

Board To Regulate Prices Is Being Considered

MILLION AND A HALF HAVE GOTTEN JOBS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Approximately 1,500,000 workers have gone back to their jobs in the nation's industrial areas since last March, Secretary of Labor Perkins said today.

The manufacturing industries of the country re-employed 1,100,000 wage earners during the four months, while about 300,000 went back to their jobs in the non-manufacturing industries, Secretary Perkins said.

Miss Perkins said department statisticians estimated 400,000 employed were re-absorbed in the mills and factories during July and that the purchasing power of workers in the industrial areas had increased about $29,000,000 a week over the amount paid in March.

Plan Four-Day Trip To Manila

MANILA, Within two years' time, 52 passengers will be able to board a 4,000-horsepower plane in Manila and arrive in San Francisco four days later, if present plans of the Pan-American Airways Corporation for a passenger freight service between San Francisco and Hong Kong are fully realized, according to Major James H. "Jimmie" Doolittle, famed American speed flier and test pilot.

The schedule of stops, already worked out by Pan-American Airways for the San Francisco-Hong Kong service, Major Doolittle said, includes Honolulu, Wake Island, Guam and Manila. The company estimates coverage of the proposed route in five days, their planes reaching Manila in four.

Designs for the powerful machines necessary for such an undertaking are nearing completion. Outstanding features will be four 1,000-horsepower engines in each plane and a carrying capacity of 52 passengers.

Two Are Injured In Car Accident

Miss Mary Delmont and Miss Walden Kribbs were painfully but not seriously injured in an automobile accident on Strawn highway this afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock.

The two were driving out of the driveway from the Dr. Wier home on Strawn road when they almost collided with an approaching car. In order to avoid a collision the car was swerved and went over the embankment into the ditch along the side of the road, overturning.

Both occupants of the car sustained cuts and bruises but were not seriously injured.

World's Fair Trip Contest Will Close Tuesday, Aug. 22

Tuesday, August 22, the Times World's Fair contest will come to a close and the votes will be counted Tuesday night. Announcement of the winner will be made in the Times of Wednesday, August 23.

With a little less than a week left in which to work for votes, and since there is no indication as to how the contestants stand, it is expected that the competition will be keener this week than ever before and the contestants will be working harder than ever in order to secure as many votes as possible between now and the close of the contest.

Votes are being given this last week at the ratio of 10 for 1; in other words ten votes are now being given where only five was given before, so those who make purchases this week from merchants in the contest will get ten times as many votes as they would have secured on purchases made earlier in the contest.

APPROVAL OF OIL CODE NOW IS FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Approval today of the oil code, including full agreement to it by the industry was forecast by Secretary of Interior Ickes and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, after a conference with President Roosevelt.

"We are agreed on the general principle of the code, but as to specific details, you will have to wait until the draft is ready," Johnson said.

Ickes declared "we were discussing the oil code and very real progress on it was made. I hope to have it signed today."

Questioned closely concerning a possible price-fixing clause, both insisted that no details would be revealed until the draft was ready to be given out by the recovery administration.

License Clerk Gives Brides Cook Books

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok.—Chiff Myers, marriage license clerk here has provided 1,200 brides with his 128-page cook book since the first of the year.

The tome, of which Myers is author, contains recipes for domestic and foreign dishes, a series of articles on beauty hints and the care of babies.

Myers gives a copy, bound in white imitation leather and lettered in gold, free to each bride as he issues a license to wed.

Oregonians Unearth Prehistoric Fossils

DAYVILLE, Ore.—Two turtle fossils and the remains of what appears to have been a huge prehistoric reptile have been unearthed by A. M. Zevely and Ray Able at Blue Gap, 16 miles east of here.

The first turtle found was somewhat broken, but the diggers found a much larger one which they hope to bring out of the ground whole at a later date.

They were unable to remove the reptilian fossil because of lack of proper tools, but the two men plan to secure expert aid to remove it for identification.

Local Relief Work To Be Held To Minimum Pending Passage of Bond Issue At Election On August 26th

Copies of a telegram from Lawrence Westbrook, chairman of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission to Earl Conner, chairman of the Eastland county committee and Mr. Conner's reply were made public here today by E. A. Ringold, local relief administrator.

The telegrams urge the county and local committees to reduce relief expenditures as much as possible until after Aug. 26, when the $20,000,000 state relief bond issue will be voted upon, in order that some funds may be retained in the county should the bond issue fail.

It was pointed out by Mr. Ringold that if the bond issue is not passed no more federal funds will be available for Texas and the small amount of money on hand at present will have to last throughout the winter and until conditions improve to such an extent that unemployment is wiped out. If this step becomes necessary only cases of dire need and starvation can be handled and practically all of those on the relief work rolls now will be eliminated entirely.

Should the bond issue pass at the election Aug. 26, relief funds for September will be available and it will be possible to put more men back to work each week, part of the fund coming from the bonds and part from the federal government. Without the passage of the bond issue, however, it will be necessary to curtail all relief work in order to preserve funds for cases of dire need, making the money last for an indefinite period.

The telegram from Lawrence Westbrook read:

"This commission requests you assemble your board Monday, together with county judge and mayor to consider following: First, desirability reducing relief immediately to absolute minimum to conserve funds for extreme emergencies in event bond issue fails. Second, making estimate of local public or private funds available or to be made available to meet local need at present and this winter bearing in mind no federal or state funds can be had after Sept. 1 if bond issue fails. Please wire your conclusions night letter Tuesday."

After the meeting was held, as requested in the telegram, Mr. Conner sent the following wire to the state director of relief:

"Relating your wire thirteenth, Eastland county committee of welfare met Monday and concluded that relief funds now on hand should be conserved for aiding those in extreme distress, but if the bond issue passes and state funds be available after August, relief work then be resumed."

Laborers Hear Good Talks At a Regular Meeting

A large attendance of unskilled labor, craftsmen and citizens met at the Elks arena last night. Mayor Harry A. Logsdon, principal speaker, spoke on the NRA.

E. A. Ringold spoke along the lines of R. F. C., bringing out the real purpose of the R. F. C. and who will derive benefits. Prof. R. F. Holloway also spoke, touching on the NRA and R. F. C. and explained the $20,000,000 bond issue to be voted on at the election Aug. 26.

President Henry Hannold of the labor organization presided.

Tax Violations Have Been Unearthed and Indictments Returned

AUSTIN.—The Texas legislature's sweetest gift to the taxpayers—Comptroller Sheppard's new gasoline enforcement division—is steadily stretching out over the state after fugitive millions in public money.

The enforcement "army" now numbers more than 70 trained men and establishment of two more district headquarters has brought the total of such offices to eight, according to the latest report of J. W. McReynolds, division chief, to the comptroller. The report was requested by the Texas Good Roads association.

The new district offices, already established and working are in Corpus Christi and Eastland, Mr. McReynolds' report said, and they augment similar centers in San Antonio, Houston, Longview, Dallas, Fort Worth and Amarillo.

To date, the comptroller's operatives have obtained 36 felony indictments against alleged gas tax violators. Three refineries have been placed in receivership to preserve assets.

The great benefit, however, has not come from prosecutions but from the $300,000-per-month increase in gas tax payments, which is expected to give a $1,000,000 "bonus" yearly to the common school fund, a similar amount to the bond refunding fund, and $2,000,000 to highway fund.

Comptroller Sheppard added that "just as a sideline," his men have raised cigarette tax collections at such a rapid rate that he expects to add from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to the school fund yearly from "smokes." All of the cigarette tax now goes to the schools.

Raid Nets Wanted Man; One Escapes

SILAHOMA SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 17.—A score of officers raided a farmhouse described as an outlaw hideout eight miles east of here today, shot and critically wounded one man and captured a woman.

The man, identified as Gene Johnson, about 35, was brought to a hospital here, near death from a bullet wound in the head. His wife was shot through the arm, arrested and brought to jail. A second man escaped. Authorities said Johnson was wanted in Oklahoma on a murder charge and was wanted in connection with several bank robberies.

Fighting Breaks Out On Havana Street

HAVANA, Aug. 17.—Machine gun and rifle fire broke Havana's post-revolution calm today when police and a battalion of soldiers besieged a house from which Machadistas, believed to be members of former President Machado's police, shot two policemen and two soldiers.

Sheriff Hero of Gang Gun Battle

Appendicitis Is Cause of Many Deaths in Texas

AUSTIN.—During the past year 605 persons have died of appendicitis in Texas, according to the director of vital statistics for the state department of health. Many of these deaths were caused by the persons' ignorance of the disease.

There are two forms of appendicitis, acute and chronic. The form that appears suddenly with great pain and sickness is acute. Chronic appendicitis may extend over a long period of time and consists of slight attacks at intervals, but, at some time, there will usually occur an attack more than any before and the disease may then become serious.

The acute appears suddenly. The first symptom is pain, sometimes over the entire abdomen, sometimes in a particular portion in the right side of the abdomen. Sometimes this pain extends around to the back or down into the right limb. The pain is cramp-like and is often mistaken for colic. The fever rises to 100 or 101 degrees and the pulse becomes quickened. Chronic appendicitis is the result of repeated attacks of the milder forms of appendicitis.

How to prevent appendicitis? Keep the body in perfect health as long as possible. Watch your teeth, your tonsils, any place where an infection may occur. Get plenty of good food, plenty of sleep, plenty of exercise. Have a thorough medical examination at least once a year and have your teeth examined and cleaned by a dentist at least once every six months. This kind of watchfulness will not only help you to avoid appendicitis, it will help you to avoid many other illnesses as well.

BATES' ARREST SPOILED PLAN OF DETECTIVES

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 17.—When two Denver detectives arrested Albert Bates, lieutenant in the Harvey Bailey gang of marauders, last Saturday, they unwittingly spoiled plans of federal investigators to inaugurate an entirely new deal for criminals, it became known here today.

The code for the Bailey troupe was to have been a shower of bullets poured into them in a trap which was well planned by United States detectives and Colorado officers.

The Bailey gang, after collecting ransom from Charles Urschel, cast about for another wealthy victim, and, according to police, selected Guy Waggoner, wealthy Fort Worth oil man.

In some way, not yet revealed, advance plans of the kidnaping got in the hands of the Waggoner family and a trap was set for the kidnapers.

Arrest of Bates, it was believed, spoiled the plan of abduction and also the trap to mow down the abductors. Waggoner was being closely guarded at Colorado Springs today.

Relief Commission Is Building Up An Emergency Fund

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—An emergency fund of $1,750,000 is being built up by the state rehabilitation and relief commission here to feed women and children, only in case state relief fails, Col. Lawrence Westbrook, director of relief, announced here today.

This step is being taken after consulting county relief boards he said. If the proposed $20,000,000 state relief bonds are defeated at the Aug. 26 election, Westbrook said he knows positively that federal aid will be discontinued.

WOULD STOP PROFITEERING OVER NATION

Price Control Has Become One of The Critical Problems.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Strong support for creation of a price control board to regulate price advances and guard against profiteering developed in the Roosevelt administration today.

Control of prices has become one of the most critical problems facing the national recovery administration.

Advisors to Administrator Hugh Johnson have stressed the argument that fundamental purposes of the recovery act will be nullified if wages do not increase more than prices.

Supporters of the price control board plan point out that an agency of this character could keep an adequate check on all industries and determine when price increases were justified by increased costs resulting from re-employment agreements or NRA codes.

Signers of the agreement pledge themselves not to raise prices except as necessitated by actual cost advances.

Meanwhile the recovery administration called on civic leaders of every city and town to complete plans for co-operative efforts to place every home and every store under the Blue Eagle insignia by Labor Day.

Frank Wilson, organization division director, announced that the week beginning Aug. 28 had been set aside for culmination of the Blue Eagle drive.

Local emergency re-employment units already have been established in more than 6,000 communities, he said, and house-to-house canvasses are under way in hundreds of cities for the purpose of obtaining consumers' pledges to buy from Blue Eagle stores.

Heavy Guard Is Kept Over Bailey To Prevent Escape

DALLAS, Aug. 17.—A heavy guard was maintained at the Dallas county jail today where Harvey Bailey and four others charged in the Charles Urschel kidnaping are held, against reports of a gang land attempt to liberate them.

Department of justice agents and county officers, armed with machine guns and high-powered rifles, kept watch over the prisoners throughout the night and patrolled highways leading into Dallas, looking for the reported two carloads of gunmen en route to free Bailey.

Negro Scheduled to Be Electrocutted

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 17. Barring executive intervention, the electric chair late tonight will claim R. T. Bennett, 31, Dallas negro, who choked Mrs. Leona Buchanan to death last winter.

Mrs. Buchanan was throttled in her Dallas apartment with a silk stocking shortly after a number of guests had departed from a party.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A CURE FOR WORRY: Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.

WHY NOT AN ECONOMY?

If aged women in the Texas Confederate Woman's home got a thrill out of being in politics, when the governor exercised her veto power and rejected the present superintendent, in favor of a good Ferguson woman they should have realized the home was built in politics, and has been maintained in politics ever since.

For instance, last year and this, when it was shown that entire hospital and dormitory facilities at the Confederate home—an institution built for 2,000 people and now housing 130 veterans—are occupied only by a few women, wives of veterans in the men's home, politics prevented placing the Confederate widows there. Friends of Mrs. Thomas, whose reappointment has just been vetoed by the governor, raised such a protest that neither the board of control nor the legislature would consider the saving of many thousands of dollars a year. Also, the better facilities and ampler hospital space would better have cared for the old ladies. Numbers of Confederate wives already are at the home, so that it would have been no innovation for the widows to have been placed at that home.

Now the woman governor has dictated the selection of a woman superintendent of the woman's home acceptable to her.

The legislature ought, in September, to merge the two homes, and apply the many thousands of dollars a year savings to pay the attendants a living wage, instead of cutting the pay of $40 to $60 per month workers 10 per cent, and then forcing them to discount their warrants another 5 to 10 per cent.

That would take a little of the politics out of it.

PAYING THE TEXAS RELIEF BILL

It is reasonably clear now what will be one of the chief questions before the September special session of the legislature.

That issue will be paying the state's share of direct relief costs.

The state now has the choice of paying the whole bill as it goes, or of spreading the payments out over about 15 years. That choice will be decided in the Aug. 26 election, in the passage or failure of the amendment authorizing a $20,000,000 public works bond issue.

If the bond issue carries—if voters decide they don't want to pay the whole relief bill during the lean depression year—then the legislature in September will authorize issuance of part of the bonds. The lawmakers at the same time will provide a way to pay off the bonds as they mature. The bonds must be met otherwise than by a property tax.

That means, if the bonds carry, a small, limited sales tax on final sales only, with foodstuffs exempted, to pay off the bonds.

If the bond issue is voted down, the only alternative is a larger sales tax to carry on direct relief on a pay-as-you-go basis.

DICK WALTHALL PASSES

Richard B. Walthall, who served his state in many capacities, is dead. He dropped dead at Longview a few days before he was to have taken the latest of the long series of responsible state posts to which he had been elected. He had been named superintendent of the Confederate home, effective Sept. 1.

Mr. Walthall, former Nacogdoches county newspaper editor, went to the Texas capitol as secretary to Gov. Pat Neff. He held offices under the railroad commission, and served as member and chairman of the state board of control. He was winding up his work with the railroad commission, preparatory to taking his new place, when death struck.

Mr. Walthall was an able public official. His service in various public posts was further proof that the state still is able to enlist conscientious, honest men in its service.

He left a long record of public duty well performed, a record unstained and unblemished by any trace of self-seeking or by any taint of corruption. His memory will be cherished by many thousands who called him friend.

ANOTHER $100,000 DEAL

Charles F. Urschel is home. The ransom? A family affair. But a gang got it, a gang of killers, dope-heads, thugs, a gang spawned in contempt for the 18th amendment.

The United States government was called in when Urschel was kidnaped. Now what will Edgar Hoover and his investigators do? Will they find the kidnapers? Will they shoot them on sight? Or will they bring them to jail? Or will another Urschel be captured in Oklahoma City, to be held for ransom, and finally buy his release? Death is too good for body-snatchers.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Ever so many miles an airplane beacon flashes its light across the blank darkness . . . a red streak follows every flash.

Ever so many minutes something happens . . . the papers follow each event with red ink . . . it's a banner or we run it on an inside page as a fill-in.

Ever so often we recall the days of bustles and fans when we drank from mustache cups and spoke loudly of a bank account. Sadly we glance through a scarlet book.

That's the way we get in the red. The air business must have started it. Anyhow, it's something definite to blame . . . definite and impossible to approach. We like that . . . it prevents a show-down.

Now about present conditions . . . I guess there have been enough sighs emitted in the last few months to inflate the whole world including all the stocks and bonds in the country.

And enough tears soaked into pillows to wipe out a century of debts. There again you have the lack of co-operation and co-ordination.

Then somebody got the bright idea of pitching tilting little tunes above the heads of the people, with happy giggling words to express American optimism.

So we gurgled and soar into melody something akin to:
 "Happy days are (gulp) here again . . ." (sigh).

(swallow) "Sing a new (sigh) song . . ."
 (Ohhhhhhh) . . . "Hey, young fellow, it (sniff) ain't gonna rain no (sigh) more . . ."

And then we wonder why all the propaganda and morale scattered around over the country isn't doing any good.

Some of us can't understand the NRA. That's because we're too busy taking quivering breaths to get the meaning of the move.

And some of us just can't figure out how the country can possibly snap out of a four-year depression in a few months.

That's the trouble today. Too many of us have been figuring too long . . . Mr. President doesn't ask us to work the problem out.

He wants a little help. Wants us to shift our lifeless figures from the curbs and quit gabbing about what the world needs . . . and do our part.

We're getting fat and sluggish and losing our youthful figures with so much sitting around and philosophizing.

So quit sighing, and give us a hand.

Ft. Worth Brewery To Have Beer Ready If It Is Legalized

FORT WORTH.—The Texas Brewing company here will put on its first "batch" of beer a few days before the statewide vote on 3.2 beer legalization Aug. 26, Brewmaster Oscar Lamsens has announced.

Near beer is made by de-alcoholizing regular beer, he explained. If beer is legalized in Texas for sale by Sept. 15, the alcohol will be allowed to remain. The company, newly organized, will produce 3-100 gallons at each brewing, Lamsens said.

WASHINGTON.—The silent sage of Palo Alto must have chuckled the other day as he stretched himself under his rig tree and observed that, despite all the damning he received from the Democrats last November, he is now three up on the Squire of Krum Elbow.

Mr. Hoover was in office seven months when the October crash of '29 came; Mr. Roosevelt had been at the helm less than three months when Wall Street again began skyrocketing prices, and the first crash under the new administration came in July, exactly four months after we had been advised that the money-changers had fled from the temple. It appears now that they must have been hiding behind some of the pillars.

The same old racketeers are at work roping in the suckers, who have apparently learned nothing during the last four years. The middle of July saw the bull syndicates rigging the market as they rigged it for the October, '29, killings, and the turnover of some 30,000,000 shares in a single week before the Big Crash.

There is a feeling here among some of the President's well-wishers that unless something is done to curb the Wall Street gold-brick artists who operate in the name of business, Roosevelt and the Democratic recovery program will be wrecked. The latest market orgy which many potus persons would have us believe was an act of God, caused a return of the old "jumpy" feeling. One or two more like it may destroy Roosevelt's progress in restoring public confidence, said a Democratic leader who believes that Wall Street should be packaded.

J. P. Morgan & Co., has caused to be printed and mailed to "key" people in the United States 200,000 copies of a pamphlet containing reprints of statements submitted by Morgan and two of his partners to the senate banking committee in May and June during the time Ferdinand Pecora was probing into the company's private affairs. This is the first time in the history of the firm that it has bothered to communicate with the public on such an extensive scale to present its views. All the newspapers here received a copy, and they are wondering how their names happened to get on this list and not on the earlier Morgan preferred lists. Anyhow, they were "thinking of us" this time, and that's something.

As I predicted in this column two or three weeks ago, the Smith supporters in the democratic presidential primary and convention contests are not slated for many awards from Jim Farley, administrator of the Tammany machine. Roosevelt, for example, Roosevelt was beaten there 3 to 1 in the primary when Senators Walsh and Coolidge, Governor Ely and the entire democratic state machine lined up solidly behind the Tammany sachem.

All that crowd was given a bitter pill the other day when former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, a republican, was named as a state adviser under the recovery act program. One-time Progressive who has been consistently on the "outs" with the Bay State G. O. P. machine, Fuller got himself elected to the governorship three times despite everything the Old Guard tried to do to stop him. I don't myself see how this gentleman merits anything at the hands of Mr. Roosevelt.

The next blow came when a little known bank president from Gardner, Joseph P. Carney, was named collector of internal revenue in opposition to the plans of the democratic state machine and even against the wishes of Mayor James M. Curley, "one wolf" Roosevelt - before - Chicago bandwagonite.

It is reported here that neither senator was consulted, and James Roosevelt is said to have influenced the appointment. Farley, it appears, is building up an entirely new machine, and in doing so is giving the grand snub to all AI's friends.

Federal Radio Commissioner James Hanley, who until his recent appointment was a law partner of Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, floor leader of the Roosevelt forces at the Chicago convention, is worrying the big radio boys. He has announced that he is in favor of more local broadcasting channels, community stations and educational programs, through which local needs may be expressed and satisfied.

Commissioner Hanley is on the right track. "Legislative history of cities, counties, states and the federal government evidences the public interest in and need for education and enlightenment," he says. Nobody is going to control Hanley. He is a man who fits the job, and he knows the political game too well to succumb to the sophistry and the blandishments of the powerful gentlemen who regard the ether as their private domain. We shall see what we shall see.

Diplomatic and radio delegates from the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and Central American republics attending at Mexico City the first wave length conference held on the North American continent are having a hard time reaching an agreement to divide wave lengths on a basis equitable to all countries.

Armstrong, Perry, representing the National Committee on Education by Radio, was barred from the sessions in the Mexican capital. He went there for the purpose of speaking in behalf of the few stations connected with universities and colleges. He was not a delegate, but thought that citizens of any country who are interested in education by radio had a right at least to sit in the galleries to observe what was being done in the disposition of radio channels. But he was mistaken.

There are delegates sitting in that conference who represent the big monopoly boys of Radio Corporation of America. Perry has been a thorn in the side of the crowd that has converted broadcasting into a private business for private profits. He has no illusions, therefore, as to the influence which has kept him and other observers out of the Mexico City conference.

The truth is that he knows all the tricks and wiles of the American radio monopolists, and he has called their bluffs on more than one occasion. They feared he would call their bluffs down there if they let him in, and they were right. So, being something of a diplomat himself, he established his own conferences and told the Mexican, Canadian, Cuban and other delegates that the private commercial interests of the United States had grabbed 79 channels, the lion's share of all the available channels on the North American continent, and had no intention of surrendering any of them if they could help themselves.

Every time there was a recess the Mexicans, Canadians, Cubans and Central Americans learned more on the outside than they learned on the inside. Each time the conference was resumed, they had a better hang of things, and the smooth gentlemen talking for our big radio boys of New York encountered more difficulties.

The conference will last until Domsday unless the Mexicans and Cubans get a square deal, which they have not as yet been given. They were completely ignored when the private radio interests grabbed all the best channels for the advertising of spavin cure, horse liniment, tooth paste, vanishing cream and face-lifting beautifiers.

Old Tascosa Was Not a Bad Place

By United Press
AMARILLO.—Old Tascosa of evil reputation was not such an unmitigatedly bad place as legends of its Boot Hill and "wide open hell" would indicate.

Take the word of Capt. W. H. Ingerton, who lived there as a young man, for it.

What though the 16 graves on Boot Hill were filled by outlaws or reckless cowboys come to an untimely end, even if Billy the Kid did make the town his headquarters in winter as he rustled cattle, although gambling and drinking went unchecked the place had a rugged code of honor that seldom was violated.

There never was a holdup or a burglary in old Tascosa, Captain Ingerton said. Many a time a monte dealer would leave a table stacked with as much as $500. On his return every penny of it still would be there. Operators of the general merchandise store left their establishments wide open at night to accommodate "overnight guests" who slept on the floor, helping themselves to such things as they needed from the selves, always paying the proprietors the next morning.

"Why, we never wrote out a contract in those days," the captain said.

Ingerton's mother was a school teacher in the first school in Tascosa. She had gone to the frontier town to persuade her son to return to civilization. Failing in that, she decided to stay on herself and make a home. Later she organized a Sunday school. There was no established church or preacher.

Speaking of Billy the Kid, Ingerton said:

"The Kid stayed in and around Tascosa all one winter. I remember meeting him one spring day when I was riding. He was a likeable chap.

"Even then Billy the Kid was rustling, and soon after drove the LX and LIT bunch of cattle out. That was the beginning of his downfall."

Quakers Prepare For Modification of "Blue Laws"

By United Press
HARRISBURG, Pa.—The rigid Sunday "Blue Laws" which have insured the solemnity of the Sabbath in Pennsylvania since their enactment by the Colonists in 1794, are expected to be modified this fall by the descendants of those early settlers.

Cities, towns and communities were authorized by the last State Legislature to decide for themselves whether to permit baseball and football games on Sunday afternoons. The majority of voters, it is believed, will favor the Sunday sports.

A Radical Departure
In a state where it once was considered illegal for a man to kiss his wife on Sunday, the move for legalizing sports is considered a radical departure from tradition.

The concession was won only after a hard fight with arguments for "keeping the faith of our forefathers." The referendum bill was passed by the House of Representatives by a vote of 126 to 76, after bitter argument. It was first defeated in the Senate, but on reconsideration it was passed with a three-vote margin. Numerous other measures intended to legalize outdoor relaxation on the Sabbath were defeated, including a bill that would have authorized fishing with one rod and two hooks.

Expected Pinchot to Veto
Governor Gifford Pinchot had been expected to veto the Sunday baseball referendum, but after lengthy consideration he gave it his approval with the argument that, in recent years, Pennsylvania has retreated considerably from its original code of a strictly religious Sabbath. He declared that Pennsylvanians had "abandoned the Puritan Sabbath generations ago" by permitting the playing of golf and tennis on Sundays.

"We have gone a long way since the time when it was illegal for a man to kiss his wife on Sunday," the Governor said.

Change Insignificant
"Compared to the changes already made, the change involved in submitting the question of restricted football and baseball to a vote in each locality is insignificant."

Evidence that the descendants of the Pennsylvania Dutch and German pioneers had altered their opinion of Sabbath holiness was seen in the Governor's assertion that he had received letters from many ministers "who have reached the conclusion that fewer boys will go wrong if they have healthful and wholesome form of outdoor sport to keep them from gambling and evil resorts in their free time on Sunday afternoons."

Will Discuss Code West Texas Editors

By United Press
SWEETWATER, Texas.—Effects of code rulings and regulations on newspapers will form the convention theme of the West Texas Press association which meets here Aug. 18 and 19.

Uniform application of the newspaper code in West Texas is hoped for, Acting Secretary R. Henderson Shuffler, Odessa, has written editor-members of the association.

"Code Comments" is the title of the president's annual address to be delivered by Ralph Shuffler of the Odessa News-Times. Other speakers on the morning of Aug. 18 will be Mayor J. P. Majors of Sweetwater and Charles A. Guy of the Avalanche-Journal, Lubbock. Committees on nominations and resolutions also will be appointed that morning.

A banquet luncheon at noon, presided over by Walter D. Cline, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will feature Peter Molyneux, editor of the Texas Weekly, as principal speaker.

Addresses scheduled for the afternoon session include "Selling Advertising," by Henry W. Stanley, Dallas Chamber of Commerce; "Short Cuts to Shop Economy," by Joe Galbraith, Big Spring Herald; "Our Greatest Sin—Sloppiness," by Max Bentley, Abilene Reporter-News, and "New Schemes for Creating Business," by Jake Smyth, Scurry County Times.

Election of officers, committee reports, and two speakers are scheduled for the Saturday morning session. The speakers will be Ray H. Nichols, Austin, student of Texas taxes, and Rufus Higgs, Stephenville, president of the Texas Press association.

As host city to the editors, Sweetwater has planned a program of entertainment that includes a chuck wagon dinner and an annual ball Friday evening. The editors' annual joust of golf sticks will be held on the Sweetwater Country club course Saturday afternoon.

Labor Conference At Geneva Did Much Good Work

By United Press
GENEVA.—The practical results of the 17th session of the International Labor Conference have been achieved quietly—almost unnoticed—in the adoption of seven important conventions, six of them putting the coping stone on the structure of international social standards, begun at Geneva eight years ago.

The Labor Conference's achievements during its three weeks' session are summarized as follows:

Old Age Insurance
One.—International convention concerning old-age insurance for persons employed in industrial and commercial undertakings, in the liberal professions and for out-workers and domestic servants, passed by 106 votes to 5.

Two.—Similar convention for agricultural workers, passed by 84 votes to 17.

Three.—International convention concerning invalidity insurance for persons in industrial and commercial undertakings, passed by 89 votes to 7.

Four.—Similar convention for agricultural workers, passed by 75 votes to 18.

Widows and Orphans
Five.—International convention concerning compulsory widows' and orphans' insurance for employees in industrial and commercial undertakings, passed by 92 votes to 6.

Six.—Similar convention for agricultural workers, passed by 73 votes to 18.

Seven.—International convention for abolition within three years of private profit-making employment agencies. Public employment agencies are allotted important tasks for re-absorbing workers into employment.

Reduction of Working Hours
Eight.—Decisions to place the question of reduction of working hours on the Labor Conference's 1934 agenda, passed by 90 votes to 24.

Nine.—Adoption of a Questionnaire on the Forty-Hour Week to be submitted to governments in which the question of wages and the standard of living is put in without opposition employers' representatives abstaining.

Ten.—Adoption of a resolution on the need of reducing overtime as far as possible during the depression.

Held in Stock Exchange Plot

Eleven.—Conference's unanimous acceptance of the report of the committee on hours of work in which approval is given to the idea that reduction of working hours must not only be considered as a means of reducing unemployment but as a means of ensuring that the worker shares in the benefit of technical progress.

Depression Remedy
Twelve.—Adoption of a resolution appealing to the World Economic and Monetary Conference to take action indicating measures likely to remedy the depression.

Thirteen.—Adoption of a recommendation stating that the pensionable age of workers should be reduced to 60.

Fourteen.—Decision to invite the governing body to instruct the labor office to undertake all necessary studies in order to place German-Jewish refugees in various countries without detriment to those countries.

Adoption of "Plan"
Fifteen.—Adoption of a "plan" for the labor office including study of (a) problem of competition between newly industrialized countries such as Indo-Japanese tariff war; (b) and between older industrialized countries; (c) problem of technological unemployment; (d) problem of working hours; (e) problem of credit expansion through government expenditure on public works.

The Labor Conference which last year was the source of a resolution from which the World Economic and Monetary Conference originated has contributed a valuable discussion this year on methods for economic recovery in relation to social standards despite the fact that the Conference's work has been minimized by bad publicity due to the postponement of the Forty-Hour Week convention and Germany's withdrawal from the conference.

Americans Urged To Visit Mexico By Two Authors

By MERRILL E. COMPTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS.—North Americans are advised by Michael and Virginia Scully, authors of Grand Rapids, Mich., to explore Mexico. The Scullys record their experiences in motoring 3,000 miles in the sister republic to the south of Texas in a recent book, "Motorists' Guide to Mexico," published by the South-West Press, Dallas.

"The opening of Mexico's first system of motor highways means the opening of a new world to the American motorist," they write in their introductory chapter. With typical American salesmanship they endeavor to entice the motor tourist in Mexico by answering in this chapter such questions as: "But is it safe?" and "how are the roads?"

Of the former, they write, "we drove about 3,000 miles through the republic in three months. We encountered nothing but friendliness and courtesy, even from traffic police. We witnessed two arrests, both for drunkenness, and these occasions marked our nearest approach to violence and crime."

Answering the latter question, they draw a comparison with present day Mexico and the Mexico of 1925 which they said was then "as inaccessible as Australia to the American motorist." Armed with statistics, they support Mexico's claims to highway development. To Texans the book has more than customary interest. Texas is next-door neighbor to Mexico. No spot in the state is more than a good day's drive from the Scully's suggested port of entry to Mexico, Uruero Laredo, either through central Texas via San Antonio to Laredo, or, from Houston along the gulf coast to Laredo.

They write a day-to-day guide how to travel Mexico. Routes, hotels, automobile service stations, recreational centers, fishing holes, old temples to visit and marketing spots are located. Three chapters are devoted to Mexico City, covering in detail information about the hotels and tourists accommodations, the shopping that can be done and what attractions are to be seen.

Typical of their style in describing a section of the country is their narrative about Tamazunchale, which said in part: "Until late 1931 this town of 2,500 people had never seen an automobile. If a citizen wanted to reach Mexico City, he rode for 12 days through the mountains burroback. . . . The automobile is still a big surprise to Tamazunchale. But the bus line from Mexico City to Tampico runs through the town nowadays, and there are three gasoline stations, plus an adequate repair shop, to serve the motorists. Tamazunchale lies at the base of the great climb. No matter if you have scaled the Alps, the next 100 miles can offer you one of the real thrills and many of the most beautiful views of a lifetime."

At the end of chapters the authors have condensed factual information under the heading "For Your Information." It is a galaxy of facts covering information as to the American consulates, banking facilities, garages, theatres, cafes and bars and other conveniences or necessities. Maps, both of highway systems and of cities, make the book useful. A collection of useful English and Spanish phrases in the back of the book.

ROMANCE

YOU often hear people refer regretfully to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when the knight-errant roamed the earth to do honor to his lady's eyes.

These folks complain that we are living in an age of realism!

An age of realism? Why, this is the most romantic of all ages!

An age where the human voice is hurled across the world without wires; where the temperature of Mars is taken more than thirty millions of miles away; where tons of steel carrying precious human lives ride easily and safely through the air or under the sea!

The advertising columns of this paper are full of this modern romance—stories of things produced by men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures to mankind.

Advertisements tell of these achievements not with the exaggeration of a jongleur, but with calm, simple words of sincerity. Here is a firm that has spent a million dollars to develop a product that makes your baby more comfortable. Here is a company that has labored fifty years to cut a single hour of toil from your day's work. Here is a man who has searched the Seven Seas to produce a new flavor for your dinner.

Romance? This age is full of it! Read the advertisements. They tell you what the magicians of industry are doing for you.

Cabinet Meeting

The regular monthly session of cabinet meeting of the officers of the Home Makers class of the Baptist church was held in the classroom Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. T. Morgan, class extension president, conducting, in the absence of Mrs. William Shirriffs, president.

Enrollment of 35 members of the class was reported with 19 members present last Sunday morning; one visitor, and one new member enrolled.

In the contest now in progress, in which points are given on attendance, Bible study, etc., group 3 is leading under direction of Mrs. T. L. Amis, captain.

On account of the moving of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Rhoads to Ranger, Mrs. C. T. Lucas was appointed to fill Mrs. Rhoads' place as captain of group 1, until the return of Mrs. S. D. Phillips, the captain of this group, who is away on her vacation.

The official list was presented and includes Mrs. William Shirriffs, president; Mrs. W. T. Morgan, class extension president; Mrs. Artie Liles, fellowship chairman; Mrs. Claud Maynard, class ministry; Mrs. F. O. Adair, mission chairman; Mrs. C. T. Lucas, captain group 1; Mrs. Robert Webb, captain group 2; Mrs. T. L. Amis, captain group 3; Mrs. C. T. Lucas, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Morgan Myers, home department chairman; Mrs. L. G. Rogers, reporter. All were present excepting Mrs. Shirriffs, their president.

Young Women's Association Makes Rugs

Mrs. L. J. Lambert was hostess to the Y. W. A. of the Baptist church Tuesday night, who met at her home for a social and sewing session, holding their meeting on lawn about a big round table, placed under a shaded electric globe.

Three rugs already in course of construction were worked on and three additional rugs started, the group being divided into those who cut the material, those who braided and others who sewed the strips together.

During the pleasant work in hand, Miss Irene Williams read aloud passages from a new missionary book, from the Baptist church library, which gave the life and work of the missionary, Eugene Sallee, and his experiences in China.

At close of a delightful evening Mrs. Lambert served tea and cakes to Misses Thelma Woods, Ruby Harbin, Rowena Cook, Aline Williams, Lucile May, Della Webb, Geraldine Terrell, Dortha Van Geem, Ruth Butler, Anna Mae Chick of Dallas, the honor guest of Mrs. Terrell; Mrs. O. C. Terrell, and hostess, Mrs. Lambert.

Former Eastland Citizen Buried

J. B. Saunders of Dallas, uncle of Mrs. J. L. Johnson, on her mother's side, and father of Mrs. Charles Pettit, who is the daughter-in-law of Mrs. E. E. Pettit of this city, died Monday at the Methodist hospital in Dallas, where he had been most of the time for the past year, suffering from a complication of diseases, for which he was operated on last November, but made a poor recovery.

He returned to his home for a few months, but underwent a second operation in February, from which he rallied temporarily.

He was taken sick about a month ago and never was able to leave the hospital.

Mr. Saunders was one of the early settlers of Eastland engaged in the mercantile business with the late Charles Pettit. His widow, Mrs. E. E. Pettit, makes her home here with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Castleberry.

Mr. Saunders located in Dallas 20 years ago, and made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Pettit.

During his Eastland residence Mr. Saunders was an elder in the Christian church, of which he was a charter member, and an active church member all his life.

He was born in Fayetteville, Ark., 79 years ago, and came to Texas in 1875.

Surviving are his children, Mrs. Charles Pettit; E. E. Saunders, and Miss Loraine Saunders, the latter a dietician in a Masonic hospital in Dallas.

Their mother, his first wife, nee Susan Taylor, died in 1904.

He married Elizabeth Weaver in 1912, a widow with one daughter. His second wife passed away two years after their marriage.

He also is survived by Mrs. Nell Booth and small son, and Mrs. Agnes Holder, grandchildren, who reside in Dallas, and his niece, Mrs. J. L. Johnson, and her daughters.

The body was brought from Dallas and taken to Hammer undertaking establishment.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Eastland cemetery, at the family lot, where the mother of his children and his second wife are buried. At the grave services were conducted by Rev. C. W. Lipsey, pastor of the Christian church of Eastland, assisted by Judge D. K. Scott of Cisco, who paid a fine tribute to the deceased as a Christian, a citizen, a friend and a father.

The choir of the Christian church sang very tenderly hymns that were favorites during the life of the decedent, "Shall We Gather at the River," "Nearer My God to Thee" and the closing hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The impressive services ended with prayer by Pastor Lipsey.

The floral offerings were very handsome, and the profusion of flowers covered the three graves.

Out of town relatives and friends here for the funeral were Dr. Ruth Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. George Drewery and son; Mrs. Betty Powell; Mrs. B. Holder; Mrs. Ed Booth, and the decedent's children, Miss Loraine Saunders, E. E. Saunders, and daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pettit of Dallas; Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Mrs. W. J. Foxworth, Mrs. Nat Gray, and Judge D. K. Scott of Cisco.

There was an immense gathering of friends at the funeral services, many coming from nearby towns, and a large group of Eastland friends.

Those from out of town were guests during the day of Mrs. Frank Castleberry, the sister of Mr. Charles Pettit, and of Mrs. J. L. Johnson, niece of the decedent.

Vote for Our Church?

ASK...

Your friends to save their goodwill "Prosperity" votes for your church. Each vote means so much in the cash awards for your church. It does not cost you one cent nor one moment of trouble to help your church receive a generous share of the cash awards being offered by the merchants sponsoring the "Prosperity Club" campaign. The "Prosperity Club" stores give goodwill votes on cash sales and payments upon accounts, beginning at a nickel you receive five votes and an additional vote for each cent thereafter. In other words each cent you spend with the club stores means just one more vote for your church. At the close of the campaign Saturday, September 16 the church receiving the largest number of votes will be awarded with $75.00 in cash money, also a cash award for each church in the order in which they finish.

Therefore, you, Mr. Buyer, are very important in helping your church receive a generous share of these cash awards and the merchants sponsoring the club ordially invite your patronage. Be sure and write the name of your church on the reverse side of your votes and place them in the ballot box the same day of the purchase. You are requested and warned to not hold your votes back, but to please cast them daily, as colors of same will be changed during the campaign, and that means, if you are holding votes back, you will lose, for they will be no good. This is fair to all. At any time you wish information regarding the campaign, telephone 224, The Ranger Times. Help your church receive these awards; they will appreciate it. Ask your friends to save their votes for your church. They will.

MATTERS were smoothed over for the time but the sight of Dick in a flannel shirt at the dinner table—though it was less common after Eve's outburst—continued to irritate her and she could not always conceal this irritation.

In spite of its shabby setting in the down-at-heel house, Eve could not help but feel pride in her home. Often she found herself dreaming about improvements that could be made in it—ways to rearrange the furniture, an added touch of color here and there—when going through the store's various departments in search of ideas for her column.

Late in the afternoon she sometimes became nervous and worried and could not do her best work because she was almost certain she would be asked to remain after the store's closing hour to help get out the next day's copy. Mr. Bixby did not know of this, she was sure. Prompt and efficient himself, he tried to exact promptness and efficiency from his department heads, and through them, from every employe.

SHE regretted this. She felt that it was not fair to expect Dick to prepare the dinner every evening, as had become the usual routine. His job had its delays and vexations, too.

He worked hard. He worked in all kinds of weather. Eve was beginning to understand that sometimes he came home more exhausted than the men whose manual labor he directed. She was beginning to understand that Dick would always give more than was required or expected of him to any contract to which he bound himself.

She was thinking of this one December evening after a gray, slushy day gave way to darkness outside the office windows and she typed away, turning the little sheet of pencilled notes with pardonable pride. She was wishing that this once she could arrive home before Dick and surprise him with a delicious dinner, piping hot. But of course she could not. Not tonight.

Arlene had had to stay overtime, too, and was transcribing pages of notes that Barnes had dictated late that afternoon. Arlene did not seem to mind particularly. Indeed, Eve suspected that Arlene welcomed this extra work, although she received no remuneration for it.

she had taken time to select a new frock which it was quite evident to be worn for the first time that evening to dazzle some admirer.

Just a few moments before the closing gong sounded, Barnes asked Mona if she could stay a little later and help that evening. Mona smiled sweetly and answered: "I'm so sorry, Mr. Barnes, but I have a dinner engagement. There's no way I could let my friend know at this late hour, so of course I will have to keep it. On any other time I'd be only too glad to stay and help you."

And she left with a triumphant glance over her shoulder at the other two girls. "We're snowed under with work and she gets away with that!" commented Arlene to Eve when Mona had gone and Barnes returned to his office.

It was eight o'clock before Eve and Arlene finished the copy, attached the necessary sketches and cuts and placed them in their separate envelopes, one for each time of the Lake City newspapers. As a last straw to the burden of a weary day, Barnes asked them if they'd mind taking the copy to the newspaper offices on their way to the car. Usually he did this himself when the copy was late.

A light snow was falling when they left the store. Crowds were swarming about the brilliantly lit theaters. Underfoot it was slushy as the two girls trudged from one newspaper office to another.

Eve, tired and hungry, was tempted to agree to Arlene's suggestion that they eat downtown. But she thought of Dick, waiting at home for her. After the copy was safely delivered she hurried to the nearest corner where she could get a car on the trolley line that ran past her home. She had to wait and tonight the ride seemed interminable. Eve felt weak long before she reached home. She should have taken at least a malted milk before working so late, she thought. It was a quarter to nine before she reached home. As she wearily climbed the front porch steps, she wished anew for an apartment in a modern building with elevators.

However, she felt a warm little rush of thankfulness for her home just as it was when she saw the narrow slit of light under the door. Dick would be waiting for her. And he would have something hot and savory for her to eat. She hoped it would be chicken noodle soup.

But the door was locked. That meant Dick was not there. Probably he had just gone down to the corner to get a magazine or a fresh supply of tobacco. Eve hunted for her key and unlocked the door.

THE room was in order. One lamp burned dimly in the living room. She turned the switch that lighted the combination kitchen and dining room and saw that the table was set with one place. There was a note beside it. It read: "Eve, dearest: "You'll find your dinner in the oven. Only take a few minutes to warm it up. Sorry I couldn't wait and eat with you. Decided to go to meeting again. Don't wait up for me. I may be late. Love, Dick."

Eve wanted to cry. How could he go away and leave her to spend this dreadful evening alone? Reason reminded her that he had had to spend the early part of the evening alone. But she couldn't help that. She had wanted to come home early. Dispiritedly she warmed over the food Dick had prepared for her—a chop and some stewed corn. There was a plain cabbage salad that had grown wilted and discolored with waiting. There was a dish of canned peaches for dessert. They had had canned peaches for dinner the night before. And because she had forgotten to order fresh fruit they had had canned peaches for breakfast, too.

As Eve ate she became resentful, suspicious. Dick's going out that evening had not been a sudden decision. The hastily prepared meal proved that. This was Tuesday and it was on Tuesday evening that he had been away last week. He had said very little to her about that absence. In fact, he had avoided the subject when she had questioned him casually the following day. Laughingly, it is true, putting her off with the excuse that fraternal matters were secret and not to be discussed outside the lodge even with one's lovely and charming new wife.

Eve had just finished clearing the table and stacking the dishes at the sink when there was a knock at the door. She was startled for a moment. She tried to convince herself that she should not be nervous, yet she stood very still, half fearing to go to the door.

Just-A-Mere Club Meets Just-A-Mere club was charmingly entertained Tuesday night at 8 o'clock by Mrs. R. H. Cooper, whose home was prettily lighted for the occasion, and decorated with bowls of purple crepe myrtle. The three bridge tables employed were dressed in lavender and white appointments, in tallies and score books, with matching table covers in modernistic design.

High score favor in the game, a flowered crotone shoe bag, was awarded Mrs. Dave Moody, a similar favor in high score for guests going to Miss Fern Courtney. A dainty refreshment plate was enjoyed of cream cheese sandwiches, salad in lettuce rolls, small tea cakes, and iced tea. Club members present were Mrs. Homer Norton, Mrs. Ilia Mae London, Mrs. Dave Moody, and Misses Arlene Davenport, Hattie Graham and Maifred Hale.

Guests were Mrs. Clyde Shelby, Mrs. Walter Green, Mrs. Fred Scott, Mrs. Weldon Graham, Miss Fern Courtney and Miss Bessie Marlow.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Davenport. Knights of Pythias Meet The local lodge of the Knights of Pythias expressed disappointment that the Cisco lodge could not meet with them Tuesday night as was anticipated.

The committee that visited Cisco for the purpose of inducing the K. of P. lodge there to hold their sessions with the Eastland body, Tom Lovelace and Karl K. White, met with a situation in which some members of the Cisco lodge were willing to conform to this plan, and others unfavorable to it.

However, the Cisco lodge will be guest of the Eastland lodge at their meeting next Tuesday night. The session was conducted by T. J. Powell, chancellor commander, and others present were Artie Liles, R. L. Slaughter, P. L. Crossley, C. C. Richardson, H. C. Davis, R. H. Ferris, K. K. White, Arthur Wright, Tom Lovelace, C. F. Shepherd, T. J. Powell, and Dr. R. C. Ferguson.

Farm Boy Is State Checker Champion

HOLLIS, Okla. — Oklahoma's champion checker player this year is a lanky, 20-year-old overalled farm boy, rather than the usual elderly or bewhiskered veteran. G. T. Redrode, Hollis, the youthful title holder, received but scant attention when he entered the tournament, but he soon wrecked the carefully-planned campaigns of several ex-champions and other experienced foes.

In a scheduled 10-game final series with E. H. Gill, several times champion, Redrode won the first six contests and left Gill scratching his head in wonder at how it happened.

Hailing the boy as the "Bobby Jones of checkers," Gill took him to Oklahoma City for a visit. Redrode is back at home now, planning to practice on an old board with the folks at home so he can get in shape for some of the major tournaments.

Canada Expecting Food Smuggling

By United Press MONTREAL.—A new source of worry to Federal police—the smuggling of foodstuffs from the United States into Canada—has arisen as a result of the return of beer in the United States. Canada grocers claim that American racketeers, abandoning the smuggling of beer and liquor into the United States in the wake of legalization of beer and wine sales are now turning their eyes to smuggling foodstuffs into the Dominion, particularly such groceries as sugar, soap and malt syrup.

Stairs Made Her Gasp For Breath

Although she has lost but 7 lbs. of her overweight, this woman finds that 7 lbs. has made a remarkable difference to her. Her letter reads: "I am 53 years old and my height is 5 ft. Last year I weighed 154 pounds. I have been taking a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts, making no change in my diet. Now I am less round the hips and only weigh 147 lbs. dressed. But I feel lighter and can now run upstairs, which before used to make me gasp for breath. Every-one says how well and fit I look!"

14 SAC AND FOX Build Erosion Dams

By United Press TOLEDO, Iowa.—Twenty Sac and Fox Indians are working on their reservation near here on a project which they hope will increase the fertility of the soil and eliminate loss through soil washing. Under supervision of Dr. Jacob Breid and Forester Russell Getty they are constructing a series of erosion dams in a creek that meanders through the reservation. The Indians receive $30 a month and a daily food allowance of 60 cents from the Federal Government.

The meeting was called to plan the program for "Woman's Day," in the associational meeting, to be held Tuesday, Sept. 5, in Eastland Baptist church. Those attending the board meeting were Mrs. Thomas and S. S. Ogg of Ranger, Mmes. Ullam and Brunette of Cisco, and Mmes. Frank Lovett and W. D. R. Owen of Eastland.

Officers Recently Elected Local Baptist Church

The Baptist church is going through its usual annual routine in the order of election of officers, superintendents and teachers, the process requiring three months in its completion. All officers will take their places the first Sunday and Monday in October. In July a general nominating committee was appointed by Rev. O. B. Darby, pastor of the church, the personnel being Mrs. Hannah Lindsey, Mr. Joe Neal, and Mrs. J. B. Bishop, who in turn nominated the Sunday school superintendent, the director for the Baptist training school, and the president of the Women's Missionary society. At a later meeting the church elected these officers, presented by the nominating committee. In this election the church board was enlarged to six members, who, in turn, chose the department superintendents, elected this month (August). This committee will select the teachers for the Sunday school, at the business meeting to be held the last Wednesday night of this month. The staff at present includes J. R. Carlisle, Sunday school superintendent; Mrs. Frank Lovett, president, W. M. S.; Terrell Coleman, Baptist training school. The superintendents of the Sunday school departments, elected in August: Mrs. E. E. Layton, for cradle roll department; Mrs. Paul McFarland, beginners' department; Mrs. H. M. Hart, primary; Mrs. A. J. Campbell, superintendent, junior department; J. C. Allison, superintendent intermediate; F. V. Williams, superintendent young people's department, and Mrs. W. D. R. Owen, superintendent adult department. Each circle of the W. M. S. elects its own officers at their meetings held between this date and Oct. 1.

Interesting Article Concerning Progress of Clubwomen

A backward glance inspired by the Century of Progress of clubwomen is the theme of an interesting article by Mrs. J. M. Perkins in the last issue of the Federation News. She states that the women were fortunate who could attend the national council week at the World's fair and wonders how many remember the earlier Chicago celebration, when the women's congress was the much discussed meeting. The story of the history of the organization of the Sorosis was sketched from its beginning in March, 1868, and brings to mind the famous Jennie June, really Mrs. Croly, and Fannie Kern, noble plume of Mrs. James Parton, among the only women then doing club journalistic work, and whose requests for tickets to a banquet honoring Charles Dickens, at Delmonico's met with refusal from the majority of the committee in charge. Horace Greeley insisted that the women must be admitted. A note was sent Mrs. Croly saying that if enough ladies could be found to prevent each other from being lonesome, and who were willing to pay $15 apiece for tickets they would be allowed to purchase them. Mrs. Croly replied that "the ladies feel they have not been treated like gentlemen, and refused to accept the reluctant invitation. This incident gave rise to the organization of a women's club at the home of Mrs. Croly. And thus the Sorosis was born. Alice Carey was the first president, and the first meeting after the final organization was April 20, 1868, at Delmonico's. In the same year the club was incorporated to make it possible for it to receive bequests. The organization was discussed on both sides of the Atlantic, and before the end of the first year the Sorosis had almost a hundred members. In 1890, Sorosis sent invitations to all the women's clubs of the world, inviting them to send delegates to New York for the purpose of forming an international Federation of women's clubs. More than 60 clubs responded. The following year a women's congress was held in Washington. (Continued on page 4)

Interest Growing in Prosperity Club

Not in a long time have we witnessed so much manifested enthusiasm in any featured campaign as there is in the Horn of Prosperity Club sponsored by an active and wide-awake group of Ranger merchants eager to aid in a manner which is highly inspirational and uplifting to the city from every angle.

On every corner and in every place of business taking part in this project there are pleasing comments of the work being done in this campaign. Auxiliaries and women's missionary societies of Ranger churches, sponsored and carried on by active women, are placing themselves in outstanding positions and expressing their gratitude for the splendid opportunity of doing their bit to make this a long to be remembered prosperity event. We shall say event because everyone thus far are more than glad to share their time and efforts to put his over in a way that will spell appreciation to our loyal Ranger merchants and business firms.

To the church that gets the largest number of votes will be awarded a cash prize of $75. Other, yes many other, prizes will be included in this presentation of awards. It really is something to be working for, isn't it? Cast your votes for the church you are supporting in this campaign, and please remember to ask merchants who are participating in this for your votes. They will be more than happy to give them to you.

Read the account of how the churches are running in another section of this paper. If you are not already a member of this Prosperity Club, join today. A Ranger Times representative will gladly explain all details.

Gala Lawn Party

Entertains Eight-Year-Olds
The cool and shady lawn afforded a delightful playground for the 8-year-old boys and girls of the primary department of the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock when the teacher of their Sunday school class, Mrs. J. W. Tibbels, entertained in their honor with a gala lawn party at her home, South Hodges street.

Lively games engrossed the attention of the happy youngsters, brought to a climax much too soon when the capable hostess served a course of ice cream and cake. Brightly tinted balloons were presented as favors adding more delight to the perfect party hour.

The following honor guests, together with class group, composed the personnel enjoying this delightful favor: Bob Driskill of Fort Worth, Billy Joe Tibbels of Strawn, and Bob and Betty Joe Smith, Shirley Ann Goodjohn, Wanda Fern Sanderfer, and Mrs. S. W. Henry, and Elizabeth Baker, Doris Matheny, Joyce Avery, Margaret Myers, Katherine Murray, Meta Ann Scott and James Brown, Billy Lester, Charles Doss and Porter Barry.

Robinson Grocery Wins Shutout From The Loud Speakers

The Robinson Grocery team defeated the Loud Speakers in the Independent League Wednesday afternoon by a score of 10 to 0, being the second shutout game in the league in the past two days.

This afternoon's scheduled game between the Ramblers and the Bob King Cats was postponed until Sunday afternoon, when it will be played at the Young addition field which has been selected as the official field for the league. The game was postponed because several of the players were engaged in a Twilight League game this afternoon and because the Ramblers had a practice game with the Elks at Lillard field.

Twilight League Umpires Named

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, soft ball commissioner of the Twilight league, today announced that official umpires for the league were J. A. Thrower, Robert Davenport, Jimmie Jones and O. E. Samms.

In making the announcement he urged that the umpires be on hand at as many games as possible and for them to report to the managers of competing teams so that the managers would know they were on hand. In case all the umpires are present at a game two will be selected to officiate at the game and the others will be held in relief for other games.

The managers were also urged to cooperate with the umpires in any way possible by starting the games promptly in order to get them finished before dark and to have their teams ready to play as early as possible.

Game Today Lone Star vs. Barbers.

The Magnolia team of Olden, playing its first game in the Ranger Twilight league second half schedule, won from the Rotarians Wednesday afternoon by a score of 11 to 4. At the end of the game, which came early, it was decided to play two extra innings and at the end of the nine innings Magnolia had a score of 18 to 6. The 11 to 4 score was the one which counted in the official scoring.

Groves, third baseman for the Magnolia team and Anderson, first baseman, led the hitting with a single, double and home run. Groves made his hits in four trips to the plate, flying out to third on his last rip to the plate, while Anderson's hits were made in three attempts.

Kindred, Magnolia pitcher, allowed but five hits with good support by his teammates, while Whitehouse was nipped for 14 hits by the Olden batsmen. Only four errors were chalked up in the entire game, though some of the hotly hit balls might have been scored as hits or errors.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS.—The Ball of the Little White Beds, about the swankiest event on the Paris social calendar, gathers into its chic circle all the women "who matter"—fashionably speaking at least. This year Chanel tulle and organdie dresses were well represented.

Madame Henri Garat, wife of the popular actor, wore a rose red tulle, the skirt of which was set with a myriad of pearls and which flared becomingly from a close-fitting line over the hips. This new neckline was created by the incrustation of strips of tulle set in a criss-cross design.

Madame Mubstein, the elder daughter of the Baron Robert de Rothschild, wore white tulle, the V-shaped lines of the ruffles on her skirt making it stand out towards the hem.

The Countess Georges de Castellane, to whom the fashion-minded always look for smart guidance, wore a very simple dress trimmed with fluted white organdie at the hem of the skirt and on the collar and cuffs of the short sleeved bolero worn with it.

The Countess Therese de Carman-Chimay told me the other day about the dinner and dance at the Cercle Interallie, where she saw the Honorable Mrs. Dennis Trefusis wearing one of those natural flax models from Chanel's strewn with golden paillettes—or spangles—and over the shoulders was a golden brown ostrich feather boa. Times may be hard financially, but they are compensated for by fashions that are easy, very easy on the tired eye and not too great a strain on the reflatid purse.

Czech Shoe King Visits America

BAY CITY, Texas.—Jean LaFitte, the colorful buccanier of the Gulf of Mexico, will be represented at a Century of Progress on Texas Day when Miss Katherine Pollard carries his famous Chinese coverlet to be placed on exhibition at the fair.

Fashioned of black satin and embroidered in rich colors in the designs used by the royal families in China, the quilt has been in the possession of the Tobin family of Matagorda county for 100 years.

According to legend, LaFitte acquired the quilt from a mandarin's wife with whom he fell in love. When the clandestine affair was discovered by the mandarin, he put a curse on the quilt, which is said to account for LaFitte's willingness to sell it some years later to a Mr. Worth of Galveston, where LaFitte once operated.

Worthy in turn sold it to R. H. Tobin of Matagorda. Mrs. Calvin Baker, Tobin's great-granddaughter, is the recent owner of the coverlet and says it has not brought her any bad luck.

Miss Pollard, chairman of the Matagorda county committee to raise funds for a Texas exhibit at the fair, was chosen to bear the coverlet to Chicago because she was the first woman to complete her quota.

Penny Farmers Warned About Weeds

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Attention of farmers has been called to the menace to cattle caused by the presence of certain weeds in pastures.

The loss resulting from deaths to cattle by poisoning amounts to thousands of dollars annually, according to Dr. E. M. Gress, state botanist.

The plants which are most dangerous, Dr. Gress said, are wild black cherry, common black locust, water hemlock, white snake-root and bracken fern.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY
NLA Service Writer
"VEGETABLE" plates and "vegetable dinners" offer one of the most satisfactory means of adding variety to hot weather menus. Served once or twice a week they make an agreeable and economical change from the usual meat and potato meal.

Although vegetables are available in great abundance at this season, ingenuity and imagination are needed to make a vegetable dinner really interesting. Try to include at least three, or better four, vegetables in the combination. The wider the variety, the easier the selection is to prepare.

Given this variety of vegetables, the plate becomes an important factor. Keep in mind the desirability of contrast. Contrast in color as well as flavor and texture determines the choice of vegetables. Careful planning in this respect makes for most attractive and appetizing meals.

Contrast also enters into the method of cooking and serving vegetables. If one vegetable is served plain with butter, let another be creamed, a third grilled in a croquette, timbale or fritter.

While all vegetables contain at least a trace of protein, it is not enough to keep up the balance between the giving out and the intake of energy, and is of poorer quality and less valuable than that found in other sources. For this reason it is well to include a protein food known to be of high quality. Nuts, eggs, cheese and milk can be added to vegetable plates in such a way that the proper balance is maintained.

Toasted cheese sandwiches are an example of an easy way to add protein. The crispness of the toast provides a pleasing contrast of texture with the softness of vegetables.

Eggs can be hard cooked and DINNER: Sweet potato and walnut croquettes, creamed kohlrabi, baked carrots and peas, watercress, toasted crackers, Spanish cream, milk, coffee.

used as a garnish, or they can be poached and served with a creamed vegetable on toast. Desserts made with milk and eggs also take care of the protein calories.

Food Value in Garnishings
Very often the garnishings add food value as well as beauty to the plate. Sliced eggs, grated cheese, toast points and croquets furnish calories. Parsley, watercress, radishes and celery add minerals, and in the case of radishes and celery contribute a raw crisp vegetable.

Too often this quality of crispness is lacking in vegetable plates. Chinese fried noodles, Saratoga or lattice potatoes, shoe-string potatoes and crisp bread-stuffs can be used when crisp raw vegetables are not included.

These combinations undoubtedly will suggest others to you. Stuffed baked tomatoes, creamed green peas, buttered cauliflower with grated cheese, lattice potatoes.

Spinach timbales with mushroom sauce, carrots, marbles glacé, French fried onions, toast points, radishes and celery.

Corn on the cob, lima beans in cream, broccoli with lemon butter, broiled tomatoes, toasted cheese sandwiches.

Maybe never again such VALUES!

THIS new Pathfinder is a bigger value than the old Pathfinder. It has the bigger safety margin of FULL CENTER TRACTION — bigger mileage from the 20 PERCENT THICKER TREAD — outer body of hard-resisting Supertwist Cord — and other improvements that make it a still better buy than the 17,000,000 Pathfinders that went before.

Wants More Laughter In Welfare Work

HARTFORD, Conn.—The need of humor in welfare work has been overlooked, William W. T. Squire, secretary of the State Department of Public Welfare believes.
"There is medicine in a good laugh," Squire said, "and workers should seek to stir up the humorous side when working with the poor, the needy, and the old. It is safe to say that old people don't get much enjoyment out of laughter," he added. "For that part, only children are really
