accused of the murder of now serving. Leslie Renee Roberts of Ranger.

91st District Court declared the mistrial when the jury failed to reach a verdict after four hours of deliberation. There was a 6-6 tie vote, with no changes during the afternoon. Reports were that the deadlock resulted from the failure of some members of the jury to believe the testimony of state's leading witness, Randy Wells. There was also said to be a failure to place Mrs. Hennington at the murder scene.

RC&D Meeting: Support For Alternative Schools

Eastland County Reand Development meeting Sept. 12 led to a decifor more alternative schools in Eastland County.

The RC&D group works with projects which benefit this county and others of the Brazos-Leon Conservation area. The Eastland meeting brought school superintendents and conservation leaders together to decide whether a need for such schools existed in Eastland County. The meeting has held at the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Ranger School Superintendent Jerry Jackson told of the work already being done by the alternative school in Ranger. These classes have assisted a number of "at risk" students, many of whom have graduated.

Present at the meeting Sept. 12 were G. A. White, Eastland, Corrie Cowley, also of Eastland; Comm. Maxine Morgan, Rising Star, George Steele, Rising Star, Anna Maxfield, Gorman, David Tunmire, Eastland County Agent, Ron Bailey of the Soil Conservation Service, and Ernest Moravic, RC&D Coordinator from Dublin.

Special guests were school superintendents Keith Watkins, Eastland, Ray Saunders, Cisco, ing, without much voca-

Discussions at the Jerry Jackson, Ranger, and G.W. Maxfield, Gor-

> G.A. White, Director, called the meeting to order, Ron Bailey made introductions.

Besides alternative schools, the informal discussions rotated around school financing by the state. The Superintendents and others referred to "upheavals in school finance," saying this way of doing business made it difficult for local schools to plan any new projects. Funding for special programs would need to be located - possibly from special grants.

All superintendents agreed there was a need for some system to take care of young people whose life styles do not fit into the regular pattern of education.

For to really fit, you need a supportive family, a home that functions, financial security, and a stable emotional life. Many youngsters come from backgrounds that are totally opposite to these ideals one individual said.

Jerry Jackson said the alternative school n Ranger had around 19 students, and was funded by a grant.

The school has helped a number of young people to graduate who otherwise would have been lost to the educational system and possibly society.

This is academic train-tional, Jackson said. Students from the alternative school have to take the same exit tests as other seniors before they graduate. A discussion followed on whether more vocational training would be useful in alternate schools. Keith Watkins, EISD Superintendent, said that if more vocational training was needed he would rather work with the two colleges now in the county (CJC and RJC) than to call in help from outside.

When asked if alternative schools were really needed here Watkins replied: "If there's one drop-out there's a need." "Some kids are kicked out of their homes," Supt. Jerry Jackson said. "At times they sleep in cars and vacant buildings. Their first need is survival - how can they fit in to a regular school?" Ray Saunders, Cisco Superintendent, indicated he was interested in any plan that would help. He said there had been a lot of discussion in Cisco about alternative schools.

Various ideas were explored as to whether alternative school efforts should be geared toward a central location in the county, or sites in the local towns.

Another meeting will be announced when more details are available on funding.

Cross Country Trip Ends In Gunshot

Four young people traveling in a stolen car from South Carolina had their trip end in Olden when one of them accidentally shot himself in the head.

18 year old Harold Church was treated at Eastland Memorial Hospital Tuesday night. He was then taken to a specialistin Abilene Wednesday and then placed in Eastland County jail on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Eastland County Sheriff's deputies were called to the Olden Post Office about 4:15 p.m. Tuesday where the group had stopped to get held for Church.

It is believed Church was in the back seat playing with a pistol that discharged causing the injury.

The pistol was apparently thrown from the car after the shooting.

The car's driver Brenda Lynn Finley, 19, was also arrested and jailed for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The two other youths, a 16 year old boy and a 14 year old girl were turnedover the Abilene juvenile authorities.

"Some people talk about a strong Texas economy and a healthy Texas environment as if they were separate or conflicting goals. But today they're going hand in hand," Sharp said.

"As everyone knows, Texas has some serious environmental problems. For example, manufacturers in Texas generated about 800 million pounds of toxic waste in 1989. We produce another 17 million tons of garbage annually-about a ton for every Texan. Motor vehicle traffic is creating high ozone levels in major metropolitan areas of the state. And people in colonias along the Texas, Mexico border still lack clean drinking water.

"But it is also important to note that renewed efforts to keep the Texas environment thriving have created lucrative new markets for a wide variety of firms. Businesses that manage solid and hazardous waste materials, manufacturers of air pollution control and water purification equipment and recycling firms are finding that going 'green' can be profitable," Sharp said.

According to Fiscal Notes, 22 publicly held Texas firms had total environmental products and services.

In the industry's largest segment—solid waste management-Tfexas companies recorded revenues of more than $3.2 billion.

Texas firms also played important roles in the industry's second-largest sector-industrial and consumer recycling-and the rapidly-emerging chemical recycling business. Other Texas firms were involved in water and waste water treat-

"The Environmental Business Journal predicts an 11 percent annual growth in each of the next five years for the environmental industry, with some sectors of this emerging industry growing even more rapidly," Sharp said. "The growth rate of environmental consulting and engineering firms, air pollution control companies, recycling businesses, and the hazardous waste disposal industry is projected at between 14-16 percent each year through 1996."

The Texas Legislature also has taken steps to make state environmental policies more effective and to aid in the recycling effort.

Based upon the efficiency-minded recommendations of the Texas Performance Review, which Sharp directed, the Legislature recently consolidated the Texas Water Commission, Air Control Board, Water Well Drillers Board, Texas Board of Irrigators and the environmental programs of the State Health Department into the new Natural Resources Conservation Commission, which will begin work in

Lawmakers also created a $150 million bond pool, subject to voter approval this fall, to fund water and sewer service for colonias, the impoverished, unincorporated subdivisions along the lems because of their unsanitary conditions.

"The high-tech and service-oriented firms that will dominate the 21st century Texas economy place a high value on that elusive factor called 'quality of life.' Those companies won't settle in a polluted environment. And the Texas of our grandchildren won't be able to live and prosper if we leave them a polluted environment," Sharp said.

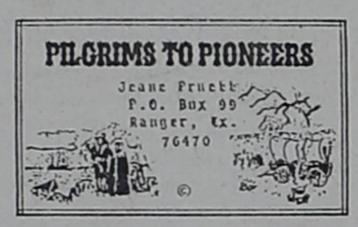

"Cleaning our house now helps insure another great century for Texas."

RESEARCH ON OZONE-FRIENDLY RE-FRIGERATION SYSTEM UNDERWAY

As the space shuttle rockets into space to study the ozone layer from above, research is being conducted here on earth to find ways to create environmentally safe refrigeration systems and insulating foams.

Dr. J.C. Holste, a researcher for Texas A&M University's Center for Energy and Mineral Resources, is investigating the reactions of a chemical called R-14lb. If this chemical proves to be safe and effective, it could replace the CFC-11 found in the foam insulation of refrigerators and in the coolants of large refrigeration systems.

In the 1970s, CFCs were suspected to be harmful to the ozone layer of the atmosphere. But it wasn't until 1984 that scientists discovered a hole in the ozone layer over Antarctica. Since that time efforts have been stepped up to phase out the use of CFCs.

In 1987, representatives from more than 35 countries met in Montreal to discuss ways to combat the CFC problem. The meeting resulted in an agreement to reduce the production of CFCs to 50 percent of the 1986 level by the year 1998. In addition, the United States and some 80 other countries have agreed to completely phase out production of CFCs by the year 2000.

Preliminary studies of R-14lb by other researchers show that it is both non-flammable and nontoxic and does not significantly contribute to global ever, the models created by these studies are not accurate enough to predict how effective or efficient the chemical will be when actually used in appliances.

"The cost of the CFC alternatives themselves is higher because they are continuing to use the old more difficult to make," one, Holste said. Holste said. He estimates that the replacements are two to three times as costly as CFCs.

New types of hoses, seals and lubricating oils also will add the refrigerator costs.

"The cost of new refrigeration systems will probably be high at first," Holste said, "but they will settle down in time."

Meanwhile, several temporary solutions will help hold down costs to consumers. Holste said recycling of liquid CFCs will become more widespread as production is phased out and they become more scarce. Unfortunately, recycling is not an option for foam insulation. Recycling of this because of the high cost involved.

Alternative liquid refrigerants that can be put into existing systems are another temporary solution. HFC-22, a hydrofluorocarbon, is one potential temporary replacement. HFC-22 has been proven safe to use and is gentle to the ozone, but it cools less efficiently than a conventional CFC, meaning higher energy bills.

The kitchen is another place to save energy and money. Boiling water in a covered pan or kettle saves time and energy.

If you use an electric oven or stove, conserve energy by turning the appliance off several minutes before the alloted cooking time. The heating elements will stay hot long enough to finish the cooking without using additional energy.

You can also save energy easitly by selecting the air-dry setting or turning the washer off after the final rinse and propping the door open. Avoid the "rinse and hold" setting on your dishwasher since it uses 3 to 7 gallons of hot water per use. Scraping the dishes and rinsing in cold water are just as effective.

At its current pace, 1991 will be one of the five wettest years in four decades for most of the state - but that doesn't mean it has been strictly good news for agriculture.

"Of course, we've still got four months to go, but this year has provided about one-and-a-half times the percentage of normal rainfall," said George Bomar, a meteorologist with the Texas Water Commission in Austin.

"The late spring and summer have been inordinately wet in virtually every region of the state. Consequently, as we begin autumn, there is a marked absence of severe drought in the state."

Bomar said that while rainfall across the state varies widely from year to year, 1991 appears to rank with 1958, 1975, 1981 and

1987 as the wettest since

He noted that National Weather Service statistics show many Texas weather stations had rainfall of 125 to 175 percent of normal year-to-date amounts through Aug. 28.

In fact, of 31 Texas stations included on a weekly NWS report, only six had below-average percentages for the year.

Those stations were Wichita Falls, which had received 15.76 inches of rain, or 86 percent of normal; Del Rio (10.32 inches, or 97 percent); Zapata (8.75 inches, or 77 percent); Uvalde (9.49 inches, or 60 percent); Amarillo (9.93 inches, or 68 percent); and Pecos (5.46 inches, or 94 percent).

And even near dry areas, some places are receiving more substantial rainfall. Fort Stockton just 54 miles southeast of Pecos-had received 13.91 inches, or 183 percent of its normal rainfall through Aug. 28.

Twenty of the NWS stations had received 125 percent or better of their year-to-date averages, including Victoria (43.36 inches, or 193 percent), Midland (16.18 inches, 180 percent), Lufkin (45.8 inches, 170 percent) and Beaumont (54.78 inches, 163 percent). However, while rain is usually seen as a boon for agriculture, those abovenormal numbers have not meant only good times.

"As usual, the distribution has not been ideal, although we're ahead in total rainfall," said Richard Wynne, an agricultural meteorologist for the

That's because the timing of moisture is critical in agriculture, and poorly timed rain has caused serious problems in some areas, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

For the state's major crops, rainfall has had varying impacts, said Dr. Mark Waller, an Extension agricultural economist in College Station who specializes in grain marketing.

The Panhandle — the state's primary wheat region - suffered severe problems from short moisture through the late spring and early summer. There were some good crops in Texas, but early yield indicators show a drop from 130 million bushels in 1990 to 84

Waller said. On the other hand, he said, "Corn and grain sorghum do look pretty good, especially in com-National Weather Serv- parison to what's coming out of the Midwest, where there is a significant million bushels this year, drought problem." Later rains have apparently helped those crops. Initial figures show statewide corn yields up to 179 million bushels this year, and sorghum up from 76 million hundredweight in 1990 to 99 million hundredweight this year, Waller said.

Rice figures are not yet available, but Waller said he expects harvests to be down this year. Heavy spring rains caused some plantings to be pushed back, meaning some producers will be able to have only one harvest instead of two this year, he said.

Randy Upshaw of Dallas, director for agriculture in the Extension Service's North Central Texas District, said the district is a good case in point on how situations can vary.

"What might have been good conditions for one producer might not occur for another producer just a few miles away," Upshaw said.

Upshaw said his district has had adequate moisture for most crop growth, especially in the western half.

"We got all of the crops in place on time and got beneficial rains there," he said, adding that corn, grain sorghum, hay and forage were all abundant this year.

But in the eastern half, extremely wet conditions early in the planting season delayed corn, milo and cotton planting, causing some insect problems late in the year, Upshaw said.

Scott Durham, Extension district director for East Texas, said, "You can sum up East Texas in one word: wet."

While the rain helped produce abundant, highquality peaches and watermelons, and ample pastures, it also has caused insect and disease problems and difficulties for hay harvesting, Durham said. In South Texas, which suffered droughts from 1988 to 1990, rainfall also has been spotty this year. Still, things aren't too bad, said Dr. Jose Peña, an Extension economist in Uvalde.

"The year is turning out fairly well in spite of the very dry conditions," Peña said. "We had a good year with corn, although it wasn't anything to write home about. We had three cuts of hay, and although it's too early to tell, it looks like a good cotton crop."

Cantaloupes, melons and onions all had good irrigated crops, although rain would have saved producers money, Peña said. Fall and spring rains brought a good overall wheat crop after many fields produced poorly and were grazed over in 1990, he said.

For cotton, the state's major crop, much harvesting remains. However, soil moisture conditions have generally been favorable. Dr. Joe Supak, a Lubbock-based Extension cotton specialist, said, "Particularly out here, our moisture situation is above average for this time of the year, although it came with a bit of a penalty." He also said crops there need sunshine and dry weather to improve cotton quality, but yield potentials in the Panhandle and West Texas appear to be good. In South Texas, where harvest weather has been hot and dry, good cotton yields have been reported. However, some early fields were flooded out by spring rains of up to 19 inches in a single day in parts of the Rio Grande Valley.

Insects and diseases are also causing serious cotton problems in the Panhandle and West Texas, partly because of rain, said Charles Stichler, an Extension agronomist in Fort Stockton.

Although ranchers love the green pastures and ranges, Stichler said, rains have caused problems for most, if not all,

West Texas crops - especially fruits and vege- Read The Classifieds

EXTENSION SERVICE HOME ECONOMICS

COMMITTEE The Eastland County Program Council Home Economics Committee will meet Monday, September 23 at 9:30 a.m.

The purpose of this committee is to identify programs to sponsor in 1992 that will meet needs and enrich the lives of families.

GRANDPARENTING IN THE '90'S

My friend, Mrs. Jack Bishop, shared with me the following article. I found it to be very good and lots of food for thought.

Grandparenting is fashionable in the '90's. Bumper stickers invite others to "Ask about my Grandchild". Magazines, newspapers, radio talk shows and television specials are also discussing grandparenting and its increasing importance. We even have a National Grandparents' Day and grandparenting is now looked on as a career.

Grandparenting role options are stated that "there are no set prescriptions for what a grandparent is or should be". Family research reveals ways people view the role of grandparent. Some grandparents make grandchildren the center of their lives while others maintain a respectable distance and focus more on a variety of relationships. Still others enjoy playful times with their grandchildren while some grandparents are formal with them. Thus, you have the opportunity to design a meaningful, enriching relationship with your grandchildren.

Use the following markers to evaluate your relationships with grandchildren:

Acknowledge the importance of your role-often times, grandparents underrate their importance to grandchildren. Families need the sense of history and life continuity that only a grandparent can provide.

Choose an overall grandparenting style which allows time for important other roles...balance your relationships with family as well as friends.

Individualize your relationship with each grandchild.... consider each grandchild's needs and respond to these as much as possible.

Be informed about generational differences and accept them.

Let parents be parents. Creative suggestions for grandparents are:

Share a hobby. Join grandchildren in collecting baseball cards, coin collecting, etc.

Send a Living Birthday Card. Make an audio or video recording of your wishes for a happy birthday and include a brief story of interesting activities you experienced when you were their age.

Surprise your grandchildren. Don't wait for special occasions to interact with grandchildren. Telephone your grandchildren more frequently with a message of love and encouragement. Send letters with newspaper clipping onsubjects of interest to them.

Author a scrapbook. Over the years you have Eastland County farms cover on the land. Martin September 22, 1991 continued, "Many public benefits are entangled along with the farm benefits of this program. The acreage that was once bare during part of the year and subject to wind erosion that polluted the air and water is now tamed by the planting of a grass cover. The grass cover prevents the soil from blowing, keeping the air cleaner, and prevents the soil from washing, keeping the runoff water free from sediment. Even wildlife benefit from the cover that these grass plantings provide and since the grass cannot be harvested, the seed production provides a good food source." WILLIAMSBURG: A Destination site labeled Virginia's "Great Entertainer" and a fact today because men of vision potential in saving the history, appealed in the mid'20s John D. Rockefeller Jr., a man of means, and it's been brought to what it is today -- an educational, entertaining and exciting place to visit, and it's attracting thousands.

WHILE WE were there visiting the location where our nation was conceived, we were very much aware that the news accounts were telling of almost undreamed-of changes in the government of the Soviet Union. representative government as we know it was virtaully incubated in the Virginia Tidewater, and what exciting times now, to see a government Democratic form a'borning in Russia after some 80 years of Communism, which followed centuries of Tzarist dictatorship, both of which recognized only two classes: the ins and the outs. One hopes that the young students today, here and elsewhere, truly recognize the historic times we are also living walk where Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, Henry and others walked so long ago, brought a lump to our throat, and maybe a tear, as you say a little thank you prayer for those with vision who helped shape our nation. Sure, it's been RE-STORED, and much of what you see REPRESENATATIVE, but fact too, recreated as real as it can Truly interesting is to look at photos of Duke of Gloucester St. (main drag of the historic section) made in the '30s, when it was a typical, ugly, small town with garrish utility lines, overhead signs, dilapidated buildings and an absolute aura of defeat, and then to see the street today: turned backward over 200 years -- gravel, grass, gardens and nothing but plain, functional construction.

As we understand it, the capital from Jamestown in 1699 specially-designed, model colonial city, new state center of Williamsburg, primarily because there were fewer mosquitoes, and it was farther out of off-shore cannon range. Today it's a 173-acre re-creation of that exciting period. As the revolutionary fever warmed, it was especially hot in Williamsburg in the 1700s, and in June, '75, the seventh royal governor, Lord Dunmore, fled the palace because British colonialism was crumbling. You can visit the palace, as he may have left it, stroll and shop the Merchants Square of shops, and dine in the taverns and alehouses of the day. these rustic how do (Question: restaurants serve the thousands and thousands of customers daily, without the benefit of electricity and modern conveniences? Cerebral Palsy seems to be caused by problems early in pregnancy, not by oxygen deprivation at birth, according to new research at the California Birth Defects Monitoring Program in Emeryville and the School of Public Health at University of California/Berkeley.

Dentists are now using computers to show patients how they will look after tooth-straightening, whitening and other cosmetic procedures. Computeraided design and manufacturing technology allows ceramic inlays and crowns to be made without impressions.

Older people may have heart attacks without the usual pain symptoms, the journal Emergency Medicine reports. They may only complain of feeling tired and weak, or have symptoms of flu or indigestion.

Study in the Southern Medical Journal confirms the value of psyllium to lower blood cholesterol levels. Researchers found the vegetable fiber as effective as drugs such as cholestyramine or niacin at lower cost. It may also offer some protection against colon cancer. .

Williamsburg thrived for a time after the Revolution, but when the capital was moved to Richmond, the little colonial jewel town sagged, and except for being an appendage to the College of William and Mary, it was just another little sleepy, backwater hick town. When restoration began many of the old major buildings were in ruins or built over, houses and lots one and old foundations buried and lost. (To Be Continued).

The rains we experienced during August and September have been nice, but wet and warm conditions also invite diseases for mulberry and cottonwood trees. These conditions also invite diseases on other plants, but mulberry and cottonwood trees seem to be getting the most attention from homeowners.

The main eye catching factor is that many mulberry and cottonwood trees are loosing leaves rapidly now. It is still too early for these trees to be loosing a lot of leaves.

Early defoliation of a tree could weaken the tree. A stressed tree will be more susceptible to freeze damage this winter. A weakened tree could also be more susceptible to water and heat stress next summer. All of these factors could result in the loss of the tree.

The most common disease being seen on mulberry and cottonwood trees is fungal leaf spot. This disease can be identified by irregular to round lesions or spots, which will be from brown to gray in color. Mulberry leaves will also turn yellow as the infection increases.

There are many suggested fungicides for the control of leaf spot. TWo common fungicides are Benlate 50 DF or Daconil 2787. Many stores may just carry a general use ornamental fungicide. Whichever type of fungicide you select, make sure it is labeled to control leaf spot and is labeled for the tree you will be using it on. Always read and follow label instructions.

If weather conditions turn cold and/or dries up chemical control of the leaf spot may not be required. Also, the loss of a few leaves does not necessarily justify chemical control. The more important the tree is to your landscape then the less of a risk you should take before a fungicide is used.

Kokomo News

By Zelda Jordan

We just keep getting rain every day or so. I've lost track of how much we've gotten but there were reports of from 3 tenths of an inch to over 2 inches that fell on Monday. And there was rain on Saturday and Sunday

A good time was had at the church picnic at the Kokomo Baptist Church on Saturday evening even tho it started raining about thirty minutes before picnic time and we had to meet in the fellowship hall instead of out under the trees for the meal. Bro, Clarence Wilson offered the prayer of thanks. The shower didn't last too long so games of volleyball was enjoyed following the picnic supper of barbecue brisket and all the trim mings and homemade ice cream and other good desserts.

The picnic was also in celebration of those of the church who have September birthdays, Johnnie B. Griffith, Zelda Jordan and Mamie Little. Visitors were Denzel and Faye Ables, Mindy and Ashley Laminack and Ruth Reeves of Gorman, Jane Goodin of Lake Leon, J. W. Davis and Rev. Jimmy Nelson of Stephenville.

A large responsibility was lifted from beneficiaries when physicians and suppliers began filing medicare claims on behalf of their patients on September 1, 1990. However, there are a few things to keep in mind when tracking claims payments.

It is a well-liked program, appreciated by every community where its workers serve. And since much of their work is in community-related projects, Green Thumb employees are particularly visible to the public.

Eastland people still associate Faye Spurlen with her work as a secretary at the Majestic Theatre. She held this position until a few months ago, and still works at the Majestic some on a volunteer basis.

But she is now a Program Aide for Green Thumb, overseeing work in Eastland, Stephens, Throckmorton, Shackelford, Callahan and Comanche Counties.

In Eastland and Callahan Counties alone Green Thumb enrollees are filling many jobs. They include:

Eastland County Cisco - Nila Jones, Cisco Senior Citizens; Helen Kilgore, Cisco Senior Citizens; Elna Knotgrass, Eastland County Head Start; Virginia Rich, Eastland County Multipurpose Center.

Eastland - Bobbie Acker, Eastland Senior Citizens; Laverne Allgood, Centennial Memorial Library; Evelyn West, Centennial Memorial Library.

Gorman — Wynogene Smith, Gorman I.S.D.

Ranger-Opal Bunton, Ranger Senior Citizens; Eva Stroud, Ranger Senior Citizens.

Rising Star — Georgia Hennessey, Rising Star

Callahan County Baird — W.B. Gibbs, Baird Housing Authority; Lucibel Manion, Callahan County Nutrition; G.H. Red, City of Baird; John Steely, Baird Housing Authority.

Clyde — Lucinda Bogard, Clyde Public Library; Evelyn Gillit, Callahan County Nutrition. Cross Plains - Bille

Barnett, Cross Plains Multi-Purpose Center; Juanita Thornton, Cross Plains Public Library.

The Green Thumb program began in 1965 with only 280 participants in four states. It was founded by the National Farmers Union as part of President Lyndon B. Johnson's 'War on Poverty'. It was originally designed to use the 'green thumbs' of older, rural Americans to beautify the nation's parks and highways hence the name.

Green Thumb quickly expanded into many other fields. Today it serves more than 18,000 enrollees in 44 states and Puerto Rico. Enrollees operate computers, tutor students, teach skilled trades and crafts, deliver meals to the home-bound, give home health services and day care, work in Senior Citizens groups and much more.

Green Thumb's mission remains the same: (1) to improve the social and economic condition of older Americans by promoting employment and training, and (2) to provide essential community services, especially in rural areas.

The term 'enrollees' is used for workers who participate in the program, and 'Host Agencies'

POINTS TO PONDER

by Bill Reed, Pastor

Jesus was a firm be- itself. Or think about God liever in prayer! His life was saturated in prayer. His life demonstrated that here is no limit to the . power of prayer except the limit of ones faith. What ever prayer has come to mean in our society, in the life of Jesus it was to tap into the resources that are available to people of faith.

Jesus' teachings on prayer are seldom taken seriously unless we want something. The vast difference between our ordinary prayers and what is ones mind with God one said about it in scripture must forget oneself and indicates that we have come to a place where we also may think prayer is just a crutch. For an example in IThessalonians it is suggested that you "pray without ceasing."

What does it meat to pray without ceasing. One can't go around praying all the time; there's work to be done. You can't get down on your knees and uncomfortable. A person doesn't need to do that to pray with out ceasing. You and I can pray without ceasing by having our thoughts constantly filled with God. To say the name of "God" is a prayer in or Jesus as we are doing some mundane task. To pray without ceasing is to keep your mind focus on

When ones mind is focused on God the results is a right attitude toward life. Think about it feelings of depression, rejection and other negative Take your family to emotions comes from a wrong attitude about life. 'avenue to an effective It is usually what people say or do that effects our emotional state.

Therefore in order to fill offer prayers for other people. A self-centered life is ineffectual. If you reach out to other people, and pray for other people, then enough of those prayers will cling to you and transform your life.

Also you and I have the right to pray for ourselves. Everybody ought to pray for themselves. Jesus set the example. But then we pray, it makes people need to pray for ourselves properly. We will not fill our minds with the God's resources if we only pray for a few minutes in church. Fill your mind with God, fill your minutes with God. Then, you will be praying without ceasing.

when you least expect it

Live with God. Pray without ceasing. Spend 10 minutes of each waking hour in prayer this week. You will soon know a joy in your life, and you will unleash the power of heaven in ways you had never experienced before. church this Sunday the begins there.

Dee introduced Ileane Beck who brought the devotional from Exudus 12:2 and Issiah 18:19 and 35:1; emphasis on starting a new year as the two classes are combines. Ileane also read a poem "We Cannot Merely Pray," as she stressed that we have to turn things over to God each and every day. Sometimes we think we are too busy to pray, but God opens doors and we must invite Him in to share our joys and our heartaches. Virginia Kennedy opened the business meeting and Mary Huling offered the prayer for our friends and classmates, some seriously ill.

NOTICE OF COMPARABLE TAX RATES AND REVENUES

The legislature has enacted a statute on school funding to comply with a court mandate enforcing the state constitution. Under prior statutes (SB 1) the tax rate for last year provides $4,128 per student in state and local revenues. Under this statute (SB 351) that same rate now provides $4,482 per student in state and local revenues.

State law only requires a minimum tax rate of $0.8659 for county education districts. State law does not require a school district to adopt additional taxes. Neither does state law require a school district to adopt a tax rate that maximizes the receipt of state funds.

The board of trustees of the Ranger Independent School District hereby gives notice that it is considering the adoption of a tax rate of $0.34332 that will provide $4,354 per student in state and local revenues.
