

SPECIAL SESSION CALLED FOR SEPTEMBER 14

VETERINARY CLINIC TO BE HELD AT FAIR

A free veterinary clinic, one of the first of its kind ever held in this section of the country, is to be conducted by Dr. Ross Hodges in connection with the Co-Workers community fair, to be held on the Hayden Neal place, Spring Road, next Tuesday, September 12.

Horse clinics have been held by Dr. Hodges in several of the communities which have met with decided success, a large number of farm horses and mules being brought in for examination. Whenever defects have been found that would hamper the usefulness of the animal in working the farms, advice on treatment has been given.

The veterinary clinic of the coming community fair will be similar to the horse clinics except that all kinds of farm animals will be examined. It has been found that by giving the animals this examination small defects have often been found that could easily be cured with treatment.

Those who desire to bring their farm animals to the clinic are urged to have them at the Hayden Neal place by 9:30 next Tuesday. They will be kept in the pens until they can be examined and recommendations as to treatment given by the doctor.

Everyone is invited to the fair and to the clinic, whether they reside on a farm or in the city, as the fair, the clinic and all the features to be presented during the day are for the general public.

Two Men Salvage Sunken Logs To Make a Living

BEAUMONT.—Slim Martin and Collin LaBlue, who are otherwise unemployed, have managed to eke out a fair living recently by salvaging sunken logs from the mud of the Neches river.

The logs, which have been kept for years in a perfect state of preservation by the water, are sold for $8 per thousand feet. They have recovered about 200 logs and expect to get about 400 more.

Some of the recovered logs are estimated by Martin to be about 65 years old, dating back to the earliest days in the lumber industry of the Sabine district. The manner of cutting indicates their age.

Martin and LaBlue carry on all their salvaging operations by hand labor. The logs are located by the use of "sinker flats" or framework built across two rowboats. A line is strung across the river and the "sinker flat" moves along the line while the men aboard probe the bottom of the stream with long poles.

When a log is located tongs are lowered to grasp it. It is then raised with a windlass and hauled ashore for the trip to the mill.

Children Entering School This Fall Have Been Examined

AUSTIN, Tex.—Over 6,000 children ready to enter school life this month have been given complete physical examinations since the first of May, according to Dr. H. N. Barnett, Director Bureau of Child Hygiene State Department of Health. These examinations were accomplished under the program sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Associations throughout the State.

These Summer Round-Ups of preschool children were initiated by Parent Teacher Associations in 1925 and carried on in cooperation with the Bureau of Child Hygiene; they have been so successful that each year has shown an increased interest in this movement. These examinations and corrections are done by doctors and dentists and this group of apparently healthy children showed at least 1 physical defect that majority of which could be remedied without much cost or loss of time.

The aim of these Round-Ups is to have the child entering school 100 per cent free from remedial physical and mental defects before the child enters school. Some-time these can be corrected by health habits of more rest, better food, exercises for posture, etc. The chief advantage of such health work is not only to discover such defects but to help the parents to strive for better health for their children and to convince them that physical and dental defects uncorrected will prove to be handicaps in later life.

Dr. Barnett also stated that parents of children over six months of age should have the children immunized against diphtheria as soon as possible.

No one should expose their children to the dangers of this disease when the prevention of it has been so definitely established. After receiving the injections the child can be tested to make sure that he is immune.

RIO GRANDE ABOVE FLOOD STAGE TODAY

EDINBURG, Texas, Sept. 7.—The Rio Grande rose above flood stage near its junction with the San Juan river today and threatened to spread over the hurricane-swept lower Rio Grande valley, where 24 were known dead.

Immigration and customs officers at Rio Grande City ordered all government records at Hidalgo removed.

The river stood at 25.5 feet at Roma, 13 miles west of Rio Grande City, a foot over the flood stage.

Meantime Albert Evans, regional director of the National Red Cross, concentrated relief work among hurricane victims. The R. F. C. organization and the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission pooled resources, giving Evans authority over the entire organization.

Drinking water must be provided, Evans said, and polluted streams and wells must be condemned. Clothing is needed badly.

A special train from San Antonio to Harlingen brought 30,000 loaves of fresh bread, many thousand gallons of drinking water to-day.

Evans ordered another check of the dead list in Matamoros, across the death line in Matamoros, across cause of conflicting accounts.

Ninety per cent loss and to some observers total loss, was estimated to the citrus crop in the hurricane area.

The estimate placed the loss to the citrus industry upwards of $10,000,000.

Brownsville, weathering its third major storm of the season, showed the signs of the hurricane force. Some observers said the loss there would run as high as $1,000,000.

San Benito, now flooded as are parts of Brownsville, placed a property damage almost as great as at Brownsville.

One observer at San Benito said property damage there and in the trade territory would run around $3,000,000.

ROOSEVELT IS PREPARING FOR INTERVENTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—President Roosevelt's preparation for possible Cuban intervention today moved almost every armed American vessel on the Atlantic seaboard.

Sixteen destroyers received preparation orders today. The destroyer Overton was ordered to the Isle of Pines, off Cuba.

These orders brought to 30 the number of armed American vessels which have received emergency orders this week.

The Overton was dispatched to the Isle of Pines, where fear was expressed that inmates of the large prison there might be freed.

AUSTIN.—Texas crop control action under emergency federal authority, farm more extensive than the entire cotton plow-up, has been started, according to notices received by Texas officials and business men.

Bankers and representative business men and state officials have been summoned to a conference in Dallas next Tuesday with government representatives to consider a mandatory 60 per cent reduction in cotton planting next year.

The plow-up campaign in Texas amounted to only 25 per cent of this year's planting. The 60 per cent reduction would cut an average 4,000,000 bale crop to 1,600,000 bales.

It was explained here that since the government had power to buy cotton this year and take it out of production, the same law gave it ample authority to curb the planting of the next crop.

Action to restrict the planting had been urged officially by Texas, and by farmers and business men in a recent statewide conference here, when Commissioner J. E. McDonald was ordered to Washington. Mr. McDonald was authorized to press a four-point program for stabilizing the price of cotton, and lifting it from the present 9-cent level to 20 cents. The program called for further plowing up this year, for government buying for uses non-competitive with the crop, for liberal credit authority for carrying cotton, and for restrictions of the 1934 plantings.

Announcement of the government restrictive program was made to the railroad commission hearing on cotton rates and truck-railroad competition.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Quinn returned several days ago from West Texas where they spent the summer with her sister on a ranch. Their many friends are delighted to have them back and to know that Mr. Quinn's health seems very much better.

Desdemona schools opened Monday morning with a splendid attendance. Appropriate opening exercises were held but the reporter failed to get the details. The faculty is composed of the same teachers we had last year, with the exception of Miss Beryle Gallagher, who takes the place of Miss Jimmie Dee Blain of Dallas, who married soon after the close of school last spring. The members of the faculty are as follows: M. L. Cobb superintendent; C. A. Skipping, principal of high school; Weldon Rushing, coach; D. E. Hoover, principal of the grammar schools and the following teachers: Mrs. C. A. Skipping, Mrs. D. E. Hoover, Misses Dorace Roe, Nora Robert, Johnnie Buchan, Monette Ponder, Pallie Brumelow and Beryle Gallagher.

Mrs. Mattie Henry, who is president of the Parent-Teacher Association for this year entertained the executive board at her home Thursday afternoon. Plans were discussed and outlines of the work for this year were made and much interest was manifested. After the business was finished a pleasant social hour was spent and the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. John Mendenhall, served delicious pineapple sherbet and cake.

Mrs. S. T. Stover is suffering from a serious burn received on Tuesday evening of last week when she upset a can of boiling hot grease, burning her left hand and arm from the elbow to finger tips.

On Tuesday of last week Desdemona's gin whistle blew for the first time in several years. The first bale ginned belonged to Bob Adams and he received a premium of $12.50.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Once upon a time, as all good stories begin, came a flood . . . putting a lot of troublesome busy-bodies out of the way.

Whereupon, came a rainbow, and the solemn prediction of no more washouts. But nothing was said about a hurricane.

So while California crawls into the limelight with her earthquakes and Florida is whipped about to the tune of 100 miles an hour, Texas' well-advertised Valley sits down in the path of a tropical hurricane . . . and makes headlines.

Some six months ago there was no waste land. People fought insects.

We bought grapefruit off the trees.

Mopped our brows in the heat of the Valley's February while home-folks mended bursted pipes.

Bought curios in ancient Matamoros, and flipped nickels and dimes to dirty Mexican urchins.

Became familiar with Brownsville and McAllen and Harlingen and San Benito.

Met people and liked them . . . and swore to live in the Valley someday.

Today we much prefer the Oil Belt.

The trees have given way to bread lines.

The packing houses replaced by emergency hospitals.

In the injured list we find a familiar name . . . selfishly we hope there are two people so called, and this is the other one.

Mercedes shipped five boxes of grapefruit yesterday . . . the Valley's contribution for 1933.

The American Red Cross announced an appropriation of $25,000 yesterday . . . 1933's contribution to the Valley.

Once upon a time, as all good stories begin, there was a Valley.

Whereupon, came a storm, and we solemnly hope . . . a rainbow.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVERETT HAYLES, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

SAM HOLMES, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, but she favors herself in love with GEORGE BLISS. Handsome THERON REECE has been forcing unwelcome attentions on Eve.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market on money borrowed from her mother, MONA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and tries to make trouble for her. When an error, costing the store $2,000, appears in an advertisement MONA is really responsible but the blame falls on Eve.

Eve sells her stock market holdings at a gain. Blasted, she arrives home to hear the telephone ringing. She answers and recognized Mona Allen's voice. "Mona says, 'They must have given me the wrong number' and the connection is broken." Eve wonders if Mona has been calling up Dick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

EVERETT entered the offices of the brokerage firm of Sloan and Sanford with trepidation. Yet she felt no urge to turn back. She had made one investment through the bank and now was exploring new fields. Eve had decided to shift the scene for her next financial venture.

She asked for Mr. Sanford and this time he was at his desk. Her naive must have amused him, for more than once she noticed a twinkle in his large blue-gray eyes.

"I'm through with Pure Soap," Eve told him. "I don't want to overdo any one thing, you see. I thought I might like to try one of the industrials. Will you tell me about them?"

Mr. Sanford told her about the industrials and agreed with her that it might be well to invest in one of them. He advocated Atlas Coupler. Eve placed her money on Atlas Coupler.

As she left the office she wondered vaguely what a coupler was. She had not felt like asking Mr. Sanford. At any rate, it was listed on the stock exchange. She noticed this when Charles brought the stock edition newspapers into the office that afternoon.

Eve liked the atmosphere of the brokerage house. She longed to feel the same ease of manner displayed by the men she saw trading there. Yet she could not quite smother a sense of excitement each time she visited the exchange. She formed the habit of dropping in frequently during lunch periods. Usually she asked Arlene to go with her, since she felt timid about appearing alone among a group of men devoted to watching market quotations being chalked on the board.

"I certainly get a great kick out of coming up here," Arlene assured her. "If father could only see me now! He thinks anyone who invests in stocks is bound for perdition. And he couldn't, for the life of him, understand that I'd accepted a position with Higginbotham Bros. there. W. H. Howell of Hamilton is the new manager of the Texas-Louisiana Power company.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. D. Mehaffey are the proud parents of a daughter, Betty Ruth, born Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Willis of Happy were here the first of the week visiting relatives. Her father, M. B. Comer, who has been here visiting the past four months, returned with them.

Mrs. J. M. Lowery and little daughters, Mary Frances and Betty Jane, of Dallas, were week-end guests in the T. J. Fuller home.

Miss Ruth Rucker is home from Cisco, where she has been for the past few months.

Mrs. J. C. Southworth and little son are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gray.

Miss Dorothy King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe King of the Alameda community, was injured Sunday when hit by an automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dabney of Port Arthur are here visiting relatives.

Miss Fern Courtney of Eastland was home over the week-end.

Misses Martha Fae and Marie Koonece returned from Graham Saturday, where they have been visiting relatives.

Mrs. E. Pittman, Melvin Shell of Gorman, accompanied by Mitchell Crawford of Hico, Tom Barnard and Osea Fowler of Oklahoma, left Sunday for an extended visit in California.

Mrs. Cody Lane of Stamford was home over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Burroughs and son of Fort Worth were here over the week-end visiting relatives.

Hubert Grove and children of Fort Worth were here last week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Grove.

Mrs. Dona Moorman returned Wednesday from California where she has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt.

Bobbie Lee Wood, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wood, is suffering from an injured eye. A little playmate accidentally shot him in the eye with an airgun.

Thurman Rucker left Wednesday for Waco, where he will enter Baylor university.

AUSTIN.—Long before organized crime had placed the word "gangster" in the modern dictionary Texas had its own list of "public enemies."

During the days when civil war shattered the peace of the Old South, John H. Reagan, postmaster general of the Confederacy, compiled a list of "alien enemies" in 21 Texas counties and issued orders for the confiscation of their property.

The document, found in East Texas, is one of more than 150 recently purchased by the University of Texas as a nucleus for its collection of material pertaining to southern history.

Letters written and received by President Jefferson Davis during the Civil War comprise a major part of the collection, purchased from Dr. Prichard von David of San Antonio.

It includes Robert E. Lee's original order of surrender to Grant, and his farewell to the army technically known as General Order No. 9.

A document describing verbally and in pen and ink sketches a sub-water gun to be used in defending the Mississippi against Union gunboats, and bearing notations by Jefferson Davis, also is included in the collection.

The documents were paid for from the $125,000 endowment given 15 years ago by Major Geo. W. Littlefield for the purchase of southern history material.

interested in this place without investing." . . .

TUESDAY was pay day at Bixby's and the following Wednesday found Arlene in Mr. Sanford's office with Eve. Arlene was being initiated into making her first investment.

"I think it would be fun to margin," she commented when the methods of investing were explained to her. "I'd love the excitement of it!"

So Arlene also bought Atlas Coupler.

To Eve it had always been necessary to share each new experience with some one. Only after confiding in another and reliving the event did she get the utmost joy from it. Hence her spirits were greatly exhilarated after Arlene made her investment and they watched the trend of the market together. There were days when both of them felt the stimulation of a rise of a point or two in the valuation of Atlas Coupler. And there were days when a slight decline sent them into the very depths of discouragement.

Atlas Coupler had long lain dormant. Eve learned after looking up data concerning it. After the patent rights had been secured there had been a lengthy, uncertain delay in marketing the device, owing to the power of the holding company behind the coupler that was to be displaced by Atlas. But now contracts had been signed and manufacturing had begun. A reliable brokerage concern guided the activities of the issue and demand for it caused an extended flurry in the stock. The girls had every reason to believe quick riches were to be theirs for their risk and they anticipated their return eagerly.

EVERETT really longed to tell Dick of her investments, but she felt she could score a greater triumph by waiting until her gains were substantial. Not that she wished to flaunt her success, she assured herself, but she must be able to justify her desire to earn her own money.

Eve felt these days an almost overwhelming sense of hope and expectancy. She attributed it to the apparently established upward trend of Atlas Coupler, but it might have been born of the springtime. Mrs. Brooks, who was in her garden at six o'clock each morning, watched for Eve often and gave her a bouquet of fragrant lilies of the valley for her desk. Then came the week toward which the entire household had been looking forward when the lilac bushes were in bloom and purple and white clusters filled the air with their fragrance.

"Dick!" called Eve softly from the shabby old front steps where she was sitting with her arms locked around her knees. Dick, lounging in a gay steamer chair on the lawn below, looked up at her. The moon was sending beams of light through the newly-leaved maple trees and fantastic shadows danced on Eve's face. "I just love this place!" she declared.

Dick blew a curling wreath of smoke rings from his pipe upward toward the star-speckled sky. Then he answered slowly, contentedly. "We'll never find a better place in the city."

"I wish we could stay here forever!" Eve went on. "I mean happy and peaceful, just as we are now."

"Um!" responded Dick.

And then Miss McElhinney, one of the teachers who lived upstairs, came out on the porch. "It's such a gorgeous evening and you look so snug here! I hope you don't mind if I join you."

SHE perched herself on the newel post, nearer to Dick than to Eve. Before many minutes had elapsed she was off on a monologue which threatened to continue for hours.

"You see," Miss McElhinney confided in her slow voice that held a suggestion of a lisp, "I do like to come out of my chamber! All day long I have to be the stern 'schoolmarm' and after hours I long to be just the little girl I feel!"

Dick coughed but refrained from comment.

Eve studied the newcomer with some misgiving. Apparently her line was flattery.

"I think," Miss McElhinney continued, facing Dick directly, "that you are wonderful to accomplish all you do. Building that beautiful theater! And giving orders to so many men. Engineering must be so thrilling. I used to watch you on stormy winter mornings as you waded through the snow to get your car. It was so cold I hated even to get out of bed. I would take one look at the 'frozen north' out in the yard and then slip back under the covers until almost time for the school bell to ring."

Presently the girl's voice dropped to a lower, more confidential tone that seemed to exclude Eve. She turned nearer to Dick. Twice he moved and tried to draw his wife into the conversation. Eve, angered by Miss McElhinney's impudence and irritated at Dick for not discouraging her chatter, answered in monosyllables and presently rose abruptly and went indoors.

When Dick did not follow, as she had hoped he would, she went to bed, though it was still early. Half an hour later she heard Dorothy McElhinney's husky laugh as she bade Dick goodnight in the hall. Eve fancied there was an exultant and excited note in that laugh.

Dick paused at the bedroom door with the comment that the weather had changed and a sharp breeze was blowing in from the lake. When Eve did not answer he closed the door softly and settled himself for the evening with his pipe and a book. He had made no apology, no explanation. Eve, nervous and tired, cried herself to sleep. That husky exultant laugh echoed mockingly in her ears.
