AM I DREAMING? Ye editor is the first to admit that his memory isn't what it should be, since he has been a card-carrying member of AARP since the latter part of the 1980s.

But we'd almost swear that two years ago about this time, candidate Bill Clinton made a major issue of criticizing then president George Bush for getting too much involved in foreign affairs, at the expense of domestic affairs, which he thought had been sadly neglected.

Clinton gained much support by charging that President Bush had involved America's armed forces too heavily in such places as the Persian Gulf, Panama and Libya.

"We need to spend more time trying to cure America's ills, and helping our own residents," was his message.

Less than two years later, we have troops in Haiti, and thousands of others headed back toward the Persian Gulf, as Iraq's resident madman, Saddam Hussein, threatened once again to invade Kuwait.

Experts on the Middle East have pointed out during the past week that this is the same ploy used by Hussein four and one-half years ago, when his vice-grip on his own the same tiebreaker score of 35-3. country was threatened by other factions in Iraq. He staged the invasion of Kuwait as a diversionary tactic, to force his own people to rally behind him.

With economic sanctions having been in place against Iraq by the United States and its allies, the nation's economy has hit bottom. and the opposing factors once again have been clamoring for Hussein's job.

So, the Mid-East tyrant felt compelled to threaten another invasion, in order to get a knee-jerk Contest for several years, with better than average luck, but most of the time is "just out of the prize money.

But this week Mrs. Blackwell, who is the administrator at Prairie Acres Nursing Home, got everything to click on her contest entry.

She was the only contestant entering the sixth weekly contest to correctly pick 12 of the 14 contest games, so she won first place and $10 cash without a runoff. Had she needed to go to her tiebreaker, it no doubt would have done the trick, since she picked the Cowboys to beat the Arizona Cardinals, 37-7. This was just five points off the actual score.

Mrs. Blackwell's only misses were Texas Tech-Rice and Kansas City-San Diego.

Chad Russell, one of Bovina's new coaches, was the only contestant to pick 11 games, and nailed down second place and $7.50. His misses were Tech-Rice, Florida State-Miami and Kansas City-San Diego.

Twenty contestants correctly picked ten games, and of this number, two missed the tiebreaker score by three points. Becky Johnson and Will Bell even used Both missed Texas Tech-Rice, Florida State-Miami and Miami-

Nineteen additional contestants picked nine games right and 11 others had scores of eight for the week.

grade class has recently constructed a model of the school, playground and the area surrounding the school. To begin with, each member of the class went outside and drew a map of their school and the streets surrounding it. This was the most difficult part of the project according to Victoria Carrillo.

Then, they modeled the school buildings, playground equipment, basketball court, tennis courts, and surrounding houses out of construction paper, pipe cleaners, milk cartons and various other products.

This project enabled the students

Mrs. Debbie Widner's second directions." The students learned north, south, east and west as well as right and left.

Each student worked on several areas of the model. Kody Hawkins was asked what areas he worked on and he answered, "the school, stop signs, basketball court, tennis court and trash barrels."

This is in fact a very detailed model, right down to the stop signs and trashbarrels.

Mrs. Widner said the students had been working on this project for the past month about 30 minutes each day. "I'm very proud of them and the kids did the work themselves," she said.

The 30th annual First Freeze Contest, sponsored by the Bovina Blade continues. There is still time to enter the contest, as we have not yet had our first killing freeze.

Those wishing to enter the competition can write their forecast for the first killing freeze on a postcard and mail it or bring it to the Blade office on Third Street. Entries may be sent along with your weekly football contest blanks if you wish.

Do not forget to write the date on which you enter, the time and your guess of the date of the freeze, which is very important.

reaction from President Clinton.

Most political observers felt it was only a matter of time before the Saddam Husseins of the world would test Clinton's mettle, partly due to his track record in avoiding military duty in Vietnam.

And Clinton, possibly needing a domestic diversion as badly if not more so than Saddam, has jumped to the challenge.

Human lives don't seem to matter much to these two leaders with their inflated egos, as long as they can remain in power, or perhaps improve on their popularity level by a few points in the polls.

AGRICULTURE PRICES, especially in the areas of cattle and corn, are at a dangerous low point in our area, and this does not translate into good economic news for our area.

We received word this week that the USDA's cutback on manpower has adversely affected the agency's ability to monitor crop levels for its periodic crop forecasts. These forecasts have served as the main tool for a number of years, for those whose job it is to determine commodity prices.

Part of the reduction of USDA employees is a result of the administration's "re-invention" of government--it sounded good, but there are always drawbacks.

With the announcement of the firing of Ag Secretary Mike Espy (correctly predicted in this column two weeks ago, we should point out), the USDA is currently in a shambles, it has been stated. And, since Espy plans to finish out the calendar year in his office, this isn't likely to change for the better until well past the first of the year.

Unfortunately for our area, and the other major agriculture areas of the nation, this might be too late for some farmers.

It's especially sad, since agriculture is the nation's number one industry. But part of the problem is that there are less congressmen from farm-related states than there are from the entire state of California.

Sid Lloyd And Daughter Tour Washington D. C.

By Julia Ann Olona

On August 25, 1994, my mother (Sid Lloyd) and I left Amarillo to visit my brother, her son, his wife, Myrna and daughter Pam in Alexandria, Virginia.

While there we spent eight and one-half days of touring and sightseeing some of the great places in and around our nation's capitol city.

We started out with some of the concerts presented by the U.S. Navy and U.S. Marine Bands, on the grounds of the Sylvan Theater. While there, we went on a night tour of the national monument and the lights of the capitol building.

We rode the elevator, 555 feet to the top of the Washington Monument, to view the city of Washington D.C., parts of Maryland and Virginia. This monument was erected in memory of George Washington, the nation's first president.

The capitol building, house of representatives and the senate chambers was such a beautiful building as were the carvings and all the statues of the great people who had a part in the building of this nation.

While there we ate lunch at the Senate Restaurant. It seems just about anywhere we were, we could always see the beautiful dome with the 19 foot High Statue of Freedom standing tall on top.

We went on to see the Lincoln Memorial, 19 foot high marble sculpture of Abraham Lincoln; Library of Congress, which houses over 14 million books and 36 million manuscripts; The Old Post Office Building, 315 foot tower and viewed the Bell Chamber; Arlington National Cemetery, changing of the guard at the tomb of the unknown soldier, the gravesite of John F. Kennedy, Jacqueline, and two of their children and also the gravesite of his brother, Robert F. Kennedy.

From the National Cemetery, we rode the metro train to the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial, the polished black granite wall, with over 58 thousand name to honor the Vietnam War's dead or missing.

The Smithsonian was so much to see, we just had time to see parts of the National Museum of American history; National Air and Space; Museum of the Natural History; National Gallery of Art; Sculpture Gardens; and we walked through the beautiful gardens of the original Smithsonian building.

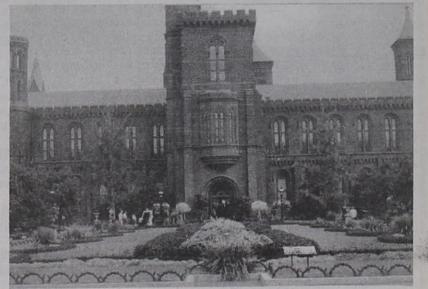

We toured the Treasury

Department (the money factory) and watched the printing of one, five, ten, twenty, and fifty dollar bills, (so close but so far from so much money!)

The Washington National Cathedral houses the tomb of president Woodrow Wilson. In addition to it's twelve hundred regular services each year, there are services for other denominations as well as for many national, civic and governmental organizations. It is administered by the Episcopal Church, but is also a house of prayer for all people.

We drove out to the Great Falls Park where the Potomac River builds up speed and falls over the steep, jagged rocks and flows through the narrow gorge, then levels off to the Clam River that separates Washington, D. C. and

Mustangs Drop Tough Game To Steers, 7-6

Bovina High School's Mustangs were very close to scoring their second win of 1994 last Friday against the rival Farwell Steers, but the Steer defense rose up to stop three Mustang scoring threats in the fourth quarter, to make off with a 7-6 win in the district opener for both teams.

Farwell took advantage of an early break, when Jason Taylor recovered Lance McClaran's fumble at midfield. The Steers marched 50 yards in nine plays. Brock Anderson scored from three yards out, and Jason Miller's PAT kick gave the visitors a 7-0 lead.

Bovina responded with a scoring drive of their own. Cruz Maruffo directed a 60-yard drive, completing passes to McClaran and Rocha. McClaran scored from a yard out with 3:57 remaining in the first quarter. McClaran was stopped on the two-point try, being tackled at the line of scrimmage.

Seventh Grade

The seventh grade had trouble putting the ball into the endzone despite moving Farwell down the field.

"Defensively, we played pretty good, but Farwell had a quarterback that could run the option and that is

The Farwell defense was challenged a little later when runningback Jimmy Bonham completed a 21-yard pass to Jerry Rocha, to the Steer eight. But two plays later, Farwell forced a fumble and recovered. The Mustangs had yet another chance to score when they moved the ball to the Farwell 23 with time running out. However, quarterback Marrufo suffered a pass interception by Farwell's Chase Hardage. Hardage and his cousin Blaze Hardage each had two interceptions to blunt the Mustang attack.

Mount Vernon, the home of George and Martha Washington, was my favorite place, so beautiful and peaceful, looking over the Potomac River. I could have stayed there forever.

We couldn't leave without seeing the place where Don spends most of his time, the U.S. Department of Agriculture building. It was such a large place, you could walk for days and never leave the building. We also ate lunch at the cafeteria, where you could get just about any kind of food from different countries.

We didn't see near all the places there is to see. You would have to live there to be able to see everything.

It sure makes you appreciate the people who had such a big part of our nation's history. Our young people studying history need to visit this place, it brings to life the history we study while in school. It was such a great place to visit.

A Message

Garth Merrick, President Merrick Petfoods. Inc. Hereford, Texas

Merrick Petfoods began in the mid-1980's with one goal in mind – produce the finest quality pet foods using as much pure beef as possible and market the products at a fair price.

Have we met our goal? You have to be the judge of that, but based on what thousands of current customers say, we've lived up to our commitment.

Beef 'n More[®] products are indeed the finest quality you can buy. Our location in Hereford, Texas, gives us access to the finest beef and grain products grown anywhere in the world...and being centered in the nation's beef capital allows us to utilize more beef in our products than is utilized by any other dry pet food company. Of course, it's no secret that dogs and cats love the taste of beef.

Regarding the issue of fair price, we believe pet owners are paying too much for premium quality pet food. So we work very hard to continually improve efficiency and keep our costs low. That means people who buy Beef 'n More products get more for their money.

I invite you to try one of our Beef 'n More products. Please judge its quality and value, and let your pet judge its taste and nutrition. Thank you for your business.

Sincerely,

Dorth Morrick Garth Merrick

From sunrise to sunset all across the nation...

40,000 cooperatives work hard for their member-owners and their communities.

In big cities, small towns and rural areas, cooperatives owned and operated by 60,000,000 people provide a tremendous variety of goods and services-electric and telephone service, farm credit, credit unions, farm marketing and farm supply, food, health and day care, and insurance. Cooperatives work because they meet people's needs efficiently and economically. That's why co-ops have scored high marks for quality goods and services for more than half a century all across America.

Looking Up!

By Richard Grisham Community spirit is an important part of small town life in Bovina. We all need to do our best to work together for the good of all.

It is easy to be critical when we sit back and stay uninvolved. But rather than throw rocks, we need to each do our part to make Bovina a better place in which to live!

We have numerous things in our community worthy of our time and effort. For example, our Bovina Medical Clinic is now open! Linda Conlee will be here five days a week to meet the medical needs of local people. I hope we will all support the clinic and encourage this effort, even if you already go elsewhere for medical needs.

Bovina folks have been assured that our new clinic should do well, with the support of Parmer County

Cross Country Teams

Community Hospital in Friona and High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. So give our clinic an opportunity. (And, by the way, doesn't it look nice since being refurbished!)

Another area that needs our support is our schools! BISD will be only as good as we, the local people, make it. Our school board, administrators, and teachers need parental concern and involvment. Volunteers, like you, can always be used. And our children and youth need our encouragement.

> Our local EMS and Bovina Fire Department do a good job, although sometimes it gets nerve-racking and difficult.

We are blessed to have such a fine group of volunteers and good equipment for both organizations.

And the Lord has blessed us with two local paramedics. Our firefighters also spend much time in training. Let them know you appreciate their efforts, and if you

FELLOW COLUMNIST David Stevens, who writes "Plain Spoken" for the Sunday Amarillo paper, mentioned a couple of weeks ago, that the law-abiding citizens in big cities are usually advised to shy away from certain bad parts of town and try to avoid being seen associating with shady-looking characters. However, he noted that in the Panhandle area it would be wise to not be seen talking to any high school football coach if his team record is 0-and-something.

Congrats to Coach Russell and the Bovina Mustangs for breaking their streak, and to the Chiefs who were 0-10 two years ago and now have their sights on the district title.

Small towns in Parmer County don't have a bad side of town, as such, and not too many shady characters, but I think the citizens of this area would be well advised to not be seen getting chummy with anyone who is a big supporter of President Clinton. You are known by the company you keep.

Bovina High School Receives State Award

Bovina High School has received recognition by the Texas Education Agency for increased student achievement as measured by the 1993-94 Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) test.

The Texas Successful Schools Award System (TSSAS) lists Bovina as eligible for a monetary award because of "significant gains" on the test at tenth grade level.

An award ceremony will be held in Austin in January of next year for schools receiving recognition.

A comparison of 1992-93 test scores to 1993-94 tests show the following gains:

achievement in Texas is 90 per cent of all students passing the TAAS tests at each grade level tested.

Friona Entrant Is Weekly Winner

A Friona contestant, Mike misses on the contest lineup were Raymond, was one of two Minnesota-Arizona and Randall-me of a story Cousin Beverly Ellis of Lubbock told at a recent family get-together: She has a good friend, Yvette, who works for a real estate firm in the Dallas area. Her boss assigned her to show a property late one afternoon in the "bad" part of town. She worried and fretted about this assignment all day long, knowing there had been a rash of recent drive-by shootings in that area of town. The poor lady was just scared to death and had worked herself into a frenzy over this assignment.

Yvette got off work at five, ran a few errands and finally it was time to keep the dreaded appointment in the crime-ridden area of the city.

Well, everything went off without a hitch, the prospective buyer was shown around the property, and Yvette was finally driving out of the area when she heard a loud pop and felt something hit the back of her head. She knew she'd been shot. She gripped the wheel tightly and willed herself not to pass out, but just kept on driving. There was a hospital about a mile away and she headed in that direction.

She was feeling quite dizzy, but with all the strength she could muster, Yvette finally pulled into the emergency room driveway at the hospital. She slumped weakly over the wheel, and the horn started blaring. An attendant came out to see what was the matter.

"I've been shot," she told him. He opened the door to check on her condition and she told him she'd been shot in the back of the head by a drive-by shooter or a gang person. He began checking out her head and then he started to laugh.

"Lady, you've been shot by a biscuit," he said.

A can of refrigerator biscuits in her grocery bag on the back seat had gotten hot while Yvette was keeping her appointment in the "bad" part of town. Then when the car started up in motion, it was enough to make the can of biscuits pop open. One of the biscuits had plopped on her head and gotten stuck in her hair.

"They'll charge you a lot here at the hospital to clean that out of your hair," the attendant laughed. "I think you'd be a lot better off

The Bovina High School Mustangs finally broke the "gooseegg" in the win department, which had touched parts of the last three seasons, when they downed Smyer, 28-0 at last Friday's Homecoming game.

The Mustangs snapped their 23game losing streak with the win, which had been the Panhandle's longest such streak.

"That wasn't like getting a monkey off our backs," Coach James Russell commented. "It was

"There have been talented players here the past two years. It is mainly just a matter of knowing how to win. We finally played four quarters back-to-back and everyone did a great job," Russell added.

Cruz Marrufo completed eight of 12 passing attempts for 104 yards and no interceptions. Lance McClaran pulled down four passes for 86 yards, including two in the second quarter for touchdowns.

McClaran and Marrufo hooked up on a 20-yard play to give Bovina a 6-0 lead, and did it again before halftime on a 41-yard gain, to send the Mustangs to halftime with a 12-0 lead.

Bovina racked up a safety in the third quarter to hike their lead to 14-0. Then Jimmy Bonham, tailback, ran four yards for a TD and McClaran ran for two points, to stretch Bovina's lead to 22-0.

Bonham again crashed across from four yards out in the final quarter, and the PAT failed, for a final score of 28-0.

The Mustangs outgained Smyer, 330-123, and led in first downs, 17-

A man walked into a dark room and saw the form of a deadly snake coiled at his feet. He became so frightened that he collapsed and fell to the floor, dead. A few minutes later, another man walked into the same room, turned on the light and found the first man lying there with a coil of heavy rope at his feet.

Yvette's story was true. The snake story is a parable from The Dragon Doesn't Live Here Anymore by Alan Cohen, who says that if you keep track of all the things you worry about, you'll find that 92% of them never come to pass, and of the 8% that do, you will be given the strength and ability to deal with them successfully.

'We've been trying to overcome that streak for a long time and we celebrated after we finally broke it. Hopefully, we can keep this going into district," he added.

Russell said "We gave up some yardage at times, but the defense played well overall. We picked off three passes and that stopped a lot of their drives."

Art Work Displayed

The hall at Bovina Middle School has artwork on display created by the middle school students in Joy Trimble's art classes.

The artwork is outstanding and the students seem to be enjoying learning various aspects of art.

"I like art class because you get to learn new things, you always have an exciting time learning how to draw things that you never thought you could draw or paint before and we have a great teacher who teaches us great things and she is very nice. We also get to express our feelings and it makes us feel great," said eighth grade student Lory Noriega.

"Sixth grade student Levi Steelman commented, "My favorite thing about art is you can express your feelings through it."

Falls Kress Го By 20-14

This game was a rematch of two weeks ago when Kress beat us 22-0. This time we were a little more prepared. Kress's top dog Juan Noriega broke loose for an early score putting Kress up 6-0.

Bovina struck back with a little trickery and took an 8-6 lead. Kress scored again with Mr. Noriega scoring on a determined and admirable run.

Tony Beauchamp hit Manny Quintana with a 45 yard touchdown pass to take back the lead for Bovina 14-12. Bovina held the lead until the 2:30 mark when Kress got a big break and scored on a turnover. Kress won 20-14.

"Our defense played very well and there were a number of times that Noriega was slammed hard, but he's a true player and kept on running hard," coach Bruce Beets said.
