OFFICERS OF RESERVES WILL TEST A LAW

AUSTIN, Texas — Texas National Guard officers have gone to court to establish a right to retain their civil offices while they are enrolled for a year's military training.

The state supreme court has set the case for argument October 16, and a decision is hoped for before the Texas guard is ordered into camp. The Texas cavalry is scheduled to leave Nov. 15 and other organizations will report on Nov. 25.

The test case came when Maj. Orville Carpenter, member of the state staff corps, was ordered on active duty to assist in the draft. Carpenter is executive director of the state Unemployment Compensation Commission.

By a ruling of the state attorney-general, Major Carpenter's state pay was cut off when he assumed his military work.

An amendment to the state constitution was adopted after the World War to permit state officials to hold National Guard and Reserve Commissions but the legal department has ruled when they are called out by the president their status changes and a general provision in the constitution against dual office holding becomes effective and automatically forfeits their civil offices.

Among Carpenter's attorneys is Maj. Gen. Claude V. Birkhead of San Antonio, commander of the 36th Division, National Guard. An amicus curiae brief has been filed on behalf of guard officers and reservists who cannot now be parties to the suit because they have not yet been ordered on active military duty.

Amid these is Cool, Ernest O. Thompson, state railroad commissioner. If his office is forfeited, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel will name his successor. Thompson was a candidate for governor against O'Daniel in two campaigns.

UNCLE SAM'S SELECTIVE SERVICE

The National Drawing

1. Q.—In what order will the registrants be considered for classification and induction into service?

A.—One of the basic principles of a selective service system is that all registrants shall be treated on an equal basis. The order in which individuals will be considered for classification and possible service will be determined by lottery—a national drawing.

2. Q.—Will each local registrant receive a definite number?

A.—Yes. After the registration is complete in each local area, the registration cards will be shuffled and mixed before numbering. Each person will then be assigned a serial number, and a list of these numbers in each local area will be posted for public inspection. It is contemplated that there will not be more than 3,500 registrants in any single area, so the serial numbers will run from 1 to 3500 or less.

3. Q.—Will Number 1 in each area be the first man called for classification?

A.—No. Numbers corresponding to the numbers in each local area—probably from 1 to 3500—will be placed in a container in Washington, D. C., and a drawing for order will take place. For example, Number 2875 may be drawn first, then Number 147, then Number 3033, and so on, until all numbers have been drawn. The order in which they were drawn will then be made into a code list.

4. Q.—Will the first number on the code list—say Number 2875—be the number of the first man in each local area to be called?

A.—No. To insure the most complete impartiality in the administration of the selective service act, another drawing will be held. This time only one number will be drawn—possibly by the President of the United States. This number might conceivably be Number 3033, and will be known as the key number. This will be the number of the first man in each local area for classification.

5. Q.—After the numbers have been drawn in the national lottery, what will happen then?

A.—A list of numbers, in the order in which the men will be called for consideration, will then be posted in each area so that all may know how soon he may expect to be called. Each man will then be assigned what is known as an "order number."

Good Government In Texas Holding Attention of West Texas C. of C. as a Major Part of Organizations Service

ABILENE, Tex.—Good government in Texas, how it is needed, how it may be had, is engaging the close attention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The organization is, this year, giving unusual emphasis to its long-time work program of fostering better fiscal management and budget making in state and local governments. In the making is a complete plan to be submitted to the people of Texas and to the legislature, covering these objectives:

1. Providing centralized control and up-to-date budget procedure of state receipts and disbursements.
2. Giving greater standardization to and mandatory requirements for budget making in local political subdivisions.
3. Setting up adequate provisions for the collection of delinquent taxes, and basing of local budgets upon 100 per cent collections.
4. Modernizing and improving for local political subdivisions the debt-incurring and debt-paying practices, for the benefit of the taxpayers.

Already drawn and approved by officials of the West Texas Chamber is the plan submitted by Dr. George C. Hester, counselor of the WTCC's Public Expenditure Commission, and D. A. Bandeen, manager of the organization, for reorganizing the financial management functions of the state. This was announced by WTCC's President J. S. Bridwell, in Fort Worth, after an all-day meeting with Jas. D. Hamlin, chairman of the Public Expenditure commission; Dean J. Thomas Davis, vice-president of the WTCC; and Hester and Bandeen.

The general objectives of the plan—Point No. 1 in the WTCC's whole program—as announced by Bridwell, are:
1. To achieve a modern, scientific and complete budget for the state containing all of its financial plans, instead of piecemeal, incomplete and separate plans as at present.
2. To achieve centralized control and supervision of all state receipts and disbursements, instead of diffusion of this control in more than 100 different departments and funds.
3. To achieve centralization, and control of accounting and independent auditing, instead of uncorrelated auditing and accounting scattered through the many departments and funds.
4. To achieve more effective centralized control over things being purchased, and over personnel by a classified civil service system, instead of decentralization and the spoils system with state employees.

5. To achieve better budget management and execution, with savings and unspent balances reverting to the treasury of the state, instead of no-budget execution and expenditure of balances as at present.

6. To achieve reorganization, consolidation and coordination of administrative agencies so as to eliminate unnecessary duplication of work, personnel, rentals, traveling expense and other overhead items, which admittedly is needed in the state's governmental structure.

President Bridwell said the main virtues of the plan being offered are:

(a) That it utilizes the constitutional and other offices and boards already created insofar as practicable, and reduces the number of agencies in the state's administrative system.

(b) That it enables getting the job done in the democratic way rather than through dictatorial procedure, yet enables a strong executive budget as contemplated by the constitution of the state.

(c) That it makes possible better legislative procedure by enabling the legislature to obtain full and complete information upon which to determine policies and make appropriations, while at the same time giving the legislature its rightful check on administration through the auditing function.

Much information has been collected and exhaustive studies have been made by Hester and Bandeen on financial practices in other states, and the WTCC plan to be submitted blends the best experiences in other states with the Texas constitution and practices. President Bridwell said: "Full explanation of Texas conditions as they now exist, the remedy proposed and practices in other states, will be published soon. A bill is likewise being drafted for submission to the legislature for putting the plan into effect. On issuance of our pamphlet covering the plan, and preparation of the bill, a statewide meeting will be called by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to launch a campaign for passage of the bill."

Petaín Outlines New French State

VICHY, Oct. 10. — Marshal Henri Philippe Petaín in a message to the nation tonight outlined the basis of the new French regime which he said would provide a "national authoritarian state" without entangling alliances.

He said that Franco-German relations will dominate French policy and pointed out that Germany could impose either a punitive, aggressive peace or a peace based upon collaboration.

The new authoritarian state, he said would be "socially inclined." It will not copy any foreign experimental regime, he said.

After a transitory period, Petaín said, state organized industries would be restored to private ownership. All professions, corporations and trades will be placed under the authority of the state.

Class strife will not be permitted, he said, and neither labor nor capital nor any other class will be allowed to dominate the new order.

N.Y.A. Will Do Own Registering

The NYA at Ranger, where there are 131 enrolled, will do its own registering on Oct. 16, registration day, County Clerk R. V. Galloway, announced this morning.

It is estimated, Galloway said, that about one-third of the total 131 NYA workers would come within the registration age.

Charles Squires of Ranger will be the chief registrar at the NYA camp and it will be a part of his duties to see that each NYA worker, who comes within the registration age, is duly registered. Assisting Squires will be the heads of the various NYA departments as follows:

Woodwork department — Joe Chambers, Howard Gracey, assistant.

Airplane mechanic department — Mr. Jackson; Jack Hal, assistant.

Radio department — Leslie Kruger; Mrs. Jewell Reeves, assistant. Metal shop — Henry Tillett; Charles Squires, assistant.

Cashier Missing; Bank Is Closed

Following request of bank examiners to audit books of the Savings Bank of Nanticoke, Md., Mrs. Margaret R. Fields, above, assistant cashier, disappeared. When audit disclosed an apparent shortage, directors closed the bank, voluntarily turned it over to the state banking commissioner to liquidate the assets.

Junior Colleges Should Feature Job Training

DALLAS, Texas.—More junior college students should be educated in two-year courses for jobs, for citizenship and for home life, rather than for going on into a university, declared Walter C. Ellis of Washington, D. C., secretary of the American association of Junior Colleges, at a conference of Texas junior college representatives here today.

"Experience shows," he said, "that most junior college students will not go on into a university. They should not be educated for something they will not do if they can be better educated for the things they will do."

The conference was one of 20 being held in a series arranged by the Commission on Junior College Terminal Education, from Boston to Los Angeles and back again to New York, to plan how the junior colleges can better meet the needs of their students.

Although two-thirds of the country's junior college students, according to Dr. Ellis, are preparing for university or four-year college work, three-fourths of them will not go beyond the two junior college years.

"In Texas," he continued, "this maladjustment is much worse than for the country as a whole. Eight out of 10 junior college students in Texas are preparing to go on into a university, but only two go on. Seventeen per cent prepare to quit in two years, but 81 per cent actually do quit."

"The time has passed when everyone who goes to college can be educated for a profession. The profession absorb only 6 per cent of the population. Preparation for these professions is the primary function of the universities. But approximately one-half of the gainful workers in the country, proprietors, managers, clerical and skilled labor, are in occupations which are distinctly on the semi-professional level.

"Here is a wide open field for the junior colleges. More than 300 junior colleges are already giving semiprofessional and general education to about one-third of their 120,000 students. But for all the 600 junior colleges in the country, with 200,000 students, the proportion is far lower.

"Twenty years ago, more than three-quarters of the young men of junior college age were gainfully employed. Today the proportion is less than half. It is more and more difficult for young men to find employment before they are 20 or 21 years old.

"Increasing thousands of them must be provided for in the junior college or some equivalent institution—unless we prefer to care for them in reform schools and penitentiaries. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that the largest number of arrests for crime and the largest number of commitments to state and federal penitentiaries are of young men, 18 or 19 years of age—exactly the junior college years."

Texas junior colleges which offer terminal courses stress chiefly business education, secretarial work and the teaching profession. Dr. Ellis pointed out, though certain institutions have work in agriculture, engineering, aviation and nursing.

OIL INDUSTRY IS IN BETTER SHAPE TODAY

KILGORE, Texas.—The American petroleum industry is in far better shape now to meet the very heavy demands of modern mechanized warfare than it was in 1917 for the much smaller demands of the First World War, George A. Hill, Jr., of Houston declared here. Hill, vice-president of the American Petroleum Institute in charge of its division of oil production, spoke at the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the discovery of the East Texas oil field.

"Today the condition of the petroleum industry is wholly at variance with the conditions that existed in 1917," Hill said. "The number of producing oil wells in the United States is nearly twice that of two decades ago. New wells can be drilled five times as fast. Proven reserves of crude oil are nearly three times as great as those of 1917. The number of petroleum refineries has been doubled, and their capacity multiplied by four. Stocks of essential products are two to ten times as large as in 1917, and storage capacities are correspondingly greater. Land transportation facilities for oil are more than twice as extensive, and marine, eight times as large. All of this was done voluntarily by the American petroleum industry, without government subsidy or favor.

"In view of these facts, it may be maintained with confidence that the oil industry is fully capable and entirely willing by voluntary, patriotic co-operation, and without the unnecessary and corroding influence of authoritarian control and compulsion to achieve the objectives of our National defense program.

"The maximum of service to the National defense and to preparedness can be rendered without resort, at this time, to experimentation and to the development and employment of new controls. There is no phase of service, to the most exact requirements of National defense and National preparedness, that cannot be supplied through the voluntary service and voluntary co-operation of the oil industry under the leadership of the President of the United States and his National Defense Advisory Commission."

Hill closed with a tribute to "Dad" C. M. Joiner "who in the true pioneering spirit discovered this greatest single reservoir of national wealth."

"No chart of government pointed the way to this field," Hill said. "No managed economy underwrote his risk. No authoritarian regulation measured his prospect. No bureaucracy supplied his incentive by either mandate or bounty. The true spirit of the pioneer, the independent enterprise of a free American citizen who still believed in and cherished the opportunities that America affords, resided in the will of 'Dad' Joiner. Let us pray that these United States throughout the future, as in the past, may nurture, preserve and proudly cherish the pioneer and let his courageous spirit forever remain the core of free America."

SERIAL STORY

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

COPYRIGHT, 1940,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Hugh shoots the lock on the door as the storm crashes about them. Rushing upstairs, the men find all doors and windows locked, find no evidence of an intruder. There is a scream from the jungle. When candles are brought, Braitwood sees Adam, leaning oddly against the lioness. Marta Hempfield is at his feet. Near her hand is Adam's gun.

DEATH IN THE JUNGLE

CHAPTER IV

ADAM LANGDON'S hands hung stiffly forward, his feet extended toward the floor like a figure hung on a gibbet. A small red spot stained the bosom of his shirt. The gaping rigidity in his face told the rest. So might some dreadful scarecrow have appeared to a passing farmer on a moonless night in a fingering ray of lantern light.

Langdon's buttoned coat had caught over the lioness' head and the scimitar, fastened to the beast's neck, had penetrated beneath his shoulder, both helping to hold him in crazy erectness. All this Braitwood saw in a glance.

"Is it a double murder?" Craig Gundrum asked.

"Murder! Not that!" Hugh groaned.

THE word had an eerie sound in that dark room. Yet it was no stranger there. The shadowy beasts crowding the darkness had all known violent deaths. The weapons on wall and rack had drunk deep from the wild, free life of jungle and veldt; the ancient blunderbusses and obsolete daggers had been employed to grim purpose more than once.

But the six persons in the room reacted to it in oddly different ways. It sponged the blond vigor from Hugh Langdon's powerful face; Nella had refused to uncover her eyes and face the horror that had been her uncle a few short moments before. At the table, Patricia Langdon had frozen in her seat, apparently unable to utter a sound. Togi trembled perceptibly. Gundrum's eyes were brilliant with excitement. Braitwood was shocked, but calm.

Sidney had dropped to his knees beside Marta. It was only afterwards, when he tried to reconstruct the scene, that he recalled hearing Gundrum whispering to Pat Langdon.

MARTA was alive. Her pulse, however faint, her breathing, told Sidney that. She stirred slightly as he bent over her.

"Marta has only fainted," said Hugh, who had joined them. "I thought at first it might be murder and suicide."

Between them they carried Marta to the window seat. Sidney brought liquor from the table and forced it through her bloodless lips, while Hugh and Togi began a search of the jungle for traces of the murderer. It seemed impossible he could have passed them on the stairway and made his escape through the floor above, but there was no other exit.

Marta stirred. Her eyelids fluttered and then she had caught the lawyer's hand in a desperate grip.

"Adam is dead, Sidney," she whispered. "I felt his face."

"Do you know who killed my husband, Miss Hempfield?" Pat Langdon had crossed to them. All the strength of her young will lay behind the question.

"No, I do not know who killed Adam, Mrs. Langdon," Marta muttered, "but I know he is dead."

"Please do not question Miss Hempfield. She is too weak to talk," Sidney said, sternly. "Marta, you are not to discuss this with anyone."

HE was certain Langdon had not shot himself. No powder burns framed the red spot on his shirt front.

And above all others, Marta had a motive for murder. She had been found lying at Adam's feet, all but grasping the weapon with which he had armed himself. She had admitted she knew he was dead. Alert in her defense, the lawyer realized the need for caution.

"Sorry," Pat turned toward the lioness and its dreadful burden. Sidney followed.

"Nothing must be touched," he cautioned them. "We must wait for the police."

"Do we need to call the police?" Nella questioned plaintively. "Can't you all see how this happened? Uncle Adam was standing on the lioness' block. I don't know why, but he must have been. Like the floor, it's highly waxed and slippery. He slipped forward. His coat caught and jerked him back against the scimitar. It's like a razor. Naturally his gun fell from his hand. There—there it is."

She pointed to the old-fashioned weapon on the floor and burst into a fit of hysterical weeping.

"I differ," instantly Gundrum had lifted the back of Adam's coat. "The scimitar hasn't penetrated deeply," he said with relief. "It couldn't have caused death. I shouldn't like to believe that my carelessness had been responsible for a tragedy, but there is no doubt about the block being slippery."

"In cases of violent death, no matter what the cause, the police must be summoned, Nella," Sidney said gently.

"HOW extraordinary to have them in on one's first house party after marriage," Pat breathed. "Nella, you had better go up to your room and lie down."

She was calm, apparently emotionless. How can she be so cold, Sidney thought, with Adam...

"It's my unpleasant duty to insist that we all remain together until the police come," he said, again the formal attorney. "You understand that we shall all be searched for the weapon that killed Adam."

"Weapon?" Nella sobbed stubbornly.

"Adam was shot," Sidney said. "There is a bullet hole in his shirt front, Nella. The rest of us noticed it."

"The police will not have far to look. Miss Hempfield all but had the gun in her hand," Pat put in quickly.

"A ballistic expert will have to determine whether or not a bullet from that gun killed Adam, Mrs. Langdon," Sidney reminded her. "We don't know yet who handled it."

"You knelt beside Miss Hempfield, Mr. Braitwood. Could you, by any chance, have wiped off her fingerprints?"

"Not by the remotest chance," Sidney replied, evenly.

"I come in with Mr. Braitwood. He no do," Togi interrupted excitedly. "Mr. Hugh, he no wipe off. I see both."

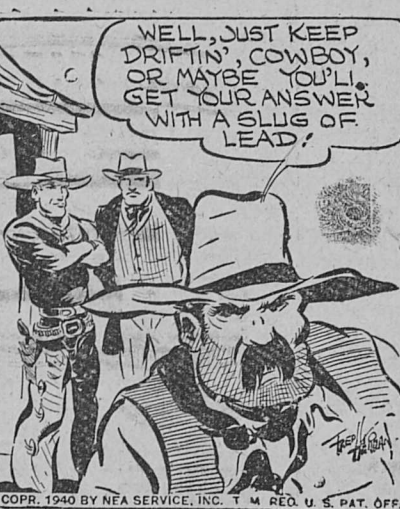

"Let's get upstairs into the light," Hugh suggested. "The thieves, if any, will have left the house long ago after all this commotion. I need a drink."

Led by Hugh, and with Sidney supporting Marta, they walked from the room of death.

Square Dancers To Enter A Festival

Ranger square and folk dancing enthusiasts are furnishing some excellent talent for the program in connection with the Folk Dance Festival to be held in Mineral Wells on October 26. Two Ranger square dance teams have registered and will give special numbers on the program.

One team has been organized by Marvin Gray and is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Doss, Frances Sexton, Marvin Gray, Lorene Crabb and J. E. Wharton. The high school team consists of Ernest Arterburn, Marguerite Stevens, Polly Seymour, T. M. Brown, Lillian Ruth Carter, James Ferris, Bobby Branton and D. C. Arterburn. It is possible, also, that a group of the Hodges Oak Park children will form a team.

Another special number will be furnished by two of the youngest of the Ranger folk dancers, Merilyn Parrish and Dale Cunningham, who will do a heel and toe dem-

Sportsmen Asked To Be On Lookout For Banded Ducks

NEW YORK—The co-operation of the country's millions of sportsmen is being sought as hunting seasons open this month in reporting recovery of numbered aluminum bands which they may find attached to the legs of wild ducks.

Ducks Unlimited, to assist in gathering data on flight habits of the waterfowl, announces that thousands of ducks, hatched on its over 700,000 acres of nesting refermentation. Other entries registered for the festival include teams from Eastland, Mineral Wells, Stephenville and Fort Worth. In addition, string bands from Cisco, Eastland, Mineral Wells, and Stephenville will be present to furnish music for the occasion.

It should be noted that it is not necessary to register with a team to attend the festival as the public is invited to attend and participate in the square and folk dancing.

uges in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, were banded during the past breeding season.

Reports on where and when these birds are bagged will provide data on routes followed by the migrants, what section of Canada birds found in various parts of this country come from, and other information of value to conservation. Bands recovered should be mailed to the U. S. Biological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Many of the ducks have been banded in remote sections of the provinces where banding work has been done for the first time. Last year, a few hundred were banded in Canadian wilderness areas—with surprising results.

A lesser scaup duck, banded by a Ducks Unlimited biologist on September 12, 1939, at the Athabasca River delta in northern Alberta, was shot in Penobscot county, Maine, 25 days later. The bird had migrated 2,200 miles almost due east, instead of south, as wildfowl are supposed to do.

Another duck of the same species, banded at the same time and place, was bagged just a day after the Maine bird—on the Changuenola River, in Panama, over 4,000 miles due south of where it was hatched.

Bargain Day

on Ideologies

If Adolf Hitler's first offensive against the United States is going to be intensified propaganda directed toward the Latin Americas, there seems to be no rule in the game that says we can't move in and try the same stunt.

It is axiomatic that Hitler's initial design against the United States would be to surround us with totalitarian nations, hostile to our own form of government, and to scare the daylights out of us. If he could drive a wedge into Pan American solidarity, American defense might be materially damaged.

For a long time, Nazi influences have been filtering into South and Central America, working on popular opinion. For Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway and all the rest, there was a less subtle way. For the distant Americas, Der Fuehrer believes, deftly directed propaganda may do the trick.

Well, the United States can play at that game. We can play it as Hitler doesn't—honestly, openly, without the deceptions and hatreds that are part of the Nazi scheme.

The United States has something very definite to sell: security for everyone within the western hemisphere. We stand to gain no more than any other Pan American country. We have no imperialistic programs up our sleeve. We offer no more than a chance at prosperity, a chance at freedom, a chance to live in a world of peace.

It sounds like a pretty good bill of goods. It sounds a lot better than the Nazi prospectus. Americans have enjoyed it for more than 150 years. There's ample reason to believe that the rest of the Americas will recognize the advantages of a superior product.

But we've got to tell them about it. We've got to blare it at them louder than the Nazis are doing. It's got to sound sincere and real and awfully good. Both programs are represented as being sound investments. We've got to show them down there that ours really is—and then point in contrast to the shackled nations of Europe.

Two united continents will prove too large a challenge even to a Hitler. The dictators must recognize their limitations. The war of words south of the Rio Grande may be the prelude to the Battle of America. If Hitler loses it, there may be no battle. If he wins, we may have to keep our hands on our six-shooters.

The United States had better start talking—and the talk had better be good.

British golf club decides that a ball may be lifted from a bomb crater without penalty of a stroke, which is the only thing the duffer thanks Adolf for.

ADMIRATION COFFEE PLANS CASH CONTEST

There's happiness ahead for the housewives of Ranger. Today's Times, announces the opening of the first of ten weekly contests to be sponsored by the roasters of Admission Coffee. There will be a new contest each week with a first prize of $100.00 cash, second prize of $40.00 cash, third prize of $20.00 cash, and twenty cash prizes of $2.00 each. The contest is simple. You merely write in twenty-five words or less "why you prefer Admission Coffee."

It was pointed out that this contest should have especial appeal to the housewives of Ranger in that it is restricted to the Southwest. Unlike national contests where your entry is pitted against many hundreds of thousands, this contest is largely local and hence affords you an extremely good chance of winning a prize. Moreover, you may submit as many entries as you wish in each week's contest.

The $3,000 contest is but a part of the Admission fall and winter advertising campaign which is reputedly the largest and most extensive campaign in Southwest coffee merchandising history. The campaign is being sponsored to induce more Southwest coffee lovers to try Admission and learn for themselves why Admission is the Southwest's favorite coffee.

Although the campaign will be supported by outdoor advertising, radio announcements, and attractive store display material, the bulk of the advertising will be carried by approximately 150 Southwest newspapers.

The Times and other newspapers were selected by the roasters of Admission to be the backbone of this elaborate campaign because of their versatile ability, officials said.

Striking advertisements each week throughout the fall and early winter will carry to the housewife the selling story on the deliciousness of Admission Coffee.

Rules of the contest are simple. They are as follows:

1—Using a plain sheet of paper, tell in about 25 words why you and its trade territory, prefer Admission Coffee.

2—Print plainly on official entry blank (which will be found in each of the Admission Coffee advertisements) your name and address and the name and address of the dealer from whom you buy Admission Coffee. Attach one Admission coupon, or facsimile, and mail with your contest entry to Admission Department C-73, Box 2079, Houston, Texas. Admission coupons are packed with every can, jar and package of Admission Coffee.

3—Send in as many entries as you wish, provided each is accompanied by an Admission coupon or facsimile.

4—Judges will award prizes to the entries which, in their opinion give the most appropriate reasons for preferring Admission Coffee. The decision of the judges will be final. No contest entries will be returned and all become the property of the Duncan Coffee Company.

5—Anyone may enter except the employees of the Duncan Coffee Company, their advertising agency and their families.

6—Entries are eligible from any place where Admission Coffee is sold and prizes are subject to Federal, State and local taxes and regulations. Inapplicable in any jurisdiction where any part of this contest plan is taxed, regulated or prohibited.

7—If your dealer's name is on your winning entry blank he receives a cash award also.

8—Each week's contest closes Saturday, midnight. Entries received postmarked after that date will be entered in the following week's contest. Final contest closes Dec. 21, 1940.

Air Transportation Speed Demonstrated

By United Press

MARFA, Texas—The amazing speed of modern air transportation was demonstrated with the arrival in Marfa of Mrs. J. H. Smith of Long Island, N. Y.

Before leaving her home in Long Island Mrs. Smith baked a cheese cake to take to her daughter and son-in-law in Marfa.

The cake finished baking early one morning, Mrs. Smith boarded a plane and flew to Big Spring from where she motored to Marfa.

That night she and her daughter and son-in-law ate the cake she had baked early that day in Long Island.

Texas Sends More Visitors to Carlsbad Than Other States

By United Press
CARLSBAD, N. M.—Of the more than 24,000 persons who visited Carlsbad Caverns during September over 10,000 were Texans, giving the Lone Star state the best attendance record for the month of the 48 states.

California was second-ranking state in number of visitors with 3,362. The states ranged down to New Hampshire with one lone visitor.

In addition to the 48 states represented at the caverns by visitors, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska, the Philippine Islands and 20 foreign countries were represented.

Foreign visitors came from Australia, Brazil, China, India, South Africa, Yugoslavia and other nations.

More than 200,000 persons have visited the caverns so far this year. The all-time figure through September of 1940 is 1,655,978.

With 1940 feed supplies, and with pastures improved by conservation farming, farmers could provide every person in the nation with 45 quarts of milk and cream and 81 pounds more cheese, butter, ice cream and other manufactured dairy products than each person ate in 1939.

PUPS SCORE A 30-0 WIN IN STRAWN GAME

The Ranger Bulldog Pups, coached by H. C. Scruggs, had little trouble in defeating the Strawn Reserves at Bulldog Stadium Thursday night, speed and experience telling in the battle between the two teams. The Pups came out victorious by a score of 30 to 0, as the result of five touchdowns. Not a point after touchdown was made in the five attempts.

The Pups got their first touchdown the hard way, plunging the line and rushing with the ball with Brown stepping off the last 20 yards for the score. The second was a gift on the part of the Reserves from Strawn, whose inexperience accounted for the tally. Ranger kicked off, the ball going over the goal line. Instead of killing the ball Strawn allowed it to be recovered for a touchdown by McGee, Ranger tackle.

With the score 18 to 0 at the beginning of the second quarter the Pup second team got a chance to play, and held Strawn scoreless, but were unable to score themselves.

In the third quarter the regulars took over again and had no trouble scoring again, two plays accounting for 65 yards and the score. Though the Pup reserves again got into the game for a quarter they could not push over a marker, all the five touchdowns being made by the first team.

Brown was the individual scoring star, accounting for four of the tallies, while Mitchell, Renner, Wheat, Jewel, Black, Hardin, Lingle, Stevens and Russell played good games, being the most aggressive both on offense and defense.

Next week the Pups play the Buckaroo B team at Breckenridge.

El Paso Plans A Square Deal For Visiting Soldiers

By United Press

EL PASO, Texas—El Paso civic officials intend to see that several thousand national guardsmen and recruits to Fort Bliss who are flowing into this border town get a "square deal."

Mayor J. E. Anderson has appointed a special committee to try to prevent the skyrocketing of rentals because of the new soldiers' entrance in El Paso.

Anderson said he would arm the committee with "as big a stick as possible" to prevent unwarranted increases in rent.

The move was started when it was found that many of the new guardsmen will live in residential districts because of cramped quarters at Fort Bliss.

A civic group will soon be appointed to plan entertainment and recreation activities for the soldiers.

Electricity Under Ground May Have Effect On Crops

AUSTIN, Texas—Texas farmers, do you know nature's underground electricity is working on your cotton crop?
Well, it is—and a University of Texas engineer is measuring its force and effect on crops.

RED RYDER By Harman

Warner, University professor of electrical engineering, reports that he has successfully recorded the flow of earth currents with potentials up to five milli-volts—about one two-hundredth of a volt.
Knowing potentials between two given points is one thing; gauging the actual current flow another, Warner points out. He can't hook up an ammeter, the gadget he'd employ to measure flow along a wire—for underground electricity may dart along any one of countless sub-surface paths.
He concedes that the current he pursues into a practically uncharted field at times may be no more than the tiny potentials already known to exist, while at other times may amount to a considerable flow.
That flow, the University engineer points out, may exert an important effect on the growth of vegetation and, what's more important, crops.
He pictured the possibility some day, for example, of electrical shots-in-the-arm, well placed in an ailing cotton field to kill bacteria on the roots of the plant.
Working under grant from the University Research Institute, Warner is currently concerned with the influence sunlight may have on the direction and intensity of subsurface currents as well as the variance in current intensity in different locations around Austin.
