Cheaney Farmer Is Named Most Outstanding In Leon District

A. J. Rogers of the Cheaney community has been named most outstanding conservation farmer by the supervisors of the Upper Leon Soil and Water Conservation district. He has lived on the same farm since 1942.

Half the land, at the time he bought the place, was in cultivation and the balance in post oak brush. He planned a gradual improvement program and with the help of his wife and children, he launched his improvement program 25 years ago.

Cover crops and strip-cropping were installed, followed by the application of all the crop residue and litter to the soil. Flow-up fence rows were spread, which was a long hard process.

In 1951, Rogers asked for assistance from the Upper Leon Soil and Water District. The soils were mapped and a plan developed.

In 1963, after having raised their children, and with aged parents to care for, the Rogers decided to do less intensive farming. He revised his conservation plan, and signed a contract under the Great Plains Conservation Program. The contract expired Dec. 31, 1966, leaving a job well done on the land.

In the revised plan, Rogers planted the new land to peanuts, while the older crop-land was put into Coastal Bermuda. With good management, farm income has increased year by year. Peanut yield was 15 to 18 bushels per acre at the beginning; in 1964-45 bushels; 1965-50 bushels; and 63 bushels in 1966—dryland.

Rogers also farms 150 acres of peanuts on rented land and cares for it the same as his own.

Friday Last Day To Sign For Cotton, Wheat, & Feed Grain

The sign-up period for wheat, cotton and feed grain ends Friday, March 17, according to Jesse G. Meredith, office manager of Eastland County ASCS. Those who have not been to the ASCS office to sign their intention have been urged by Mr. Meredith to come by for an explanation of the program. Diversion, price support and certificate payments are now available, Mr. Meredith added.

Fencing of cropland established in a permanent vegetative cover can now be approved. This practice has been approved to encourage the maintenance of cropland in permanent grass. Cost-share rates are the same as for the regular fencing practice. Anyone interested has been invited to contact Mr. Meredith at the ASCS office. April 4 is the final date to release or request additional peanut acreage for 1967. The ASCS office is anticipating only a very small amount of acreage will be released in 1967.

Heart and Blood Vessel Disease Seen As Real National Problem

Is the problem of heart and blood vessel disease one that applies only to the other fellow? Is it a national problem only and not a local problem? Is it a vague abstraction, rather than a hard-fisted reality?

All three of these questions must be answered in the negative. No individual, no family is immune. A good street address is no protection, nor is a sizeable bank account. The cardiovascular diseases are no respecters of religion or ethnic background. Here are some figures:

More than 14 million American adults are suffering from known heart disease.

Additionally, there are nearly 7 million adults with high blood pressure.

Beyond these two groupings, there are 13 million more adult Americans with suspect heart disease.

Heart and blood vessel disease kill more Americans each year than all other causes combined, being responsible for about 54 per cent of all deaths. They take nearly 1 million American lives yearly.

These figures, grim as they are, do not tell the whole story. Rather they provide the backdrop for a number of significant trends in the continuing war on heart disease, some of them quite promising. Thanks largely to research undertaken during the past 20 years, often with Heart Association support, dramatic gains have been made along many lines, such as new methods of controlling high blood pressure, of treating and preventing stroke, of protecting children against rheumatic fever, and of correcting inborn heart defects through surgery.

These gains are reflected in figures showing a decline in the cardiovascular death rate since 1950, broken down by age groups as follows: down 5 per cent among children under 5 years; down 32 per cent for persons between 5 and 24 years of age; down 10 per cent among those aged 25 through 44 years; down 24 per cent among women aged 45 through 64; down 7 per cent among men between 45 and 64.

If the 1950 death rates had persisted through 1963 (the latest year for which we have complete data) approximately 40,000 more Americans would have died in that year than actually did. Among them would have been about 11,000 men in the critically important age group, 45-64.

The 7 per cent improvement among men aged 45-64 needs to be analyzed more carefully, however. It was achieved despite an increase of 5 per cent in the death rate from coronary disease—heart attack—among these men. The overall improvement was actually made possible only because there were reductions in the death rates from stroke, high blood pressure, and other cardiovascular diseases.

Thus the death rate from coronary heart disease has actually been going up. It remains our greatest challenge.

A stepped-up program of research, education and community service conducted by the American Heart Association and its affiliates will score new victories on this front. You can help by giving generously to the Heart Fund this month.

Character Of Biblical Widow

Is Class Topic

Minister Gary Beauchamp directed the Ladies Bible Class, Mesquite and Rusk St. Church of Christ at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

The lesson concerned a "daughter of Eve", a widow whose "nobility abounded unto the riches of her liberality." She was commended by Jesus for her gift of two mites, which was an indication of her spiritual wealth in the midst of physical poverty and her example remains for us in establishing the proper relationship of man and his money in the life of a Christian.

Present for the lesson were Mrs. Reed Campbell, Juanette Souvres, Deanna Beauchamp, Maxine Offield, Sadye Lantley, M. A. Truesdale, Thelma Minnick, Geraldine Pope, Pat Gohlke, Linda Watson, Ima Howard, Sandy Herod, three children and one visitor, Mrs. Tom Tucker of Artesia, N. M.

Washington

"As It Looks From Here"

WAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — This office will probably average six to eight long distance telephone calls a day from people in our 24-County Congressional District. Sometimes more, sometimes less.

Usually, when it is the other person's nickel, an inquiry is made about the weather back home. As everyone knows, weather is always an important subject in West Texas.

Unfortunately, reports in the last several weeks describe a drought situation which is becoming more acute by the day.

This is one thing we cannot do very much about by legislation, although Government has tried to cure about everything else. Even weather control is receiving a great deal of scientific attention.

Conditions of drought bring to mind a friend, Judge Frank Wilson who relate a story about a trip he made with his father from Dallas to the Texas Panhandle where they owned a ranch.

It was a hot summer day and their model T Ford was suffering severely from the lack of water when they reached Anson. At that time we had one of the finest horse troughs to be found anywhere, located on the North-west corner of the Square. It was fed from the town stand-pipe, equipped with a float valve in the center which kept it at a constant level. This was a great invention and no finer equipment could be found anywhere.

The water, however, was for horses and not for automobiles, so my friend, who was then a boy of seven, remembers his father being advised by the City Marshal.

It was dry and hot and this new fangled automobile from the big city had no business using up our water.

That horse trough has long been gone, having been paved over in the early 1920's. There must be very few horse troughs any place now, except Washington, D. C., where you can find just about anything, including a horse trough.

The very last one, however, is soon to be the victim of "Mr. Clean."

Ever since the mid 1800's, the Nation's Capital was equipped with horse troughs, but now they have all been removed except one because it was decided they were a health menace. The one remaining is deep in Rock Creek Park and the purpose of it is explained to children.

No inquiry has been made as to where the horses of the mounted Park Police are going to get a drink of water, but it will probably be frowned upon if they try to drink from fountains provided for people. They could drink out of Rock Creek but the water in it is not fit for man or beast because of its contamination.

The original cast iron troughs were placed around Washington in 1870 by the Washington Humane Society. The present 70-year old President of the Society says that the organization, bought the troughs and the City installed them. The ownership is still in the Society, and feeling no choice, they permitted their removal. Five or six may be up for sale soon from $35 to $40. One very fancy trough was located in the downtown business area adjacent to the site of the new F.B.I. building soon to be constructed. It was also donated to the City in the early 1800's. Pictures show it to be quite elaborate, designed as a fountain to serve horses, birds and humans. It was only removed last year and is now in storage in the City warehouse. It is the property of the City of Washington, and the District of Columbia being the property of all the people of the United States, everybody owns a little bit of a horse trough. No disposition has been made of it and there is a question whether it will be put in a museum. If so, it will probably be equipped with the same valves, pipe and other paraphernalia that originally made it work.

If not put to use, we may try to get it for the Northwest corner of the Square in Anson.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — This space has been dedicated to a discussion of law enforcement on a great many occasions. This appears an appropriate time for another.

The preservation of law and order is a first and fundamental function of government at any level. Every citizen has a right to expect, and is entitled to expect, his government to protect his person and property. Laws from city ordinances to the Federal Government are made for this purpose, but laws not enforced, not respected and the criminal not punished for violations, are no laws at all.

Since 1790, Congress has authorized the revision of criminal statutes on three occasions. The first revision began shortly after the Civil War, in 1866, when the criminal laws were scattered through 14 volumes of Statutes at Large.

President Andrew Jackson, with the Congress assenting, empowered a commission to examine criminal provisions to eliminate obsolete provisions and to collect the statutes for republication in a book.

In 1879, Congress again authorized a commission to revise and codify penal laws of the United States. These were updated in 1909, and 39 years passed before another study was made to modernize the Criminal Code.

At the present time the President is appointing another commission to revise, clarify and codify.

Many of our laws have been complicated by Federal Courts which render decisions in some 30,000 cases a year. Loopholes need to be closed as an excuse for some of the "do-gooder" opinions which have recently been decided. In many instances the Courts have in effect rewritten sections of our criminal laws and have acted more like a legislative body than a judicial body. The public is becoming more and more aware of these actions and certainly the police and other law enforcement officials are more so. They are finding their tasks and responsibilities to be exceedingly difficult.

It is well that the President of the United States is calling for revision in our criminal statutes but what we need immediately is to stop coddling criminals and give greater regard for the victim of crime. There are advocates of the idea that the victim of crime should be compensated from public funds but the real need is the enforcement of law to make "crime not pay." Law abiding people have a right to expect protection from criminals. Good intentions are worthless.

It is encouraging that community and civic authorities, educators, religious leaders and people from all walks of life are speaking out, demanding justice.

Law enforcement will be effective if they are permitted to do the job they are capable of doing. The detecting and apprehending of criminals is not the whole answer. The criminal must know that

Deadline Near For Boat Owners To Fix Exhaust

AUSTIN—Time will be up within three months for pleasure boat operators given an extra year's time to adjust potentially hazardous ventilation systems in conformity with Coast Guard requirements, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

This was one of the accommodations allowed aquatic enthusiasts in 1966 when joint Federal and state safety regulations became effective.

For example, Texas game wardens stood instructed until late summer not to cite boating buffets for routine infractions.

Literature and friendly counsel were issued at first as a means of courting cooperation on the waterways.

Now, the Coast Guard cautions that further liberation of the boat ventilation rule beyond June 1 would not be advisable.

This regulation, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, applies only to persons with inboard boats or inboard-outboard craft and outboards with closed fuel tank compartments.

A Department spokesman said the minimum natural ventilation is required by the Coast Guard for closed engine and fuel tank compartments as a means of avoiding possible explosive conditions. Coast Guard regulations, strictly enforced by Texas game wardens, specifically call for at least one inlet duct fitted with cowl or equivalent, and at least one outlet or exhaust duct fitted with cowl or equivalent.

Ducts must extend from the open atmosphere to a point at least midway to the bilge for the intake air duct and to the lower portion for the exhaust.

Current industry standards will satisfy the requirements and are recommended.

Pleasure boating operators in doubt about the requirements effective June 1 are invited to contact their local game warden or the nearest Department office.

His destiny includes prompt prosecution and substantial punishment. He must know that the Courts are for the protection of people against criminal acts and not alone furnishing technical procedures behind which the violator can hide.

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN—Legislative redistricting reared its ugly head suddenly and formidably for Texas' House of Representatives. A U. S. Supreme Court decision invalidates the carefully-stuck-together reapportionment act of 1965 for representative districts.

This unexpected court action has changed redistricting from a routine cleanup chore into a major task. It could very well mean the end of the political line for some representatives and possible shaking of House unity.

Court found population variances among representative districts up to 26 per cent too great to meet its one-man-one-vote standard and sent the 1965 districting plan back to Houston federal judges for recheck.

Representatives had figured all that was necessary this year was elimination of the 11 flatorial districts criticized by the Houston federal district court. Now, they are faced with wholesale redrawing of lines to equalize population discrepancies statewide.

Speaker Ben Barnes acknowledged "It is a difficult situation."

Big city lawmakers said they soon would introduce a bill to give Bexar, Dallas and Harris Counties one more representative each (the high court held they were entitled to that) and adjust other variances.

Sensing that congressional reapportionment also might be struck down, redistricting acts in this area were introduced by Reps. R. L. Vale and Jake Johnson of San Antonio and Rep. Frank Cahoon of Midland.

A bill to legalize sale of liquor by the drink in Texas was introduced last week.

Reps. John Fields and Dick McKissack, both of Dallas, are House authors. Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso is the Senate sponsor.

Highlights of the bill are:

Open saloons (banned by constitution) are defined as places devoted exclusively to sale of liquor for on-premise consumption. Bill would legalize mixed-drink permits for qualified hotels, private clubs, restaurants and lodges—businesses or organizations NOT engaged exclusively in the business of selling liquor.

Measure would authorize mixed drink sales in some 122 counties where on-premise consumption of beer and wine and package store sales already are permitted. Provision is made for local elections in these areas on specific issue of mixed drinks. Failure of election would not affect status of other alcoholic beverages. In other areas, affirmative vote would be required for mixed drinks.

Drinks would be subject to five-cents-an-ounce tax, plus two per cent sales tax. Retail drink permits would cost $1,000 at state level. Cities and counties could assess fees of $500 each. Beverages servers would pay an annual fee of $12. Private clubs in wet areas must operate under the same regulations as retail drink establishments and pay the permit fee. Those in dry areas will pay a special registration fee and a 10 per cent gross receipts tax.

Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth is sponsoring a bill to provide free public education for five-year-olds, with the state sharing the expense with local school districts on a 50-50 basis.

Kennard said the program would cost $34,500,000 for the first two years and that 50 per cent of the five-year-olds would attend classes next year, 60 per cent the second year and as many as 80 per cent by 1970-71.

"A kindergarten program established under rules set up by the Texas Education Agency, is the most vital step Texas should take in improving our school system," the senator said. "There is abundant evidence that six years is too late an age to start children in school."

SHORT SNORTS

Texas' travel exhibit, designed to attract tourists to the state, has won top honors in the first of six North American travel shows in which it entered.

Gov. John Connally named Harry Jersig, San Antonio brewing company head, to the State Parks and Wildlife Commission, succeeding A.W. Moursund of Johnson City who did not seek re-appointment.

Albert Allison of Dallas is new executive director of the Republican Party of Texas, succeeding Marvin Collins, formerly of Corpus Christi, who held the job since 1963.

Legislation to stiffen Sunday closing law (removing emergency purchase provision) cleared Senate committee.

Ground has been broken for $10,000,000 Institute of Texan Cultures building at San Antonio HemisFair '68.

Senate passed a bill to outlaw job discrimination in state and local government due to race, religion, color or national origin.

Senate committee approved proposed constitutional amendments to extend veterans land program and authorize local revenue bonds to finance industrial plants to be operated by private interests.

Every incorporated city and town in Texas would be required to set up a "Motion Picture Classification Board" to preview every movie to be shown in that city and classify it as "suitable" or "not suitable" for persons under age 18 by a bill introduced in the House by Rep. Cordell Hull of Fort Worth.

Hull said that cities now have the authority for such regulation, but his bill would make the board mandatory and would provide guidelines for classifying movies. Board would be composed of nine members appointed by the city's governing body for two year terms.

Rep. Ralph Wayne of Plainview has introduced a bill requiring public schools to offer courses in Spanish to students in the second, third and fourth grades.

Wayne's bill, now in the House Education Committee, would require that within five years after passage of the bill, every elementary school in the state begin teaching Spanish to students in at least those three grades.

It also provides that the State Board of Education furnish textbooks and recorded Spanish exercises to the school districts without cost to the students.

In their line of duty, House Committee on Counties referred that measure to a subcommittee for further consideration.

Corys bill would allow commissioners courts to raise the salaries of justices of the peace and constables up to 20 per cent over what they now earn. Committee favorably reported this one back to the House floor where it now is awaiting action.

Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville and Rep. Charles Jungmichel of La Grange have introduced legislation to place greater emphasis on encouraging the construction, development and expansion of services and facilities of livestock markets in Texas.

Connally's bill would establish a charter-fee system to govern livestock markets and to create a seven-member Public Livestock Board in the state government to grant charters and supervise the markets where livestock are auctioned.

"We have seen in the last 10 to 15 years a vast improvement in bank facilities and an expansion of their services," the Senator said. "The same results can be obtained by providing the proper basis for establishing and developing livestock markets."

Rep. Ralph Wayne of Plainview has introduced a bill requiring public schools to offer courses in Spanish to students in the second, third and fourth grades.

Wayne's bill, now in the House Education Committee, would require that within five years after passage of the bill, every elementary school in the state begin teaching Spanish to students in at least those three grades.

It also provides that the State Board of Education furnish textbooks and recorded Spanish exercises to the school districts without cost to the students.

Gov. John Connally named Harry Jersig, San Antonio brewing company head, to the State Parks and Wildlife Commission, succeeding A.W. Moursund of Johnson City who did not seek re-appointment.

Albert Allison of Dallas is new executive director of the Republican Party of Texas, succeeding Marvin Collins, formerly of Corpus Christi, who held the job since 1963.

Legislation to stiffen Sunday closing law (removing emergency purchase provision) cleared Senate committee.

Local option authority for financially distressed Texas cities to levy a one-per cent sales tax. (Vote: 85 to 63).

A staff code of ethics for legislators and other state officials and employees. (Vote: 140-6).

Repeal of "emergency purchase" provisions to put teeth in Sunday closing laws. (Vote: 132-14).

Before passing the city sales tax bill, sponsored by Rep. John Traeger of Seguin, the House spent nearly three hours of continuous debate and waded through more than 30 amendment attempts.

Advocates predict a majority vote in the Senate, too. But no action is expected across the rotunda until after rules suspension eases with passage of the session 60 day mark.

Code of ethic bill, by Rep. Jim Nugent of Kerrville, made its third trip through the House. Substantially the same bill has been approved by representatives in two prior sessions but died in the Senate. Same fate is anticipated this time for what advocates term "one of the strictest codes in the United States."

Measure would require lawmakers to disclose personal interest in legislation, force legislators and state officials and employees to reveal substantial interests in private businesses and require identification of relatives on the state payroll.

Surprisingly, the strengthened Sunday closing law, introduced by Rep. Willis J. Whately of Houston, cleared the House in seven minutes. Only one comment was made. Smooth sailing also is anticipated in the Senate. (What this law will do to tourist spending has never been mentioned.)

County auditors and precinct officials would make substantial monetary gains under a pair of bills being sponsored by the House by Reps. Vernon Beckham of Denison and Dick Cory of Victoria.

Beckham's bill would let county commissioners courts pay mileage reimbursement to county auditors for travel

Sen. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio has proposed constitutional amendments to take Texas either "all wet" or "all dry" for liquor sale.

Bills by Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown would ban the use of oyster shell in road construction and restore the old shell dredging line at 1,500 feet from live reefs; Allen also recommends enlarging Parks & Wildlife Commission from three to six members.

RJC Instructor Gives Lions Look At U. S. S. R.

An extraordinary look behind the Iron Curtain was afforded members of the Eastland Lions Club Tuesday as Mrs. James P. Morris, American History instructor at Ranger Junior College brought a program at the regular Luncheon meeting.

Using beautiful color slides, and descriptive narration, Mrs. Morris described her impressions of the Soviet Union gained on a recent visit there.

The most impressive point? The size of the Soviet Union, she said. Its area covers one sixth of the earth's land area, and its population is near 230 million people.

Obie Duncan was program chairman and introduced Mrs. Morris. Describing the Kremlin itself, she said that it's made up of 65 acres with 40 buildings, including nine cathedrals "no longer in use," she said.

The most vivid testimony to free enterprise, she said, is the fact that 80 per cent of the Soviet Union's food stuff, is produced on the one-acre "free" tracts of land granted to the individuals.

President Ed Ethridge presided, and announced that plans are formulating rapidly for the 45th Anniversary Banquet to be held in Eastland Tuesday, March 21, at which the International President Edward Lindsey will be guest speaker.

Representatives of the Eastland, Cisco and Ranger clubs will meet at the Village Hotel Coffee Shop Thursday to finalize plans. Clint Bray has tickets in Eastland, and these must be purchased before Thursday that a report may be made to the caterer.

Mrs. Joe B. Scott and children spent last Friday and Saturday in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Gay of Dallas were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gay.

PRESSURE ON PANEL STUDYING COURT BILL

Pressure is being put on the state House sub-committee studying a proposed bill that would move the 11th Court Civil Appeals from Eastland to Abilene.

That's the word from Rep. Burke Musgrove who reports that the sub-committee members are being bargained with letters from Abileneans asking that the bill be referred out to the main committee, and hopefully (for Abilene) out out to the full house for a vote.

Local and area residents went to Austin en masse on Feb. 26 to appear at the committee hearing on the bill (filed by rep. Temple Dixon of Sweetwater) and saw the matter handed to what was and is believed to be an "un-amicable" subcommittee, where locals hoped the bill would die a natural death.

However, due to the undo pressure being applied by the Abileneans, Musgrove believes now that it would be well for locals to follow through on an invitation to the sub-committee, issued at the hearing, to come to Eastland and look over the court's facilities and the circumstances here.

Rep. Musgrove has tentatively set up an appointment with the five - members panel to come to Eastland on Thursday, March 26, for an on-the-spot inspection. Arrangements are to be worked out with local people, including the transporting and hosting of the group.

The house will probably be in session until noon that day, Musgrove says, and the sub-committee could leave about 12 for Eastland, where they can be shown the town, and the court, as well as be entertained informally.

Members of the committee are Raul L. Longoria of Edinburg, chairman; Tad Santiesteban of El Paso; C. L. Ray Jr. of Marshall; Lee Duggan of Houston; and John Hanna of Lusk.

Musgrove reported that Santiesteban told him of the heavy pressure being put on the committee members to act on the Dickinson bill, that would move the court.

Indicative of the in-fighting going on, Musgrove said, is the fact Dickinson recently asked to be put on a special sub-committee considering an anti-LSD bill, written and submitted by Musgrove.

In other matters, Rep. Musgrove reports that he has submitted a bill which would permit the City of Rising Star to create a hospital district.

The young representative also reports that about 85 per cent of his mail, from this district, is opposed to Gov. Connally's "liquor by the drink" legislation.
