BRITAIN NOT READY FOR A COUNTER BLOW

Russian Red Army counter attacks held back Hitler's offensives against Moscow and Rostov today and new terrorist outbreaks menaced the Germans in Western Europe. But Britain officially blasted any hope of opening a second fighting front this winter against the Nazis in the west.

A statement in Parliament by Lord Moyne, a government spokesman, argued it would be "madness" to send an expeditionary force into occupied Europe while Britain is still short of offensive weapons, and said such a move would lead to another Dunkirk.

Failure of British demands for an attack in the West now came at a time when the Russians were reported stabbing back at Hitler's tank wedges, dive bombers and airborne troops and tanks from Leningrad to the wintry, snow-swept Moscow front and southward before Rostov in the Ukraine.

Both Berlin and Moscow were vague on details of fighting on the 250-mile arc before the Soviet capital, except to acknowledge heavy casualties.

Disparages from both sides indicated that Hitler's use of huge reinforcements failed to make any important progress, possibly due to the deep mud, slush and snow, and the battle lines still were wavering over ground stained with blood from weeks of attacks and counterattacks.

Gets Right Number But the Wrong Camp

LUBBOCK, Texas.—The telephone rang at the home of Truman Camp, a professor at Texas Technological College.

"Got any cabins?" a voice asked.

"Cabins?" said Dr. Camp. "You must have the wrong number."

"Listen, Bud," the voice inquired, "Ain't this 4850?"

"Yes, sir, but we have no cabins."

After the man had hung up, Dr. Truman puzzled and finally he looked in the telephone book.

There he found that his name was listed along with Camps Comfort, Dixie, Joy, and Texas.

Governor Is Best Post Hole Blaster In Kimble County

AUSTIN.—Gov. Coke Stevenson admitted confidentially the other day that he is the "best post-hole blaster in Kimble County. Rancher Stevenson explained that much of the country around his ranch in the Llano River country south of Junction is too rocky to be impressed by ordinary post-hole augers or diggers.

"We have to dynamite most of 'em," said Stevenson. "Even if I do say so myself, I can plant the dynamite and blow a hole that's straight as a stove-pipe, two feet deep. Some fellows blast a hole that's shaped like a dish pan and they have to use a sack of cement to fill it up."

The governor said that he always determined the length of the fuse by "how fast a fellow can run."

One spot near a waterhole on his ranch, Stevenson said, has defied even his expert efforts at post-hole blasting. He has tried three or four times with increasing charges of dynamite, but the governor still is without post-holes there.

Romney 4-H Club Member Wins $20 In Cash At Fairs

The Romney Boys 4-H Club with an educational booth showing the value of inoculating peanuts have collected a total of $20.00 in premium money at fall fairs. The boys took second place at the Rising Star Fair with a $5.00 premium; first place at the Eastland County Fair and $5.00 in premium money, and received a blue ribbon and $10.00 prize at the West Texas Fair in Abilene.

Materials for the booth were obtained from a 4-H Club Demonstration carried on by Mac Harrelson a member of the Romney 4-H Club. Mac's Demonstration consisted of three different plots of peanuts all grown on the same type of soil, adjoining one another, in the same field. One plot consisted of peanuts that were inoculated before planting at a cost of 15c per acre; one plot had no inoculant, but was fertilized with a 4-12-4 fertilizer at a cost of $1.35 per acre, and the other plot had no inoculant or fertilizer applied. Six single vines from the inoculated plot averaged in weight 20% more than six single vines from the fertilized plot, and 42% more by weight than six single vines from the plot where no inoculant or fertilizer was used. In other words, Mac has shown in his Demonstration that nitrogen, an important plant food element contained in all complete fertilizers, can be obtained with less money through inoculation where legumes are the crop to be grown. It is suggested that an "acid" or phosphate fertilizer be used on legumes inoculated in order to obtain a balance of the plant food elements.

County gent Elmo V. Cook, and Assistant County Agent John Glover were well pleased with the booth and suggested it be shown at the Abilene Fair, and stated that "Mac" is to be congratulated for this very fine Demonstration, and also Mr. Floyd Harrelson for his active leadership in the Romney 4-H Club.

Mr. Harrelson is Club leader and encouraged the boys with their booth.

Handy Man Who Made a Mouse Milker Has Invented Many Things

AUSTIN, Texas.—Charles Raines looks like the popular conception of a genius.

This is not unnatural. Anybody who can build a machine to milk mice might qualify as a genius.

Raines did that, and more, in a dilapidated workshop where the lore of the machine age is turned to strange account. The name of the concern is C. Raines & Co., Ltd., and it specializes in unexpected inventions.

Also, according to its boast, it will "fix anything that the boys downtown don't know how to repair."

Raines is a little man with wavy brown hair, rimless spectacles and a piercing look. He is a University of Texas physics graduate who strayed into new fields.

No witch, he has been engaged in some form of mechanical witchcraft ever since he was in school.

One of Raines' first projects—which he didn't complete—was born of his annoyance at fellow students. "An organization of former Boy Scouts," he called them, who started badgering the public with shouted warnings to keep off the grass. Later they rigged up a loudspeaker and put up signs:

"Don't Step on Me!
(Signed) The Grass."

This was more than Raines could stand, passively, but it gave him an idea. He and some conspirators would bury a rival loudspeaker under a well-worn patch of turf. When stepped upon, the turf apparently would cry out:

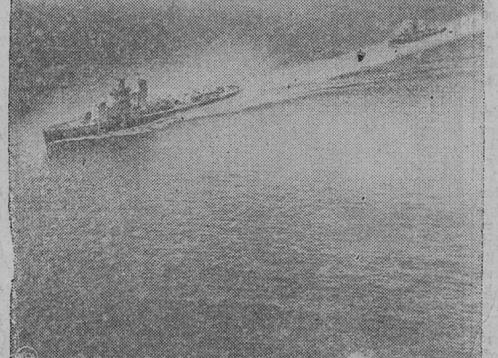

"Get the Hell off me."

Raines designed this device, but did not build it. The "Boy Scouts" had stopped crusading.

The mice-milking gadget was requested by a scientist who is doing research on vitamins. Three years a laboratory assistant after getting his physics degree, Raines has a large professor clientele.

He is a physicist, but he has studied numerous other subjects. He knows radio, for instance; he is an expert on photography and photographic equipment, and is, of all things, a Greek scholar.

Country Editor Is Retiring After 50 Years of Service

ATHENS, Tex.—After a quarter of a century as editor of the Athens Review, R. T. Craig is retiring.

He announced that he had disposed of his half interest in the newspaper to his partner, A. M. Barnes, and was leaving the publishing field.

Craig came to Texas in 1907 from Kentucky. He purchased the Kemp News in 1908 and printed that paper on a hand press for 8 months. He published papers at Kilgore and Chandler before coming to Athens in 1916, when he and Barnes purchased the Review from the late Col. R. E. Yanits.

Never a candidate himself, Craig took a deep interest in politics. Twice he was a delegate to Democratic national conventions, but broke with the New Deal on the third term issue.

In his final editorial, Craig admonished business men that "under the guise of national unity and defense, murder of private enterprise is being committed on a gradual scale."

Unless we can bring our "Congressmen" (correct) to their senses and force them to represent the people instead of saying yes to every crackpot idea advanced...

Under the guise of "defense and unity," then private enterprise is "doomed."

The retiring editor decried what he termed the "steady increase" of "canned editorials" by his associates in the country newspaper field.

"I feel like one who treads alone some banquet hall deserted," he quoted in commenting that he did not so much fear the loss of freedom of the press by national law as he did "by indifference of country editors who allow someone in New York to write their editorials."

Lehigh Sinking Is Called a Policy of High Seas Terror

County 4-H Club Boys Attend The Fair Meeting

Two Eastland County 4-H Club boys, F. L. Spurlen of Olden and L. H. Woods of Rising Star attended the 4-H Club Educational Encampment at the State Fair at Dallas beginning Monday, October 6th, and ending Thursday, October 9th. This is an annual affair held during the State Fair for the purpose of giving a limited number of 4-H Club boys in the State an opportunity to see and study worth while exhibits at the Fair, under the supervision and care of adult Extension Workers. Each county is allowed to send one 4-H Club boy and the District Agent of each Extension Service District is allowed to distribute a small additional quota of boys to counties within his district. Boys attending the encampment also exhibit their 4-H Club Demonstrations.

The Eastland County boys report a very interesting and educational Encampment for 1941. Eats, a place to sleep, and recreation were furnished them through the period covered by the Encampment.

F. L. exhibited six head of Poland China hogs, from his Demonstration, at the Fair. He placed 9th and 12th in the fat barrow classes. Competition was very strong in the Poland China Classes at the 1941 Show. F. L. sold 4 barrows for $11.25 per one hundred pounds.

L. H. Woods exhibited some fine Jersey cattle and brought back $54.00 in premium money.

Farm Workers To Meet On Oct. 27th

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—Texas agricultural workers will gather here October 27 for a statewide "kickoff" meeting in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's "Food-for-Freedom" campaign.

Representatives of agricultural agencies, farm organizations, and agricultural publications have been invited to attend.

B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas U.S.D.A. Defense Board, said that the meeting will hold discussions on statements by specialists in the production of the various foods required for defense as to how production can be increased.

After the statewide meeting in College Station, meetings will be held in each of the 13 agricultural conservation districts of the state, Vance said. The district meetings will follow the same general plan as the state meeting, he said, and later county workers will hold smaller farm gatherings to discuss plans for increased food production and the plan for a farm-to-farm production sign-up.

Vance pointed out that Texas farmers are not waiting for the sign-up to start increased production. Various agencies and farm organizations already are holding community meetings to acquaint farmers with the food needs for defense and, according to reports received by the board, production is rising steadily.

Dual Citizenship

It would probably be a fine thing if the world were such that national borders could be less rigid than they are. A man is first of all a man, a member of the human race, and there should be no finer title than that of "citizen of the world."

Some day this may come. It has not come as yet. For the past 50 years the tendency has been the other way, toward raising and tightening the barriers between one country and another.

It would be plain suicide for any country, in this world of ultra-nationalism run riot, to let down those barriers when others will not. And to allow breaches in our own barriers to be regularly used as channels for flooding subversive influences into the country is simply stupid.

Most Americans probably do not know even the meaning of the term "dual citizenship." In our simplicity, we always assume that to be a citizen of our country means undivided loyalty to this country and to this country alone. Because Americans generally have this simply uncomplicated view of the matter, very few of them ever become naturalized citizens of another country. They feel the finality of the step, knowing that they would render the same undivided loyalty to a new country that they paid to their own.

Not all countries or people take this view. There are several countries recognizing "dual citizenship." That is, they permit their nationals to go to another country and to the homeland. Many people of Japanese, German, Italian and other origin, for instance, are dual citizens of this country and of their homeland. Germans coming to Mexico, and other Latin countries, freely take out citizenship there, never assuming for an instant that this alters their relationship to the homeland.

Secretary of War Stimson has proposed legislation to eliminate complications arising from such "dual citizenship." He says he has evidence that advantages gained by such a system have been used to facilitate spy work. His bill would provide that any national considered under the laws of another country to be a subject of that other country may be required to appear before a U. S. commissioner and either renounce United States citizenship or formally renounce any allegiance elsewhere. Refusal would subject the national to deportation.

As long as national citizenship is a recognized and apparently necessary institution, it must mean all or nothing. Other countries may tolerate or even encourage in their laws such divided loyalties. There is no room for them here. American citizenship either means undivided and unreserved loyalty to America, or it means nothing at all. This bill is worth Congress' earnest attention.

"Mind if I Look Over Your Shoulder?"

THE PAY OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—When Texas A. and M. visited Manhattan to play New York University, Homer Hill Norton saw that the railroad bringing them here put the Aggies off on the New Jersey side. He wanted the boys to see the Statue of Liberty and such en route to the hotel.

The Violet offered cars to take them to Yankee Stadium for a practice session, but Homer Norton saw that the lads from the cow country had a ride on the subway.

Not one of the 30 athletes had ever been in the big town before. Texas A. and M. lost nine starters, as fine a group as you would care to see.

Gone are the All-Americans, Fullback John Kimbrough and Marshall Robnett, the guard, Marion Fugh, the quarterback, is now chucking passes for the New York Giants. Jim Tomlinson, the blocker, was graduated. So were Bill Buchanan, the strapping end; Ernie Pannell and Chip Routt, the tackles; Charles Henke, the All-Southwest Conference guard, and Tommy Vaughn, the center.

OFFHAND, you would suspect that a school suffering losses of the kind would strike back rather feebly, but such is not the case with Texas A. and M.

No one at College Station is conceding Texas, now rated No. 1 in the Southwest Conference, anything. The Aggies will be disappointed if they fail to turn back the Longhorns in their big game on Thanksgiving Day.

The reason for this is that a lot of young men are demonstrating that they have vastly more than the sprinters they gathered while sitting on the bench last fall and the year before. The departed Aggies were 60-minute football players.

THIS edition of Texas A. and M. has an amazing end in Bill Henderson, a 6-foot 4-inch 205-pound, four-letter man with a 10 1/2-inch hand spread.

While it reads like a new club, eight of this year's starters are seniors. Two are juniors. Willie Zapalac, the blocking back, is the only sophomore.

Norton tells you he has the counterpart of John Kimbrough in Dennis Andricks, a sophomore.

Eleven Holidays Are Observed By State Departments

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Texas — Columbus Day, observed on Oct. 12, is one of eleven days designated as state holidays by act of the Texas legislature.

The state holidays in calendar order are: Jan. 1—New Year's Day. Jan. 19—Birthday of Robert E. Lee. Feb. 22—Birthday of George Washington. March 2—Texas Independence Day.

April 21—San Jacinto Day (Anniversary of Battle of San Jacinto).

June 3—Birthday of President Jefferson Davis of the Confederate States.

July 4—Independence Day. First Monday in September—Labor Day.

Oct. 12—Columbus Day. Nov. 11—Armistice Day. Dec. 25—Christmas Day.

Additional holidays are designated from time to time by proclamation of the governor. Annually a Memorial Day and one or more days of Thanksgiving are so designated. General state election days, regardless of date, are made state holidays by statute.

In addition to the statutory state holidays the legislature has by resolutions called for special observance of other days without making them state holidays.

These are: Texas Flag Day, March 2; Sam Houston Day, also March 2; Texas Pioneer's Day, August 12; and "Father of Texas Day," Nov. 3 in honor of Stephen F. Austin. A full week is set aside to be observed as "Texas Week." It is the week each year which includes March 2.

The last regular session of the legislature adopted a resolution offered by Rep. Joe C. Carrington of Austin which requests the governor annually to issue a proclamation for observance of Feb. 19 as Texas Statehood day.

There was a proposal before the 47th legislature also to ask the governor for annual holiday designations of the second Sunday in May as Mothers' Day and the second Sunday in June as Fathers' Day. The resolution was adopted by the House of Representatives but died in the Senate.

Dr. Carlos Castaneda of the University of Texas is the eighth Texan to have been inducted into the ancient order of the Holy Sepulchre. His knighting in the Catholic Equestrian Order took place here on Oct. 12—Columbus Day—With many dignitaries of the Catholic church and officials of the knights of St. Gregory and the Knights of Columbus in attendance.

Authority for the investiture was issued by Pope Pius at Rome.

Dr. Castaneda is associate professor of history and Latin-American librarian of the University of Texas, and now is completing the fifth volume of an eight-volume series, "Our Catholic Heritage in Texas."

Usual poker-faced hearing given to oral arguments by members of the Texas Supreme Court gave way to smiles during presentation of a case to the court last Wednesday.

An attorney caused the smiles by an unusual argument. Relating that he had appeared before the court some time ago in such-and-such case, the lawyer told the judges:

"I argued then just what my opponents argue now. I thought it was right, but you (the court) ruled the other way. Now I am asking you to stand hitched."

The Supreme Court's notations for the week included something new. Heretofore in denials of applications for writs of error the court has marked them merely "refused" or "refused WOJ," meaning the application was refused for want of jurisdiction.

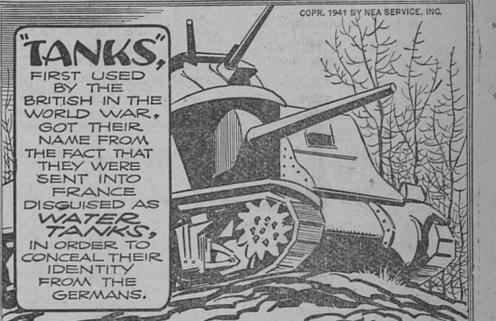

Now the additional memoranda is made in some cases reading "application refused for want of merit."

SERIAL STORY

MURDER IN PARADISE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Quiet Paradise lake is plunged into chaos with two murders—that of sophisticated Herbert Cord, whom police suspect gangster Stan Verclit of murdering; and, elderly Miss Millie Morris, whose death baffles even state police. Both bodies were found by Maudie O'Connor, who has come to the lake with her school teacher daughter, Mary, for a quiet vacation. Most seriously involved is pretty, bewildered Jeanie Morris, niece of Miss Millie, whose summer romances with Cord had lasted two years—until he came to Paradise this summer with Margie Dixon, introducing her as his fiancée. Local editor Tod Palmer allies for Jeanie when she is first suspected, works with city reporter Dennis Flynn, an old flame of Mary's, on the mysteries. Dennis and Mary both believe Maudie is concealing something she knows about the case. Mary is hurt when she sees Dennis at the inn—which is run by elderly Chris Gordon—deep in interested conversation with Margie.

A VISIT WITH LIZA

CHAPTER XIV

TEMPERINE nerves can be a curse, and so can a silly feminine heart. I blamed my vile temper and cutting remarks on an upset digestive system due to too much murder in the air. Maudie accepted it without argument. She was beginning to act like herself again, and was finding the cottage too confining, which suited me since I would prefer being alone with my own thoughts.

I sat around that afternoon making some notes for next semester's classes in Lit. I was seeing myself in the years to come doing the same uninteresting tasks. I was feeling pretty sorry for myself by the time Maudie and McCool came back, and I was glad enough to listen to her instead of thinking how badly I felt.

"I dropped around to the Morris house," she said lighting a cigarette and slipping her shoes off. "Jeanie wasn't in, but I had a little chat with Liza Holmes. She certainly was devoted to that poor dead woman. They were a lot alike, of course—same generation, same stern, thin faces, same dreadful clothes."

"She doesn't seem like one you'd enjoy chatting with," I interrupted. "You mustn't judge people by their appearances, Mary," she said sternly, rubbing McCool's stomach with a silk-covered foot. He thumped the floor appreciatively and Maudie continued,

"You said the same thing about Miss Millie and that woman had good sense. She was observant, a good judge of human nature." "She certainly slipped once in that judgment," I pointed out. "Whoever bashed her head in must have sold her on the fact that he or she was nice and friendly."

"No one put anything over Miss Millie." Her tone was sharp. "I'll grant you that she knew too much. At least I should imagine that was what happened," she added hurriedly, when she saw I was ready to start asking questions. "I forgot to stop for the mail," she said in an obvious effort to throw me off. "There should be some news from the boys today. Why your brothers are so careless in writing I'll never know. They should realize how I worry when I don't hear from them."

"They're probably painting the town red," I said crossly. "Sowing their wild oats now that you're away." But anyway I went to the inn for the mail and a chance to prove to myself that the sight of Denny talking to that hussy, Margie Dixon, was of no importance to me. They were not around and I asked Chris Gordon if Miss Dixon had checked out yet.

He said she hadn't, and with that worried look on his fat face, he added that if business didn't pick up she'd be the only guest left. "How's your mother feeling?" he said, still sorting the mail.

"She's quieted down," I said. "She went visiting today. She doesn't like to be tied down and two days at home were plenty for her, so she went to the Morrises—Jeanie's, I mean."

"She's not home," he said. "Well, she visited with Liza Holmes."

"Shouldn't think your ma would find Liza much company," he said. I laughed. "That was my opinion, too, but she said Liza was a smart woman. But mother liked Miss Millie, too. They had a couple of chats and apparently Miss Millie was in one of her good moods because mother said she liked her."

"Well, takes all kinds of people to make up a world," he said and I took the letters and started out, still hoping for a glimpse of Denny. The lobby and bar were empty. I supposed he was over at the State Police Post where, I hoped, some progress was being made to end all the suspense.

JEANIE MORRIS was at the cottage when I got back and young Tod Palmer was with her. "Liza told me you had been over, Mrs. O'Connor, and I was sorry to have missed seeing you," she said. "It's nice to have friends at a time like this."

I suppose people were already beginning to stare at her with curious eyes. I was glad Tod was around to ease that loneliness, and from the way he looked at her I could see that he wouldn't mind the hours he might spend acting as a Boy Scout.

"Do you and Liza Holmes stay in that big house all alone?" Maudie asked. Jeanie looked slightly surprised. "Oh, we don't mind. I—I guess I'm used to the house being quiet—"

"Quiet, yes. But is it safe?" The girl laughed a little. "Really it is. I'm not scared. Of course I've thought and wondered who—who would have killed my aunt, and the only thing I can think is that some poor, demented person must have seen her in the boat alone—"

Her voice faltered then. "But as for myself or Liza—why, we've lived in that house all the summers I can remember and I've never been afraid, and I'm not now."

"Maudie reads mystery novels," I explained. "You mustn't let her upset you."

Maudie sniffed loudly. "I'm not trying to upset anyone. I'm just trying to suggest the child use ordinary precaution." "Precaution against what?" I said, but she glared at me and emptied her ginger ale glass. (To Be Continued)

Question On Age Of Texas Football Stumps Experts

COLLEGE STATION—Want to become an expert on sports quiz questions? Then take up the duties of official football statistician for the Southwest Conference.

Hardly a day passes but what some fan sends in a question on most any phase of the grid game but one this week calls for help from the many John Fans whose memory is better than the record books at Texas A&M where H. B. McElroy and Roy P. Gates of the Department of Information, process the weekly grid figures on Southwest Conference games.

The question of the week, asked by D. C. Crews, of Sabinal, is: "When was football first played in Texas and by whom?" Any fans having any record of any games played by any college prior to 1893 will please drop Mr. Crews a post card or write the Department of Information at Texas A&M College.

Records show Texas University played other colleges in 1893; Texas A&M and Arkansas started up in 1894 although A&M did have a team in 1893 but played no other colleges; T.C.U., then Add Rann and located at Waco, got off in 1896; Baylor's records show coaches in 1901 and scores in 1903 but records of other schools show games with Baylor as early as 1899; S.M.U. was not founded until 1911 and first games recorded in 1915; and Rice came into being in 1912 and started playing the first year. All this is according to record books, so if they are wrong, Texas A&M will be pleased to correct their records so that the next time the question is posed, the answer will be ready.

All help from football fans on the question will be appreciated by McElroy and Crews. In answer to another question along the same line: The first football game ever played in the world and of which there is any record was played between Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., and Princeton University, Princeton, N. J., on November 6, 1869 at New Brunswick and was won by Rutgers, 6-4, the score being settled on the number of goals and not the points. By agreement that day the first team to score six goals was the winner. A week later Princeton won, 8-0 and it took Rutgers up to the late 1930's to win another game from the Tigers although they have met in most of the years since 1869.

Columbia University was the next team to enter collegiate football competition when they scheduled Rutgers in 1870 and lost, 6-3.

Rugby football was played in American colleges as early as 1800, but as a simple campus sport, and scores were made by kicking the ball over the goal. In 1823 one William Webb Ellis, a student at Rugby, in England, picked up the ball and ran with it, disregarding the rules, and by his act became the first ball carrier and idea planter for the game which we have today.

Self Sufficiency Of Farm Families Is Up To Women

COLLEGE STATION—Self-sufficiency of farm families is a practical contribution farm women can make in the Food-for-Defense program, according to B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA Defense Board.

Pointing out that many lines of food production are now overtaxed because of heavier domestic demand and requirements of the Lend-Lease Program, he said that even a small increase on an individual farm would benefit the Nation and supply nutritious foods for the family's use. Products vitally needed are milk, eggs, pork and vegetables.

Texas farmers have been asked to increase milk from 4,488,000,000 pounds this year to 4,650,000,000 for 1942. The state goal for eggs is 203,775,000 dozen, compared with 185,250,000 dozen for this year. An increase in farm gardens from 296,647 to 352,800 is also being asked.

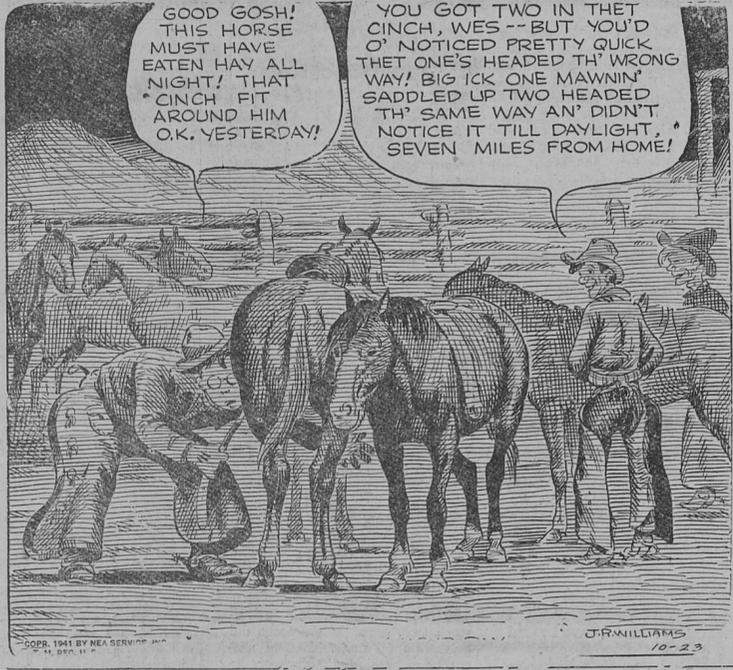

An extra cow, a flock of chickens or a pig will represent a net gain in the farm income without increasing the farm overhead, he explained. Many farmers have feed available as a result of legumes and grasses seeded under the AAA farm program, the additional acres can be planted to feed.

The increase of these foods on farms not only provides a sufficient diet for the farm family but at the same time releases food to families who depend upon commercial supplies, the chairman said.

From Camp Paraiso, Willis wrote: "There is very little entertainment for the soldiers here outside the camp. There are several thousand soldiers here on the Isthmus and only a few girls, so one can readily see that there is little opportunity for association with the 'fairer sex' such as the boys maneuvering in Louisiana enjoyed."

"We have been thinking of having someone write to their congressmen and persuading them to introduce a bill drafting about 10,000 girls for service in Panama."

Latin Americans Are Becoming Weary Of Good Will and Good Neighbor Talk-Talk

While Peter Edson vacations this column will carry articles by NEA Service writers and other contributors.

BY JAMES S. CARSON Chairman, Education Committee of the National Foreign Trade Council (Written for NEA Service)

TOO much "Good Will" and "Good Neighbor" talk on our part threatens a case of indigestion in our inter-American relations. Our banquets and public speeches on these topics have become a bit cloying to our Latin American neighbors. It is extremely difficult to get any direct evidence on this. The innate politeness and urbanity of our friends in the south would cause them to shrink from giving utterance even indirectly to this sentiment which is uppermost in the minds of a great many of them.

Occasionally, however, when they find a North American, as they call us, who speaks their language, not only literally but also in the sense of congeniality in mental approach, they do unburden themselves. That is what happened a short time ago when the new $5,000,000 steamship Rio de Janeiro of the American Republics Line was christened in the Sun shipbuilding yards at Chester, Pa.

TWO Latin American gentlemen were alongside me on the platform. Neither one came from Brazil and they were conversing in Spanish. The dialogue ran something like this: "They tell me this boat will never run in the South American trade." "Who says so?" "I heard a high officer of the line say it might be taken over by the U. S. government for war service." "But we must sacrifice to make the world safe for democracy." "Yes, but democracy is gone in the Western Hemisphere if the Central and South American Latin American countries are allowed to sink into economic chaos, and without ships how."

Peeping through the knot hole
with bill mayes

Dr. G. C. Boswell, the football prognosticator—guesser to you—has consulted his crystal ball, or whatever it is he does, and has come up with the information on the Ranger-Breckenridge game next Friday night. (If it wasn't for Dr. Boswell we don't know what we would do for something to fill space with, because his guesses always make good copy).

Prognosticator Boswell called the turn in the Gorman, Eastland, Weatherford, Clyde and Stephenville games, but slipped up slightly in predicting a one-touchdown victory for the Bulldogs over the Brownwood Lions. Today when he called we consoled him with the statement that he should have been right, as Ranger should have had three touchdowns and Brownwood two, even if the score did cross him up some. Before venturing a prediction however, he asked for our opinion, which we gave. We hate to admit it but we picked Breckenridge by about two touchdowns at least—maybe more. Dr. Boswell, however, says it won't be over two.

So there you have it. Breckenridge by two touchdowns.

We have been informed that Eck Curtis has gone in for the now famous T formation, with a man in motion. We were grown and had been shaving for years before we knew football could be played any other way. The T formation is that old, maybe older. Back in the days when we sat on a bench, but more often there was no bench, and hoped that Joe Young or Walter Thomas would break a leg or something so we might get to play, the T formation was used by every team we played. And it was as tricky as all get out when some of the plays were used, and was a bone crusher on others. Sometimes the Lions, but as far as we know they were not known as the Lions in those days, would shift into a tandem formation, which is now illegal. All three backs would line up, single file, behind guard, the quarterback would take the ball from center, hand it off to the first man in the line and all three would plow into the line, doing all the pushing they could, with the quarterback coming in behind to add his weight. If the halfback with the ball came through without a broken back a gain of two to three yards usually resulted. If you broke the ball carrier's back, time was called while another took his place. The team that ran out of halfbacks first usually lost the game.

But now, with the man in motion, one of the backs takes out toward the sidelines, while the others stay hitched. Then a pass can be thrown to the man in motion, or the ball can be handed off to the fullback for a plunge over either tackle. Sometimes they run from a box formation, which is the Bulldog's favorite. Our contention is that it is the men who make the formation click, not the formation that makes the men click. Which may be wrong.

Billy Rae Elder of the Ranger Bulldogs, who has led the Oil Belt District in scoring all the season to date, now has his record threatened.

Ray of Breckenridge, the big and potent back of the Buckaroos, now has scored 50 points, against Elder's 58, and the game Friday night may see Ray go ahead of Elder in scoring. Both Brownwood and Weatherford held Elder scoreless, and incidentally held the Bulldogs scoreless at the same time.

The Buckaroos have failed to score in but one game this season, when they lost 26 to 0 to Wichita Falls in the second game of the season. Against Graham's 6, they won from Abilene 15 to 0 in the third game, lost to Lubbock in the fourth by a score of 18 to 7, but scored one touchdown and then walloped Stephenville 60 to 0 in their last game to date. This makes a total of 94 points for the Buckaroos, with Ray scoring more than half that total. Fifty points have been scored against the Buckaroos, with two teams, Abilene and Stephenville, being held scoreless.

Mrs. McLaughlin stated that Mrs. G. A. Murphy had donated 10 dozen pearl buttons, which she got at a button factory in Iowa when on vacation, to the Red Cross Station, and these would be used in making garments for the British.

G. A. Murphy is to make wooden buttons to be used on the bathrobes, Mrs. McLaughlin stated.

Speed Is Factor In American Life Officer Declares

AUSTIN, Texas—"For the last twenty years or more speed has been one of the dominant factors in American life. Today, because of the tremendous defense needs, assembly-line technique, whenever possible, has been injected into all activities connected with the emergency. Thus, more than ever, speed is being emphasized in the nation's life. Plainly, the need of conserving health and strength in the face of present demands is greater than ever before. It follows that 'to make haste slowly' in the art of living, at this time not only is basic good sense but patriotic also. It does not help vitality or health to apply a sixty-mile-an-hour pace to unessentials. Nevertheless, evidences of this type of existence are quite apparent. One of the numerous proofs of this fact is the habit many persons have of more or less bolting their food," states Doctor Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"This 'hasty-lunch' psychology is rather general. The speedily swallowed breakfast is followed by the equally speedy lunch. For many, this momentum carries through the evening meal so that it also is disposed of in record time. It is little wonder, then, that solid food often is insufficiently masticated, that self-prescribed pills for a variety of gastrointestinal discomforts are popular, and that in extreme cases definite illness develops.

"Of course, time and custom have changed things, including eating habits. But the point is that nature does not change; while marvelously elastic, she still has her limits as well as punishments for those who persistently disobey. Consequently, the wise person if not a speed-eater, will realize that to take a few minutes more time per meal and to chew food thoroughly that needs chewing is just as essential as are the quality and type of food consumed.

"Bad as speedy eating may be in the case of adults, grown-ups only have themselves or the trend of the times to blame. However, the proposition is different when children are concerned. Youngsters are prone to swallow hastily anything. Chewing to them is a secondary process, and therefore must be definitely encouraged. When the time has arrived for the use of hard food (and that time is at the beginning of the teething period) the baby should be given dry toast, sweetbark, or breadcrust. The masticating function must be encouraged daily, if sound teeth and sturdy supporting tissue are to be formed. Moreover, emphasis on adequate mastication should be maintained throughout childhood both for proper growth and general health.

"In short, everyone should realize that whether with respect to the young or the adult, speedy eating with its inevitable accompaniment of insufficient mastication is a practice which can give rise to conditions that in varying degrees deprive one of maximum

Mineral Wells B Team To Play the Pups On Thursday

The Ranger High School Pups will play their second home game of the season Thursday night at 7:30 when they meet the strong Mineral Wells High School B team at Bulldog Stadium.

The Pups have won their first four games, having defeated the Eastland Little Mavs, the Breckenridge Little Buckies and the Little Lobos of Cisco on their home fields, and won a game from the Little Mavs on the field at Bulldog Stadium.

These lads, many of whom will be moved up to the regular Bulldog squad next season, and the year after, play a remarkably good brand of football and have a versatility of attack that is well worth watching.

The Mineral Wells B team has already played several games this season, and the indications are that the game will be closely contested from start to finish.

An admission price of 11 cents, including one-cent federal tax, for students and 22 cents, including a two-cent federal tax, for adults will be made to help defray the expenses of the game.

New Texas Lake Is Due To Fill Soon

By United Press
AUSTIN, Texas—A new body of water, Lake Travis, will have to be marked on Texas maps within a few months. Progress on the Marshall Ford Dam of the Lower Colorado River Authority led officials to predict that it will be completed by March 1, 1942. Its completion will provide means to back up the largest body of water to be held by any of the series of dams on the river. Raising of the water level behind the partly-completed dam has started and warning recently was issued that former road crossings on the Pedernales river, a tributary to the Colorado, have been blocked. Water rapidly is accumulating over the thousands of acres of pasture and farm land acquired by the river authority. Farmers and ranchmen have been warned to remove all cattle from the land marked for inclusion in the bed of Texas new lake. Warning has been issued, also, to fishermen, campers, picnickers and hunters to be cautious. Pouring of concrete for the dam proper has been completed and work on an earthen embankment is nearing an end. Rock rip-rapping will be finished about Jan. 1. Work now is in progress on the highway from Austin which will run across the top of the completed dam.

How rapidly the lake bed will be filled will depend upon rain over the Colorado river watershed. Water now is being let into it from Buchanan dam on the same river a short distance above Burnet, Tex. The Marshall Ford Dam will receive also the rainfall from the watersheds of the Pedernales River and the Llano River.

Ranger Boy Again Leads Naval Corps

AUSTIN, Texas—Commands to "shoulder arms" and "squads left" are ringing authoritatively from 46 newly-appointed battalion officers of the University of Texas Naval R.O.T.C. unit. The officers were all chosen from the sophomore class of the unit, and will have their work cut out for them in drilling the 105 freshmen who enrolled for R.O.T.C. training this fall. The appointments, announced by Captain H. W. Underwood, commandant of the unit, are temporary, and a permanent appointment depends upon the efficiency with which assignments are carried out. Battalion commander is R. J. Stevenson, pharmacy student from Ranger, who last year achieved the rank of R.O.T.C. lieutenant commander. The fast-growing naval unit at the University is currently awaiting of Texas Teachers' Appointment Bureau. Fifteen per cent fewer applications for teaching positions have been made this year, while demand for teachers has increased. More than 2,000 requests for teachers have been received by the bureau, which has only 1,000 applications with which to fill the requests. Government demand for statisticians and secretarial workers has resulted in a particular shortage of commercial teachers, although athletics, music, science and mathematics fields have also been hard hit. The draft is responsible for many of these shortages, since men fill many of these teaching roles, Miss Dozier said.

Here's a Shortage School Kids Have Not Noticed Yet

AUSTIN.—A shortage of school teachers has developed in Texas as a result of the national defense effort, according to Miss Miriam Dozier, secretary of the University of Texas Teachers' Appointment Bureau. Fifteen per cent fewer applications for teaching positions have been made this year, while demand for teachers has increased. Nothing Inevitable, Even That Slump

Nothing is less certain to happen than the inevitable. That's a trick phrase, of course. What's meant is "the inevitable." In short, just about the time men get together and say "This is inevitable," something else happens.

It may well be that way with the post-war slump. Some men are so sure of it that they positively revel in gloomy head-shakings; they wallow in grim forebodings of "Oh, what a crash there's going to be when this thing is all over!"

It all seems so logical: the defense plants suddenly shut down; a couple of million men come streaming back from the army; the plug is pulled on unlimited federal spending; and down we all go in one great resounding crash that would make 1929 look like a feather-duster popping off a footstool. It's the fact that everybody's expecting such a crash that first led us to think that maybe won't happen. Everybody's been wrong so often.

One reassuring thing is that so many people are already thinking about ways to avoid that "inevitable" crash. Chairman Sloan of General Motors is only one big-time executive who has every department of his plant already bent on studying what may be done with new productive facilities after the defense emergency has passed. Many other executives have their eye on the same problem.

Similarly, many planning agencies and individuals interested in creating better living conditions, are already plotting our future needs. The Architectural Forum has set a panel of 200 advisers to see what planning, zoning, sign, construction, financing, taxation, and building may contribute to keep production rolling against any possible post-war slump.

They have found, for instance, that by 1945 the 10 billion dollars worth of commercial construction of the twenties will be 20 years old and ready for modernization. By 1945, a third of all the 40 million dwelling units in the country will be more than 50 years old. By 1945, 18 million of those dwelling units will be unfit for use, and 18 million will call either for major reconstruction or demolition and replacement.

The need for a vast post-war construction program in many fields is already evident. This does not necessarily imply that it will all have to be done by public funds. The present study is made now of means of attracting private capital into construction, the better chance there is of attracting it promptly when the time comes.

The more thought directed now against this "inevitable" slump, the less inevitable it becomes.

Storm in Florida blew a young boy out of bed. Bet some others would appreciate such storms every morning.

When a speeder goes through life without an accident just an accident.

Price Collapse Is Guarded Against By USAD Defense Board

COLLEGE STATION—Texas farmers answering America's call for increased quantities of vital foods in the Farm Defense Program have the protection of Federal farm legislation against price collapses of these commodities, B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USAD Defense Board, said this week.

The new act of Congress, known as the Steagall amendment, requires that whenever it is necessary to encourage the expansion of non-basic agricultural commodities in the present emergency the Secretary of Agriculture must issue a public notice of the expansion.

Through the same law, Vance said, the Secretary of Agriculture supports the farm price of the commodity at not less than 85 per cent of parity. Before the price-supporting program can be discontinued, the Secretary must give sufficient public notice of the termination so that producers may make readjustments in production, Vance continued.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has already given public notice covering hogs, eggs, evaporated and dry skim milk, cheese and chickens until December 31, 1942. Cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice are supported by law through loans at rates based on 85 per cent of parity, Vance declared, but he pointed out that surpluses of these crops already exist and no increased production is needed.

The new protection is not needed now, the State Board chairman said, since the prices of the non-basic commodities named are well above the 85 per cent of parity level, but farmers can plan their 1942 production in the knowledge that prices can and will be supported should it become necessary.

Army Building In Southwest Is Near $100,000,000

By United Press
SAN ANTONIO, Texas—Army construction spending in the Eighth Construction Zone—Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado—has amounted to $89,000,000.

Another $159,000,000 will be spent on construction now underway, Col. Edwin V. Dunstan, constructing quartermaster for the zone, said.

Most of the funds were spent for troop housing projects in 10 army posts and of the $159,000,000 to be spent in the immediate future $130,000,000 will go for six ordnance projects.

The newest and largest of these ordnance plants is the Oklahoma ordnance works smokeless powder plant between Choteau and Pryor, Okla., on which work is just beginning. The estimated cost is $47,000,000.

Others are:
The Denver ordnance plant, Denver, Colo.—$21,000,000.

The Red River ordnance depot, Texarkana—$15,000,000.

The Fort Wingate ordnance depot, Gallup, N. M.—$11,000,000.

The San Jacinto ordnance depot, Houston ship channel—$8,000,000.

The Baytown ordnance works, a tool manufacturing plant, Baytown, Texas—$3,000,000.

It's a wonder reformers don't get disgusted and let the world go where they think it will.

Vinegaroon Is a Killer of Insects

By United Press
EL PASO, Texas—A remedy for harmful insects and poisonous bugs is another bug, said Chester Price, city-county health inspector and amateur entomologist at El Paso.
The vinegaroon, whose habitat is the southwest, is a champion destroyer of dangerous members of the insect class. The stinging scorpion, whose bite is painful and sometimes deadly, is the favorite enemy and food of the vicious-looking vinegaroon. Other hunted insects are roaches and ants.
"The ferocious-looking overgrown beetle, the vinegaroon, is entirely harmless... and a most useful insect, that should be kept alive, not killed," said Price.
The insect grows to be about five inches long, with six legs and a pair of pinchers, which he uses to defend himself and as a weapon for bagging game. A long stinger-like tail is commonly thought to be the poisonous stinger and they are killed because the appendage resembles other stinger poisoners. Price explained. The vinegaroon capitalizes on their terrifying appearance to frighten scorpions, roaches and ants, then stalks them to satisfy his appetite.
Vinegaroons should be swept onto a piece of paper and put in a basement or woodpile to rid them of their natural enemies. The ugly beetle will burrow for his enemy, eating old and young alike, the entomologist said.

Navy Wants 100 Aviation Students During November

DALLAS—According to information released by Commandr A. Laverents, head of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board at Dallas, a quota of one hundred aviation students has been assigned to the Texas-Oklahoma territory for the month of November. The Navy is now training one thousand students per month from the entire United States in an effort to keep aviation in pace with the tremendous Naval expansion program.
The one hundred Texas-Oklahoma students will train the first two months at Dallas, Texas, after which they will move to the advanced training centers at Corpus Christi, Pensacola, or Jacksonville, Florida, for the remainder of their training. Upon completion of training, they are commissioned as officers in the Naval Reserve and are sent to active duty with the aviation squadrons of the Navy.
Commander Laverents stated that in his opinion this represented one of the finest opportunities offered in aviation today and urges all interested parties to apply to the nearest Navy Recruiting Station or write him direct at once at Allen Building, Dallas, Texas. Candidates must have two years of college. Examinations are arranged at Government expense.
