A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SIN ACKNOWLEDGED: I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid; I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. —Psalm 32: 5.

ARKANSAS WILL REFUND ITS HUGE HIGHWAY DEBT

Arkansas has a huge highway bond road building debt. Indeed, it is said to amount to approximately $146,000,000. Before adjournment the Arkansas legislature passed what is known as the state highway bond refunding act, which provided for refunding all forms of the road indebtedness. This act was given the acid test in the courts of the commonwealth, and the state supreme court said the last word. In other words it declared the legislative act valid. Although the only question involved was whether the state might refund old road improvement district bonds through issuance of the new state 25-year 3 per cent bonds, the court declared the refunding act "is not in violation of any provision of our constitution and is therefore a valid enactment."

Holders of the road bonds in the investment centers of the East recently formed a committee to fight what they termed "repudiation of the state highway debt under the new plan." It is said that an appeal will be taken and that in the last analysis the supreme court of the United States may say the last word. According to one of its political leaders in years gone by the people of Arkansas "ran hog wild" on the burning issue of state and lateral highways. They travelled all the road. Now they have a huge bonded indebtedness for their children and their grandchildren to liquidate throughout coming time. What has become of the ancient democratic slogan: "Pay as you go"? Is it as dead as the dodo?

ILLINOIS AND IOWA MAKE REPEAL UNANIMOUS

Illinois has spoken. By unanimous act the 50 delegates to the state convention elected June 5 voted to adopt the resolution ratifying the proposed repeal amendment of the "noble experiment." On the same day at Des Moines the Iowa constitutional convention by a vote of 90 to 0 ratified the proposed 21st Amendment to the constitution. More than 60 per cent of the people of Iowa live in the rural districts and small towns. They certainly "dumped the 18th Amendment."

ANOTHER HIKE IN THE PRICE OF COTTON

American grain crops are slim this year. American cotton crops are not slim. Millions of acres will be plowed under. On July 10 in the city of New York cotton held the stage on the speculative stock market by soaring $2.50 a bale in the active contract. In the year 1934 the big showdown will come. Unless the government regulators control acreage mules and plows will be busy and the fields given over to cotton under southern and southwestern skies. Then what will happen?

For years past, information as to the receipts and disbursements of many city, county and state governments has been productive of much controversy and misunderstanding, all of which has been due to the fact that the public has never been kept informed by official reports placed in the advertising columns of the newspapers.

Experience teaches a lot of people things they should know.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

JOHN BORG, publisher of the Hackensack (N. J.) Bergen Evening Record, says:

"Growth is the law of life and this immutable law applies also to business.

"There is no standing still; you either continue growing and live, or you stop growing and eventually die.

"There is a vast difference between a business-getter and an order-taker.

"Order-takers in business are usually only one jump ahead of the undertakers of bankruptcy.

"Business-getters do not sit around like Mr. Macawber waiting for something to turn up. They go out and bring it in.

"Buyers do not live in the stores and if it therefore quite essential that they enter them before the process of buying and selling can be consummated.

"One actual buyer in the store is worth a dozen potential buyers in the home or on the highway.

"Newspaper advertising converts buying possibilities into sales facts by attracting the buyer of merchandise to the seller.

"Advertising is as essential to successful merchandising as breathing is to a healthy body.

"To arrest either of these vital functions means suffocation and ultimate death."

Lower Motor Costs Seen After AAA Test

Drastic reduction in the cost of auto operation is forecast as a result of motor oil tests conducted at the Indianapolis Speedway under auspices of the A. A. A. contest committee. During these tests a new oil, developed by the Gulf Refining company, obtained 28.5 per cent more miles to the quart . . . and cost 28.5 per cent less to use, when tested against three popular, high-grade brands familiar to every motorist. Fords, Chevrolets, Plymouths and Buicks, picked at random from the streets of Indianapolis, were used in the four-day run. Each car travelled 450 miles a day at a constantly maintained speed of 45 miles per hour, using a different brand of oil each day. Oil consumption was rigidly checked by A. A. A. officials, and results were corrected for variations in temperature. The new oil, which out-performed the other oils by a wide margin, is made from a 100 per cent paraffin base, and is refined three steps farther than ordinary motor oils. Introduction of this advanced process marks a definite step forward in the refining industry and, it is believed, will result in decreased operation costs for the average motorist. Reading that the Nazis are now marrying 50 couples at a time leads one to believe that there may be some truth in those German atrocity stories after all.

Cotton Grower Keeps Up Long Record

RICHMOND, Texas.—It was no occasion for surprise when Nicholas Reyes came through with the first bale of cotton ginned in Fort Bend county this year. For 44 years Reyes has hauled the county's first load of cotton to the gin, and this year's feat was just another in a long line. The 1933 bale weighed 509 pounds and was classed as strict middling. It brought Reyes $50 to $75 in premiums.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
 WASHINGTON.—The big stick hasn't been applied to industry, but it has been vigorously waved. Gen. Hugh Johnson had been cursing under his breath at basic industries which wouldn't bring in codes under the recovery act. He carried in his pocket a stick of dynamite in the form of an ultimatum requiring submission of codes within two weeks—or else he'd promulgate codes of his own. Roosevelt told him to hold up on that, though Johnson had letters indicating that the steel industry didn't intend to play ball. Then Roosevelt decided to act in his own way. He summoned Boss Myron Taylor of U. S. Steel and told him to snap into it. The steel code was ready the very next day and as word went out that there wasn't going to be any fooling, other large industries began to fall over themselves getting in their codes. Johnson fumed again when he saw the lumber code, its 48-hour week and 22½ cent minimum wage. He dictated a scorching statement, but slept on it overnight and substituted a more diplomatic one which merely called the lumbermen's terms "wholly unacceptable."

The first drastic step was taken when the government moved to put the milk industry on a license basis to force recalcitrant members into marketing agreements. "This is puzzling," he admitted, when asked if the brewery were backing the rescue flight. An aide explained that it was. "Why must we use the good offices of a brewery to permit a Soviet plane to land in Alaska?" he was asked for the fifth time. "Oh well, let it go!" exclaimed Phillips, throwing up his hands. ### Soldier of Fortune Tells Experiences Of Other Years

By United Press

FORT WORTH.—Revolutions are a "funny thing"—and the authority is Col. B. M. Hatfield of Fort Worth, who has faced a firing squad in Mexico and another time was ordered shot.

In fact, revolutions are even "amusing," he said in a narration of his soldier-of-fortune adventures in Latin-America and in Africa during the Boer war.

"I've seen a squad of soldiers carrying a grand piano across a desert. Don't ask me what for.

"Once I saw a soldier marching along with eight or 10 brass cuspidors roped together and suspended around his neck. What should anyone want with spittoons in the desert? Just loot.

"Another time I was riding a street car near the plaza in Mexico City. I noticed the car seemed to run faster and faster. I went up to the front to see what was wrong.

"A big peon in a straw hat was putting up a fight with the operator. The soldier said he had helped win a revolution and had a right to be motorman if he wanted to.

"I had some misgivings about revolutions when I backed up against that Chihuahua wall. The rifle bolts had clicked already and the lieutenant was ready to give the firing squad the order to fire when I had an inspiration.

"I put up a bold front. 'You can't do this to me,' I told the officer. 'I have too many friends in this part of the country and it would ruin you to shoot me. Some of your generals are trying to make a goat out of you. Hadn't we better go up in the mountains and talk this over?'

"The lieutenant quit the army and we went up into the mountains. But he didn't regret it, nor did I. Later he became a general and I helped buy his uniform.

"Then there was the other time on the Rio Balsu south of Mexico City. I was arrested and ordered shot by officials of the incoming government. But I managed to get out of that after being a prisoner a week or so."

Harvard Is Aid To 'Brain Trust'

By United Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Columbia university has been publicized as the big contributor to the President Roosevelt "brain trust," but a check reveals that Harvard also has something to say on the subject.

Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard Law School is credited with having conceived many of the provisions of the new federal securities act.

Prof. Oliver M. W. Sprague of Harvard Business School is financial adviser to the world economic conference.

Prof. James M. Landis of Harvard Law School collaborated with Frankfurter.

Assistant Prof. John E. Dalton of Harvard Business School is an adviser to the agriculture department.

Prof. John H. Williams, Harvard economist, was American delegate to the world economic conference.

In addition to the faculty members, many Harvard graduates are identified prominently with the administration.

Beaver Kept Farmer In Irrigation Ditch

By United Press

ALAMOSA, Colo.—A tall tale of the hills was told by M. T. Mathes, a farmer living northwest of Alamosa, when he came to town and exhibited scars he said were received in a battle with a beaver.

Hearing a commotion, near one of his irrigation ditches, Mathes went to investigate. As he neared the ditch he heard a splash and started probing in the water with a shovel he was carrying.

A large beaver leaped from the water and attacked him, Mathes related. At the first rush Mathes was knocked into the ditch. When he crawled from the ditch the beaver hit him again.

Then the farmer became slightly disturbed and retaliated by smacking the beaver with the shovel. The beaver continued to lunge and Mathes continued to hit him with the shovel until the animal finally gave up the struggle and died.

Cliff Homes Were Used 199 Years

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—The United States has as yet failed to achieve the age of one of the North American Indian settlements, according to the department of the interior.

The United States celebrated its 157th birthday the fourth of this month. Secretary of Interior Ickes reveals that it has been definitely established, by tree-ring chronology, that cliff dwellings in Mesa Verde, National Park, Colorado, were occupied for 199 years.

Southwestern United States says the department, now is holding the attention of archaeologists, who have come to the conclusion that the civilization which flourished there at least was equal to that of the Indians of Peru, Central America, and southern Mexico.

The most notable traces of this prehistoric civilization have been found in Mesa Verde Park. Although the antiquity of the dwellings in the park was recognized many years ago, when congress made it a national park, scientists only recently have come to a full realization of its value and interest from the viewpoint of the archaeologist.

A short time later Mrs. Berkowitz received from the White House a note of thanks, and also a letter from another Hartford doll manufacturing concern, attacking Mrs. Berkowitz. The letter originally sent to Mrs. Roosevelt is the basis for a $10,000 slander suit Mrs. Berkowitz has filed against M. Hardy, Inc.

In her note, Mrs. Roosevelt said she was enclosing the letter, because she felt a person in business should be on good terms with one's competitor.
