PASSION PLAY GROUP GIVEN INSTRUCTION

At a meeting of the committees to promote the Passion Play, to be shown in Ranger on June 17, 18 and 19, was held in the office of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night to receive their first instructions from Miss Kaufmann, representative of the producing company.

Miss Kaufmann took up the work of the committee, one by one, and outlined for the chairman and the members the duties that must be performed to make the three-day presentation a success.

After the committee work was explained Miss Kaufmann briefly explained that one task was to let the people know that this was not a local talent production, nor a motion picture, but was being presented, just as it was at Freiburg, Germany, and later at Oberammergau, Bavaria, nearly 1,000 years ago.

The presentation was brought over from Europe in 1928, it was pointed out, and was shown at the leading cities for several years in Germany, later being translated into English and is being presented in the latter language at present. The present company, composed of a cast of 20, with their own scenery and costumes, replaced the German cast because the Germans had difficulty in learning the English language.

The company is now en route to California, where it has a several weeks engagement at the San Diego exposition, and is playing the smaller towns from coast to coast while en route.

Those who were present at the meeting last night were L. R. Pearson, chairman of the executive committee; Miss Kaufmann, F. D. Hicks, B. S. Lemma, G. E. Robinson, Rev. L. B. Gray, Mrs. Martha Davenport, Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, R. E. Harrell, C. H. Davis, R. A. Steele, W. B. Crossley, Randall Blackmond, E. A. Ringold and R. V. Galloway.

Other officers elected were Jack Carrothers, esteemed leading knight; Walter Cash, loyal knight; W. C. Blackmond, lecturing knight; William Brown, tiler; Clayton Hunt, esquire, and Saule Perlstrein, trustee.

Refreshments were served at the close of the installation ceremonies, at which there was a large crowd of local and visiting Elks present.

The installation ceremonies marked the close of a very successful year under the leadership of Wm. N. McDonald, retiring exalted ruler, who was elected a delegate to the grand lodge.

Human Skeleton Unearthed In City Alley By Workers

BORGER, June 6.—A human skeleton has been unearthed here, so crumbled experts are unable to identify it as that of a man, a woman, a boy or a girl.

Two workers digging a water line to an alley in the downtown section encountered the skull with their shovel only a foot or so under ground.

Excavations revealed the entire frame which one doctor thinks is that of a small man buried from 10 to 15 years ago.

Outlawing of NRA Called Blessing

DETROIT, June 6.—Outlawing of NRA by the Supreme Court was termed a blessing to business today by Harper Sibley, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, who addressed a forum on current economic trends at the triennial convention of the general federation of women's clubs.

DEADLOCK IN FRANCE OVER POWER ACUTE

PARIS, June 6.—The political deadlock over efforts to create a government with extraordinary powers to end the financial crisis and save the franc became more acute today when Francois Pietri abandoned his efforts to form a cabinet.

Pietri, a financial expert and former navy minister, had modified demands of his predecessors for full power to deal with the situation by decree, but found he could not get support in the chamber of deputies he needed.

He informed the president the attitude of the radical socialists toward the necessary "extended powers" as distinguished from full powers, made it impossible to get a majority in the chamber.

Fernand Bouisson, who was defeated in the chamber Tuesday, was again asked to try to form a cabinet, but refused.

Japanese Troops Pour Into China

TIENTSIN, China, June 6.—Japanese troops poured into North China today, apparently in preparation of carrying out the threat to occupy Peiping and Tientsin and drive Chinese troops out of North China.

Under command of mounted officers, Japanese forces marched through the Chinese section of the city.

Troop replacements arrived this week and more are scheduled soon. Because of the situation, those due to be sent back on relief are to be held, so there is an increase of 300 per cent in the number of Japanese troops in North China.

Despite assurance of the Japanese chief of staff, business men were thoroughly alarmed and at least one big firm decided to close up and get out.

Marble Machines Are Being Taken Out of Things to Be Taxed

AUSTIN, June 6.—Death of marble machines in several Texas cities, today threatened to decrease state occupation taxes.

Officials in the comptroller's department said about 60,000 coin operated devices subject to taxation under the bill, should yield nearly $700,000 annually. In Austin and other places police drives put all games out of sight and threatened to eliminate them from the list of things taxed.

Cause of the accident was not immediately determined. The two from Cisco were released from the hospital after treatment and were taken to a Cisco hospital in an ambulance from Cisco. Marshall was taken to Cisco by R. N. Cluck, superintendent of the Cisco schools.

Moore was originally relief officer at Rising Star, which he left to attend the social service institute conducted in Dallas, and upon return was made relief officer at Eastland. During the absence of Hunter George, former case work supervisor, Moore acted in his position up to this week, when he was appointed to his present duties.

Former Case Work Supervisor George is at the present time on special work at Paris, Texas, for the Lamar County Relief Board.

Eskridge Trial Is Set at Orange For 19th of June

ORANGE, June 6.—Trial of Rev. C. Edgar Eskridge, 40, on charges of murdering Police Chief Ed O'Reilly, was set today for Wednesday, June 19.

District Judge F. P. Adams set the trial date when the minister was taken before him. Eskridge was indicted yesterday.

Eskridge, who was reported to have broken down since his return from DeRidder showed the strain of his eight days in jail, but sat calmly through today's proceedings. He apparently had recovered from the hysteria in which he claimed his friends had deserted him.

PRICE FIXING PROSECUTION IS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Attorney General Homer Cummings today indicated the government might be forced, by law, to prosecute business concerns continuing price fixing under unofficial codes of fair competition.

Announcing that he had ordered dropping of court action in 411 national recovery act cases, Cummings said "we will be confronted with another situation" if business continues to fix prices without benefit of the recovery act.

With attention again turning to anti-trust cases and business planning to continue their codes without sanction of law, he said, "This is one of the real difficulties confronting us."

Doomed Woman's Nerve Is Breaking

GEORGETOWN, Del., June 6.—The courage with which Mrs. May Carey and her son, Howard, had prepared themselves for death, failed today when the 55 year old woman was reported hysterical.

It was said Mrs. Carey had collapsed. Howard, hearing his mother's screams, was described as "unminded."

Censorship is confining information on Mrs. Carey's condition, but reports seeping out of the jail appeared her nerves had gone to pieces.

She talked with members of her family last night, then became hysterical. Near dawn she fell asleep.

For the commissioner's precinct one trustee position, J. A. Beard received 317 votes while O. E. Lyerla received 165. In Commissioner's precinct four, Mrs. Ualala Howard Burnett received 636 votes, and L. A. White, 331.

SECURITY LAW IS IN EFFECT OVER STATE

AUSTIN, June 6.—Fake stock dealers, formerly "a step ahead of the sheriff" in Texas, were supposed to be a step behind him today as the new securities act went into effect.

Secretary of State Gerald Mann, under whose department the law will be administered, said, "The law has shown its benefits already. Many agents will not attempt to qualify under it and if the violators keep operating we'll catch them."

Similar to the blue sky regulations of West Virginia, California and Pennsylvania, the act orders all stock issuers, dealers and salesmen to be licensed and registered. Its strong feature, in Mann's opinion, is it seeks to identify salesmen and makes them responsible for representations to the public.

Ransom Money Again Is Passed

TACOMA, June 6.—Discovery of a second $20 bill identified as part of the $200,000 ransom paid for the return of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, tended to confirm belief that the kidnapers quietly had slipped out of the Puget Sound country.

The second ransom bill was passed in the money order division of the Spokane post office Tuesday. The clerk who accepted the bill was unable to give a description of the passer.

Between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. Tuesday the clerk accepted 15 such bills.

Temperance Talk Is Due Friday at Eastland Church

Eastland's delegates to the State Firemen's Association convention in El Paso to be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, will leave Monday, A. W. Hennesse, fire chief, stated Thursday.

The delegates to represent Eastland and the fire department are John Harrison, Wade Overby and Galand Poe. Another, a delegate at large, will be announced soon, Chief Hennesse indicated.

Eastland's bid for next year's convention will be made, but indicated Chief Hennesse, will likely be withdrawn because there is an understood decision among towns that it will be voted to the Centennial city next year. The understanding was made last year at Mineral Wells when the Centennial city had not been selected.

Eastland's strong bid last year is expected to be revived in 1936 for the 1937 convention.

Port Worth will be in the running with Dallas for selection as the state meet site next year, announcement has been made.

SOFTBALL TODAY
Lynch's softball team will play Winston Castleberry's this afternoon at 6:15 p. m., on Connelley park field.

Interest is increasing daily at the Central Baptist church revival now in progress. Rev. Sid Martin brought a message last evening "A Consecrated Life and Its Relation to Revivals." The message was inspirational and well received by a large and enthusiastic audience.

Rev. Sid Martin, who is conducting a revival at the Central Baptist church, made a short talk, bringing out the three things he learned from a study of the life of one of America's greatest business men, John Wanamaker. These were power to think, not to be afraid to work and to trust in God.

Dr. H. A. Logsdon told the club of railroad week, which is to start on June 10, and suggested several ways in which the club could aid the two local railroads in observing the week.

Visitors at the meeting were Rev. Hugh Blair and Rev. Sid Martin.

RESOLUTION TO BE DRAFTED BY FRIDAY

Expected To Be Rushed Through the House At Session Friday.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—House democratic leaders and administration officials agreed at a conference today on "principles" of a brief resolution extending and skeletonizing the NRA.

The resolution, yet to be drafted, is expected to be favorably reported by the house ways and means committee today and rushed through the house tomorrow. Conference declined to give details on the agreement.

At the conference was Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, Donald Richberg, Solicitor General Stanley Reed and a group of democratic members of the ways and means committee.

The conference will meet again June 29 to attempt to draw up proposed minimum standards for child labor and hours of labor.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Leaders of the American steel industry, representing 90 per cent of the country's capacity, today went on record to maintain rates of pay and maximum hours of labor, standards of fair competition and collective bargaining as laid down by the invalidated steel code.

More than 200 executives of the steel industry from all parts of the country attended the meeting. The group adopted the resolution drawn up by the institute last Monday to maintain conditions that had existed under the code.

Report of Conviction In Case In Error, Judge Points Out

The story carried in this paper in its issue of June 4th, stating that Bill Nichols of the Lone Cedar community, and his nephew, Jim Casey, had been convicted and sentenced on burglary charges for theft of "part of a gallon of oil" was in error inasmuch as the sentence was for burglary and theft of the oil was not involved, Judge Burette W. Patterson, in whose court the case was heard, stated this morning.

Grady Owen, criminal district attorney, said that the state brought out the evidence to prove burglary and that the defendant entered a plea of guilty, after which he made a statement from the stand. No attempt at cross examination was made, because of the admission of guilt, so only the testimony of Nichols was brought out.

Judge Patterson, in a talk to the two men involved in the case said that the theft of the oil was not involved, as the court had no jurisdiction in cases where theft under $50 was involved, but that the men had been charged, indicted and the case heard on the charge of burglary, which was a felony, no matter what the amount of loot involved might be.

Judge Patterson also pointed out that the Lone Star Gasoline company did not prosecute the case, that it was turned over to the criminal district attorney and came up in the regular routine of the court's business.

Harry Wheelton, superintendent of the Lone Star company, stated today that considerable company property had been missed from the Duffer and other leases and when the two men were caught through the diligence of L. E. Davenport, the two men and the information was turned over to the district attorney for any action he deemed advisable.

Exposition to Recall Romantic Northwest

Looking ahead a small matter of 11 years, the people of the Pacific Northwest are already preparing for a big centennial exposition in 1946 to celebrate the acquisition by the federal union of Oregon territory.

If you like expositions—as most of us do—almost any excuse is good enough to justify holding one. The excuse in this case, however, seems especially good, for it celebrates one of the most romantic and important phases of our entire history—and marks, also, a significant event in international relations.

Consider the second point first. Oregon territory—comprising the present states of Washington, Oregon, and Idaho—was part of a vast stretch of land which was in dispute between the United States and England for many years.

The Louisiana purchase left the northwest boundaries of the country in a fog. The United States claimed everything up to Alaska; Britain claimed everything down to Mexico—whose northern boundaries then was the upper end of California.

You can still read in your school books about the "54-40 or Fight" slogan of the fire-eaters of those days. The way was open for war; indeed, war was at that time just about the only recognized way of settling an argument of that kind.

But there was no war. Instead, there was a peaceful compromise, with each nation taking less than it felt entitled to—and this compromise, more than any other one thing, cemented the theory that no dispute could arise along the Canadian boundary which could not be settled peacefully.

So much for that. The purely romantic and picturesque aspects of the anniversary make it equally worth celebrating.

It was in 1843 that the first great wagon train plodded its way to Oregon. The first white women had taken up residence in the territory seven years earlier; in 1843 the first American government was formally organized there. And then began that great epic of pioneering achievement which made the homely covered wagon an emblem of lusty youth and high daring, and which by its steady pushing back of the frontier saved America from the pressure of Europe's industrial problems and made it possible for the concept of a classless society to endure to our own day.

All in all, the story of the Oregon trail is one of the greatest in our history. If any chapter in the American story is worth celebrating with a centennial exposition, it is this.

The people of Idaho, Washington, and Oregon ought to put on a great show; they have all the materials for it.

Bogus Oil Deal Shows Value of Confidence

When you get through chuckling about the story of the bogus oil promoter who came to grief in Tulsa after a short but active career as a big shot, you might find it worth while to take a second look at the affair. There is something rather instructive about it all.

This man, as you have probably read, blew into Tulsa announcing that he was the head of a big new oil company.

He rented the entire floor of a bank building and established offices there. He bought a home and established a couple of servants in it. He arranged with a contracting firm to build a $1,000,000 refinery near Fort Smith, Ark.

Then, through a bank, he got in touch with a New York brokerage outfit which agreed to market $500,000 worth of bonds in this project. Next he summoned a railroad representative and arranged for construction of a spur line to his new factory.

And all the while his actual assets amounted to nothing more than a pleasant smile and three cents in cash.

Eventually, of course, his balloon exploded from sheer excess of hot air, and he went smiling off to jail.

But his whole venture is a beautiful illustration of the way in which we are compelled to take each other's word for things in this modern world.

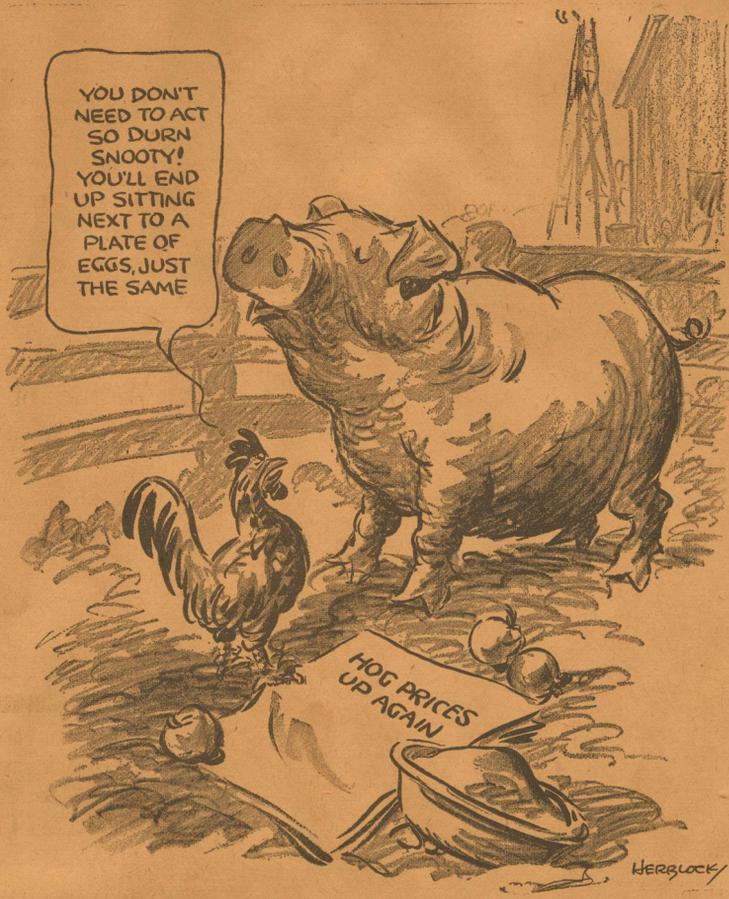

The only difference between this man's activities and those of a bona fide business man seeking to establish a new plant was that this man had no backing. He was able to build a beautiful framework on the mere fact that people trusted him.

Not once did he lay a cent of cash on the line. Nobody asked him to. People just took it for granted that a man doing the things he was doing was operating in good faith.

There could hardly be a stronger example of the way in which modern business is founded on confidence—confidence that the other fellow is on the level, that he is what he says he is, and will do what he says he will do.

Once in a blue moon someone comes along and abuses this confidence. In this Oklahoma case, the result was something to chuckle at, in the Kreuger case, it was a financial holocaust.

ON TEXAS FARMS

With the help of 20 men, and logs and shingles donated by other citizens, the Arbor community in Houston county has built a relief canning center at a cash expense of $16. Six more dollars for materials came from the home demonstration club which initiated the project.

Cash for concrete being scarce and old tin cans plentiful for the picking up, a Williamson county garden demonstrator has put down a hundred feet of tin can sub-irrigation. It is more work than concrete tile and not permanent, but beats no sub-irrigation at all, is the report.

Collis Bouldin in Gonzales county has 150 acres of terraces which he allows paid for themselves in one April day when seven inches of rain fell—three and one-half of that within less than one hour. Without the terraces, erosion would have carried off his whole crop as well as the top soil, he says.

Robertson county had terraced 3,805 acres of land in 1935 by the end of April. Relief labor has been used and the commissioners' court furnished machinery at actual cost of operation.

In a county poultry contest in Llano county, first place went to the flock of R. Fishbeck whose flock of 22 hens produced an average of 29 eggs per month per hen. Second place winner was the flock of Robert Boxell, with an average of 24 eggs per month per hen.

PAMPA—Fifty Gray county 4-H club boys were furnished with state certified mio, kafir or hegar seed this spring free of charge by a local civic organization, according to Ralph R. Thomas, county agricultural agent. The only requirements made by the organization were that the boys be enrolled in a 4-H club, that complete records be turned in to the county agent when the demonstration is completed, and that each boy enter an exhibit in the 4-H club show to be held in the fall.

It is expected that each boy who plants a feed crop this year will use the feed in some kind of an animal demonstration when the crop is harvested. All boys carrying on poultry and beef calf demonstrations at the present time will plant feed crops this spring, Thomas said.

LAMESA—"Contouring on five thousand acres of the Higginbotham-Harris farms in Dawson county prevented the land from blowing," Roscoe Holton, manager, told Joe C. Williams, county agricultural agent. Mr. Holton says that in cases in which the land was listed deep and contoured, the land was damaged very little. At least 20,000 acres more will be contoured as soon as crops are harvested, Holton said.

ODESSA—More than 5,000 ravens have been captured in an improved type of cage trap during a five weeks' campaign in Ector and Andrews counties, according to H. L. Atkins, county agricultural agent. The cage is made in panels and this panel construction makes the trap easy to take down and move from place to place. Materials for 25 traps built in Andrews county averaged slightly less than $5 per trap, and it is estimated that they will give at least three years of service.

Dead rabbits or meat scraps are used for bait. Experience has shown that when a catch is made one or two ravens should be left in the trap to serve as decoys. Feathers of dead ravens should not be left around the trap.

GINGSVILLE—The sale of canned chicken during the first four months of 1935 brought $87.25 to Miss Pauline Arnt and her sister of the San Fernando Home Demonstration club in Kleberg county, according to Miss Effie E. McClane, home demonstration agent. Miss Arnt and her sister sold $134 worth of canned chicken during 1934. Income from the sale of chicken has been used to pay for clothes, for music lessons and for shrubs used in yard improvement work, she said.

SULPHUR SPRINGS—Believing that a well arranged, well kept clothes closet contributes greatly toward prolonging the life of garments, Mr. Robert Johnson, wardrobe demonstrator of the Center Hill Home Demonstration club in Hopkins county has constructed an adequate closet, according to Miss Lorene Stevens, home demonstration agent.

A row of shelves across both ends and one near the top reaching the entire length of the closet provide space for folded garments. A rod is provided for hanging garments. The shelves were spaced to fit the objects to be stored. By using materials on hand, the closet cost Mrs. Johnson only $2.15.

McKINNEY—In spite of the dry weather since she sodded her yard in March, Mrs. M. L. Pittman, yard demonstrator of the Bloomdale Home Demonstration Club in Collin county, reports that she has been able to keep the plants alive by frequent cultivation which encourages growth and helps to conserve the moisture. She told Miss Helen Dunlap, home demonstration agent, that

By HARRY GRAYSON

LEWIS OWENS promises to make the Big Ten championships at Ann Arbor on May 24 and 25 a memorable meet by breaking the existing record of 26 feet 2 3/4 inches in the running broad jump established by the remarkable Japanese, Chuhei Nambu, in his native land on Oct. 27, 1931.

Owens fell only three-eighths of an inch short of Nambu's figure despite an injured ankle when he set a new American mark of 26 feet 1 5/8 inches for the event in the Drake Relays. The brilliant Ohio State sophomore recorded a new world indoor record of 25 9/16 in the Butler Relays.

Negro youths have played important roles in Western Conference broad jumping. Willis Ward, a one-man track team like Owens, won the event for Michigan at Evanston a year ago with 23 feet 2 3/4 inches.

It is the Western Conference record of De Hart Hubbard, also a colored boy, that virtually is certain to fall when Owens competes at Ann Arbor, and it is the old Michigan luminary's collegiate record that virtually is certain to go when the versatile product of Cleveland's East Side appears in the National Collegiate carnival this summer.

Hubbard's Last Jump Best

OTHER renowned Western Conference broad jumpers of the past include the late Carl Johnson, also of Michigan, Edward Gordon of Iowa, and Johnny Brooks, of Chicago, but Hubbard was outstanding among them until Owens came along.

Hubbard cracked the Western Conference and the world and collegiate records a week apart in June, 1925.

Hubbard, a senior at the time, realized one of his burning ambitions in shattering the conference she had her yard plowed up some weeks before to help mellow the soil, and that the mesquite sod obtained from the pasture was broken into blocks containing two or three plants which were set out about 12 to 14 inches apart.

figure, but his record is something that he had been endeavoring to do for three years in the National Collegiate carnival in Chicago that summer bordered on the dramatic.

From the day he enrolled at Ann Arbor the Cincinnati youth had his mind set on chalking up a world record in the running broad jump, and it wasn't until his final trial that he did it by clearing 25 feet 10 3/4 inches.

Owens, like Hubbard before him, also stars in the 100-yard dash. Both started as hurdlers. Hubbard ran the barriers when he first entered Michigan, but switched to the century. Owens is one of the fastest 220 men on college cinders. Hubbard, on the other hand, seldom ran the longer dash.

Late Leaps Lengthened

BROAD jumping has made rapid strides in more recent years. Pat O'Connor leaped 24 feet 11 1/2 inches for a world record in 1931. That mark withstood all assaults until Ned Gourdin of Harvard popped to the front in 1927 with a jump of 25 feet 3 inches. Then came Bob Legendre, of Georgetown; Hubbard, and the famous Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech.

Hamm cleared 25 feet 11 1/2 inches in 1923 to erase Hubbard's splendid performance, which stood until Nambu, the nimble Nipponese, took off in the land of the rising sun.

Thus over a 20-year period only 3 3/4 inches were added to the broad jumping distance while throughout the 10-year stretch from 1923 to 1931 the distance was increased by 11 3/4 inches.

And the exceptionally talented Owens gives every indication of tacking on some more inches before closing out his collegiate competition.

Local Woolworth Store Winner of May Sales Contest

R. H. Snyder, manager of the local Woolworth store, was winner of a free trip to the Denver, Colorado, district office, as winner of a May sales contest in his group.

The 11 stores in the contest were Clovis, N. M., Altus, Okla., Brownwood, Sweetwater, Vernon, Roswell, N. M., Plainview, Breckenridge, Wichita Falls and Coleman, in addition to the Ranger store. He will leave for Denver some time during the month of June, to be gone one week. The showing of the Ranger store in showing a larger percentage of sales over the same month last year, was received here as an indication that business in Ranger is now above the average over a wide territory covered by the district.

Hot Oil Law to Be Given Test By A Federal Court

AUSTIN, June 6.—First hearing on the validity of Texas' new law authorizing confiscation and sale of "hot" oil, today was set for June 11 in Austin.

The hearing before a three-judge federal court will be on petition from nine East Texas refiners asking injunctions against the sale of stored oil.

The plaintiffs allege that house bill 581 violates constitutional seizure and search privileges and allows confiscation, without due process of law.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliott © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Katharine Strykhurst, beautiful, 20, is in love with Michael Heatheroe who runs a riding school. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother, Bertine, is snobbish. Zoe Parker, Katharine's friend, has an unhappy love affair and is saved from suicide by young Dr. John Kaye.

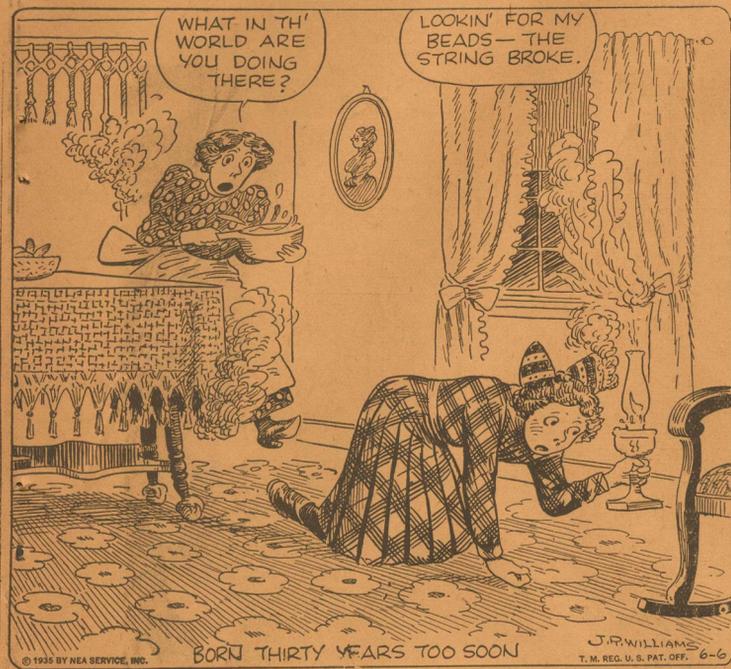

Michael is to marry Sally and is broken-hearted. She overhears two detectives asking for Michael's address and, thinking him in danger, rushes to warn him. Michael sets off with Katharine in her car. He tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him. Impulsively Katharine agrees. They are married in an obscure little town. Afterward Michael insists on returning to face the detectives.

CHAPTER XXV
Michael said quietly, "Tricked you? No—"
"But you did!" Katharine insisted. Her eyes were wide with a sort of horror. "Oh, if you knew you'd nothing to fear why did you make me come off with you like this? You said you wouldn't go unless I went with you."
"Because," the man said with deliberation, "I loved you."
"Ah, that!" She struck one palm against another (as if in fury. "It is a queer sort of love that doesn't trust—isn't open and aboveboard." "This is," persisted Michael Heatheroe, "Ah, don't let anything come between us now..." "But why the detectives?" pursued Katharine, in that bewildered tone. "Why should they be looking for you, without reason?" "We can go back," the man said quietly, "and find out what it's all about." It had been different when she had thought she was racing off with a vagabond, a fugitive. The whole affair had worn a sort of brave air. Now—what could she say to her stepmother, to all the others? She had married Sally Moon's fiancé. Katharine Strvkhurst, the girl who inspired a jilt. "I hate you!" she cried wildly, striking at the hand she had caressed five minutes before. "No, you don't, Katharine." She thrust him away. "I do. I swear it." She was close to tears—perilous, angry, choking tears. But she would not let them come. "What they'll say of me!" she raged. "And it will be true. A fool..." "Does it matter?" She did not deign to look at him. "Of course, it does." "That, my dear Katharine," said the man beside her, in a coolly conversational tone, "is your trouble. You have a picture of yourself as others see you. You are continually altering that picture to suit your audience, living up to it. It's too hard. Snap out of it. Be yourself." "Oh, oh!" she choked with rage. "How dare you talk like this to me? After all, I—"

The words almost flew out. "After all, I am your wife." But she checked them. "I dare," said Michael Heatheroe "because I love you. Don't shake your head. It's true. I've loved you since the first day I saw that mutinous red mouth and those contradictory cool eyes of yours. I knew you were my girl... the only one I'd ever seen and wanted."

Some dangerous softness touched her heart but she steeled it against him. "Good talk," she scoffed, "but it doesn't mean anything." "Katharine—darling," he said, "don't be like this. You were so sweet a while back... I thought I had never known such sweetness. You were a statue come to life at last."

"I wish I were dead," she choked, in rage. "I'd better be." What a strange wedding day! The sun had been out, but now the clouds were lowering. Thunder in the air! "Do you remember," he asked, "the day the rain drove us into the cabin?"

Mutinously she refused to answer. The drawing voice went on. "You were so high and mighty," Michael Heatheroe said. "I longed to teach you a lesson. Little wildcat!"

"But you didn't," taunted the girl. "You didn't dare." "That was it," he told her. "I was—afraid of you."

She had kept her eyes resolutely ahead, but now almost against her will, she whirled and stared at him. The emotion that flared between them was at white heat... anger fused with love. Her composure broke. She was in his arms, half-sobbing, half-laughing. "Michael, Michael, why do we quarrel like this? How horrible of us!" "I don't know. Let's stop it." She straightened, dabbing at wet eyes with his big handkerchief. "It doesn't matter what you've done. Some power brought us together. But one thing I've got to ask you." "What's that?" "We mustn't announce our marriage now." His eyes darkened. Quietly he said, "Very well. That's for you to decide."

"If you're sure it's all right for you to go back—and you must be sure, Michael—come along with me now. We'll go on as if nothing had happened. Meantime you can break your engagement with Sally as painlessly as possible. Then we can make plans..." "It would," said Michael thoughtfully, "be easier in some ways. But I don't like it."

"We've got to do it this way," the girl said. "It's the only thing." She started the car. The air was full of a soft, fine blowing dust now. The thunder started, in a long roll. Katharine spoke seldom during the drive. Once she allowed her hand to slip into Michael's lean brown one, and at a stoplight her eyes sought his. He smiled. What a cool, restrained creature this girl was! The man who won her love and confidence could be proud of himself. "Tips will have said I went off with you," she said once, musingly, during the drive. But Michael said Tips was far too clever for that. "He can play dumb as beautifully as anyone you ever knew," he said. "Tips won't know a thing." The miles flew by. The rain pelted down wildly, a storm of drops against the windshield. Brown puddles gathered along the road. There was an oak leaf pasted against the glass—Michael had to reach out and brush it off. The afternoon darkened. The afternoon of her wedding day. Did ever any girl have a stranger one? Her mind was confused. Could Michael be sure these men meant no ill to him? He seemed so confident. Was it bravado? She could not tell. She was conscious, at the very core of her being, of a sick feeling of apprehension. She would have so much to explain to Bertine—to her father. And she was a poor liar. Would some local correspondent for a New York paper pick up her name from the marriage license record of that obscure town? You could never tell...

No good to worry, sang the tires; no good to worry. For better, for worse she had taken this man beside her. Fate had been too strong for them both. Innick's church spires came into view below a rise of drenched woodland. The pin oaks on the old Rogers place swept in the wind, like curtseying maidens in dark-green draperies, as the little car drew up. There was no one about. "Goodby, Michael—dear." He was out of the car, standing hatless in the rain beside her. "Goodby, my darling." She gave one swift look about. She slipped the ring from her finger. "Look, Michael, you must keep this for me. I dare not..." Frowning a little, he slipped the ring into the pocket of his coat. "I wish you needn't take it off." Her glance flew to the porch. The two men she had seen in the village, now hatless, apparently at home, were emerging from the screened doorway. "There they are, Michael." It seemed to her that they could hear the wild pounding of her heart. "I told you—" He glanced coolly at the in-

EGG BANDIT SOUGHT
PUEBLO, Colo.—Police recently sought an "egg-breaking bandit." The robber is an unusual type in that he not only robbed houses but he stole eggs from the refrigerators and broke them on pianos in the living rooms of Pueblo homes.

Wheeler-Rayburn Bill Violates Spirit of New Deal...

D DOES the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, which would injure and handicap local electric companies, follow the spirit of the New Deal? This bill, now pending in Congress, has caused a nation-wide protest because it arbitrarily abolishes holding companies and usurps local control of privately-owned electric companies, passing that control into the hands of political commissions in Washington.

turn to prosperity? NO! It would delay our return to better days because it would cripple and in many instances actually destroy large segments of one of the largest industries and one of the largest taxpayers in the country. The investments of ten million people would be endangered and in many instances, destroyed.

As generally understood the New Deal has these three main objectives. To:

- 1—Create employment
- 2—Bring back prosperity
- 3—Establish greater social security

What business can prosper with its control and its very destiny in the hands of political commissions!

Let's test the Wheeler-Rayburn bill as far as the New Deal is concerned:

Will the Wheeler-Rayburn bill establish social security? NO! For reasons already given the Wheeler-Rayburn bill would undermine security.

Would the Wheeler-Rayburn bill create more jobs? NO! By abolishing holding companies it would put many more thousands into the ranks of the unemployed and on relief. Also the drastic and unfair restrictions it places on local companies would discourage greater payrolls and expenditures. It would spread fear to other employers of labor because of its socialistic trend. This would create greater unemployment.

It would undermine the security that now exists among the half million employes of public utilities. It would make of these employes political office-holders!

It would cut loose the security of the thousands employed by holding companies, sending them out to look for jobs.

It would invade the homes of millions and destroy honest investments.

It would spread unrest, and make business afraid. This fear would retard prosperity.

The Wheeler-Rayburn bill violates the very spirit of the New Deal.

Will the Wheeler-Rayburn bill aid in the re-

 Miss Marguerite Dennis, attractive young daughter of Mrs. I. N. Dennis, Sunday became the bride of Mr. Randall Blackmond, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Blackmond, in a pretty informal ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Wheat of the Methodist church at McCamey, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The bride wore for her wedding a smartly fashioned brown lace with white accessories.

Following the ceremony the couple returned to Ranger and are at present at the home of his parents, Tiffin highway. They have been extended good wishes from their many friends here. Gossipers Peeved

Mrs. Robert Hickey of Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in 6 weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossipers who said there was no safe way to reduce—envious women who don't like to see others youthfully slim. She wisely followed her doctor's advice. Why don't YOU?

Got a jar of Kruschen-to-day (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle) and if you don't lose 12 lbs. and feel years younger and healthier—money back. Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning (tastes fine with juice of half lemon added).—Oil City Pharmacy sells lots of it.

Dealers, Growers To Present Wool Marketing Views

COLLEGE STATION—A proposal to license dealers in wool and mohair, under which certain trade practices which act to reduce returns to growers would be prohibited, is being considered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Hearings on the proposed license will begin July 2.

One hearing has been scheduled at San Angelo, Texas, for July 29 and 30, and other hearings will be held as follows: July 1 and 2, Boston, Mass.; July 8 and 9, Denver, Colo.; July 11 and 12, Billings, Mont.; July 15 and 16, Portland, Ore.; July 18 and 9, San Francisco, Calif.; July 23 and 24, Salt Lake City, Utah; Aug. 1 and 2, Kansas City, Mo.; and Aug. 5 and 6, Columbus, Ohio.

Texas ranks first among the states in the number of sheep and goats and also in the production of wool and mohair. Sheep on Texas farms numbered 7,644,000 on Jan. 1, 1933, according to an estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture. This was approximately 14.7 per cent of the sheep in the United States. Texas also has about 83 per cent of the Angora goats of the United States and produces a like percentage of mohair. Figures from the United States Department of Agriculture for 1934 show that 7,608,000 sheep were shorn in Texas in 1934 and that 60,485,000 pounds of wool were shorn.

The two provisions of the license that are of particular interest to growers are the one requiring a licensed dealer to confine his transactions either to consignments, or to outright purchases, and the other which would base deduction for 'tags' and other off-wool on actual condition of the lot, and not on a flat average basis.

The first provision would remove the grower's fear that the products to which he has title may not be marketed as advantageously as products to which the dealer has acquired title. The second would remove the dealer practice of giving arbitrary flat average deductions from the basic price for 'tags,' but would require them to base any deductions on the actual condition of each lot of wool.

Resignation of O. E. Harvey as a member of the city commission was tendered Wednesday night at a meeting of the body, to be effective immediately.

Mr. Harvey had served as city commissioner since his election in April, 1934.

A statement issued Thursday by Mr. Harvey was as follows:
 To the Citizens of Eastland:
 With sincere regret I have resigned as a member of your city commission. During the time I have been in office I have enjoyed the privilege of serving you to the best of my ability in every capacity and I feel grateful for the wonderful support that has been given me as well as the unselfish cooperation of all those who came in contact with me on city affairs. I find that to render the service that is necessary to the best interests of the people requires special time and personal attention. I cannot do justice to the trust required of me as a city commissioner unless I can qualify fully to what is expected of me. My business during the past few months has required me to leave of different occasions and will continue to do so in the future. I feel that it will be impossible for me to give my own private business the attention that it must have and at the same time give service as a commissioner. I shall at all times be glad to render every cooperation to the citizens of Eastland on civic affairs of the city and extend good wishes to my successor in office. Thanking everybody and assuring you that I will be glad to have you visit the Harvey Chevrolet Company at your convenience. I am sincerely,
 O. E. Harvey.
