CHARGES FILED IN WOUNDING OF TWO AGENTS

FORT WORTH, Sept. 22.—U.S. District Attorney Clyde Eastus today filed an assault to murder complaint against Johnny Walker, 38, of San Angelo, in connection with the wounding of two federal narcotic agents at Stephenville yesterday. Walker was the alleged driver of the car that ran over one agent as bullets from the driver's gun wounded another. The suspect was still at large today.

Richard Harbin of San Antonio and D. E. Robertson of Fort Worth, the narcotic agents, fought the suspected narcotic smuggler when he ran a blockade set across a highway bridge. Harbin was shot twice, in the hand and leg, and Robertson suffered a broken ankle when struck by the smuggler's car.

"The capitalistic system is much more likely to be perpetuated under President Roosevelt than under Gov. Lando," Wallace said.

Department Store Sales Show Gains

AUSTIN—Dollar sales of Texas department stores during August showed substantial gains over the corresponding month last year and a moderate seasonal increase over the preceding month, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has announced. Reports from 87 representative Texas establishments indicate an increase in sales of 16.8 per cent over August, 1935, and 7.6 per cent over July of the current year. Sales for the year to date were 16.1 per cent greater than for the like period last year.

Cities having gains in sales above the state average in comparison both with August a year ago and the first eight months of the year included Abilene, Corsicana, Dallas, Lubbock and San Antonio. The condition of Mrs. Milburn McCarty, who has been seriously ill in Payne Hospital at Eastland, remained unchanged Tuesday, Mr. McCarty stated.

Vocational Training Helps Paralyzed Nimrod Man to Earn His Own Living

Life looked dark for Henry Schaefer of Nimrod in 1931. Paralyzed from the hips down since a fall from a tree when he was nine years old, Schaefer's only way to get around was by crawling. Now, Schaefer, about 27, views the future with optimism. He still is paralyzed. His paralytic condition probably can't be remedied, but he does have a future before him in which he can make his own way.

In 1931 the Cisco Rotary Club called attention of the State Department of Education's vocational rehabilitation to Schaefer. Physical restoration of Schaefer wasn't possible, the vocational rehabilitation department learned. Too many years had passed without the proper attention to his paralysis. It was not known whether his condition was a result of the fall or just a natural setting, in of the disease. His condition dated to six months after the tree fall.

The vocational rehabilitation department obtained a "fireside industry" course for Schaefer. He learned to make book-ends, print on a small hand-press and found a market for his work after completion of the course. Later the depression took hold of Schaefer's market. He couldn't find sales and it appeared his income would again be the same as before the vocational rehabilitation department came to his rescue.

After an investigation the department again secured another course for the Nimrod man. This time which Schaefer is still taking. He has studied the course since in March. The course is of nine months duration. He's learning faster than the average student. In fact he has already serviced several radios. To bolster his income he secured the agency for a farm radio. He's already marked up several sales and has several good prospects.

Last year Schaefer convinced Tom Haley, tax assessor-collector, he was capable of assessing nine school district. To the thoroughness of his work, officials point out that Schaefer made excellent renditions. During the campaign Schaefer printed 51,000 candidate cards on a hand press. That was part of the work his first training enabled him to execute. Besides that work, Schaefer has sold fruit trees. He is able to drive an automobile with the aid of gadgets which take the place of his legs, which he probably won't ever use.

Although physically handicapped, Schaefer is aiding a brother in harvesting a peanut crop. The Nimrod man, appreciative of the vocational rehabilitation department's aid, wrote to Supervisor B. E. McGlamery of the Northwest Texas District, thanking him "for the praiseworthy assistance you have given me."

The case is typical of the departments work, McGlamery, who locates at Eastland, indicates. Other recent cases are providing county youths with welding training, college educations, body and fender repair work, barber training, and electrical training. The department work is carried on with funds from the state and federal government.

FIVE GUARDS ARE ARRESTED AT GREENVILLE

GREENVILLE, Sept. 22.—Five men, said to be guards of the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas railroad, were arrested today charged with "possession and carrying firearms," and placed in the city jail.

A number of men have been guarding the railway property since 500 members of the Big Four brotherhood went on strike last Saturday. However, strikers have been orderly and no violence has been reported.

The guards, it was alleged, were in the business district at the time of their arrest, without commissions to carry firearms. Mayor F. N. Sickwell, who is judge of the municipal court, said fines would not exceed $100 in each case.

Striking members of the Big Four called on Greenville citizens to attend a mass meeting tomorrow night to approve their case. The five guards were released shortly before noon, two of them providing $200 bond and the other three presenting commissions as special officers. Police said they would investigate the commissions.

The strikers today sent a telegram to C. P. Couch, president of the line, declining his offer of reinstatement to meet who go back to work today.

GREENWOOD, La., Sept. 22.—Approximately 300 members of the craft union on the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas railway, were being polled today on the question of calling a "sympathy strike" with members of the Big Four brotherhood who walked out Saturday.

New Firms Show a Slight Increase

AUSTIN—New charters granted to Texas corporations during August were only slightly greater in number than those of the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, but the capitalization of these firms were sharply above both comparable periods, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported. The records of the office of Secretary of State show 132 new charters granted, against 131 in August last year and 128 in July.

Contributing to the increase in total capitalization was the fact that there were four firms with capital of more than $100,000 in August compared with only three in July and two in August last year, the bureau pointed out. Groups showing an increase in the number of new charters granted were manufacturing, merchandising and public service.

CARTHAGE, Tex., Sept. 22.—Terrance Bramlett was accused today of offering to bribe a fellow CCC worker to kill the husband of Bramlett's sweetheart. Darts Windham, state witness in Bramlett's trial on murder charges for the death of Marie Childs, former Shelby County treasurer, said Bramlett offered him $3,000 "to get Childs out of the way."

REBEL PUSH IS NEARER TO THE CAPITOL TODAY

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 22.—The Seville radio reported at 2 p. m. that the rebels east of Maquema were within 23 miles of Madrid.

The Spanish rebels in the west drove on toward Toledo and Madrid today, slowly forcing back the loyalist forces toward the capital. The battle raged on a front 43 miles from Madrid and 24 miles from Toledo. The loyalists resisted stubbornly but yielded under the pounding of artillery and airplanes. The rebels concentrated a strong air force in the Talavera section.

Despite the government reverses it was not a rout, and the prospect was government lines would be consolidated nearer Toledo for a defense of that city. Loyalists sent some of their forces from the besieged Alcazar in Toledo to the front. The artillery concentrated its fire on the Alcazar, and the remaining tower crumbled.

Funds Allocated To Health Units

AUSTIN.—One of the outstanding benefits of the allocation of Social Security funds to the State Department of Health, as pointed out recently by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, is the possibility of broadening the program of County Health Units. Although there had previously been established and maintained only seven county health units within the State, the results of their work have proved the value of the organizations and disclosed the need for health units in other Texas counties.

The first county health unit in the nation was established in 1911 in Yakima County, Washington, following an epidemic of typhoid fever that attracted the attention of the United States Public Health Service. Recommendations were made for the establishment of a health organization, with a full time physician in charge, and with a public health nurse, and a sanitary inspector. The Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, in its campaign for hookworm control at the same time, became interested and found that permanent county organizations were needed to carry on the work. The Commission made temporary grants to certain counties for development of county health units, and later the Public Health Service received appropriations for extending the benefits of this plan of service to counties.

Under the plan of the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation funds were allotted to Texas in 1917, combined with State funds, and a program administered through the State Department of Health. Five field units were formed at that time and they have done excellent work in promoting community health, Dr. Brown said.

Under the provisions of the Social Security Act it is possible to form new health units in Texas through the State Department of Health with counties furnishing a portion of funds necessary, and State and Federal governments completing the sum.

PLANS FOR BAND YEAR AND AGRICULTURE PROGRAM ARE DISCUSSED AT MEETING HERE

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, at which members of the band committee and a committee interested in livestock and agriculture was also present, plans for the band for the coming year were discussed as were an agricultural and livestock program for the organization.

At the opening of the meeting Paul Curtis of Fort Worth, representative of the American Automobile Association, made a lengthy talk on safety and the AAA organization. G. C. Love, chairman of a committee on agriculture, spoke briefly urging that the Chamber of Commerce appoint a committee to encourage farming and livestock raising in the county by sponsoring a show for livestock, similar to the ones held in Eastland and Cisco. Dr. R. H. Hodges, Dick Weeks, and others of the committee spoke on the same subject. It was pointed out that with permanent grounds for the purpose a good show could be put on, with a rodeo as one of the main features, which would attract large numbers of people to the town, and at which livestock displays, a poultry show, horse and swine exhibits and other phases could be added.

Elmo V. Cook, county agent, spoke on the same subject and then added that he had heard much talk around Ranger about a cheese plant, but that his observation, and the observation of others, had been that when a cheese plant was sought it was always a failure.

"Build up your milk production and quality to the point where a cheese factory would be possible and you won't have to offer inducements to have one come here," he said. "When you do that you won't be able to keep milk plants out of the town, but until you do the only thing you will be able to accomplish will be to spend a lot of money on a failure, because without the production the plant would fail."

Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent, spoke on the 4-H club movement in the county and pointed out that through these clubs better stock could be made possible. Hal Hunter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, stated that he would take the appointment of such a committee under advisement. (Continued on page 2)

FLOOD THREAT AT AUSTIN IS LESS ACUTE

AUSTIN, Sept. 22.—Threats of flood damage on the lower Colorado river decreased today with reports the crest of the Concho and San Saba rivers was reached at Marble Falls, 75 miles upstream, at 11 a. m.

The stage of the river there was 31 feet. With Marble Falls as the key position in estimating the stage at Austin, weather bureau officials did not believe the river here would rise much above 23 feet. Previous estimates had placed the probable stage at 33 to 35 feet.

At other points on the Colorado river water continued to recede.

Government Is What The People Make It

It might help our political arguments a good deal if we could understand, once and for all, that a stream never can rise any higher than its source.

That is to say that it is foolish of us to expect anything more from our government in the way of intelligence, tolerance, and foresight than we, the great body of undistinguished voters, are willing to give it.

It can't go above our level. If it does, the chances are that we ruthlessly shall yank it back down at the first opportunity. Washington is a reflection of Main street.

All this is brought to mind by a reading of the set of principles approved at the recent National Progressive Conference in Chicago.

The last time on the list of objectives for progressive voters read like this:

"The right of every American to live under a government strong enough to suppress the lawless, wise enough to see beyond the selfish desires of the moment, and just enough to consider the welfare of the people as a whole."

That is a noble objective. It is well to reaffirm that every American has that right, and to insist that the reality at Washington come as close to the ideal as is humanly possible.

But to do so it will be necessary for us to remember constantly that a river cannot rise above its source—that government never will be any better than the people as a whole want it to be.

For we, the people, are the government. Our constitution was skillfully designed to make us so. When we demand strength, wisdom, and justice for our government, we simply are demanding those qualities for ourselves; contrariwise, the very forces which assail the government and occasionally prevent it from exercising those qualities come also from ourselves.

The government must be strong enough to suppress lawlessness—as, for instance, during prohibition, when the lawlessness of bootlegging drew its support directly from the great mass of the citizenry?

The government must be wise enough to see beyond the selfish desires of the moment—as, for instance, in 1928 and 1929, when any attempt at Washington to curb the runaway boom would have drawn from all corners of the land a blast strong enough to level the walls of Jericho?

The government must be just enough to consider the welfare of all the people—when the people, all across the land, organize themselves into pressure groups to make sure that their own group problems shall receive attention before the problems of the nation as a whole?

The problems of democracy are many, but none is greater than this; that democracy calls on individual citizens to give to their government a strength, a wisdom, and a tolerance greater than they ordinarily know they possess themselves.

Democratic government is a mirror in which the common man sees his own virtues and his own failings. To improve it we must start at the very bottom—with ourselves.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By NEA Service

IN these days of careful budgeting and economizing the consumer has the ever-present problem of finding ways to serve leftovers attractively. If there is one place that no one enjoys seeing scrimping, it's at the table. You really do not have to make hash (good as it may be) or serve leftover meat sliced cold. There are many more appetizing ways to present the last of the roast.

Swedish Meat Roll is easy to make and a dish that would do credit to the most experienced chef.

Of course, there's no reason why fresh meat can't be used in this roll. If you do use fresh meat instead of left-overs, buy 1-2 pound of round steak or cooked ham and prepare it by the same recipe. Brown the round steak well with the onion.

Swedish Meat Roll for Six
One and one-half cups chopped or ground left-over meat, 1 tablespoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, 3-4 cup milk.

If you don't have left-over meat, dissolve a bouillon or gravy cube in water and use three tablespoons of that.

Mix the meat with the onion, browned, salt, pepper and gravy.

To make the pastry, sift the dry ingredients, cut in the shortening with 2 sharp knives or a fork.

Add the milk to make a soft

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, creamed dried beef, coffee cake, milk, tea.

LUNCHEON: Pea soup with croquettes, carrot and cabbage salad, apple sauce, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, Swedish meat roll, whole buttered carrots, mixed green salad with French dressing, sliced oranges, cookies, coffee.

Dough: Roll the dough 1-4 inch thick. Spread this with the meat mixture and roll it lengthwise like a jelly roll.

Then cut this roll in slices 1 inch thick.

Place the slices on a well greased baking pan.

Dot each slice with butter and bake it in a hot (400 degrees) oven 15 minutes.

Serve with additional gravy to which more fried onions have been added.

Don't serve potatoes or starchy vegetables with this roll. You might plan a menu around the meat roll something like this: tomato juice cocktail, meat roll with gravy, whole buttered carrots or cauliflower with browned butter, salad bowl of mixed greens with French dressing, sliced oranges, cookies and coffee.

The dessert, in particular, should be a light one. Any main dish that is made with a pastry crust, such as this roll or a meat pie, indicates a light fruit dessert and rendered into dog and chicken feed. So breeders practically quit raising mules.

That's all over now. Not only mules but work horses are in sharp demand throughout the farming South. Ross Brothers now have 1,000 sturdy specimens in their barns, few of which will remain long. Horses of the draft type, Belgians, Percherons, Clydesdales, are bid for to such extent that buyers are in Canada now to help fill the requests. Mares are in particular demand.

Hicks said the foreign market isn't taking many mules and horses right now. A few months ago, however, American mules carried Italian soldiers, arms and ammunition over rugged Ethiopia hills to victory over Haile Selassie.

Country Mule Is Coming Back Into His Own In U. S. A.

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD

FORT WORTH, Tex. — That machine-age-victim — the country mule — is coming into his own, until today there is a national shortage estimated at 10,000,000.

That figure was placed by John C. Hicks, manager of Ross Brothers Horse and Mule Company of Fort Worth, largest dealers of the West. Within three days this week, the firm sold 1,760 braying work animals to the cotton-growing farmers of the deep South. The mules filled 60 railroad cars.

Mules are high-hatting their inanimate successors — so much that the demand is almost unprecedented. Mules helped plantation owners in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia raise one of their best crops in 15 years, Hicks said. They have the advantage of a lower "first cost," and eat oats that the farmer grows rather than gasoline that he can't buy.

The sudden return to mule-power has boomed prices to near-record levels at the Fort Worth market. Good two-mule teams bring $500 to $650 a pair, Hicks said. And even at those prices, buyers for Ross Brothers are searching the countryside in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Montana, and other stock-raising states for more mules.

What happened to the famous "Missouri mule" which played so prominent part in the World War? Most of them died — from Missouri and every other state — were allowed to die of old age or fed to dogs and chickens. No attempt was made at large scale mule breeding when tractors came into vogue.

"A few years ago," said Hicks, "tens of thousands of animals were out in the West, notably Oregon and Washington, were being killed

Plans for Band

ment and would announce his selections later.

F. D. Hicks, representing the band committee, stated that it was the opinion of the committee that a new organization should be appointed and after some discussion two committees were appointed, the first to be a supervising committee and the second to be a finance committee.

C. B. Pruet has named as general chairman, with F. P. Brasher and F. D. Hicks on the supervising committee, and C. E. May, J. J. Kelly and Coke Martin on the finance committee.

J. N. Crawford spoke on his plans for the band for the year, stating that he intended to organize a life and drum corps and drum and bugle corps, which could be used in connection with the band and which would be training for future band members.

He stated that he would not tolerate any breach of discipline in the band, and that one infraction of the rules would mean that the guilty ones would be suspended from the band.

He stated that two bass horns would be needed before a good band could be formed. The committee stated that Crawford would be held directly responsible for all band equipment belonging to the committee in the future in order that none of it would be misplaced.

Those present at the meeting were Hal Hunter, J. J. Kelly, A. J. Ratliff, J. E. Matthews, F. D. Hicks, F. P. Brasher, S. O. Montgomery and J. E. Meroney from the Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. W. L. Jackson, C. E. May, W. T. Walton, Hall Walker, Dr. Ross Hodges, Dr. R. H. Hodges, Hugh F. Barnhart, Elmo V. Cook, C. B. Pruet, Dick Weeks, J. N. Crawford, G. C. Love and Glen Rex.

Legislators Are Gathering For the Special Session

AUSTIN—Legislators are rushing to Austin in advance of the special session of the state legislature to convene Sept. 28. They want to secure good rooms before the best ones are pre-empted by University of Texas students.

Some of the re-elected members are taking leases on houses and apartments until next summer. A regular session of the legislature in January will come after the special session. A regular session lasts 120 days. If two special sessions are required for emergency legislation there will be little hiatus between the special sessions and the regular meeting.

The combined opening of a new term at the University of Texas nad the special session of the legislature has set Austin retail business on a boom. New stores are opening. Big stocks are being placed in the stores.

Direct cost to the state of a 30-day special session of the legislature is estimated at $150,000. Austin business men estimate that a month's session puts $450,000 into trade circulation.

Although it is customary to retain the old staff of legislative employees at a special session, Austin has also become the mecca for many applicants for clerical positions in the House and Senate.

Including pages, about 300 persons are employed during a session. Many of the jobs are split into half time places. These split jobs usually go to University of Texas students.

Champion Trapper Snares 1,200 Eagles

SYDNEY.—Under the necessity of protecting his lambs from eagles, W. H. Swain, champion eagle trapper of New South Wales, has 400 eagles to his credit this year, and 800 for the past three years.

Some of his victims measure 8 feet from wing tip to wing tip.

Swain's trapping invention is his own. He uses a wire-netting coop filled with white chickens as a decoy. This he surrounds with rabbit traps and then stakes out a captured eagle nearby to add to the deception.

The long-visioned eagles are attracted by the sight of the white chickens and quickly come to earth. Unable to get into the coop they tramp around until ultimately they step into one of the rabbit traps.

Life Saving nightsight for drivers on CONCRETE

DRIVING through the night with your family, how much safer you feel when a concrete "ribbon of light" stretches out ahead!

Hazards stand out clearly against the light grey surface—shoulders, ditches, obstructions, pedestrians are clearly defined. Eye strain is reduced by the absence of glare.

Brakes are at their best on the gritty non-skid surface of concrete. Low crowns make the entire road width usable. Traffic doesn't hug the center of the road. You drive in comfort... relaxed. Every car is a better car on concrete.

Concrete's better visibility, safety and comfort are not luxuries because first cost of concrete is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity. Maintenance cost is far lower. And drivers save in gas, tires and car repairs on concrete.

ON TEXAS FARMS

BROWNSVILLE.—Two dustings of 20-80 formula of copper monohydrate dust increased yields 100 bushels per acre on the farm of Harry Whipple of Cameron County, according to Henry A. Alsmeyer, county agricultural agent. The two dustings were 10 days apart, the last dusting being made 30 days before the potatoes were dug.

BEAUMONT.—By fertilizing and cultivating his land properly and selling his melons from a roadside stand, Richard Wiess, Jefferson county 4-H club boy, made $197.50, net profit from one acre of watermelons, according to J. E. Combs, county agricultural agent. Richard used 700 pounds of 6-10-7 fertilizer which cost $12.50. The labor cost for planting, cultivating, and harvesting was approximately $20. He sold a number of his melons from a roadside stand at 30 to 50 cents each. The remainder was sold at 10 to 30 cents each to wholesalers who came to the fields for the melons.

GARDEN CITY.—John Dickerson, ranchman in Glasscock county, recently reported that his flock of 26 white leghorn hens is still producing 18 eggs per day, the same as they produced before he sold 23 of his hens. H. F. Kothmann, Reagan and Glasscock county agricultural agent, recently held a culling demonstration on Dickerson's ranch and culled out many of the non-laying hens in Dickerson's flock. Dickerson reports that his feed cost has been cut 50 per cent through the elimination of his "star boarder" hens.

PEARSALL.—Shrubs may profit by hot dry weather, if a person will only take advantage of the weather to kill out bermuda grass among the shrubs, according to Mrs. Clyde McKinley, yard improvement demonstrator for the Melon Home Demonstration club in Frio county.

"Let the shrubs and roses go as dormant as they may so they can be in the best condition for fall and winter," she says. She cut her bermuda grass straight down through the roots with a sharp spade, shook the dirt out of the grass roots, disposed of the roots, and left the soil loose in the bed.

KINGSVILLE.—The problem of what to do with some sheets that were too short to be comfortable and yet too good to be discarded, has been solved by Mrs. B. W. Weir of Kleberg county, according to Miss Effie E. McClane, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Weir added a piece of sheeting of the same quality and width of the sheets to make them 108 inches long. "This permits sufficient tucking to make the bed comfortably smooth and with the second sheet to allow for turning back about 12 inches over the covers to prevent them from oiling," she says.

GAINESVILLE.—At a cost of 20 cents for hinges and nails, Mrs. Weldon Boley, Food supply demonstrator for the Callisburg home demonstration club in Cooke county, has a closet for her canned products. Heavy unfinished lumber that was stored in the attic was used to frame it; the doors were covered with heavy pasteboard; and the closet was lined throughout with pasteboard to keep the products cool.

Mrs. Boley has canned 300 containers this season and has on hand more than 100 containers left over from last year.

Better Methods of Tax Collection Are Raising Revenue

AUSTIN.—More efficient methods of collection and a general improvement in business conditions were responsible for the substantial increase in gasoline tax collections which reached a new all-time high during the fiscal year ending August 31, in the opinion of George H. Sheppard, comptroller of public accounts.

Increased travel because of the Centennial was a contributing factor but was not one of the primary causes, Mr. Sheppard said. Total collections for the fiscal period were $41,193,960, an increase of $4,111,035 over the preceding year, which also broke all previous records. The percentage of increase in the fiscal year just closed over the previous year was 11 per cent, compared with an increase of 9.07 per cent in collections for 1934-35 over the 1933-34 fiscal year.

Since March of 1933, when the state inaugurated enforcement of the first of several revisions in the gasoline tax law, until August, 1936, the receipts from this source have shown material progress each month, with few exceptions. In March, 1933, total receipts from the tax were $2,291,924, while for August, 1936, the income was $4,067,861, an increase of 78 per cent.

Only in two months of the last fiscal year, October and November, did gasoline tax receipts fall below the corresponding months for the previous accounting period and there decreases were only slight. Starting in December, collections experienced a steady rise.

The amount that can be attributed to Centennial travel cannot be accurately calculated but the Comptroller's statisticians estimated it would represent the difference between the normal percentage of increase through the year and the amount of increase recorded for the Centennial months. They said, however, that even this difference could not definitely be attributed to Centennial traffic. In support of this conclusion they pointed to an increase of 19.6 per cent in collections in April over the same month of 1935, as compared to an increase of 15.1 per cent in June, the first month of the Centennial, over the same month last year.

July, 1936, collections were 2.5 per cent over the same month of 1935 but August collections dropped to 11.1 per cent, just slightly above the normal average increase. The percentage on increase in August, 1936, was 7.6 less than the percentage of increase recorded for August, 1935.

That enforcement, rather than other factors, is the chief cause of the increase is borne out by collections of the cigarette tax division for the fiscal year, Sheppard said. The comptroller's agents released from court injunctions with which they literally had been plastered, collected $5,434,450 in cigarette taxes as compared to $4,302,542 the previous year, an increase of $1,131,908. Before high court decisions established the right of the comptroller to collect the tax on smokes purportedly purchased in interstate commerce the state lost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The increase in the gasoline tax will enable the state to undertake some badly needed highway construction that has been delayed because of lack of funds. A major portion of the funds of the past few years has been needed to match federal aid, maintain existing highways and provide for other expenses, with a consequent slowing down of construction from purely state funds.

Five Fellowships For Chemistry Open

By United Press
WILMINGTON, Del.—The Labor Foundation has announced the terms and conditions of five fellowship awards of $2,500 each which will be granted for the academic year 1937-38. Applications are to be in the hands of the Secretary, A. Lalor Burdick, by Dec. 1, 1936, and appointments will be made in February, 1937.

Awards will be for research work in chemistry and related sciences. They may be used for work anywhere in the United States or abroad. However, as a memorial to the late Dr. Arthur A. Noyes, founder of the research laboratory of physical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of the awards for each of the next four years will be specifically assigned to work at that institution.

Appointment is open to men and women residents of the United States. No age limit is prescribed but the usual range of ages will be between 25 and 40. Professors on sabbatical leave or other leave of absence are among those eligible. High intellectual and personal qualifications as well as creative ability and capacity for productive scholarship are essential elements in the appraisal of candidates.

Three Are Arrested Before Report Ends

Laid Off From Work By Constipation

"For four years I suffered from constipation. I had gotten so weak I had to lay off from work. My doctor told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since then, my grocery list has never been complete without it."—Mr. A. W. Murphy, 1010 16th St., Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

This delicious cereal will give you the same, sure relief. Laboratory tests prove it's safe. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B which tones the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoons daily. Serve as a cereal or cook into appetizing recipes. Isn't this natural food better than pills and drugs? When you're at the grocery store today, get a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Try it a week, and see if you don't feel worlds better. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Black-Draught High In Quality Without Being High In Price

Black-Draught is "easy to pay for" because it is so economically packaged and so reliable.

But as to quality, there's nothing "cheap" about it. For instance, its principal active ingredient is the leaves of a certain species of plant that are brought 10,000 miles from where they grow to the factory where the medicine is made. These leaves from far, far away, help to give Black-Draught its well-known "laxative reliability." They could not be left out, or substituted, without real loss of good medicinal quality.

For a good, purely vegetable laxative, insist on Black-Draught. About 25 doses in each 25-cent package.

Gas Machine Gun Makes Debut

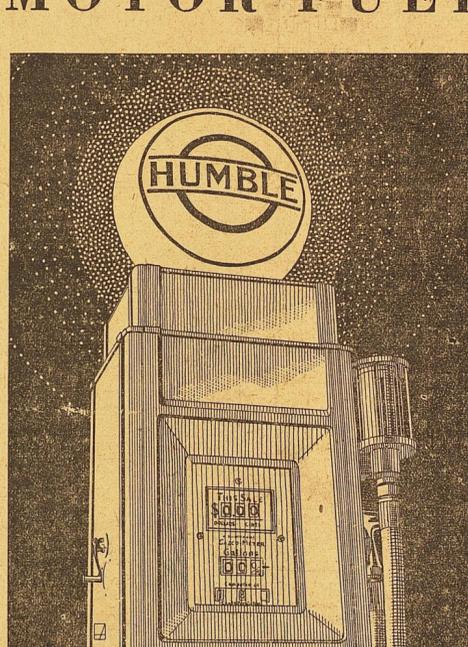

A device that should make the most unruly mob say "uncle" is a new machine gun that hurls gas shells instead of bullets. Police Captain J. W. Johnson, Everett, Wash., is pictured just before he pulled the trigger of the Manville gas machine gun, in a demonstration at the national rifle matches at Camp Perry, O.

Science Knows of 14,000 Animals

NEW YORK—Although a renowned scientist soon to head an expedition into the South American jungles is sanguine of capturing an anthropoid ape, one of the few prehistoric species of animal life said to be unknown to modern science, Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator, New York Zoological Garden, Bronx Park, believes the quest will be futile.

"I am pretty firmly convinced," he says, "no specimen of animal or reptile life is now unclassified or unknown to modern science. More than 14,000 animals are catalogued and I don't think there is much chance for further discovery."

HUMBLE MOTOR FUEL

Humble Motor Fuel is the economical fuel for careful buyers. When you stop at the red "Humble" pump in a Humble Service Station or at a Humble dealer's, you get value plus for your gasoline dollar. Try Humble Motor Fuel. Stop today at the Humble sign and fill up; then test Humble Motor Fuel under your own driving conditions and compare it with any regular price gasoline you have ever used. You'll come back for more!

Humble technicians are ever alert to the motorist's changing needs, and Humble Motor Fuel is continuously improved. At times such changes are minor—a routine part of a day's work; at others, they require extensive revision of methods and equipment. You can rest assured that whatever's necessary to give you a regular price motor fuel second to none—that's what's done!

* In computing gasoline prices, don't forget that what you pay includes a State tax of 4c per gallon and a Federal tax of 1c per gallon. Gasoline is cheap, only the tax is high.

HUMBLE OIL & REFINING CO.

A second project costing $3,746,635, is approximately 50 per cent completed, according to a report to the county commissioners' court.

The county will turn back to the Federal Government $5,412 of a grant of $293,400 on the $1,000,000 program because use of the money was not necessary, the report said.

HOUSTON—A $1,000,000 road-building program in Harris county has been completed, including 15 lateral and connecting thoroughfares.

Increased requests by hospitals for snake fluid has caused zoo officials to enlarge the venomous snake section. Reptiles are encouraged to breed and their offspring are welcomed.

London medical authorities are using anti-toxins taken from snakes to treat hemophilia and various nervous disorders.

Demand Rises In Britain for Serum

LONDON—Venomous snakes of the London Zoo are "milked" regularly for their deadly fluid, which is converted into life-saving anti-toxins. Demands for anti-toxins have been unusually heavy in Britain this year on account of the increased number of persons bitten by adders.

Over 1,250,000 Texas cars on 20,000 miles of Texas highways, and for each—a Humble motor fuel, a Humble motor oil!

In 1836, the highways of Texas were forest and prairie trails, impassable in wet weather. Today's Texas has 20,461.16 miles of highways, only thirteen per cent of which are unimproved. And today's Texans drive over one and a quarter million cars.

TO GET MAXIMUM PERFORMANCE

ANCE from a good automobile on a paved highway, the wise motorist selects his motor fuel and motor oil with care. In Texas, he makes it a regular practice to look for the familiar red, white and blue Humble sign before he buys. He has learned from experience that he can depend on Humble products to deliver in performance what the automotive engineer has built into the car he drives.

We ask you, too, to try our Humble products—to test them in your car. You'll find at Humble Service Stations and Humble Dealers a product for every car, a price for every purse. For maximum performance, for real driving pleasure, fill up with a Humble motor fuel, drain and refill with a Humble motor oil.

At the Centennial Exposition, Dallas-Humble's Hall of Texas History

You are cordially invited to visit the Humble Exhibit at the Central Centennial Exposition in Dallas. Striking dioramas recreate dramatic moments and vivid episodes from Texas History. See the battle of the Alamo, the capture of Santa Anna, the prisoners of the Mier Expedition drawing the black beans, the battle of Sabine Pass, Colonel Goodnight treating with Comanche Quannah Parker. Then see and listen to the story told by the rocks of Texas, and how Texas oil is drawn from many thousands of feet under the ground. On your way to and from Dallas—stop for service where you see the Humble sign.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, is hired as a stewardess on Overland Airways and, the same day, meets TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the trans-Pacific route.

Kay is assigned to the western division of the service. MONTIE BLAINE, apprentice pilot, pays her marked attention. Montie is a former aviator, but Kay is more interested in Ted. She and DICKIE, Ted's adopted 7-year-old son, become close friends.

Ted leaves on a flight across the Pacific. When he returns Kay and Dickie are waiting for him. Ted asks Kay to have dinner with them, but the Japanese servant has nothing in the house to eat except canned beans. Kay herself prepares the dinner, is pleased at Ted's compliments.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XI

Ted's courtship—if such it could be called—was the strangest Kay had ever known. He made it quite plain that he wasn't interested in matrimony. Nevertheless, she was attracted by his air of quiet resolution; even when she rebelled against it, she could not resist this attraction.

She admired him, loved him. One seemed inseparable from the other.

Monte Blaine was always about and tried to see her whenever she had a free moment. She refused his invitations steadily, but if Ted had any plans that included her, she always accepted.

He had come back from his last trip to the Orient with a new, inspired look in his eyes. Kay observed it as soon as the ship came in. She had been waiting at the quay to see him, to tell him that she couldn't get leave for Dickie from military school this time.

"Sorry the little shaver couldn't come down to see us make port," Ted said. "But I'm glad of one thing—I'll be able to see you alone tonight. You look simply swell."

"Thank you!"

"What time will you be free to go to dinner?"

Kay hesitated. It was Doris Lee's last night in Oakland for a long while, and Kay had allowed Doris to prepare dinner for the pair of them.

"I don't know, Ted," she said. "I promised Doris—"

"Oh, Doris is a good gal!" he said, laughing. "She has a heart of gold, but I can't let her get in my way."

Kay laughed. "Doris is the best friend I have. Lots of people don't appreciate her. She's given a shell about her, like a turtle. Back east she fell in love with one of your apprentice pilots, Ralph Bangs, but she doesn't trust him any more. Says he has a girl in every port."

Ted chuckled. "I'll tell you what I'll do! I'll call up Ralph, tell him to report to your apartment at dinner time, and Doris will have to entertain him. Then you call Doris and say you won't be home for dinner. That leaves a dinner for two and she will have to ask Ralph to stay. Perhaps it will lead to a reconciliation."

"It may mean murder," Kay warned, "but I'll take the chance. They tell me Ralph's a model lad now."

"I'm glad to hear that—from you," Ted said seriously. "We need serious-minded pilots for Trans-Pacific Airways."

"Where are we going for dinner?" Kay said.

"We'll dine out and then go back to my place. I want to talk to you." He added, hastily, "I want to tell you about the last trip when Dickie isn't around to ask a lot of questions."

They dined in a little Ship Grill overlooking the lights of the bay.

Later they stopped at the little house on the beach and Sato served them coffee. About the room were many of the trophies of Ted's flying career. From a Pacific air liner at anchor in the harbor, bobbing up and down like surface ships.

Ted brought out a gaudy map and showed her the four-day course across the Pacific ocean, via Honolulu, Midway, Wake, Guam and Manila. He told her about the quiet achievement of the trans-Pacific flight.

It had meant five years of steady planning, but Ted had learned patience early in his career. He had been a pioneer in establishing air service to the tropics.

HE showed her, too, a map of the world flight, called "Around the World in Twenty Days." It included a regular commercial time-table flight around the world, in which the Trans-Pacific Airways was to play a major part.

Ted didn't talk much about his own part in all this achievement. He talked a lot about the engineers, the new direction finders, the designers and mechanics.

He went on, speaking of his ideals and aspirations in life. There had been a time, he explained, when he had been impulsive, reckless in the air. That was when his young wife had died, 15 years ago. Since that time a life of danger had left its mark on him. It wasn't just maturity. Scientific planning for real progress in the air had changed his nature.

"Oh, Dickie!" Ted said. "For the moment I had forgotten about him." He looked at her intently for a few seconds, then went on. "I was thinking of you when I bought that ring. I thought about you a lot on this last trip. Up there in the clouds you see things pretty clearly."

"Thank you!" she said prettily. "Then of course I shall wear it."

Ted went on. "In these modern times people seem to have lost their 'savete' about such things. They don't even ask the question. They just seem to grow into it! But, Kay, I want you to marry me."

HE told her about the wild birds on Midway Island, the albatrosses. He made her see clearly the tiny tufts of green that were the islands, encircled by coral reefs in the middle of the blue ocean. The ocean swells rolled across the barriers of coral in waves sometimes 50 feet high, but inside the lagoon where the Mariners came to rest all was as quiet as a pond.

He told her about the cosmopolitan amusements under Diamond Head in Hawaii, of surfing on the beach at Waikiki. In that evening she came to love the trans-Pacific flight, as Ted loved it.

He took out some articles of jade he had bought at Macao, and laid them before her on the table. "I bought the ring for you," he said. "But you may have anything else you want—"

Smiling, she tried on the ring. It was one of the most beautiful she had ever seen.

Ted said, laughing, "It matches your eyes."

"My eyes!" she said a little ruefully. "Ted, this is too lovely for words. I adore it. You have such excellent taste. I should like to have it, but—just because I've tried to do things for Dickie when you're away—"

Kay sat listening, her hands folded neatly in her lap. She couldn't take her eyes from his face. He was so earnest, so fervently sincere. Everything that he had done was part and parcel of his admirable character.

When he told her about the jade market at Macao his voice seemed to carry her across the ocean, so that she walked along the Bund, admiring the pieces of jewelry.

There were amusing stories, too, incidents involving members of the crews on the four-day flights across the Pacific.

Washington frequently has substantial blizzards in January, and the chances of bad weather then are much better than for March 4, the old inauguration date.

A design for the platform, which as usual will be built out from the portico on the east front of the Capitol, already has been drawn by David Lynn, architect of the Capitol.

Congress will meet January 5. Because 15 days wouldn't have been enough to organize inauguration preparations and get the platform up, congressional leaders thoughtfully legislated authorization and $35,000 for expenses before they adjourned in June.

It also appropriated $25,000 for District of Columbia officials to provide for safety and convenience of visiting crowds and authorized erection of grandstands on federal land downtown.

As far as can be learned, neither the New Dealers nor the Landonites are making any elaborate preparation for a big celebration pending election. But, blizzard or no blizzard, you can be sure of big doings in Washington on and about January 20.

WASHINGTON—The presidential inauguration is going to take a jump and weather hazards for these spectacles will be materially increased.

That's one of the thoughts occurring to officials who already are making plans for the first January inauguration. Thanks to the Norris "lame duck" constitutional amendment, the winner of the November election will be inaugurated January 20.

Foxy Coyote Steals Food from Bears

By United Press
 YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. — Rangers thought he was a coward, but they discovered that a coyote here was merely being clever.

The coyote skirts over the bear-feeding grounds each evening, but carefully stays away from the feeding platform. Rangers, wondering why he came without attempting to eat, checked up.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS - By Blosser

They found that one or two of the bears have a habit of picking out appetizing pieces of meat and scampering to the timber, where they will not be molested.

The coyote followed them into the timber, took a quick nip at the bear's heels and when the bear drops the meat to defend himself the coyote grabs it and dashes away.

Montgomery, Ward Open House to Offer Display of Fall and Winter Merchandise.

There'll be no denying fall and winter seasons are setting a fashionable pace in general styles, with the new household furnishings much in the offing. Their influence will no doubt bring many changes into our homes, welcomed ones, and ones the entire family will approve.

The colorful window displays at Montgomery, Ward will undoubtedly induce visitors to their open house Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock for the purpose of viewing the new fall merchandise just arrived for the occasion.

After a lingering glance at the new Southern California living room suite in the middle window, your enthusiasm will be sufficient to make a complete visit throughout the departments. Particularly note the richness in color combination in that handsome suite. Drapes and other added living room furnishings would harmonize perfectly.

Radios—that something which has furnished more home entertainment than any other known source of amusement. The latest models will be in prominent evidence. Stoves, something else of importance, they will share your attention and admiration.

Each department will be wearing its very special dress for your visit, and the evening promises to be a gay one, and affords the husbands an opportunity of viewing what is going to make his home more comfortable and a perfect institution for his family. Quoting an old adage, "Home Reflects the Spirit of Its Keeper." You are cordially invited.

"Schools and the Kingdom," the topic for royal service program observed monthly, offered a fitting study Monday afternoon when the president of the W. M. U. of Central Baptist church, Mrs. H. S. Paekwood, entertained members at her home. Mrs. Dan Neville led the lesson opened with song, "Have Thine Own Way." Bible study and its thought was given by Mrs. Sarah Scrivens, followed with prayer by Mrs. W. A. Reuwer. Mrs. H. H. Stephens talked interestingly on "Schools and the Kingdom," Christian Influence in Public Schools, an informative topic, was well delivered by Mrs. W. D. Emfinger. Mrs. F. D. Hicks gave a beautiful prayer. "The Value of College Y. W. A." was ably brought by Mrs. J. E. Ogg, and Mrs. T. A. Arney said the closing prayer.

Refreshments were served those taking part and other members naming Meses. Earl Payne, W. O. Walker, S. C. Mahoney, Effie Williams, J. R. Watson, H. E. Barney, J. F. Stephens and Glen Browning.

Unique Program Draws Interest of W. M. S.

Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the four circles of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church gathered in the church parlor for the instructive study, "Christian Education." Introductory topic, "The Bearing Fig Tree," with piano accompaniment offered at the piano made an impressive foundation. Mrs. McKeeher, acted as pianist.

The lesson carried the form of a class room, with each member on program given a slate. Five questions namely, What, Why, Where, Who, and How, were answered in unique manner through drawings illustrating the major thought. Members giving the lesson were Mrs. R. C. Carville, Mrs. E. C. White, Mrs. Velton Moser, Mrs. Bob Hodges and Mrs. W. A. Lewis.

Closing prayer was given by Mrs. G. W. Thomas.

Hassen's Showing The Very Latest In Styles

WHO IS WISE? He that learns from everyone . . . and what we are to learn from the ready-to-wear department at Hassen company is going to be an ear full. It's all about the important word—FASHION!

There is so much of interest it would be hard to pass it all along. A visit and see for yourself is much better, yet it's nice to attempt to tell a part of it.

For clothes to wear right now through October days has long been a problem to many of us. Hassen's is featuring day-time Woolens—They have a heavy construction but are light in weight—and truly durable.

The entire offering in this department is inspiring . . . and the nice part, there's clothes for every member of the family. If you are thinking about cooler weather and aren't we all—then there is a handsome collection of suits—sport coats—and dress coats—What's the word about color? Black comes first—yes, in those adorable woolens—and they are darling for the school girl. We most forgot to remind you every one of these models is from VOGUE—the word has for ages spelled—smartness—service—and all at popular prices. When Vogue dictates then all suggestions are authentic.

To complete your ensemble don't forget a large selection of shoe patterns are in the offing—hose, bags and general line of matching accessories. For that 'dress-up' ensemble—and every woman wants at least one "outfit" for those very special occasions—Take a look at the new Spruce green and Autumn gold—smartly fashioned suits, silk frocks and gorgeous fur coats—Concentrate a little on fall and winter appearance and note the new feeling and self assurance of paramount importance to every individual.

Comings and Goings

Mrs. Arthur Vaughn, of Chicago, has returned home after spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mitchell. She came to Ranger with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Alworth and baby, who were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Alworth, Strawn road. The Alworths also live at Wink.

Paul Abernair, of Chicago, an associate of Montgomery-Ward and company, left this morning after spending the past three days conferring with the local manager, H. C. Clark.

Mrs. Gerald Windgate and young son, Jerry, Jr., of Eastland, were Ranger visitors today.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie F. Rex, Jr., are now making their home at Hundred, West Virginia, where Mr. Rex is employed, after resigning his position with the Illinois Pipeline company of Ranger. Interested in happenings of their former home town they have subscribed for the Times to be sent them at their new address.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Urban are scheduled for Fort Worth Wednesday evening for a dinner party given them by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Johnson at Casa Manana. The Johnsons visit Ranger frequently as guests of the Urbans and have arranged this courtesy for a group of close friends.

A. J. Ratliff was a visitor to San Angelo over the week-end. Mr. Ratliff's father lives there and had the good fortune to lose none of his property interests during the recent disastrous flood.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Mills, who have been making their home at Detroit since their marriage of some three months ago, returned to Ranger Monday afternoon for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mills.

His opponents suggest that, for Lemke, this will be a campaign in the neck.
