Landon's Fundamental Principles

The only possible explanation for Gov. Alf M. Landon's strict adherence to what he called "fundamental principles" in his second major campaign speech delivered at Middlesex, Pennsylvania, is that he was not yet ready to discuss details. A full month after his speech of acceptance and ten weeks after his nomination, he displayed a definite determination not to commit himself on a single issue of the campaign.

That this is true was demonstrated in the blunt comment in the Old Guard newspapers on the governor's long-heralded effort. Some of it revealed a degree of disappointment that bordered on disgust. For example in the orthodox Washington Post we read:

"It was disappointing to those who expected a discussion of specific issues or an explanation of how he would go about attaining certain objectives and remedies which he recited, such as those contained in his assertion that 'The American remedy for unemployment is real work at good wages,' and again, 'The remedy for monopoly and special privilege is to do away with them.'"

"It is no longer a secret that several of Gov. Landon's close advisers wished him to be more specific."

And truly the human mind is incapable of conjuring anything more "general" than were his remarks. "We see men, women and children living in the home," he asserted. "We see that the family and the home are the foundation of national life," he continued. This merely served as a reminder that more than two million such rural and urban homes were saved from immediate foreclosure by direct loans from Roosevelt recovery agencies and as many more by the restored credit of private lending agencies. "We also see," he rambled on, "the heads of families assuming responsibility for their (the families') support." All of which we can recall having seen. And we can remember even more vividly that heads of families continued with that normal responsibility until 12 years of reactionary control in this country forced the responsibility upon the credit of the Federal government.

Naturally the independent press could find nothing credible in the essay. The Scripps-Howard papers treated the candidate kindly: "Our readers will give us credit for being patient with Gov. Landon," they said, "but this major speech of this major party's candidate is so utterly nothing that it is an affront to the American people who are asked to elect him President. There is nothing in it to take hold of. And we tried to foist a second-class candidate upon them. This apology is due first from that little group who built up the myth of the man Landon. It is due then from those ponderous personages who, one after another, made the pilgrimage to Topeka and returned home saying 'He'll do.' Because, on his performance to date, he simply won't do."

Another interesting point was brought out in the Washington Post's review of the effort in the coal and steel center, where coal and steel were not mentioned: "Gov. Landon's address was similar to that delivered before the Republican National Convention by former President Herbert Hoover. In essence, the Landon speech and the Hoover address of last June closely paralleled each other, with the exception that the Republican nominee placed a greater emphasis on the imperfections of the present system."

Weekly Sunday School Lesson
THE COUNCIL IN JERUSALEM

Text: Acts 15:1-35; Galatians 2

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

THE coming into the early church of Gentile converts brought problems that might have seemed easy of solution, but were difficult because the Jewish converts brought with them into their new faith in Jesus the faith and forms of Judaism.

Paul did not think of himself as less a Jew because he was a follower of Jesus. On the contrary, he believed that, in accepting Jesus as the Messiah, he was following out the teachings and prophecies of the religion in which he had been trained. Thus he said that he worshiped the God of his Fathers, though it was in the way that his former associates called heresy.

The most acute problem that confronted the church concerned the matter of circumcision. This was a rite that occupied much the same place in Judaism that baptism has occupied in the Christian church; and if we think of the Jewish converts as narrowminded and attaching undue importance to forms in asserting that the Gentile converts to Christianity should be circumcised, we need only imagine what would happen even today if someone proposed that baptism should not be insisted upon.

THE council at Jerusalem decided that it was not necessary that the Gentile converts should be circumcised. All that was required of them was that they should fulfill the moral law.
The momentous nature of this decision can hardly be overemphasized. It meant that, in the first great issue that faced the church, the decision was for reality and not for form. It meant that the new religion was to be as broad as humanity in its scope, and not merely a new sect of Judaism.

IT would be well if the church had always met similar issues with the same sanity of vision, and with the same largeness of view.

Again and again through less wise decisions of churches and church leaders, things "too grievous to be borne" have been imposed upon new converts, things that had little to do with the fundamental matter of true character and loyalty to Christ.
Christians learn slowly to put first things first. The history of the church is a history of elevating creeds, forms, practices, and sometimes prejudices to the place that only Christ should have in the Christian heart and mind and in the Christian fellowship.

Clipper Planes Not Ships By Ruling

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO — Pan American Highways' three trans-Pacific flyers, the China, Hawaiian and Philippine Clippers, will have to avoid resting too long if they are to avoid taxation in California, according to the latest ruling of state taxation authorities.

Attorney General U. S. Webb has ruled that the clippers are taxable in California if they are habitually at the Alameda airport.
The company had demanded exemption from taxation on the grounds that the transoceanic clippers were vessels and thus exempt from taxation under a section of the state constitution.

much as most of their travel is in the air. He also expressed doubt that when California legislators in 1914 enacted the present taxation law as regards vessels that they were farsighted enough to have foreseen and intentionally included trans-Pacific airplanes within the exemptions of the law.
The tax fight now hinges on the interpretation of what is meant by the word "habitual" as regards the amount of time the clippers spend at their Alameda base.

tion.

white ribbons will be awarded for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places respectively. In the past our Wednesday night and Saturday night exhibits have been very unsatisfactory, due to late entries and early withdrawals. The new rules are that:
"Exhibits will be accepted from 3 P. M. Tuesday, Sept. 15th till 6 P. M. and from 8:30 A. M. till 12 noon Wed., Sept. 16th. Nothing will be accepted after this hour."
"All exhibits will remain in place through Saturday night and can be called for Monday morning."
"There will be competent disinterested judges in each department who will judge and place ribbons as awarded between the hours of 12 and 2 on Wednesday.
Thereafter all exhibits will be on display."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By NEA Service.

DESSERTS made in ring molds always look attractive.
They're popular, too, because it's so easy by varying the center filling to make the dish seem different each time it's served.

"Hungarian Cream," made with sour cream, is a delicious ring mold pudding that never fails.
Fresh fruit, strawberry jam, and peach preserve are all delicious as a center filling. If you do not have a ring mold or prefer some other form, the pudding will turn out just as successfully.

Here is the recipe:

Hungarian Cream for Six 1-2 pint sour cream, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons sugar, 11-2 tablespoons gelatin, 1 teaspoon vanilla, fruit or preserves.

First, beat the whites very stiff.
Next, beat the yolks with the sugar until light and fluffy.

Mix the egg yolks, sugar and stiff whites with the sour cream.
Soak the gelatin in 1-2 cup of cold milk (use a tin measuring cup for this) for 5 minutes and then place the cup over a little boiling water until the gelatin dissolves completely.

Add the dissolved gelatin to the other mixture. Mix well.

Add the vanilla.

Pour the pudding into a mold lined with cold water and chill in the refrigerator about 11-2 to 2 hours, minimum.

Unmold, and if a ring-mold is used, fill the center with preserves, strawberry peach cherries, or any other filling you choose.

Another variation is to add 1-2 cup of preserves to the pudding before chilling.

This gives a pretty effect when unmolded because the preserves will form a ring around the top of the pudding.

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Uncooked cereal with sliced peaches and cream, boiled eggs, toast and coffee.

LUNCHEON: Nut bread and cream cheese sandwiches, minced ham sandwiches, salad of celery, pineapple and dates, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Melon balls, breaded veal cutlets, succo-tash, salad of mixed greens with Roquefort dressing, Hungarian cream ring mold with raspberries and sliced bananas.

This Hungarian Cream is lighter and much more delicate than any custard or cornstarch pudding.

Here's another recipe to dress up a simple meal—chocolate whipped cream to be used on left-over cake or as a substitute for frosting on a fresh cake.

Chocolate Whipped Cream 1-2 cup whipping cream, 1-3 cup sug 11-2 tablespoon cocoa, 1-4 teas - 1 vanilla.

Mix all these ingredients together gently with a spoon. Don't beat them.

The cocoa should be somewhat dissolved.

Let stand in the refrigerator for at least one hour and then whip the mixture with a beater until it is stiff enough to spread.

Spread over slices of left-over cake, thus disguising it as a very different and luscious dessert.

If the weather is warm, put the cream on the cake shortly before serving so that it will not make the cake soggy. This also prevents the cream from melting.

Joseph's Adding Furniture Line
Today brings to all of Ranger a news announcement which no doubt shall meet with much enthusiasm, and even greater enthusiasm when it becomes a reality.
For the past several weeks outstanding developments way back in the mind and plans of D. Joseph, have been to add to his already smart dry goods department store a first-class furniture department, introducing for the first time some of the most handsome selections one could possibly find in much larger cities than Ranger. Finding he had sufficient room by doing a little remodeling, he immediately began to draw the final plans. Good fortune brought back to Ranger just a week ago, Tom J. Cody, whose some is in San Angelo. Mr. Cody has had extensive training in the selling and merchandising angle of the furniture business. He not only knows its every important feature, but his highly artistic ability comes in for its share of mention. A few minutes in conference with Mr. Joseph, and a visit into Fort Worth and Dallas was approved as a fitting detail of their plans, and they left almost immediately for the two cities to view suggestions which were later chosen for their new department, which is slated to open in a colorful fashion on the evening of Thursday, Sept. 24.
A visit to this charming place is going to be a huge thrill for there you will see imported acacia woods, walnuts and lovely 20th century suites. It has been said charm within radiates from without. What is more impressive than a smartly furnished home? It speaks worlds for its keeper and serves as a daily inspiration for the finer things for which it is truly a foundation. Much could be said on house furnishings... and their paramount importance. Modern changes in your home is like changes in your wardrobe. It lends more confidence.
It might surprise you to know this department is going to be a deluxe offering of a general line. But a visit after its opening will be more convincing. Don't you think so?
Plan at this time to reserve among your happenings on the 24th—to attend the gala opening which is at the present being given every thought for a truly successful affair as all projects sponsored by Mr. Joseph are.
May we invite you to watch from time to time, for more news about the new department, which shall be given just as soon as authentic facts are offered by Mr. Joseph and his associates.

Many Freshmen In Big Universities Fail In English
BY MRS. HAL HUNTER
As the 1936 term begins, fathers and mothers with children of the college age are seeking a suitable college for their children. Wherever your child goes, there is that inevitable course in English composition that he must take whether he is going to be a merchant, doctor, lawyer or whatnot. Shall you send him to a large university, where, according to Dr. Fred C. Ayer of State University, 25 per cent of the freshmen fail in English, or shall you send him to a junior college where he can have the close supervision of his teachers and where less than 10 per cent of the students fail in English composition, not because English is easier in junior college, but because the untiring effort of well-trained teachers has helped 15 per cent of the 25 per cent who would fail in a large university, to pass. Rob your freshman of his foundation in English and you are hampering him in his very life, because he has no other language with which to express his history, science and engineering ideas.
Ranger Junior College offers 27 semester hours of college English, fully affiliated with all colleges and universities of the South, and six semester hours of public speaking. Her teachers are well-equipped to teach the students to express themselves effectively, and to make their English a permanent part of their equipment for life in the world of the radio, typewriter, telegraph and telephone.

Monkey Glands Are Popular With British Women
By United Press
LONDON—Englishwomen seeking rejuvenation from monkey glands outnumber by far the women doing so in any other country, according to Dr. Serge Voronoff, "monkey gland" expert, who is now visiting in London.
"Women of other countries are satisfied if their faces look young, but Englishwomen must be young," declared Dr. Voronoff. "They want to ride, golf and dance on equal terms with their daughters and even grand-daughters."
"It is possible for a woman, who spends a painless half-hour in having the glands of a monkey transferred to her, to regain 15 years of her life." Ten men undergo rejuvenation treatment to every one woman, Dr. Voronoff said.

Longhorns to Have "Starless" Football Team This Season

By PAUL MOOMAW
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex.—The University of Texas Longhorns can well be thought of as a "Starless" football delegation when they take the field for their 1936 schedule, and this, says Coach Jack Chevigny, is just what he wants.
With the opening tilt of the "toughest schedule in the history of football at the University" less than two months away, roll call reveals only 17 familiar names. Thirteen letter men have exchanged their football togs for a cap and gown.
Around these 17 men Coach Chevigny hopes to build a fighting team which will do credit to a schedule which includes such teams as Minnesota University, Louisiana State University, and Southern Methodist, 1935 conference champions.
With the 17 returning lettermen as a nucleus for his 1936 team, Chevigny points to a number of men who have been "coming up fast" and gave every indication of being able to fill any gaps when they worked out in spring practice.
A shift in positions has placed Captain Clint Small, Jr., Amarillo, in the key center position after two seasons of tackle play. As aides at this position Small will have Bill Hughes, Van Alstyne, and Roy Abines of Odessa.
Candidates for guard positions are not heavyweights, but are just the men to fit into "this style of play," Chevigny avows. Considered here are J. T. King, Houston; Howard Terry, Cameron, Lewis Loivier, Port Arthur; Charles Naiser, El Campo, and Albert McMillian, Eagle Lake. All men show promise of building a strong forward wall.
Four men will probably carry most of the burden in tackle position. Ray Keeling, Dallas, Nick Frankovic, Chicago; Lewell Butler, Wink, and Jack Landers, Comstock, all 200-pounds, promise to plug this hole satisfactorily, but standing in the ground, ready to step in, will be Robert Purvin, Dallas; W. L. Fromen, Houston, and David Bland, Austin.
Two probable starters in end positions are Jack Collins, Denton, who has shown great offensive and defensive work in the past and Walton Launey, Dallas, who will have many opportunities to carry on his fine work in this position. Hoe Roach, Decatur; John Peterson, Amarillo; Homer Tippen, Richmond; Ned McDonald, Houston, and Dave Johnston, Tyler, will be shock troops for the place and will probably see a great deal of service before the final whistle ends the season.
Prospects are even brighter in the backfield as a review of the brain spot of the squad sees the return of Ney "Red" Sheridan, Sweetwater, who worked so smoothly and effectively in the quarterback position last season. Bill Forney, Valparaiso, and B. J. Esunas, Washington, complete the list here, and promise more strength at this position than the Longhorns have had in years.
The parade of names of available for the left halfback position places strength were strength is needed. Bill Pitzer, Breckenridge, returns to continue his brilliant punting and plunging of a year ago. Judson Atchison, Baird, whose bid for fame last year was short-lived, will have another opportunity to prove that his early season play last year wasn't "just a lot of luck." His early season runs caused many scouts to warn other teams of his play, and may have been the cause of his inability to get started again during the rest of the season. Also ready to do in this spot is Ed Strout, El Paso.
At right half, Jay Arnold will continue to be a threat to all opponents. Only Arnold's temper kept him from reading with the top notchers last year, many unofficial observers believe. Morris Sands, Chatfield, will have another opportunity to exhibit his defensive play this year and ready to fill in the gaps will be Wallace Lawson, Cleburne, and Raymond Howard, Tyler.
Veteran Irvin (Duke of Wellington) Gilbreath will lead the attack at fullback position, and playing time will probably be divided equally between him and Hugh Wolfe, Stephenville. With these two men ready to "strut their stuff" for opposing elevens, Chevigny seems little worried over the functioning of his backfield.
Most worries center around the line. Many say the line can't stand up to the punishment which is bound to be meted out by heavier elevens. Ted Twomey, line coach, and Jack Gray, end coach, may have heard such rumors, but all indications are they will. When practice sessions begin early in September, match this show of brawn with brainy playing on the part of Coach Chevigny's "starless" Eleven."

Lunacy Wards In Hospitals Urged
By United Press
FORT WORTH—Lunacy wards in city-county hospitals were advocated today by Dr. Burke Brewster, Tarrant county health officer, as a solution to a long-standing Texas health problem.
Recent years have found Texas jails overcrowded with feeble-minded prisoners, unable to secure entrance at state asylums. He caused no room was available. El Paso officers reported conditions were so congested that violent patients had to be lashed to cot in jail quarters.
Fort Worth's county jail has a lunacy ward to accommodate nine patients. The number often exceeds capacity. Dr. Brewster said, necessitating the use of regular jail cells for overflow patients.
Dr. Brewster said that Dallas, New Orleans and other cities were solving the problem by using lunacy wards in connection with public hospitals. He would include such accommodations at a proposed city-county hospital here. At present, Dr. Brewster said, local hospitals will not accept a patient with a lunacy complaint outstanding even if the patient suffers from pneumonia or a killing fever.
