PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

Although the Bulldogs do not have a conference game at home this year, what promises to be one of the toughest games of the season is to be played at Lillard field Friday afternoon, beginning promptly at 3:15, when the Central High School Panthers make their annual bid to down the Bulldogs.

Central this year has what is expected to be one of the outstanding teams in the state, as they have a number of experienced players back and have an unusually large line.

Included in the line is a 212-pound tackle, while at the other tackle position is a puny little fellow who can tip the scales at only 205 pounds. These will be aided, somewhat, by a couple of good guards who are more midgets of 167 and 170 pounds each. To even things up some the 167-pound guard plays on the same side of the line as the 212-pound tackle and the 170-pound guard plays along-side the 205-pounder.

That makes the total tonnage of the left side of the line between center and end run to 379 pounds, with the total of the other two linemen being 375, which is a lot of weight for any team's line.

In addition to this line combination a couple of backfield stars, including 174-pound Bill Brandon, who plays at quarter, and 151-pound Bob Brandon, whom we suppose is a brother, or something, are among the ball-carrying aces, while the other two backfield men, Carden and Truex are rated as being plenty good.

The following week the Min-Wells Mountaineers, boasting the best team in years, visits Lillard field. The Mountaineers, as everyone will remember, defeated Breckenridge by one point and were nosed out by Central by one point, which indicates that they are just as tough as the Central players, and just about as good. Mineral Wells, incidentally, can only put in a 210-pound tackle.

We heard today, though we have not checked up on it to find out whether or not it is true, but are afraid it is, that Hill, who was slated to start the game at tackle, is down with the flu and probably will not be able to play tomorrow.

Buster Mills, who can probably be remembered by a few of the homefolks as a football player of no mean ability, is back at home after a successful season as an outfielder for Rochester of the International league.

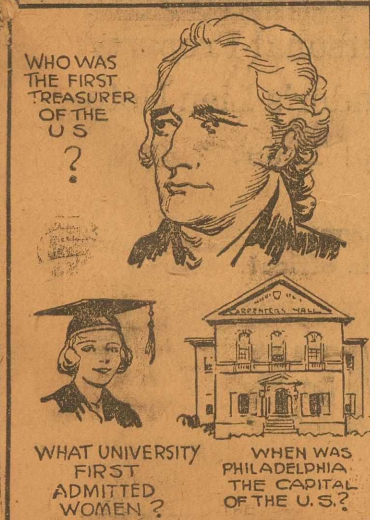

Just recently he was picked by 2,500 fans the other day for the all-time Oklahoma university football team. The contest was sponsored by an Oklahoma City daily newspaper. He said he would be here for several days.

Maybe the NRA has cut rown on sports columns. At any rate we notice that many that once ran from one and a half to two full columns are now cut down to about half a column, like ours. On the other hand the conductors of other columns may be just plain lazy, like we are.

Legionnaires To Discuss Plans For Armistice Program

D. W. "Buzz" Johnson, post commander of the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion, has announced that an important meeting of the post would be held tonight at the Legion hall at the usual hour.

All Legionnaires are urged to be present as an open discussion of plans for an Armistice Day celebration is to be held, after which the committees that have been appointed to take charge of the various phases of the work will meet and go into the plans that appeal most to the members of the post.

These committees have been appointed and have started work on the plans, but the discussion by the members will be helpful to them, it was mentioned today by Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, whose war-time company is to hold a reunion in Ranger on Armistice Day.

Storm Approaches Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 5.—A falling barometer, a steady 32-mile-an-hour northeast wind and heavy rains reminded residents here today a tropical disturbance was moving slowly northeastward over the Florida coast. Residents, however, felt little alarm as the latest report indicated the full fury of the storm would not strike here.

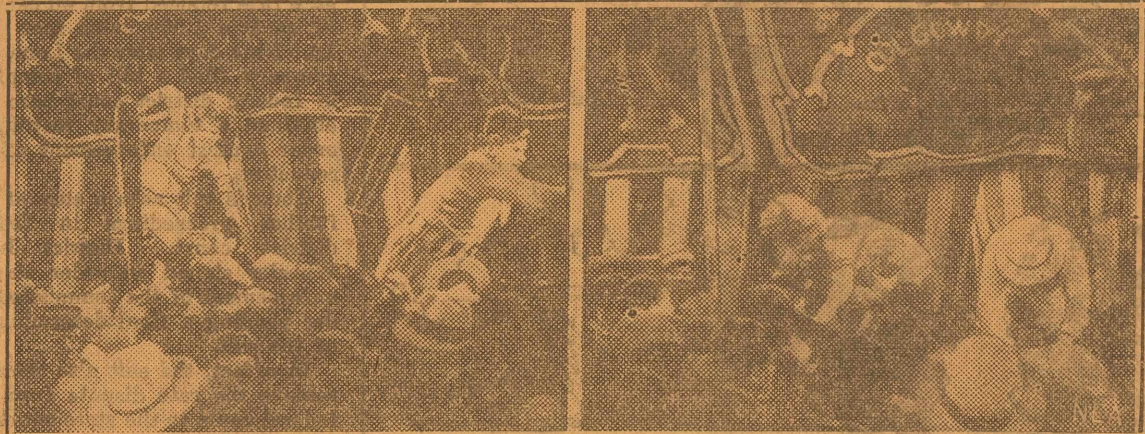

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 5.—Looters roamed Havana today as hurricane winds diminished and citizens, nerves frayed by storm and battle, awaited the next development in Cuba's crisis.

Moving promptly to prevent disorder, the government ordered soldiers to kill anyone caught stealing. Two negroes were reported shot to death last night.

Lawyer Indicted On Hoarding Case

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Frederick Campbell, New York lawyer, was indicted by a federal grand jury today under the new anti-gold hoarding law in a case regarded as nationally important because it questions the constitutionality of the law and the emergency legislation of the last congress.

'Smack' Goes Fist and 'Plop' Goes Clara Bow

Down into history with the "smacks that were heard around the world" goes the "sock" that flattened Clara Bow, more or less darling of the movies. The picture above shows Clara in the carnival battle royal scene, before and after taking the wallop that rocked the film world. Harry Wood, a motion picture extra, pleaded guilty to landing the knockout, accidentally, and Clara readily forgave him.

BEVILL SAYS BAILEY PAID FOR FREEDOM

DALLAS, Oct. 5.—Harvey Bailey, notorious felon, bought his way from the Dallas county jail for $250, Grover Beville, one of the two men indicted for aiding in the jailbreak, testified in federal court here today.

Beville, a butcher who held a special deputy sheriff's commission, testified as a government witness and laid blame for the escape on Tom Manion, middle-aged former deputy jailer, who is on trial with him.

The government called Beville to the stand after a parade of witnesses laid the groundwork of his testimony by explaining about Bailey's escape.

Nervously and in a low voice Beville haltingly answered questions of attorneys.

Extreme burns and lacerations proved fatal to Ed Cooke and Ellis B. Jones. P. H. Randall, 22, suffered severe burns about the head and body, which may cause his death, doctors said.

Men Ordered to Enter Canyon or Lose Their Jobs

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Charges that victims were ordered to "Get down in there and get down quick if you want any more work," were before the city park commission today as investigators sought to fix responsibility for the fire that swept Griffith park Tuesday.

Sixty-nine men were reported dead or missing. Only 11 of the charred bodies were definitely identified.

One worker declared the men "were pushed into going down into the box canyon, where they were trapped by the racing flames." Others accused their bosses of ordering them down the slope at the expense of holding their jobs.

Chicago Baseball Team Head Dies

By United Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs and one-time baseball writer, died shortly after 8 a. m. today of influenza complications.

Lone Star Gets Recognition For Safety Record

More than 237,000 hours of work without a single disabling injury between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1933, this year, brought national recognition Thursday to the Lone Star Gasoline company and employees, according to word received today by Harry Wheelon, superintendent of company plants at Ranger and Eastland. The outstanding record won class A first prize for greatest safety results in the six-month period in the gasoline division of the nation's petroleum industry at the National Safety council convention in Chicago this week.

Although the prize was for the period ending June 30, the company has had no disabling injuries since that time to mar a perfect record. Wheelon credits the prize winning record to the safety-first principles followed daily by employees as well as safety measures taken by the company to protect workers. No expense is spared in providing safeguards, said Wheelon.

J. M. Kindle, assistant superintendent, and B. H. Peacock, division safety director, were commended for their efforts in helping to win the prize, a bronze trophy, received for the company by A. W. Breeland, Lone Star safety supervisor, who attended the convention.

MAVERICKS TO PLAY GORMAN AT EASTLAND

The Eastland High School football team will meet the class B team from Gorman on Maverick field Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for the contest of this week-end. These boys show promise of giving our team a stiffer fight than they had with Dublin last week and the game should be well worth seeing.

Gorman opened the season two weeks ago against Cisco and held the Lobos to the small score of 12 to 0. Gorman has, for several years, been one of the strongest contenders for honors of the class B division in the district.

No member of the Maverick squad suffered serious injuries from last week's game with the Dublin Lions, and all are in fair condition to go into the contest Friday afternoon. Coach Petty states that the boys have taken on additional pep, have worked out well and are ready to go. Coach Petty and his assistant, Brothers, have given the team some stiff training this week.

The pep squad will be out for the game and with the assistance of the band will be in there rooting for the Mavericks the full time. The squad is now organized and under the direction of Miss Mary Elizabeth Carter are in good fettle and ready to go. They will hold a pep rally on the square tonight.

The possible starting lineup for the game as announced by the coaches is as follows: Taylor and Maxwell, ends; Gandy and Chick, tackles; Kellett and Frost, guards; Cook, center; Sikes, quarter; Tulley and Mays, backs and Simmons, fullback.

VISITS EASTLAND
Pete Hopson of Wichita Falls, inspector for the oil and gas division of the state railroad commission, was in Eastland Wednesday and spent Wednesday night in the city. He was here to confer with Deputy Supervisors I. J. Kilgough and Luther Belew.

15 WOUNDED IN BATTLE AT MINE ENTRANCE

By United Press
HARRISBURG, Ill., Oct. 5.—Illinois national guardsmen arrived here at 11 a. m. today to quell a violent outbreak at the Peabody Coal company's mine No. 43, where heavily armed progressive miners, opposed to the United Workers, besieged the mine entrance and shot 12 of 25 guards on duty.

There were 15 known casualties, but no known deaths. Even mine bosses on their way to work were waylaid and several beaten. One reported he escaped death because his attackers recognized him as a non-union man.

W. C. Craig, superintendent of the mine, was trapped with guards at the shaft early today when nearly 200 progressive miners surrounded the entrance and began firing.

Leaders of the attack disregarded warnings that national guardsmen were en route here. The battle started shortly after heavily armed miners assembled at the public square here at 3:30 a. m. to march on the shaft.

Miners quietly climbed into automobiles and went to a side road leading to the mine. Abandoning the cars, the miners deployed around the shaft and began firing. Telephone and light wires leading to the mine were cut. A railroad bridge leading to the mine was blown up.

200 Families Are Given Materials By Child Welfare

A total of 200 families received Red Cross cloth, clothing, blankets, quilts and other cotton goods at the office of the Chamber of Commerce the first three days of this week, after which the distribution was discontinued until Saturday morning in order that a check of the supplies and the applicants could be made in order to keep the records straight.

It was estimated today that the average retail cost of the 200 orders filled would run around $5, though in some instances the value would run higher or lower, depending on the number in the family and the need that existed in each case. The total retail value of the goods issued, therefore, could be roughly estimated at $1,000, though a complete check had not been made today of the orders issued.

The work of distributing the clothing and material has been handled by members of the Child Welfare club of Ranger, under the supervision of Mrs. W. D. Conway and Mrs. G. E. Robinson, who interviewed the applicants and made out the orders for the material needed. These orders were filled by other ladies of the town who volunteered their services in measuring out the cloth, selecting the right sizes of made-up garments and distributing them to those making application for the goods.

C. E. May Tells Lions of Methods Of Fighting Fires

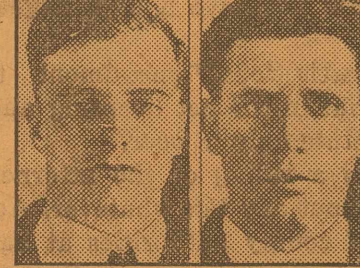

C. E. May furnished the program for the Lions club at their regular weekly meeting today, when he talked on the evolution of fire fighting.

He described the various fire fighting methods used, beginning with the old bucket brigades when it was necessary to keep a supply of water handy in order to put out fires, down to the present, modern equipment. He described the first fire fighting equipment and that used at different periods in the history of fire fighting.

He mentioned that it was possible, with a good record, for a town to have a 15 per cent penalty and to raise it to a 15 per cent credit by eliminating fires. He stated that sometimes insurance companies had to pay out more on policies than they received from a town in premiums and in that case it was necessary to raise the penalties.

J. J. Kelly, Floyd Killingsworth and A. J. Ratliff were appointed as a committee to meet with the trade carnival committee and to work out details for a concession at the coming fall trade carnival. Lion Pickens of Eastland was a guest of Lion A. N. Larson.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GUARD YOUR THOUGHTS: Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. -Philippians 4: 8.

WINE ESCAPED

Efforts of the Texas legislature to benefit a home industry the brewing of beer, did not have a high degree of success.

The body submitted a constitutional amendment to legalize both beer and wine, but in the act licensing and taxing the sale, limited the statute only to beer.

The result is, according to a ruling of the attorney general, wine may be sold without any tax whatever. According to a further ruling of county authorities at San Antonio, it may be sold without even procuring a license, such as required for dispensing beer.

Instead of excluding the wine business, the legislature apparently has let it in practically license-free, on easier terms than the dispensing of home-brewed malt liquor.

WOMAN IN NEW OFFICE

Mrs. Hal C. Peck of Amarillo has been confirmed as the first woman appointee of the Texas game commission.

The game commission gives some attention to conservation of wild life, but not in terms of the nature lover's estimation—rather, in the terms of providing adequate hunting. It protects game animals and birds, exterminates predatory animals, operates fish hatcheries, regulates commercial fishing, collects sand and gravel fees, and such like.

Mrs. Peck may bring its policies, if not its guiding statutes, around a little bit to the naturalist's or nature lover's viewpoint and interest in wild life. The presence of a woman on the commission should help broaden activities of an agency blamed for its lack of diversity and breadth of viewpoint.

RELIEF POLICY EVIDENCE

The evidence is in now, as to policies governing bond relief and the handling of bond relief money. This week, the legislature will begin to shape the policy, based on that evidence that will be adopted for spending such part of the $20,000,000 bond issue as may be authorized.

There is as much difference of opinion now as before the first witness told of overhead costs or of this or that policy or system. What will be the outcome cannot be foreseen with any clearness, further than that there is a very strong prospect of tightening up the machinery to avoid out-of-state experts' domination, and a rather free-hand federal dictation of practices, methods and amounts.

After the legislature adjourns, the state itself probably will run its relief administration, and the excuse—or defense—be no longer required that "it's in the last 10,000 regulation we received from Harry Hopkins and Aubrey Williams."

And this much, at least, will be a most beneficial improvement, in the opinion of some of those lawmakers who heard 10 days' testimony on the subject.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

"Advertising—newspaper advertising—is destined to be the safety valve in this day of rapidly changing conditions and prices. No other medium under the sun reaches the American people and holds their confidence as do the newspapers. Built up through the years, newspapers such as ours, that have seen the birth of America as a free country, still continue to carry the message of truth to the people.

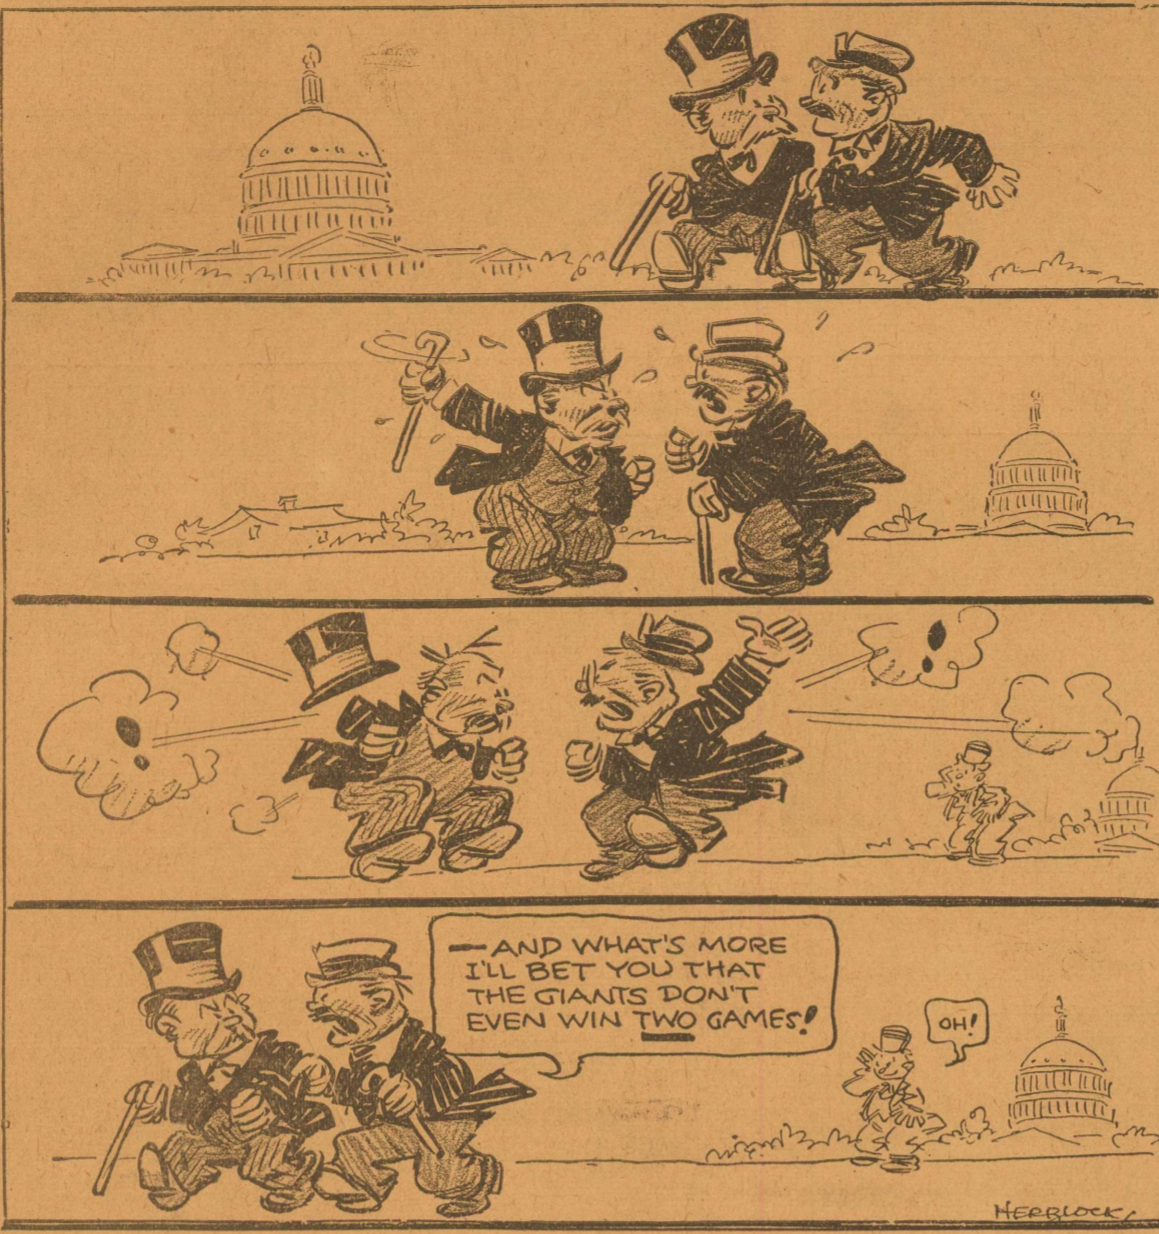

"Only by newspaper advertising can the market instantly be spotted—only by close followers of the advertising can American people know what fair prices and practices in business should be.

"Advertising is without doubt the prime mover in bringing back to life the business of this country and in bringing out the American people with money to spend when and where it will give them the greatest returns. This is the work of advertising.

"It is only the newspaper, going into the American homes every day with its last-minute news of world and local changes, that can bring the FLASH news of 'what is the best buy today' to the public which eagerly awaits the opportunity to spend its hard earned money to best advantage.

"Advertising is not only prepared to put its shoulder to the wheel, but since time began—in one form or another—it has been the greatest force behind any movement. Advertising—newspaper advertising—today stands head and shoulders above all of her mediums as the greatest force for instant action and progress in world business."

A Discovery that's Bringing Fast Relief to Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate. What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

"Step right up, Ladies and Gen'm'n"

HAVE you ever heard a street-corner medicine man hawking his wares? Confess. Weren't you tempted to buy by his persuasive talk? Why didn't you? Wasn't it because you could feel no real confidence in his product? Wasn't that because, though he was here today, you didn't know where he'd be tomorrow?

How differently you feel when you buy an advertised product. Here is no human personality to persuade you. But, instinctively you know you can trust the word of "The salesman in type." Manufacturers and merchants who advertise are permanent. They stand back of their products! They spend millions of dollars to determine your needs and to perfect products that will satisfy those needs. Unlike the medicine man, their business is built on your continued good-will.

Research laboratories, with the wealth and resources of great industries behind them, are constantly seeking to invent and improve things to make your life simpler and more pleasant. They bring their discoveries to you in the advertisements. Advertised merchandise is merchandise of quality. Merchandise you can depend on. Let the advertisements teach you what's new and good. Let the advertisements guide you in spending your money wisely. Step right up, ladies and gen'm'n!

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, comes to Memphis where his father is building a new textile plant. Bob tries to find a lovely girl he saw on the train and later heard sing at a Junior League benefit. The girl is JOAN WARING, member of an impoverished family with an aristocratic background. Joan's mother longs for her daughter to have the social position rightfully theirs. Joan has left college before graduation to assist the family in a financial emergency. PAT, her 18-year-old sister, has a job as a typist. Pat loves pleasure and pretty clothes and hopes to escape drudgery through a rich marriage. Pat meets JERRY FORRESTER, son of her employer.

Other members of the Waring family accept Jerry's attentions to Pat as an indication of serious interest. Joan, who believes Jerry is a spoiled playboy, is skeptical.

BOB finally finds Joan. They go for a drive and Joan realizes she is falling in love with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Pat opened the door and then stood staring blankly.

CHAPTER VI

BOB did not kiss Joan. He only said in a voice, stirred by emotion, "You're sweet, Joan!"

Then he started the car rather abruptly and Joan relaxed against the seat, feeling shaken and happy. She was amazed at her mixed emotions. She had wanted him to kiss her and yet she was glad, terribly glad, that he hadn't. If he had, she would have thought of Pat and Jerry. She was sorry for Pat—sorry for all girls who knew men like Jerry when there were men like Bob in the world.

"A penny for your thoughts, Joan."

"Not worth a penny." Her voice was not quite steady, but the tone seemed to satisfy him.

Bob answered quietly, "I'd risk a lot more to find out."

Something hung between them, some golden, glamorous cloud, enveloping them even through light and casual conversation.

Back at Joan's home her mother met them in the hall. Joan introduced Bob and he grasped the hand Mrs. Waring extended.

"It must be lonely for you, being a stranger here," she said.

"I'm feeling more at home all the time," he answered with a smile at Joan.

"You must have dinner with us some night. Could you come tomorrow?"

"I'll be delighted, Mrs. Waring," Joan caught her breath. Mother coming out of her timid shell, inviting a stranger to dinner! Was the world coming to an end?

THE sun, pouring through the window panes, roused Joan next morning. She leaped out of bed and closed the windows, shutting out the fresh, cold February air. She was suddenly nervous. Seventy-three and a million things to do. Pat had finished breakfast and was on her way down town. Joan slipped hurriedly into her clothes. There were the tall crystal glasses to be washed and the best table napkins and damask cloth to be pressed. Bill must go for Stella who worked by the day and was always pressed into service on special occasions.

"I'll get some flowers down town," Joan planned. "We really can't afford them but I do want the table to look pretty."

Mother was rather helpless in the kitchen when it came to special events. Joan counted off the tasks that must be attended to. "Roast to watch, cake to make, vegetables washed, mayonnaise—"

She enumerated them on slender fingers.

"Two hours coaching Paul and Marie Wilson. And if I have a minute I'll run over on Union for a shampoo. Perhaps I'll be really extravagant and have a manicure."

She tiptoed by Benny's door, suddenly contrite. Here she was, excited and happy when Benny was so ill. Was she really light and frivolous after all?

The morning did not go smoothly. To begin with, Stella sent word her husband was sick. She finally arrived and presently the fragrant aroma of one of the good cakes filled the air.

A little later Mrs. Waring came to the kitchen door with a distressed look on her face. She was holding out the snowy linen cloth that was her pride. A large hole—no, two large holes!—showed plainly.

"Moths," she said tragically.

"Well, darn it," said Joan, adding quickly, "No, darling, I'm not using bad words. Can't you darn them?"

"It would take too long," said her mother. "And a mended cloth!"

"Never mind," said Joan, taking the cloth and spreading it out. "I'll wash and press a little linen centerpiece. This large hole is just about in the middle where the flowers will be and we can put a small celery tray over the other. We'll have two trays and we won't move the one over the hole. We'll manage."

called. "Maybe the ride will make me feel better."

Pat chatted amiably, Joan scarcely listening. She was thinking this would be a good time to stop at Tony's and get lettuce and celery.

"I saw that swanky Barbara Courtney downtown with the best looking man," Pat was saying.

"Who's she?" Joan asked absently.

Pat chuckled. "I wish she could have heard that! Imagine not knowing who Barbara Courtney is! She's the best dressed girl around these parts. Goes everywhere and always has a string of men along. Shooey. That's why I hate her. Girls like that burn me up!"

"Today she was walking on air, coming out of the Book Shelf and this good looking man was carrying some books. They got in his roadster and drove away."

Joan smiled. "I can't place her," she said, "but I seem to remember the name—Courtney."

"They haven't any money," Pat said, "but they think they're the best. Some wealthy relatives educated Barbara in an exclusive school up north, took her abroad and then sent her back, hoping she'd marry a rich man. My, the airs that girl has! She can look right through anyone like us!"

But Joan had lost interest. "Drop me at Tony's," she was saying. "And pick me up on your way back."

She shopped capably. Tony delved deep into the lettuce heads, piled on the rack. He selected one, shook a grizzled head and chose another.

"This bettah!" he said. "Nice avocado from Florida," he tempted Joan recklessly purchased two Pat was back, honking the horn impatiently, and Joan, package laden, hurried outside.

"You act like we're millionaires," Pat said. "Heavens, you must have fallen hard!"

PAT was first dressed that evening. She wore a brown crepe, cut gracefully. It was an inexpensive frock but becoming. Joan thought she had never seen Pat looking sweeter and nodded approval.

"Will I do?" Pat asked, prouder.

"You look lovely. Now run along and see if everything's running smoothly in the kitchen. I'll be down in five minutes."

But Stella had no use for Pat in the kitchen. She went back upstairs to speak to Bill, grumbling as he struggled with his tie. "What do we have company for tonight when I—"

Pat fled. She was halfway down the stairs when the doorbell rang. Pat hurried forward, opened the door and then stood staring blankly for a moment. The young man before her was the one she had seen a few hours before with Barbara Courtney.

"I believe I'll go with you," Joan said. (To Be Continued)

"FORGOTTEN SWEETHEART"

by Mary Raymond

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, is deeply attracted to Joan Waring, a pretty girl he has seen on a train en route to Memphis. Bob has come to Memphis in connection with his father's new textile plant.

Joan is a member of an impoverished family with an aristocratic background. Her mother longs for her daughter to have the social position rightfully theirs. Joan has left college before graduation to assist the family in a financial emergency. Her sister, PAT, two years younger, loves pleasure and pretty clothes. Pat meets JERRY FORRESTER, son of her employer. Joan believes Jerry is a spoiled playboy who is only amusing himself and tries to warn her sister.

BARBARA COURTNEY, a society girl whom Pat knew in New York, is scheming to win him. Mrs. Waring meets Bob and invites him to dinner. Joan, in a flurry of preparations, secretly hears Pat's description of a "knock-out looking man" she has seen with Barbara Courtney. Pat opens the door when Bob arrives that evening and recognizes him as the man she saw with Barbara.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Take a look at this, will you?" Pat said, pointing to the first page of the second section.

CHAPTER VII

BOB called for Joan early the next morning and they drove to the site of the new textile plant. As they rode along, the wind in their faces, he told her of the plans for the project. Two hundred and fifty acres had been purchased with a half mile frontage on the river.

Preliminary work on the water front was already under way. "Borings and sounds are now being made," Bob said, "and specifications will be ready for bids within 30 days."

Joan understood little of the technical language he used but she was immensely proud that he should have even a small connection with anything so big and important. She was proud, too, that he wanted her to know about it.

Bob expanded the subject, pleased by Joan's look of interest. The company had decided on a southern plant to serve the trade of a large territory south of the Ohio, he said. Normally, the raw materials would be shipped north to the main plant, but now finished products for the southern area would be shipped from Memphis, carrying a much lower freight rate.

Joan understood little of the technical language he used but she was immensely proud that he should have even a small connection with anything so big and important. She was proud, too, that he wanted her to know about it.

Bob said. "Sam, tell Miss Waring about the new type of machinery that is being used for the first time in this plant."

"He sure knows his business," said the man named Sam, as Bob moved away.

Joan wanted to ask what Bob's business was. "I'll wait until he tells me," she decided. "He's probably one of the young engineers or maybe a surveyor."

They drove back into town about noon. Bob suggested luncheon at a hotel.

"Let's stop by Fieldings for sandwiches," Joan said.

"He's inclined to spend his money too freely," she thought, "when he should be saving it. This car for instance, with its stream lines and powerful engine."

She didn't know what a young construction engineer might earn but she was sure it would not be a very big salary.

It was fun eating their sandwiches. Thrilling to have so many people staring at them.

"And no wonder," Joan thought. "He's terribly good looking."

From Fieldings they drove through Chickasaw Gardens, then past the Memphis Country Club. Bob thought the Nickey home was beautiful, so typically southern. He pointed out attractive features of other residences.

Joan told him about the Hollister home on Walnut Grove with its boxwood hedges and spacious grounds. He really must see it in spring when the azaleas and dogwood were blooming and wisteria covered the nook! There was a afternoon they had a tentative date for dinner.

"I'll call you," he said. "Willis, the chief engineer, thought he might come over this evening but he wasn't sure. Said he'd let me know about five. If he decides to come could we make it tomorrow night?"

Joan said they could.

When Bob reached the hotel he found a note from the chief engineer. He would run in the following morning to check the prints, he said. There was also a telephone number for Bob to call.

He called it and Barbara Courtney answered. "Where have you been all day?" she queried. "I've been calling since early this morning."

She was having a small dinner, planned especially for Bob. She wanted some of her friends to meet him, particularly Nancy Wilson, who was leaving tomorrow morning.

"I'm sorry, Barbara, but I have a date," Bob said.

"Oh, Bob!" Her tone changed slightly.

"You must come," she urged. "It will ruin my party if you don't. I've planned the whole thing for you. Couldn't your date be postponed?"

HE wished Barbara wouldn't draw him in on so many parties. He didn't have time to play around. Still it was very thoughtful of her. She was really an awfully good sort.

"Well, all right. I guess I can fix it," he said.

"You're a darling! I knew you would," Barbara said.

He called Joan. "Terribly sorry about tonight," he said. "But something's come up. I can't make it. I'll be around about seven tomorrow night if that suits."

"That'll be fine," Joan said. She turned from the telephone. Some of the buoyancy had left her mood.

"Anything the matter?" asked Pat, who had just entered.

"No."

"Your boy friend stand you up?"

"Of course not. Don't be silly! He has to talk over some plans with the chief engineer."

"The chief engineer!" scoffed Pat. "My, the airs these young mill men have. I'll bet he's a foreman or maybe an assistant superintendent."

A little later Pat cried out. "Say, Joan, have you read the paper tonight?"

"Not yet."

"Well, take a look at this, will you!" Pat was pointing to the first page of the second section with excited fingers. The entire page was devoted to a feature article and pictures, with the caption, "Cost of Gigantic Enterprise to Exceed Three Million."

"I know all about it," Joan said, calmly. "We were out there today. It's marvelous."

"You knew all about it and you didn't tell us? Well, what do you know about that!"

"Know about what?"

"That Bob Weston is the son of the man who owns the whole works."

CENTRAL PANTHERS WILL INVADE LILLARD FIELD FRIDAY

BULLDOGS WILL BE OUTWEIGHED BY OPPONENTS

Ancient Rivals Will Clash In Best Home Game of The 1933 Grid Season.

The big home game of the season, the annual clash between the Central High School Panthers of Fort Worth and the Ranger Bulldogs, will be played at Lillard field Friday afternoon, beginning promptly at 3:15.

Both teams have been pointing for this affair since their games of last week when Central won a close contest from Mineral Wells by a score of 7 to 0 and Ranger was nosed out in the last minute and a half of play by Lubbock by a score of 26 to 21.

The two teams have been playing annually during the first part of the season for a number of years, the honors being about evenly divided in spite of the fact that Central has won its games for the past two years.

Back in 1931 Central defeated Ranger on Lillard field by a score of 24 to 13 and last year the Bulldogs went to Fort Worth pretty badly crippled from an automobile accident in which several members of the team were hurt, to lose a close contest to the Panthers by a score of 6 to 0 that would probably have been a victory for the Bulldogs had they been in better shape.

The rivalry between the two teams will be unusually keen this year, because Central will be trying to make it three in a row and the Bulldogs will be trying to break the winning streak of the Panthers.

The locals will be outweighed nearly five pounds to the man, while the Ranger line, if it goes into the game intact, will be outweighed almost 14 pounds to the man. The Ranger backfield, which averages heavier than the line, will outweigh the Central backfield which will be outweighed by the Bulldog backs almost six pounds per man. The largest man in the Panther backfield weighs 174, while two Ranger backs, Anderson and Britt, weigh 180 and over.

Central's chief bid for the game will be in its heavy line and its reserve strength, which can be thrown into the game at any time, while the Bulldogs will probably rely on the power of their backfield drive and the ability of their lighter line to hold the heavier opponents.

The probable starting lineup for Central will be:

MAGNOLIA IS EASY WINNER OVER BARBERS

The Magnolia team of the Ranger Twilight league defeated the Barbers, winners of the first half championship, in a seven-inning game by a score of 15 to 6.

The Barbers made six errors, two of which went for three-baggers and two allowing doubles to be stretched into triples, one letting in a score and one letting a man get a life on first base.

Two Barbers got to first safely on fumbled balls, one of which was a hot grounder to third and the other being a dropped pop fly.

Magnolia started off with their customary rush, getting the jump on the Barbers in the first inning by scoring five runs on as many hits and an error. They were held scoreless in the next two innings to come back in the fourth to make four more runs, two more in the fifth and four in the seventh.

The Barbers went scoreless for two innings and came back in the third to stage a rally that brought in three runs and tightened the score to 5 to 3. They went scoreless in the fourth, scored twice in the fifth to make two more and gathered in their last tally in the seventh after two were out.

Two Barbers were victims of strikeouts, Crawley fanning twice and Warford once, while Wyatt fanned twice for Magnolia.

Kindred and Warford had good control of the ball, the only walk of the game going to Ed Dixon of the Barbers.

Youngest Member Byrd Expedition Is A Texas Boy

AUSTIN.—One of the youngest members of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition 11, now on its way to little America, is Joe Hill, 20 years old, former student of The University of Texas. The young man is a son of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hill of Canyon. Dr. Hill is president of the West Texas State Teachers College. The adventuresome youth sailed on the "Bear" from Boston, Mass., on September 25. On his long voyage it will be the special duty of young Hill to care for one third of the 180 sled-dogs which form an important part of the transportation of the expedition. He and the other members of the group of men who will assist Admiral Byrd in his exploration work in the far off Arctic continent, have before them a two-year sojourn in the icy region which surrounds the South Pole.

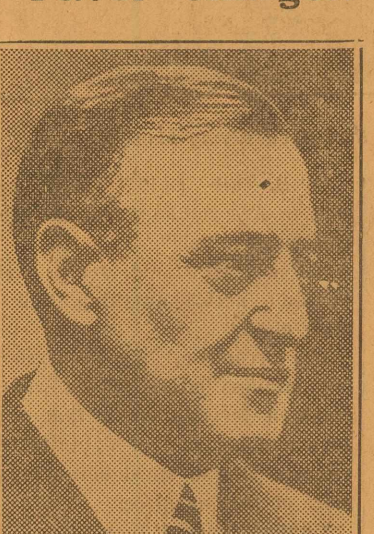

While young Hill was in the University last year he had in the back of his mind only a faint idea that he might be made a member of this famous expedition. It was more than a year ago that he wrote to Mr. Byrd telling him of his desire to be made a member of the next expedition to the Antarctic. This application was one of many thousands received from young men all over the country. The reply to the letter was discouraging. It was to the effect that the expedition had been indefinitely postponed. Hill enrolled as a student in the University for last long session and not hearing anything from his original letter he was preparing to return to the University this fall when he received a brief notice on a postcard from Dr. Guy O. Shirey, physician and chief personnel officer for the expedition, telling him to appear in Boston for a physical examination. Dr. Guy, on the card, made this notation:

"Personal is now being selected. Can you see me? I like your letter and recommendations."

On September 1, Joe Hill was given the physical examination by Dr. Shirey and was formerly accepted to participate in the great adventure. He was immediately temporarily assigned as Admiral Byrd's personal attendant on board the "Pacific Fir."

Dr. and Mrs. Hill and daughter Marion went to Boston to bid goodbye to Joe as he set sail for the long voyage to the Antarctic. Dr. Hill said that he was especially pleased over the selection of his son as a member of the expedition, because he got the place with-
