WEST TEXAS JUDGES URGE AMENDMENTS

By United Press
BIG SPRING, Sept. 12 — The West Texas County Judges' and Commissioners' association voted today to hold its convention next March in Lubbock.

Judge Alvin Allison of Leveland, Motley County, was elected president, succeeding H. M. LaFone, of Plainview. Allison served as secretary previously.

Judge R. A. Da'ee of Hartley County was elected vice president, and Judge Omar Burleson of Jones County, secretary-treasurer.

Resolutions adopted included:

That the legislature submit a constitutional amendment permitting an election in each county to authorize a fund for indigents with a tax levy not to exceed 25 cents on the $100 valuation, with which all relief would be financed.

That the members of congress and the legislature consider including Texas in a long-range water conservation program.

That the legislature provide additional hospital facilities for insane persons.

By United Press
PARIS, Sept. 12—Thirty-five thousand textile workers in the Lisle district reoccupied the mills today, rejecting the government proposal to end their "stay-in" strike for better wages and working conditions.

Dr. Wier visited Carlsbad Cavern, Butte Dam and also made several trips in the mountains. Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Wier, well known in Ranger, are doing nicely.

A Hint Eleanor May Turn Pro

In this abbreviated costume resembling a swimming suit, shapely Eleanor Holm Jarrett appeared with her husband's orchestra in a Chicago theater, apparently giving notice she will not seek reinstatement in the A. A. U. She was suspended for breaking raining en route to the Olympics, and until now has been careful not to capitalize on her swimming ability.

SECOND McBEE TRIAL IS SET NOVEMBER 2ND

The trial of Mrs. Raymond Henry, 30, on a charge of slaying her former husband, H. L. McBee, 42-year-old highway worker, was set Saturday by 88th district court for Monday, Nov. 2.

Raymond Henry, 25, husband of Mrs. Henry, was assessed a 50-year sentence April 5 on his conviction of slaying McBee. Defense attorneys have indicated they will appeal.

Lynn Smith, 29, is accused as an accessory in the case.

The state charged Henry with stabbing McBee at Rising Star May 1, 1933, and that the body was buried, exhumed three weeks later and hung from a tree to give the appearance of suicide.

The skeleton was found on the O. C. Broughton farm near Rising Star one year later by two boys.

A fourth defendant, Jack Smith, 40, brother of Lynn Smith, committed suicide in jail by slashing his throat in the county jail in Eastland.

By United Press

Plans call for graveling and general improvement of the road.

LANDON SAYS REPUBLICANS SURE TO WIN

By United Press
PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 13.—Gov. Landon predicted victory for the Republican party in the Maine primary election as he scored the New Deal's business policies in a speech here tonight.

Landon devoted most of his speech to demands for business freedom. The New Deal, NRA and farm reduction program "dealt out opportunity according to a government yardstick," he said.

The choice if offered between a government "prying into every detail of our business" and "forbidding us to plant what we want" and a system "free to plan for the future."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—President Roosevelt today embarked on the yacht Potomac, for a week-end cruise on Chesapeake Bay. He will return here Sunday night or early Monday.

Friends indicated the cruise will probably be the last until after his vigorous campaign for president.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The republican national committee charged today nepotism is widespread in the Roosevelt administration.

The committee declared the new deal has "packed and jammed" federal payrolls with relatives. New deal satellites have been given comfortable positions with a lavish hand by four cabinet officers and other government officials, it added.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 13.—J. Everts Haley, fiery liberty leader and state secretary of the Jeffersonian democrats of Texas, has given up his job at the University of Texas to wage an active campaign against the new deal, it was learned here today.

Election Contest Papers Not Served

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 13.—State Representative E. E. Hunter of Cleburne said here today he had been unable to get legal service on J. K. Russell of Cleburne for contest of the primary election in which Russell was certified as winner by 11 votes.

"Personal service is necessary," Hunter said. "The contest was set for Sept. 10. I heard that Russell was on a hunting trip in Denton county and went to the camp there, but missed him."

Unless the contest is heard before the Nov. 3 general election Hunter thought it would be useless to carry the contest to the house of representatives.

By United Press

Smash Talmadge Power in South

The political organization of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, last citadel of anti-New Deal sentiment in the old south, suffered crushing defeat in the Georgia primary when Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., incumbent, led the governor better than two to one for the senatorial nomination, and Ed D. Rivers similarly outran Charles D. Redwine, Talmadge candidate, for the gubernatorial nomination. Talmadge and his entire ticket went down to defeat in the primary. Nomination is considered tantamount to election.

Word Is Awaited On Drought Need Report to Shelton

No word on Eastland county's appeal for inclusion on the Agriculture Department drought committee's emergency list had been received Saturday.

Agricultural agents of the county sent a report pointing out the need of drought aid to State Drought Director Jack Shelton at College Station. The appeal was authorized by commissioners court. It was stated by some officials that Eastland and other counties in Texas are eligible for government benefits of the drought relief program if actual need is shown. That advice was received, according to a San Angelo paper, by Congressman C. L. South from the Resettlement Administration.

Davenport Leaves For Murder Case

George L. Davenport, judge of 91st district court, will leave today for Fort Worth, where he will preside in the case charging O. D. Stevens with murder.

ALCATRAZ NOT PLEASANT FOR EX BAD MEN

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Sept. 12—America's "big shot" racketeers and kidnapers are just "bad boys" now on Alcatraz Island, federal prison in San Francisco bay, O. D. Stevens, Alcatraz prisoner, now in the Tarrant county jail, said today.

Alcatraz is no pleasant place, Stevens said. Al Capone cleans the prison lavatories with mops and pails. Harvey Bailey, "brains" of the gang that kidnaped Charles Urschel, Oklahoma oil man, works in the kitchen. George "Machine Gun" Kelley of the same crowd works in the laundry, Stevens said.

Stevens spent 13 months in Alcatraz on a 20-year sentence for participation in a $71,000 mail robbery in Fort Worth in 1933. Last month he was returned to stand trial in a triple slaying that grew out of the robbery.

In July, 1933, the bodies of three men, Harry and J. B. Ruthford and Jack Sturdivant, were dragged from the Trinity river near Handley. The state contended they had been killed after the argument over division of the loot in the mail robbery.

Dorothy Oil Well Is Completed For Oil and Gas Pay

One completion and location were bright spots last week in the Eastland County oil picture. In contrast, however, was the abandonment of another.

After an acidization and cleaning, Dorothy Oil Company No. 1 Holcomb Heirs, three miles east of Eastland, was completed for 36 barrels of oil and 1,640,000 cubic feet of gas. Original production of the well was reported at 20 barrels of oil and 1,250,000 cubic feet of gas. The well, in which pay was reached between 1,485 and 3,508 feet, is located in section 1, block 4, H. & T. C. Survey.

Offsetting the Dorothy Oil Company well, States Oil Corporation staked location for No. 1 Holcomb heirs 150 feet north and 330 feet west of the southeast corner of the northwest quarter, section 1, block 4, H. & T. C. Survey.

After deeping from 3,530 feet, Texas & Pacific company's No. 17 Copeland was abandoned at 3,750 feet. Brought in about 15 years ago for some oil production, the T. & P.'s well is located in the J. P. Rohms survey about five miles north of Ranger.

Aged Man Boasts of Killing Friend

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—An 83-year-old man strode up and down his jail cell today boasting about killing his best friend in an argument over drinking with the latter's wife.

"I am not doing bad for a man of my age, am I?" Benjamin Watson asked.

By United Press
GOOSE CREEK, Tex., Sept. 12—Joseph Myers, labor consultant, from the federal Department of Labor, has been assigned to mediate the differences between Humble Oil and Refining company and employees who have voted to strike, union officials announced today.

Meetings were to be held here to set the date for the strike at the company's Baytown refinery, and to notify the workers of the strike committee's decisions.

Game Player

Tennis fans who were fearful of the effect of a dislocated thumb on Helen Jacobs' chances successfully to defend her championship in the national women's tennis tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., were reassured when the Californian spotted Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson of Boston the injury and beat her handily 6-0, 6-4. It is not expected that the taped thumb (visible here) will have any bearing on the outcome of the tournament.

LOYALISTS IN SAN SEBASTIAN ABANDON CITY

By United Press
Loyalists defending San Sebastian began to flee today, apparently preparing to abandon the city to the besieging rebels.

Militiamen, the backbone of the loyalist defense, were among those leaving the city. The loyalists suddenly gave up their resistance, although the rebel mass attack had not been launched.

The rebel drive in the Talavera region, southwest of Madrid, was in progress with the possibility of the turning point may be near.

The government recognized its importance by sending reinforcements to stem the rebel drive. If the rebels break through to Toledo the capital would be in grave danger.

On the other hand, if the government can drive the rebels back or effectively block their advance it will have won an important victory and be in a position to cope with the revolt elsewhere.

Rebels announced that their army is smashing through the strong loyalist defense line southwest of Madrid. Rebel dispatches said there were more than 250 loyalists killed and many more wounded in the first phase of the battle.

PLANS NEARLY FINISHED FOR ANNUAL EVENT

Entry Lists for Show at Eastland To Be Heavy, Says Chief Chairman

Plans for Eastland county's 10th annual fair to be held in Eastland for four days beginning Wednesday, were nearly completed Saturday, General Chairman H. C. Davis announced.

Davis declared that entry lists will be heavy in all departments.

Rev. Charles W. Estes, chairman of the livestock department, expects more entries than in the show last year. The livestock department was added to the regular fair last year.

Quarters for the animals and other exhibits are being prepared in vacant buildings one block east of the square on Commerce street in Eastland. The windows of Eastland merchants will be converted into space for many exhibits, Davis declared.

The arrangement of Eastland organizations sponsoring concessions on East Commerce street will be continued this year. Organizations who will sponsor the concessions were named Saturday as follows: American Legion, Lions Club, Knights of Pythias, Rotary Club, Fire Department, Boy Scouts, Civic League, and South and West ward school parent-teacher clubs.

Ranger is expected to furnish the program for the opening night. The general chairman announced. The tentative schedule states Rising Star as the sponsor of the program to be presented Saturday night at the platform west of the former Elks building.

One of the opening day features will be the opening of a trench silo at 3 o'clock that afternoon across the street from Frank Castleberry's business on North Seaman street. The silo was filled by E. R. Eudaly, dairy specialist of A. M. College, July 31. Each afternoon during the fair the silo will be reopened and part of its contents removed.

Friday afternoon the Eastland High School Mavericks will play their first game of the season against the Mineral Wells Mountaineers. The game is non-conference.

G. C. Kimbrell is assistant general chairman. Directors are John H. Harrison, Ernest Jones, Frank T. Crowell, L. A. Hightower, C. J. Rhodes, Floyd P. Mundy, Kimbrell, Albert Taylor, T. E. Richardson and Rev. Estes.

Jones is midway superintendent, John D. Harvey program chairman and County Agent Elmo V. Cook is chairman of the community agricultural exhibits.

Assistant county agents Hugh F. Earnhart and Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart are in charge of the 4-H club department and home demonstration agent Miss Ruth Ramey of that department.

Mrs. James Horton is chairman of the women's department.

Ed T. Cox, in charge of the antique exhibits, Saturday made the following request:

"If you have anything of historic interest, such as a rare gun or pistol, a photograph of an early Eastland county home or public building, or early county officials or prominent citizens, a copy of an old newspaper, a trundle bed, a spinning wheel or yoke, or anything more or less in connection with the distant past, please bring it to the Eastland County Centennial Fair this year, so that it may be exhibited.

"Good care will be taken of all these things and they will be enjoyed by everybody interested in the people who have passed on.

"It has been said, 'A people that takes no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never acquire anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants.'

Mrs. Joseph Perkins is working with Cox and it is her desire to exhibit antiques of the household, unusual clothes, china or handwork.

Free Speech Doing Nicely In Campaign

Probably no presidential campaign will have exceeded the present one in the sheer weight of printed material, the sheer volume of verbiage flung at the voters.

Whatever else this comes to, it engaged harvest-time to the people who are engaged in producing it.

Consider the case of J. E. Rockwell, who edits the Daily Independent of Murphysboro, Ill., a town of 10,000 in the very center of a rich farming and fruit-growing section of that state.

Rockwell has never liked the New Deal, and has said so in good straight terms throughout the last three years. His vehicle has been a daily column in his paper, circulation 3500.

A while back, Rockwell got to thinking about the New Deal and his editorials about it, and decided to reprint selected pieces in a little pamphlet. Apparently copies got into the hands of three persons who count at Republican headquarters. They were pleased with "A Country Editor Views the New Deal," and evidently felt it represented the Republican point of view in a peculiarly effective manner.

Result: an order to Editor Rockwell from the Republican National Committee for 1,000,000 copies of his pamphlet. Though Editor Rockwell has a modern plant for a town of Murphysboro's size, a million copies was something else again. He had to turn the order over to a city printing plant and be content with a royalty.

Printers, publishers and broadcasting stations are pretty secure against depression until after November. There is scarcely a night without one or more nationally broadcast speeches on the air, and the election still more than two months away.

Even the streets aren't safe, for you never know when a sound truck is going to pull up and start blasting away at you.

Already there are four books on Governor Landon, and New Deal and anti-New Deal books come tumbling from the presses just as fast as the rollers will run.

No one is so inconspicuous as not to be on a mailing list for one or more campaign propaganda sheets, some verging closer and closer to the scurrilous as the climax approaches. Temporary newspapers spring up like mushrooms, and Pennsylvania, for instance, has a Democratic organ in "We, the People," while Republicans angle for labor support with a "Labor World."

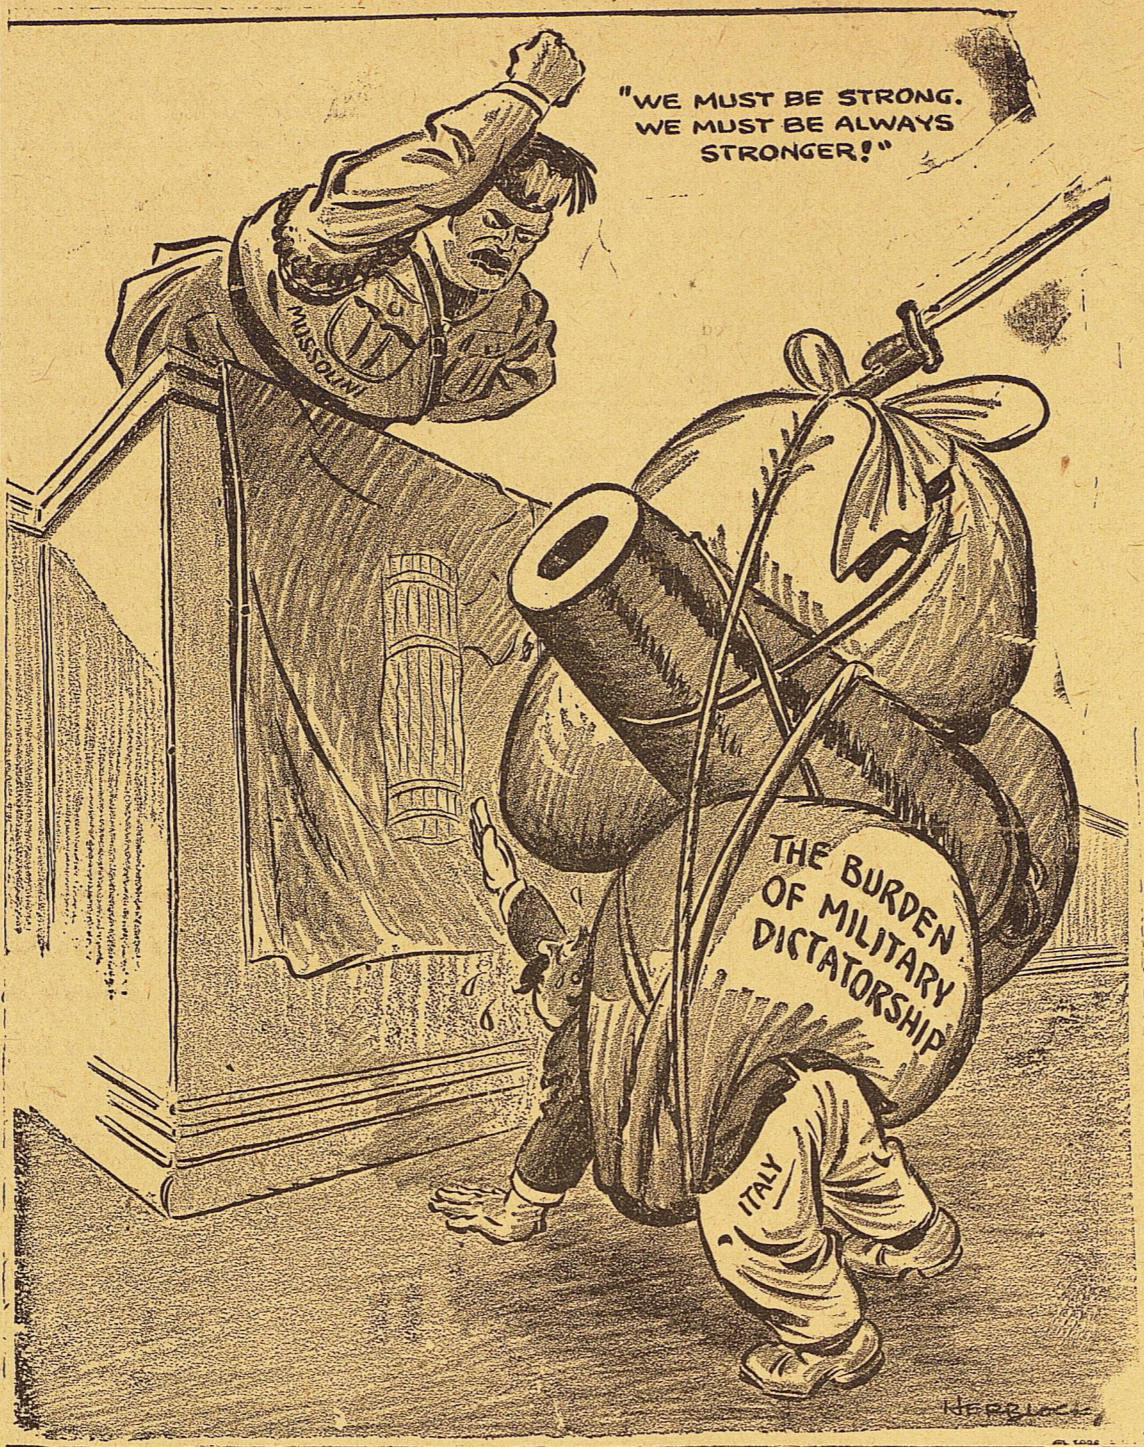

Novelties like the "New Deal Mazuma," distributed at the G. O. P. convention; rubber dollar bills, and animated cartoons lambasting Roosevelt, complete with pro-New Deal pictures like "The Plow That Broke The Plains."

It goes right on down to low tide in the scurrilous little sheets passed out on the street.

The campaign itself is going to be the best possible evidence that good old-fashioned American freedom of speech and press is still doing nicely, thank you.

A Hollywood actress' husband ran amuk because he was called "Mr. Polly Moran." A mob scene probably would result if somebody shouted "Messrs. Jean Harlow."

'You Said It, Duce!'

"When and whom will Princess Juliana marry?" had become a question repeated almost as often as a similar one about Britain's King Edward. But now it has been announced that the heiress (above) to the Netherlands throne, and Prince Bernard of Lippe, Germany, who met and fell in love during the winter Olympics in Switzerland early this year, are to be wed.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—The political impact of the death of Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota has been felt across the country.

Militant eastern labor leaders share with liberal and radical politicians in the northwestern states the belief that a hard blow has been dealt to their movement for a new third party in 1940.

That movement will not slow down, however. One clear effect of Olson's death is to put Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., of Wisconsin right out in the forefront as a likely candidate of the third party group.

Outside of Minnesota, it appears, Olson's death will have little effect on the Roosevelt-Landon contest.

Olson, a pro-labor, hard-headed master of politics, who once announced "I am as radical as hell," and who surprised the country by using militia to protect the rights of strikers instead of to shoot them, declared vigorously for Roosevelt's election a few days before his death.

OLSON will not be there now to throw his power behind Roosevelt. Lesser men presumably will take over the job. And that's a handicap in a very doubtful state. Bill Lemke, probably stronger in Minnesota now than in any other state except his own of North Dakota, may gain considerably as a result of Olson's passing. Yet, it seems to be conceded by most politicians that Lemke will pull away at least as many votes from Landon as from Roosevelt, and perhaps more in Minnesota. The Minnesota Farmer-Labor party has chosen Congressman Ernest Lundeen to replace Olson on the ticket. Until recently, at least, Lundeen had little use for Roosevelt and was friendly to Lemke. His party's state committee, however, is understood to have insisted that he support Roosevelt in the campaign.

It is not improbable that the Democratic senatorial candidate, Patrick Delaney, will withdraw in favor of Lundeen if the dominant Democratic faction in the state receives assurances that Lundeen will support Roosevelt vigorously.

NOMINATION of Lundeen preserves the radical character of the Farmer-Labor ticket. He is author of the advanced social security bill which has been opposed by the Communist party and various other radical groups.

There are two Democratic factions in Minnesota. One, headed by ex-National Committeeman Joe Wolf, has been friendly with Olson. The other, the so-called Ryan-Moonan group, is regarded by New Dealers and others as a "pro-Al Smith" faction, inimical to Roosevelt.

The two factions sent contesting delegations to the Philadelphia convention and each was seated, on a half-a-vote-per-delegate basis.

The Wolff group was triumphant in Democratic primaries when it achieved the nomination of Delaney over the Ryan-Moonan candidate. There are many eyes on Minnesota. For this is one of the key states in the development of plans of "radicals" for a third party in 1940.

Regardless of whether Landon or Roosevelt wins the presidential election, this writer predicts that the movement for that party will begin to consolidate publicly soon after election day.

ENROLLMENT IN SCHOOLS IS ON INCREASE

In spite of the oppressive heat and a holiday with which to begin the week the classification in Ranger schools has made a record for normal times.

"The cooperation on the part of patrons and pupils has been delightful, indeed. Some are away on vacations and others are away temporarily on work and these will be back in the city within a short time," W. T. Walton, superintendent, said Saturday.

The records show that for the first week: Hodges Oak Park Ward enrolled 357;

Young Ward, 255; Cooper Ward, 180.

The high school has far exceeded the enrollment for the same period last year. It is more crowded than it has been since early boom days with 417 registered Friday while last year during the first week only 375 had been classified.

The first week classification by grades for the entire system reveals the following interesting classifications:

- First grade—117
Second grade—95
Third grade—99
Fourth grade—105
Fifth grade—129
Sixth grade—119
Seventh grade—123
High School: Freshmen—166, Sophomores—97, Juniors—78, Seniors—76.

The opening exercises for the high school were held the early part of the week, with a good crowd present and much interest being shown in the school work.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. H. B. Johnson, after which R. B. LaMance sang a solo and Dr. H. A. Logsdon presented an address in which he described his attendance at a Hopi Indian snake dance. His talk was thoroughly enjoyed by the student body.

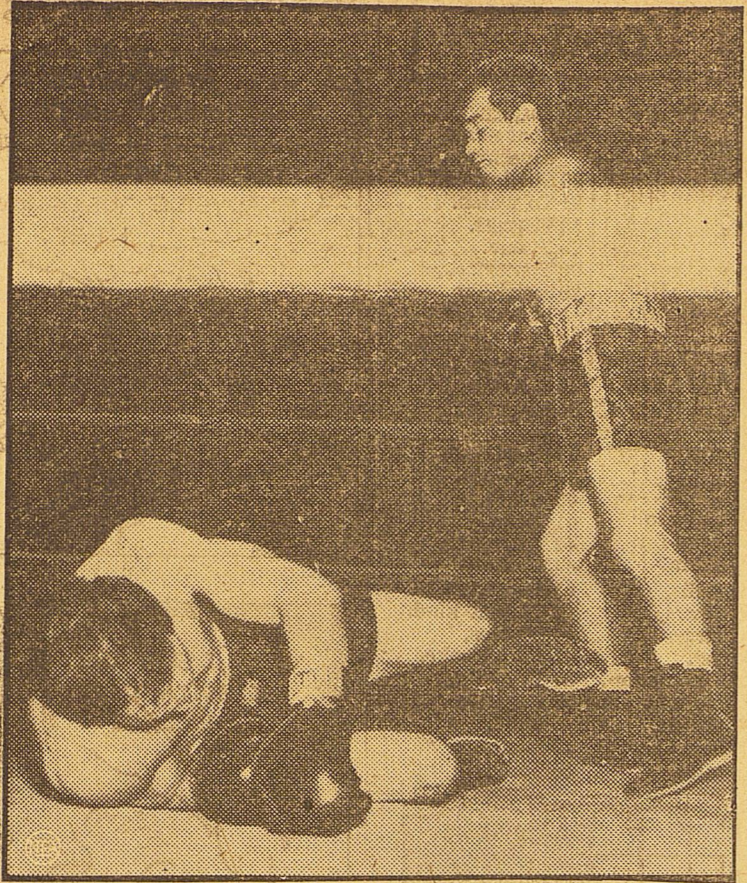

Greetings from the school board were delivered by Dr. W. L. Jackson, president of the board; and from the churches of the city by Rev. H. H. Stephens; from the taxpayers and patrons of the school by E. A. Ringold and from the Chamber of Commerce by J. E. Meroney.

After the faculty was introduced, short talks were made by J. N. Crawford, teacher of mathematics and director of the band and by O. L. McGahay, coordinator of diversified occupations.

Band Makes Good Impression Upon Weatherford Man

W. T. Walton, superintendent of the Ranger public schools, is in receipt of a letter from F. Patrick, proprietor of the Texas cafe at Weatherford, where the highner Sales Agency, with Col. A. W. Thompson as auctioneer. The property is to be disposed of because of a reorganization plan under which the loan company which now owns it cannot own real estate and must therefore liquidate all its real estate holdings. Similar auctions have been conducted recently in Wichita Falls and Bowie, with 20 pieces of property being sold at the latter town.

The property to be sold here is located at 219 S. Rusk street, commonly known as the Army building; at 312 Hunt street, known as the Searcy Candy Company building, and at 301 South Commerce. The auctions will be held on the premises at 10 a. m. for the Rusk street property, at 10:30 a. m. on Hunt street and at 11 o'clock on South Commerce.

A similar sale is to be conducted in Eastland at the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday, Sept. 15, when a four-room apartment house and two business houses will be sold at auction by the same firm.

THE RANGER SCHOOL BAND; ITS AIMS AND ITS PLANS

By J. N. CRAWFORD Until recent years, it was thought that the "school band" in Texas existed primarily for the purpose of playing for ball games and in general wherever a "ballyhoo" or noise was needed. And, indeed, the band of the high schools and colleges everywhere has fulfilled this purpose.

The administration of the Ranger schools realized that the "school band" should fulfill a far more important and permanent part in the student's life, and this year plans to give the band work a definite place on the daily school schedule of classes. A course of instruction has been planned for which definite credits will be given by the school toward graduation; and these credits will be accepted "as affiliated credits" by the Universities and Colleges of the State, just as credits in English or Mathematics, as soon as affiliation is secured.

It will be the purpose of band instruction this year to give students a regular musical education. More attention will be given to instruction in formal music than to the training of a "ballyhoo" band. Training in tone production and artistic playing will be kept in the foreground, and an effort will be made to develop a taste for the finer things in music, and as the student progresses he will become acquainted with the works of the Masters.

It is expected that a large number of students will take advantage of the "beginners" band that will be started in the immediate future. A number of boys and girls in the grammar schools will be taken, and it is perhaps these students, who in about four years will be the solo players in the band at that time. This "looking-to-the-future" policy should, in a few years, give Ranger School system a band of the highest merit, and one that the community should be proud of. Quite a number of students in the high school have already indicated the desire to start as "rank beginners" in the new beginners band.

The student will buy his own music and instrument, and these can be bought at a special price made to schools. It is planned to have organized in the near future two new groups, a Drum and Bugle Corp., and a Pipe and Drum Corp. These instruments are very inexpensive, and are easily learned. These organizations are to be thought of as separate bodies from the band but on account of the regular customers we had to care for just at that time.

"However, we got through the best we could and trust our food and service was satisfactory with everybody. Thanking you for all the past favors and for business you may turn our way in the future, we beg to remain, "Very truly yours, "THE TEXAS CAFE, (Signed) "F. Patrick, Prop."

they provide a special training to students, and those boys and girls who learn these instruments will find it possible to change over to some band instrument, and learn to play in the band in a surprisingly short time.

All parents who desire to take advantage of the opportunities offered to their children should see Mr. Crawford at once; or have the students see me. As soon as the beginners band is organized, no more new students will be taken in.

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR

Ranger Junior College opened its eleventh session this week with very encouraging prospects. The faculty has been strengthened by the coming of the new members. The curriculum has been enriched by the addition of some new courses.

Professor J. N. Crawford, head of the mathematics department, is one of the outstanding instructors in the state. He has practically all his work off for the Ph. D. degree in mathematics and physics in the University of Chicago. His years of experience in teaching and in band work afford a real opportunity for the junior college students in both the quality of his instruction and personal association.

Miss Mary Grace O'Bannon, with the B. S. and M. A. degrees from C. I. A., heads the modern language department. She has had several years' successful teaching in Texas and is making a real contribution through her work in the college. Coach Baker Wright is teaching the physical education for the college, and is admirably fitted for this work from the standpoint of both training in the University of Texas and his experience as an athlete and as director of physical education and recreation for the City of Austin.

In addition to the usual courses offered heretofore for those who are candidates for teachers' certificates, public school writing and art are being offered this year. R. B. La Mance took special graduate work in these courses this summer and is teaching them.

Every course offered in Ranger Junior College is fully approved by the State Department of Education and affiliated with the senior institutions. No student has ever lost an hour's credit in transferring to other schools who took the advice of the dean and the faculty in arranging his courses. The Association of Texas Colleges in their 1936 bulletin, page 8, ranks Ranger Junior College as first class, which means that there is no question as to the scholarship of her faculty, the quality of her work, or the standing of her graduates.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson Daily Christian Living

Text: Romans 12:1-3, 9-21.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

THE 12th chapter of Romans presents a fine statement concerning the philosophy and practices of Christian living.

What does it mean to put Christian faith in Jesus and in the ideals that He expressed in His life as well as in words, into daily living? Paul set it forth long ago for new converts in Rome, and it is interesting to realize how the description of the good life and of the way of attaining it, that he gave to these early Christians, applies to our lives today.

Duties and privileges of the Christian are not related only to some part of man that might be called his "soul." They relate to all that he is, and all that he has. His body, his possessions, his relationships are all under the law of faith and love.

So Paul speaks first of all of the presentation of the body to God as a living sacrifice. This is man's elemental, spiritual service. It puts life on a different plane from that of material interest and conformity to the world.

Paul says that it is only by such elemental giving of ourselves to God that we may know God's will concerning us.

THE man who has thus given his life to God will be free from the sins of pride and undue self-esteem. He will not think of himself more highly than he ought to think. Humility is the natural attitude of the true Christian. If he has the depth of love in his heart, there can be within him neither hypocrisy nor hate. He will be kindly toward others and he will be anxious to give honor where honor is due.

The true Christian will be a diligent and faithful servant in every responsibility of life. In doing honest and faithful work, he will be serving God as well as man.

HOPE, patience, prayer, charity, and hospitality are essential elements of the Christian life. But these alone are not enough. The true test of the Christian is found in his attitude toward others. It is one of love and mercy, and of blessing even though their attitude toward him may be one of hate and cursing.

To live in sympathy with men, rejoicing with those who rejoice, and weeping with those who weep, is natural to the Christian. In all things he seeks unity and understanding and strives to avoid discord.

The more nearly he comes to the truth of Christian living, the more he will return good for evil. He will fulfill the word of Jesus, loving his enemies by practical deeds of kindness and magnanimity.

The Christian's life is founded upon the proved fact that good is stronger than evil, and that love is stronger than hate. The world has never yet tried the real strength of loving.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

THERE is a definite swing toward tougher football schedules among major colleges. It has been demonstrated that it does not pay to warm up against soft ones. The shock is too severe when the varsity bumps into the real article.

Coaches have reached the conclusion that it is just as well to give their creations robust tests right from the start.

The result is terrific encounters on the campaign's opening Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26. Mighty Minnesota, unbeaten in three years, travels to Seattle that day to combat Washington in a game likely to have as much bearing on the mythical national championship as any other staged between then and early December.

On that same afternoon, and while the major baseball leagues are winding up their seasons, Colgate goes to Durham to engage Duke, Rice journeys to Baton Rouge to grapple with Louisiana State, Mississippi squares off with Tulane in New Orleans, Ohio State has it out with Southern California in Los Angeles, and Tulsa deploys against Major Biff Jones' Oklahoma squad at Norman.

Any of these contests would do quite well as "big" games anywhere in the land and much later in the grind.

BIG timers aren't even waiting for the following Saturday, Oct. 3, when the World Series will be on, to get back into the thick of things. Certainly, Rice and Mississippi aren't wasting any time. Only six days after combating Louisiana State, Rice takes the field against Duquesne in a

After Elevator Ride Jail Cell Welcomed By 'Country' Negro

HOUSTON—Willie Nickens, 24, a "country" negro, was arrested by Patrolman A. J. Milsaps and placed in the city jail elevator for the ride upstairs to his cell.

"Boss, dis de first time I see ever been in a jail cell," Willie said, eyeing the elevator cage.

Milsaps closed the door and the elevator started skyward. So did Willie. He clawed at the cage and yelled for help. On the third floor, Willie was led to his cell.

"Boy, haven't you ever been in an elevator before," the officer asked.

"No-suh!" Willie said emphatically. "It that what that was?"

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, applies for a job as stewardess on Overland Airways. In the Overland office she encounters TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, and largely due to his intervention, she is accepted for a trial period.

Two other girls, DORIS LEE and ALICE MILLER, are accepted on the same basis.

Kay, excited over winning the job, stops to tell Graham the news. He asks her to go to lunch with himself and BENTON, personnel chief.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

KAY DUNN listened eagerly to the technical talk of planes and piloting she heard in the airport restaurant. Lunching with Ted Graham and Charlie Benton, she felt that she actually had begun her new work as a stewardess.

At intervals pilots would stop at the table to speak to Graham, who introduced them to Kay. It thrilled her, too, to notice that passengers, dining in the restaurant while awaiting the arrival of planes, recognized Graham and nodded in his direction. Obviously they were wondering about the girl with the famous pilot.

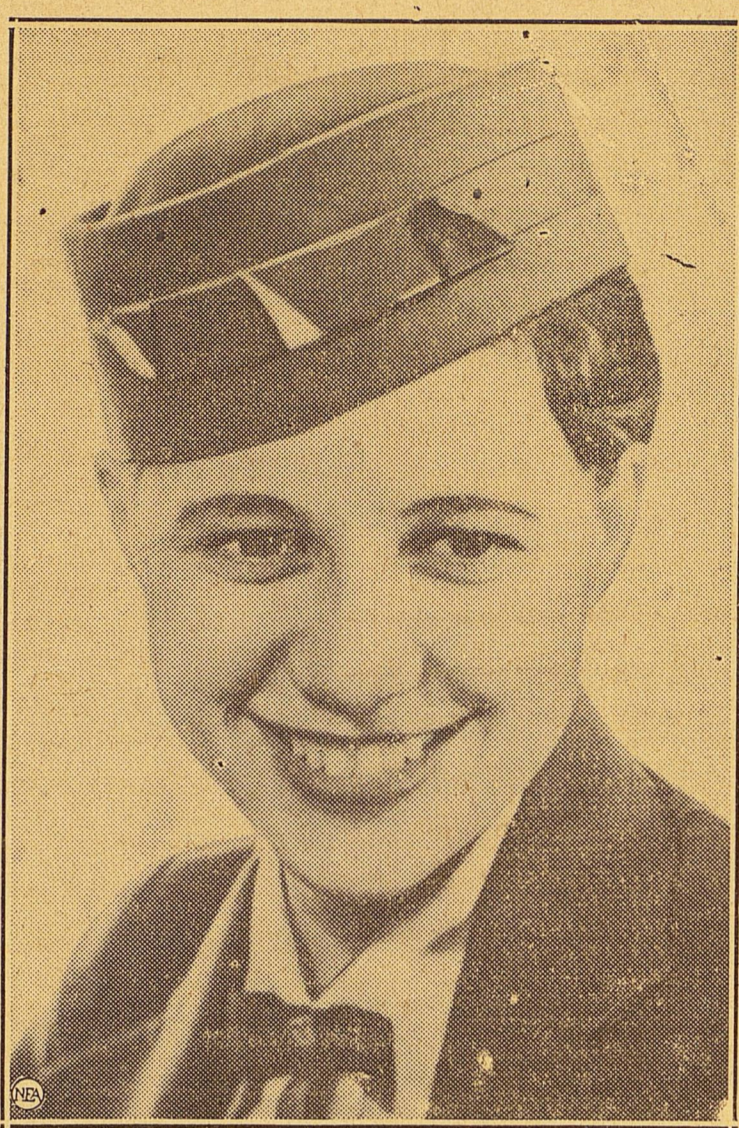

After lunch Benton went back to his office and Ted took Kay on an inspection tour of the Central Airport. There was a terminal building as large as a great city railroad station and as complete—with restaurant, cafeteria, hotel, ticket office, baggage rooms and shops all under one roof.

They climbed, past the meteorological laboratories, to the roof and looked down at the elaborate network of runways on the field. It was, Kay thought, like a patchwork quilt—the smooth, yellowish concrete runways intersecting at all angles. Below was the concrete ramp where planes discharged and took on passengers.

While they watched, a big twin-motor taxied up to the gate and stopped. Porters ran out, and helped the passengers to disembark. At another gate passengers were waiting to board the plane. Luggage was piled on the ground beside them. Gay awnings fluttered in the breeze.

Away in the distance was the wharf where seaplanes taxied up to land. A giant seaplane and a cabin cruiser dipped up and down, side by side, on the glistening water. Slowly a passenger train crawled past the entrance gate, and taxis whirled up and down the landscaped driveways to the terminal entrance behind it. It was the ideal co-ordination of travel facilities on land, water and in the air. It was the most perfect symbol of the 20th century that Kay had ever seen.

"Those are the hangars there," Ted said, amusing himself by watching Kay's enraptured features. "The big one is for transport planes. The doors are going up now. That's all done by electricity."

SHE turned to him and smiled. There was too much at the airport to take in at this first inspection.

"It's nice of you," she said, "to show me all this. I don't know why you should. This morning when I came out here, looking for the job as stewardess on Overland Airways, I'll admit I was a little afraid."

"I'm not surprised," Ted said. "Strange surroundings, new people. A new job in any line is bad enough."

In the bright sunlight Kay's eyes glistened. "I kept thinking about my brother who died in the air—"

Ted touched her arm with a comradely gesture. "A few in the war, too, but we—my observer and I—had better luck. We're still flying. And that war was a long time ago."

Both started out into the limitless spaces, and then Ted turned. "There's my plane," he said. "Right on the dot. I'll have to go down now. Will you come and see me off?"

ger, and then the flash of white which meant that he was smiling. Suddenly Kay knew she would never, never forget that look of quiet resolution. She would never forget these hours with Ted Graham.

The plane rose, winging its way toward the west where for Graham the greatest of aviation's adventures—the trans-Pacific route—waited.

Kay turned and found the two girls, her companions of the morning, standing nearby. They, too, had been watching the plane take off.

Alice Miller spoke first. "We made the grade," she announced. "We're to go into training tonight."

Doris Lee said, "We looked everywhere for you and when we found you, you were with Ted Graham! For a gal who came here looking for a job this morning, you work fast."

Kay said, a little sadly, "He'll never give me a thought again. He's the kind that's here today and gone tomorrow."

For a moment all of them were silent, each busy with her own thoughts. Then Alice said, "Tonight we're all to go as passengers on a plane to New York. It's a training flight."

THEY were inspecting a new luxury liner, along with some tourists, when they saw two young men in uniforms stepping down from the plane. The men were talking in a confidential tone, but not too low for the girls to hear.

"I understand we've got three new stewardesses trying out on the line," one of them said. "Not bad looking, I heard one of the mechanics say. If you get a line on them let me know."

"Sure thing," the other said and laughed.

The two men moved on and Kay and Alice passed amused glances. Doris, however, was indignant. She touseled her blond hair, and her pretty features took on an ominous scowl.

"Not bad looking, eh?" she stormed. "Listen, girls, let's organize for our mutual protection. We might as well call ourselves the Three Musketeers, and if the boys around the airport don't give us our rights, they'd better watch out!"

Kay laughed. "I guess you're right, though it looks safe enough around here to me."

Doris was adamant. "I know men! Didn't I work in an insane asylum for two years?" Kay cried out with laughter. "Now get this straight," Doris went on. "They may look romantic when they're dressed up for parade in flying togs. They've got money jingling in their pockets and they like a good time. But here's the thing for you to remember. All these pilots are wedded to the air! And until one of them actually hauls you to a minister, and puts a ring on your hand, you're wedded to the air, too!"

A. Little River, which is formed by the Leon and Lampasas, is the largest and most dangerous of the many streams flowing into the Brazos.

Q. Where was Fort Mason and when was it occupied? T. H., Meridian.

A. It was erected about 1856 by the Federal Government at Mason, about one half mile from the courthouse, and for a time was commanded by Gen. Robert E. Lee. No battles were fought there and it was abandoned in 1868, only a few stones remaining to show its location.

Q. For what purpose is the monument to be erected near La-Grange? R. W., Gorman.

A. To commemorate the decimation of the Mer expedition victims and the Dawson massacre, the Texas Centennial Commission is erecting a tall shaft to cost $10,000 at the spot where the bones of the victims lie buried in a one-lined vault. The monument will overlook for miles the part of the Colorado valley where the victims had lived.

Q. Why do treasure hunters persist in their efforts to find buried gold around San Saba? G. J., Brownwood.

A. Following building of the San Saba Mission near the present town of Menard, in 1756, rumors and legends persisted as to Spaniards having buried vast stores of gold and silver somewhere along the San Saba River near and below Menard and of occasional discoveries by mining explorers. These stories retold bring many new adventures.
