold-fish bowl. Not because we are fond of being gazed at, but so that the action and method of code making and administration can be seen from far off.

We want it seen so plainly that everybody everywhere can understand, and by studying can pick out his home town part in recovery. There's no time to write each person a letter about it. But neither is it a time to jump in, head first.

Use your head, first—we ask every citizen; study sharply the broad aims and objectives of this recovery law, then the codes and rulings as they develop in regard to your own business, and then you will be picking out exactly the wheel to put your shoulder to, for the national push. Study first what I call the bible, issued as Bulletin No. 1 and Bulletin No. 2 by the administration.

certainly the oldest thinking on industrial self-government in the past has come from the labor side. Maybe the most comprehensive planning now is coming from industrialists.

It makes no difference and most certainly the whole thing is a challenge to the thinking of both sides and all of us. Very soon the lessons of hard practice of the Recovery Act will be all-important, they'll be the law wherever were the prophets.

First text in Bulletin No. 1 is this: Business is to split up the work there is so as to put more men back on the pay rolls and raise wages for the shorter work-shift so that no worker gets less than a decent living wage. Increase of consumption power has the right of way. Runaway prices would eat up consumption power while it is a-borning; we will not

IT CAN be translated into fact in every community, step by step, as fast as local leaders go to it with confidence, public spirit and guts. This whole recovery administration is a challenge to the self-governing capacity of management and labor everywhere.

Truck Cattle Rustlers Offer New Problem

Instruments POCATELLO, Idaho.—The machine age has brought another problem into curtailment of cattle rustling in Idaho.

So rapidly are the cattle loaded into trucks and shipped off, that no trace of the rustling is often found, B. W. Henderson, Arimo county brand inspector declared. As one means of checking brands, he authorized each cattleman the full right to stop trucks loaded with cattle for inspection of brands.

PASTE the bible in your hat. Keep the bulletins on your desk. They are no ballyhoo; they are the beginnings of law and practice in a new business regime.

They mark a turn in the tide of American industry that may prove as vital as was the onset of the industrial revolution abroad a hundred years ago or the start of the companies of Merchant Venturers in the 17th century.

We cannot be sure of success, except through national co-operation. Certainly I see no doing it by czarism.

Industrial self-government is the underlying idea of the president and of the Recovery Act. We are not trying to goose-step the country. There are limits in the act, if certain situations arise, its provisions are mandatory and I shall not hesitate to execute the law as written. But the first line of reliance for enforcement is on public opinion.

For me that reliance is based on recollection of a concrete personal experience. I had the task, after drafting the selective service law, of administering it in 1917-18. "You've put yourself in a fine hole," I was warned, "there never was in history a draft enforced without bayonets."

Well, we made history without bayonets. Public opinion did it, policing every community with knowledge gained from studying the law and seeing that it was carried out, fairly, at home.

This is a vastly bigger thing—this new democratic industrial self-government—and it will take a more deeply informed public opinion to make a go of it.

It is terrifically complicated,

IT MEANS thinking, maybe with a pad and pencil, thinking out how to translate the purposes of the recovery administration into terms of things to be done, or refrained from, in your own business, job, or town.

Maybe it is true that the best,

Monday Church Society Day

But two churches, responded with their meeting to church society day, something unusual in Eastland's church history. The Church of Christ Bible class canceled their session at the last moment, due to the illness of several members. The W. M. S. of the Methodist church, meets only on the stated periods, of twice a month as already announced. The Aid society of the Christian church, is recessing. The Womens Missionary society of the Christian church, convenes the first Monday of the month only. The Women's auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Frank Bond, Monday afternoon, and enjoyed a delightful program and social hour. The meeting was opened by their president, Mrs. C. W. Geue, and minutes were presented by their secretary, Mrs. Harry B. Sone.

"Some Current Event," formed the response to the roll call. Mrs. W. LeRoy Arnold, gave a most interesting summary of the year book of prayer, and missionary program, followed by Mrs. Vern Hart in a most excellent book review of "Forgive Us Our Trespases," the work by Lloyd Douglas. Mrs. Geue, reported the trip of Mr. Geue and herself to Chicago, and told something of the wonders of the Century of Progress, which they visited 10 days. The social hour was a most enjoyable one, and at its close the hostess served delightful refreshments of rose color pineapple ice cream, and individual small cakes iced in rose and with coconut topping. The next meeting was announced for the first Monday in August when Mmes. J. H. Pangburn and Snow Frost will be co-hostesses. Those present, Mmes. James Horton, Robert Pearson, Vern Hart, J. J. Tabelman, Hubert Jones, Ray Larner, C. W. Geue, J. W. Whately, J. H. Pangburn, Harry S. Sone, J. LeRoy Arnold, Miss Mabel Hart, and hostess, Mrs. Frank Bond.

Pythian Sisters Meet

The Pythian Sisters Temple No. 46 held their regular session Monday night in K. P. Hall. There was a small attendance of members, but some important business was transacted. They will have a social evening in the near future, and the entertainment committee for same presents: Mrs. Blanche Nicols, Mrs. A. W. Hennessee and Mrs. J. A. Ross. Members reported several visits having been made to Mrs. Andrews a fellow member who has undergone an operation at Blackwell Sanitarium, and whose general condition is good. The Temple will hold its regular meeting next Monday night. Those present: Mmes. N. T. Johnson, Hayden Frye, Richard Jones, Blanche Nicols, C. H. Daviss, Charles Shepherd, Malaquet Taylor and J. A. Ross.

BARGAIN BRIDIE

by KATHARINE HAYLAND TAYLOR

WEDNESDAY

ELINOR STAFFORD, 20, falls in love with 35-year-old BARRETT COLVIN who has returned to New York after years abroad. Barrett has made a name for himself as an archeologist. He is about to ask Elinor to marry him when her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, interferes and succeeds in breaking up the romance. Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELIA SEXTON, dies she leaves her entire fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER cheats BENTWELL STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett, who does not want the Sexton fortune, tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give the entire sum to her to divide among the relatives. Elinor agrees, knowing the money may save her father's life. The marriage takes place next day. Barrett finds himself falling in love with Elinor over again. Then one day he sees her with BOB TELFARE and believes she has been meeting Telfare secretly. His suspicions are renewed and he treats her coldly. This makes Elinor miserable. Her father's health is slow to improve and the doctor advises a warmer climate. Elinor goes with her father to Aiken. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

ELINOR wrote Barrett stilted little notes about the weather, her father's condition, and the routine of the household. He read them. He could not help it. He carried them in an inner coat pocket and scoured himself for keeping them. He tried to burn them one night in the library fireplace. Instead he burned the hand that salvaged them. Toward the end of April Barrett saw Lida Stafford for the first time since her daughter had gone south. Lida appeared on a Sunday morning, wearing a dress so simple a man would call it plain, though to a woman it bore the unmistakable stamp of Paris. "My dear Barrett!" she murmured, gliding into the library. Stiffly he took her outstretched hands. He heard her ask, "Lone-ly?" and responded heavily, "Very!" "You must dine with me some night, Barrett. I would so like to know you better!" He murmured vaguely about having to get a great deal of work out of the way. He detested the woman! Lida settled by the hearth. She stretched a slender foot toward the fender. Her ankles were still quite as good as Elinor's, she saw happily. "I came in because I have found myself to be in the most amazing position," she began. "Yes?" he prompted without enthusiasm. "Overdrawn again! Can you fancy it, Barrett? I simply know nothing of figures! And I can't seem to learn!" He said nothing. "I knew if Elinor were in town she would help me out for a little time—and this morning I thought, 'But what is more natural than to turn to my Elinor's husband? The man whom she so adores!'"

HE opened his cigaret case, offered her one and lit one for himself after lighting hers.

"Mrs. Stafford, he said slowly after a moment's silence, 'the last time Elinor sent you money—which you have not returned to me—I told her I did not like it. She promised me she would not do it again. You see, therefore, that, while I am sorry to refuse you, I cannot help you out—'"

Lida grew white, her eyes hard. She laughed harshly. Without heeding the interruption, Barrett went on. "Elinor settled on you and your husband a large fortune, more than I wanted her to settle upon you—'"

"I quite believe that!" Lida broke in scathingly. "If you can't manage on that you couldn't manage on any amount," Barrett said, still coolly. "What a delightful lecture!" "You'll have to pull up or be very miserable," he stated. "Easy spending is a habit, you know—"

She rose. With a slow, almost insolent gesture she pulled her fur close around her soft, white throat. "I shall not forget," she said, "that I came to you for help and that you refused me!" "I'm sorry you feel as you do, Mrs. Stafford. Can't you see that when I asked Elinor to refuse you aid I pledged myself to do the same thing?"

"Elinor would not have to know."

"I do not lie, Mrs. Stafford—" Her face hardened. She caught the implication he had not meant to make with his statement. SHE left the house shaking with rage. There was Miss Elia Sexton's house across the street. Miss Elia had been influenced by Barrett's scheming and persuaded not to leave her money as it should have gone. If the money had been left as it should have been on the other foot! As things were there were few chances to even up with Barrett Colvin. Unless he had on the side some little affair! Lida could hurt him that way, extract from him what she wished with the pledge of silence. Who was it who had said that he was always running up to Connecticut? Why did he go there? Had she hit upon it—the fact that would level his pride and open his purse?

It cost a great deal, Lida knew, to have anyone "shadowed," but the original cost might prove to be one of her best investments. She mulled over the matter.

Monday found Lida abroad early. She usually woke about 10 o'clock to bathe and return to bed for her breakfast. After that she would dawdle over letters, the newspapers or perhaps a sensational novel. Then came the time of dressing which always took an hour and often more. As the clock struck one she usually sauntered forth to meet some one for luncheon or to hunt up diversion for the day. This Monday morning found her up at eight and dressed by nine. In her car a half hour later she ordered Grier to an address on a side street.

The chauffeur, waiting before this address, smiled the cynical smile that came often to his honed Irish lips. Colvin's name and the gilt lettering that appeared on a plate glass window. Women like Lida Stafford went to detective agencies for just one reason—to ferret out secrets to use for blackmail or a divorce. GRIER wondered about Mrs. Stafford's errand as he waited in the new car she had bought the day after her daughter's marriage. "She can't be havin' that husband of hers shadowed," he mused. "He can't get gay, tied like he is to his bed and a wheel chair!" Grier gave up the riddle. Meanwhile inside Lida had explained her errand. The sleek individual who sat back of the desk had listened to her tale and written Barrett Colvin's name and New York address on a pad. Now he said, "We'll do all that is possible and we'll keep you informed, Mrs. Stafford. If the facts are what you think they are and Mr. Colvin makes a trip to Connecticut soon it won't take us very long to give you the lowdown!"

Lida smiled. "We usually number these cases," the man went on. "For one thing it makes telephone calls easier. Your case will be—" he consulted records—"6072B." Lida wrote "6072B" in a small engagement book, murmuring as she did so, "Thank you!" "Not at all, Mrs. Stafford—" She rose and drew her coat around her. The man's eyes appraised her, running over her slowly from head to foot and back again. Lida was warmed, reassured. She had been so alone since Vance Carter's "absurd outbreak." Men had been shy of her. She had once or twice felt the threat of age and wondered what she would do with time—and herself—when she was old. She had no investment that would return peace as the fire burned low. She did not realize her lack of resource. She thought only, "Old age is hideous!"

She left the place smiling over the memory of this strange man's sensuously glittering eyes. Her daughter would have shuddered at their light and struggled to forget it. The day was clear, unusually warm. "Perhaps," Lida mused, "Barrett will drive up there this afternoon!"

Aged St. Louis Banker Dragged From His Home By Kidnapers

This home in which August Luer, 77, lived in Alton, Ill., which his aged wife, was no haven from kidnapers who dragged the aged banker away after brutally abusing the wife who tried to defend him.

August Luer, 77, above, has been a victim of frequent heart attacks, his son said in a public appeal to his father's kidnapers, fearing that the brutal abduction of the aged Alton, Ill., banker might cause his death.

Valiantly Mrs. August Luer, 75, above, fought the kidnapers of her banker husband. The abductors inflicted deep scalp wounds in the helpless woman. She is in an Alton, Ill., hospital.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Industrial recovery will not come fast enough to save any of the $500,000,000 appropriated for unemployment relief.

Four million families—about 18,000,000 persons—are estimated to have been "on relief" at the peak point in March. Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins estimates that perhaps 10 per cent are now "off" relief as a result both of seasonal factors and the recent pickup in employment.

If the broad federal program for restoration works well, there will be great curtailments in the relief lists. But the impoverishment of many states and communities means that the federal government will be carrying a heavier share of the load in all areas.

RELIEF needs normally begin to increase in October and rise through the winter, beginning to decline again in March. No one knows how far these two factors will go to offset the effects of business improvement, as affects the half billion dollar fund.

Hopkins is sure, however, that the relief money can be passed out more gradually and hence last longer than at first seemed possible. A close check will be kept on diminishing relief lists. Hopkins says he will soon know just how many American families and individuals are receiving relief from week to week and he will look more carefully into requests for funds.

THE problem of making the states provide a fair share of relief before receiving federal funds has been one of Hopkins' chief worries. Distress relief goes through various stages of progression—relatives, neighbors and localities, communities, counties, states and federal aid—but it was found that state governments had refused to use their taxing power for state relief.

For the first three months of this year, recent figures show, federal funds were carrying nearly all the relief load in more than half the states.

Half the $500,000,000 is to be distributed on the basis of one-third the amount raised for relief by the recipient state government. The rest is to be granted at discretion. Hopkins has been successful in causing some of the largest states to raise or promise to raise proper amounts, but he finds that some states are dead broke and must be financed 100 per cent for relief.

He has the task of determining just how large a share various others are able to raise and just which states are "stalling." Thus far nearly $55,000,000 has been sent to 45 states—all but Wisconsin, New Hampshire and Delaware.

Wooden Money Mint Receives New Orders

By United Press ABERDEEN, Wash. — Orders from Klamath Falls, Ore., for 10,000 more coins furnished the latest increase in business at Bob Bryan's "wooden money mint" here. Bryan, besides the Klamath Falls order, has turned out 12,000 coins for Aberdeen and 10,000 for Bremerton, Wash.

In anticipation of further orders, a big storage of dogwood, tough, durable and long-lasting, has been stocked. Klamath Falls planned to use the coins in connection with the American Legion state convention in Oregon.

Lives of Twins Follow Same Course

By United Press SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Mrs. Margaret White of Springfield and Mrs. Letha Jane Etter, N. cone, Texas, are twins, 91 years old. However, the similarity extends beyond birth dates. For 91 years the lives of the two women have been identical. Both took the same courses in school and made almost identical grades. They both married about the same time and both have 1 children. Both are widows, the husbands dying within a few months of each other.

About eight months ago Mr. Etter fell and fractured her leg. Recently Mrs. White fell and suffered an identical fracture. Both women are nearly blind from age. Both tell their friends they expect to die about the same time.

Farewell To Armstrongs

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil T. Seaberry entertained with Sunday night supper at eight o'clock at their pretty home, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Armstrong and their children, Mrs. Galbreath, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Turner and children. The buffet table was set under the grape arbor, and two smaller tables for the grownups and one for the children, were arranged. The menu of chicken salad, combination meat and salad confection, potato flakes, sandwiches, fruit punch and grapes, had second course of butterscotch cake and ice cream. A delightful evening was spent in an informal fashion. The Armstrongs and Mrs. Galbreath left this morning for their new home in Fort Worth.

Plan to Pump Gold From Swift River

GRANTS PASS, Ore.—Pumping gold out of rifts in the bottom of the famous Rouge river with a deep sea diver on the bottom "steering" the suction pump, is a new mining wrinkle to be tried here by C. F. Coliply and P. H. Lynch of Seattle. The silt and sand will be drawn into the barge's sluice boxes through an eight-inch hose. The equipment will handle 75 yards of gravel an hour. Rouge river, located in southern Oregon's rich gold belt of the 80's, is known to have gold in it, but its deep, swift current and rugged bottom have balked ordinary mining methods. Citing low distillery stocks, government forecasts serious whisky shortage when repeal is ratified. Already prohibition leaders can be heard singing: "In the Sweet Dry and Dry."

Two Windjammers Have Faces Lifted

By United Press WISCASSET, Me.—Two old windjammers are undergoing a "face-lifting" process at local shipyards. After lying idle for years in Portland harbor, the four-masted schooners Hesper and Luther Little, built at Fall River, Mass., in World war days, are being rejuvenated preparatory to service in the coastwise lumber trade.

You'd like the ROBINSONS

THEY'RE the kind of people it's nice to have as neighbors. They always seem to have such a good time together. Their home isn't large, but it's furnished in excellent taste; everything fits perfectly, as though it had been made especially for the very space it occupies.

And their dinners are charming. Not expensive, but different... new and interesting dishes that other people haven't heard of yet. Mrs. Robinson dresses beautifully, too. Her clothes have that air of coming straight from Paris yet she doesn't spend much on them.

If you should ask her how it is she manages things so well, Mrs. Robinson would smile and say, "It's really very simple. WE BUDGET OUR INCOME. That tells us how much money we have to spend. And WE READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS. That tells us how to spend our money wisely."

Employment Shows Some Improvement During Past Month

Special Correspondent.

AUSTIN.—Employment in Texas during the month of June showed considerable improvement. According to reports to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas and the United States bureau of labor statistics from the 910 reporting establishments, there were on payrolls on July 15 the total of 63,794 workers, a gain of 8.4 per cent over the total for the corresponding date a month earlier and an increase of 2.9 per cent over the number on June 15, 1932. It was the second consecutive month in which the number of workers on payrolls exceeded that for the corresponding date a year ago.

Average weekly wages per worker continued to decline, being only $20.97 for June as compared with $21.20 a month earlier. Because of the increase in the number of workers, total weekly payrolls were higher in June than in May, amounting to $1,337,760.18 and $1,308,167.20 respectively.

Of the total number of workers, 55,596, or virtually 90 per cent, were included in groups in which more men were being called back to work, whereas only 8,198 workers were included in groups in which the number of workers declined as compared with a month earlier.

Increases in wages accompanied by increases in the number of workers were reported at ice factories, meat packing and slaughtering plants, men's clothing manufacturing shops, foundries and machine shops, structural iron works, railroad car shops, sawmills, cement plants, and public utilities. Increases in the number of workers but cuts in average weekly wages per worker were reported at beverage plants, flour mills, laundries, cotton oil mills, cotton compresses, electric railway car shops, petroleum refineries, saw mills, paper box manufacturers, cotton textile mills, commercial

Injured Cowboy Film Star and New "Girl Friend"

Two wrecks, it seems, have occurred recently in the career of Hoot Gibson, cowboy film star—one when he smashed his airplane during a race at Los Angeles and the other when his marriage to Sally Eilers, movie actress, went on the rocks. Anyway, here is Gibson, recovering in a Los Angeles hospital from injuries received in the plane smash-up, as he shows a picture of the wreckage to his new girl friend, June Gale, 21-year-old San Francisco actress, with whom he admits he is "madly in love." Gibson announced that he and Miss Eilers, now in Europe, plan a divorce.

printing shops, quarries, retail stores, wholesale stores, and the miscellaneous group. In bakeries, brick factories and hotels, not only were the wages cut, but the number of employees were also smaller. Fewer workers at reduced pay were reported in auto and body works, confectioneries, pure food products plants, ice cream factories, women's clothing manufacturing shops, furniture manufacturers, and newspaper publishing plants.

INDIANS POSSESSED PEYOTE

SHERIDAN, Wyo. — Five In-

Beer and Dry Law Problems Are Up in Utah

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY

United Press Staff Correspondent
SALT LAKE CITY. — Indications are that the questions of beer and re-submission of a state dry law will dominate a special session of the Utah legislature, to convene here July 10, even though neither was mentioned in the call issued by Gov. Henry H. Blood.

A summons for the special session followed prolonged agitation for re-submission and a desire, by at least a fair-sized portion of the state's population, for beer.

The call mentioned financial and taxation matters, but the way for beer and re-submission legislation was left open through a paragraph in which the governor pledged himself to give careful consideration to any additional legislative requests.

Since Gov. Blood issued his call the beer situation has grown more acute. At present Utah has the distinction of being a bone-dry state surrounded on every side by beer states.

Just what steps will be taken toward immediate legalization of beer are indefinite. Utah's problem is far more severe than that of Idaho where the legislature merely passed a bill declaring that 3.2 per cent beer is not intoxicating. Utah is constitutionally dry and the law, a part of the constitution, defines alcoholic beverages as those containing in excess of one-half of one per cent alcohol.

The procedure would be setting an election date for the beer ballot. It was considered possible also that the special session may ask Gov. Blood to set a date for election on ratification of national prohibition repeal.

Lad Claims Title As Youngest Milker

EUGENE, Ore.—The world's youngest milkman—that's the title claimed for John Kowzer, of Waverlyville. John learned to walk at the age of eight months. At 11 months he went in search of his mother, who was milking one of the family cows.

When she first noticed him he was seated on the other side of the cow, milking. His enthusiasm for milking grew daily until the family finally had to change milking hours to rid themselves of his "assistance."

G.O.P. Centenarian Praises President

ABERDEEN, Wash.—Although a teetotaler and a life-long republican, Samuel Benn, founder of Aberdeen, celebrated his 101st birthday recently by praising President Roosevelt and the repeal movement.

"Roosevelt is the man of the hour and will pull the nation out of the depression. The present depression is the worst I have seen in my 101 years," he said.

Speaking of the succession of states favoring repeal of the 18th amendment, he said he was glad the nation is getting over its foolishness.

HOOKS and SLIDES BY BILL BRAUCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Among the hundreds of public men, corporate executives and bankers on the Morgan "Santa Claus" list, Ferdinand Pecora found just one whose sense of ethics partly restrained him from accepting stock from Morgan at a price far below the market value.

E. G. Buckland, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, turned out to be the hero of the occasion. He refused to accept United Corporation stock at $75 a share when it was selling at $95.

Unwittingly, Buckland lost the chance to become something of a national idol when he accepted the rate of the Morgan and Standard Brands stock from Morgan.

But while other Morgan friends were snapping up all the stock offered regardless of political standing or business connections, Buckland apparently was the only one to make even a subdued peep and his letter to Arthur M. Anderson, one of the partners, stands in a class by itself among the exhibits of the investigation. He wrote: "Dear Arthur: I appreciate very much your telephone suggesting that I subscribe for or purchase shares of the new corporations furnishing electrical energy. I understand that one of these corporations is the Connecticut Light & Power Co., with which this company has a contract. We are about to open negotiations for future dealings with this company."

Organization Of War Vets Urged

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Organization of all World War veterans for the "common cause" was recommended by Gen. P. D. Glassford, former Washington, D. C., superintendent of police during the Bonus Army march here.

Glassford urged the veterans to take more interest in governmental affairs. "Unless the veterans organize and have something to say about men who are nominated and who go into office, we will not get the right men."

He urged them not to become "political footballs" for the major political parties.

"You must start cleansing politics at home, not in Washington," he declared. "It's a great job if you can accomplish it. Put the interests of the community and state ahead of the interests of the veterans. Follow the things thru unselfishly and it can be done."

PAID MORE THAN MAYOR

BOSTON.—Mayor James M. Curley, though his salary is $20,000 a year, is not paid at the highest rate of anyone in the city's employ. The man who tops him is John J. Since the sale required but four hours, Conroy was paid at the rate of $117.12 1/2 per hour.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY, NEA Service Writer

CURRENTS are perhaps the most perfect fruit available for jelly. Astrakan apples and later in the season crab-apples, jelly naturally, but they do not have the color and flavor found in currant jelly.

Roast lamb and mutton are served with currant jelly as properly and often as they are with mint jelly or caper sauce. Many a dessert can be garnished attractively with a cube of this sparkling jelly. Both dessert and meat sauces gain piquancy by the addition of a few tablespoonful of currant jelly.

Rich in that peculiar jelly-making factor, pectin, currants make a perfect jelly without the use of commercial pectin. Currant jelly is sure to "jell" and the fruit is excellent to use in combination with non-acid fruits lacking in pectin. Nevertheless, currants will make a finer jelly when they are slightly under-ripe rather than over-ripe.

Plain Currant Jelly

Wash currants and pick over, pulling them from the main stem. Put just enough water into a smooth, wide preserving kettle to prevent sticking before the juice begins to flow from the fruit. Add currants, cover kettle and bring quickly to the boiling point. Reduce heat and crush with a wooden potato masher. Simmer until currants look white. Turn into a jelly bag and allow the juice to drip through. Do not squeeze for this first extraction of juice. Measure juice. For each cup of juice use three-fourths cup sugar. Heat sugar in a warm oven. Put juice into a wide sauce pan and bring quickly to the boiling point. Boil five minutes and stir in sugar. Do not let the boiling stop while adding the sugar. Boil rapidly until the syrup "sheets" from the spoon. If a very little water was used to cook the fruit it will take a very few minutes to cook the jelly. Remove from the fire, skim if necessary and pour into hot sterilized glasses. Cover with a thin layer of paraffin. When cold cover with a second layer of paraffin.

Second and third extractions of juice should be made by cooking the currants in water to half cover for ten minutes. This jelly will not be as light colored and clear as that made from the first extraction but it will be first-flavored.
