LOYALISTS IN STUBBORN LINE NEAR TOLEDO

By United Press
The Madrid government forces made a stand about eight and a half miles from Toledo today, fighting along the banks of the Guadarrama river.
The fate of Madrid and Toledo depends on their success. Reports at the front indicated fighting was severe and aerial activity intense.
The outcome was in doubt. The rebels proclaimed their intention of marching into Toledo. The defenders declared they were holding the enemy off.
The leftists were heartened by their stroke yesterday in letting loose the headwaters of the Alberche river to drown out the enemy.
Government sources reported fierce fighting northeast of the capital. Government reports claimed success all along the line. The other chief scene of action was on the north coast, where three rebel columns moved eastward against Bilbao.
The Alcazar at Toledo held out. Five rebel planes dropped bombs near the city without great damage. Anti-aircraft guns kept the planes from bombing the city.
Twenty-two officers of an infantry regiment were sentenced to death at Valencia for participation in an attempt to seize the city early in the war, an authorized dispatch said.

GENEVA, Sept. 25—Farm Minister Del Bayo of Spain charged before the League assembly today that rebels were receiving aid from states "whose type of political regime they are trying to establish in Spain."

Model Farm Put In C. of C. Window

A model of a modern farm, which was built by the Ranger 4-H club, has been put on display in the window the Chamber of Commerce.
The farm won first place at the Eastland County Fair, which closed in Eastland last Saturday night.
The farm consists of models of modern farm buildings, including the farm home, barns and other buildings, with fences around the fields and pastures, in which are placed miniature cattle, hogs, sheep, ducks and other farm animals.
In front of the farm in a roadway with a miniature automobile on it, while the farmer is driving a tractor and his wife is feeding sheep near the trench silo.

Roosevelt May Visit The Pacific Coast

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 25—President Roosevelt still hopes to include the Pacific coast in his tour next month, he indicated today. Last night after a conference with democratic campaign strategists Mr. Roosevelt had indicated his campaign would not take him farther west than Denver.

Dry goods, ready to wear, men's clothing, shoes, hats and notions are all ready for the approval of the public.
Furniture, radios, tires, batteries, electric and gas refrigeration any make and any model can be found.
Groceries, too, are featured today. Fresh, crisp vegetables and fruits and nationally advertised brands of canned goods are on the shelves of the grocers.
Check the ads in the Times from day to day. Read them carefully. They are messages of Ranger merchants inviting you to come and see what they have to offer.

From Fish Scales to Musical Scales

There's nothing fishy about Mrs. Mary Witte's operatic voice, Giacomo Bourg insists, even though she is a fish merchant, so he plans to bring her to New York to coach her. The 250-pound Stroudsburg, Pa., mother is pictured singing at her fish stall, the vicissitudes of operating which, she says, gave her the "soul" for song.

Payment of Tuition Explanation Given

County Superintendent C. S. Eldridge has called attention to the following rule adopted by the State Board of Education in regard to payment of high school tuition for 1936-37.

"Resolved, that high school tuition may not be paid to any receiving high school which allows children whose grades are taught in their home districts to attend the receiving school without payment of tuition at the level rate; provided that when geographical barriers or other conditions would prevent such children from attending school in their home districts when arrangements cannot be made between the sending and receiving districts for payment of such tuition by the sending district, then affidavit for such plans must be presented to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction by October 1, 1936, in which event the State Superintendent of Public Instruction may waive in such exceptional cases the provisions requiring the collection of tuition, subject to the approval of the State Board of Education; further provided that in case the receiving school shall not collect the total amount of tuition due that the State shall reserve the privilege of subtracting a like amount from the tuition to be paid by it."

Big Spring Full's Knee Is Injured

BIG SPRING, Sept. 24 — Weldon Bigony, spark plug of the Steer secondary, will not start the Eastland game here tonight, Steer coaches reported.
A fine blocker and good pass defense man, Bigony was slated to start at full, but will be out of the lineup with a knee injury. Coaches will plug the position with Trainer and Burriss without materially weakening the attack. Both have been showing up nice in practice.
All other players appeared to be in good condition as the Steers showed plenty of snap in running their plays yesterday afternoon at Steer stadium.
There is a possibility the Steers may be forced to play their first district and home game on a muddy field.

Key To Successful Marriages Is Sought By Psychologists In Seven Years of Study of 500 Couples

BY JACK ZAIMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
STORRS, Conn.—A seven years' experiment to reveal what combinations of married couples get along best together—or worse—has been undertaken by Dr. E. Lowell Kelly, assistant professor of psychology at Connecticut State College.
About a year ago, Dr. Kelly and his wife, his assistant, appealed to 500 engaged couples to submit to tests for the seven years' period. Today, he has about 200 couples on file, and has issued an appeal for 300 more.
When a couple agree to take the tests, they either visit Dr. Kelly at the college or are visited by the professor. "I see all of them personally," Dr. Kelly says.
Thousand Answers Sought
One thousand different items of information are sought by the professor and his wife. What are their likes and dislikes, their personalities, are they introvertive or extravertive, their backgrounds, money available, color of hair, eyes, their height and breadth? He also gives them psychological and intelligence tests.
And this goes on through the years. At the end of the seven years' period, Dr. Kelly said, he will ask each couple to submit to another thorough examination.
Two principal questions, Dr. Kelly hopes to have answered by these tests are:
1. How do persons pair off?
2. Which combinations have the most success in marriage?
In other words, as Dr. Kelly says, will a blonde be happy with a blonde, an introvert with an extravert, a tall one with a small one, a thin one with a wide one, and vice versa?
No Conclusions Yet
Are there any conclusions to date?
"No," said Dr. Kelly, "I have no preconception at to what combinations of personality lead to marital success. I am collecting information and expect to watch how the marriages come out."
Dr. Kelly received his bachelor of science degree from Purdue university in 1926 and then taught in high school in New Mexico. He was awarded his Master's degree in 1928 from Colorado State Teachers' college, and then joined the department of psychology at Stanford university. He received his Ph.D. from Stanford in 1930.
He taught at the University of Hawaii for a year and then studied in Germany and Austria as a Social Science Research Council Fellow. He came to Connecticut State in the fall of 1933.
Dr. Kelly has been married 10 years. He has no children.

WORD AWAITED ON PROCEDURE FOR FARM AID

Successful in their efforts for designation of Eastland-County on the Agriculture Department drought committee's emergency list, officials Friday awaited arrival of information on aid procedure.
The Agriculture Department announced Thursday inclusion of Eastland and other Texas counties on the list for emergency drought aid.
Designation of Eastland county followed investigation of need by county agents Elmo V. Cook and Miss Ruth Ramey and contact of U. S. Senator Tom Connally by County Judge Clyde L. Garrett of commissioners court, which initiated efforts for aid.
Although no official information had been received, officials believed the county emergency program will be carried principally by the Works Progress Administration. The WPA, it is understood, will furnish work for as many needy farmers as possible while the resettlement administration will make loans and grants in cases where employment is not possible.
Failures have been registered on cotton and peanuts, the county's two cash crops, on more than 1,300 farms, officials report.

BANK CASHIER IN GUN FIGHT WITH ROBBER

Escape Car Speeds Into Blind Alley And Bandit Surrenders

By United Press
BAIRD, Sept. 25.—A lone gunman failed today in an attempt to rob the First National Bank here and was captured by Sheriff R. L. Edwards of Callahan county after a gunfight with C. V. Jones, the cashier of the bank.
The man, who gave his name as H. L. Myers, former Texas convict, was discovered in the bank when Jones opened the door.
As the cashier obeyed the robber's command and began to gather a sum of money, his brother, R. E. Jones, entered the bank. The gunman wheeled and fired at the brother, but missed.
C. C. Jones snatched a pistol from a desk and opened fire on Myers. The latter fled from the bank in an automobile. LaMar Henry, a ranchman, shot at the car with a rifle. In a "dead end" alley Myers surrendered to the sheriff and a hastily organized group of citizens.
No one was wounded. Officers learned the car used was stolen last night in Abilene. Charges were prepared for filing today.

Keystone Of Nation's Prosperity Is The Buying Power of Labor

The greatest gain made by American labor during the trying days that have passed since the Great Collapse in 1929 does not appear on any statute book.

It is this: for the first time in the history of the country, practically everyone, workman, employer, professional or business man, recognizes that the keystone of prosperity and the welfare of all of us is the purchasing power of the men and women who work.

A few economists always knew it. But there were always some in influential places to deny it, and the great majority of people were indifferent to it.

Without wages that will put strong purchasing power into the hands of those who work, there can be no prosperity, no security for anyone.

The American market remains the greatest in the world. And that is because the buying power of the American workman has always been high in comparison with that of workmen abroad.

It is good to have all the foreign markets we can get, but the fact remains that the great market of the world is right here, and that its keystone is good wages which will put purchasing power into the hands of the many.

Merchants know it. They have seen their sales leap as employment grew and wages rose.

Professional people know it. They have seen medical, dental and legal bills paid after having been dormant for years.

Business men of all kinds know it, for they have seen the pulse of business beat faster as that purchasing power seeped down through retail trade into light, and then to heavy manufacturing.

Working people themselves know it, as they have watched their pay envelopes translated into more and better things to broaden their own lives.

Everybody knows it now, and the universal establishment of that glowing truth is the best augury for the future of American labor as it joins hands once again in celebrating its own day.

The future of American labor is somewhat clouded in detail. Rival organizations put forth their claims for attention. Different courses of action are urged on the men and women who work.

But the central fact of labor's keystone position in the national economy is so firmly established that the future can be set along only one course: "Forward!"

The trailer craze provides a new version: Home, Swift Home.

Will Be Dismissed AUSTIN.—Last chapters are being written in a $2,000,000 dispute over proceeds of bond issues put up to secure county road funds escrowed to the state highway department and deposited in an Austin trust company that went into receivership during the depression.

There will be 22 closing chapters. Each will be the same. They will note dismissal of 22 suits in 22 counties. The bonds secured county funds deposited to guarantee county participation in road projects. Later the state abandoned the policy of having counties help build state highways and set aside one cent of the gasoline tax to pay bonds of counties that previously had co-operated.

A suit was filed in Titus county to determine respective rights under the situation. Pleas of privilege split it into 22 separate suits. The first of these was called in Colorado county this week. The state did not make an appearance and the suit was dismissed.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KAY DUNN, pretty blonde, is hired as a stewardess on Overland Airways and the same day, meets TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot, who flies the trans-Pacific route.

Kay is assigned to the western division of the service. MONTE BLAINE, apprentice pilot, pays her marked attentions. Monte is a daring, romantic, but Kay is more interested in Ted. She and DICKIE, Ted's adopted 7-year-old son, become close friends.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV
KAY retained, neatly and precisely pigeonholed in her mind, unforgettable high lights of her three weeks' honeymoon trip on the trans-Pacific flight.

She remembered vividly that incident when a strikingly beautiful woman, obviously a Eurasian, had made a scene in an American cabaret where Ted had taken Kay. He was alone at the bar when the woman entered, swathed in white from turban to dancing pumps.

Kay had come out of the dressing room to find Ted engaged in conversation with the newcomer.

As Kay approached the woman turned, staring coldly, and said something in a threatening voice, which Kay did not understand. Ted had passed it off by saying that Illah was a woman he had met in dancing places here and there in the ports on the trans-Pacific route.

Another indelible memory of the trip was the excellent discipline at the Trans-Pacific Airways bases on the tiny islands strung across the ocean. Kay thought the colonizers had done well.

It was all part of the scientific planning of which Ted was so proud.

Kay treasured these memories because, almost as soon as the honeymoon was over, Ted had to leave her, this time for a longer stay in the Orient. She was very lonely in the little house on the beach at Ship Harbor.

BUT Dickie was with her now, highly pleased to be at home. Dickie was going to day school, and aside from school hours, was usually with Kay. He came to adore her and, when the flying colony saw what an attractive home she was making for Ted and his adopted son, it took her to its collective heart.

As days passed Kay missed the excitement of flying. Her job on the Overland Airways had never been a grind. Each day had brought new faces and new experiences. She missed the spirit of gay camaraderie she had enjoyed. Now she was Ted Graham's wife, and there was a certain dignity that she felt she owed to the title.

Doris had taken over Kay's post as stewardess, flying between Reno and Oakland, and there were nights when the two got together for little chats.

Alice Miller was expecting a child and Chuck, her pilot-husband, had received a raise.

"Kay, darling," Doris commented dryly, "sometimes I think girls only take these jobs as stepping-stones to marriage. But not for me! I love my job and my freedom."

KAY laughed. "And when Ted is away I'm perfectly miserable. That's life, with a vengeance."

Dickie rose up from the floor to say, "But I stay with you every night. You're not lonely with a big man like me in the house, are you?"

They both laughed, and Dickie returned to his model airplane.

"You'll step off with Ralph, Bangs yet?" Kay warned.

Doris frowned. "That was a mean trick you played on me, sending Ralph over to dine with me that night at your apartment. The very next day I was walking along the beach with a parasol behind my head. I heard a whistling, and when I turned around—it was Ralph! And was his face red! He thought I was somebody else. I brought the parasol down on his head."

At this moment the telephone rang, and Kay got up to answer it.

"The next time I meet that guy I'll break his head!" Doris continued.

The voice on the phone was Ralph Bangs. "Hello for you, Doris," he said.

Doris picked up the phone. She said, "Listen, you—" Put then she stopped to listen to what Ralph was saying. After a minute or so she forgot her indignation, turned to Kay and her voice was eager, even gay.

"There's a party going on over at Ralph's apartment. A whole mob from the flying colony. They want us to come over right away."

"U—" Kay said, laughing. "I'm afraid you'll have to go alone, Doris. I've got to help Dickie with his lessons. Arithmetic has got me down! And I'm writing a letter to Ted, to go off on the next plane to Manila."

DORIS frowned, but turned back to the telephone, and listened again. Ralph had heard what Kay said.

"Monte Blaine's on the wire now," Doris called. "He thinks he can persuade you to come."

Kay came to the phone, and said indulgently, "Hello, Monte. Sorry, I can do. I'm such a dutiful wife and home-maker that I'm not any more fun. I'd put a crimp in the party. But please have a good time, and invite me some other time—when Ted's here. We'd both love to come."

Doris put on her cloak again. "Six weeks is a long time when the cat's away!" she said. "But you know your mind." She added, in a low voice, so that Dickie couldn't hear, "Sato is a competent n-u-t-u-e, if you get what I mean."

Dickie stood up, to say indignantly, "I don't need a nurse! I even fly my own plane now. Yesterday Jerry and I sneaked off behind the hangars, and he let me pilot a transport plane all by myself."

"Dickie!" Kay said. "They don't let little boys fly big planes. And Jerry was in San Francisco yesterday."

But Dickie's vivid imagination suffered not one whit. He went on glibly, "Oh, then, that was my brother who took me up and let me fly the plane. He lives way over yonder on the other side of the bay. You don't know. You haven't lived here long."

Of course Dickie didn't have a brother, but this time Kay only smiled. "Now you get right to your spelling," she said. Then she walked with Doris to the door.

When she turned to Dickie again he was looking at a map of the trans-Pacific flight. "Pal, where would Ted be tonight?" he asked.

Kay pointed at a dot on the map. "Right there. Flying through the moonlight over the ocean. I'll bet he's thinking about you."

Then she whispered to herself, "And about me."

For a second, something like fear clutched at her heart. Suppose something should happen to Ted? But she had complete confidence in him. She must never let herself think about the dangers he faced each time he went away. On the trans-Pacific flight the human element didn't fail.

"U—" Kay said, laughing. "I'm afraid you'll have to go alone,

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON. — Unrevealed except in dry government publications, compilations now are available which show the extent to which some industries have stepped ahead of pre-depression employment and the extent to which others still lag far behind.

Comparing May, 1936, with May, 1929, it is obvious that most industries are not employing as many persons as they were seven years ago when we were supposed to be enjoying boom prosperity. But quite a few industries have as large or larger payrolls than they ever had before.

In some cases you can deduce changes in American tastes and habits and in others simply the fact that certain industries are lagging behind in the current pickup. And then there's the factor, varying from one industry to another, of technological employment, which occurs sometimes when an industry is producing a 1929 rate with perhaps 25 or 30 per cent fewer employees.

The beverage industry, of course, is employing far more persons than it did in 1929 because of prohibition repeal. But try and figure some of these out: Other industries where employment is five or ten percent more than in 1929 include soap, rayon, wire-worm, stamped and enameled wear, clocks and watches, chemicals, leather and beet sugar.

There's a much longer list of industries whose employment is 25 per cent or more below 1929 levels. Chief among these are candy, locomotives, tools, pottery, textile machinery, rubber boots and shoes, cement, structural and ornamental work, furniture, jewelry, cigars and cigarettes, aluminium goods, lighting equipment, electrical machinery, electric railroad repair shops, tires and inner tubes, silverware and plated ware, bolts, nuts and washers, iron and steel forgings, hardware, sawmills, millinery, brick and the marble, granite and slate industry.

Somewhat fewer industries are at just about the same level of employment as in 1929.

These include stoves, shipbuilding, radios and phonographs, shirts and collars, men's clothing, women's clothing, glass, baking, paper and pulp, knit goods, paints and varnishes, engines and turbines and tractors, cash registers, paper boxes, petroleum refining, rubber goods except tires and shoes—and, of all things as you might say, corsets!

The automobile industry is in the group employing from 5 to 15 per cent fewer workers than in May, 1929.

Also in this group are typewriters, newspapers and periodicals, books and shoes, blast furnaces and rolling mills, fur, tinware, woolen and worsted goods, cotton goods, drug preparations, fertilizer, slaughterering and meat packing, aircraft and cutlery.

The ice cream industry is one of those industries in the group employing from 15 to 25 per cent fewer workers than in 1929. Others are carpets, sugar refining, electric and steel cars, hats, chewing and smoking tobacco, butter, smelting and refining, explosives, foundries and machine shops, brass and bronze and copper products, book and job printing and farm implements.

There seem to be no figures which would indicate how the numbers of persons on relief from given industries would dovetail with the above figures.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Diced oranges and bananas, cereal, raisin muffins, broiled sausages, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Mushroom omelet, graham muffins, jam, pineapple blanc mange, milk, tea.
DINNER: Broiled lamb chops, baked potatoes, creamed carrots and peas, tomato, aspic salad, fry bread torté with mocha frosting, coffee.

Cover the top with a generous amount of whipped cream if you want a particularly "fancy" cake. Otherwise a thin mocha or coffee butter frosting will do.

Treat the cake gently when you remove it from the oven and don't jar it.

Remember torten are delicate, hence their charm. They must be handled with loving care when moving them about.

It is usually best to serve torten with the bottom of the spring-form still under the cake and placed directly on the cake platter.

Torten are the last word in the pastry cook's repertoire but there is no secret or stunt about making them. There's no reason why you shouldn't get the credit for being a fancy pastry cook yourself.

LET'S KNOW TEXAS AND TEXANS

WILL H. MAYES, AUSTIN, TEXAS

In this column, answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquirers must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. How and when was the "Cherokee Rose" introduced in Texas?
R. W.
A. It was brought to Texas more than 100 years ago by colonists from Georgia and planted in the Texas coast settlements, where it has thrived most and attained such size that it is used effectively for hedges.

Q. If the constitutional amendment to be voted on in November increasing salaries of State officials is adopted what will be the increase for each official? G. F.
A. The governor's salary would be increased from $4,000 to $12,000 a year; the attorney general's from $4,000 to $10,000, the comptroller's, treasurer's and land commissioner's from $2,500 each to $6,000 each, and the secretary of state's from $2,000 to $6,000.

Q. A former Texan, now living in New Jersey, would like to know if the State of Texas has any lands for sale or lease. E. H.
A. Write Land Commissioner, General Land Office, Austin, Tex., for desired information.

Q. Have the Texas Rangers ever worn uniforms? E. H.
A. No, though they are usually pictured wearing broad-brimmed white hats and boots as outstanding features of their clothing.

Q. If the Old Trail Drivers' Association of Texas is still meeting, who are the officers? E. H.
A. President, W. T. (Jack) Mann, San Marcos; Secretary, Wiley M. Pain, San Antonio.

Q. Where did the variegated phlox originate? W. W.
A. It is a native Texas flower, unknown to botanists until found in great profusion and beauty on Texas prairies by the first colonists. In 1853, a Mr. Drummond, of the Glasgow Botanical Society, sent seeds to England, from which the many beautiful varieties now known have been propagated.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By NEA Service
HAVE you ever made a torte? Perhaps you don't know what it is. Well, it's simply a cake made without flour, but may sound somewhat odd, but there's a catch. A substitute, such as cracker crumbs, bread crumbs, etc., is used in place of flour, making a cake that is lighter and more delicate texture.

Torten are usually made in spring-forms, the kind of cake form from which the side "peels" off, leaving a tin under the cake. Torten is that they are baked in a layer. You'll find this recipe for Rye Bread Torte a delightful change from customary layer cake.

Rye Bread Torte for Six
Four eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup rye bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon ground cloves. Separate the yolks and whites. To the well-beaten yolks, add the sugar and beat until very light.

Add the rest of the ingredients, the stiffly beaten whites last. Combine the two mixtures gently. Place in a lightly buttered nine-inch spring form and bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven about 40 minutes.

Easy, isn't it?
This torte will rise nicely and should be about 4 inches high when done.

Texas Empire Builders of '36'
Every man, woman and child in Texas should know the principal events of the momentous period of Texas history from March 1 to April 21, 1836—events that changed the shape and the destiny of the United States.

The facts essential to this understanding are briefly set forth in a 32-page booklet entitled "Texas Empire Builders of '36," telling of the stirring days which all Texans, native and adopted, are celebrating in 1936.

The booklet will be mailed postpaid for 10 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

RENOSA, Tamps., Mexico.—Finance arrangements are expected to be completed with a Mexico City bank this month for construction of a sanitary water supply system for the city of Renosa at a cost of 240,000 pesos.

They went to Mexico City September 20 with Juan Angel Cantu, also a Renosa business man, for conferences with officials of the National Mortgage Bank of Mexico, which is expected to provide the necessary funds. The state congress of Tamaulipas recently passed a law permitting the city to obligate itself for payment of the loan with which to build the water-

Joseph Furniture Department Introduces New Modes in Home Furnishings

The much talked of 20th Century French and English furniture was introduced to visitors last night when the D. Joseph Dry Goods and Furniture Company held formal open house, and greeted many guests during the house party from 7.30 until 9 o'clock.

Dining room tables were centered with lace. Low bowls of crystal held clusters of dwarf asters in vari- colors, nestled gracefully among fern sprays shooting in swirling fashion. On tables about the smartly arranged displays were vases of flowers grouped in blending colors and inviting to the eye.

The new style furniture, created in what is proving to be popular, offers outstanding versions of what a home would reflect through such suggestions, the "tops" in furniture fashion.

J. E. Meroney, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, gave an address of welcome, filled with well-placed remarks.

Employees of Joseph's aided in greeting guests, which numbered one of the largest crowds ever to have visited his place, on such similar occasions.

"Love," one word which has been defined in so many different ways, but certainly a fine ingredient for the basic in foundations, was interestingly discussed by Mrs. W. W. Mrs. Homer Smith presented her trio composed of Masters Jo Don Meroney, Clint Taylor and Bob Smith, in songs, including one particular number sounding notes of much harmony, "I Want a Girl." Spanish Club Organized in High School

A group of fourteen students met Wednesday to organize the Ranger High Foreign Language Club. Because of greater interest in Spanish, it was decided to make the organization a Spanish club.

The group talked about what it would do in the club. It was decided that they should sing, have stores and talk Spanish when they went to the stores, eat a Spanish luncheon at a hotel, and, if possible, bring a Spanish movie to Ranger for the students.

After discussing these plans the President and the Vice-President were elected. Mary Louise Ervin was elected President and Rozelle Nicholson elected vice-president. Other officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Central Baptist to Have a B.Y.P.U. Training School

Beginning next Monday night at 7 p. m., the B. T. U. of Central Baptist church will hold a week of training for every member of the church. This department is under the direction of Morris Jefferies and much careful planning has been made that a great profit may be had from the week of training. The 15-minute periods each night will be given to a revival of gospel music, headed by Roy Moore. There will be B. T. U. classes taught for primary, junior, intermediate and young people's unions and Pilgrims' Progress will be given for the adults. The best teachers available have been secured for each class and every member of Central Baptist church should be in one of these classes. Between class periods there will be time for refreshments and fun.

A large place is being made for adults in this school, aside from gospel singing the study of Pilgrims' Progress will hold each adult until the last service. This book is the greatest ever written aside from the Bible, and will be taught by an interesting, capable teacher. Every adult in the church is urged to be present Monday night. Bring the children and let this week be truly a week of training and worship for each member of the family.
