PLANE SELLING CONTRACT NOT TO BE PROBED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Chairman Gerald Nye of the Senate nominations committee, today defended his action in deciding against hearings on charges that Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, sought a $50,000 commission for selling airplanes to Russia.

After studying documents Nye said the committee decided that if there ever was a contract between Roosevelt and Anthony Fokker, "it never was fulfilled and nothing was done under it. Going into it would have resulted only in one thing, smearing of the President."

Nye said that "in the interest of fairness" he had considered it necessary to release the affidavit of Fokker alleging that at one time he held a contract with Elliott for proposed sale of 50 military planes to Soviet Russia.

DALLAS, Oct. 7.—Elliott Roosevelt told the United Press today that a statement by Anthony Fokker, German airplane builder, was released, "obviously to smear my father."

Young Roosevelt said his contract with Fokker in 1934 had "absolutely nothing in it requiring me to deal with the government of Russia."

Eastland Chamber Opposes Transfer of Highway Funds

The Eastland Chamber of Commerce went on record Tuesday afternoon as opposing the proposed diversion of $3,000,000 of highway funds for old age assistance.

Directors of the organization voted for a resolution opposing the proposal and instructed Secretary H. C. Davis to wire the governor and district legislators of the action.

A request for contribution to a fund to advertise the Broadway of America was tabled in view of the bad condition of the organization's finances.

A report from C. J. Rhodes on the recent county fair disclosed expenditures of $483 against receipts of $487.

The Chamber did not take action of a letter from the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce which asked that members favor the appointment of Stamford Payne of Del Rio to D. K. Martin's highway commission position.

Attending the meeting were the following directors and officials: T. E. Richardson, Milburn McCarty, Albert Taylor, Earl Bender, Earl Woody, C. J. Rhodes, K. B. Tanner, J. E. Lewis, Sr., and Secretary Davis.

Lubbock Is Chosen For Band Contest

Lubbock was chosen as the site for the 1937 contest of the western division of the Texas Band Association at a meeting of bandmasters at Big Spring.

Sweetwater and Abilene submitted bids for the meeting. Lubbock entertained in 1934 and Abilene the following year.

Abilene announced that the Hardin-Simmons invitational band contest would be held April 9 and 10.

The bandmen selected contest music for the spring convention, voted for an official state publication and went on record as favoring the holding of one of the eight national district contests in Amarillo this year.

Joe Berryman, Fort Stockton, president, presided.

The bandmen also favored the furnishing of free music text books to students in public schools. The resolution was to be sent the State Board of Education.

CORN POPS ON STALK

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark.—Corn is reported to have popped on the cob in the fields at the Keanester farm near here. Good rains until July caused the corn to fill out well, but days of 100-degree temperature it sizzled, and harvesters found several ears with snow-white studs.

Spain's Budding 'Strong Man'?

Dictatorial powers over the Spanish rebel provisional government, with command over all land, sea, and air forces, were given Gen. Francisco Franco, above, by decree of the rebels' supreme council. If rebel forces completely subdue the Madrid government, Franco is expected to be the "strong man" in a Spanish dictatorship similar to those in Germany and Italy.

Canadian Air Mail Is Extended

OTTAWA, Ont.—The Canadian government is intensifying development of commercial aviation in Canada and the Far North.

It is spending $1,000,000 in completing the great trans-Canada air route, and $70,000 improving commercial aircraft services in the mining and hunting regions of the north.

Stretching from Halifax, N. S., and running via Montreal, Ottawa and Winnipeg across to Vancouver, the trans-Canadian air link is destined to provide a vital link with the Atlantic and Pacific services. Ultimately it will become an important link of an airmail service stretching round the globe.

The Trans-Canada service, it is expected, will be in operation early next spring. Most of the intermediate landing-grounds have been completed. Many of them are to be provided with wireless. They will also have night-flying equipment. The main airdromes will have meteorological and wireless direction-finding stations, and also the latest types of approach beacons.

The trans-Canada service will be linked to the Imperial Airways Trans-Atlantic Mail Service which will be financed jointly by British, United States, Irish Free State, Newfoundland and Canadian aviation interests. Canada's share in the financing will be a subsidy of $375,000 annually.

The government is making vast and hitherto untapped areas in the Far North accessible to prospectors and surveyors by improved aviation facilities.

A system of regular air transport is being maintained between rail-heads and mines lying far from any convenient center of supply. In the fur trade, also, the plane is playing an increasingly important part, an immense amount of time being saved by the transport of loads by air.

Stage Hopfuls of 1911 Are Ranked

SAN FRANCISCO—"Star Dust Memories" is the title which Joe Muller, for 25 years manager of the Pacific Coast Orpheum Circuit has placed on two registers in which he recorded his impressions of various vaudeville acts made on his audiences of that time.

The two ledgers contain the names of many of the leading stars of today, but with a record of how they "clicked" in their days on the way to stardom.

Of Fred Astaire and his sister Adele in a skit entitled, "A Rainy Afternoon," he wrote: "Two very clever youngsters who offer a series of original songs and dances. They work pleasingly and have a pretty finish in their tango dance."

Of Will Rogers, then billed as "The Expert Lariat Thrower," the ledger entry reads: "He offers routine tricks with a lariat, outdoes Fred Stone in an imitation of that comedian, and sprinkles dry remarks which convulse the audience. He has a naive way of standing awkwardly on the stage which gives him the appearance of being an amateur, and is delightful for his originality."

Al Jolson has this to his credit: "A blackface comedian in stylish attire, the hit of the bill with songs, stories and foolish pat."

Lionel Barrymore, appearing in a skit entitled "The White Slave," rated the following entry: "The theme dealing with white slave traffic is unwholesome, but there is little of the suggestive in the lines themselves. McKee Rankin as the slaver plays the cold-blooded parts effectively, while Doris Rankin is good as the slave. The best piece of work, however, is that of the coal man as played by Barrymore. He has a great makeup and does not overdo the act."

Elbert Hubbard, who was then headlines and with a salary of $1,250 a week, came in for the following entry: "The Sage of East Aurora just talked to the audience in a familiar sort of way. His droll manner is frequently interrupted by applause and laughter. He is anything but iconoclastic in his talk. He drips of philosophy which is typical of the man."

Another entry in the books has to do with the first forerunner of the present movie—namely the Edison talking pictures of 1913 in which phonograph records were more or less synchronized with the moving pictures and were a modern day wonder on vaudeville bills. Muller's comment at that time was: "The sound came from phonograph records which synchronized with the voices, but somehow they were discarded. Perhaps because the pictures were so bad."

Organization of Sea Scout troop of Boy Scouts was discussed by Donald Kinnaird.

By John Henry Bartlett Former Republican Member U. S. Civil Service Commission

I HAVE seen a great many administrations change in Washington. Never have I seen so few disruptions in that backbone of administrative efficiency, the permanent civil service of devoted men and women who have made it a career.

What other president ever appointed to his cabinet two men of the opposition party? President Roosevelt did.

He considered the great departments most closely touching the economic crisis and its solution to those progressive Republicans, Henry A. Wallace and Harold L. Ickes. To the Department of Agriculture and to the Public Works Administration in the Interior Department was entrusted the largest disbursement of funds any government ever made in peace time.

Through Wallace and Ickes, President Roosevelt made the fund control non-partisan at the source.

It is a well-known fact in Washington—a fact which some of my Democratic friends frequently complain—that these gentlemen staffed their departments with more Republicans than Democrats.

I know nothing directly, of course, of the party affiliations of their men in the field. But this thought occurs to me: with the number and the power of the newspapers that are frankly and so fiercely opposed to the New Deal, if there had been partisan scandals out through the country in the administration of these huge funds, our ears would have been ringing with the story.

I can honestly say that under

Funeral services will be held tomorrow. Survivors are his wife, three sons, two daughters and two brothers.

Sweetwater to Be Host to Legion Convention Oct. 24

SWEETWATER.—Oscar McDonald Post of the American Legion is to be host to the -Seven tenth district Legion convention at Sweetwater on October 24 and 25, it was announced a few days ago by Larry S. Daniel, Abilene, district executive committee-man.

John B. Majors, post commander, and George D. Barber, conventions chairman, declare plans already under way for one of the most successful district meetings held within the last five years.

A reception for the ladies is scheduled for the afternoon of the 24th, a buffet supper for Legionnaires is to be held at 6 p. m., followed by a dance and floor show at 9 p. m.

Both Sides Claim Victory at Madrid

Spanish insurgents in the first phase of their attack on Madrid, claimed important victories today on two fronts.

The insurgents reported their men had advanced at Navalatal, northwest of Madrid, and routed loyalists from the area west of Toledo.

Madrid countered, however, with the assertion that the rebels were repelled with losses in both areas. Re-inforcements were called by the Madrid government. An appropriation of $750,000 was made for the defense of Madrid.

Reduction of Gas Rates Is Upheld By Supreme Court

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—Reduction of natural gas rates on the Lone Star Gas Co., as ordered by the state railroad commission, was sustained today by the state supreme court.

The court refused a writ of error in litigation over the question. The railroad commission had ordered a reduction of from 40 cents to 32 cents for delivering gas to city mains.

About 250 towns were involved in the order.

In their inception, in their management of personnel, and in the policies looking toward their termination, I believe these emergency agencies have adhered admirably to the spirit of civil service. There was good Republican precedent, of course, for their exemption. President Hoover set up the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under a law empowering it to choose personnel without regard to civil service requirements.

In regard to agencies created on a more permanent basis, it should not be forgotten that either the law that established them or an executive order of the president put their employes under civil service.

STILL URGES ROAD FUND TO PAY PENSIONS

Committee Says Pension Lists Must Be Cut To 80,000

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—Gov. Allred said today he will not submit a change in old age assistance requirements or any other topic until some pension money is provided.

Allred said also he had not altered his opinion that $3,000,000 of state highway funds should be used to finance old age pensions until new taxes can be collected.

"Unless provision is made for emergency payments, there will be 40,000 people who were on relief rolls and now are receiving old age assistance, thrown back on local communities for support by Christmas," Allred said.

Orville Carpenter, state director, estimated 147,000 pensioners would qualify under the Texas law. A committee said that number would have to be reduced to 70,000 or 80,000 to conform with federal rules.

There are about 80,000 on the Texas rolls now, with more than 100,000 applications pending.

He gave examples of people who had one definite concern, as Thomas A. Ethics Has No Place in Modern Warfare

If you will admit that it is at all possible to discuss war in terms of morality, you can see that a neat little ethical problem has been raised in war-torn Bilbao, Spain.

Assuming that the news dispatches from that land of military censorships and wholesale confusion were correct, the people of Bilbao seem to have executed—if that is the word to use—some three-score prisoners in retaliation for an aerial bombardment.

Bilbao was held by Loyalist forces. In the military dungeons of the city were several thousand Fascists who were held partly as prisoners of war and partly as hostages.

Out of the sky came eight Fascist bombing planes. They flew low over the city, dropping bombs. The attack was kept up for two hours or more. It took the lives of several hundred people, mostly noncombatants.

By and by the planes flew away. Then came reprisals. The citizens dragged 60 of their Fascist prisoners out of the dungeons and killed them. One account says that the luckless 60 were simply rounded up and spattered with machine gun fire until all had died.

All this did little to bring back to life any of the citizens who were killed in the bombardment. It did, however, satisfy the surviving citizens' thirst for revenge.

Now, the ethical problem comes in right here: Was the unspeakable atrocity of the slaughter of the defenseless prisoners any worse, from a moral standpoint, than the preceding slaughter of innocent citizens with aerial bombs?

It has been several centuries since the "rules of war" outlawed the killing of military prisoners. For many generations, men of all nations have agreed that the person of the prisoner of war is inviolate. He could be locked up, half-starved, and driven to insanity by sheer boredom, but the conscience of the race held that his captors were at least obliged to keep him alive.

In Bilbao this rule went by the boards. Prisoners were murdered in cold blood—and, in that act, a reversion to the barbarism of the Dark Ages can be seen.

But there is the aerial bombardment to consider, too. Until two decades ago, the race was also agreed that armies do not make war on civilians. Women, children, old men, and invalids have been safe from the sword for centuries. It remained for the twentieth century to take a leaf from the book of Genghis Khan and slaughter helpless noncombatants.

Which, then, was morally the worse—the killing of women and children with bombs, or the machine-gunning of helpless prisoners?

The question, of course, is foolish. There is no "worse" in war. Ethics has no place in it. Anything goes. The expression "civilized warfare" is the ghastliest joke of modern times.

What happened in Bilbao is simply proof that modern warfare unchains the brute which civilization had kept bound for hundreds of years.

The Nation Is Still Bigger Than Any Party

Q. When was the first Mission San Saba built and by whom? R. T. W.

A. Mission San Saba, near the present town of Menard, was composed of two missions south of San Saba River and a presidio, or fort, on the north bank. It was built by Catholic Spaniards in 1757 for civilizing and converting the Apaches. The buildings were destroyed by Comanches, March 16, 1758, and the two priests in charge, Fathers Terreros and Santeiervan, were killed.

Q. What part of Texas was once known as the "Brasada"? B. H.

A. The "Brasada" or "Brush Country," was the section between the Nueces and the Rio Grande, so-called because of the almost impenetrable brush. Because of the boundary dispute it was claimed by both Texans and Mexicans and no efforts were made to enforce laws by either, the result being that it became the rendezvous of the worst characters and law-breakers of both countries.

Q. I was interested in the tradition recently given as to the introduction of the Bluebonnet in Texas. Isn't there also an Indian legend in regard to it? G. D.

A. The Indian legend is that in a time of great drought and suffering the Indians assembled to appease the god of rain and were told that to bring rain each must sacrifice his most precious possession as a burnt offering, the ashes to be scattered to the winds. The little daughter of a great chief owned a buckskin doll with head of brilliant bird feathers which she prized above all things. She went at midnight to the top of a nearby mountain, burned her beloved doll and scattered the ashes. The next morning the mountaintop and sides were covered with beautiful flowers, the colors of her doll's bonnet, which soon spread throughout the land of the Indian tribe.

Q. What are the principal industries of the Texas penitentiary system? W. W. R.

A. Shoes, clothing, mattresses, printing, canning, brickmaking, furniture manufacturing, all of the products being used either in the system or in the state eleemosynary institutions.

Q. Is Ann Eister, now playing prominent parts in CBS radio plays, a Texan? B. K. O.

A. She formerly lived at San Benito and has two sisters living there now.

Special Rates Are Made to Centennial From This County

DALLAS—Residents of Ranger, Eastland and surrounding territory have the opportunity of visiting the Texas Centennial Exposition on November 10 and 11 at the unprecedentedly low rate of one cent a mile for the round trip. Railroad fare is only $1.30.

The occasion is the movement to the exposition by districts of the 1,500,000 Texas school children for whom the railroads granted the rate, now extended to all adults who may be in the party. Operation will be in day coaches good for two full days at the exposition. Further concessions to the scholastics include admission to the exposition at half price, a viewing of the historic Cavalcade of Texas at half price, and numerous concessions have announced special rates.

An all-expense trip, which includes housing and meals at the exposition is at a maximum cost of $2.85 per student. Movement of the students has been proclaimed officially by Governor James V. Alfred and endorsed by State Superintendent L. A. Woods. Time of departure of trains and operation details may be ascertained from local railroad offices.

JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRATS

Offer Proof of Anti-New Deal Charges

We recently made charges in this paper that Mr. Roosevelt and his administration were not Democrats, and had no claim to Democratic loyalty. We charged that continuation of his administration would undermine the economy of the nation, and threaten its institutions. We charged that he had opened the sluice-gates of the federal treasury, and through Boss Farley, had Tammanized the nation. We charged that he had surrounded himself with radicals, and had more nearly discharged their radical platform than his own. We are offering the proof of our charges through our paper, the Jeffersonian Democrat.

We reassert that we are regular Democrats. We would prefer to vote the regular ticket. But we refuse to put party loyalty above our loyalty to America. In scratching Roosevelt we violate no party pledge, for the primary ballot contained a pledge to vote for the nominees of that primary. Mr. Roosevelt's name was not on that ballot. Furthermore, the Texas law instructs the voter how to cast a mixed ballot, and the Supreme Court has upheld that right.

We ask all true Democrats to weigh the proof before voting for a continuation of government by irresponsible radicals. Unlike the New Deal we have no ready made organization to spread our propaganda and raise money for our campaign. We will appreciate your support and whatever donations you can make us.

Write us for copies of The Jeffersonian Democrat, and help us distribute it throughout your county. J. EVETTS HALEY, Chairman Jeffersonian Democrats of Texas, Austin, Texas. (Political Adv.)

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KAY DUNN, pretty airplane stewardess, falls in love with TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the trans-Pacific route.
 Ted has two interests in life—his job and DICKIE, his adopted son, 7 years old. When Ted asks Kay to marry him, she fears it is merely to make a home for Dickie, but she agrees.
 She does not agree, though, with Ted's theories that marriage, to be successful, must be planned scientifically, just as a plane flight. She is rebellious because he insists her housekeeping must be carried on in the same way, with charts and budgets.
 Kay gives a party and Ted, tired and weary, refuses to join the guests. To punish him, Kay impulsively boards the plane for Honolulu next morning.
 In Honolulu she learns there is an outbreak of spinal meningitis at Midway, and Ted is piloting a plane bringing serum. Ted arrives, takes off again shortly. Without making her presence known, Kay boards the ship, ILLAH, Oriental dancer, also is a passenger.
 A violent storm breaks but there is no serious difficulty until the direction finder fails to work. Kay, Ted and the navigation officer are in the chart room when ILLAH enters. Pistol in hand, she demands the plans of Ted's invention, the xyroplot.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV

A message came in from the station at Midway and Ted took it in with a glance.
"YOUR SIGNALS HAVE FADDED OUT. ARE YOU OFF COURSE? HONOLULU SAYS YOU ARE LOST. WHAT'S WRONG WITH RADIO COMINGS? STORM FADING OVER ISLAND. VISIBILITY IMPROVING."
 Ted's eyes shone with renewed hope. He went to the radio officer for a new report.
"The messages are coming in stronger," the officer said. "We can't be far from Midway."
"If we can only find the lagoon on the island," Ted said hopefully. "We can't come down in the open sea with waves piling 30 feet high over the reefs."
 Then he came back to Kay. He called her into the crew compartment where they could be alone.
"Kay," he said, "I simply want you to know that I trust you, and have always trusted you. I don't want things unsaid to come between us—ever. Whatever happens—"
 She faced him, tears in her eyes. "Oh, Ted! Nothing can happen!"

SIGNALS YET. ARE YOU LOST OVER OCEAN? STORM LIFTING. CHANGING HIGH PRESSURE AREA. CEILING 300 FEET."
 They brought him another message.
"The U. S. S. Mississippi is coming in on the radio! They're calling!"
 Ted barked orders now. "Get the Midway Station and triangulate. Find our position and we'll ride the beam in."
THE crew was jubilant. The navigation officer was at work, finding his position on the improvised "beam." It was not as accurate as the direction finder, but it might work in this emergency.
 The navigation officer "located" the Mariner, in short order. She was flying in a tangent toward the island, and they were almost overhead!
 Ted's unceasing navigation had brought them straight to the island. He had felt his way through the storm!
 But when he went down to 500 feet again he found the ceiling low and took the ship back out to sea. He glanced at the fuel tank and made a decision to wait.
 A message came through. "NO SIGNALS, BUT YOU HAVE CIRCLED TWICE OVERHEAD AND GONE BACK TO SEA. IS FUEL HOLDING OUT? LIGHTS AND FLAMES ON LAGOON. CAN YOU COME IN? CEILING LIFTING."
 Ted kept his face sternly to the task. There was no use talking a game when they were so close to safety. He came down to 300 feet above the surface and asked for his position on the triangle. The ceiling was still too low. But suddenly his face set in a grim expression and he decided to ride the improvised "beam" in.
 Tiny beads of perspiration popped out on his forehead. His eyes were glued to the instruments. Two hundred feet! One hundred and eighty feet. One hundred and fifty feet!
 Suddenly, before the eyes of every crew member and passenger, there burst forth the glare of searchlights and flares over the black lagoon. Ted's eyes swept the black fronts of the palms as he leveled off, and brought the ship down in calm, familiar waters. Midway Island! Uncle Sam's outpost in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.
 Passengers cried out with joy, and tears welled in Kay's eyes as she went forward toward Ted.
(To Be Concluded)

ILLAH advanced menacingly toward the two ship's officers, pistol in hand. "Go into the cockpit," she ordered, and Ted and the navigation officer moved backward, followed by Kay.
 Illah brandished the automatic in the radio officer's face. She gave a call number. "Get in contact with that station immediately," she said. "It's a pearling schooner, anchored at Wake Island."
 The radio officer sat down and tapped out the call on the sending set. After a moment he said, "They don't answer."
 "You lie!"
 The radio officer protested. "But I tell you they don't answer. Since you know the position of the ship, though, I can broadcast the message on the wave-length. They'll get it."
 Illah smiled. "That is good. That is fate. Send the message at once."
 When he had finished, Illah shrugged her shoulders. "I die," she said, "knowing my work is well done. I am a mystic. I am not afraid."
 Slowly she gathered her white veils about her and walked back into the passenger compartment.
TED returned to the chart room and sent Kay into the passenger compartment to reassure the women. The storm had not abated.

WHEN Ted had gone back to his post he found another message from Midway:
"NO SIGNALS FOR LAST HOUR. ARE YOU LOST OVER OCEAN? TRY TO SIGNAL BATTLESHIP U. S. S. MISSISSIPPI. LATITUDE 19 DEGREES 15 MINUTES NORTH AND LONGITUDE 167 DEGREES 30 MINUTES EAST."
"The messages are coming in strong now," the radio officer said. "We can't be more than a hundred miles away from Midway. I'm trying to reach the Mississippi."
"But we can't do much circling," Ted said anxiously. "We've got to locate the island without a direction finder now."
 He and the navigation officer took up their positions on the bridge. The latter looked at the instruments and then said, "This is one time the human element will have to take the place of the machine. It's your ship, Ted. I ask you to try to bring us in. One man will have to take the responsibility, and it's yours."
 No sooner had Ted taken the controls than the radio officer came with another message. Ted opened the throttles of the four 800-horsepower engines and ordered the engineer to change the propeller pitch. They were steadily increasing speed.
 He scanned the message. "NO

SPORT GLANCES. By Grayson
NEW YORK.—Granville, remarkable 3-year-old, again meets Discovery in the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park, Oct. 3.
 The William Woodward colt all but ran away from Discovery in the Saratoga Cup.
 Discovery backers took an awful trimming on that mile and three-quarters jaunt. Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt's 5-year-old was held unbeatable. It was bound to be Granville had not proved his ability in the Saratoga Cup, where the son of Display was known to like that sort of going.
 Yet the cards were stacked against Discovery from the very start. Disregarding the race, in which Discovery lost a shoe, the Vanderbilt nag was bound to be fighting out of a hole. It was a hole that his sire, Display, could not surge out of, when he met the crack 3-year-old Reigh Count in the same race.
 The 3-year-old, Twenty Grand, literally murdered the aging Sun Beau in the same event, and Guse, he would have whipped Granville under any circumstances that day.
 October will bring a change in weights also. Discovery with 124 pounds up will benefit by a total of seven, since Granville will have to carry 117, or one more than he carried at Saratoga. Seven pounds can mean a difference of several lengths in a race of two miles.
 Neither camp has rated Firethorn, a superb distance horse, an easy winner last year. This one could take it all without much stretch of the imagination, and there will be others like Sun Teddy and Memory Book to add to the battle.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By NEA Service
"NOW, good digestion wait upon appetite, and health on both!" Shakespeare was wise, indeed, when he wrote those lines. Here's an October menu that reaches its climax in a Maple Bavarian Cream for dessert. Maple Bavarian Cream for dessert. Maple desserts seem particularly appropriate for fall dining.
 Cream of cauliflower soup
 Swedish Meat Balls
 Curried Potatoes
 Fried eggplant
 Maple Bavarian Cream
 With the Swedish meat balls, serve a tart tomato sauce with a touch of garlic added for flavor.
 The recipe for the Maple Bavarian Cream demands a pure maple syrup, not a synthetic variety. The pure syrup is lighter in color and less sweet than the imitation.
Maple Bavarian Cream for Four
 One tablespoon gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 3-4 cup hot milk, 3-4 cup maple syrup, 2 eggs, 1-8 teaspoon salt.
 Soften the gelatin in cold water 5 minutes.
 Add the scalding hot milk and stir until the gelatin is dissolved.
 Let stand until the mixture begins to thicken slightly.
 Put the two egg whites into a large bowl and beat until stiff, gradually adding the maple syrup.
 Slowly add the gelatin mixture, stirring constantly.
 Add salt and beat with an egg beater until the mixture is stiff.
 Turn into one mold or four smaller ones which have been dipped in cold water.
 Put the molds in the refrigerator

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Grape fruit, waffles with maple syrup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Poached eggs on toast, celery and carrot salad, gingerbread with whipped cream, tea, milk.
DINNER: Cream of cauliflower soup, Swedish meat balls, curried potatoes, fried eggplant, maple Bavarian cream.
 for several hours to chill thoroughly.
 Serve with this custard sauce made from the two egg yolks.
Custard Sauce
 One cup milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla.
 Scald the milk in the top of a double boiler.
 Beat the egg yolks with the sugar and salt until light and thick.
 Pour the scalded milk over the yolks.
 Return to the double boiler and cook until the mixture thickens and coats the spoon, stirring constantly.
 Whirl and add the vanilla.
 Serve this sauce, thoroughly cooled, poured over the Bavarian Cream which you have turned out of the molds.
 If you happen to have some walnuts or pecans, put them in the bottom of the molds before pouring in the cream. This gives a very decorative appearance when the Bavarian Cream is unmolded.

New Grafting Is Tried On Trees

WASHINGTON.—New tricks in tree grafting are being studied by Department of Agriculture horticulturists.
 They are going "to the root" of ancient grafting methods by striving to improve root stocks of apple trees, rather than devoting all the time to improving the top portion of trees when grafting.
 The Roman philosopher, Cato and Varro, wrote about tree grafting 2,000 years ago. At that time, grafting was considered a new science, and today, the Department of Agriculture still considers grafting a promising field.
 The usual means of propagating root stocks of apple trees has been from seedlings, with the upper portion of the tree being grafted on later.
 Guy E. Yerkes, horticulturist in charge of nursery investigations for the department, has made a wide departure from the usual means of propagating root stocks from seedlings by using layers or cuttings from roots of specially selected specimens.
 Then on to this root stock is grafted bud stock which has the closest affinity to the root stock. If his method is proved successful, seedling production in quantity may be discarded. The line of experimentation has not yet advanced far enough to demonstrate superior orchard performance from such stocks, but some of the trees developed in this manner and now under test show outstanding valuable qualities, Yerkes reported.

which teaches that a war anywhere is everybody's war.
"Dread of a Red Spain is behind the present rebellion but the group that is battling the government probably is not Fascist in the Italian or German sense. Instead, it is made up of many elements which have no common political philosophy, but are merely held together by the one common dread of a Red Spain."
 Dr. Barrows emphasizes that this has come about because the government in Spain of today has passed from conservative hands to a group comprised of Socialists, Syndicalists and Communists.
"Its tendency," he says, "has been to swing more and more

SPAIN'S PLIGHT TRACED TO 1812

BERKELEY, Calif.—The civil war in Spain will not precipitate a general European war, say Maj. Gen. David Prescott Barrows, professor of political science at the University of California and former president of that institution.
 Dr. Barrows, an authority on European tendencies, discredits the idea that the Spanish struggle cannot be localized and must provoke a general European conflict. "This comes," he says, "from an exaggerated and unwarranted view of that internationalism

A great fellowship meeting. Everything about it will be informal. Just bring a picnic lunch and we will put it all together and serve cafeteria style. A varied program of entertainment has been arranged. There will not be a great deal of speaking and no collection of any kind will be taken. What we want is for our people to get together and enjoy one another. We start at 7:45.

Remember our district banquet at Eastland Friday night. Mr. W. D. Smith, superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church in Fort Worth will be the speaker. You will enjoy him. There is no limit on the number of people who can go. The plates are 35 cents. I would like to get an idea tonight about how many will go.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, lumpy and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.
