PEEPING THRU The KNOTHOLE

Charlie Black came to our rescue to some extent today when he volunteered the information that a high school basketball game lasts 32 minutes, being divided into four quarters of eight minutes each, while college games are of 40 minutes duration, being divided into two halves of 20 minutes each.

So that is a little information on the game and we are already beginning to learn. Charlie should know, we believe, because he has played quite a bit of basketball around these parts.

We should have kept a record of some kind because last year from November throughout the remainder of the school year we received the horselaugh several times when we predicted that Brownwood would finish at least in third place in the Oil Belt district this season.

Several who laughed at us live in Breckenridge because we made the statement in the lobby of the Burch Hotel one night prior to a banquet which we attended. Wilson Ritchie, who was writing sports at the time for the Breckenridge American, was finally convinced and quoted us in the paper the next day.

Before and after that time, however, several made fun of us because we warned everyone to watch Brownwood this year.

Things will likely be different next year, though, but who can tell.

We were informed that Brownwood will lose all but one of the starters on the 1935 team, either through graduation, because of the eight-semester rule or because of the 8-year rule.

Over the reserve strength of the Lions may be worked up into a football team before next year and it would not be at all surprising to see the Lions replace one of the former Big Four of the Oil Belt, either Ranger, Cisco or Breckenridge, while Abilene should be able to maintain a place near the top for many years to come. Of course there will be years here and there when Breckenridge (Continued on page 8)

TWO NEW WELLS NEAR EASTLAND TO BE DRILLED

Drilling applications for two wells near Eastland were on file Friday at the railroad commission office.

Ray T. Hoff of Comanche will drill No. 1 L. M. White et al, seven miles southeast of Eastland, block 2, McClennan county school land leagues 3 and 4 survey. Drilling to a depth of 1,500 feet is contemplated.

Date of the Murrell well start was scheduled this week and the White well is scheduled to begin Monday.

Sea Plane Starts Long Mail Journey In the Near Future

ALEMADE, Cal., Nov. 22.—America's greatest commercial seaplane, aided in its hangar today awaiting a takeoff on history's first scheduled trans-Pacific air mail flight.

Capt. Edwin Musick and a crew of eight will climb aboard the four-motored sky liner and send it outbound for Honolulu, Midway Island, Wake Island, Guam and the Philippines, carrying more than a ton of mail.

Ceremonies which began two days ago will attend the takeoff. A greeting to the clipper's crew will be broadcast from Manila and a similar message will be dispatched by the governor of Hawaii from Honolulu.

More Patrolmen to Go On Highways

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The $4,000,000 work relief program lagging far behind its original schedule, today listed 2,367,242 needy persons on federal payrolls Nov. 16.

Although the drive transferred 359,120 needy from relief to work rolls between Nov. 9 and 16 the program has 1,132,758 jobs to go.

Administrator Harry L. Hopkins latest goal is 3,500,000 persons working by Dec. 1 and shutting down of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration on that date.

TRANSFER HATCHERY MAN CISCO, Nov. 22.—Transfer of S. B. Wright, superintendent of the state fish hatchery here since Nov. 3, 1927, a few months after its establishment, to the superintendency of the state hatchery at Jasper has been announced. Succeeding Wright will be D. C. Harper, to be transferred from the Dundee state hatchery. The transfer takes effect Dec. 11.

New Problem Faces Searchers of Liquor Without Tax Stamp

HOUSTON, Nov. 22.—Federal officers have a new problem to solve in their search for liquor tax violators, now that it has been ruled you can not place a tax on the odor of whiskey.

Willie A. Kent, 28, was arrested and taken before U. S. Commissioner W. F. Carothers, charged with violation of liquor tax laws. A state officer said he detected the odor of moonshine whiskey and found 15 gallons in Kent's automobile.

Since Texas has repealed state liquor laws, the commissioner ruled, a federal officer is not authorized to search an automobile containing whiskey to determine whether the tax had been paid.

It was ruled that the state officer was acting as a federal officer. Kent was released.

Plans Ape Tests in Disease War

Bound for Africa to experiment with chimpanzees and gorillas in connection with "denervation" operations to combat diabetes, epilepsy, and other diseases, Dr. George W. Crile, famed Cleveland, O., surgeon, is shown as he sailed from New York. On a previous African hunting trip, Dr. Crile made important discoveries in treating these diseases by dissecting lions he had shot.

FUNERALS FOR CRASH VICTIMS NOT COMPLETE

Funeral services for Dorland Sandlin and A. E. Eaves, who were instantly killed in an airplane crash near Breckenridge at the municipal airport Thursday, had not been planned today, according to word from Breckenridge.

The two youths, who had just purchased the plane, were related to John Eaves, employe of the Ranger post office, who went to Breckenridge this morning after he had received word of their deaths.

Eye-witnesses of the crash said that the flyers had taken off and were circling back toward the field, when the motor cut out and the plane crashed.

Sandlin was the son of Dr. W. Sandlin of Whitt, and Eaves, a relative, who formerly resided in Arkansas, had made his home with the family for some time.

Navy and Marine Corps Will Get Boosts In 1936

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—President Roosevelt will make provisions in the budget for an increase of 4,000 men in the navy, he revealed today.

To reporters he revealed the naval force would be brought up to 100,000 men or a yearly average of 96,000. This compares with a present maximum of 96,000 or an average of 92,000.

It was tentatively estimated the new strength would cost $36,000. The Marine Corps will be slightly increased as the president is proposing to boost the force from 16,000 to a 17,000 maximum.

Express Men Meet At Ranger Thurs.

The Oil Belt League of Express Employees held its monthly session Thursday night at Ranger with B. Harmon, agent in that city, as host.

An attendance of 21 was registered. Speakers included C. C. Stevens, commercial agent at Dallas; M. C. Paul, agent at Brownwood, and several of his force attended. A turkey dinner was served by Mrs. B. Harmon.

The next meeting will be at Cisco, Thursday, Dec. 19.

WHITES WARNED ABOUT SERVING WITH ETHIOPIA

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 22 (Delayed).—The United Press was reliably informed today the best fate any European commanding Ethiopian forces can hope for is a choice between being "treated as white or black."

The exact significance of the alternative is unclear but it certainly looks bad in view of the indignation of Italian officers as the result of unconfirmed reports aviators who participated in the bombardment of the Mai Nescio valley saw at least one white officer leading Ethiopians.

Although the official attitude regarding prisoners has not been revealed, it is understood that individual generals will apply such measures as they see fit—which apparently will be most stringent as Italian sentiment here is that the white soldiers of fortune are "unprincipled mercenaries and traitors to their race."

It is pointed out that there is little likelihood that these Europeans will be captured alive as their pale faces are natural targets for Italian rifles and machine guns.

On the other hand it is rumored that realizing the uncompromising attitude, the whites with the Ethiopians are wearing identical uniforms with those of Ethiopian officers and even blackening their faces with shoe blacking.

Volcano Threatens Hawaiian Towns

HILO, Hawaii, Nov. 22.—Moving at unusual speed, two streams of fiery lava from Mokuaweo, second largest active volcano in the world, advanced on the Hilo coast today.

The streams threatening Hilo were only 25 miles from the city. They had moved 15 miles in less than 24 hours.

The lava tide washing down the other slope toward the coast, at Kona, had travelled an equal distance.

At present the lava which has a spread of five miles in width before it splits into two streams, is working its way through forest areas.

NEW DEAL GETS A SETBACK IN A TEST VOTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Two powerful groups of industrialists and a poll of national sentiment by the Literary Digest, hit the national administration with stiff jolts today.

Wall Street betters dropped the odds on President Roosevelt's reelection to merely even money.

First returns of the Literary Digest polls 10,000,000 voters indicated the president would lose an election today in regions where 18 months ago he polled a substantial majority.

Speakers for the National Founders Association and the New York State Chamber of Commerce attacked the new deal.

More Needy Taken From Relief Rolls

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—Twenty-six additional highway patrolmen to begin work Dec. 9 were appointed today from 1,000 applicants who took examinations in eight cities Aug. 31.

The new men will receive training at Camp Mabry near Austin before beginning road work.

Included was Carlos Morris of Sweetwater.

BULLDOGS ARE TRAMPLED BY LIONS 39 TO 0

The Ranger Bulldogs maintained their perfect record for defeats when they lost their ninth straight game of the season Thursday afternoon at Brownwood, going down before the onslaughts of the Brownwood Lions by a score of 39 to 0. At the same time the Bulldogs maintained their unparalleled record for kicking points after touchdowns, being the only team in the district with a perfect record in that department of the game.

And, at this time, it looks very much like the record will continue on through Thanksgiving Day, when the Bulldogs play their tenth and last game of the season against the district leading Breckenridge Buckaroos, for there is little likelihood of scoring against the Buckaroos.

The Lions had little or no trouble going through the "tissue paper line" of the Bulldogs, while the "immovable offense" was just as immovable as ever, again chalking up less first downs than their opponents did touchdowns. Only one first down was made against the Lion regulars in the first quarter, but against the second string in the fourth they were able to push over three more to make their total for the day stand at four, against six touchdowns for the home team.

The Lions made a gala event of the game, scoring almost at will and almost equaling the 44 to 0 score rolled up by the powerful Bulldog team of 1934 and the handful of faithful Bulldog fans who followed the team to Brownwood had little to enjoy during the afternoon except the weather, while more Brownwood fans than the total following of the Lions for the past several years cheered lustily as their Messrs. Stephens and Thomason, aided and abetted by Mr. Clardy, galloped gleefully hither and yon through the line, around the ends, and completed passes and generally trampled the grass in the Ranger end of the Howard Payne stadium and their cleats did considerable damage to the sod around the goal line.

It was Brownwood High' big day, a day they had been looking forward to since 1927 when they last defeated the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs attempted 14 passes during the afternoon and almost half of them were intercepted, the Lions snaring six of the heaves, the Bulldogs three, and five being incomplete. The Bulldogs made two of their four first downs late in the game when Walsh passed to Jacoby for 22 yards, and later Jacoby passed to Walsh for 23 and it looked for a moment as though he might be away for the third touchdown of the season. The other first down of the last quarter was unearned, however, as it was made with the aid of a five-yard penalty.

The Lions started their scoring in the first quarter when Thomason circled right end for 24 yards and a score and Stephens kicked the extra point. Thomason accounted for the second, too, when he plunged over from the one-yard line in the second quarter and Stephens again kicked goal.

The Lions scored again in the second when Clardy passed 16 yards to Crow, who stepped over the goal line. Stephens failed to convert.

The Lion score was boosted to 26 after they lost the ball on the one-yard line and Walsh punted out to the 31-yard line. A pass gained nine and a line play two, Clardy circled end for 22 and Stephens went over for the touchdown. Jacoby blocked Stephens' attempt to convert.

The Lions got a break in the final quarter when Thomason punted and his punt was fumbled, Vaughn recovering over the goal line for a score and Stephens' kick being good. A lateral from Stephens to Newby was good for another touchdown in the final and a fumble prevented a try for the extra point.

Brownwood—Miller and Crow, ends; Bostick and Swaggerty, tackles; Vernon and Wall, guards; Vaughn, center; Clardy (captain), quarterback; Stephens and Foster, halfbacks; Thomason, full.

Ranger—Sharp and Burnett, ends; Donoho and Spiess, tackles; Mace and Coalsen, guards; Bray, center; Walsh (captain), quarterback; Hartin and Connell, halfbacks; Jacoby, full.

INDIAN CHIEF

Immediately upon acceptance of Billy Evans' resignation as general manager of the Cleveland Indians by the club's board of directors, Cyril C. Slapnicka, chief scout of the team for 14 years, was named assistant to President Alva Bradley. The position of general manager was discontinued, but it is expected that many of the duties Evans handled will fall to Slapnicka, above, who pitched for Milwaukee, in the American Association, for seven years.

"It is therefore, ordered, adjudged and decreed that the plaintiff take nothing by his suit, and that in addition thereto it is adjudged and decreed the plaintiff pay all costs in this case expended, and that both of said defendants go hence without pay."

EDITORIAL
America and Its Citizens

All straight-forward thinking Americans have surely for once come to the conclusion that America has changed. Some would brand this change as an abstract change in its physical structure. Some as due to a financial crisis. Others as political changes, etc. We at least know that it has changed and is continually changing, principally in its citizenry. Let us take an introspective view and glance in the mirror for once and we believe we can discover the trouble. No nation can be greater than its citizens, who compose it. Too, "a great nation is made only by worthy citizens." We have noticed in one of our late publications that a radicalism of 22,000 strong has been developed in youthful minds of our nation. This radicalism is branded as destructive and what to do with this radical element is the problem at hand. Let us not forget that radicals have played their part in world politics through all the ages as a check and a balance on major political groups.

Surely if we are to develop right attitudes in our youthful citizenry we must as an older group lead the way in example and deeds, and instead of cursing the machinery of our government teach them loyalty and who compose the government. True, there are a great number of things that the writer does not like concerning the workings and practices of our government, but it pays him as well as all others to think, speak, and act in a silent manner before youthful minds, who are imitators who greatly magnify our examples. Teach them the example of

The Puritans (Billy Hines)

We should speak first of the Puritans as the most remarkable body of men which, perhaps, the world has ever known or produced. He is a stern figure full of strength and force and purpose, who had grave faults, but they were the faults of a strong and not a weak nature, and his virtues were those of a robust man of lofty aims.

They had their smiles and tears, their raptures and their sorrows, but not for the things of this world. Enthusiasm had made them stoics, had cleared their minds from every vulgar passion and prejudice, and raised them above the influence of danger and of corruption. It might sometimes lead them to pursue unwise means. They went through the world mingling with human beings, but having neither part nor lot in human infirmities—insensible to fatigue, to pleasure, and to pain.

The Puritan had narrowness but he also had breadth. It is true that he drove Roger Williams into exile and persecuted the Antinomians, but he founded successful and God-fearing commonwealths. He hanged Quakers, and in mad panic put old women to death as witches, but he planted a college in the wilderness and put a school house in every village.

He made a narrow creed the test of citizenship; but he founded the town meeting, where every man helped to govern, and where all men were equal before the law. He banished harmless pleasure,

Securities Act Is Praised As Model

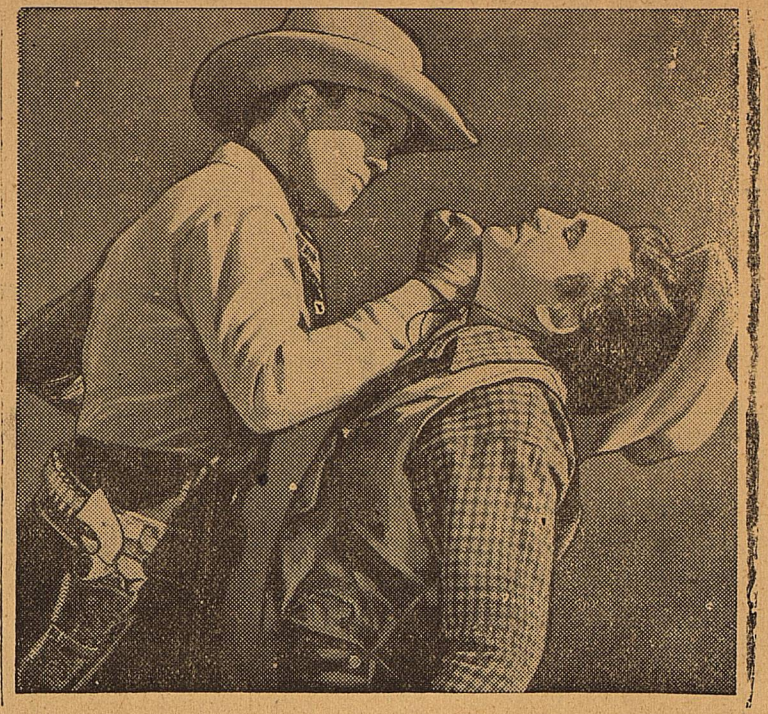

AUSTIN.—That the Texas Securities Act is a model of its kind, is becoming common knowledge throughout the country, according to D. Leon Harp, Texas Securities commissioner and Secretary of State R. B. Stanford, who are the two officials charged with its enforcement.

"Gerald C. Mann, former secretary of state of Texas, and now Washington representative of the Texas Planning Board, has been invited to address the National Association of Securities Commissioners at their annual convention at Miami, Fla., in December.

"Mann, who was primarily responsible for the enactment of the Texas Securities Law, has long made a study of securities legislation. The Texas law, in the opinion of securities officials in many states, is looked upon as a model of its kind. The invitation to address the commissioners was extended by Harold K. Bradford, president of the association, who wrote the Texas, "several members of our executive committee and numerous secretaries of state from different sections of the country have asked that you be especially invited to address us."

BLACK-DRAUGHT RELIEVES ONE CAUSE OF DISTRESS AFTER MEALS

When constipation interferes with the normal working of the digestive system, warning symptoms, such as flatulence or distress after eating, may appear.

Many people, afflicted as described below, take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals. Mr. C. D. McIver, of Panama City, Fla., writes:

"I suffered with gas pains. Everything I ate seemed to hurt me. I lost weight from 149 to 114 pounds. Someone told me to try Black-Draught. After taking small doses awhile, I found I was better. I kept it up and began gaining weight until I was back to normal. I would not be without Black-Draught."

Many others would not like to be without Black-Draught after having learned from their own use of it how helpful it is in the relief of constipation troubles. Sold in 25-cent packages.

Szasz and Chrane Will Return For Bout On Monday

The matchmaker succeeded in rematching Blondy Chrane, the pride of Abilene, and Albert Szasz, the Hungarian flash, for the main event at the Elks arena for Monday night, Nov. 25.

These two boys put up one of the best wrestling matches ever held in the Elks arena, so conceded by the large attendance last Monday night.
The 45 minute prelim in which they wrestled was not long enough to tell which was the peer of the two, they were so evenly matched. The matchmaker after several wires and phone calls succeeded in arranging a return match in the main event a two-hour time limit, best two out of three falls. They are the talk of the town and a capacity house is expected to witness their struggle for supremacy next Monday night.
The 45 minute preliminary brings back the formidable and aggressive favorite, Eddie O'Shea, the wild Irishman of New York. This time Eddie will meet a man who is fast and clever and will give and take with any of the mat bad boys. He is Dory Detton, the Utah Mormon.
Detton has been wrestling along the Pacific coast where one has to be good in the game or he can't stick.
These two matches should surpass those of last week. The management has promised better bouts so here they are. Those wishing ringside seats should make reservation by calling 283 any afternoon. Remember the show starts promptly at 8:30 p. m., rain or shine, hot or cold.

Eager For Dictator? Just Look At Europe

When the going gets really tough and the tax collector stalks abroad in the land like an advance agent of the seven plagues, the honest American is apt to get his cronies off in a corner and remark, soulfully: "What this country needs is a dictator."

Much of the willingness to say this, no doubt, comes from the fact that we have never yet had one. Certainly the things that have been happening to those lands which do have dictators do not make the best of testimonials.

John T. Flynn, widely known economist and publicist, pointed out recently that the two European nations which are having the most trouble these days are the two which have gone farthest with this dictator idea.

There's Italy, for instance. Mussolini, as everybody knows, made the trains run on time; but like so many other wonder-workers, he did it with borrowed money, and his present actions have a remarkable likeness to the antics of a man who is striving desperately to keep one jump ahead of the sheriff.

Italy's war in Ethiopia is a war of desperation. The country's economic position has been getting steadily worse for years. The budget is so far out of balance that it makes our own look like an exercise in frugal finance drawn up by an old-fashioned banker for the instruction of the young.

Win, lose, or draw, the Italian nation can expect to get nothing out of its Ethiopian venture but more grief.

In Germany the condition is little better. Unemployment is still going up, retail prices are painfully high, and only a spurt of orders for war materials keeps the bottom from falling away down to the realm of the departed.

As in Italy, the desperation born of a tightening economic crisis is leading people to look on war as the only hope of salvation—and when a nation begins thinking that way it is almost time to notify a few close friends and prepare for a simple but impressive service at the home.

Now all this is worth thinking about twice.

A dictatorship is the sort of thing that is resorted to as a last hope. It comes when people feel that their situation is so bad that it couldn't possibly be any worse.

And here we have the two leading examples of dictatorship, proving that that idea is utterly cock-eyed—that the one sure way to make a bad situation worse is to band everything over to one man and tell him to shoot the works.

In bad times we may say that we need a dictator. It is not hard to imagine oppressed citizens of Italy and Germany getting off in a corner and saying, furtively: "What this country needs is a republic."

The average business man is so immersed in business life that he has little enjoyment in his home life.

Safety Lane Is No Place to Drive Car When Intoxicated

AUSTIN.—Here is some more argument favoring the point that strong drink is likely to distort one's judgment as a driver of a motor vehicle. A 45-year-old negro drove his automobile into the Austin police department-State Safety commission safety lane. He was greeted by 17 uniformed officers who agreed that his judgment was befuddled. The negro was found too drunk to know what it was all about. When the officers took him from his automobile they found a pistol concealed in his clothing. Complaints charging him with driving while drunk and with carrying a pistol were filed in Justice Peace Paul T. Holt's court by J. D. Moffatt, senior inspector for the state highway patrol. The negro was too intoxicated to give his name, officers said. He was lodged in the county jail.

With All My Love

by Mary Raymond Copyright NEA 1935

BEGIN HERE TODAY DANA WESTBROOK, born and reared abroad, comes to make her home with her grandmother, aristocratic MRS. WILLIARD CAMERON, whom Dana has never seen.

Twenty-one years before, Dana's mother eloped with the man she loved, leaving her husband and an infant daughter, NANCY WALLACE. Young Wallace divorced his wife and she married DANA WESTBROOK, a year later their daughter, Dana, was born and given the name of her father.

After the death of her parent, Dana was invited to come to America to live with her mother's family. She is received cordially by her aunt, MISS ELLEN CAMERON, but meets a cold welcome from her grandmother.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

DANA was fighting for self-control as she crossed to a deep window and looked down at the scene below. The gray day had turned darker and now a light rain was falling, adding to the dreary appearance of the garden which stretched some distance away until it ran into an old brick wall. That unkempt area, deep in tangled growth, had once been a lovely garden. It was there Dana's mother had moved as a young and beautiful girl, loved and loved. It was there she had carried her bitterness and hurt as a desperately unhappy young wife after she had married "for security" to please her mother. And it was through the garden gate at the far end that she had fled two years later, leaving a tiny baby in this very room. Dana's father had told her the whole story when she was 16.

"I couldn't have you hear from anyone that your mother was not a good woman, Dana, dear," he had said. "She was all that was pure and lovely. We loved each other so very much. We were young, and your mother was desperately unhappy. We felt there was nothing else to do. We were married as soon as John Wallace got the divorce, and a year later you came to bless our lives."

"What became of my sister?" Dana had questioned, then.

HE had answered gently. "Your mother felt the baby would be a comfort to your grandmother, who had closed her home against us. And so your mother lived for 12 years—until she died, Dana—never hearing anything from your little sister at home."

Dana thought now: My grandmother didn't seem glad to see me. Maybe she is cruel. Maybe this is her revenge, bringing me back to live with unhappy memories. "She shook herself out of the somber mood and looked around her.

The room was beautiful. The red brocade about the canopyed bed was a rich, slightly faded. The furnishings were graceful Colonial pieces of an exquisite satin wood. Her mother's chest, a solid in a classical design, was in one corner.

The door opened and a slender girl with enormous, unsmiling eyes came in. "I came to offer the family felicitations," she said.

The rug was thick and luxurious of a beautiful medallion pattern. A few choice prints and dainty floral pictures were on the wall.

Dana's eyes fell on a miniature on the dressing table and she went over, lifting it and staring down at it with misty eyes. This slender, radiant girl, dressed in the quaint style of another era, was her mother.

"How lovely she was," Dana whispered. Compassion flowed through her. How that stern old woman downstairs must have suffered when her beautiful daughter passed from her life forever.

"But it was wrong to bring me here," Dana thought rebelliously. "If she can't forgive me for being my father's child and looking like my mother."

THERE was a knock at the door. "Come in," Dana said, replacing the miniature on the dressing table. The door opened. A slender girl with enormous, unsmiling dark eyes came in. She had a dark, my father a promise that I'd write my grandmother if anything ever happened to him. When he died three years ago, I was at St. Celeste's. I wrote grandmother, but did not know until after I was graduated that she had been paying my tuition since then, and that she had sent money for me to come here when I was through school. "She probably put a second mortgage on something to do it," Nancy ad blunty. When Dana flushed happily, she added, "Oh, don't mind that. We're so used to them. An extra one couldn't make any difference. Besides, we live in the street—in the grandiose dreams of that used to be. Past glory should tisty anybody with a drop of meron blood in their veins. We netn't forget that noble Scottish ancestors spilled their blood all or foreign battlefields and our cat-grandfather was a dauntless thern leader.

"We mustn't forget," Nancy con-nued mockingly. "That until 25 ars ago Camerons controlled the anks here in this southern city. iminated the county politics, had ll the best pews in the churches, ade the most money and gambled t away more recklessly than any ther family in the whole country-side."

"But this isn't 25 years ago. And I don't live in the present," Dana said.

"WELL said, noble and brave Scot. We'll see," Nancy smiled cynically. "Maybe you won't break under the iron hand of your grandmother, but I have an idea you'll be a bit bent in the process. Unless you run away, as your mother did."

Dana said, her voice trembling: "How can you talk so lightly of my mother—your mother, too?"

"Yes," the other girl answered slowly. "That's what I can't forget, what I can't forgive."

Dana said breathlessly, "What could you know of her problems?"

"It's easy for you, who had her love, to understand," Nancy's lips curved in a scornful smile. "Remember, Dana, I was the one who was left behind."

As Dana did not speak, the other went on lightly: "No hard feelings between us. After all, we're pretty much in the same boat. Both fatherless and motherless. Both penniless, because my father fell in with the family failings and lost all his money too. And your father, from what I have heard of him, never thought it important to make any. So we both start from scratch here!"

She lifted a slim hand in a mock salute, opened the door and closed it behind her.

Dana shivered. Tears streamed down her cheeks. She thought: Nancy dislikes me. My grandmother really doesn't want me. I shouldn't have come."

Drive Starts to Revitalize The Pacific Coast Trade

By United-Press
SAN FRANCISCO.—Granting of charter to the United Trans-pacific-Latin American Association under the California non-protection law marked the beginning of a vigorous American movement to revitalize Pacific export and import trade. One of the first announced aims of the association was to throw its united influence toward an early restoration of international monetary stability. Leaders said they also planned to seek to devise practical means of modernizing and adjusting present "obsolete" foreign credit machinery to serve adequately present day requirements. The formation of the association was described by sponsors as the outgrowth of a nationwide non-political movement among business leaders "who believe that the revival of international trade is indispensable to permanent recovery and restored prosperity." Others States to Aid The movement was said to be sponsored by governors of 35 states as well as by commercial, industrial and agricultural interests.

Activities of the association will be directed especially to developing sound trade relations and business friendships with Latin America, Australia, Japan, China, Russia, Canada, Mexico, and all countries bordering on the Pacific, officials said. Gov. Frank F. Merriam, in accepting membership and honorary chairmanship of the Board of Governors, said: "The promotion of business friendship and better understanding between America and her neighbors bordering the Pacific is in accord with my views."

Seek Tariff Revision The organization sounded a firm note in announcing its objectives. Those objectives included the "use of combined force and influence in support of governmental and other efforts to progressively readjust the international discriminatory tariffs, quotas, exchange controls and other restrictive barriers which, by paralyzing and obstructing the normal channels of foreign commerce have contributed largely to the collapse of world trade."

The association will maintain expert business commissioners in foreign countries to develop exports and imports and to initiate mutually advantageous barter transactions designed to liquidate America's surpluses. Active negotiations for the release and liquidation of existing frozen foreign commercial important phase of the association's immediate work, it was said.

Exporters Want Backing It also will attempt to obtain government backing for foreign trade interests to aid them in competition abroad. Members of the association pointed out that other countries at present give support to exporters. California incorporators and directors include Albert D. Pearce, of Los Angeles; John MacGinniss, of Beverly Hill, and Emory E. Smith, of San Francisco. Pacific Coast headquarters will be maintained in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Eastern offices are at 30 Broad Street, New York City.

CAREFULLY SELECTED PROGRAM SHOWING AT ARCADIA THIS WEEK

The management of the Arcadia Theatre has very carefully selected the programs for the Thanksgiving season, trying to bring a variety of shows to Ranger in order to please the entire theatre-going public.

The lead-off picture for the week, "I Live My Life," is one of the year's distinguished hits in which Joan Crawford is superb. Different from any of the glamorous star's previous pictures, it casts her as a spoiled debutante whose love for a penniless archeologist redeems her. As the archeologist, Brian Aherne brings his finest performance to the screen, making the character a warm, charming and humorous dig of statuses. This picture shows Saturday and Sunday.

"Diamond Jim," the glittering screenplay based on the life of James Buchanan Brady, first of the super-salesmen, the man who made the gay "nineties" gay, will open a two day run on Monday. You'll see Edward Arnold of "Sadie McKee" fame as "Diamond Jim" and beautiful Binnie Barnes as "Lillian Russell."

The third big hit of the week is to show Wednesday night at 11:15 as our Thanksgiving show. This picture is "A Night at the Opera," with the world's most famous comedy team, the Marx Brothers. Many critics have acclaimed this their funniest picture, and say it is without one dull moment.

bered as the "most entertaining," Congressmen, Governors, a Washington senator and others spoke at a recent legislative ceremony honoring Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. McCraw, called in from the crowd for an impromptu statement, made the shortest speech of all. But it was printed verbatim by most newspapers, while long, carefully-prepared speeches were dismissed with a few sentences.

Capitol newspaper men who have covered speeches of various kinds for many years might give "the most eloquent" title to a Texas outside politics—Dr. George W. Truett, Dallas Baptist minister. Dr. Truett and Holbrook speak with the same air of sincerity although the minister's method is to use a modulation fitting to a clergyman rather than the vigorous tones sometimes used by Holbrook to drive home a point in the Senate debate.

Sen. Welly K. Hopkins, Gonzales, can hold the Senate's attention for long periods on even the most technical matters, by his clear logic and happy form of expression. Sen. Tom DeBerry, Bogata, relies on a homely and at times caustic form of wit to fix attention.

Sen. Clint Small, Amarillo, has won many a battle in the Senate by keeping in good humor, letting opponents wear out their attacks, and then replying softly and convincingly.

Sen. Ben G. Oneal, Wichita Falls, depends on knowing his subject from start to finish and the history of other senators on the topic.

Sens. Joe Hill, Henderson, and W. R. Poage, Waco, frequently carry their hearers along by their own enthusiasm. In the house of representatives, J. Bryan Bradbury, Abilene, would probably win the oratory prize.

WOMEN URGED "TO PRIMP"

WORCESTER, Mass.—Mrs. Arthur Marsh, former president of the Worcester Women's Club, advised all women's club members to "primp up and not look half dead."

Arkansas Land Is Attracting Buyers

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Land hungry Arkansas citizens lined up at the state land commissioner's office recently to obtain acreage by payment of delinquent taxes and a small office charge.

The state had advertised for sale 10,000 acres of land on which taxes had not been paid, bringing the rush of buyers who sought rural homes and farms as investments.

Miss Thelma Gordon of Albany Addresses Large Assembly At Masonic Temple

One of the largest gatherings to have been held by the Eastern Star chapter this winter, came as a highlight in happenings for the month when they entertained at the Masonic temple last night in honor of Miss Thelma Gordon, of Albany, who serves as deputy grand matron, of section 4.

The hall carried pretty decorations in fall colors and the outstanding feature of the program was the inspirational address given by Miss Gordon. A period of the meeting was set aside for instructions which also proved an interesting note of the hour.

There were 15 prominent visitors registered including the principal speaker, and Mrs. Elsie Enoch of Caddo, deputy grand matron, of section 3, and Mr. Conley of Breckenridge, member of the jurist precedence committee.

Hospitality committee enhanced the delight of the evening through the serving of a delicious salad plate and coffee to 60 guests.

son's trip took him to the Davis Mountains.

Mrs. Clifton Hyatt of Olden was a business visitor in Ranger this morning.

Mmes. J. S. Reynolds, Louis Pitcock, O. G. Lanier, H. B. Bishop, and Roy Wilkes, returned home last night from El Paso, where they represented Ranger organizations at the Texas Congress of Parent-Teachers association, which convened there Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Union Services For Thanksgiving Are Worked Out

Dr. L. B. Gray, president of the ministerial alliance of Ranger, announced today that plans for the program for the union Thanksgiving services, to be held at the First Methodist Church, had been completed.

Dr. Gray will preside at the service, with Rev. T. E. Bowman, pastor of the Methodist Church leading in prayer. D. W. Nichol, minister of the Church of Christ, will deliver the sermon, and Rev. G. W. Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will pronounce the benediction.

A free-will offering for the poor will be taken during the services.

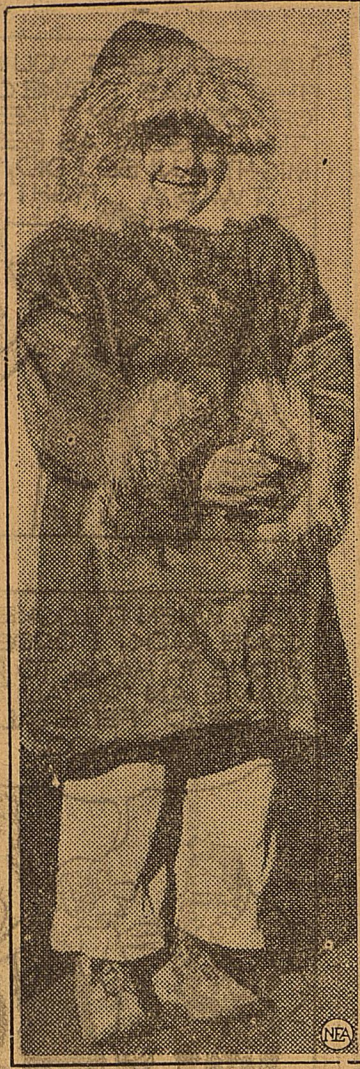

The choir will be led by the First Methodist choir, but all church choirs in the city have been extended invitations to take part in the singing, it was stated today.

"I Knew Diamond Jim"

(By Jacques Bustanoby)

In the Gay Nineties, "bigger and better meals" was as much the cry of the pleasure-loving public as "bigger and better movies" is the slogan for the amusement world today. Diamond Jim was the glorification of this Golden Age of Gorging Gaiety. Brady always wore one napkin hooked to his turned down collar, and another across his expansive stomach, which necessitated his sitting eight inches away from the table. His favorite dishes were porterhouse steaks, four inches thick, and canvas-back duck a la presse. My waiters had a standing order to serve double portions to Jim. Though he invariably opened much champagne for his guests, he never tasted any liquor himself. Instead he drank pitcher after pitcher of orange juice.

Matanuska Lad 'Goes Native'

Colonization in Alaska's Matanuska Valley may not have been so easy on his elders, but it's apparently "great stuff" to this cheerful young "Eskimo." With his new fur parka, this son of one of the American colonists can pretend he's a real whale-hunting Eskimo, or even Admiral Byrd. And is he thrilled!

It was an unwritten law that this epic eater must always play the host. Not even the big railroad officials or Wall Street brokers, who often dined with him, were allowed to pay the check. "No one who breaks food with Brady, is permitted to break a bill," he would insist, in his grandest grandiose manner.

Despite his 250 pounds, Brady adored tripping the light fantastic, and each time he rose from the table, his food had to be sent back to the kitchen to be reheated. He made it an established rule, that no woman who sat at his table could dance with anyone but himself.

"Diamond Jim" will show at the Arcadia beginning Monday.

R. O. Bradfield of Ranger Dies

Audience of Four Peques an Orator

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—Dr. Frank M. Dyer, candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination believes he will hire a brass band the next time he is scheduled to speak.

Appearing at an auditorium, to speak on a new water system for Binghamton, Dr. Dyer found present Frank A. West, organizer of the Well Water Club, a reporter, the custodian of the building and an audience of one—a woman.

The meeting was cancelled, but in case anyone is interested, Dr. Dyer has prepared a four-page typewritten speech advocating development of an underground water supply to replace what he termed the "sewage water" the city uses from the Susquehanna river.

Boys Uncover An Old Indian Grave

By United Press
BORGER, Tex.—Human bones, believed to be those of an Indian buried long ago, have been uncovered by boys on a hillside near the Canadian River, according to Constable Cal Baird.

The remains were probably washed from a grave by water or uncovered by erosion, the officer said. The condition of the bones indicated that the skeleton had been buried years before.

enridge, Ranger and Cisco will come through with winning teams, but Abilene and Brownwood should be the two most consistent stayers near the top.

But nothing is certain in football even from one game to the next, much less from one year to the next, and Breckenridge and Abilene could be fighting for the cellar positions by next year, just as Ranger was this year after three years of supremacy that set a modern record for the district. So don't quote us.

We don't know just how many men the Bulldogs will lose next year, though there are a number we are sure won't be back. We hope Lemmie Bray has another year, but don't know for sure, because if Bray is lost about 50 per cent of the 1935 defense will be lost.

Charlie Black, too, is the bearer of the following information and he says he has seen it, so knows what he is talking about. Black, you know, is attending Daniel Baker College in Brownwood.

Black says the reason the Lions have such a powerful team this year is because they are given blocking and tackling instructions five days a week, and are really worked out at it. The way the Lions blocked in the game with Ranger was evidence that they had received some instructions along those lines and their playing together made a Ranger ball

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fletcher of Kilgore are visiting in Ranger. The Fetters made this place their home prior to moving to East Texas, where Mr. Fletcher received a transfer by the Eureka Tool & Supply company.

Mrs. W. A. Hotman, Sr., of Abilene has been a Ranger visitor this week, a guest in the home of sister, Mrs. Blanche Murray and daughters, Strawn road.

P. A. Nelson is numbered among Rangerites who returned home this week after deer hunting. Mr. Nelcarrier look like a lone wolf when he set out and tried to go places without any assistance from his team mates. Blocking and tackling have been the main weaknesses of the Ranger team this year, because they just didn't have any to speak of and it takes both to make a team.
