A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SPEAK THE GOOD WORD: Heaviness in the heart of man maketh it stoop; but a good word maketh it glad.—Proverbs 12: 25.

THE LITTLE FELLOW GETS A CHANCE

There came to this desk the other day a copy of a Slovak newspaper, printed in McKeesport, Pa., for circulation among Slovaks in American industrial cities.

To the eyes of a native American it had a strange, foreign appearance. It bore the name of "Samostatnost," it was printed in an incomprehensible tongue, and it seemed to be just the sort of publication that sometimes makes a 100-per center wonder if the national melting pot is ever going to Americanize our foreign-born citizens.

But the editorial page proudly bore a large NRA cable; and under it, in English, there was a double-column editorial which summed up the aims and policies of the NRA program as well as the most devout patriot could wish.

In it the editor undertakes to tell American Slovaks what they can do to make the program a success. His remarks are worth quoting.

"First," he says, "Franklin D Roosevelt is set to re-establish a truly fair balance again between American employer and American employe, but it stands to reason that such tremendous readjustment cannot be done overnight. Therefore, let us give him our faith and confidence that in due process he will do so and our understanding that it must be done gradually.

"Second, the least we can give to a daring fighter, like our president, is our confidence and trust that he will win, and what he helps us to earn, let us throw it back into circulation, that more and more of the little fellows, like we are, shall have a chance to earn and spend again and in so doing this nation might go full speed anew, in full production and in full consumption.

"So we print today in our mast-head the sacred insignia of the NRA."

If our foreign-language newspapers are printing advice of that kind, the 100-per center can stop worrying right now. You might be able to smooth out the wording of that editorial a little, but you couldn't improve on the general spirit of it if you tried all week.

SOMETHING ELSE TO WATCH

In most Texas counties there has been tax reduction of some sort during the past two years. Either the rates have been reduced, or valuations have been trimmed partly to the new shape of property values. This deals with the city, county and state ad valorem taxes only.

Now the ready worriers see a new cause or opportunity ahead for apprehension. Even the more complacent may give it a thought or two.

It is the prospect that in many localities the valuations will be raised to higher levels for taxation, even though the county and city rates may be unchanged. The state rate already is at the constitutional limit.

The reason for worrying is that under Texas' archaic present system, there's nothing anybody can do about it, if a local agency of government sees fit to impose a 10- or 50- or 100-per cent increase in the assessment valuation of property.

Some cities undoubtedly got so enthusiastic over tax reduction for 1932 and 1933—based on political campaign needs—that they cut their income severely. The question before them, and before county boards of equalization, will be whether property commonly agreed to have paid too much of the total tax for many years, shall take the added load on its back, when the load is saddled somewhere.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT gangs sit enthroned in many cities. Some of these gangs stifle progress. They would rather help ruin than help build. One of them is the "selfish gang" who can't get anywhere in this world themselves and don't want anyone else to.

They use every underhand method to undermine the ambitions of the home city.

There is another gang known as the "wrecking gang." These misfits cleverly camouflage their work by an outward appearance of decency.

Their work is deadly and they get their kind of results. Another gang is the "pull backs" who try to stifle constructive work unless it directly effects their own pocket-books.

They try in every way to close the door of opportunity for the home city and take great delight in striking at city development.

the price right they can have a large part of this business without any special law."

Texas, it added, has immense export commodities that must find markets elsewhere, and "we should do nothing to alienate the friendship of those with whom we must trade. We think it unwise to support these movements that propose to limit our purchases to factories and producers within the state of Texas.

"Whether justified or not, it is the belief of a goodly number of those most interested in providing textbooks for the state that the lobby racketeers used this bill to their peculiar advantage. Apparently the shakedown was so large that a repetition of the effort to pass the measure must be expected."

Following the editorial was an editorial note that said:

"House Bill No. 536, requiring that textbooks for the public schools of the state be printed in Texas was considered by the executive committee of the Texas State Teachers association, and the report went out that the committee had endorsed the measure. The motion approved, providing that books printed in Texas should be equally as good and cost no more than in other states. Without this proviso, the maker of the motion opposes the bill."

These are the views expressed to the body of public school teachers in Texas supported out of tax money; and can be regarded as the expression of the teachers' association to the extent that they are expressed in the official publication by one of its elected officials.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer
PLANNING September meals is an easy task if you use imagination and originality. Each of the delicious fall vegetables tempts us by its own perfection, and fresh vegetables should continue to be stressed through this month and the next.

There are hot days when the appetite lags and nothing tastes so good as a substantial salad. Served with a cream soup, an unusual hot vegetable and a hearty dessert, a nourishing salad makes an interesting meal.

- Halibut Salad
One halibut steak cut about 1-2 inches thick, 1 carrot, 1 onion, a bay leaf, 6 peppercorns, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 8 or 10 radishes, French dressing, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1-4 cup whipped cream, 4 tablespoons sliced cucumber.
Stuffed Eggplant
The following rule for stuffed eggplant is sufficient to serve four persons. This dish is particularly inviting on a hot September noon.

Message to Parents
Your boy needs scouting because the Boy Scout program:
1. Is educational, teaching him how to take care of himself, to be physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight through the practice of the scout oath and law and the passing of scout tests.
2. Constructively employs his idle time by giving him something worth while to do in his hours of play. Scouting is a program that is interesting to him, and that teaches while he plays. He will "learn by doing," and with adult guidance.
3. Means clean, wholesome association with other boys and men, teaching him companionship and co-operation with others.
4. Is highly religious but non-sectarian, urging him to attend his own church or Sunday school and to practice its teachings.
5. Is truly patriotic, and is not connected in any way with the army or navy. Though it is non-military, it teaches loyalty to home and country and respect to the flag.
6. Teaches service to others through the daily "good turn."
7. Teaches good citizenship by giving the scout as a boy an opportunity to practice citizenship by emphasizing the responsibilities of citizenship rather than the rights of citizenship, and through organized public service.
8. Develops character through fellowship with men of character--the scoutmaster and other adult scout leaders. "Character is caught, not taught."
9. Trains for leadership by giving boys practice at leadership. Scouting's patrol method makes boys responsible for a large part of the program--always under adult guidance, of course.
10. Guides his recreational reading by suggesting wholesome books and by publishing at a popular price a clean, constructive monthly magazine for boys, prepared so by boys like it. This magazine is "Boys' Life," and it may be secured at news stands or by annual subscription.
11. Costs you nothing but an annual registration fee of 50 cents and perhaps troop dues of a few pennies a week, which the boy himself should earn. Likewise it is best if the boy earns the money to pay for his uniform and insignia, which are not obligatory but which are highly desirable. Expense of management is born by public subscription.
You can help your boy by:
1. Taking interest in his scout work. Find out what he is learning and doing.
2. Seeing that he attends all troop meetings.
3. Visiting the troop and becoming acquainted with the scoutmaster and troop committee men, who are taking such an interest in your boy. They are your neighbors.
4. Helping him prepare for his tests and getting in on the fun yourself.
5. Remembering that the Boy Scout program has the interest of all boys at heart and is not conducted for personal gain. All troop committee men, scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters are volunteer workers.
6. Seeing that he remembers his scout oath and law while at home, and puts them into practice.
7. Encouraging your boy to go on scout hikes, and to go to the scout camp (under adult leadership). Scouting is an out-of-door program. For further information, address local scout headquarters.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY
FAYE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.
SAM HOLDRIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, but she fancies herself in love with GEORGE BLISS. Handsome THERON REECE has been forcing unwelcome attentions on Eve.
Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market on money borrowed from her mother. MONA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and tries to make trouble for her. When an error costing the store $2,000, appears in an advertisement Mona is really responsible but the blame falls on Eve.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVII
SATURDAY evening Dick took Eve to dinner at a popular restaurant known as the Old Plantation. The atmosphere was that of the hospitable old south. Pretty mulatto girls, wearing bandanas and checked gingham dresses, served Maryland fried chicken and corn fritters. A string quartet played lively tunes and Eve soon found herself dancing with spirit.
Later they were joined by a group of Dick's business friends and she enjoyed the evening so much she was almost able to forget that Bixby's had lost $2000 through a mistake in her department.
The next day she and Dick went for a long ride in the country. Office cars seemed far away and Eve arrived home tired and sleepy from being so long in the fresh air. But Monday morning as she neared the office she began to feel nervous. Barnes would be back today and the dreaded interview must take place.
The advertising manager summoned her to his office at 9:30. Eve managed a tremulous smile as she entered but Barnes' face was grim, his voice crisp.
"I scarcely need tell you, Mrs. Rader," he began, "that the price error in Saturday's coat advertisement was the worst of the kind the store has ever had. I am amazed that you should have permitted such a blunder."
Eve started to speak but he silenced her with a curt gesture. "It is one of the things that simply cannot be explained away or smoothed over," he continued. "But you don't understand--"
"I understand the result of the mistake and results are what count in this department," he went on. "I feared your marriage would interfere with your interest in your work here. All I have to say now is--don't let anything of the sort happen again!" There was a grim threat in the words.
Furious that he had not permitted her to defend herself, Eve returned to her desk. Mona had scored against her at every point. Eve was tempted to go to Mr. Bixby about the affair; tempted, too, to resign. But she knew that was exactly what Mona had hoped might happen and therefore it was

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS-By Blosser

As for the bicycle brigade, we haven't discovered a rare bit of nonsense with which to amuse and build up our feeble selves.
It hails from the days of derbies and hug-me-tights.
Back when mother wore yards and yards of merchandise and dad chinned a celluloid collar
When men were men and ladies very uncomfortable in hoops and frills and needless hair pins.
Them wuz the days. Ma conquered the art of riding in a skirt, which none of us have managed gracefully yet.
While pa became an adept at unwinding dry goods from troublesome wheels. There were no slacks... neither did humanity gaze upon shorts with approval.

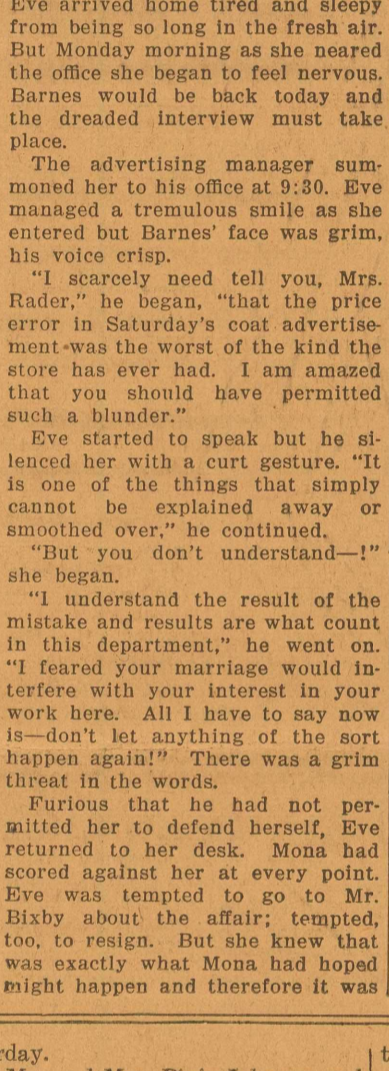

'Twas a shocked and shocking age when the first yipe of the dogs, to which we have gone, was sounded.
Pop heard it... mom detected the whine... and grandma's fluttering hands went up in horrified prediction... which has, we are forced to admit at times, materialized.
And so, with the little pack of pups at our ancestors' heels, bicycles went down in humiliating defeat.

Gasoline was here... humanity settled itself upon locomotives without a tremble... the air became more than insubstantial ozone... and we forgot old faithful.
Then came the rise and fall of skirts... the fall bringing back a puff here and a ruffle there. Hats went Victorian and horsemanship returned.
Briefly we wore new boots... took our tumblers... and groaned within the recesses of our private rooms.
And somebody prowling around the garbage can behind the garage, stumbled over mother's old bicycle, fast mummifying.
And so, according to the rules of go and come, spokes and handle bars came back... and we think we've discovered a new amusement.

"Just Make Yourself at Home"

It's an old expression, but it's typical of the warm, friendly atmosphere at the Crazy Water Hotel.

People get acquainted here, because so many of them come back year after year to drink Crazy Mineral Water and take a course of Crazy Mineral Baths. They enjoy meeting their old friends just as you will... But more than that, you too can get back "in condition" for another year just through drinking Crazy Mineral Water and enjoying those baths under the supervision of trained masseurs.

This year all the facilities of the Crazy Water Hotel, including a large, comfortable room, all your meals, mineral baths, and all the Crazy Water you can drink served to you in your room or at the noted Crazy Water bar may be your for as low as $20.00 per week.
