Murder Charges In Threet Case Dismissed

Officers Elected for Local Red Cross

At a meeting of the members of the local Red Cross this morning, held in the Chamber of Commerce office, D. T. Bridge, national representative was present and talked to the group on the work of the national organization. Among other interesting facts stated by Mr. Bridge was that the last two years' roll calls had shown a large increase over previous years.

Hal Hunter, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting. Mrs. W. D. Conway, local chairman, was present and stated that she believed the local organization should be completed. After some discussion Floyd Killingsworth was elected vice chairman and J. E. Merooney was elected secretary-treasurer.

This means that Ranger is a duly authorized branch of the Eastland County chapter. When Ranger puts on a roll call all monies collected except the small part that goes to the national organization will remain in Ranger on deposit in the local bank. The local officers may expend this money as the need arises. Heretofore, all purchases made had to be passed on and paid out of the county office at Cisco.

Dr. Gray to Begin Seventh Year As Presbyterian Pastor

Next Sunday marks the beginning of the seventh year of Dr. Gray's pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Ranger. He has made his home in Ranger about two and a half years of that time. Every member and friend of the church should be present next Sunday. This is the longest pastorate the church has enjoyed in many years.

Next Sunday also begins the fall campaign in church work. Vacation season is past; business activities are being renewed; school opens next week.

"How fitting that the church of the living God be given its fair share in our thought and energy," Dr. Gray said. "Let's begin all over again, and really give God and His church their proper place—in His divine revelation, and in the church home which we have chosen. Let's begin all over again."

Replaces Olson in Senate Race

A power for years in liberal and radical councils of the northwest, Rep. Ernest Lundeen, above, will be the Farmer-Labor party's candidate for U. S. senator from Minnesota as result of the death of Gov. Floyd B. Olson, who had been chosen as the nominee. Lundeen is serving his third term in the House.

Texas' Quota For Democratic Race Is Set at $250,000

AUSTIN—District and county organizations are now active in raising their quotas for the $250,000 campaign fund in behalf of Roosevelt and Garner, it was announced by Roy Mills, director of organization and finance for the Democratic national campaign in Texas. Dinners, luncheons and other meetings have been planned all over the state, indicating the enthusiasm with which Democrats are launching the drive.

Already two counties, Duval and Bosque, have turned in their full quotas, $560 for the former and $988 for the latter. Archie Parr, former state senator, who looked after the Duval collections, is one of the original Roosevelt men in Texas. Vice President Garner and Miller held a conference at Uvalde when the state-wide drive started and he approved the Texas plans, predicting Roosevelt will be elected with ease, but that Texas must and will do her part.

No county has been allocated less than $100. Harris is highest in the list, with $30,000, while Dallas is second with $25,000. Pecos is third with $20,000, Tarrant, fourth, $15,000. The campaign committee based each county quota at 20 cents a vote cast in the July Democratic primary.

Even before the drive began many contributions were received at headquarters, all the way from $1 to the $10,000 given by Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, National Committeewoman from Texas.

An unusual development, and yet not surprising to Miller, Garner and Chairman Myron Blalock, has attracted attention. Republicans here and there over the state are bolting and organizing clubs for Roosevelt, the first having been formed in Dallas, these Republicans believing since they shared in the benefits of the Roosevelt Administration they owe him support as a matter of gratitude and loyalty. And to prove it one leading Republican sent in a check for $500 for the Roosevelt campaign.

Eastland county's quota has been set at $1,442.

GOVERNMENT IS FORMED IN SPAIN TODAY

MADRID, Sept. 4.—A new left coalition government was formed today under the leadership of Largo Caballero, socialist leader.

The new government is composed of six socialists, two communists, one member of the republican union, one catalan, two leftists republicans and one basque.

The new cabinet is regarded as showing a definite move toward the left by the Madrid government. Since the outbreak of the revolution the extreme leftist element has struggled against their more conservative colleagues for control of Madrid.

Shattered Irun, inflamed and its streets littered with dead, fell Friday to rebel forces.

It was the greatest victory of the war for the insurgents and will be of immense practical and moral value to them. San Sebastian west of Irun will be the next point of attack. Its fall appears likely.

The whole north coast may fall into rebel hands. The government is cut off from the French border and will be unable to get munitions and supplies from that source. If they succeed in gaining the north coast the rebel army will be free to move southward and join in an attack on Madrid.

BEHOBE, French-Spanish frontier—Loyalists killed 50 rebel captives today, then surrendered the burning city of Irun.

PLYMOUTH HAD ITS BLUE LAWS AS STRICT AS THOSE OF SALEM

BOSTON—Salem's witchcraft laws were no stricter than those of Plymouth, it is revealed by a faded, crumbling copy of the "General Laws of New-Plimouth" as revised in 1665 and now on display at Harvard Law School Tercentenary exhibition.

Not only was death the punishment if "any Christian (so-called) be a witch—this is hath or conjureth a Familiar Spirit," but failure to worship properly, murder, manslaughter, sex offenses and disrespect for parents were capital crimes. Under the Familiar Spirit law, a spiritualistic seance of today would end on the gallows.

One of the laws reads: "If any child or children above sixteen years and of competent understanding, shall curse or smite their natural Fathers or Mothers, he or she shall be put to death."

The book reveals that Plymouth folk were troubled by drunks, profanity, night-walkers, vagrants and Sabbath-breakers. Whippings, brandings, executions or time in the stocks were punishments meted out.

Plymouth even had its counterpart for Salem's "Scarlet Letter." In the old law book the punishment for adulterers included two public whippings and the wearing of "two capital letters, A. D., cut out in cloth and sewed on their

ERASED UPON MOTION GIVEN BY ATTORNEY

Dismissals Mark Third To Be Given By Court In Celebrated Case

Indictments charging Mary Lou Howell and Elmer Van Cleave with the murder of L. F. Threet, Callahan county rancher, who died on Aug. 14, 1934, were dismissed Friday by Eighty-eighth District Court Judge B. W. Patterson.

Judge Patterson dismissed the indictments on the motion of Criminal District Attorney Grady Owens that there was insufficient evidence to obtain convictions.

At the same time Judge Patterson dismissed an indictment charging Miss Howell with conspiracy to rob.

On May 8 of this year, the court dismissed a murder charge against Clifford Doggett, 50. The court of criminal appeals April 15 of this year withdrew a former opinion affirming Doggett's sentence of death, assessed in Eastland county Nov. 23, 1934. The court of criminal appeals had pointed out to the court that the conviction of Doggett in Eastland county placed the defendant in former jeopardy as he was convicted and assessed 99 years in Callahan county upon a robbery with firearms charge.

March 18 of this year Van Cleave pleaded guilty in Callahan district court to a charge of robbery with firearms in the Threet case and received five years. He had previously been given a two-year sentence on a charge of conspiracy to rob the rancher.

Miss Howell was tried at Baird on a robbery with firearms charge in the transaction in which Threet was killed. The court of criminal appeals reversed and remanded a 20-year term given on that charge.

It appeared unlikely that there had been any developments save an exchange of ideas.

The Camera Never Lies But Liars Take Pictures

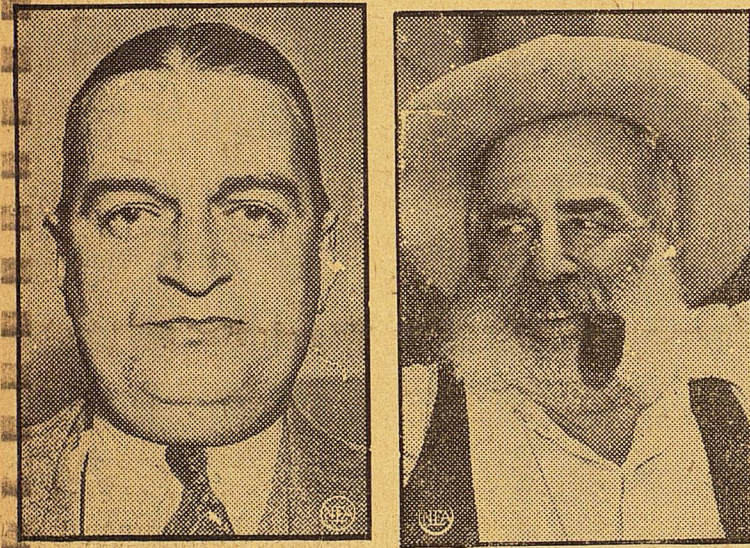

When the Republican National Committee shows its film of that sidewalk in Arcadia, Mo., audiences will be aghast to discover that the WPA paid $20,098 for a cow promenade. As the camera never lies, the evidence, of course, is indisputable.

The audiences will not know the charming little scenario behind the film. It will not be told how a movie director and two cameramen went to Arcadia to supply visual proof of a statement in a G. O. P. pamphlet that the New Deal built a sidewalk for cows; how they rented six cows from George Mayes for $25, trucked them into town at 5 a. m. and led them to the sidewalks; how they paid John New $1 a minute to supply the speaking part; how they were run out of town by the marshal when their object became known.

No, the camera never lies, but liars sometimes take pictures. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — Political headquarters in national campaigns are queer hodgepodes of extreme optimism, sporadic pessimism, nerves, jealousies, strokes of genius, prima donnas, sprinters racing in circles, overworked competent employees assisted by many folk who "had to be taken care of," rumors, and almost uncanny absences of co-ordination.

The Democrats have their national headquarters in New York City. Republicans have theirs in Chicago, and also an important eastern headquarters in New York.

Everyone in the metropolis gets excited over grapevine reports from Chicago that G. O. P. national offices are in bad shape, with jealousy and bickering rife.

But the Democratic general staff seems at least equally far from efficiency. Personalities enter in when it appears sometimes difficult to get good men to work there because of a belief that when you work under Jim Farley you tend to become a sort of glorified office boy, with little or no authority.

ONE rumor, accepted in both camps, is that tabulation of the first 50,000 votes in the Literary Digest's presidential poll will show Landon leading Roosevelt by a much more substantial margin than in any other sizable poll thus far.

The Democrats rely heavily upon the theory that none of the polls accurately covers a certain group of voters in the very low income groups, which should be expected to vote heavily for the New Deal.

They are watched closely by Emil Hurja, assistant to Farley, who keeps a private poll for the Democratic committee.

This year's Hurja poll is highly confidential, but it is reported that it now gives Roosevelt a slight edge.

WATCH out for a new organization which will profess to have sprung up spontaneously and which will announce it has been formed to defend the federal deposit guarantee system.

This will simply be part of a new Democratic effort to meet the "fear campaign" of the Republicans (taxes, preservation of the Constitution, personal liberties, and so on) with another "fear campaign." It seems that in 1933 Landon denounced the deposit guarantee proposal before the American Bankers' Association as "a greater blow to the ultimate welfare of the American people than the wildest inflation of the currency could possibly be." He wired Senator Capper, urging him to fight the measure.

So there will be a Democratic effort to build up a bogey to the effect that Landon would seek abolition of the FDIC and presumably cause a great national run on the banks in so doing.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

ROGERS HORNSBY conducted a class in batting at a Cleveland coaches' school. The following afternoon 17-year-old Bob Feller struck out 15 of his St. Louis Browns, one less than the immortal Rube Waddell's American League record established in 1908 and only two shy of Dizzy Dean's major league mark of 17.

Judging by that, Hornsby ought to confine his lessons to his own club, but, then, Feller, phenomenal right-handed recruit of the Indians, might have fanned 15 members of any outfit the day he mowed down the Browns.

Indeed, the Iowa farm boy might have equaled or bettered that total against the St. Louis Cardinals had he been permitted to go the route in an exhibition game on July 6. He struck out eight of nine Red Birds who faced him.

Feller has 80 per cent the best of it in launching what should be a long and brilliant major league career. This advantage lies in his blazing fast ball.

That's the first thing a scout looks for in a peagreen pill pitcher can be taught to curve the ball. A slow one and a change of pace can be acquired. Control comes with experience. But the hard one cannot be developed. It has to be there in the first place.

AFTER Feller had made Medewick, Pepper Martin & Co. look so foolish during the brief period he worked in that exhibit, Frankie Frisch remarked that the Cards would start the youngster the next day if he were their property.

Only Mique Gonzales, veteran coach of the Gas House Gang, found the slightest fault with Feller. "He is too much of an arm pitcher," pointed out the veteran catcher. "The strain on his arm is too severe. He's likely to hurt it."

But Gonzales and every other schooled observer knows that Feller gradually will get his 187-pound body behind his pitches, and that with his follow through will come rhythm, more control, and additional speed.

Feller made the most amazing bow in the history of the two major wheels. He outstrips all other boy wonders.

BULLET BOB, who did not pitch a single inning in the minors, carries himself like a veteran. His swagger is not affected. Feller, who learned to pitch pegging at a makeshift backstop on a makeshift diamond in the cow pasture of his father's farm near Adel, Ia., attracted attention by striking out 18 in a game in the national semi-professional tournament at Dayton, O., last year.

Larry Gilbert of the New Orleans Pelicans saw the contest and purchased the lad's contract from the Fargo, N. D., club of the Northern League.

The New Orleans club works with Cleveland, so the youngster was brought to the shore of Lake Erie when he finished his high school term. There he sold peanuts at the ball park and toiled for a semi-professional club on week-ends until Cy Slapnicka and Steve O'Neill considered him ready. He'll spend his senior year in a Cleveland high school.

The Cleveland club doesn't intend to allow a prospect like Robert Feller to wander very far.

DESDEMONA

A special meeting of the 21 study club was held Monday afternoon at the club house for the purpose of completing plans for the inter-community sing-song to be held at the Tabernacle on Thursday night. During the evening members of the club will sell ice cream, lemonade and chicken sandwiches. Quite a number of singers have been invited from other towns and with those here in Desdemona will furnish some good music.

Desdemona Eastern Star Chapter, of which Mrs. J. H. Jackson is worthy matron, celebrated the birthday of Robert Morris, the founder of the order, on Monday night. The celebration was an informal covered dish supper, the main dishes being fried chicken, meat loaf, baked beans, various vegetables, salads, pickles, pies, cakes and ice tea. There were about forty present, members, their families and friends. After supper they all went upstairs and enjoyed hearing piano solos and songs furnished by Misses Gloria Stewart, Ruth Crenshaw, Rubalee Keap and others.

L. C. Harrison of Cisco was here on business Wednesday.

Rev. E. M. Daily closed a successful revival at Kokomo Sunday. Good crowds attended and there was much interest in all the services. The last night of the service was marked by the awakening of many to their spiritual condition.

In last week's issue we failed to mention that Mr. and Mrs. R. L.

Black of Comanche were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Stover. They came especially to attend the revival services of the Baptist church and to hear their former pastor, Rev. W. D. Boswell, preach some of his splendid sermons. Mr. and Mrs. Black lived here for a number of years and they are always welcome visitors here.

Bill Askew, who lives a few miles north of town, came in Monday afternoon to visit friends. He brought with him Mr. John Hearst of Weatherford, who owned a large ranch near here in the early days. He had not been back in forty-three years. They visited Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass and family, and a number of other friends who were delighted to see him.

Mrs. John Mendenhall and her daughter, Mrs. Mattie Henry, drove down to Comanche Thursday.

C. E. Stewart and family returned Sunday night from a two weeks' vacation trip to California. They visited at Riverside, Los Angeles and several other places in the southern part of the state. They also visited the Grand Canyon and the Roosevelt Dam, coming from Phoenix to Glover over the scenic drive known as the Apache Trail, passing the mountains where the cliff dwellers lived in pre-historic times. They visited relatives at a number of places and reported a delightful time.

J. H. Rushing, Jr., returned on Monday afternoon from East Texas, where he visited old friends for a short time, and then stopped at the Centennial at Dallas and also at Fort Worth.

Everett of Olden has been with her daughter, Mrs. Stark, for the past few weeks and Mr. Everett and his son, E. H. Everett, and wife, came down to visit them Sunday.

Emde, and with their many old friends.

Richard has recently been promoted and is now superintendent of the shop where he has worked for several years. Urban Krapp, who had been down there for some time, came home with his mother. Mrs. G. S. Bruce also came home with her after having visited her daughters, Mrs. R. D. Hendrickson at Port Arthur, and Mrs. Bill McKain at Gladewater.

On Monday night of last week, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Davis returned from a few days' visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Henslee, of Fort Worth. While there they visited both the Centennial celebrations at Dallas and Fort Worth.

Mrs. John Mendenhall and family enjoyed a visit last week from her sister, Mrs. A. J. Foreaker and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hixson, all of Salesville, Ohio. They had been attending the Centennial celebrations at Dallas and Fort Worth.

Rev. W. D. Boswell left Monday morning for his home at Waco, after having conducted a very successful revival meeting for the Baptist church here. During the two weeks he was here, large congregations went to hear him and quite a number were converted to the church. On Friday morning a special meeting was held for the old people of the town, and on Thursday most of the congregation had gone to the home of Mr. Gregory, whom they gave a surprise birthday party as he was 85 years old that day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Rouse visited their son, M. T., at Freer for a few days last week.

They came Saturday morning after having spent Friday night at Cisco on account of not knowing the distance from there to Desdemona, and it was late when they reached there. They left Sunday morning for Fort Worth and Dallas to visit the Centennials before returning to their homes, after having spent a month at Yellowstone Park, and several places of interest in Colorado and New Mexico. Mrs. Yarnell's son and his wife had visited here one day in July. Miss Dorothy Yarnell is head of the English department in the junior college at Little Rock, and co-author of a textbook on teaching. Rangers Say Movie Streets Are Paved With Old Tin Cans

AUSTIN—The Texas Rangers' underwent hard scrutiny at a movie preview given before real Rangers when Ranger Day was celebrated at the Texas Central Centennial Exposition.

Veteran Ranger Captain Will L. Wright, Floresville, found the movie "Rangers" slow and clumsy on the draw. "They wouldn't have a chance with a man like Ranger Bob Goss, now stationed in East Texas," Senior Ranger Captain H. H. Carmichael said after seeing the picture. Goss is probably the fastest two pistol man in the present day. "He can present both pistols to you with the handles politely turned over your way, then flip them both around and have you covered before you can bat an eye," Carmichael said.

Streets Are Paved With Old Tin Cans

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—Tin Can Alley is a reality, not a name, in West Palm Beach.

For nearly 10 years Superintendent D. D. Howard of the department of streets and public improvements has been utilizing discarded tin cans for street building purposes, collecting the cans from the city incinerator. The cans take the place of about half the amount of crushed rock that would otherwise be used in the street base, saving half the cost of the roadbed.

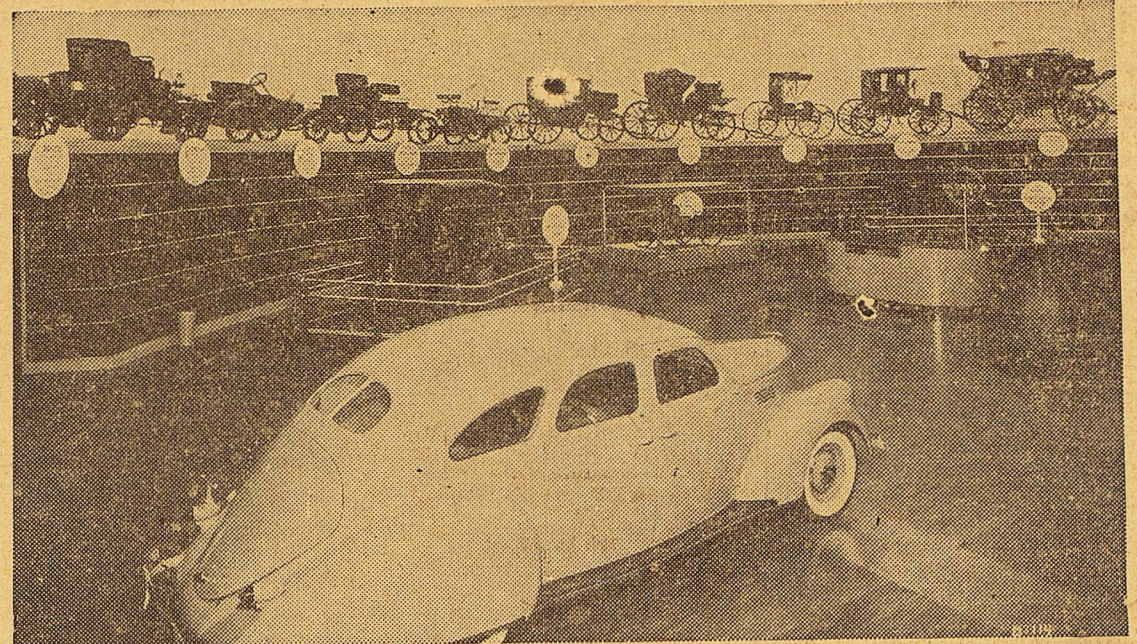

According to Superintendent Howard, they make excellent streets, and thoroughfares with a foot thick layer of tin cans rolled down to half that thickness are holding up as well as those surfaced entirely with rock.

Six months after the cans are spread over the roadbed and rolled, the tin undergoes oxidation and the cans are transformed into a firm, hard mass. The plan originally was used in California.

Officers of Britain's Queen Mary and France's Normandie, disputing the record for the Atlantic ship crossing, both say the opposition's claims will not hold water.

Pageant of Transportation at Ford Exposition

A pageant of transportation from the day of the early ox cart to the 1936 Ford V-8 is presented in the rotunda of the Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. Here is a partial view of the display with the first Ford ever built in the rear of the information desk and the 1903 model to the right.

Air Pioneers' Building Goes to Join Collection of Structures That Make Up Famous Village at Dearborn, Michigan

The Pageant of Transportation as displayed by the Ford Motor Company in its building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas shows only vehicles which travel upon the ground. However, in Dearborn, Mich., the history of transportation as portrayed by the Edison Institute includes aviation. This display is now augmented by another historical exhibit.

In Dayton, Ohio, Henry Ford purchased the building formerly occupied by the Wright Cycle Company and the laboratory in which Wilbur and Orville Wright designed and built the world's first successful airplane 33 years ago. Ford plans to move the building to his Edison Institute, which is the name of the combined Edison Museum and the Greenfield Village, constructed to endure for generations as exhibitions of progress in engineering, mechanics and the useful arts and crafts.

have become shrines are located in Greenfield village. Also there are exact reproductions of such buildings as Independence Hall, Congress Hall, and the City Hall of Philadelphia.

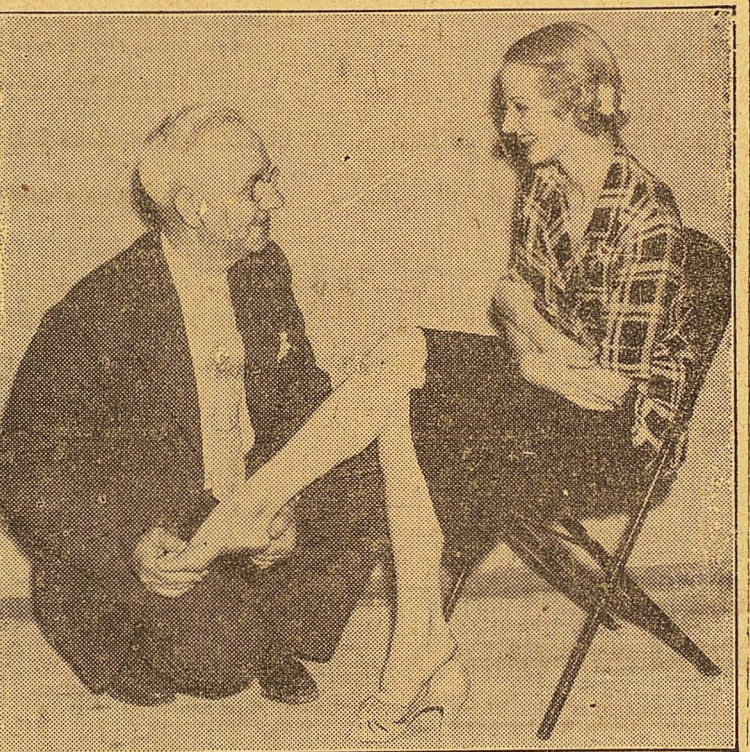

Nearly every aspect of the village reflects the life of the small American community of fifty or one hundred years ago. Among the buildings is the Clinton Inn, built in 1831 in Clinton, Mich., and once a stopping place between Detroit and Chicago. Nearby is the chapel of Martha-Mary, named for the mothers of Mr. and Mrs. Ford.

The original red school house in which Ford occupied a seat as a boy is maintained as it was in the early days of Dearborn. Nearby is the Lincoln courthouse. Outstanding to most visitors is the Menlo Park group of buildings, reconstructed from, or reproductions of, the structures in which Thomas A. Edison labored from 1876 to 1886.

Licenses Show More Women Are Hunting

WASHINGTON—Returns from the sale of fishing licenses issued to women and children in 1935 showed an increase of 10,977 over the previous year, according to Charles E. Jackson, Acting Commissioner of Fisheries.

Michigan, with 27,365, led all other states in the number of licenses purchased by women in 1935. Its closest competitor was West Virginia with a total of 5,506.

Utah in 1935 issued 8,962 anglers' licenses to children, and Oregon, 5,784. Aside from the twenty-odd thousand taking out the family licenses in Minnesota, there were 62,517 licenses issued to women and children throughout the United States during 1934-35, while only 51,450 were sold the previous year.

Canada Builds An Efficient Defense

OTTAWA—Canada's army is undergoing a thorough "house-cleaning."

Making public a long list of changes, the Department of National Defense has disclosed that the non-permanent active militia is being completely reorganized to give the country a compact, coordinated service in place of the present straggling, loose organization. Hitherto the active strength of the militia has been divided among innumerable regiments. All were under prescribed strength and some were moribund. Under the department's new plan, many of the units are being disbanded completely, others are being strengthened through amalgamations, and entirely new units are being formed. The changes, which have been in progress for several months, are part of the Canadian Government's plans to co-ordinate the Dominion's entire defense system.

Many Misfits In Industry Studied

LONDON—"Misfits" are one of many problems concerning workers in reports just issued by the Merical Research Council.

"The most important human problem in industry is that of misfits," states the annual report of the Industrial Health Research Board. "It affects chiefly those at the top and at the bottom; the former because many people in authority can do so much harm, and the latter because there is still time to direct their activities into other channels."

Groups of boys aged 11 from town and country schools are being watched. After they have started a career an attempt will be made to relate success or otherwise to personal qualities.

"It has now become clear that the day of brawn and muscle is over," the report states, "and that the present demand is for alert, smart, active men, more prone than their predecessors to errors of the mind." Such men are more aggressive and quicker to demand their rights."

Dr. T. Bouchard has conducted for the board an investigation in factories and offices employing women to find the most comfortable condition of warmth in which to work. He concluded that maximum comfort is obtained with an equivalent temperature of 62.3 degrees Fahrenheit where sedentary or light work is done. Seventy per cent were comfortable at equivalent temperatures of 58 degrees to 66 degrees, he found.

"Those who complained of cold feet," stated Dr. Bouchard, "were not substantially colder than the others."

Closer Checks On Tree Fires Possible

WASHINGTON—To help in determining the degree of fire hazard, plans for a cumulative humidity record have been adopted at Grand Teton National Park, Wyo., the Interior Department has announced. The region Four Fire Control Manual of the United States Forest Service will form the basis of the project.

Daily humidity records were started on June 11, using 37 per cent relative humidity as the normal average. Readings for an eight-day period thereafter indicated a slight excess of moisture over normal years. Further conclusions will be announced from time to time.

Two CCC camps are assigned to Grand Teton National Park and are available, at the first reports of forest fires, to carry out the technique of suppression and fire control which are among the duties in which all enrollees are drilled.

Infra-red panoramic photographs, taken for forestry technicians of the National Park Service, also are helpful in early detection of forest fire, says the department.

These photographs sharpen all outlines, clearly define the horizon, regardless of any ordinary haze present when the picture is taken, and provide a panoramic picture by use of which, checking with a map, the fire lookout can may quickly determine the location of suspicious smoke.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron. Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TODAY IS OURS

by NARD JONES © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY JUDITH HOWARD, engaged to STEPHEN FOWLER for four years, breaks the engagement because Stephen is unwilling to marry her and let her continue with her job. Judith is encouraged in this move by her friend, VIRGINIA BENT.

Next morning Judith Howard telephoned the hospital soon after she had come to work. "How is Mr. Francis Jarvis, please?"

There was a moment's wait while the operator consulted her card file. Then "Mr. Jarvis was discharged early this morning. His injuries were very slight."

But Judith's conscience wouldn't let it go at that. She realized she had been the indirect cause of the man's accident, and she wanted him to know she was ready to accept a certain responsibility.

When she had reached the offices of Francis Jarvis she was due for a surprise. They were luxurious business quarters, indeed, and she quickly discovered that in them the name of Francis Jarvis was important.

"I'm afraid not. You see, Mr. Jarvis was injured slightly in an automobile accident last night—and I was responsible."

"I see. Just a moment, please," expertly the girl plugged in. And apparently Jarvis was guarded by still another young woman. "Please tell Mr. Jarvis that a Miss Howard is here to see him. It's with regard to—an automobile accident last night." There was a moment's silence, after which the switchboard operator told Judith, "Please go right in." She nodded toward a beautifully figured walnut door.

Hesitatingly, Judith opened it, stepped onto a deep, soft carpet. At the other end of the good-sized room was a broad, flat desk which held nothing more than a green blotter pad and an ornate pen set.

"You wanted to see me about last night's little accident?" With a smile Jarvis touched the side of his head where a broad patch of white tape covered his dark hair.

"I'm afraid I was," Judith said. "I came to tell you how sorry I am—and to assure you that I feel quite responsible for any damage."

He looked at her amusedly. "Just what do you mean?" Judith resented his apparent mild amusement.

"Oh, please don't think I don't appreciate your thoughtfulness," he laughed pleasantly. "The bond business hasn't been quite as good as it might be, you know. I may hold you responsible, at that!"

"That would be fair enough," Judith said, and gave him her address and telephone number.

SMILING, Jarvis wrote it down on a desk pad. Then he tossed down the pencil and grew serious. "Really, Miss Howard, I think this is splendid of you. But I assure you that the matter isn't serious, and I'm more than willing to take care of the damage." He smiled again.

Francis Jarvis accompanied her to the door of his office. "Good-by, Miss Howard. And I want to thank you again. I'll be glad to have you drop in any time."

Virginia and Bob Bent were mightily interested when Judith related her meeting with Dr. Edén Harris. "It didn't take you long to get under way after you broke the lease with Steve!" was Virginia's comment.

But Bob was more interested by far in the fact that she'd met Francis Jarvis.

"You say he took your name and address?" inquired Bob. Virginia laughed. "Judith, just think! Maybe you've put yourself in line for a yacht and a garage full of cars."

"Don't be silly, you two," Judith admonished them. She did not say what was in her heart—that what she wanted, and all she wanted, was a Steve Fowler who would come back to her and say, "Let's get married, Judith. If you want to work, that's all right with me. But I love you so much that I've got to have you!"

HOWEVER, this Steve Fowler didn't appear, that day or in the days that followed. She did not even hear from the Steve who wanted to argue her into prolonging a mere engagement.

"I hear Steve's out of town on a business trip," Bob told her one night, his voice tentative and his eyes alert to catch Judith's reaction.

"I'm sure," Virginia added quickly, "that Judith's stopped worrying about where Steve is." But she hadn't. When the Bents had left, Judith realized this. She smiled at good old Bob's effort to make her feel better. No doubt he was lying about Steve's business trip. The chances were good that he'd invented the tale so as to explain why Judith hadn't heard from Fowler.

Then one evening, just as she and the Bents arrived home from the workaday world, Dr. Edén Harris telephoned.

"I want," he said, "a beautiful companion for dinner." Judith was delighted to hear that bantering voice. "Well!" she said. "Let me think a moment. Perhaps I can make a suggestion."

"On second thought," said Harris. "I'll make one. It's you. I'll be around in an hour."

He took Judith to a new restaurant in town. A delightful little place called John's Rendezvous, with a groaning table of Swedish "smorgasbord" to be dealt with before they had ordered the entree.

But before the entree arrived there was a telephone message for Dr. Edén Harris. He returned from it with disappointment darkening his usually pleasant face.

"I'm sorry, Judith. Emergency case. I might be able to return in an hour—and I might not make it until morning. Would you rather I took you home?"

Queer Talent Due To a 'Dual Brain'

By United Press SYDNEY, N. S. W.—There is a man in Sydney who can do two entirely different things at once, and do them well. He is Stirling Wilkinson, known to his friends as the man with the "dual brain."

Among other accomplishments, he can write different words and sentences with both hands. He can write the same wording backwards. He can also do two separate drawings at the same time.

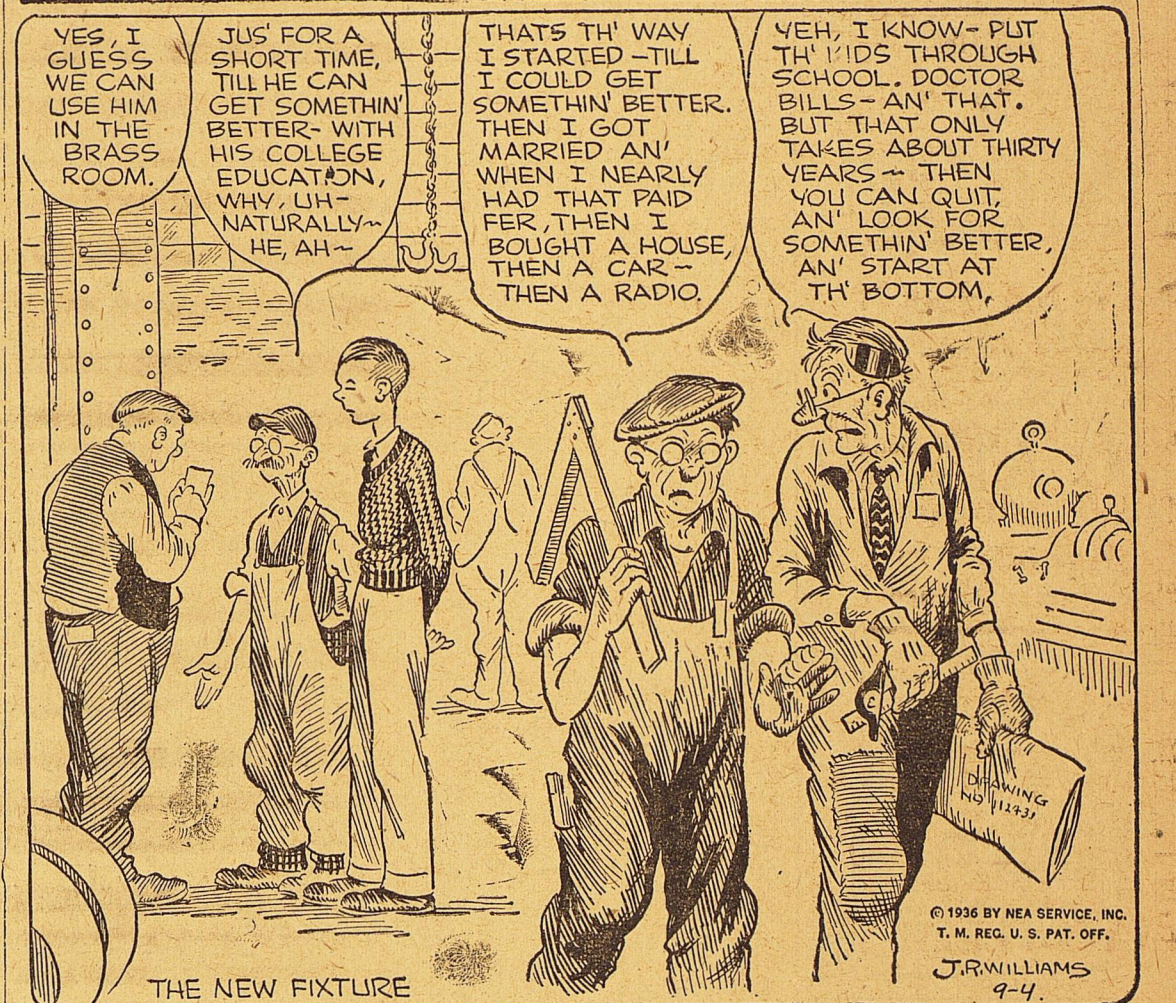

As a bookkeeper he will be particularly envied as he can make simultaneous entries—the figures with one hand and the items with the other.

Wilkinson says that he was born that way. As a child, he found that he was writing backwards with his left hand—to the discomfort of his teachers, who had to use a mirror to read his writing. Specialists who examined him, decided that he had a disease of the brain. To induce correct writing with the right hand, they strapped the left arm to his body.

When he entered college he jealously guarded his secret. After a time, he committed some misdemeanor and was given 400 lines to write. By using both hands at once he completed the task in half the time taken by the other boys.

The astonished master accused him of having another boy to help him, and then Wilkinson had to explain his ability to do two things at once. After that his detention was double that of the other boys.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O.
Courthouse officials are wondering. They issued 101 new motor car bills of sale and only three marriage licenses in a month. Apparently Upper Sandusky prefers autos to marriage. Or maybe it's because they are buying the cars to go elsewhere to be married.

Children Given Free Picture Show

Kiddies of Ranger and vicinity were treated to a free picture show this morning by D. M. Cooper of the J. C. Penney Company and 665 children were registered at the show ten minutes before the curtain went up at the Arcadia theatre.

It was one of the largest crowd of children seen in Ranger in several years in one group and several parents, with the assistance of the police department, kept the kiddies in marching order and there was no confusion.

Mr. Cooper wants to thank those who assisted him in handling the show.

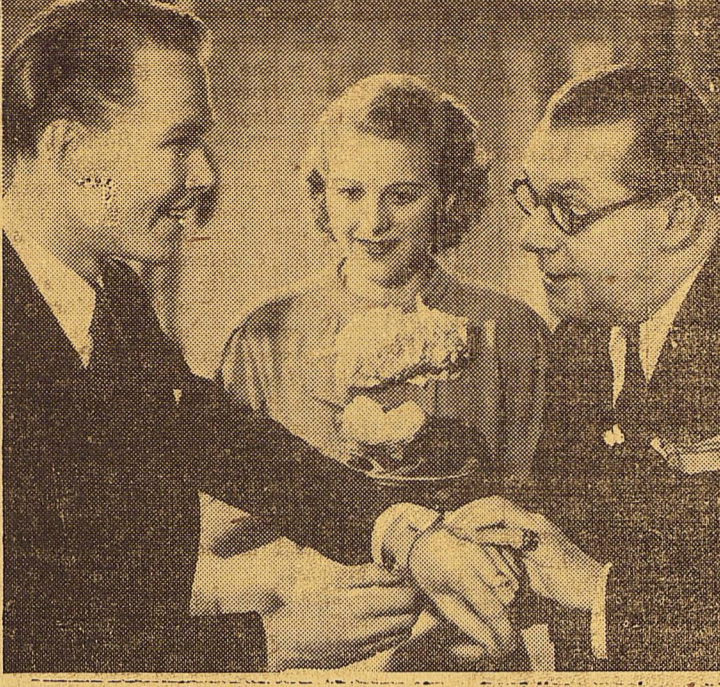

Cooper says children began arriving long before the store opened.

Questions that Some Folks Ask About Cardui Benefit For Mal-Nutrition
Thousands of women testify Cardui has helped them to overcome mal-nutrition and to ease many of the functional pains of menstruation.

"What is meant by 'helping to overcome mal-nutrition?'"
Cardui contains extracts of two plants which are classed among the "bitters" in medicine because they are known to increase the flow of digestive juices—to improve digestion—so there is a craving for sufficient food for the body's needs, and by their action more energy (or strength) is obtained from the food eaten. The food, of course, brings the additional strength, but Cardui serves as the means to this end by its good influence on the digestive system.
