MANDAMUS SUIT SUBMITTED IN APPEAL COURT

Case of City of Big Spring vs. J. S. Garlington, county judge of Howard county, in which an order is asked by relator to compel the respondent to appoint three special commissioners to appraise damage of property owners by reason of Highway No. 1 passing inside the Big Spring city limits, was submitted in the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland Friday.

A motion of intervenors, L. E. Coleman and others, for leave to intervene was granted. The mandamus petition allegedly grew out of the county judge's refusal to appoint three special commissioners to appraise damages in condemnation proceedings against Big Spring property owners when their land was used as right-of-way for Highway No. 1. At Eastland for the submission were Wilbourn Barkus, county attorney, and Thomas J. Coffee, city attorney for Big Spring.

Eastland officials Friday reportedly held an itinerant for investigation following his attempted suicide Thursday night.

The attempted suicide, which the near-victim declared his third unsuccessful, occurred after Eastland police granted the transient permission to sleep in the city hall.

The near suicide victim was placed in a cell after treatment by an Eastland physician.

Woman Tells How She Calls Down Wrath of God On Her Tormenters

CANEY, Kas., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Dora Boegler sat in the midst of dozens of the gaudy paper flowers she made to earn a meagre living and explained today how God answers her prayers and punishes those who annoy her.

She recalls the death of a boy who tormented her, death of four hogs of a neighbor who displeased her and illness of a man and wife on whom she felt she had called down judgment.

"God says in the Bible to keep the peace and he will fight your battles for you," she said. "And he does it, too."

A few blocks away lives Mrs. Will Ray, one of those she asked God to punish.

Mrs. Ray sat by a kitchen fire, so anaemic she is unable to get about her home. She poo-pooed the idea Mrs. Boegler's prayers had anything to do with her illness.

"Her threats don't bother me, but I was worried when he took sick after she wrote she had prayed we would both be stricken," she said.

Mrs. Ray said she didn't believe Mrs. Boegler's threats had anything to do with the death of Ray's four hogs before butchering time or with the odd death of the Ollie boy, either.

The death of the Ollie boy was a year ago. He was Abilene Ollie, 14, son of Mexicans who live next door from Mrs. Boegler.

"The boy was mean and he made faces at us and called us names. He called my husband a hunchback and him 91 and feeble. I didn't think God would punish him but rather his mother for raising him so."

Mrs. Boegler, 79, says she doesn't ask God to send any specific punishment to those who torment her.

"I leave that to Him. I take my troubles to him and if I pray with faith He answers. Jake and I are peaceful and God has promised in the Bible to fight for those who keep the peace."

She added that none of her neighbors annoy her any more.

Associate Justice Clyde A. Grissom wrote the opinion of the appellate court.

LONDON IS OVERJOYED AT ELECTION

A significant statement came from conservative headquarters in London today in the midst of jubilation over the government victory in the general election.

"It is better than anything we expected. There has been nothing like it since before the war."

Into that statement can be read a determination to return to the old Tory principles and redouble the defense of the empire.

In the face of Italy's threat in the Mediterranean and Africa and the rebellion in Egypt there is a feeling among some Tories that Britain had deviated too much of late from the historic principle of "what we have we hold."

There are conservatives who believe it is time to call a halt and reaffirm the old principles. Among those elected to parliament is Winston Churchill, called a "stormy Petrol" of British politics who is not admitted to the government councils, but whose voice is listened to by the English public.

The government was returned to power on a platform of increased national armament for defense and continuing the policy of participation in action of the league against war-making nations.

Ladies of Olden Baptist Church In Meeting Thursday

On Thursday morning the ladies in Mrs. J. A. Choate's Sunday School class met at the home of Mrs. C. A. Howell in Olden for an all day session.

An interesting feature of the day was the quilting of a friendship quilt by the more skillful members of the class, while some of the other ladies made visits to the absent member.

Many general discussions were made by the ladies until noon, when a delicious luncheon was served.

After the luncheon hour the ladies again assembled in their respective positions to continue their work on the quilt. Mrs. Carl Jones, class president, called the attention of the ladies to our Buckner's Orphans Home donation.

The ladies agreed to make dresses for the little girls, within the ages of two to seven for Christmas presents. In conclusion to the various discussions, the class voted to compliment their husbands with a social to be given Friday night, Nov. 22.

Those present for this enjoyable occasion were: Mmes. J. A. Choate, B. H. Pettitt, A. B. Baker, Carl Jones, J. L. Kuhn, W. R. Currie, J. W. Lee, J. H. Kahrs, R. S. Lester, Lee Ward, F. O. Fidler, J. L. Blackman, J. A. Supplver, J. H. Munn and son, J. R., Mrs. K. C. Edmonds, Ranger, and Mrs. C. A. Howell.

EXPORTERS ARE WORRIED ABOUT WAR EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today issued a sharp warning to the exporters of oil, copper, trucks, scrap iron and several other commodities that the sale of these commodities to Italy or Ethiopia is contrary to the policy of this government.

Hull also informed the exporters this type of trade is contrary to the general spirit of the recent neutrality act and warned them the government is observing the trend and volume of exports to Italy and Ethiopia.

Hull's statement constituted another drastic step, probably the most drastic yet made, in stopping all war trade between this country and warring nations.

U. S. Shelter Camps Branded By Felon

CHEHALIS, Wash. — Robert Brandon, sentenced to 25 to 35 years in the state penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to second degree murder of a service station operator, believes the government transient shelter camps established throughout the states are of detriment rather than benefit.

Brandon was captured at a transient camp near St. Joseph Mo. He believes the camps are harmful to itinerants, especially young boys.

"They would never be on the road if it were not for these camps," Brandon said. "If the government would cut out the transient camps and the railroads would make it harder to hop freights, there would be 75 per cent fewer men on the road."

Eastland, Cisco Rotarians Hold A Joint Meeting

It is a fine thing to distribute Christmas baskets, Richard H. Wells, past district governor of Rotary International in Utah and Idaho, told members of the Cisco and Eastland organizations Thursday at Cisco, but, the speaker asked, couldn't it be better to find out why under our system there is a class to receive Christmas baskets?

Wells stressed that the Rotary organization is one that endeavors to promote better world understanding. And educated man, said Wells, is one with an understanding mind. O. J. Russell, president of the Cisco club, presided.

Sandies May Stay In Ranger Prior To District Game

Word has been received in Ranger by Jimmie Nottingham from Blair Cherry, coach of the Amarillo Sandies, that if Amarillo wins in the Panhandle district the Sandies will come to Ranger two days before their game with the winner of the Oil Belt district, and will work out here prior to the game.

The Sandies are heavy favorites to repeat in District 1, while the Breckenridge Buckaroos have earned at least a tie in the Oil Belt with only the Ranger Bulldogs to defeat or tie to win the district title.

In the letter, and later in a telephone conversation, Cherry announced that he would likely have 38 players on the squad he brings to the Oil Belt and that they will remain in Ranger two days before the bi-district game.

Will Appoint Board To Administer Liquor Regulation Before Long

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—Liquor regulation in Texas was expected to be in effect by night as Gov. James Allred said he expected to sign the control measure today and appoint a three-member board to administer it.

It will be the first time since 1919 legal sales are made in the state.

Allred did not expect to sign the pension bill today nor the officer's salary measure. The 80-page liquor bill and the driver's license law consumed most of his time.

Barring some defects that would make the bill invalid, Allred is expected to sign the pension and salary proposals. Next week he and Mrs. Allred plan to take a vacation.

Bills passed at the session included:

Giving the Centennial Control Commission authority to condemn land for the restoration, preservation or marking of historical spots for the Centennial celebration.

Validating acts of county commissioners in creating wind erosion districts in the Panhandle.

Requiring persons exempt from paying poll taxes to obtain exemption certificates by Feb. 1.

Creating the Sulphur River conservation and reclamation district.

Authorizing certain cities to levy taxes to secure federal loans for health and recreation centers.

Reappropriating $75,000 and appropriating $35,000 additional for a building at the Galveston State Hospital for Crippled Children.

Correcting the cosmetology act to prohibit the establishment of itinerant beauty shops and otherwise strengthen the act, now under court attack.

Authorizing state colleges to charge a $4 fee per student per term for the use of buildings in obtaining federal aid.

Advancing $200,000 to the Brazos River conservation and reclamation district to start work on the project and to be repaid from the first revenue of the district.

Validating various acts of government subdivisions in financial matters intended to obtain federal assistance or secure federal loans.

New Trial Denied Man Convicted On Cow Theft Charge

We Should Take More Interest in State

Among the things that no fond mother ever told her snub-nosed young son is: "And if you work hard and be a good boy, you may grow up to be a member of the state legislature."

The state government in most of America, in other words, works under a cloud. There still is a certain glory to being governor, perhaps, but the ordinary American would be hard put if he had to name, from memory, as many as three other high state officials, or six members of his legislature.

Yet the state government touches the life of the average citizen quite as closely as does the federal government, with which he is far more familiar. It affects his taxes even more directly.

It has the power to alter the conditions under which he works or does business. With the county governments, it is at his elbow every day of the year.

The point of all this is that a direct and simple road to cheaper and better government is wide open for the people of America, if they will only take the trouble to find it. By bringing state and county governments up to date, by taking an interest in them and insisting on efficient, intelligent administration, they can save themselves untold millions.

Here is an illustration. A committee of business experts headed by Col. C. O. Sherrill, former city manager of Cincinnati, recently made a survey of the Ohio state government to see if it could be run more cheaply. A glance at a few of their recommendations is enlightening.

In the administration of the state sales tax alone, for example, Ohio could save $578,000 a year. It could save $750,000 more by a more intelligent purchasing system in its highway department. It could save another $166,000 by adjusting the warehouse and trucking contracts of its liquor department.

Altogether, simply by running the state government in the way a business organization would be run, the experts figure the state could save $13,000,000 a year. This, be it noted, does not call for abandonment of any state activity, nor does it even touch the county government, a political form which is as out of date today as the one-hoss shay.

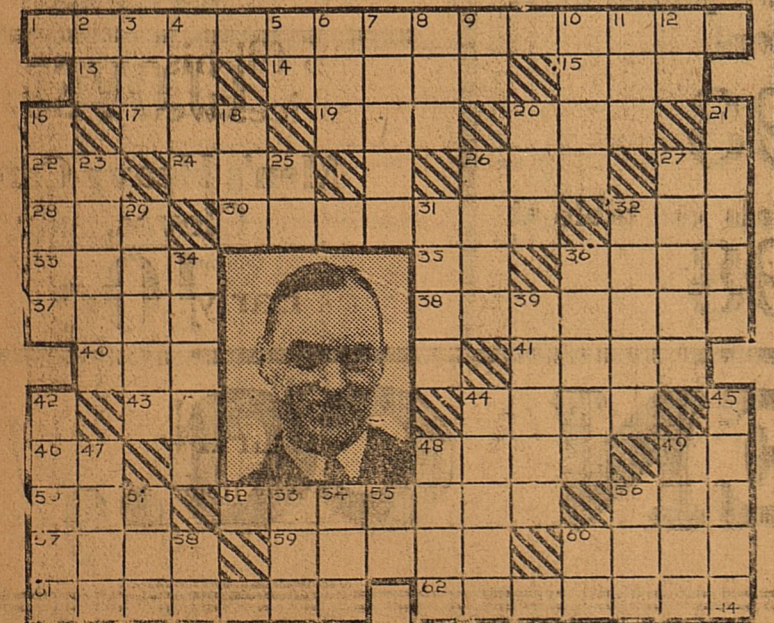

The moral is obvious. We have abandoned our state governments to the politicians, and then we have gone off and forgotten who the politicians are. As a result, we are paying right through the nose.

If we want lower taxes, we have only to bring our state and county governments up to date, take an intelligent and unsleeping interest in the way they are operated, and insist on getting full value for our money.

That issue is quite as pressing as the more talked-about issue of reducing expenditures of the federal government.

THE earth and Venus are almost identical in size. . . . Venus being only 327 miles smaller in diameter . . . and their masses are practically the same. The force of gravity is 15 per cent less on Venus than on earth, but the air is thinner and would counteract most of that difference.

Rubber Adds to Life of Highways

BOSTON.—Rubber will be used to make Massachusetts highways smoother and longer-lived. The state public works departments, after years of laboratory tests, is about to begin use of a new rubber compound to join slabs of cement on highways, both in construction of new roads and in maintenance of existing surfaces.

When cement roads first were built, there was no fixed uniformity of strips and the lack of a binding material between the stretches of concrete often resulted in one or both slabs heaving upward at a joint and creating a rough spot. Asphalt Commonly Used. Moreover, expansion and contraction caused by extremes of temperature had to be considered and it was found necessary to leave a three-quarters-inch space between the slabs. Asphalt was used for 15 years to fill the joints, but it tended to extrude above the edges and thus form a series of bumps. Next used was a moulded material made of a mixture of rubber and cork with a layer of asphalt on top, which, however, continued to protrude above the level of the highway.

164 Per Cent Gain In Payroll's Is Announced by Vicks

GREENSBORO, N. C., Nov. 15. For the five months period ending Oct. 31, employment here at the laboratories of Vicks Chemical Company, makers of Vicks Vapo-Rub and other aids to better control of colds, reached an all-time peak, and payrolls increased 164 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934. This record is all the more impressive in view of the fact that Vicks employment showed progressive upward steps throughout the depression. The company gained national recognition in 1932-33—at the lowest point of the depression—in showing an employment increase of more than 100 per cent over the best normal records of pre-depression years. At the same time came the rather startling announcement that no Vicks salary had ever been cut because of "hard times." This record Vicks has consistently maintained—outstandingly doing its share to speed recovery in employment and wages during the past five difficult years. In fact, Vicks' expansion policies were already carrying out what the federal government sought with its N. R. A. in the summer of 1933 to increase employment—and it is noteworthy that Vicks still adheres, in all its laboratories and offices, to the five-day, 40-hour week prescribed by a code no longer binding. While exact figures are not available, except for laboratory forces, the office employees, technical staffs and management groups employed by Vicks have also shown marked increases in payrolls and personnel through the years since 1928-29. All of which reflects a period of continuing increases in volume of Vicks sales. Not only have sales of its leader, Vicks VapoRub, increased, but—with the progressive addition of Vicks Va-tro-nol, Vicks Medicated Cough Drops and Vicks Voro-tone Antiseptic—now over 53 million Vicks aids to better control of colds are used yearly, in the United States alone. "Depression?"—said Lunsford Richardson, president of the company, a few years ago when asked about conditions—"Vicks isn't afraid of 'depressions.' Fact is, we were born in the depression of 1907, and since then they've proved stimulants rather than depressants to Vicks."

The record seems to bear him out. And an item in that record of impressive interest to business men is that, throughout depression, Vicks has consistently increased its use of newspaper space, always looked upon as the backbone of its advertising. This season Vicks is using the largest list in its history—over 1,600 daily papers.

WARNING: FIREARMS STUNTS GENERALLY BRING DISASTER

The grim list showing death's toll during the last year reveals an astonishing number of casualties attributable to pranks executed by practical jokesmiths with guns which they never surmised were loaded. These would-be Annie Oakleys possibly added to the hospital rolls via the above exhibition—Preston Foster pretending to shoot a cigar out of Ray Mayer's mouth in a special pose between scenes of Richard Dix's "The Arizonian." Children and even adults are wont to emulate such traditional stunts, aiming firearms in a show-off mood as amateur William Tells or Buffalo Bills. Then—"bang!"—the revolver goes off. And a friend lies motionless on the ground. "The Arizonian shows Saturday only at the Columbia Theatre.

The program was led by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee. The devotional consisted of songs with comments about the authors, several prayers and many Scripture readings. The Missionary Council of the Southern Methodist Church in their annual meeting each spring decides on two objects for which the week of prayer offerings will be used. One object is always in the home field and the other in the foreign field. This year the home object is the community center at Enley, Ala., and the needs of this work were brought out in articles from the "World Outlook," with many pictures showing various activities there. The objects in the foreign field are the Laura Haygood School in Soochow, China, and the Evangelistic Center in Seoul, Korea. At noon a covered dish lunch was served, after which various playlets and articles were presented. Those present were Mmes. Charles Lee, S. E. Snodgrass, H. H. Nance, W. H. Whitworth, Ed Parks, W. C. Bedford, Preston Sparks, C. O. Bragg, and son, Charles, Misses Mollie O'Rear, Agatha Genoway, Edda Parks, Valla Whitworth.

Good Wrestling to Be Seen Under a New Arrangement

Two good fast bouts are booked for Monday night, Nov. 18, at the Elks arena. The Elk matchmaker has succeeded in making arrangements with booking agencies whereby the pick of wrestlers who have been wrestling in Old Mexico, Amarillo, El Paso, Tulsa and the west coast can be secured.

All the wrestlers to come to Ranger in the future come recommended as A No. 1 wrestlers. The Elks management is making every effort to give the wrestling fans just what they are looking for in the way of good and fast matches.

In the preliminary Blondy Chrane, who is a much improved wrestler and of championship calibre, will meet Albert Szasz (pronounced "Sass"), the Hungarian Flash. Szasz is one of the fastest men in the ring and will keep his opponent busy all the time.

The main event two-hour time limit bout, is between Eddie O'Shea, the tough Irishman from New York, and Ace Abbott. Eddie needs no introduction to the wrestling fans. Eddie takes on Abbott, former Texas amateur champion, who turned professional 18 months ago. Abbott has been chalking up his share of wins since meeting the real tough boys.

The show starts at 8:30 p. m. rain or shine, hot or cold.

20,000 Students Are Given Opportunity To Receive Jobs

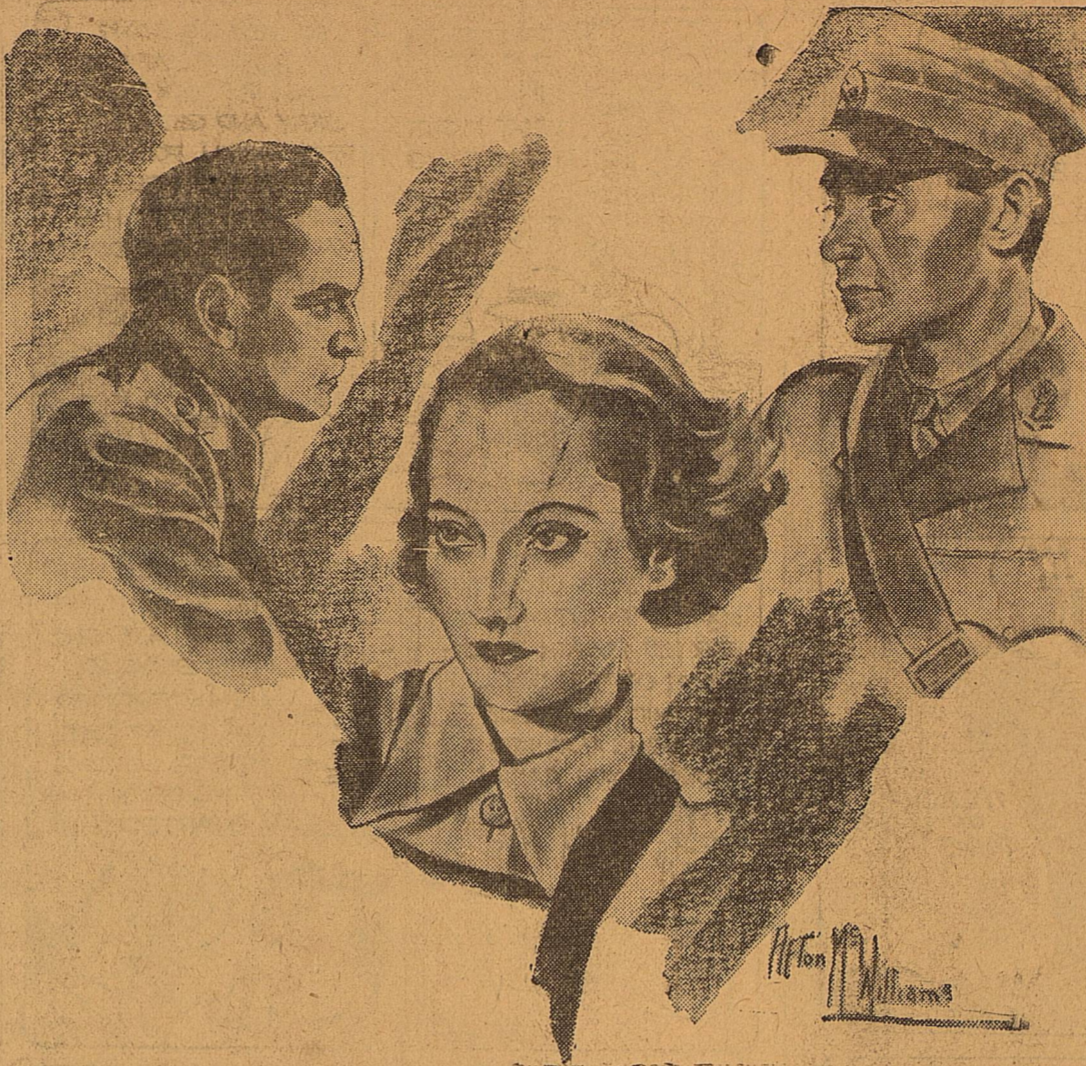

AUSTIN.—Twenty thousand Texas boys and girls have been placed in schools or given an opportunity to go to work, in two months by the National Youth Administration. Lyndon B. Johnson, state director, said Tuesday night in a radio address at Austin.

Of this number, 5,700 were given part-time jobs in all the eligible colleges and universities of Texas. Approximately 9,000 have been given jobs to help defray incidental expenses in high school. Freshman colleges centers are being opened to care for 750 high school graduates who did not enter college this fall. Two thousand young men and women from 16 to 25 have been called for work on WPA projects, in addition to the adult workers requisitioned, and NYA projects, designated exclusively for youth, are to be started soon.

"The NYA is investing this money in actual, productive work," Johnson said. "It is work which is good for the young people who are doing it, and is of real permanent value to your city, your town, your county, the whole commonwealth of Texas.

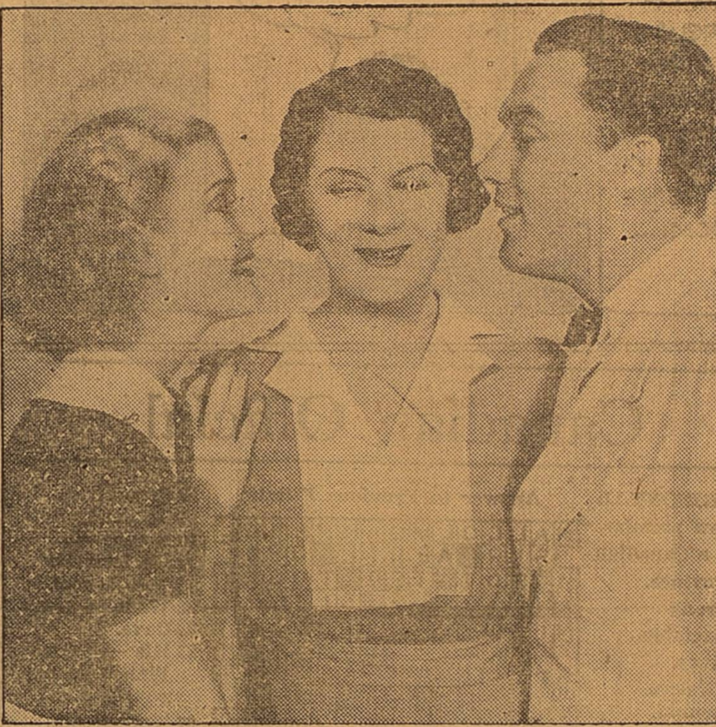

"No one gets anything for nothing under any of the NYA programs. The NYA has no dole to give out to young people. Any assistance they receive springs from
