WEATHER
WEST TEXAS — Fair. Slightly warmer south portion tonight. Tuesday partly cloudy, cooler in Panhandle.

Cleveland streets were littered with torn paper after the Legion parade. One would almost think a dictator had been going through some treaties.

Skeleton Crew Is On Stadium Project

Only a skeleton crew was at work this morning on the Bulldog stadium, with a welder and a helper going ahead with the welding work, while all other workers were idle during a temporary shutdown.

It was stated today by supervisors from Abilene, who visited the project, that the shutdown would be for only "two or three days" and the full quota of workmen would be back at work in a few days.

It is expected that the work on the stadium, track and a temporary fence would be completed within two weeks after receipt of the new work order and the field could be used after that time.

Five Suspects Held In Pig Sty Murder

SHERMAN, Oct. 12—Five suspects were held today in connection with the "pig sty" murder of Frank Noles, 65, Tioga farmer. Noles was found late Saturday lying in one of his pig pens, shot through the back of his neck and through his face.

Deputy Sheriff John Everidge said he suspected bootleggers were implicated in the case.

Ekins Delayed By Manila Typhoon

MANILA (Tuesday) — R. H. Ekings, Scripps-Howard reporter, leading the world air race of three New York writers, was delayed again today when a typhoon prevented the departure of his plane for Hawaii. His two rivals took separate routes to Hong Kong.

Liners Pause at Sea to Shatter Horatio Alger Tale

YOKOHAMA, Japan — A lifeboat bobbed about on the choppy waters 500 miles off the coast of Japan. In the boat sat a 16-year-old Japanese boy, foiled in his efforts to reach America by the stowaway route.

Young Yoshiwa Ito got as far as the third grade in school when his parents died. He attached himself to a man who set him up as a shiner of shoes in the streets. He made 18 cents a day at it. The man deserted the lad, whereupon Yoshiwa continued to shine shoes and listen to stories of how fortunes are made in America.

After saving about a dollar, which he invested in a shirt, trousers and two days' supply of bread, Yoshiwa slipped aboard the passenger liner President Jackson before it sailed for the United States and hid in the steerage quarters.

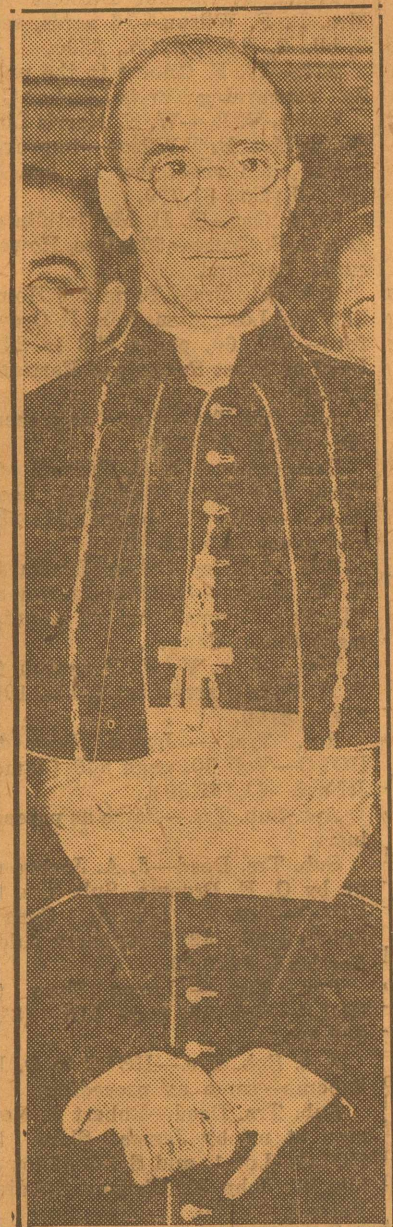

He was discovered the next day by a member of the crew. The ship was already at sea, but it was due to pass the President Grant, en route to Yokohama from San Francisco, the next day. When the Jackson and the Grant met they stood by while a lifeboat transferred Yoshiwa to the Japanese ship.

The seas were so rough that the transfer required two hours.

"I never ate such delicious meals as they gave me," Yoshiwa said after being brought here. "I'm going to save my money and be a passenger as soon as I can."

Seventeen Chinese coolies who tried to smuggle themselves into Japan after stowing away on the British freighter Benbowards at Shanghai, were arrested by the water police at Osaka on the same day.

Visit to U.S. Linked to Coughlin Case

The arrival at New York of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, aroused speculation over whether he would attempt to clarify to Father Coughlin the Vatican's much disputed attitude on the radio priest's political broadcasts. Cardinal Pacelli was announced as being on his annual vacation which he planned to spend with friends on Long Island.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. McCarty

Services for Mrs. Milburn McCarty, 48, wife of the Eastland attorney who is president of the Chamber of Commerce, were held Monday morning at the family residence with Rev. Charles W. Estes, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment was in the Eastland cemetery.

Mrs. McCarty died in Payne hospital at Eastland Saturday night, after a five-week illness.

Mrs. McCarty is survived by her husband, a son, Milburn McCarty, Jr., of New York City, and a daughter, Mrs. W. Dan Latimer, Jr., of Paris, Texas.

The family lived in San Angelo until 1922. Mr. and Mrs. McCarty were married in San Angelo in 1910.

Pall bearers at the services, arranged by Hamner Undertaking Company of Eastland, were Homer Brelsford, Oscar Wilson, K. B. Tanner, Earl Conner, Sr., Judge O. C. Funderburk, Judge George L. Davenport, Albert Taylor, all of Eastland, and Charles T. Paul of Dallas.

Masons Will Confer A Master's Degree

Tuesday night there will be a Master degree conferred on one candidate for Masonry, according to announcement made by officials of the Ranger Masonic lodge today.

All members of the lodge are urged to attend. Visitors welcome.

Thursday night the grand master of the grand lodge of Texas will be the principal speaker at a zone meeting of the body to be held in Brownwood. Officers of Ranger lodge have asked that all members who possibly can attend the meeting Tuesday so that plans may be arranged for a large attendance at the Brownwood meeting.

W. F. Dennis Will Be Buried On Tuesday

Funeral services for W. F. Dennis, of Ranger, who died in the Methodist hospital at Fort Worth after a long illness, will be conducted from the family residence, Mesquite Street, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. K. C. Edmonds.

Interment will be in the Evergreen Cemetery following the services at the home, with Killingsworth, Cox, in charge.

HIGH COURT RULES UPON MANY CASES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The supreme court today rejected the plea of three industrial states that it reconsider its ruling that they have no right to regulate the wages of women in industry and in effect reaffirmed its opinion of last spring.

The three states asserted that the depression made it imperative to protect women workers in the interest of public health and morals.

Other acts by the court today were:

Decided to hand down a new opinion on the validity of legislation outlawing the gold clause in public and private obligations.

Refused to reconsider its decision of last spring which held the municipal bankruptcy act was unconstitutional.

Refused to accept jurisdiction of the first case attacking the national labor relations act.

Decided to review an important question affecting future neutrality legislation.

It decided to hear the government appeal from the New York federal district court which held that an arms embargo levied in 1934 was unconstitutional.

Assuring an early ruling on constitutionality of the railway labor act, providing collective bargaining for employes of railroads by deciding to entertain an attack on the law by the Virginia Railway Co.

Roosevelt Says Corner Is Rounded

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 12—President Roosevelt said today that "we are around the corner" and cited an improved economic condition as proof of decreased government spending and a balanced budget, "within a year or two."

The president painted a rosy picture of the state of the union and then lashed out at the Republican leadership for its promises to cut federal expenditures to the bone.

"Are you willing to turn America over to those who shut their eyes to the problems of this nation?" he asked. "This administration has shown the way because it had the will to do it."

Charges Are Filed In Gambling Raid

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 12—Charges were to be filed today against more than 100 operators and patrons arrested Sunday morning when 22 Texas Rangers raided six establishments and confiscated $30,000 worth of gambling equipment.

Local police had not been notified of the Rangers' intended actions.

Those arrested were released on bond pending hearings Tuesday afternoon.

Expressing Franc Opinions

Huddled together in a hurried conference are Edouard Herriot (left), president of the Chamber of Deputies, Premier Leon Blum (back to camera) and two members of the French Parliament—of scene likely to be repeated in the critical days expected when parliament reconvenes for its regular session. This picture was made at the historic special session to devalue the franc.

Absentee Voting Start Announced

Absentee balloting for the general election November 3 will officially begin Tuesday at Eastland for persons outside their home counties. However, it appeared that the ballots would not be ready by that time. The ballots this year will be about the size of a newspaper page. Absentee voting for persons within the county of their legal residence starts October 19.

Cisco Livestock Show Postponed

CISCO, Oct. 12—Postponement of the annual Eastland county livestock show in Cisco for two weeks was announced Saturday by the Chamber of Commerce.

The exhibit will be held October 30 and 31, the announcement said. It had originally been scheduled for Friday and Saturday of this week.

Tough Fugitives Sought by Police

GREENSBFIELD, Ind., Oct. 12—Three desperate fugitives who boasted they were "tougher than the Dillinger gang" were sought in Kentucky hills and Indianapolis and Chicago hideouts today.

The three, led by Al Brady, overpowered the sheriff and three aides and fled in a stolen car Sunday.

REBELS GAIN ADVANTAGES IN CIVIL WAR

By United Press
Spanish loyalists retreated today before the insurgent Moors and foreign legionnaires who struck swiftly against one road after another west of Madrid.

Insurgent forces reported an entirely new attack from the mountains of the north and asserted that the rebel advance guards there could see the outskirts of Madrid.

Madrid made its censorship more rigid as regards troop positions, but frankly admitted the situation was serious.

Loyalist miners at Oviedo controlled most of the city, but the rebel garrison remained in possession of the cathedral, a number of fortified buildings and the great military barracks.

Final Rites Held For J. L. Fields

Last rites for J. L. Fields, 75, an Eastland resident for about 28 years, who died Saturday after an apoplectic stroke he suffered Monday, were held Sunday afternoon from the First Methodist church in Eastland with Rev. E. R. Stanford officiating. Burial followed in Eastland cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields would have observed their thirty-seventh wedding anniversary Oct. 18.

For a short time during his county residence Fields operated a confectionery at Ranger. He was born May 18, 1861, in Georgia. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Active pall bearers at the services, conducted by Hamner Undertaking Company of Eastland, were Grady Pipkin, P. L. Crossley, Dr. R. C. Ferguson, Wayne Jones, George Brogdon and Milton Newman, all of Eastland.

Survivors are the widow and nine children. The children are Mrs. W. T. Young, C. L. Fields, Mrs. Noble Harkrider, Edith Fields, Doris Fields, James Fields, all of Eastland; Mrs. L. V. Lippard of Odessa; Davis Fields of Cisco and George Fields of Monahans.

Descendants include 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Two Men Killed In Air Crash

DALLAS, Oct. 12—Two men were killed instantly six miles northwest of Dallas today when an airplane went into a tailspin at 3,000 feet and crashed into a thicket.

Bodies of the two men, terribly mangled, were brought to Dallas. One was clothed in civilian apparel and the other wore a uniform. The plane was so badly wrecked that it could not be ascertained whether it was a U. S. Army craft or a civilian ship.

The two occupants were parachutists which were partially opened.

Italian In Lead In Vanderbilt Race

ROOSEVELT SPEEDWAY, N. Y., Oct. 12—Tazio Nuvolari, of Italy, held a two-mile lead after 160 miles of the 300-mile Vanderbilt cup automobile race today. He led in 39 of the first 40 laps. At that time 39 of the 45 starters were still in the race.

Japs and Russians Clash On Border

TOKYO, Oct. 12—Two border clashes between Manchukuo and Soviet patrols in which one Manchukuo and at least eight Soviet soldiers were killed, were reported today by Korean army headquarters.

Eastland Resident Undergoes Operation

ABOARD LONDON TRAIN IN OHIO, Oct. 12—Gov. Alf Landon swung into a final day of campaigning in Ohio today with a charge that President Roosevelt grin and farm declarations were "more calculated to deceive the American people than enlighten them."

Tonight he will speak on relief.

Mrs. L. D. Black of Eastland recently underwent a minor operation in a hospital at Temple, Monday, and was expected to return early this week.

Believed 'Harbor Murder' Victim

Search of Boston harbor for the head and torso of the murdered woman was intensified by police after they had reported that the dismembered legs found in the harbor were those of Mrs. Grayce Assuth, 41, above. The blond widow, a shoe model, had been missing for several weeks, as had her fiancé, whom police believe also may have been slain.

Needless Maternity Deaths In Texas Due to Ignorance

KILGORE, Oct. 12—Prospective fathers of America were urged to demand proper care for their wives in childbirth because "only then will they get it," Miss Anita Jones of New York, assistant director of the Maternity Center Association, told the Texas Public Health Association meeting here today.

"We know how to save the lives of mothers, but we are not doing it," she said, pointing out that more women between the ages of fifteen and forty-five died last year from diseases of pregnancy and childbirth than from any other cause except tuberculosis. "Leading obstetrical authorities are convinced that at least two-thirds of them died from preventable complications."

"The medical profession is not baffled by the causes of death at childbirth; the tragedy is that we do not apply our knowledge to the great mass of American mothers," Miss Jones attributes a large part of the blame for needless loss of lives to ignorance, negligence and lack of facilities.

"The greatest of these is ignorance," she declared. "Ignorance causes expectant mothers to delay seeking care until it is too late; it causes them to seek inferior care because they do not know what to expect from their doctor, hospital, and nurse; it causes expectant fathers to think they have done everything humanly possible when they supply the funds to pay the doctor, the hospital, and the nurse, no matter what kind of care their wives receive."

"Many informed mothers suffer unfortunate consequences at childbirth," she declared, "because they put off the day when they plan to consult an experienced obstetrician. The best of medical care cannot help a woman when it is too late, nor is the best advice of value if it is not followed."

Every prospective parent, according to Miss Jones, should have detailed knowledge about the early signs of pregnancy, how to choose a good doctor and hospital, the hygiene of pregnancy, how to prepare for delivery, the need of expert medical care during pregnancy, labor, delivery and for six weeks after the baby arrives.

She outlined a complete program which every expectant mother should follow if she is to receive adequate care. It is:

1. A complete examination by a competent doctor early in pregnancy followed by the treatment that is indicated.
2. A dental examination early in pregnancy and the care that is needed.
3. Medical and nursing supervision, care and instruction throughout pregnancy.
4. Attention to any problem that may affect the health of the baby or mother or may disturb her or peace of mind.
5. An aseptic delivery under the supervision of a competent doctor with skilled assistance.
6. Medical and nursing supervision, care and instruction after delivery until the mother is able to resume her usual activities and to carry the additional responsibility of a new baby.

SALES TAX IS URGED TO PAY TEX. PENSIONS

AUSTIN, Oct. 12—A sales tax to finance old age assistance was proposed to the Senate committee on state affairs today at its first session to consider taxes.

Sen. Clint Small, Amarillo, told the committee, "if we are going to pay pensions on the present scale, we have got to have some sort of sales tax or gross receipts tax. If we are going to pay on the basis of need, we can do it without these taxes."

The committee had met to consider the omnibus tax bill passed by the House.

Senators began proposals to eliminate specific taxes levied by the House. Opposition was voiced to the cigar tax, the tax on hotel receipts, amusement taxes and the tax on mutual insurance concerns.

The committee meeting was held after there had been sharp protest against delay in receiving the bill from the House.

An inquiry into who pays for research work at the University of Texas was sought in a resolution put before the House. The specific object was the cotton reports of the bureau of business research and the research work of J. Evetts Haley, recently granted a leave of absence to serve as secretary of the "Jeffersonian Democrats."

Haley had criticized the New Deal cattle killing program. Dr. A. B. Cox, cotton expert, has objected to the New Deal cotton program on the ground that it is losing foreign markets.

Four Are Killed In Tarrant County

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 12—Tarrant County today marked up four violent deaths for the week-end, three from traffic accidents and one from drowning.

A coroner's report said H. S. Martin, 59, an oil operator, took his own life Saturday by jumping from a dam into Lake Worth.

Earl Howard, 27, and Herbert Duncan, 33, were injured fatally in an automobile collision seven miles southeast of Fort Worth early Sunday. Both lived at Mansfield.

An unidentified man about 65 years old was killed by an automobile as he walked across a street Sunday night.

Germany Demands Right to Build Several Cruisers

LONDON, Oct. 12—Germany delivered a note to Great Britain today which was understood to imply that Germany will enlarge her navy substantially if the pending Anglo-Soviet naval pact is signed.

The pact permits Russia to build seven cruisers with 7.1 inch guns, which is above the limit agreed to in the British-French-United States treaty of last March. The exception is made for Russia because the other powers already possess heavy cruisers which the Soviet lacks.

Convicted Slayers Sued for $20,000

CENTER, Tex., Oct. 12—Mrs. Reable Childs and Terrence Bramlett, convicted slayers of the woman's husband, were named defendants in a $20,000 damage suit today.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Childs, parents of Marlie Childs, filed the action here. The suit asserts that "the couple wantonly and maliciously killed Marlie Childs at Center April 23."

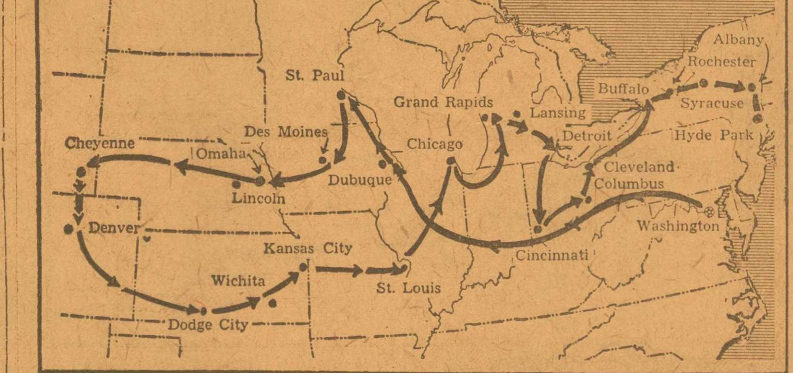

Mrs. Childs, it was understood, inherited considerable community property and money upon her husband's death.

Typhoon Damage In Manila High

MANILA, Oct. 12—Typhoons which lashed northern provinces for several days were of the most damaging in recent history, reports indicated tonight. Officials estimated 100 dead. Red Cross reported several hundred others were missing.

ROOSEVELT AND LANDON START HEAVY FIRING

Cities on Roosevelt Campaign Trip

From the Atlantic seaboard half way across the continent, and back again, curves the trail of President Roosevelt's current campaign tour. The itinerary, starting from Washington, included a long initial jump to the heart of the agricultural section, a jaunt into Rocky Mountain foothill cities, and a visit to Kansas, where his opponent, Alf Landon, is governor. In addition to major speeches in larger cities, many informal talks and rear platform appearances were programmed for the tour. End of the trip is at the president's Hyde Park home.

Governor Landon's Campaign Tour

Eastward from Topeka, Republican Presidential Candidate Alf Landon's campaign route was planned to include appearances at many points in Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana.

Admiral Sims' Career Shows Value of Dissent

There was no "Yes, sir, very good, sir," stuff about Admiral
William S. Sims. From start to finish, he was a man who talked back to the boss and got away with it.

Sims got into the navy by the skin of his teeth, flunking the entrance exams at Annapolis the first time he took them.

And then, a young officer with a career to make, Sims showed that he had not a trace of the naval officer's traditional respect for the solemn judgment of his superiors.

His chief complaint was gunnery. American naval gunners, he found out, couldn't hit a cow with a bull fiddle.

He not only said so; he said it to Theodore Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the navy, in fine disregard of the rule that naval officers must make protests and complaints only through the proper channels.

Mr. Roosevelt, interested in this unorthodox complaint, investigated. The fleet was ordered out for target practice.

That was a fair sample of Sims' way of doing things. He refused to be bound by tradition or regulations.

Now there must have been many fine old officers in the U. S. navy in those days who were quite sincerely shocked and horrified by this young officer's intransigence.

They must have looked on young Sims as a serious menace to the well-being of the United States fleet.

But who remembers them now? Sims is the one who is remembered. Far from being a menace to the fleet, he was one of the chief instruments through which the fleet was raised to efficiency.

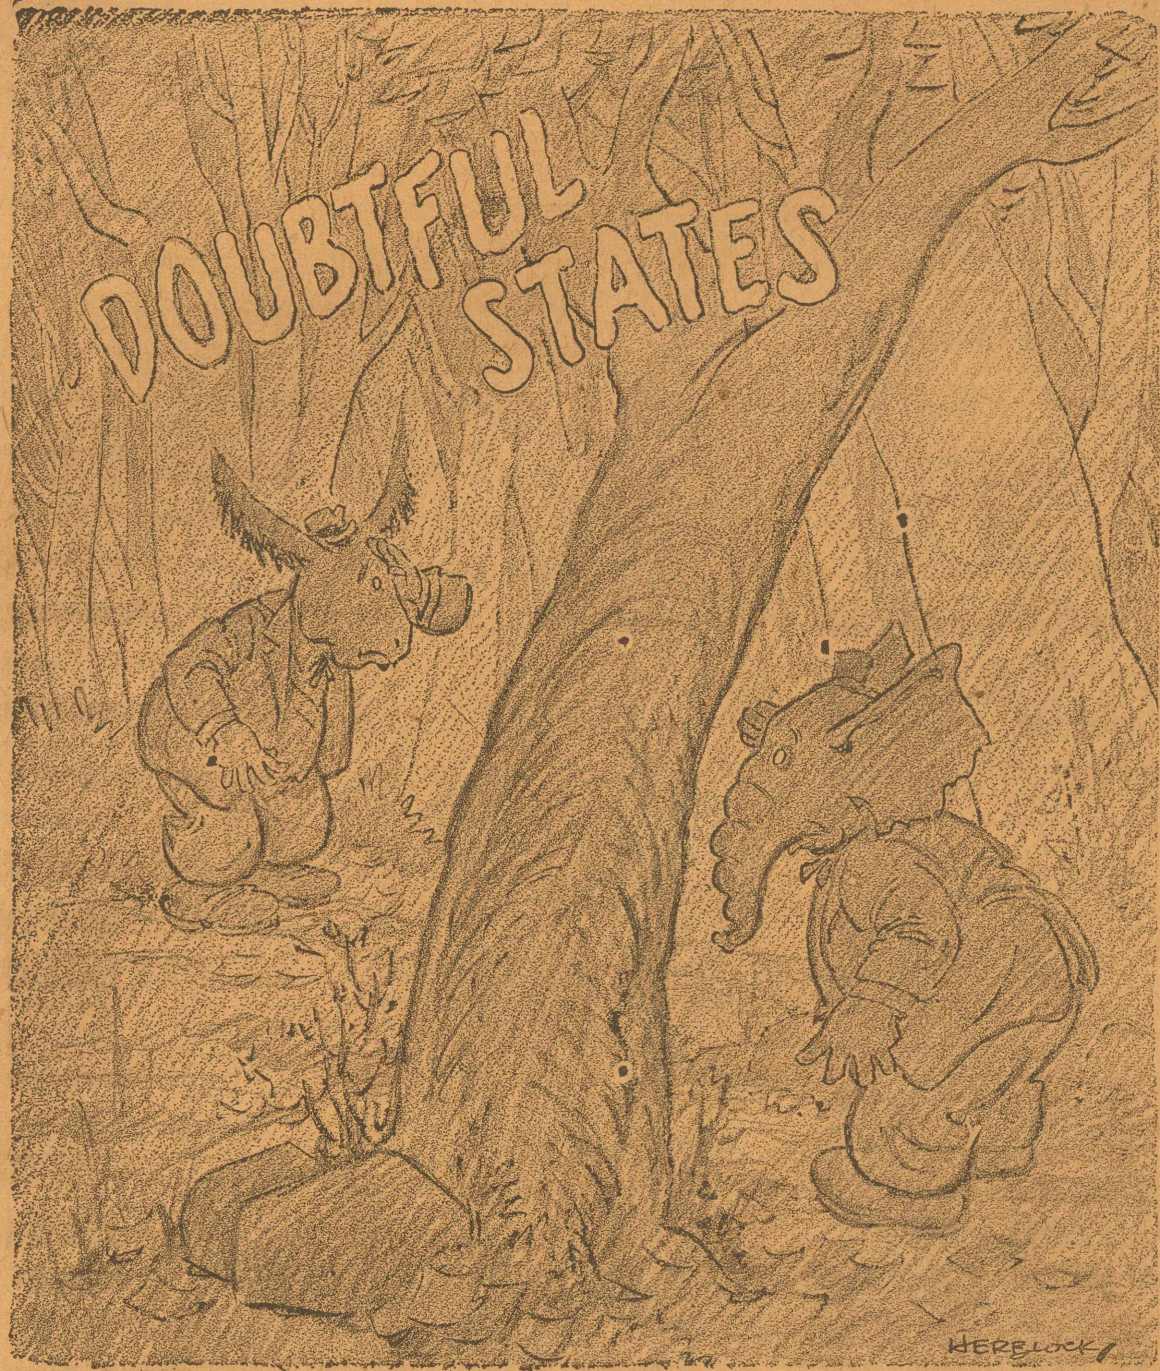

If our navy today is fit to fulfill any obligation the nation may place upon it, a large part of the credit must go to Sims.

Discipline has its place, certainly, in any great organization. But the man who knows when and how to break discipline—the man who dares to point to defects and failures which his gold-braided superiors would like to ignore—can be worth more than all the disciplinarians who ever trod a deck.

An authority in that line says frogs enjoy listening to speeches. The only objection is the subsequent riots in the Champs Elysees.

The way of a man with a maid may henceforth be a cautious one, if she is a dairy maid.

AUTUMN HAZE

Nation's Future to Turn On Owning Farms by Farmers

By D. P. TRENT
Regional Director, Resettlement Administration

Rural society cannot be secure and progressive with one-third or more of the rural people packing everything in the wagon in the middle of winter each year and moving off through the sleet and snow to a new location, to a new place which they will call home for a time.

I am not saying that something should be arbitrarily taken from someone and given to someone else without due process of law. I am saying that the national welfare requires that the people who live on the land and who till the soil, who produce the food and raw materials which the nation requires, have an inherent right to own the land which they till without having to compete with speculative interests in acquiring such ownership.

Needless Maternity Deaths in Texas

7. Postpartum examinations one, two, and three months after delivery with follow-up treatment if indicated.

8. Arrangement for the health supervision of the baby and for the further care of the mother when she needs it.

"When the public is completely informed of the requirements that must be met for safety to mother and baby, we can expect changes in the quality of medical service. Twenty years ago Dr. Whitridge Williams said: 'When the women of America realize the value and need for maternity care they will demand it. Then and only then will they get it.'"

"To that should be added its corollary: When the men of America are aware of the hazards of maternity and the value of good care from the beginning of pregnancy until six months after childbirth, they will demand it for their wives and daughters. When men demand it, the expectant mothers will get it."

ELEPHANTS SHOW NO AUTHENTIC RECORDS OF HAVING LIVED AS LONG AS MAN, IN SPITE OF THEIR REPUTATION FOR LONG LIFE.
The FAIRY FLY HAS WINGS FOR UNDER-WATER FLYING!
WHITE PAPER IS ONLY 80 PER CENT WHITE! IT REFLECTS ONLY ABOUT 80 PER CENT OF THE LIGHT THAT FALLS UPON IT.
ELEPHANTS have been given credit for lives of several hundred years, but cold facts fail to prove this. Seldom has an elephant been known to reach the century mark, and 70 would be a much more accurate expectation of life for the great beasts.

Record Coast Travel Keeps Fares Low On Western Railroads

CHICAGO—Following a 30 per cent increase in rail travel this year to and from the Pacific coast, the Trans-Continental Passenger Association took action today, insuring for the 1937 summer season the same low fares that maintained in 1936.

Official announcement of this decision was made by Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the Trans-Continental and Western Passenger Association.

The dates for use of these tickets in either direction apply from May 15th to October 15th, with return privilege to October 31st, 1937.

In commenting on this action by the western group, Chairman Siddall said: "The western lines pioneered in rail fare reductions late in 1933 when with a sharp cut in the basic rate, sleeping car surcharge was eliminated. The wisdom of this decision has been successfully proved in 1934, 1935, and 1936, with ascending passenger patronage. The western lines will carry this year considerably more than twice as many people as they did in 1933."

"At the start of this month unprecedented extension of excursion fares for winter travel to and from the Pacific coast were put in effect. For instance, for the first time in history first class tickets on a basis of 2 cents a mile with a 30 day limit as to return in either direction, could be purchased up to May 14th of next year. Attractive inducements in the matter of extensions of time on other types of rail travel were also offered.

"The decision of the passenger officials for the 1937 summer season is in accord with the now established policy to provide the public with the most luxurious rail service in the world at rates unmatched outside of the United States."

flood and the colony moved to Hamilton creek, 8 miles from Burnett and built another mill and furniture factory. This was sold to Noah Smithwick and they moved to Pedernales, near Fredericksburg, about 1850. A mill and factory built there also washed away and they moved to the Medina near Bandera in 1854, intending to build another plant there. Their leader, Elder Wright, died soon after, and the colonists scattered, some remaining there and some going to Utah.

"Texas Empire Builders of '36"

Every man, woman and child in Texas should know the principal events of the momentous period of Texas history from March 1 to April 21, 1836—events that changed the shape and the destiny of the United States.

The facts essential to this understanding are briefly set forth in a 32-page booklet entitled "Texas Empire Builders of '36," telling of the stirring days which all Texans, native and adopted, are celebrating in 1936.

The booklet will be mailed postpaid for 10 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mays, Austin, Texas.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquirers must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mays, Austin, Texas.

Q. What Texas town was once known as "Dog Town"? B. H. A. Tilden, McMullen County, which once had a population of 1,200 or 1,500, being the trading point of the "Brush Country" in its wildest days.

Q. By whom was the town of Bandera established and when? P. I. F. A. John James, Charles de Montel and John H. Herndon acquired the land and platted the townsite in 1853, building a horse-power sawmill and opening a commissary store there the same year.

Q. How did Bandera county and county seat get their names? P. I. F. A. They were named for "Bandera Pass," a pass through the nearby Guadalupe mountains. "Bandera" is a Spanish word meaning "flag" or "signal". The accepted version is that following a victorious fight with Apache Indians, about 1752, in which the Indians were driven from the pass, the Spaniards left their flag on the mountain top as a threat to the Indians against returning to that section.

Q. When did a Mormon colony settle near Austin and what became of it? L. K. A. In 1839, a Mormon colony from Nauvoo, Ill., located on the Colorado about 6 miles above Austin and built the first corn mill in the country. This was destroyed by

SALUTE TO Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATE and CAROLINE MEED live on a run-down Blue Grass farm. Meed Meadows, with their lovable, indolent grandfather, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old servants, ALFIE, the cook, and ZEKKE, her husband.

Kate is engaged to MORGAN PRENTISS. Being much in love with him, she forgives him when he neglects her for EVE ELWELL, who comes home from college, bringing a visitor.

Major Meed comes home intoxicated and next morning Kate and Caroline start to Louisville with Zeke, taking four baked hams ordered by a club. Their sedan is struck by a large car driven by a stranger. The man gives them $50 for repairs and consents to take the girls and the hams to the city. One ham is damaged and the stranger asks for some of it, saying he has not eaten in 24 hours. Kate discovers he has stolen the license plates from their damaged car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

WITH the stranger's slender, gleaming knife Kate lifted off bits of gravel and grass and sliced the ham squarely through the middle. She motioned Caroline to lift the slice and pass it on.

The man at the wheel ate the ham, and as he ate a beatific expression crept across his shuttered face. He called upon a deity in a foreign language. He held out his hand for more.

Kate cut another slice. Caroline dropped it daintily and disdainfully into the outstretched hand. This program continued until six large slices had been cut, tendered and greedily consumed.

Then, "What kinda ham 'j call that?"

"We call it Meed Meadows ham," Kate answered. "It's named after our farm." She was mentally subtracting $7 from this month's business.

"So you sell these to some night club, eh?"

From Caroline's corner came a nervous giggle which Kate hastened to drown in words. "No, the Pendermis Club isn't a night club. It's Louisville's oldest club for men. Our grandfather belonged to it for years. The management gives him orders now for these hams. So do some of the hotels. Our old colored man—the one you saw this morning—eats the hams. His wife, who's our cook, bakes them. My grandfather's very particular about how it's done."

"Never ate anything like it," commented the stranger. "It's not pink like the delicious stuff."

"It's this dark color because it's allowed to age," Kate said, "and because it's had so many things done to it."

A few more miles in silence. Then, from the front seat, "Could you write down the formula for me, Miss?"

"It's my grandfather's private recipe," replied Kate coldly. "Sure, I understand that," said the man on the front seat. "I'm offerin' to buy it from you."

"Oh," said Kate, and grew thoughtful. No doubt the man with the imperturbable back could read silences. He drew from his pocket a fountain pen and a blank envelope. "Write it," he commanded. "Write in everything."

As he turned again to the wheel Caroline laid a detaining hand on Kate's arm. "Kate!" she whispered. "You couldn't! You wouldn't! Granddad's family secret that's so old and famous!"

KATE shook off Caroline's hand. Her face was set. Her eyes narrowed. Already she was writing.

Caroline said, "It was made for you, honey!"

"Kill your hogs when the wind's from the northwest," she said aloud as she wrote. "I can't give you details of that," she paused to explain, "because the field hands attend to it and my sister and I leave home when it happens."

"Now let's see," she resumed and began to write. The two who were listening heard such snatches as—"strong tea of red pepper . . . heaping tablespoon saltpeper to every gallon of pepper tea. Baste . . . pack hams in salt for six weeks . . . rub with a pomatum made of New Orleans molasses, black pepper and red, perfectly blended, three times as much black pepper as red . . . hang hams . . . smoke with dry hickory chips . . . tie up in bags . . . leave hanging for two years."

"There was a pause."

"Now the cooking," prompted the man without looking back. Again Kate wrote, muttering scarcely audible phrases: "Baste . . . remove batter . . . make sharp incisions with knife over entire surface, drench with sherry . . . cover surface with mixture of two cups brown sugar, two tablespoons black pepper, tablespoon mustard, teaspoon ground cloves . . . baste till tender."

Kate rested from her labors and her bronze eyes scanned the words she had written. She made a correction or two and courteously returned the pen to its owner. She retained the envelope. That, too, was a gesture understandable to the stolid back on the front seat.

"How much?" asked the back's owner without turning his head. "Five hundred dollars," answered Kate Meed.

happen with the least ado. The heavy, mysterious man reached into a pocket and drew out his roll. He handed Kate Meed five $100 bills, and she handed him the envelope covered with her writing.

"And the license plates, too!" she said quietly. He extracted them from somewhere beneath his feet and gave them to her.

"Thank you," said Kate. "We won't detain you any longer. Call that taxi, will you, please? That one ahead. We'll transfer right here."

IN the taxi Caroline trembled and wept.

Kate looked at her in exasperation. She said, trying to be nonchalant, "See here, we've just exchanged a ham for a sheepskin and you cry over it! Here, darling, take these bills and buy yourself a senior year at the University."

But Caroline refused to touch the money. "Oh, Kate!" she said. "How could you do it?"

"Do what?" Kate asked. "What's the charge against me?"

"It was the next thing to blackmail," Caroline replied. "You knew that man was a criminal of some sort! I don't know how, but you must have known it. You deliberately arranged for us to ride into town with him, and you sold him protection or immunity, or whatever it's called. You simply did it."

"Get this straight," Kate said. "None of it was arranged. After I saw him take our license plates I knew we wouldn't dare trust him with Zeke and the cargo. So I simply went along to protect the precious hams. The rest just happened."

Caroline thoughtfully dried her eyes and powdered her nose. "The whole thing's going to look awfully bad to Granddad," she said.

Kate shifted uneasily. Yes, she'd have to do some fast explaining. As if practicing for the interview with the old gentleman, she said now, "Well, that crook didn't earn this roll of bills; that's almost certain. And he couldn't spend it for anything better than the finest ham recipe in America and some good advice. I did advise him to settle down and make an honest living, you know. Maybe he'll take the advice."

The rest of the day was rather like a dream. They opened an account in a Louisville bank and deposited the $500 in Caroline's name. Her college fund, Caroline protested, but Kate insisted. They felt they had never loved each other quite so much before.

They went, then, to buy a dress for Kate, for they had decided it would not take the entire $50 to repair the broken sedan. Kate said, "I'll risk spending $10, though of course I won't find anything that price that will knock Eve Elwell's eye out."

And yet they did. On a rack in one of the better stores there was a sea-blue satin marked down to $10 from its original $40 because it had been modeled in a style show. Kate tried it on and Caroline said, "It was made for you, honey!"

"Morgan likes blue," Kate murmured, dreamily looking at herself in the mirror.

"Rhythm On Range" Fun-Filled Musical

By all odds the most tuneful, most amusing and most unique of the films to feature Bing Crosby, Paramount's new rollicking musical, "Rhythm on the Range," which opened yesterday at the Arcadia Theatre, provides a balanced program of song, comedy and romance unmatched by any recent screen offerings.

Introducing Bob Burns, drawing Arkansas maestro of the gaspazooka, for his important movie role, "Rhythm on the Range," casts Frances Farmer opposite Crosby and surrounds the trio with a score of the best talent in films.

"Rhythm on the Range" introduces such song hits as "I Can't Escape From You," "The House That Jack Built for Jill," "If You Can't Sing It You'll Have To Swing It," "Empty Saddles," "Roundup Lullaby" and "I'm an Old Cow Hand From the Rio Grande." Music is provided by everything from the Burns bazooka to the hot swing band presided over by Louis Prima.

Trainmen Urge Six Hour Day

FORT WORTH—A six-hour day for railroads was recommended as the solution to that industry's unemployment by J. A. Zanger of Chicago, Ill., vice president of the International Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

"Our big job," Zanger said during a recent visit here, "is to displace the basic 8-hour day with six hours if the jobless are to be put back to work. The shorter day would hike employment between 20 and 25 per cent."

Farmers' Income From Milk Shows A Nice Increase

NEW YORK—Cash income of farmers from milk for the first eight months of 1936 totaled $954,000,000, an increase of $60,000,000 of 6.7 per cent over the 1935 eight months' period, which totaled $894,000,000, according to the Milk Industry Foundation.

Farm milk cash for August alone was $125,000,000, compared with $106,000,000 for August, 1935, an increase of 17.9 per cent for the month. Milk sold for use in fluid form made up the largest portion of the dairy farmers' cash income for 1936 to date, the Foundation stated. Next in order as producers of farm cash were butter, cheese, canned milks, ice cream and miscellaneous by-products.

Payments to farmers by milk distributors for milk sold as "fluid" were 27 per cent higher in 1935 than the 1933 low, due to higher prices paid per quart to farmers and not to larger sales volume, the Foundation stated. "Fluid" milk includes bottled for homes, wholesale for stores, bulk for hospitals, hotels and restaurants.

Farmers' checks from milk distributors for milk sold as "fluid" were estimated by the Foundation at $468,000,000 for 1935 against $423,000,000 in 1934 and $368,000,000 in 1933, with further increases anticipated for 1936 as "fluid" consumption increases.

Long distance rates reduced 7 TIMES in 10 years

1926 OCTOBER 1, rates reduced on calls over 150 miles.	1927 DECEMBER 1, rates reduced on all calls over 378 miles.	1929 FEBRUARY 1, rates reduced on calls between 130 and 1490 miles.	1930 JANUARY 1, rates reduced on calls between 56 and 318 miles.	1935 JUNE 1, reduced night rates moved forward from 8:30 p. m. to 7 p. m.	1936 JANUARY 15, reductions on Sunday calls, and person-to-person calls after 7 p. m.

And now...

SEPTEMBER 1, 1936: Reduced rates on calls over 234 miles and reduced person-to-person overtime rates after 3 minutes of overtime.

In 1926, a person-to-person long distance telephone call between New York and San Francisco cost $20.60 at any hour. Six minutes were required to make the connection.

Today—1936—the same call may be made for only $6.75 at night, or any time on Sunday. You are connected in less than a minute and a half, on the average.

This wide difference between the long distance rates of yesterday and today is the result of seven voluntary rate reductions made in the past ten years.

It illustrates a Bell System policy in action—the policy of voluntarily reducing rates when it can be done.
