

EAGLES DOWN BULLDOGS BY A 59-0 COUNT

The Ranger Bulldogs, playing their first conference game of the 1936 season, went down in defeat against a larger, older and more experienced team Friday afternoon when they were defeated by the Abilene High School Eagles at Abilene by a score of 59 to 0.

The Eagles started their scoring spree early, making two touchdowns and kicking one goal in the first quarter and adding another touchdown and point after in the second quarter to make the score at the half 20 to 0.

Scoring for Abilene were Galbraith, with three touchdowns, Hughes with two and Tidwell, a Haskell transfer, with three. The points after touchdown were made by Crumpton, who accounted for four, and Galbraith, who made the other.

Although outweighed and outclassed, both on the offense and on the defense, the Bulldogs made a stubborn fight, turning in the best game of which they were capable, and practically the entire team drew praise for doing all it could against great odds.

War Debts Help Keep America Out of War

The famous war debts may be as dead as a salted herring, but it is beginning to look as if they have left some very lively ghosts to stalk about the chancelleries of Europe.

It has been several years since all the European nations except Finland agreed that there was no sense in paying Uncle Sam what was due him. Since armies and navies are the only international collecting agencies that amount to anything, and since Uncle Sam obviously was not going to get that tough about it, welsing seemed perfectly safe.

Uncle Sam would just have to take it—rather, not take it—and like it.

There was one little thing the American Congress could do, and it proceeded to do it with all speed. It passed the Johnson act, prohibiting American loans to any foreign governments which were in default on their war debts.

But that looked very much like an empty gesture, at the time, because nobody was trying to borrow anything, anyway.

With the passing of the years, however, the picture has changed a little. The world depression isn't quite as bad as it was. Governments are getting into a spending mood once more.

Furthermore, a new war seems to be in the cards, and all hands would like to be able to do a little more business with the American banks, munitions makers, and raws material brokers.

Both France and Italy, for instance, recently found it advisable to seek funds from abroad; and both nations found the American banks closed to them.

Now it is reported that Great Britain is likewise interested in getting funds in this country for its vast rearmament campaign; but the Johnson act stands in Great Britain's way also.

As a result of all this, rumors are afloat to the effect that one or another of the foreign powers will presently be taking steps to reopen the war debt question.

One report—quoted recently by the Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute—suggests that England may devalue the 246,000,000 pounds sterling of gold now held by the Bank of England and offer the resulting profit, some $700,000,000, to America as a lump sum settlement of the British debt.

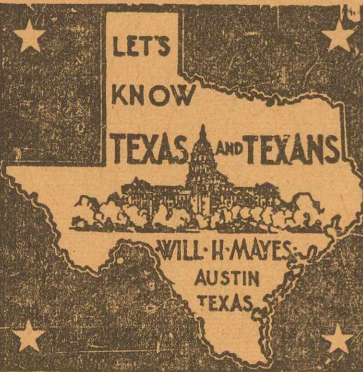

It would seem odd to find the war debts on the front pages again, after we had kissed them goodbye forever. But it is quite possible that is just what will happen.

If it does happen, there must be at least a few Americans who will suspect that the war debts are worth more dead than alive.

Defaulted, the debts stand as a barrier against our getting financially and industrially entangled with a Europe which is on the verge of indulging in another world-making row.

Paid up—at a dime on the dollar, or some such rate—they would cease to be a barrier, and the way would be open once more for us to be a Good Time Charley for the world at large.

MAYBE POLITICS IS HELPING BUSINESS

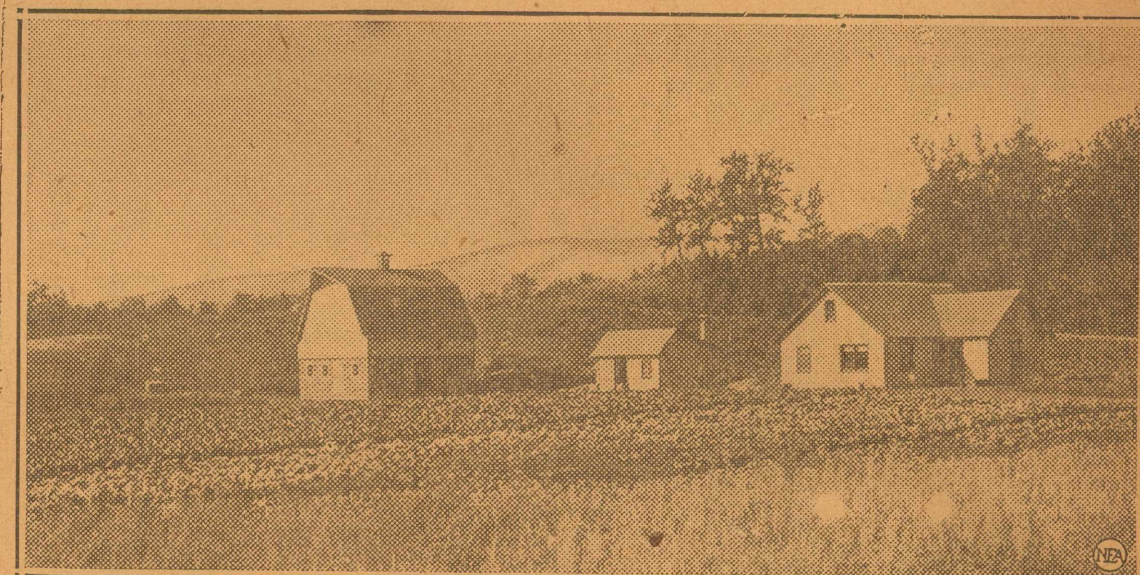

U. S. Experiences A New Position In Cotton Market

BY DR. A. B. COX
Director University of Texas Bureau of Business Research
For the first time in over one hundred years the United States is experiencing the disadvantages of a cotton producing country which does not have sufficient production to dominate world prices. When the United States produced close to 60 per cent of the world's cotton, a short crop in this country was compensated for by a corresponding rise in price. Now that the United States is producing only about 40 per cent of world cotton, a large part of that advantage has been lost and cotton growers may now experience all the disadvantages of widely fluctuating income resulting from a short crop and a comparatively low price at the same time.

461,000 bales, and the price on New Orleans middling spot cotton closed on that date at 12.42 cents. On September 8, the date of the last Government report, the estimate was reduced 1,361,000 bales to 11,100,000 bales. Moreover, the estimated world supply of American cotton as of September 1 was about 2,500,000 bales less than on September 1 last year, which should normally cause an advance in the price from then to now of about 350 points. On September 8, however, the price of New Orleans spots closed at 12.52 cents, only ten points above the price a month earlier.

EXHIBITS AT COLONISTS' FIRST FAIR PROVE MATANUSKA VALLEY FERTILITY

Typical of Matanuska Valley homes and farm buildings are these, owned by Walter Pippel, colonist, who already has started repaying his government loan. He was an expert truck gardener in Minnesota before going to Alaska.

Striking proof that nearly every variety of vegetable can be grown in Alaska is given here, in an exhibit at the first Matanuska Valley fair. M. D. Snodgrass, old settler in the valley and chairman of the fair, is shown with onions, carrots, cucumbers, cabbage, lettuce, turnips, celery, potatoes, wheat, and clover raised by colonists.

In this column, answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquirers must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What is the story of the two iron posts, once linked together by an iron chain, in Oakwood cemetery, at Jefferson? R. T.

A. A blacksmith named Rose and a gambler named Robertson killed each other in a fight over a woman both loved. They were buried side by side and the two posts, chained together, marked their graves. The chain has either fallen away or been removed, but the posts still stand.

Q. How will Marshall Ford dam on the Colorado River, 20 miles above Austin, compare in size with other large dams? P. P.

A. It will be the third largest dam in the United States, exceeded in size only by the Boulder and Norris dams. It will impound 2,500,000 acre feet of water in a lake extending from 20 miles above Austin to Marble Falls.

Q. About what has been the total East Texas lumber production and how much is still standing? A. S. A.

A. It is estimated that approximately 38,000,000,000 feet of all classes of lumber have been cut and that 17,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber is still standing in addition to the young timber growing but not yet merchantable.

Q. What county in Texas is named for a president of the Republic of Texas, with its county seat also named for him? P. R.

A. Jones county and Anson, the county seat, are both named for Dr. Anson B. Jones, last president of the Republic, who furled the flag of the Republic at Austin, Feb. 16, 1846, and unfurled the Stars and Stripes, this signifying Texas' annexation to the United States.

Col. Thompson Says No War Until 1938

AUSTIN. — Europe will not be ready for a war before 1938. That is the belief of Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission. His belief is that no European country is now equipped to a point where it is willing to hazard a war. As an experienced officer of the World War, credited with laying down the heaviest barrage of that conflict, he knows what it takes to be equipped to fight. He does not predict there will be no war before that.

Building Permits In Cities Growing

HOUSTON, Tex. — Building permits in Houston climbed above the $13,000,000 mark during the first nine months of 1936, as compared with the annual total of approximately $7,000,000 for 1935.

Building in Houston far outstripped Dallas, closest Texas competitor for construction honors. Dallas' total for the same period was approximately $8,100,000.

Totals for other Texas cities were: Fort Worth, $6,873,000; Austin, $3,462,000; San Antonio, $3,216,000; Corpus Christi, $2,045,000; Tyler, $1,465,000, and Galveston, $1,367,000.

Most of the colonists do not fear the oncoming winter. Their houses are built now, and the first winter was no colder than the winters some of them had gone through in the states.

MOSQUITOES were bad during the summer, but the season for them is only about a month and a half long.

Three colonists, Virgil Eckhart, Joseph Puhl, and Walter Pippel, no longer need government credit and have started paying back government loans.

But there are some complaints about the financial end of the colonization scheme. There is fear the cost is going to be more than the land and labor is worth. Others say they can not find where they stand as to what they owe the government. Manager Sheeley says he has made vain efforts to get the appraisals made and reports sent. He thinks the average debt will be around $5,000.

Building Permits In Cities Growing

HOWEVER, it has been more than two months since any colonists have left to go back to the states. Sixth children have added to the population of the colony and there will be many more arrivals in the next few months.

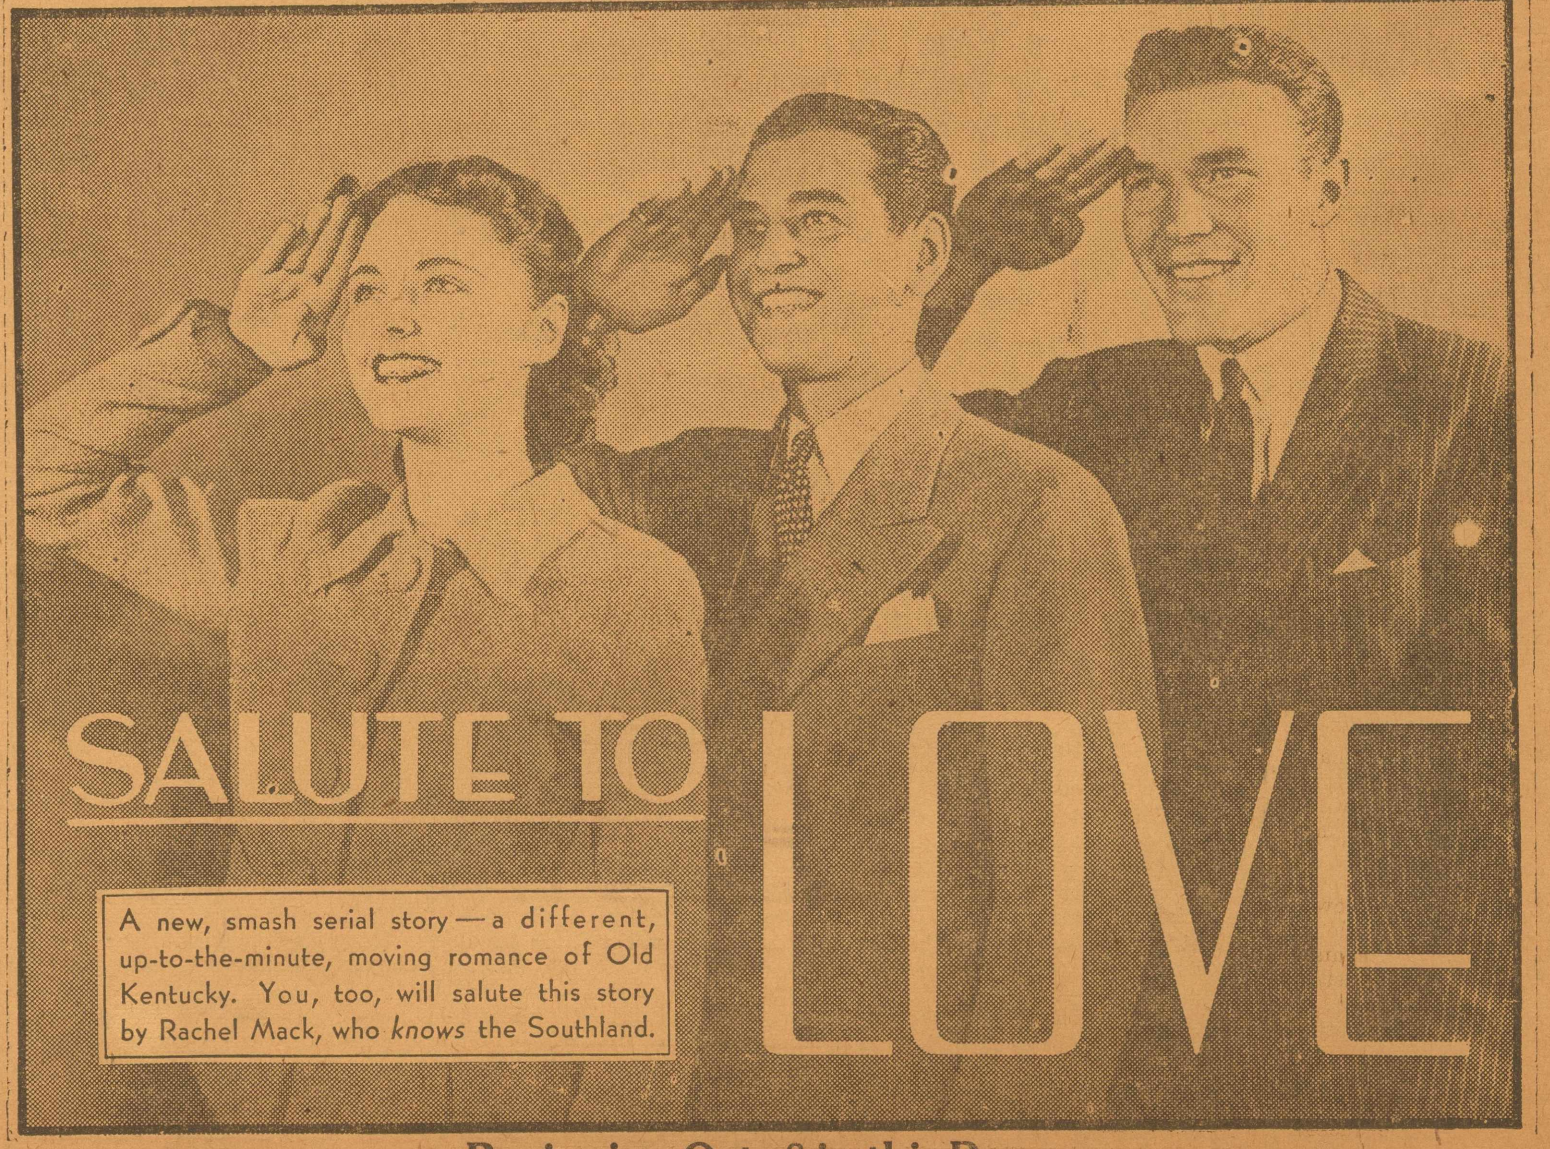

All in all, the majority of the Matanuska residents are finding plenty to live for again, and it was with the spirit of the Pilgrims of 1621 that these 20th century pioneers celebrated their first Thanksgiving.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KAY DUNN, pretty airplane stewardess, falls in love with TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the Trans-Pacific route.

Ted has two interests in life—his job and DICKIE, his adopted son, 7 years old. When Ted asks Kay to marry him, she fears it is merely to make a home for Dickie, but she agrees.

She does not agree, though, with Ted's theories that marriage is successful, must be planned scientifically, just as a plane flight. She is rebellious because he insists her housekeeping must be carried on in the same way, with charts and budgets.

Kay gives a party one night and Ted, tired and weary, instead of remaining with the guests, goes to his room. To punish him, Kay impulsively decides to take the morning plane to Honolulu.

Though RALPH BAXIS is supposed to pilot the ship, MONTE BLAINE goes instead.

Once on board, Kay begins to regret her impulsiveness. ILLAH, the Oriental dancer, also is a passenger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI

WHEN Monte Blaine's escapade was known at the central office of Trans-Pacific Airways it was obvious that he would lose his place as pilot on the Pacific flight. It was Ted Graham's duty to relegate Monte to the land service.

Monte received the news when he brought the ship into Honolulu. There was this added message from Ted, "We can't make mistakes in trans-oceanic flying. Even one mistake is too many. The human element can't enter at all."

Monte did not confide this to Kay when she disembarked. He took her to her hotel, under Diamond Head, and went to his own, close to the airport, to await final orders from Ted.

But Kay didn't stay long in her hotel room.

She had purposely gone to the same hotel as ILLAH and taken a room next to the dancer's. She waited with her ear to the door until she had heard ILLAH go out. Peering down the hall, she saw ILLAH in evening clothes.

From her balcony window Kay watched ILLAH get into a taxi, and in the stillness of the night, heard her give the name of a smart night club.

Kay took a taxi to the same address.

In the foyer she stopped long enough to send a cablegram to Ted. While the boy waited at her side, she puzzled over the wording. At last she wrote:

"Diamond Head Hotel. Will wait here to see you next trip. Love to Dickie."

There seemed to be nothing else that she could say. Ted's silence had made any explanation difficult. She went into the cabaret, and was shown to a table by the head waiter, who knew Ted and recognized his wife.

Almost immediately she saw ILLAH. The dancer was standing at the bar, talking to two men. Kay saw ILLAH reach in her bag and hand a paper to one of the men.

It was not clear to Kay what she expected to learn by observing ILLAH. The dancer had, on several occasions, menaced Kay's happiness, and now some instinct told her that ILLAH menaced Ted's happiness as well.

Suddenly ILLAH disappeared. Kay had turned for an instant, in response to a voice that she recognized close by. It was a naval officer's voice. He was a friend of Ted's and he came up to Kay's table with his wife, greeting her cordially. They invited Kay to their table.

She went with them, but, looking around, saw that ILLAH was gone. To the naval officer she said quickly, "See those men standing at the bar. Do you know them?"

The man scanned the faces and said shortly, "Sure. One of them, the one that looks like an Oriental, owns a fleet of pearl fishing schooners and the other is an aviator. He has a flying boat and makes commercial trips between the islands. They are both suspected of playing contraband. Oily customers."

Kay thanked him and went on. "They were standing there talking to a slinky Oriental woman a few minutes ago. I once had the occasion to meet her in Manila. Ted—"

"Oh, ILLAH!" the officer's wife said. "My dear, when ILLAH is in Honolulu all the wives at Pearl Harbor shiver! She's such a serpent. She gives me the creeps. Makes me think of Mata Hari."

HER husband laughed. "Feminine suspicions, my dear," and then changed the subject abruptly. "Something terrible has just happened out at Midway," he said. "It concerns the navy as well as Trans-Pacific Airways. One of the air station personnel on the island came down with spinal meningitis—the deadly type. Three more cases are suspected, and in the crowded quarters there may be an epidemic. There isn't an ounce of serum on the islands."

Kay said, "Those men alone on a tiny island in the middle of the ocean—facing death—"

"They're only 12 hours away by air," the man reminded her. "The serum will stop the epidemic, all right. It's already on board the Mariner."

All three rose to go presently, and her friends accompanied Kay to her hotel.

But she couldn't sleep. She saw the sun come up over Diamond Head, in a violent clash of color. Then she dressed and had breakfast sent up to her room.

The waiter knew she was Ted Graham's wife. After he had served her he said respectfully, "The Mariner was forced down into the sea at French Frigate Shoals."

Kay's heart leapt. In her anxiety she stood up, dropping the spoon in her hand. "No!" Her eyes were stark, wide.

"Safe landing!" the youth hastened to add. "But after repairs the ship was unable to take off."

"But what will they do?" Kay said. "The serum—"

"The epidemic scare sent mobs into the hospitals, and the supply of serum in Honolulu was exhausted," he said. "But Ted Graham—your husband, madam—has been on the way from San Francisco for nine hours now. He should be in Honolulu in seven hours with a new supply. He's going to fly the ship on to the Midway!"

SHE thanked the waiter, and he left, pleased to have rendered service to Ted Graham's wife.

On the 20-ton Mariner of the skies Ted's eyes were actually watching the gyropilot, which had controlled and flown the ship for five hours now without the benefit of human hands. On this emergency flight he was trying out the gyropilot, the device he had perfected.

He walked from the navigation instrument board back to the engineering officer's post. He checked the engine and fuel instruments, looked across at the post of the radio officer, and listened to the code message from the set used for communicating with ground stations.

Then he walked back to the chart room, and took up the captain's post again. He glanced anxiously at the navigation chart, and then at his watch.

"We're making 164 miles an hour against a head wind. We ought to be in Pearl Harbor with the serum in six hours, at least."

The navigation officer, grim at his task, nodded his head.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

LABURN, Louisiana State, Vanderbilt, and Mississippi State is the way Edgar Lee Walker ranks Southeastern Conference football teams of 1936.

The former Stanford halfback and end neglects to mention the University of Mississippi array, of which he is the head coach. But listen:

"The greatest players I ever coached are Houser Kinard and Ray Hapes, Ole Miss juniors of this year. Kinard weighs 196 pounds. He was the best sophomore tackle I ever saw. I can't recall a finer running back than Ray Hapes, who scales 160."

Tulane had been preparing for an armful in New Orleans, Sept. 26.

Walker doesn't as much as mention the Green Wave in listing Mississippi's toughest opponents: Louisiana State, Temple, Marquette, and Mississippi State.

"Our material is above the average for Ole Miss, but of course does not stack up with the stronger teams in our conference," says the big fellow.

While Alabama is not reputed to be the Crimson Tide of other years, it would not surprise Walker or the Tusculum outfit turned out to be the dark horse of the Southeastern Conference.

Remember the Names

AS outstanding players in the Southeastern circuit this season Walker selects these backs: Ray Hapes, Mississippi; Crass, Louisiana State; Bryan and Mattox, Tulane; Armstrong and Height, Mississippi State; Phil Dickens, Tennessee; Riley, Alabama; and Agnes, Vanderbilt. To this list he adds Tinsley of Louisiana State and Walters of Louisiana State.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By NEA Service

A COMBINATION more thoroughly American than Boston baked beans and steamed brown bread would be difficult to name. A New England specialty, it ranks with those other national favorites—Maryland fried chicken, Virginia baked ham, New Orleans creole dishes, and Texas barbecued beef.

Most housewives have their own favorite way of preparing baked beans—some liking them sweetened with molasses or maple syrup, others preferring to add tomato sauce. On brown bread, opinions are less arbitrary. Here is a recipe that has been carefully tested.

Steamed Brown Bread

One 3-oz. package dry mince meat; 1-2 cup water; 1 cup flour; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon soda; 2 cups cornmeal; 1-2 cup molasses; 1 pint milk.

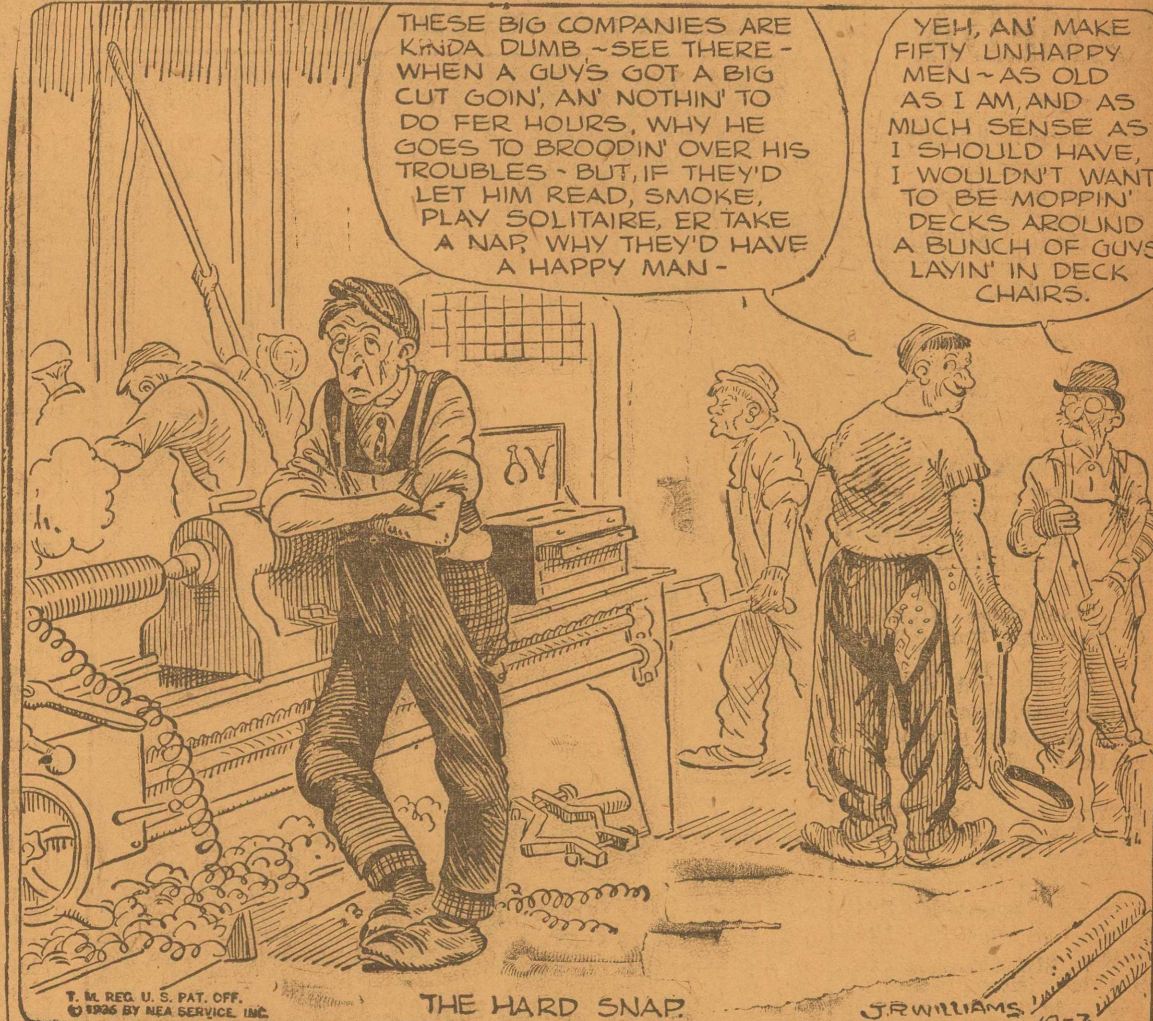

Break mince meat into pieces. Add cold water. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to brisk boil. Continue boiling for three minutes, or until mixture is sufficiently dry. Allow to cool.

Sift flour, soda, measure, add salt and soda and sift again. Add cornmeal and mix thoroughly. Add molasses and milk gradually to dry ingredients. Blend thoroughly.

Put in prepared mince meat. Pour into greased molds or baking powder cans, filling 2-3 full. Cover lightly and steam 2 hours, having boiling water halfway up on molds. If additional water is needed during steaming, it must be boiling when added.

Vermont Johnnycake is another New England recipe worth copying. It is light, moist, crumbly and rich—ideal as a hot bread with any simple dinner.

Farm Tenancy to Be Subject Of A State Conference

DALLAS—The calamitous effect of farm tenancy on Texas land and people is to be shown in data being assembled and charted by the Resettlement Administration for presentation to Governor Allred, preliminary to a state-wide conference this month.

The governor announced that he would call such a conference to discuss a program for increasing farm ownership in Texas, and requested the Resettlement Administration to prepare material.

D. P. Trent, regional director of Resettlement, said the material was being prepared under supervision of Dr. J. T. Sanders, assistant regional director, a member of the Southern Agricultural Workers' committee on farm tenancy.

Trent said Texans might not be so seriously concerned with farm tenancy if it were a passing or a transient condition, if it were simply a stage by which the farmer reached a higher level.

"But tenancy as it exists in Texas," Trent said, "tends to be a permanent stratification in which the greater part of our farmers are permanently imbedded. Financial returns to the tenant farmer are ordinarily so low that he is prevented from accumulating the reserves which would enable him to make a start toward ownership, under present land purchase requirements."

A study of 700 sharecroppers in another cotton state has shown that only one out of ten of them ever become owners. During three years out of four they made only enough to liquidate what they owed to their landlord, or they increased their debt to him.

Many large plantations have been forced on the market in recent years, Trent said, but when this happened the land has not been divided among small farmers. These plantations were sold on bloc to other large plantation owners or to business and professional leaders looking for investments.

The RA has made a demonstrational start toward solving this problem by placing under option land enough for 500 farms in Texas, which will be sold to selected farmers from low-income groups. These farmers are to be chosen with the aid of a county advisory committee. They will be placed on the land under a five-year lease contract. During that five years they will have an opportunity of accumulating enough to make a down payment of 15 per cent. When they are able to make that payment and when the Resettlement Administration and the prospective purchaser are both satisfied with the agreement, a sale contract will be executed by which the purchaser will have 40 years

Only a good grade of land is being bought for these farms, and it is bought at such a price as is justified by the past production record. Trent said that one of the chief stumbling blocks in the path of the home ownership has been that land values have been on a speculative basis, at a level not justified by what they would produce, actually, and hence the man

Landlubber Builds 35-Foot Cruiser

By United Press

WOONSOCKET, R. I. — Peter Bak, who lives 18 miles from the ocean, never had enjoyed a boat ride until he constructed a 33-foot cabin cruiser in his back yard.

The boat has sleeping quarters for four persons, with arrangements on the deck house to accommodate four more. It is also equipped with a 75-horsepower engine, pantry, refrigerator, etc., it took two years to build.

The cruiser, registered as the Ann Weron, has been transported to Pawtuxet Cove and launched.

Bomber Leaves His Calling Card

Pushed back on the ground by the relentless attack of the Spanish rebels, loyalist airmen carry on desperate bombing raids, risking destruction by explosion of their own missiles to harass rebel positions. So close to the ground is the bomber pictured above that it barely escaped envelopment in the smoke cloud released by explosion of the bomb it released.

Trench Silo to Be Opened Oct. 9th

A 10 ton trench silo on the Cecil Shults farm, 3 miles north of Rising Star, will be opened Friday, October 9th at 4:30 P. M. Every one interested has been invited to come inspect the silage and discuss this method of saving feed. County Agents Elmo Cook and Hugh Barnhart and Vocational Agriculture Teacher Curtis Wilson will be present to discuss all phases of trench silos and answer questions. Agricultural leaders of the County have emphasized repeatedly that the trench silo is now recognized as the most practical and economical way to store feed on the farm. Feed stored in this way has twice the value of dry stacked feed as silage has the same feed value as the green feed and when first put into the silo while drying feed causes it to lose much of its value. A trench silo is safe from damage by fire, insects, rats, flood, and theft. It will keep feed perfectly for years so that it is available when needed. The County Agents are urging every Eastland County farmer to build at least a small trench silo and store some of the feed for this winter that will otherwise go to waste. Milo and corn stalks do not make as high grade silage as the same feed with the heads or ears left on, but they would be worth many dollars, to livestock this winter. Frost damaged feed can be safely used for silage if allowed to stand for four or five days after frost. Particulars on trench silos can be obtained from the County Agents or Vocational Agricultural Teachers.

High-Fidelity Is Product of Much Experimentation

The question is one deserving of much thought, and as a result much thought is being given the question. In the great Philco experimental and engineering laboratories, a corps of distinguished radio engineers constantly conducts researches into every branch of radio reception... striving in every way possible to improve the performance of radios already generally admitted to be entitled to unquestioned leadership. Because of this unceasing experimentation, Philco radios today incorporate every worthwhile advance in radio science and invention. From the smallest Philco to the largest, the regular 1937 models were designed to provide the finest performance and tone quality of the greatest radio laboratories in the world.

All music is composed of complex tones, which are a combination of a basic tone and higher tones definitely related to the basic tone. These higher tones are the overtones which give timbre and naturalness to vocal and instrumental music and lend individuality to the tone of the many and varied musical instruments.

These well blended qualities are demonstrated at Killingsworth, Cox furniture company, and you are cordially invited to visit their radio department at your earliest convenience.

School Head Writes Trick Numbers Book

NEW YORK—A book of more than 100 number tricks which puzzle and amuse, yet require no mathematical skill, has appeared. The publishers say that "Easy Number Tricks for Young and Old" will provide a diversion as entertaining and stimulating as cross-word puzzles. The book was written by Joseph C. Brown, superintendent of schools of Pelham, N. Y., and published by Strathmore Company, Aurora, Ill. It contains puzzles depending on phraseology, others solvable by reasoning, and mathematical phenomena.

Easy Washer Leads In Cutting Labor

It's a greater value, if for no other reason, Easy has long led the washing machine industry in developing new and practical inventions that save time, labor, clothes and money, continuing to relieve the labors of the home. The new amazing 3-zone washer is proving an amazing value for 1937. Models are arranged at Killingsworth, Cox furniture company for your approval and demonstration of the late inventions are gladly given to visitors at all times. Cleaner, whiter clothes — made possible only by a thorough tub-thru action that washes all the clothes all the time. Less wear on clothes because entire load receives equal washing action. Other commendable features are proven in the 3-zone washer.

Rural Electricity Is Sought In Valley

MISSION, Tex.—The first proposal for rural electrification under government loans in the Lower Rio Grande Valley is being advanced by a committee of residents of the Alton community, five miles north of Mission.

A meeting of Alton citizens recently was featured by explanation of the Rural Electrification Administration's plan by R. G. Burwell, Hidalgo county agricultural agent. A committee will survey the community and report to another community-wide meeting. Burwell explained that the REA has set aside $2,000,000 for the use of Texas rural communities qualifying for assistance. Federal loans may be secured for a 20-year period at three per cent interest. The communities can obtain money to build their own power plants and distribution systems or can purchase electricity from established plants at rates they can afford to pay.

Stop robbing yourself of good appearance and popularity by letting dirt, dust, spots and stains steal into your clothes. Arrest the wasted money that is slipping through your hands because these four things are shortening the life of all your garments.

Send your clothes regularly and often to Ranger Dry Cleaners, where quality cleaning methods say "Stop!" to the thieves that menace your chances of being well dressed always. And see how much farther you can make your clothes budget go!

Stanwick, Taylor Are Co-Starred In His Brother's Wife

Barbara Stanwick and Robert Taylor form the screen's newest romantic team in "His Brother's Wife," which comes to the Arcadia theatre today.

Taylor, regarded as the most sensational box office draw since Clark Gable first leaped to fame, comes into his newest leading role following such hits as "Private Number," "Small Town Girl" and "Magnificent Obsession."

W. S. Van Dyke, the man who made such outstanding pictures as "San Francisco," "Rose Marie" and "Naughty Marietta," directed "His Brother's Wife."

The story has been placed in two extremely interesting yet contrasting settings—the gay, happy night life of New York and the sordid and suffocating heat of a dense South American jungle.

The settings were designed by Cedric Gibbons. Lawrence Weingarten was the producer.

Ranger Couple Married Saturday, To Spend Honeymoon in Florida

Simplicity marked the attractive double ring ceremony Saturday morning when Miss Burla Jane Kohn, youngest daughter of Mr. Alex Kohn, and Mr. B. E. Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Garner of Strawn, were married at Palo Pinto. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yonker, close friends of the bride and bridegroom, made up the wedding party.

Immediately after the ceremony the group motored to Fort Worth where they attended the T. C. U. Arkansas game. Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Garner left Fort Worth for a two-week trip into Florida.

Upon their return to Ranger they are to be at home at the Gholson hotel. Mr. Garner is manager of the Arcadia and Columbia theatres.

Valuable Topics to Feature Program

Topics of value to each member of child study club No. 2 are to feature the Thursday afternoon program at 2:30 o'clock when Mrs. J. E. Ogg, Spring Road, acts as hostess.

Mrs. J. B. Houghton will assume the role of leader, and Mrs. C. E. Maddocks is slated to talk on "Reducing Fire Accidents in the Home." Mrs. Saule Perlestein has chosen for her subject, "What a Modern Family Can Contribute to a Community." A delegate to the November convention will be selected. The club has recently added a number of new members to its roster, and the membership is made up of those who also take active part in different parent-teacher associations.

Evangelist to Hold Meetings In Ranger

Beginning Sunday morning, Oct. 18, the Rev. J. L. Cleveland, field man for this presbytery, will begin a series of evangelistic meetings in the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Cleveland resides in Abilene, and does work of this type all through the West. He is a preacher of personality and power.

The church is looking forward to this time with great anticipation, and a purpose to utilize every God-given force for the advancement of His Kingdom. Friends are cordially invited to participate in this movement. Many years have elapsed since the church has had a genuine revival of religion, and this has been planned for several months.

Keys Quadruplets Will Visit Ranger To Present Program

Mrs. Hal Hunter, head of the English department of the Ranger Junior College, announced Saturday that the college would present the famous Keys quadruplets of Baylor University in a program at the Recreation Building sometime in November.

The college, in making an effort to secure some outstanding attraction, contacted Hon. Pat Neff, president of Taylor and secured from him a promise that he would bring the quadruplets to Ranger in November, the exact date to be determined later.

The Keys quadruplets, the only living quadruplets of college age, are quite talented and have given programs on a number of occasions. The Ranger Junior College believes that in securing this engagement for Ranger it will be one that will meet with the wholehearted approval of the entire community.

Central Baptist Closes Training School Period

The last service of the B. T. U. Training school was held Friday night. This was one of the best Training schools ever held in Central Baptist Church. Each evening was filled with study, songs, fun and fellowship. The enrollment of the school reached 94 with adults leading throughout the school. The enrollment of the adult class in Pilgrim's Progress reached 38. The B. T. U. was strengthened in every department and tonight's session will witness the promotions and better plans for our Fall and Winter B. T. U. work.

Preaching at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M., by the Pastor. This is rally Day throughout the Church. Let the entire membership and friends of the Church make special effort to be present. Subject for the morning hour, "Life in the Spirit," or "The Spirit of the Christian Life."

Young People will meet at 6:45 P. M. We are re-organizing our Young People's work. We need every one of you. We are starting off the new school year today. Let's make it a great day in every way.

W. M. S. meets Monday at 3 P. M. All ladies urged to be present.

We are continuing our Rally services through Wednesday night. I guess you will have to listen to the Pastor Monday night. I have not been able to get a guest preacher for that time. Dr. D. K. Porter, our Pastor at Breckenridge, will preach Tuesday night. Dr. Porter is a great preacher. You will enjoy him.

Wednesday night all the Methodists in Ranger are requested to bring a picnic lunch and meet at the Church for a great Fellowship meeting. An interesting program is being arranged by a competent Committee. Of all services, don't miss this one.

Announcement will be made soon about our District Banquet.

Monday
7:00 P. M.—The W. M. S. will observe their week of prayer each night this week. Laymen and auxiliaries of the church will take part each night.

The Cisco Baptist Association meets with the First Baptist Church of Breckenridge Thursday and Friday of this week. All members of Central are urged to attend.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
H. B. JOHNSON, Pastor
Sunday School 10 a. m. with Garland Montgomery, superintendent. Golden Rule Bible class, taught by Mrs. Huckaby. All the men of the church should be in this class this morning. You would enjoy it.

Preaching by the pastor, 11 a. m. This is a wonderful morning and it looks as though every one would be appreciative enough to come to the "House of the Lord on the Lord's Day." Come this morning.

Senior and Junior Endeavors will meet this evening at 6:45. Note change in time.

Evening worship, 7:45.

The ladies will meet in their Missionary work Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Carothers. Ladies will take notice.

Those who missed the All-church night last Wednesday evening will never know just what they missed. No one could give a full account of it. Anyway, you missed a great fellowship and a fine spirit in the selection of officers for the coming year. Peace and harmony surely prevails in this little band of Christian workers. Come and help wind our year up in a great way.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE
With BILL MAYES

We haven't checked up on it to be sure, and, in fact, we haven't any place to check, but we imagine that a scoring record was set in the Oil Belt this week-end.

A total of 261 points was scored in the five games played, an average of 52 points to the game.

The Cisco-Sweetwater game led with a total of 66 points, the Ranger-Abilene game was second with 59, the Eastland-San Angelo game was third with 52, Mineral Wells-Breckenridge game next with 46 points, while the Brownwood-Big Spring game was way below average with only 38 points being scored.

And the three Eastland County entries fared pretty badly, Ranger, Cisco and Eastland being defeated by a composite score of 171 to 6.

But Ranger was not the only team defeated by as much as 59 to 0. Wichita Falls bettered that record by being defeated 60 to 0 by Classen High of Oklahoma City, and Palestine defeated Crockett 66 to 0 to top the scoring for the high school games of Friday.

And, now, Ranger meets Weatherford, Cisco and Big Spring on successive week-ends, which should slow down the scoring spree slightly as far as Ranger is concerned, because none is considered as the Abilene Eagles, even when the Eagles slip their second team into the game.

P. S.: The New York Giants didn't do so well Friday, either.

One campaign song we've all ways wanted to see adopted is the refrain from shaking hands.

"She's Better Today"

WHEN a loved one has been ill, what a joy these words bring to you! And to us, too. For not only is a friend recovering, but often we have helped in that recovery by rushing medicines and supplies to the sickroom, filling prescriptions for the doctor, "BETTER today!" How glad we are that we had all the drugs needed, that they were fresh, and of the highest quality obtainable. The privilege of filling such prescriptions is sacred to us. So remember, when you need medicine, it's safe to have faith in us.
