SPECIAL SESSION IS OPENED AT NOON TODAY

INFLATION IS DEMANDED BY TWO SENATORS

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The inflation storm broke today like a thunderclap on Capitol Hill with Chairman Fletcher of the senate banking and currency committee and Chairman Harrison of the finance committee demanding immediate administration action to raise commodity prices.

"If the administration does not act before congress meets," Harrison said, "congress will compel adoption of an inflationary policy."

Harrison predicted adoption of a new administration monetary policy in the near future. Fletcher and Harrison said they believed the treasury should immediately issue some or all of the $3,000,000,000 of treasury notes authorized under the Thomas amendment.

Harrison complained the dollar was too high and the price of gold too low. He proposed a program of inflation which would include some or all of the following:

1. Issue treasury notes.
2. Raise the price of gold in the domestic market.
3. Purchase silver and issue treasury notes against it regardless of whether French and British cooperation could be obtained.
4. Create a dollar stabilization fund to force the value of the dollar down and to keep it down.

Lions Suggest New Projects For Years Work

Saul Perlstein gave an interesting classification talk of the regular meeting of the Lions Club today, speaking on the 1933 prices of clothing as compared with the 1934 prices.

He stated that since the code had been signed on September 11, unfair competition was eliminated and buying at distressed prices was prohibited by the large concerns.

He said that clothing was to be cut from better quality goods and that no effort was to be made to try to compete with the cheap goods, but that merchandise would be based on quality. He stated that clothing prices would be from 35 to 40 per cent higher next spring than this past spring.

Suggestions from the members on projects for the club were received, the projects mentioned being:

By Lion Ringold—An adult night school, the teacher or teachers to be paid out of R. F. C. funds.

By Lion Kelly—Decorating all vacant windows in the town by the merchants and keeping them decorated with seasonal merchandise.

By Lion Brashier—That the streets be marked off for proper parking, even if the Lions themselves had to do the work.

By Lion Ringold—That all possible aid be given Junior College students in finding work to help pay their way through school this year.

By Lion Larson—That the little things about the town be watched and wherever a Lion saw an improvement could be made in the looks or betterment of the town, either by his own or by concerted effort, the work be done.

By Lion Thrower—A library, to be located in some central point, where old magazines could be collected and given out to those who like to read, but who do not have the money with which to purchase new magazines.

HERE SHE IS—Miss America, '33!

WITNESSES IN STANTON TRIAL IDENTIFY GUN

By United Press
TULIA, Texas, Sept. 14.—Steve Ridings, Amarillo gunsmith, testified today at the trial of Ed (Perchmouth) Stanton, West Texas outlaw, that bullets removed from the automobile of Sheriff Ed Moseley are identical to those used in a gun taken from Stanton when he was apprehended.

The youthful prisoner is on trial for murder in connection with the slaying last January of the popular West Texas sheriff.

Stanton was arrested in New Mexico after officers raided a gang hideout. Hubert Reynolds, New Mexico deputy sheriff, testified the gun exhibited as the one with which bullets were fired into Moseley's automobile was taken from Stanton when arrested.

The state rested its case after Ridings had testified.

The defense indicated it would call the young defendant, who is accused of participation in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown at Rhome, Texas, to testify late today. Reynolds and three other witnesses appeared for the defense before noon.

Defendants Fail To Appear For Trials In Court

On Monday the docket of the 88th District Court was postponed on account of the absence of C. C. Colson, charged with theft; J. W. Miller, charged with forgery; and Arthur Messington, charged with assault to murder. These cases were set for Monday but, when the defendants failed to appear for trial, Judge Patterson ordered the bonds forfeited and issued alias capias for the immediate arrest of the men, and the cases passed until Thursday morning.

On Thursday morning the sheriff's department reported that none of the men had been located but that there was a possibility of getting one of them before the court by noon; so the jury was excused until 1:30 o'clock to await the results of the efforts of the sheriff to rearrest one or more of the defendants.

High School Will Have Largest Band In Several Years

A total of 46 band members and a group of 30 parents met at the high school at the first meeting of the Ranger High school band, indicating that the school would have the largest band it has had in a number of years.

Some 15 members of the Ranger Junior college will play in the band this year, all of whom are good musicians and who will add much to the organization.

Mrs. Brashier and Mrs. Birch were elected co-chairmen of the Parents' club, composed of parents of the members of the band.

The band will meet tonight for practice at the band hall, R. L. Maddox, director of the band, announced today.

Three Places Will Sell Beer 3.2 Miles From Ranger Friday

Three refreshment and lunch stands are to open up Friday morning on the Caddo road, just over the Stephens county line, where 3.2 beer, barbecue, sandwiches, soda pop, cigars, and other items will be offered for sale.

The new resort center is just 3.2 miles from the city of Ranger, which makes it easily accessible to the hungry or thirsty.

Three places, two on the right of the road and one on the left as one leaves town, were under construction today and it was said that everything would be in readiness for legal beer by 7 o'clock Friday morning.

The big opening will be held Friday night, when large crowds from Ranger are expected to be on hand for the occasion.

A crew of 50 men has been working for the past few days getting the houses, which were moved to the location, ready for serving the public, with carpenters, painters, road workers and others getting the driveways, buildings, counters, refrigerators and other equipment ready for the opening tomorrow.

Twilight League Game Rained Out

The soft ball game between the Ranger Times and the Barbers, scheduled to be played Wednesday afternoon of this week, was rained out and will probably be played off some day next week.

The Times already has one postponed game with the Rotary club to play off. A tentative agreement to play the Rotary game this Friday has been made between the management of the two clubs.

This afternoon, if the weather permits the Lions and Lone Star will play, while the Sinclair and Legion are scheduled to play Friday afternoon.

Ranger Man Back From Long Trip Prefers Home Town

Lee Walker has returned to Ranger after an extensive trip of several months, during which he toured Colorado, California, Nevada, Wyoming and other states in the northwest.

Mr. Walker said on his return that he was glad to be back in Ranger, even though he did have a wonderful trip. He said that after being away for a time Ranger looked particularly good to him and that he was more than satisfied with the town now that he had been over so much of the country and had seen how things were in other sections.

BEER WILL BE LEGALIZED IN STATE TONIGHT

By United Press
DALLAS, Sept. 14.—Beer comes to Texas at the stroke of midnight tonight.

The war-time Sahara lid will be lifted with a resounding pop. Beer distributors assured eager imbibers that motor trucks, fast trains and airplanes stood poised ready to bring beer to Texas.

Beer was legalized at the Aug. 26 election. Repeal of the 18th amendment was also favored by a big majority.

The voters, however, while polling for state-wide beer, limited its sales to two-fifths of the 254 counties in Texas. The three-fifths of the counties that forbid sale or manufacture of the beverage, however, will not be without beer.

Elbert Hooper, assistant attorney general, in a written opinion for a district attorney in a dry county, said beer may be legally imbibed in a dry territory, but sale, manufacture or barter is forbidden. It cheered thousands who viewed the local option election results with disgust.

The head of a Dallas truck drivers' union said 100 men had been hired to drive beer trucks. Roadhouses, hotels and clubs announced "beer parties." They will start at the stroke of midnight or a few minutes thereafter.

Library Meeting Being Held Today

A meeting of the heads of the various clubs in the city was called by Dr. P. M. Kuykendall, president of the chamber of commerce, for the purpose of discussing plans, ways and means for furnishing a public library for the city of Ranger.

The tentative plans, as outlined in the meeting call, would include a building so arranged that it could be used as a meeting place for the various clubs of the city.

The Roswell store has just recently opened in a new and better location, even though it already has the reputation of being one of the best in the southern region.

TESTIMONY IN BAILEY TRIAL IS ANNOUNCED

By United Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 14.—Three principal defendants in the Urshell kidnaping case will give startling testimony at their trials that will link the alleged ring leaders, Bailey and Bates, with the crime, their attorney revealed today.

The testimony will come from R. G. (Boss) Shannon, his wife and Shannon's son, Armon, 21, of Paradise, Texas, said M. W. Burch, the attorney.

The Shannon couple will testify that Bates, later arrested at Denver, was with George (Machine Gun) Kelly, son-in-law of Mrs. Shannon, when Charles F. Urshell was brought to their farm home July 23, Burch said.

The Shannons will state, Burch said, that Bailey arrived at their home after the oil man was taken away; that he was heavily armed and that they believed he was sent to carry out a threat to "turn on the heat," made by Kelly in warning them not to talk of what happened.

Relinquishment of delinquent taxes has been suggested as a measure of valley relief. The governor's advisers think relief may also be extended out of the $20,000,000 state bond issue proceeds.

The issue, however, will not provide funds for the immediate emergency. Several months will be required to issue the bonds and market them.

Next to relief measures, interest is centered in the proposal to change state anti-trust laws, and the effect, if any, it will have on pending anti-trust suits against major oil companies and the American Petroleum Institute.

General Johnson has requested Texas, and all states, to make the necessary changes to carry out six salient points in the national recovery program:

1. Consent for the president to use state and local officers and employes in carrying out the NRA program.

2. Extension of regulations applied to interstate commerce to concerns which operate only inside state lines.

3. Daily $500 fines for violation of fair practices as set out by the NRA codes.

4. Authority for competitors, as well as prosecuting attorneys, to enjoin code violators.

5. Exemption from anti-trust law violations if code rules are followed.

6. Granting of public contracts only to code observers. The state board of control already has issued such an order without any statute on the subject.

Besides the subjects named in the governor's message, it is expected she will later submit many more topics. Among these expected are:

Amendment of the state racing and boxing laws.

Readjustment of state salaries.

BILL OFFERED SHORTLY AFTER ROLL IS CALLED

By United Press
AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—A bill to make possible the state's full cooperation in the federal recovery program was introduced in the Texas senate today.

It was offered by Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman 45 minutes after the session of the legislature, called by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, had convened at noon.

The measure would make NRA code compliance a defense against alleged anti-trust law violations.

Senate bills appropriating $100,000 for per diem pay and mileage and $50,000 for contingent expenses also were introduced.

Senator Ben Olson, Wichita Falls, offered a bill providing for the transfer of liens for taxes the state, county and political divisions have or real property.

Members of the senate and of the house will be sent into the Rio Grande valley to study hurricane relief needs and aid reconstruction plans under a concurrent resolution offered by Senator Archie Parr of Benavides.

The senate adopted the resolution before recessing until 3 p. m.

Governor Ferguson advised both houses her message would be presented later.

The session which began today was the second ever called by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—The Texas legislature convened at noon today for a 30-day and possibly a 60-day special session.

Earlier adjournment is possible. The members present, however, were almost unanimous in the belief at least a month will be needed to dispose of the matters for which the session has been called.

Relief for Rio Grande valley hurricane sufferers promised to be the earliest work of the session. It was not specifically included in Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's proclamation convening the session.

The legislature was called for issuance of $20,000,000 state unemployment relief bonds and to amend state anti-trust laws as requested by General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

The lady governor, a noted housekeeper, also asked an appropriation for a cooling system for the executive mansion and improvement of its grounds.

DISASTER RELIEF

The legislature is certain to have before it measures for relief of the hurricane-stricken Valley.

Relief is of two kinds: the emergency feeding and shelter of storm victims; provisions for setting up shop again and carrying on.

The first type is being taken care of well, with resources of both the state and the nation mobilized swiftly and efficiently. The other is, on the whole, the biggest job.

The first need, after caring for the injured and feeding and housing the homeless, is to make provision by which the Texas citizens in the Valley may rebuild, may restore a semblance of the normal order, and may remain in the Valley country.

The thing of greatest importance is to make it possible for them to rebuild their homes and business establishments, and to carry on in the Valley. The alternative would be for many thousands to drift away, leave the beautiful and well-developed section in its present desolation, and permanently reduce the Valley to a lower level of development.

Dollars spent quick enough to let the people rebuild the Valley and make it possible for them to stay there will be productive dollars. Their spending—if spent quickly—will preserve what otherwise will be abandoned and lost; and will enable those who have suffered such losses to get going again toward recovery. In general, there is no place all the homeless can go; no other field of opportunity away from the Valley better than that at home, even under the possibility of recurrent storms.

Tax remission, moratoria on the heavy bond-payment tax levies, and the like in the long run will be of general benefit; but the greater need is ready money or credit to put the houses back in shape again to be lived in; to repair and restock the business establishment; to re-create the citrus orchards that were seriously damaged. This year's fruit crop is lost. If the government pays for its destruction, as it paid for cotton plowed up, it will put in money to be used in salvaging values and in preserving the Valley. If the state can assist in this, and if the state can apply relief funds, and rehabilitation funds quickly enough, it will make possible that those who are willing, can stay on in the Valley and rebuild much, if not most, of the unmeasured toll of storm damage.

Bill Offered

Additional revenue to meet the state financial difficulties. Amendment or repeal of the Robertson insurance law, which, opponents say, prevents foreign capital coming into Texas.

Numerous investigations are also being forecast including: Investigation of reported sales of patronage, the granting of state boxing and wrestling permits, the handling of state relief and an investigation of price fixing in disregard of existing anti-trust law.

The regular session of the 43rd legislature opened on Jan. 10 and ended on June 1, the longest continuous session on record.

GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent. Dick wants Eve to stop working but she refuses.

Unknown to Dick, Eve plays the stock market on borrowed money. EARLE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, buys stock on Eve's advice but loses all her money. SAM HOLDRIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, is infatuated with Arlene.

MONA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is responsible for several errors at the office for which Eve is blamed. Several times this occurs in the office. Then Eve's diamond ring disappears. Eve suspects Mona and demands that she return the ring. Mona gives it to her.

The building on which Dick has been working is completed and his employers tell him they will have no more work for him for at least two months. He and Eve spend a brief vacation visiting Eve's parents. The day after a policeman enters the office and asks for "Miss Bayless."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

EVE stared at the policeman. What could he possibly want of her? "I'm Miss Bayless," she said. "What is it?"

"Headquarters wants to talk to you about that accident last Thursday night. The man who was hit has internal injuries and there's some question about your bill."

Eve insisted that she had been out of the state for two weeks and had returned only the day before. She turned to Arlene and Mrs. Penney to substantiate her statement but this did not satisfy the officer.

"I'd call Mr. Barnes, the advertising manager, to tell you what I'm saying is the truth but he's out of town today," Eve explained. "Well, you'd better come along and tell it to the sergeant," the officer told her.

Eve went with him, her eyes blazing. Why couldn't they have sent a plain clothes man instead of an officer in uniform? She insisted upon telephoning Dick who met her at the police station. Dick demanded to see the officer who had made the arrest the week before. When he arrived he confirmed the name but assured them Eve was not the girl.

"Who do you suppose could have used my name?" Eve asked Dick. He called for a description of the girl and immediately they guessed it must have been Mona Allen. Back to the store went Eve, accompanied by the officer who had made the arrest. She was deeply humiliated by the stares of the other employees as they passed.

MONA was at her desk when Eve and the policeman reached the advertising office. The girl's face blanched and a frightened look came into her eyes. "There's the girl!" the officer said, pointing to Mona. "Thought you said your name was Eve Bayless! Well, you'd better come along with me. The sergeant wants to see you."

And Mona, without a word, obeyed. "She'd rather see the sergeant than see me right now!" Eve told Arlene and Mrs. Penney. "She and some man were riding in a rented coupe last Thursday night and they crashed into another car on University Circle. Of course I was out of town and she thought she could get away with giving them my name!"

Next morning Eve followed along to his private office as soon as he arrived. It was high time, he had decided, that he learned something of Mona Allen's indiscretions. Eve told him of the incident. He agreed with her that it was serious and then rang for Mona. He dismissed Eve, however, who had hoped to be present of the interview.

Mona did not reappear for at least half an hour. Then she came from Barnes' office, dabbing her eyes with a handkerchief, and passed through the room into the corridor.

"Tears!" sniffed Arlene. "She cried and I suppose he fell for it. Pretty soon she'll be back to tell you she's sorry. As though saying that will undo all the trouble she has caused. The little sneak!"

And that is exactly what Mona did. "I'm awfully sorry!" she told Eve in a contrite voice. "Will you forgive me?"

Eve felt obliged to say she would, though the humiliation of that trip to police court still rankled.

"I suppose Barnes would fire her if she didn't have so much imagination. Her value does lie in her original ideas," Eve admitted. "Yeah," drawled Arlene. "Too bad so many of them are misdirected!"

EVE longed for, yet dreaded the arrival of the time when Dick would go to work on a new construction job. It made her uneasy to see his savings disappearing for their living expenses. At the same time she was afraid his new job would take him away from Lake City. In more prosperous times his employers might have given him some choice in the matter. Now, she realized, he would be fortunate to get work on any terms.

It was an ordeal to reach the office promptly on those late summer mornings and it was an ordeal to endure the long hours at the store. Often when, with frayed nerves and aching heart, Eve tried to finish her copy so that she could meet Dick promptly at closing time, she thought of other wives she knew—wives like Esther who could, if they choose, take a nap in a cool, shaded room or spend the afternoon on an airy porch or lawn. And she thought enviously of women like Mr. Bixby's wife and daughters at mountain or seaside resorts with nothing more arduous to do than to change from one charming costume to another.

She told herself that when her stock market investments materialized she, too, would have a pleasant, easy life. Another thing that vexed Eve was her inability to take advantage of the many bargains that heaped Bixby's counters as the summer waned.

THIS was especially hard to endure because Arlene and Mona, whose wages were much smaller than hers, were buying liberally.

Mona gleefully exhibited some new bit of finery after every pay day. "I doubt if she ever had $50 before," Eve thought. "I'll tell Arlene after Mona had left the office one evening, wearing a new hat. "Do you suppose she ever looks ahead at all—ever thinks of investing for the future?"

"She was looking to the future when she bought that come-hither hat. A good investment, too! She looks so sweet and innocent in it myself. If she could hold that pose long enough I believe she could marry some one really worth while. But the mistake she makes is in going out with any man who invites her."

"Do you know," Arlene went on thoughtfully, "I've sometimes wondered why she doesn't try to vamp Barnes. The fact that she's married wouldn't make any difference to her. She's the kind of dumb dove Mr. Bixby himself could be vamped if she went about it in the right way."

"I'll always be glad for my business experience," Arlene continued. "If I marry I'll never be jealous of the girls in my husband's office. I'll know the average man has about all he can do when he supports a wife, a couple of kids, a flapper and a radio set and that probably he hates the way his stenographer wears her hair, her long nose and wishes she knew how to spell and punctuate correctly!"

Eve tried to put aside her resentment at the fact that her husband did not seem to worry over her unemployment. She did, however, resent his refusal several times to meet her downtown and lunch with her. Twice he packed a lunch, stowed his high boots and fishing tackle into the roadster and, after leaving her at Bixby's was off for a day's fishing. When he returned in the evening, happy and triumphant, with a string of catfish and blue gills, she refused to eat any of the fish, and sulked through the meal like a spoiled child.

Dick said nothing. He gave up the excursions, Eve knew, because he no longer took his fishing tackle along. What he did with his day after that he did not tell her and she was too proud to ask. Eve could not know that events were shaping swiftly to separate them and that she was to look back on her selfish, childish conduct in shame and remorse.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Ambitious mothers led their wide-eyed offsprings forth to see the astonishing spectacle... They gaped.

Business men left impatient customers to stand in awe before the scene... they marveled.

The schools were a mixture of windows and inquisitive faces... both open.

Beer was a hard-fought-for advent... this was a surprise.

Race betting brought illegal money to gamblers legally... this brought legitimate fall.

The 1933 President gave us a new deal... this gave us something to talk about.

When Columbus slipped into the new American port... 'twas discovery.

When Germany pulled her last wise crack with America... 'twas war.

But when it rained in Ranger yesterday... 'twas news... headlines... a banner.

Yeah, it rained. Just clouded up and rained like it does on ordinary people.

For awhile it looked like somebody was a jinx, and the whole town sat down and tried to figure out just whom to throw to the whales.

We felt almost like doing a tomtom dance around a wash pot, hoping the gods might smile down upon us... the idea was rotten. It was too hot and dry.

Our back yards simply screamed with black cats... birds flew about our houses... bats and moths and other creepy creatures kept us company. We were haunted.

And among our yesterdays, came this. The spell was broken... our vote didn't count after all... we were wet.

The slickers we dragged out were sadly crumpled and lank from much disuse... but we played Indian and went forth.

No, is didn't pour. None of us took to our housetops for safety... but it rained, mister... here in Ranger.

It rained!

It may be there's a longing For that little bit of sky, Where the clouds turn pink at sunset, Or the mountains reach up high.

It may be I am thirsting For the love of days gone by, Or maybe there's a hunger For a piece of mother's pie.

House may be a castle, Or just a little shack, But it's home, and harvest season, And there's joy in coming back. —LOUIS PITCOCK, 8 years old.

men are shown guarding the des-porado on the Ardmore, Okla., jail. Brief scenes of the recent motorboat and air races are shown and scenes of the recent revolutionarily uprisings in Cuba make the reel one of the most interesting to be shown this year.
