TWO BOMBS THROWN IN CUBA'S REVOLUTION

COMPANIES ARE SCORED BY A MINE WORKER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Business interests which seek to gain special advantages from the NRA were assailed today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, at the second day of hearing on proposed codes for the bituminous coal industry.

Lewis appeared to present labor's side of a code devised at conferences here last month with operators of unionized mines in 14 states.

"More and more the framing of codes is a matter of dickering and bartering, of surrendering just as slow as possible," he said. "They appear to have become unconscious of the precarious position of our economic system and to be suffering from the delusion we are on our way back to the conditions which prevailed in the summer of 1929."

"This is a delusion which, if permitted to continue, will result in the economic suicide of those who are the victims of it and at the same time in destruction to their more enlightened contemporaries."

Cost Recovery Is Urged In The Oil Industry Code

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Embodiment of a new principle in business—cost recovery—in the controversial oil code, would place the industry on a sound prosperity basis, Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company, said today.

Dawes issued his statement after reading dispatches from Washington, announcing temporary effectiveness of a scale of wages and hours under the NRA.

"The inability of members of the industry to agree among themselves and with the administration, is due more to the lack of understanding of the difference between the principle of price fixing than it is to the divergence of interest," Dawes said.

Wheat Crop Down On U. S. Estimate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The agriculture department today estimated total 1933 wheat production at 499,671,000 bushels compared to 726,000,000 last year and an annual production from 1923 to 1930 of 861,000,000 bushels.

Willows To Close If Attendance Is Not Increased

Announcement was made today by the Willows swimming pool committee of the Lions club that due to the unseasonable weather and the fact that the pool had been operating at a decided loss, it had been decided to close the pool Monday. It will remain open through Sunday night.

However, it was announced, that with increased attendance and a demand from the people of the town, it might be possible to keep the pool open longer if the attendance would justify it.

The committee thanked the patrons for their support in the past and urged them to continue to support the pool in these last few days in order that the loss might be as small as possible. A close check is to be made on the attendance each day through Sunday and if an increase is noticed it is possible that an attempt will be made to keep the pool open.

Those who have coupon books are urged to use them between now and Sunday night, as after the closing of the pool these coupons will be void.

Texas Charters Show Increase

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—New corporations numbering 150 received charters during the month of July. These new corporations had authorized capital stock of $3,365,700, the highest total for any one month since last December, and substantially above the total for the 145 new firms incorporated last July, $2,723,000, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Eight of the companies had authorized capital stock of $100,000 or more, the highest total since January, while 59 were capitalized at less than $5,000.

Merchandising firms accounted for 37 of the new corporations, 34 were oil companies, and 33 were manufacturers. The number of manufacturing concerns receiving charters was unusually high.

Permits to operate in Texas were granted to 26 out-of-state corporations, as compared with 24 in June and 22 in July a year ago.

KIDNAP BILLS ARE RECEIVED IN MANY BANKS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 10.—A total of $199,620 was the ransom paid kidnapers for the release of Charles Urschel, multimillionaire, it was learned today.

This is the largest tribute ever exacted and paid to secure the release of a victim of kidnapers in America, officials said.

The serial number of 9,981 $20 bills identified as ransom in kidnaping cases, without mentioning the Urschel case, were in the hands of bank officials in various parts of the country today.

The confidential information was sent to all banks by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the United States Bureau of Investigation at Washington.

Although Hoover did not mention the Urschel kidnaping, all the bills were from the 10th Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, the same as those recovered at St. Paul and identified as Urschel ransom money.

Legion Post To Have Tickville Band at Meeting

Clint Davis, post commander of the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion, announced one of the biggest programs of the past year for tonight, in addition to the annual election of officers.

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon and his American Legion Tickville band will be present at the meeting and will present two portions of the program, playing before the business meeting and again at the end of the session.

The members of the band have agreed to be present at the meeting tonight in order to help make it one of the biggest attractions the post has put on for the year.

All Legionnaires and ex-service men are invited by the post commander and by the director of the band to be present. It is hinted that something new might be sprung on the program by the band, though nothing would be divulged in regard to what it would be and at any rate the post commander said, the band would be attraction enough without anything additional.

NRA Committee Meets Wednesday To Consider Case

The Ranger NRA committee met Wednesday afternoon at the offices of the chamber of commerce to go over a petition asking for information and a ruling on requirements of one of the Ranger firms under the NRA blanket code. The petition was filed voluntarily by the company in order to determine what was required.

After some discussion it was voted to pass the matter along to the state committee at Houston and let the decision rest with them.

In commenting on the decision, Dr. P. M. Kuykendall, chairman of the committee, issued the following statement:

"The temporary codes, as originally adopted, are to be in effect until such time as codes are approved by President Roosevelt.

"No authorization has been made by the NRA whereby an organization can put in effect their codes until they have been approved and the organizations are still operating and must continue to operate under the blanket code until the approval of the code of the industry.

"The original agreement applies as to hours, wages, etc., as set out in the agreement and signed by the firms."

Strike Keeps Food From Reaching Consumers Over the Island.

HAVANA, Aug. 10.—Cuba's passive revolution, in the defiance of rigid martial law and power of the army behind President Machado, continued unabated today.

The general strike which has cut off the city's supply of mill, bread, meat and other necessities of life, was still in full force and hunger threatened thousands.

The presidential proclamation, declaring a state of war, was posted this morning. It gave "participants of seditious movements" 24 hours from the time for signing of the decree to deliver arms and munitions to the authorities. Civil authorities are to relinquish their authority to the military as soon as disturbances occur in any locality the proclamation said.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The state department today was expected a reply from Cuban ambassador Cintas to the proposals for restoring peace in Cuba offered last night by President Roosevelt.

It was understood the Roosevelt proposal still contained the provision in the original plan for Machado's retirement.

STEEL A RISING BAROMETER OF BUSINESS

For years and years the steel industry told the story of the activities in the building world. For years and years in the steel mills of America toilers worked 12 to 14 hours a day including Sunday. Then came the crash. It is said that the steel industry in the fourth week of December, 1932, reached the low point of 12 per cent of capacity operations. It is now journeying steel at approximately 70 per cent of capacity and a large portion of the 800,000 wage earners employed in 1929 are back to work.

E. C. Barringer is the managing editor of the magazine Steel. He has estimated that total production the past six months exceeded that of the same period in 1932 by 1,200,000 tons. Huge appropriations in the national recovery act are responsible for the huge boom in structural steel demand. One item, the $400,000,000 sum for highways alone calls for nearly 400,000 tons of re-inforcing and bridge steel and large quantities of pipes, culverts, cables and woven wires. Editor Barringer reports that the ore carriers have revised their estimate of the year's need of ore from the upper Lakes. It is estimated now that 15,000,000 tons may be moved as compared to 3,500,000 tons in 1932. Watch the ticker.

Watch the movements of the managers of the American house of steel. Steel made more billionaires in bygone years than petroleum. Andrew Carnegie amassed his huge fortune in the industrial field of steel making. There were many others like him. He fought organized labor almost to a finish. And the record of the past shows that the toilers in the steel plants in the days gone by worked the longest hours of all American wage earners. As has been said, public opinion forced the change. Steel kings saw the handwriting on the wall. Now there are national recovery act codes and Col. Hugh S. Johnson, a private citizen who is not a millionaire or a multimillionaire, is the czar of the industrial world.

FRANK C. DAVIS GIVEN RECOGNITION

Frank C. Davis of San Antonio has accepted an appointment as regional counsel in Southwest Texas for the federal home owners corporation. In a telegram received by the Alamo City barrister Sen. Sheppard and Connally offered him his choice as general counsel for the state, which would require his residence in Dallas, or the regional place with headquarters in San Antonio. Mr. Davis accepted the latter because it would not require a change of residence.

He is another of the old guard. For years and years he was a close personal friend of the late William Jennings Bryan. For years he was one of the leaders of the democratic pros of the commonwealth. He was one of the 40 immortals at Baltimore. He fought, bled but did not die for William Gibbs McAdoo in San Francisco in 1920, when James M. Cox was nominated after a long deadlock and the very gifted orator in the grave and the democratic convention of Platte river declared that his heart was in the grave because the democratic convention named a wet candidate on a beer barrel platform." Of course, this was not true. Leaders of the two major parties had a gentleman's agreement in 1920. They declared prohibition a closed issue or incident in the life of the social order and recommended the enforcement of all laws and not one law.

Frank C. Davis is widely known the Southwest over. He is said to be a regular—that is, that he ever bows to the wisdom of the majority. A lifelong pro, during his active career he has been identified, with and without the party councils, as an advocate of the noble experiment. He is an able lawyer and an honest man. That is his record under the skies of Texas.

TEXAS MULTIMILLIONAIRE SUMMERING IN COLORADO

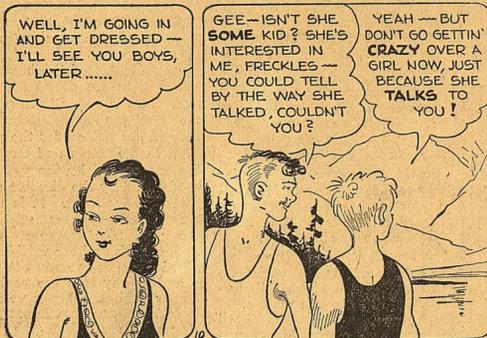

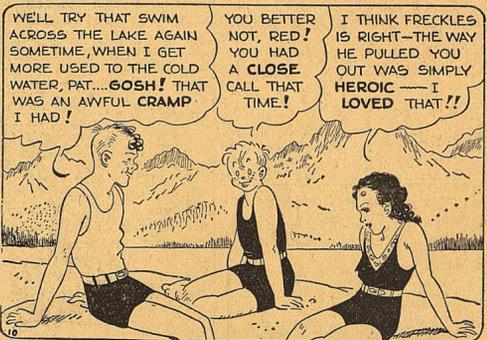

William Thomas Waggoner, 81, known the country over as the cattleman-capitalist of Texas, is summering in Colorado. Indeed, it is said that the Waggoner estate has a value of 50 million. His health has been precarious, and he is nearing the end of the trail. He built Arlington Downs in the county of Tarrant, said to be one of the most beautiful and costly race tracks in America. From youthful manhood he has been a lover of fine horses and fine cattle. For 60 years the Waggoners have been cattle barons of the Southwest. Now the best known of the tribe is facing a setting sun. Arlington Downs has won a national reputation. Kings and queens of the Waggoner stables have won a national reputation. It is said that in November there will be a racing program on at Arlington that will be second to none in America. The man who kept the racing spirit alive and who has ever been a lover of the horse may not be present.

Reach for a Lucky — for always Luckies Please!

A woman's reason for liking a man's cigarette

Maybe you'll think I'm a bit inconsistent. Most things I'm fond of are really quite feminine... dainty, frilly frocks—delicate deserts—yes, and delicate compliments, too. To me my cigarette is a personal thing—it touches my lips—so give me one with real character. For some reason or other, I find that whenever I reach for a Lucky, always "Luckies Please". They're as mild and pure as can be—I wonder if "Toasting" isn't the reason after all!

SOUTHERN WOMAN NEMESIS OF JOB SEEKERS

Editor's Note: This is another story in a series concerning the women appointed by President Roosevelt to key positions.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—Mrs. Lucille Foster McMillin, daughter of a cotton planter and widow of a diplomat, is another of the women from whom President Roosevelt expects great things.

The commission's staff, however, has been surprised by her ability as an administrator and by her utterly cool temper.

Employees of the library were chosen because of their ability, instead of their political affiliations. On the staff, for instance are 50 foreigners, engaged in translating literature of other countries into English.

The translators include eight Chinese who spend their days transcribing the written word from the land of Confucius.

The gent to step into his shoes this year was young Blouy Ryan. The fighting youngster is everything Jackson was at his best, and his peppy play is what has inspired the Giants to league-leading heights.

Connie Mack has secured a youngster in Eddie Maveski, who will don the wind pad when Mickey folds up.

Then there's Billy Brubaker for Pie Traynor in the Pirates' camp. Van Atta for Herb Pennock down Yankee way.

Wonder if the goose that laid the golden eggs has gone off the gold standard yet?

County Notes DESDEMONA

Special Correspondent.

DESDEMONA, Aug. 10.—The fire Saturday morning was the first one in Desdemona in sixteen months. At five o'clock the fire siren gave forth its shrill notes calling the people of the town to the home of J. W. Griffin which was blazing all over the roof when it was discovered by neighbors who rushed over and waked Mr. and Mrs. Griffin and their daughter, Mary. The flames were eating their way through the timbers so rapidly that only a few pieces of furniture were saved and hardly any of their personal belongings were gathered up in their excitement. Mr. Griffin lost his spectacles and also his false teeth. The house was one of the most convenient and best built ones in town, having been erected during boom days and first occupied by J. D. Steakley and family and then by the late Levi Anderson and family and was sold by Mrs. Anderson to the Griffins.

Losses were partially covered by insurance but many belongings were burned that money could not pay.

West Texans on the official West Texas Fair Tour will join in the "Texas Day" festivities—dedication of the exhibit, an "All Texas" dinner, a presentation of Aide by the Texas Opera Association—and will be back home in time to vote Aug. 26th.

The tour, endorsed by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by the Fort Worth Junior Chamber of Commerce, will leave Fort Worth at 2:25 p. m. Aug. 11th, after crossing Texas on the Texas and Pacific and Fort Worth and Denver City Lines earlier that day.

On the return trip the train will arrive in Fort Worth at 9:45 p. m. Aug. 25 and will be as far west as Pecos before 11 a. m. on election day.

Husband Pleased After Wife Lost BULKY FAT

Reduced 21 Pounds—Skin Clearer and Feels Much Better

"I've lost exactly 21 lbs. with 3 jars of Kruschen and am so happy to get rid of that bulky fat. My husband is very pleased with me. My skin is clearer and I feel so much better since I'm not so heavy on my feet. Friends say I look much better." Mrs. Norma Spickler, Maugansville, Mr.

To get rid of double chins, bulging hips, ugly rolls of fat on waist and upper arms SAFELY and without discomfort—at the same time build up glorious health and acquire a clear skin, bright eyes, energy and vivaciousness—look younger and feel it—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

One jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at Paramount Pharmacy or any drugstore the world over. Make sure you get Kruschen because it's SAFE. Money back if not satisfied.

The 10:13 And The 4:25

THE 10:13 is distinctly feminine. Cars of well-dressed, vivacious ladies. There is quiet but eager talk of babies and bridge—of parties and servants. But, more particularly of shirts and shoes, of rompers and rugs... Above all, of prices and values.

But watch the 4:25, when the ladies are homeward bound. Some are worn and weary—and quiet. Others are still vivacious and gay.

Had you trailed the tired ladies, as they were shopping, you doubtless would have seen them wandering from store to store, from counter to counter, asking, searching, pricing—hour after hour.

Had you followed the ladies who again are talking babies and bridge, dinners and parties—you would have seen them consulting lists—going directly to this store, to that department, to this counter, readily finding just what they wanted at the price they intended to pay.

Before leaving home they read the advertisements in their newspapers, made notes, clipped certain ads, laid plans.

To save time and money and effort, shop at home first in the pages of this newspaper.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

The rustic reigns supreme if you're interested in homes.

No longer does the clever wife go a-shopping for the delicate and no longer does she stagger home laden with fragile stuff over which to gasp with fear.

Earthenware and wooden articles make good housebells. . . if the game is not too rough. At any rate, they're safe to set before your favorite guest's worst child.

Furniture has passed the toppling stage. It sets firmly upon the floor. . . it squats.

Spreads have given way to quilts. . . to liven rustic beds in the summer, to add coziness to your room when it's snow-time.

Rugs take on the appearance of having been thrown from the chandelier, and landing. . . most anywhere.

Only. . . chandeliers are among the outs. In an exclusive home lately I crudely and openly counted eight lamps in one room. I immediately made an observation. . . lamps are good.

Also what-nots. While hanging your hand-painted plates and colonial ladies and wooden drawings, add an antiquated pitcher and snuff jar on a tiny dangling frame. They are admirable.

Cookie jars are full. . . if you're wise. Grandmother kept them that way, and we're back to her curve on the life cycle. People insist on dropping in now. . . and then, and hunger is something of a dominant human urge.

Breakfast and luncheon cloths are wildly modern. They splash with color. They make you brightly dizzy with dots and squares and zig-zag patterns. Napkins are necessary, of course. . . even paper ones.

We're still drinking punch. . . for awhile, anyhow. It clinks with ice in anything that will hold it. . . material unimportant.

We have a few more ethical summer days. . . yards and lawns are raging. Breakfast, tea, or summer supper is preferable in the open. Wooden knives and forks are popular. . . and get them crude.

Even man has weakened. He is known to be fond of light salads and cold meats and pickles while the heat wave hovers over us. After all these years. . . hail, woman the conqueror.

So much for the ladies. As for man:

- He pays the bills, Eats the light salads, Knocks over the lamps, And drops ashes on the prize quilts, The rustic reigns supreme if you're interested in homes.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS.—Making a dash about the town with nothing but sport clothes in mind we've done a good day's job and here are our five suggestions:

CHANEL: A beige skirt and short jacket that fastens at the throat and flops open the rest of the way. Two square outside pockets are plastered on the skirt in front. The blouse is navy blue with white circles printed on it. It has a scarf tie and a belt that fastens with a bow in front. Beige hat and gloves and shoes, and a navy blue purse.

JEANNE LANVIN: Beige suit with plain but slightly flaring skirt and hip-length jacket, double-breasted. Brilliant red scarf at the throat and a blouse of cream satin. Hat and purse of beige; gloves and shoes of dark brown.

MOLYNEUX: Long swaggy coat of beige with small and flir standup collar and straight sleeves with no cuffs. Big patch pockets. This is worn over an angora two-piece dress (light and cool despite it being angora) of old dusty china blue. The jacket blouse of the dress fastens at the throat with a silk tie of dusty china pink. The hat is light beige with a band of dark brown suede around the crown. Gloves are beige and shoes are sport oxfords in dark brown and buckskin.

MAINBOCHER: Plain skirt and long, loose coat of dove gray with a blouse of silk in a zebra stripe in orange and coral. Gray shoes, hat and purse.

AUGUSTABERNARD: One-piece dress, severely plain in buttoned dress with a black sash and a blue and white scarf tie. White gloves, and a white hat with a black suede band around the crown, the same width as the belt. Black purse; black and white shoes.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries DICK RADEB, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment and pleads for a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

The same day Eve learns that she is to be sent to New York by the store and must leave that night. She does not tell Dick this until they are at dinner. He sees her aboard her train. In New York Eve meets FREDA CARTER, dress buyer for Bixby's, who introduces her to THERON REECE. Reece is much attracted by Eve. He suggests her by trying to kiss her in a taxi. Eve leaves him without even saying good night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

EVE sat at the desk in her hotel room until nearly dawn, writing a letter to Dick. After her unpleasant experience with Theron Reece in the taxicab she longed for the safety and contentment she always felt in Dick's presence. In the letter she did not mention any of her companions except Freda Carter.

Freda left the next evening after a day in which she and Eve were extremely busy. They dined together and Freda asked Eve to call at her apartment after she returned to Lake City.

For the rest of the week Eve devoted herself to work but in spite of this preoccupation she was worried. No word had come from Dick. Pride would not allow her to call him by long distance, though she hungered for the sound of his voice. Each night she wrote him a long letter, pouring out her love.

After Freda's departure Eve felt the need of companionship and called on Irene Prentiss. They had been classmates in high school. Freda had gone to New York immediately following graduation and now, after five years of marriage, was still working in the office of a financial magazine where she had begun as stenographer. Today, however, she was assistant editor of that journal.

Irene appeared with several galley proofs in her hand. Eve thought she looked tired and a bit worn. Irene seemed glad to see her but explained that it was press day. Eve realized she should have telephoned to learn when it would be convenient for her to call. Evidently New York business offices were not so informal as those in Lake City.

They went to lunch together but it was a hasty meal at a nearby restaurant. Irene wore a dark fur jacket that Eve admired. "It's really dyed bunny," the other admitted. "The difference between this and the sable I coveted went into stocks. I'm playing the market, darling, and it's the most exciting thing I ever did. I didn't need much to start; I pyramid. You must let me give you some tips!"

LATER she invited Eve to ride home with her for dinner and at five o'clock they met. Eve was immediately thrown into a seething mass of humanity homeward bound via the subway. Ellsworth Prentiss, Freda's husband, was an instructor in a private school and each afternoon arrived home an hour or so before his wife returned from the office. He usually started preparations for their dinner.

The Prentiss apartment consisted of a luxuriously furnished living room and a spacious sleeping room with all its furnishings in pairs—twin beds, two chests of drawers, a slipper chair and sturdy

Eve tried to tell him how much she had worried all week, fearing he would not forgive her for having run away.

DICK tucked her into the roadster and whisked her away from the crowded thoroughfares to the boulevard along the lake shore. He had reserved a suite at the Miramar, one of the most attractive of Lake City's apartment hotels. Eve was enchanted with the rooms. Through narrow French windows she looked out over the idle, wintry lake.

"Dick!" she cried. He caught her in his arms and held her close. Then she tried to tell him how much she had worried all week, fearing he would not forgive her having run away.

"Do you mind awfully that your wife is going to continue working?" she asked hesitantly. "I mind-yes," Dick answered, "but I told you last week how I feel about it. From now on it's up to you."

Eve felt uncomfortable. She was not quite sure what attitude she wished him to take in this matter. "You didn't write," she accused him.

"I didn't run away from you," he reminded her. "And—it was silly, I suppose—but I couldn't bring myself to address a letter to my wife as Miss Eve Bayless. Besides, I was having too much grief on the job last week to find time to write in the daytime. Evenings I spent looking at apartments."

"Well, the last I saw of you you seemed to have pretty lively consolation," Eve said, poutingly. "What do you mean?" "I thought perhaps your time was taken up with your friends," Eve had not meant to refer to the young man and girls Dick had met at the station the night of their marriage. She waited now, expecting an apology or at least an explanation, but none came.

"Who was he?" Eve's voice was pitched a note too high but she managed to keep it steady. Dick did not answer her question. He was simply being exasperating; making her be explicit. Very well!

"Who was the man you met at the station?" she repeated. "Joe Casper."

"I've never heard you mention him. Is he a friend of yours?" "He's the timekeeper on the job."

"And the girls—who were they?" "They answered to the names of Peggy and Babe."

"I didn't know you liked that sort of girls."

"What sort?" "Oh, the kind who picks up a strange man and lets him call her by her first name right from the start."

"So that's it! Well, you're wrong. Those girls are harmless enough. Casper's engaged to Peggy if that reassures you."

"Where did you go after you put me on the train?" "To the Merry-go-round," Dick answered frankly. The Merry-go-round was Lake City's best known night club.

EVE considered this. "And I suppose the girls went too?" she asked.

"Yes—of course," Dick was obviously irritated. "A perfect frame-up!" Eve accused.

"Now, see here, Eve!" Dick exploded, "it was entirely an accident that Joe happened to see me there. I didn't know I was going to the station at that time and you know it!"

"But the fact remains that on our wedding night you went out to have a good time with someone else!"

"Well, what did you expect me to do—go home and cry!" "But you had all those evenings!" Eve sputtered. "I suppose you were too busy with Joe Casper's friends—"

"And that will be that!" Dick said with emphasis. Silence. Then, with head high, Eve went to the bathroom to bathe her eyes with witch hazel and repair her complexion.

When she reappeared she smiled at Dick wistfully. He held out his arms and she slipped into them. Eve whispered coaxingly, "Just how did my darling spend his evenings last week?"

With a snort of impatience Dick withdrew his arms, turned and walked to the window. Then he said, "Looking for an apartment, of course."

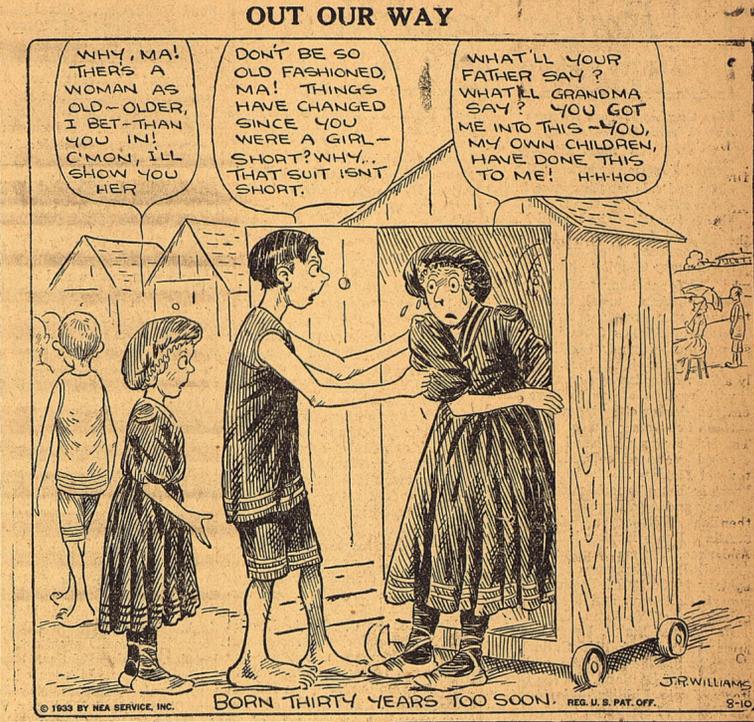

"This one is perfect," Eve assured him. "I'm sure we'll never tire of it."

Dick was silent. Obviously something was wrong. Eve made another attempt. "It was a terrible thing for me to do, I know," she conceded. "I don't believe any girl ever had such a situation to face on her wedding day. I'm sure no one ever had so unsatisfactory a honeymoon."

Dick turned and her pent-up expression quite melted him. "That wasn't our honeymoon," he answered huskily. "We're beginning our honeymoon now."

But the little quarrel marred the happiness of Eve's homecoming. It erected a barrier of resentment and distrust between them that did not disappear.
