WAR ECONOMY PUTS WOOD IN A VITAL ROLE

ITHACA, N. Y.—Wood and wood products are playing an important part in peace and war economy, according to L. G. Cox of the Cornell forestry department.

The chemist and physicist, Cox says, are developing new uses for wood by breaking down the cellulose and lignin into something simpler, to be made into plastics, women's stockings, gunpowder, and even vanilla extract.

Combatants in the war, the forestry expert adds, are using a host of diversified forest products, many of which are the result of modern research. These include pre-fabricated housing; fuel for airplane engines and trucks; pulp and paper for surgical dressings; synthetic wood fibers, such as rayon; artificial wool and cotton for clothing, parachutes and other textiles; wood cellulose for explosives; wood charcoal for gas-masks and steel production; rosin for shrapnel; turpentine for flame throwers, and cellulose acetate for photographic film.

Germany classifies forest products as the second most important natural resource of the country. Attention was turned to the production of sugar and alcohol from wood, and a certain proportion of wood-wool is required in all German uniforms, it is said. To cope with the gasoline shortage, a wood gas generator has been developed and adapted to cars and trucks.

Cox explained that the expanding American army requires large quantities of forest products. Manufacturers estimate that 1,500 feet of lumber is required for each enlisted man based in barracks, and 825 feet of lumber for each man based in a tent camp.

Wood is particularly well suited for hangar construction in wartime, because of the speed of erection mainly with unskilled labor. Even ships built of steel, Cox said, require large amounts of lumber.

Wood Fire-Proofed
As a special air-raid precaution, recent research in impregnating wood with fire-retarding chemicals will protect navy and army projects from incendiary bombs.

The United States is in a better position today to supply its own pulp and paper needs than before the war. Cox cites a high-yield pulp process which permits the use of hardwoods in newsprint paper.

The modern trend, according to Cox, is away from sawlogs and cordwood, toward a more efficient chemical use of wood as cellulose. He believes the farm woodlot, properly managed for rapid growth of saw timber and cellulose, and close use of thinnings, culls, and logging waste, will pay dividends in the uncertain days ahead.

Commission Will Draw Petit Juries For The 88th Court

Judge B. W. Patterson of the 88th district court Monday appointed a jury commission composed of F. E. Shockley, Cisco Paul Ownsby, Gorman, and Ed T. Cox Sr. of Eastland to draw a list of 72 names of qualified jurors from which to select petit juries for Nov. 10 and 17.

Defense Bond

Q. Who benefits most from the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds?

A. The buyer. He has only lent his money to the Government and it gets it back should he need it. Bonds will increase in value. He is laying by future spending power against a time of need.

Q. Has labor voiced any objections to the participation of union members in pay-roll allotment plans for the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds?

A. On the contrary, voluntary pay-roll allotment plans have been endorsed by the leadership of the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., and the Railroad Brotherhoods, as well as by many unions at national conventions.

Note: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are on sale at retail stores.

Ruins Disclose An Old Postoffice In A Tree Stump

APPLETON, Wis.—Alderman Fred Lutz of Appleton has made his first visit to Elwha, Wash., in 44 years and while he was there proved that the town's first postoffice was the hollow stump of a huge cedar tree.

Before his visit, the few old-timers who believed the story were unable to locate the stump. Others dismissed it as a myth.

But when Lutz was in Port Angeles near Elwha recently, he declared that the story was true and promised to find the stump. He did, just five minutes after his search began. It was covered with brush, new trees veiled it, the door was gone and the roof was caved in, but there could be no mistake. It had been used as a postoffice.

Lutz recalled that an old bachelor had made a home by putting a roof and a door on the cedar stump. When the bachelor became postmaster, he transformed it into a postoffice.

Schools Receive $5,800 From The State Of Texas

Eastland county has collected $5,800 from the State of Texas this year with which to pay operators and expenses of buses for transporting pupils from their homes to schools in the county, according to T. C. Williams, County school superintendent.

The first payment on this fund, which amounted to $2,900, was received some time back, while the second payment of a similar amount was received only a few days ago.

CANADA SHIFTS SHIP BUILDING TO FREIGHTERS

OTTAWA, Canada.—Having built the backbone of one of the world's greatest small-ship navies, Canada has launched on one of the greatest merchant shipbuilding programs ever undertaken.

Munitions and Supply Minister C. D. Howe outlined Canada's program when he spoke at the launching of the 9,300-ton Fort Ville Marie in Montreal.

He said the needs of Canada's navy for protective craft "have been reasonably well satisfied," and shipyards now are able to get to work on the program of merchant shipbuilding.

The figures show what he meant.

Naval Craft Total 130
Exclusive of small craft, more than 130 naval vessels had been either delivered or launched up to Sept. 1. This includes 66 corvettes, 35 minesweepers, and conversion of three armed merchant cruisers and 27 yachts. In addition, of 1,000 small boats ordered, more than 50 per cent have been completed, including crash boats, aircraft tenders, bomb-loading dinghies, salvage and supply boats, scows, utility harbor craft, motor torpedo boats, whalers, service dinghies and collapsible assault boats.

Total expenditure involved in both the naval and merchant shipbuilding programs is $320,000,000. So far construction has centered on the $120,000,000 navy allotment. Now, the $200,000,000 allotted for the merchant navy is being converted into ships of steel.

When the present program is completed, Canada will have built 150 cargo ships of standard design. Of these, 140 will be big ones of 10,000 tons, and the others will be 5,000 tons—a total of 1,450,000 tons.

Keels of 24 of the larger ships already are down—and in shipyards from Halifax to Victoria steel sides are rising to the roar of riveting guns.

New Shipyards Rushed
Merchant ships soon will slide out of shipyards at Picou, N. S.; Lauzon, Que.; Quebec City; Montreal; St. John, N. B.; Vancouver, Victoria, and Prince Rupert, B. C. In addition, new shipyards are being rushed to completion to speed up the flow of hulls.

Prior to 1939, Canadian shipyards employed a total of 1,800 men, mostly engaged in repairs. Today, they employ more than 20,000, and this number will be increased by 50 per cent within the next few months.

The ships will be almost 100 per cent Canadian. Only 5 per cent of the material required for them will be imported.

The Fort Ville Marie, first ship to be launched, was constructed in just four months by the Canadian Vickers, Ltd. As the program really starts to roll, this time may be cut.

Eastland County To Have Woman As County Jailor

For the first time in its history, Eastland county—created in 1858 and organized in 1873—will have a woman deputy sheriff and jailer when Mrs. Minnie Crossley, widow of Ross Crossley, deputy sheriff and jailer who died Fri., Oct. 24, takes the oath of office as sheriff. Sheriff Los Wood stated Monday that he would appoint Mrs. Crossley to the position made vacant by the death of her husband.

Mrs. Crossley with her late husband, resided at the County jail for better than four years, where she assisted with the work. She is thoroughly familiar with the duties there.

"I expect to appoint someone to assist Mrs. Crossley," Sheriff Wood said.

Mrs. Crossley will spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. King at Blessing, Texas, but will return to Eastland and assume the duties as deputy sheriff and jailer as soon as she has had a little recuperation and rest.

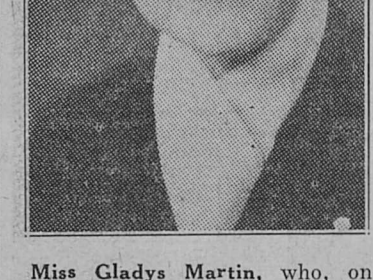

Popular Eastland County Couple Are Married At Eastland

J. M. Steinebaugh of Rt. 2, Carbon and Mrs. Claudia Bourland of Eastland were married Tuesday morning by Justice of the Peace E. E. Wood. The ceremony, the second for each of the contracting parties, took place in Justice Wood's office at the Eastland county courthouse.

The groom, an Eastland county pioneer, is 73 and the bride, who made her home with her daughter in Eastland, is 56.

The couple will make their home on Mr. Steinebaugh's farm in the Grapevine community southwest of Eastland.

Building Program At Camp Wolters Nears Completion

Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, Tex. (Special)—First steps toward final completion of the current $2,000,000 expansion program now underway at Camp Wolters were taken the early part of the week when four storage sheds for heavy weapons, seven miles of access roads and additional toilet facilities for 17 recreational buildings were turned over to Camp officials ahead of schedule, according to Captain Thomas G. Jammie, Constructing Quartermaster.

The storage sheds were completed seven weeks ahead of schedule and the additional toilet facilities were in advance of the completion date by two weeks while the access roads crossed the finish line by two days. This is a remarkable record in view of the fact that recent construction progress at this project has suffered from the delay in delivery of critical materials and equipment, not to mention adverse weather conditions.

At the request of Captain Gammie, zone officials gave him authority to construct the sheds under a purchase and hire contract rather than a lump sum agreement with a provision that these buildings be completed on the specified date. The sheds will be used for storage of .30 and .50 caliber machine guns, 37-mm anti-tank guns and signal equipment. The completion date was December 15.

Seven miles of access roads were completed two days ahead of schedule after a stop order was issued to await the securing of highway rights. The roads were built by the Austin Bridge Company of Dallas. The completion date was October 20.

The additional toilet facilities contract was held by the C. S. Oates & Son Construction Company of Abilene. The completion date was November 1. This firm also holds the contract for the huge sports arena now under construction.

SABOTAGE ACT IS URGED IN SENATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Sen. Josiah Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, introduced legislation in the United States Senate today to define sabotage against the United States Government in a way he believes would apply to situations like the captive coal mine strike called by John L. Lewis, Congress of Industrial Organization labor leader and head of the coal workers union.

Sen. Bailey introduced the measure as an amendment to the neutrality act/revision measure, now being debated in the Senate. It would impose a maximum fine of $10,000 and 10 years imprisonment for violations.

Under Sen. Bailey's proposal, which followed President Roosevelt's third appeal to John L. Lewis to call off the captive coal mine strike, sabotage would be broadened to include stoppages in production of "materials or articles ordered by any department or bureau or cabinet official for national defense purposes."

Russians Push The Nazis Back In Big Push Near Moscow

KUIBYSNEV, Russia, Oct. 28.—Russian shock troops and dive bombers pushed back the German forces in a successful counter-attack in the Moscow front today, war dispatches reported.

Meanwhile the official press called for a last-ditch battle in the defense of the Donets Basin, where it is admitted the most serious threat by the Germans now exists.

Superior Forces Is Way To Beat Nazis Sen. Pepper States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Sen. Claude Pepper, Democrat, Florida, said today that Germany can only be defeated by a combination of "superior forces" attacking at critical points.

Sen. Pepper also said that the United States in this situation must follow the call of President Roosevelt to "pull its own oar."

Vichy's Marionettes

In all the history of France there is no sadder or more sinister chapter than what is now going on in Vichy. The government of unoccupied France has gone back on everything France stood for in the opinion and regard of the civilized world.

She has stricken "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" from her shield and substituted words that smack strongly of Nazi ideology. She has gathered around her every scheming reactionary politician in the defeated country. Included in this number are the men who sat in the Parliament and sneered at the republic, the back-stabbers who belonged to the hooded Cagouards, the rich men's sons who indulged in the hoodlum methods of the Camelots du Roi, of which they were the mainstay both in finance and membership.

The Petain government's every decree and every move have been parrot copies of the enactments of the Hitler gang in Germany. This has been done not only because of inclination, but also because of a childish belief that by so doing, by acting as willing marionettes pulled by Nazi strings, they can curry favor with Hitler and win easier peace terms when the German tyrant gets around to that subject.

One of the papers of Paris said as much: "French unity has more to expect from the generosity of the victor than from a boastful British propaganda now on its last legs."

That is undoubtedly the hope of the Lavals and the Flandins. It is a small hope, but it is a hope that has led the Petain government to lend itself as a willing instrument to Hitler's war plans. But it is also a hope that in all probability is destined to be wholly disappointed.

Hitler has shown himself to be a man utterly void of generosity to a beaten foe. He has also shown himself to be a man who does not care a rap for his spoken or written words. Promises are made and pacts are signed only to be broken when it suits him.

If Petain and his cronies have any real illusions about Hitler, they might spend a profitable half hour reading once more his "Mein Kampf," particularly that passage in which he says one of the Reich's prime jobs is to "crush forever" Germany's "eternal enemy": France.

That passage spells French doom if Hitler is not defeated. From that passage not one grain of hope can be extracted.

That Monster Is Seen Again In Scottish Waters

By United Press

LONDON.—In the rapidly diminishing memories of peace-time there lives the story of a monster. For quite a time, while war was little thought of the Loch Ness Monster occupied many columns of front pages throughout England. Travelers saw it. Fishermen saw it. Innumerable people saw it—but no one could ever prove that such a monster really existed.

Came the war, and little things like monsters went into oblivion.

For nearly two years not one person has professed to have seen it again. But apparently the monster has slid a long humped body into the world again—under wartime conditions this time.

J. MacFarlan-Barrow and three of his children were out in a yacht dinghy when the monster "broke surface" near Glendoe pier. They saw a "long snaky back, and fifteen to eighteen feet of the body, shaped rather like an up-turned boat," for something like ten minutes.

Said Miss MacFarlan-Barrow: "It raced up and down and across the Loch as if it really was in high spirits. Occasionally it dived and reappeared with the agility of a giant seabird."

"It must have covered seven miles during the display. Sometimes it moved so rapidly that columns of water several feet high were thrown up."

McHenry was about to enter the garage at his lonely ranch in Warthan Canyon when the dog suddenly jumped in front of his master and persisted in blocking the blind man's attempts to enter.

Puzzled, McHenry poked his cane into the garage, then recoiled at the sudden impact of fangs against it, accompanied by the warning whir of a rattlesnake. A friend, summoned after the ex-soldier had slammed the door shut, shot two large rattlesnakes coiled within.

It's a wise hired hand who uses his head also.

BRINGS THE WORLD'S NEWS AND KNOWLEDGE TO YOUR HOME AND COMMUNITY

Breakfast, lunch, dinner. A place to live, clothes to wear; YOUR NEWSPAPER.

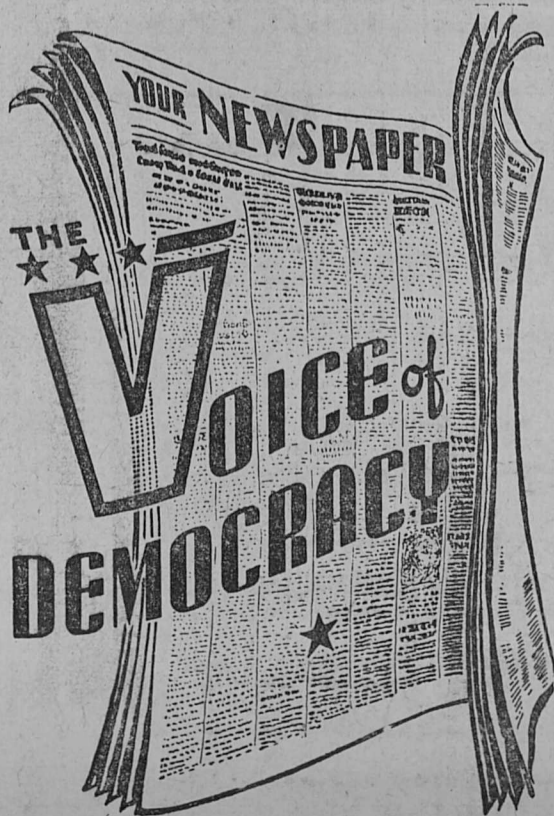

You take them pretty much for granted---just because they're the very things no one can do without and enjoy a well balanced life. But skip a meal---get locked out of the house---have your clothes borrowed from the hickory limb while you take a swim---forget to bring home YOUR NEWSPAPER---and you experience a hollowness, a sense of loss no substitute can fill!

Because our mental needs are equally as important as our physical needs, the newspaper becomes part of our daily sustenance. It tells the truth about what's going on near and far. Everything that happens everywhere in the world happens before your very eyes in the columns of the newspaper you read. Scientific discovery. Home making. How to be fashionable, healthy and money-wise. Sport. Finance. What makes them "tick" becomes assimilated knowledge for all who read a newspaper.

A vital part of the community in which it functions too, the newspaper employs many of your neighbors, from private-office executives to newsboys whisking copies to your doorstep. It leads you to the store you can maintain a satisfying living what they have to sell so as that tell in their advertisement standard of living.

Like food, shelter and clothing, . Y O U R . NEWS-PAPER is something you take for granted. But only in America is the newspaper still the unfettered organ of a Free Press. The American Newspaper does and will always champion the people's cause for honest, fearless, free reporting of the truth. The American Newspaper will always sound out loud and clear, the never to be stilled VOICE OF DEMOCRACY.

Peeping through the knothole

with bill maye

The Bulldogs will go into another game Friday as underdogs in a conference game when they play the Mineral Wells Mountaineers at Bulldog Stadium, and again that old comparative score dope comes forward, and it can be made to prove almost anything anyone wants to prove.

For instance Mineral Wells defeated Cisco 25 to 7 and Stephenville defeated Cisco 13 to 7, which would make the Mountaineers but 12 points better than Stephenville. But Ranger defeated Stephenville 31 to 0, so Ranger should be 19 points better than Mineral Wells, and should win.

But, Mineral Wells defeated Weatherford 24 to 0 and Weatherford won from Ranger 46 to 0, so the Mountaineers should be 70 points better than the Bulldogs. A halfway point somewhere along between might be about right, so it might not be a bad guess to predict that Mineral Wells should win by two touchdowns. Then, there is the Brownwood-Ranger game in which Brownwood won by seven points, and Mineral Wells won over Brownwood by one touchdown, which would be two touchdowns better than Ranger if the Brownwood scores were taken into consideration.

Although the Bulldogs won from Stephenville by 31 points it is not likely that they were that much better than the Yellow Jackets, and, by the same token, the kind of ball played against Brownwood convinced nearly everyone that the Bulldogs should have won, with the proper kind of play, particularly since the Bulldogs had the edge in the statistics, even if they didn't have the best score.

Which is just what we said at the outset—that one could prove anything with the previous games. If you don't believe it then we have wasted nearly five minutes proving nothing, and even we can not understand it all.

Breckenridge won from Ranger easily, and using the plays against which the Bulldogs had been warned, but they were not fast enough afoot to stop most of them and were just run ragged whenever the Breckenridge backs could shake loose into the open, which was too often.

We don't know what type of play Mineral Wells uses, except that we have read where they used a number of passing plays effectively. It was a pass that enabled them to win from Brownwood in the rain. And Ranger hasn't been too effective against a passing attack so far this season, though there have not been a large number completed against them. Speed and passing should tell the difference between the two teams when they meet Friday night.

Has anyone noticed that it has rained every week since the football season opened? Most of the rains have come early in the week, about Tuesday or Wednesday, but lately they have been coming on Friday. Which should be about as good a time as any to predict rain for next Friday.

JOBS FOR TOMORROW

The chemical laboratories of the petroleum industry are now laying the foundation for industries of the future. Out of their research are being created new products and more efficient ways of making old ones. Synthetic rubber, plastics, explosives, basic chemicals and scores of other essentials developed in petroleum laboratories are already being made on a commercial scale.

These scientific discoveries of materials vital to peace-time needs, as well as National defense, are opening up new fields of industrial activity.

Texas as the leading oil State is playing an important part in the creation of these new American enterprises. As a result, many young Texans now preparing themselves in our schools and colleges will find places in the industries resulting from this research

The test tubes of today make the jobs of tomorrow.

The relation of the motion picture industry to the national defense program will be discussed at the forthcoming Rotary Club luncheon next Wednesday, Oct. 23, at the Gholson Hotel, by Dick Stout of Dallas, the principal speaker.

Stout is motion picture counsel for Interstate Theatres, and is a former assistant attorney general of the State of Texas, having served under Attorney Generals William McCraw and Gerald C. Mann. His subject will be "National Defense and Motion Pictures." In his address he deals with the recent charges of war propaganda against the industry, giving an accurate of the present senate inquiry.

Stout recently delivered his address to the official staff and men of the 8th Division at Camp Bowie, Brownwood, in the Army Tent Theatre. Following his talk to the soldiers Stout showed a national defense all-aviation program, consisting of films dealing with America's air corps and Britain's R. A. F.

During his visit to Ranger the former assistant attorney general will be a guest at the Ranger Junior College where he will address the students assembly briefly on "The History and Social Influence of Motion Pictures."

Stout's most recent speaking engagements have been before the Sequin Rotary Club, the Greenville Lions Club, and the Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Young School Carnival To Be Held Wednesday

In the Young school auditorium Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. the new King and Queen of the school will be crowned. A very beautiful coronation ceremony has been planned with children from each room taking part.

The costumes for the ceremony are modeled after court costumes of long ago. The royal court is made up of ladies in evening dresses, duchesses, dukes, the prince and princess of the school, the king and queen of last year and the new king and queen.

Flower girls are Barbara Ray Long and Annette Gibbs. Train-bearers are Ann Lee Wolford and Jackie Terry. The bugler is Jimmy Bowcom and the herald is Robert Heald.

One of the outstanding features of the Halloween program is the real Boogie-Man Boo who entertains the court. The Jack-o-Lantern children will add much color to the program. Other special features are tap dancing, a very clever comedy act and a surprise grand finale.

Games and other forms of entertainment are being planned for this festive occasion. Everyone is invited to attend.

Red Cross Station Donations are Made As An Aid To Work

Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, chairman of the Ranger Red Cross Station, today thanked several who had contributed work and materials to the work room in order that clothing might be made for the British people.

Mrs. McLaughlin stated that Fire Chief G. A. Murphy and the firemen had built and installed shelves on which materials and finished garments could be stored, under the proper heading, to keep them separated, and a large number of buttons had been contributed by R. H. Snyder.

Already contributed and acknowledged were buttons contributed by Mrs. G. A. Murphy, and wooden buttons for bathrobes, contributed by G. A. Murphy. The wooden buttons were stamped out at the NYA sheet metal shop, and were sanded and varnished at the NYA wood shop, Murphy stated in commenting on his donation.

COTTON BALE AVERAGES 540 POUNDS

By United Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Although the average bale of cotton weighs about 540 pounds, it is necessary to gin about 1,380 pounds of cotton to make it. The reason for the difference is that cotton from the fields still retains its seed, which weighs more than twice as much as the fiber itself.
