G-Man Hoover Asserts Crime Now Is Definitely Decreasing

WASHINGTON — Crime definitely is on the wane, according to federal bureau of investigation director J. Edgar Hoover.

Statistics compiled from reports of police departments of 1,127 cities — whose combined population is 43,920,736 — reflected decreases in all types of crime during 1935 in comparison with previous years except for rape, Hoover said.

Hoover added that preliminary figures for the first six months of 1936, although not available in finished form as yet, indicated a continuation of the same trends.

Most marked decrease, he reported, was in the number of robberies and automobile thefts. In 1933, he said, 388 autos were stolen each day, while last year the daily number had decreased to 286.1. Also, he said, whereas there was an average of 125.8 robberies each day in 1933, this figure had gone down to 92.5 last year.

Totals of the reporting police departments showed 45,923 robberies in 1933, compared with only 33,747 in 1935, a decrease of 26.5 per cent. Automobile thefts in 1935 totalled 104,434, compared with 141,603 in 1933, a 26.2 per cent decrease.

"Substantial reductions also were shown for homicide, aggravated assault, and burglary," Hoover's report said. "The decrease in larceny was so slight as to be without particular significance. The figures for rape, however, indicate an increase of 15.7 per cent in the number of offenses."

Youths May Enlist In Army Now and Go to Fort Bliss

Between September 5th and 15th, 1936, 75 young men from this district will not only have the opportunity of being assigned to one of the most desirable posts in the army, Fort Bliss, Texas, but also of becoming a very important part of mobilization plans for reserve officers at that post, according to Major Sidney J. Cutler, in charge of the Dallas recruiting district with headquarters at 462 Federal Building, Dallas.

Fort Bliss is located approximately six miles from the center of El Paso, Texas, at the foot of the majestic and historic old Mount Franklin range. Just across the Rio Grande river from El Paso is the city of Juarez, Mexico. Every convenience obtains here, both as to the post proper and regards travel between the post and the city. A line of the city trolley company runs to the main gate of the post at regular intervals. Due to the fact that this is considered one of the greatest all year round climates in the world sports abound throughout the year, such as baseball, tennis, track, football and basketball.

A first class gymnasium and swimming pool is also available for members of the post. The post is equipped with a theatre which has pictures nightly. Dances and other entertainments are held at frequent intervals.

According to Major Cutler, the efforts of the Army Recruiting Service to convince the public of the unusual opportunities open to enlisted men of the Army are invariably met by this erroneous conception, "Why, I did not know an enlisted man could become an officer." That the above is untrue, states Major Cutler, a recent issue of a letter from the Adjutant General of the Army shows that only 25 per cent of the officers are graduated from West Point, 8 per cent promoted from the ranks, and, we infer, that 67 per cent are young heroes of the World War. Also, we observe from the list of distinguished officers promoted from the ranks, that the opportunities for advancement of an enlisted man is only limited by his own merits and lack of perseverance and initiative. Under existing conditions, says Major Cutler, the Regular Army is allocated each year approximately 90 vacancies at West Point—cadetships, they are termed. These vacancies are filled competitively by men who have served faithfully and honorably for at least one year and who at time of entrance are less than 22 years of age, states Major Cutler, is an opportunity that should appeal to any young man with red blood in his veins.

Recruiting stations, in addition to the main station at Dallas, are located at Fort Worth, Waco, Tyler, Paris and Denison. Anyone desiring information may contact any of the above offices where the Government has placed a member of the Recruiting Service.

A Ray Of Light Shines Over Western Pacific

Like a tiny ray of sunlight in a gloomy and darkening world comes word that Japanese delegates to the Institute of Pacific Relations session at Yosemite, Calif., definitely indicated that Japan would be willing to sign a treaty with the United States and Great Britain to guarantee permanently the independence and neutrality of the Philippines.

These delegates do not officially represent the Japanese government, but there is reason to believe they are not backing an idea that is repellent to the Japanese powers-that-be.

Up jumps the gentleman with the cynical eye and says "Yeah—just the kind of treaty Belgium had in 1914!"

Yet when the present period of madness passes, the world must return to treaties and mutual arrangements that are more than "scraps of paper" to nations that are as true to their word as are honest men.

The fact that supposedly honorable nations have been tossing treaties into the wastebasket with sickening regularity of late does not mean this will always be true.

A treaty guaranteeing Philippine independence and neutrality would be of definite advantage to all three countries involved. To the United States and Britain it would mean freedom from concern about that particular corner of the Far East.

Japan has her hands full at the moment and for some time to come in Asia, meeting increased resistance from Soviet Russia and a reviving Chinese nationalism, and with huge chunks of Manchuria swallowed but still undigested.

Further, General MacArthur has perfected a defense plan for the Philippines that would make Japanese attempt at conquest a bloody and costly job.

So it is possible that Japan may be entirely "on the level" about a desire to stabilize the southwestern Pacific by making a reality of the dream of an independent Philippine Island group.

Certainly that is infinitely desirable to the United States, which looks with increasing distaste on continuing responsibilities in one of the hottest corners of the earth.

Just how hot it is may be seen from the fact that the chief importer of American munitions in recent months has been the Dutch East Indies. Dutch East Indies? What need have they of armament?

Well, it happens that in the Dutch East Indies are the vast oil reserves and storage tanks of the Dutch Shell Co., to a large extent British controlled.

Surely the Dutch East Indies are not increasing their naval air coast patrols because they think everything is quiet on the Far Eastern front.

Perhaps it is not too much to hope that the little ray of sunlight which shone through the insinuate meeting may sunlight which shone through the institute meeting may broaden out into genuine sunshine in the western Pacific.

As a result of poor crops resulting from the drouth, the real corn-fed girl ought to be worth her weight in gold.

If Spain insists on keeping it up, it would seem poetic justice to give all its bulls box seats.

Wonder How Our Yard Looks to the Neighbors?

Life of the Saint Of the Day

By REV. S. E. BYRNE

St. Raymond Nonnotus was born in Catalonia in the year 1204, and was the son of a family which was well fixed. In his youth he seemed to find pleasure only in his devotions and serious duties. His father, perceiving in him an inclination to a religious state, took him from school and sent him to take care of a farm he had in the country. Raymond readily obeyed and, in order to enjoy the opportunity of holy servitude kept the sheep himself and spent his time in the mountains and forests in holy meditation and prayer. Some time after, he joined the new

Order of Our Lady of Mercy for the redemption of captives, and was admitted to his profession at Barcelona by the holy founder, St. Peter Nolasco. Within two or three years after his profession he was sent into Barbary with a considerable sum of money, where he purchased, at Algiers, the liberty of a great number of slaves. When all the treasure was exhausted, he gave himself up as a hostage for the ransom of certain others. This magnanimous sacrifice served only to exasperate the Mohammedans, who treated him with inhuman barbarity till, fearing lest if he died in their hands they should lose the ransom which was to be paid for the slaves for whom he remained a hostage, they gave orders that he should be treated with more humanity. Hereupon he was permitted to go abroad about the streets, which liberty he made use of to comfort and encourage the Christians in their chains, and he converted and baptized some Mohammedans. For this the governor condemned him to be put to death by thrusting a stake into his body, but his punishment was commuted. So long as he saw souls in danger of perishing eternally, he thought he had yet done nothing. St. Raymond had no more money to employ in releasing poor captives, and to speak to a Mohammedan upon the subject of religion was death. He could, however, still exert his endeavors with hopes of some success, or of dying a martyr of charity. He therefore resumed his former method of instructing and exhorting both the Christians and the infidels. The governor, who was enraged, ordered our saint to be barbarously tortured and imprisoned till his ransom was brought by some religious men of his Order, who were sent with it by St. Peter.

Business Men In Forties Warned Not to Overplay

NEW YORK—The average American business man of two score years or more who works at high speed five days of the week and then plays at the same speed on his week-end vacation in the summer is endangering his health and becoming a weak insurance risk.

Such is the opinion of four nationally known figures of the sports world, Dr. George Moore, trainer of athletes of the University of Pittsburgh; Mickey Cochran, manager of the Detroit Tigers; Charles Atlas, noted American physical culturist, and Paul Runyan, the country's conscientious physical training golf pro and winner of numerous American titles.

Citing his reasons why the "flabby at forty" should "watch his step" in his endeavor to crowd in all the recreation he can in a single day, Dr. Moore said, "He should not keep late hours and should not overeat. Exercising regularly is as much a necessity as sun and fresh air."

Overeating, over-exercising and lack of sufficient sleep are doubly dangerous in the summer to the average man in the opinion of Atlas, who says, "Over-exertion should be watched closely. In participating in sports under the hot rays of the sun the failure to observe these three rules of health can prove appalling to the body and prostration from heat can result."

Cochran said, "If the business man is going to tax his body with strenuous action only once a week then he should endeavor to take some other regular exercise as well."

"Take it easy," says Runyan, "Upon his return to Spain he was nominated Cardinal by Pope Gregory IX, and the Pope, being desirous to have so holy a man about his person, sent for him to come to Rome. The saint obeyed, but went no further than Cardona, when he was seized with a violent fever which proved mortal. He died on the 31st of August, in the year 1240, being at that time thirty-seven years of age."

Author's Note: Owing to other pressing duties at the present time, this will be the last of the series on the lives of the Saint of the Day. However, I do wish to thank those who have been interested enough to encourage me in this work, and hope that soon I may find my way clear to again resume this most worthy and educational endeavor. REV. S. E. BYRNE.

SHAVERTOWN, Pa.—A remarkable apple is growing in the orchard of John Witzick. The fruit, a large, healthy specimen, sprouted from a large limb that was broken from the tree three years ago and hangs by a piece of bark.

BEGIN HERE TODAY JUDITH HOWARD has been engaged to STEPHEN FOWLER for four years. She wants to be married and keep her job in a business office but Steve will not hear to this.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

STEVE stood towering, still white with rage, while Toby Lynch rubbed the side of his face with a trembling palm.

Bob rushed forward, grabbing Steve's half-raised arm. "Good Lord, Steve! Hang onto yourself! Toby didn't mean anything."

Steve paused. "You really meant it when you said we were through?" he asked. "I—yes, Steve," Judith told him. "I really meant it."

STEVE grinned. But it was a stubborn, sober grin; and it was a grin at Bob's enthusiasm rather than an agreement with his principles. "Sure, Bob. But girls were different in your grandmother's day. The whole world was different."

"All right. You're entitled to your opinion, and I'm entitled to mine. My idea is that the world isn't so much different now from what it was then. Certainly people aren't any different."

The argument might have gone on, but just then Toby emerged from the bathroom looking quite recovered—but none the less sheepish. He walked straight toward Steve.

With genuine sincerity Steve Fowler took Lynch's hand. "Forget it, Toby. I've been overly touchy on the subject lately. I'm to the one who should apologize."

Steve colored. "I'm afraid it was worse than—an argument, Judith."

Steve looked instantly horrified. "Judith! You don't mean that. You—you can't have any idea of what—of why I got sore at Lynch."

Steve stepped back as if from a blow. "You mean to say you've known it—and yet you let him come here?"

"He comes here with Virginia and Bob," Judith reminded him quietly, "and Virginia and Bob are my friends."

Steve looked down at her, non-plussed and bitter. "I can't figure you out at all, Judith."

"I... yes, Steve. I really meant it."

The door opened and closed. Through filmed eyes Judith saw the knob turn as he released it. (To Be Continued)

More Drought Is Ahead for Midwest A Survey Shows

WASHINGTON. — The North Central States probably will have several more years of drought before the weather pendulum again swings toward increased precipitation, according to studies made by the Smithsonian Institution.

Detailed studies made by Abbot of Lake Huron showed that in 1837-38 its level was very high, indicating heavy rainfall. Then it declined steadily until the 1848 drought. Rainfall then increased steadily for five years. Then there was a minor decline, followed by another upward swing until the end of the 23-year period.

Delinquency Said To Be Result of Neglect of Misfits

HOUSTON, Tex. — Neglect of "misfits" is responsible for child delinquency, according to Edwin D. Faber, social worker for 30 years and superintendent of Wolff Memorial Home. "Twenty per cent of students in the public schools today are not receiving proper training," Faber said. "All officials can think of is academic studies." He believes children who fail to comprehend academic training, should be given "properly directed" vocational courses. School boards which have spent huge sums for vocational equipment concern themselves chiefly with the training of "experts," Faber asserted. "The average boy in a vocational school today will go from there to Texas A. & M. or some other college," he said. "What we need is some basic training for the type of boy who just does not have it in him to become an expert." He also criticized the lack of vocational training in reform schools.

CAVALCADE BRINGS TEXAS HISTORY TO LIFE

DALLAS, Texas, August—Cavalcade of Texas, one of the "must see" things at the Texas Centennial Exposition, recreates the hilarious spirit of the Big Bend country in the above scene in the Jersey Lilly saloon when Judge Roy Bean was all the law there was West of the Pecos. Just below are the famous Wilson Clydesdales, valued at $100,000, drawing one of the covered wagons across the largest stage on earth; lower left, a tragic moment during the Comanche attack on Fort Parker in 1836; Lorraine Meeks, at right, member of the cast, dressed as a lovely Spanish senorita, wears a comb brought from Spain by her ancestors a century ago. And below, still the crowds come, jamming the entrance at every performance, waiting to see one of the greatest shows on earth at the Texas Centennial Exposition—Cavalcade of Texas.

HI-DE-HO ROMEO

Adolphe Menjou goes from hi-de-ho-ing to Romeoing with Alice Faye in the new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "Sing, Baby, Sing," which ends its engagement today at the Arcadia Theatre. "Reasonably sure that Robertson died of hydrophobia but it is not known definitely however. If he didn't, then his death was caused by some disease of which we know nothing." First doubts that Robertson died of hydrophobia were raised when it was learned he had been bitten or scratched by a dog. Last March he had dug up a den of civet cats and his family supposed he had contracted the disease at that time. Twenty-seven persons are taking the Pasteur treatment after coming in contact with Robertson.

Doctors Puzzled Over Man's Death

EL PASO, Tex. — Physicians here were puzzled over the death of John Robertson, 31-year-old farmer who apparently died of hydrophobia, but whose brain did not disclose the ordinary and expected germs of the dread disease. Dr. W. Waite, who performed the autopsy, said the germs found in Robertson's brain were "Negri Bodies," cause of hydrophobia in animals, but not the same as those causing it in humans.

Cattle Shipments Show a Decrease

AUSTIN, Tex.—Live stock shipments from Texas to the Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during July were sharply below those of the like month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Total shipments of all classes of live stock, 2,655 cars, were 32.4 per cent below the 3,928 cars shipped during July last year, the Bureau reported. Aggregate shipments for the first seven months, 35,407 cars, were, however, still 6 per cent above the 33,454 cars shipped during the corresponding period last year.

Percentage changes in shipments compared with July, 1935, varied widely with the different classes of live stock. Cattle shipments, 1,592 cars, were 44 per cent under the 2,853 cars in July last year; calf shipments, 460 cars, 23.6 per cent below the 602 cars a year ago; sheep forwardings, 204 cars, 40 per cent below the 345 cars of July last year. On the other hand, hog shipments, 399 cars, were 212 per cent greater than in July last year, when only 128 cars moved. "It is probable that the decline in Texas cattle, calf and sheep shipments was largely due to price weakness resulting from distress marketing of these classes of animals in the drought region of the Great Plains," Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau, pointed out. "On the other hand, hog prices have risen sharply in recent weeks and thus stimulated marketings. Only 53 cars of hogs were brought into Texas from interstate points, against 63 cars in July last year.

"Texas cattlemen are obviously in position to hold their live stock from present glutted markets and thus reap advantage both from improvement in quality and increase in price later in the season."

Stills Are Busy Distilling Corn

ATLANTA, Ga.—Repeal of prohibition has failed to stop the manufacture of moonshine whiskey in the wooded hills, valleys and marshlands of the southeastern section of the United States. Extent of the manufacture of illegal whiskey in Georgia and bordering states, noted for their "white shine" in prohibition days, was revealed by the current report of R. E. Tuttle, district supervisor of the federal alcohol tax unit. Tuttle's agents destroyed 221,755 gallons of mash and 6,359 gallons of "cawn" whiskey in Georgia, Florida, Alabama and South Carolina during July. A third of the stills were in Georgia.

Rider Covers 450 Miles In 11 Days

SAN FRANCISCO — Reminiscent of the days when the railroad and the auto did not exist, Sheldon D. Smith of Alturas, Cal., has completed a 450 mile horseback ride from that city here. It took him 11 days, at an average speed of 35 miles a day, with the exception of the last when he covered 65 miles to attain his goal. The object of his trip, Smith declares, was merely that as he wanted to move to San Francisco, and as he did not want to part with his horse, he sent the family by train and rode the horse. The only advantage, he admits, that he had over automobiles lay in the fact that while they were compelled to remain on the good roads, he was able to take all the short cuts and bad roads which enabled him to cut the distance if not increase the speed.

Poultry and Egg Shipments Down

AUSTIN, Tex.—As usual at this season of the year, interstate marketings of poultry and eggs were light during July, but they were considerably above those of a year ago on a percentage basis, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported. Interstate shipment of both poultry and eggs totaled 63 cars, as compared with 45 cars last year, an increase of 40 per cent. Of these shipments 33 cars were poultry, as compared with 12 cars last year; and 30 cars were eggs, as compared with 33 cars a year ago. Interstate receipts of eggs totaled 9 cars, as compared with 6 cars in July last year. Seven cars came from Kansas and one car each from Louisiana and Illinois. Last year 5 cars were brought in from Kansas and one car from Illinois.

Meter Blushes As It Tests Breath

By United Press SYRACUSE, N. Y.—An "Alkameter" which "blushes" a rosy red when it encounters an alcohol breath is one of the latest inventions for detecting secret tipplers. Frank J. DeKewai and Harry E. Spencer, inventors of the device, say it is immune to cloves, mints, onions or other "camouflages" and can sniff out the fumes of alcohol despite the culprit's ability to say rapidly and with perfect accuracy, "Simple Simon picked a peck of pickled peppers." The "Alkameter" is about 14 inches long, almost flat and 4 inches wide. At one end is a tube through which the suspect blows his breath and at the other a copper coil to which is attached a bottle of colorless liquid. The colorless liquid is the secret of the invention. If the suspect has imbibed, the liquid turns a brilliant rosy red. If he is sincere in his protestations of innocence the liquid remains colorless. Police who tested the device admitted it worked but were insistent it did not tell "When is a man drunk?"
