Eastland County Law Enforcement Association Held Monthly Meeting

The Eastland County Law Enforcement Association held a well attended monthly meeting.

Association president, Judge J. V. Heyser presided over the meeting and many guests were present including members of the Eastland County Crime Stoppers. After the minutes were read and approved, the program was given over to Terry Edwards, spokesman for Crime Stoppers, who then explained how the organization works.

Terry explained that Crime Stoppers is a nonprofit organization, made of a board of concerned citizens who unite to aid the Eastland County Sheriff's Office and other law enforcement agencies.

Their desire is to gain crime solving information by offering monetary reward for that information. All rewards given by Crime Stoppers are given for information only. Not for giving testimony under oath in court, securing or guaranteeing a conviction, becoming involved in criminal activities to gain further information or physically seizing a suspect and bringing him to law enforcement custody.

Rewards are only given reward, and remain to those who did not actually help commit the crime, even if that person has a criminal history.

Terry said, "Offering money for a reward might make a criminal turn in his buddy."

Not A Good Time To Be Out Of A Job

"It is good to know that the state's unemployment rate is slightly below the national average, but it is. not much comfort because the margin is so slight," Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers said today as the Texas Employment Commission released the state's jobless statistics.

The Texas monthly unemployment rate was placed at 6.3 percent, down from 6.89 percent last month, and just lower than the national (actual) rate of 6.5 percent.

Nabers also pointed out that the current rate is still higher than the 5.9 percent of one year ago.

The Ranger Junior College Southern Belles performed to a large crowd Saturday during the 10th annual Roaring Ranger Days Celebration. The Belles, under the direction of Traci Oliphint, astounded the crowd with an exceptional routine, performed to the music of "Tie A Yellow Ribbon." The music was provided by Ranger Junior College Band, under the direction of Bob Johnson.

The Band, which boasts 26 very talented musicians, began their 1991 marching season during the Peanut Bowl last Saturday. During that performance, The Ranger Band, proved beyond a shadow of a doubt, which group was in control of the musical show.

Four local talents are highlighted this week:

During high school, Terri Kay was voted Outstanding Bandsmen of the Week, Band Sweetheart, and Outstanding Drum Major. She is currently a member of the percussion section, but is talented on the flute, piccolo, oboe and saxophone.

* Sheri Thomas, daughter of Alan and Marilyn Thomas, is a 1991 graduate of Ranger High School. During high school, Sheri was awartded All District and All State honors in band, competed in State Solo and Ensemble competition and was voted Outstanding Drum Major. Sheri currently plays bass drum, but is talented on the clarinet, which she played for 9 years.

EASTLAND

EASTLAND IS VERY fortunate to have Charlie Paul Williams and his Boot and Shoe Service on the north side of the courthouse square. Not every town has a master repairer of boots, shoes, belts and purses like him.

Of the leathers, cow, excited over having her horse, deer, pig, he liked cow leather the best, for it is the most common grandparents on Friday leather used in repair

Charlie Paul's grandfather was in the leather repair business, so was his father John Forest Williams, who had a shop on the west side of the square in Eastland in 1945, when he retired he sold the business to Charlie Paul in 1958 and then in 1968 he moved the business to its present location on the north side of the square. So the old adage 'like father, like son' is sometimes true, about as true as 'the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and the way to a woman's heart is through her sole.' I asked Charlie Paul if he had to go to a special school for his work and he told me 'no', that his dad trained him and from experience you learn how to do and what not to do. He belongs to no fraternal order of fellow leather workers but does get a magazine called 'Shoe Service Institute.'

Iasked him if he ever planned to retire and he said 'no'. Then I asked him, 'Do you have someone to take your place should you retire?' He replied, 'No one.' Then I asked, "Do you have young people in town that would like to be trained in leather work?' He said, 'No

Charlie Paul does have a son, Howard Ray who followed in his father's footsteps, he has a leather repair business in Comanche. His other son, Steve Allen, works as a meat cutter for Kroger's in Brownwood.

One of the things threatening the shoe repair business is plastic shoes and also the continued cost of leather.

When asked if he enjoyed his work, he replied 'Yes', and 'I plan to do so as long as I can'.

When I asked Charlie Paul about advice he would offer anyone going into this business, he said, 'He ought to be a machinist and a mechanic.'

Another headache in the business is the computer, sometimes it takes from 60 to 90 days to get your order filled. He told an experience with the Nocona Belt Company when they were too slow getting the order filled, he would contact Miss Enid Justice and she saw that the order was filled immediately. Miss Enid's father was a boot maker at Spanish Fort on the Red River not far from Nocona, and when I was minister of Central Christian Church in Nocona 1949-1953, Miss Enid was one of my gracious friends, the last time I visited her was 1988 when I went to the 100th anniversary of the church there organized in 1888, and the church building erected in 1894. She has since passed away. Charlie Paul didn't give me his name, but he told

This week Hope has produced his 500th fishing report.

'called' in by telephone to the San Antonio Express-News on Jan. 12, 1982, who sent it to the Associated Press in Dallas who then distributed it to the major daily papers. With news services producing many times what the media could possibly use every day, the fishing report made no great ripples, Hope said.

The first report included 10 lakes, about 250 words. When it increased to 500 words AP cautioned about keeping it short.

The report has come a long way since then. With a standardized format, more lakes gradually were added despite the limit. The fishing report has grown to today with about 90 fishing holes, including saltwater, and some 4,000-5,000 words per week. Requests to add lakes continue to come in.

'When the fishing is good or extremely bad, your fishing reporter has a hard time finding anyone to get a report from,' Hope said. 'Most civic minded types would like to have their local lake publicized, but not everyone is so generous. One fisherman, in strong terms, did not want a fairly small, but good producing lake, on the report because he didn't want additional fisherman and the competition.'

Since June 1986, Hope has produced the fishing report weekly, including holidays. (Hope is probably the only person who would work on a holiday to put out a fishing re-

Sales Tax Permit Fee To Be Abolished October 1

"New businesses that are scheduled to open their doors on or after October 1 and have already paid the $25 sales tax permit fee, will have their money refunded," State Comptroller John Sharp says. "The same applies to existing businesses that have already filed to have their sales tax permit renewed on or after October 1."

The refunds coincide with the announcement that the annual $25 sales tax filing fee paid to the Comptroller's Office is "Not only will the $25 fee be abolished, but we're also going to issue a sales tax permit to a business for an indefinite period of time. mit fee abolished. "They felt all along that it was inappropriate to ask them to pay a fee for the privilege of collecting sales tax for the state," Moore said.

"Since it was first enacted by the legislature in 1987, the $25 annual sales tax permit fee has generated more mail from angry business people than any issue handled by this agency in the last 20 years," Sharp said.

"Hundreds upon hundreds of business owners were mad that they had to pay a $25 fee every year to collect taxes for the State of Texas. It didn't make any sense to me either, but that was the law-a law that needed changing," he said.

"While the fee generated substantial state revenue estimated at $12.6 million in 1992 and $14 million in 1993—it also generated more animosity among Texas business people toward state government than you can place a dollar value on," Sharp said.

Also eliminated is the requirement that sales tax permits be renewed annually. Beginning October 1, the permits will only be canceled if a tax-payer reports no sales or taxable purchases to the state for a year's time, or if the business does not file its sales tax returns and remit the taxes it collected to the state.

Constitutional Amendments

by Senator Bob Glasgow

Continuing in an explanation of the Constitutional amendments that will be decided on November 5, this week let's look at Propositions 7 through

Ned

Early voting for the November 5th election will begin on October 16. I hope that all of those who are registered to vote will do so. Changes to our State's Constitution have an impact on all of us. It is also important to have a clear understanding of the issues in order to make an informed choice.

PROPOSITION NUM-BER SEVEN: "To allow the board of trustees of Statewide public retirement system to invest funds of the system in a manner that the board considers prudent."

This proposed amendment removes the Constitutional restriction on State retirement systems from making real estate investments. Under current law, investments of State retirement systems

Attorney General's opinion, does not include real estate. The amendment would not impact the provisions of law that hold retirement board members to an established standard of prudence regarding investment decisions.

Arguments for: Investments in real estate will of the Legislature." allow retirement systems a greater diversity in investment portfolios, and guard against downturns in the stock and bond markets. Other State funds have been invested in real estate, and have not encountered investment problems. The Legislature retains its ability to limit investment authority by general law, and could impose additional restrictions on real estate investment author-

Arguments against: Real estate investments can be speculative, and investment managers should not be allowed to take unnecessary risks with pension funds. Many banks, savings and loans, are restricted in their and private investors investments options to have gone bankrupt due "such securities as the to bad real estate loans, board may consider pru- and easing the troubles of dent." The definition of real estate title holders "securities," under an who may have suffered financial difficulties is not an appropriate function of State government.

PROPOSITION NUM-BER 8: "Authorizing voters of this State to consider State debt questions in the form of ballot propositions that must clearly describe the amounts, purposes, and source of payment of the debt only after approval of the propositions by a twothirds vote of each house

This amendment would allow the Legislature to create State debt through a proposal to the voters for approval rather than by constitutional amendment. State debt is issued through General Obligation bonds, that are backed by the full faith and credit of the State of Texas. Under this amendment, State debt would be authorized by a joint resolution requiring at least two-thirds approval of the membership of each house of the Legislature. The election could be held on any date, so long as adequate notice is provided the voters. The ballot proposal would be issue patents for certain method of repayment of the debt. In order to pass, the debt proposal would require approval by the voters.

Arguments for: The process proposed by this Constitutional amendment requires the very same legislative and voter approval to create State debt as the current system of amending the Constitution. It requires more information be provided the voters than is currently made available. It eliminates the need to add further detail bond the provisions to Constitution.

Arguments against: Disclosing more information regarding the nature and repayment of State debt can be accomplished without eliminating the current Constitutional amendment process. Bond debt authorization should be included in the Constitution in order to provide a complete record for posterity.

PROPOSITION NUM-BER NINE: "Authorizing the Commissioner of the General Land Office to required to describe the public free school fund amount, purpose and land held in good faith

Save $8 on Great

Christmas Portraits

under color of title for at least 50 years."

A "land patent" is an original land title granted by the State. In 1900, all unpatented Texas land not granted to individuals or dedicated for other purposes reverted to the School Land Fund. Some person have recently learned that land they thought they had purchased years ago and on which they had been paying taxes does not belong to them, but rather to the School Land Fund.

Constitutional amendment is necessary in order to allow the State to issue these persons a patent for the land. In order to qualify for a patent, a person would have to prove to the School Land Board that they had acquired the land without knowing that the title was defective and that they or any predecessors have held a recorded deed to the land and paid all taxes for at least 50 years as of January 1, 1991.

Arguments for: This would provide a means for a handful of people to gain clear title for land which they purchased in good faith, who otherwise would lose their land because of an oversight or error made 50 years before. The requirements are tight enough to ensure no one could take advantage of the State and apply for undeserved land patents. Arguments against: The land in question legally belongs to the State, and this amendment would effectively be making a gift of State lands. The eligibility requirements are too strict and would only apply to a small number of landholders, excluding those in similar, but not identical, circumstances. PROPOSITION NUM-BER 10: "Authorizing the Legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxes certain property of a nonprofit corporation that supplies water or provides wastewater service."

This amendment would exempt property owned by nonprofit water supply corporations or nonprofit wastewater service corporations from property taxes. The exempted property would have to be necessary to the supply of services, and the nonprofit corporation would have to provide for the transfer of these assets to another nonprofit water or wastewater supply corporation if it were to dissolve itself.

Arguments for: Exem tion from taxation wi encourage the formatic of these nonprofit corp rations and spur develo ment of water resource and help reduce nonpoi source pollution. The corporations are simil to municipal and coun water and wastewat facilities, and should e

exemptions. The tax on increases the cost of ser ices to consumers. Arguments against Exemption from property taxes will benefit non profit corporations at the expense of commercial water and wastewater enterprises that are competing for the same customers. Local governments are experiencing decreasing revenues and increasing expenses, thus they can't afford to grant special tax breaks.

One of Gov. Ann Richards' elite appointees drew an election opponent last week, a former energy advisor to President George Bush.

The match-up, pitting insider against insider, signals how partisan the '92 elections should be, as Republicans seek to regain turf lost by the footin-the mouth gubernatorial race of Clayton Williams.

Barry Williamson, a Dallas Republican, announced he is a candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission seat now held by Lena Guerrero, a former state representative from Austin.

The governor named Guerrero to the post a few months ago, apparently to reward her as top campaign advisor, because she had no energy industry experience.

Shortly after her ap- nio. pointment, Guerrero underscored her OJT (onthejob training) status by years ago by then-Gov. asking independent oilmen to bear with her while to the High Court last she learned the business. year.

Inexperience Targeted

Williamson targeted her inexperience last week when he said, "I'm the only candidate who will be in the energy business after the election; a commissioner if he wins, an oilman if he loses.

Williamson called for a national energy policy, and Guerrero echoed by promising her staff will develop one in the coming months. Williamson, is a son-inlaw of prominent Midland oilman Bobby Holt and former director of the Office of Mineral Management in the U.S. Department of Interior.

Another Republican, former Austin mayor Carole Keeton Rylander, is expected to join the race. Her candidacy would particularly hurt Guerrero, not just because she would draw votes from the same home base of Austin, but as an alternative ers believe Rylander would run a more effective race against Guerrero (by removing the gender issue) and there has been an effort to talk Williamson out of the race.

> GOP Justice Rapped

Gov. Richards and Secretary of State John Hannah joined with some lawmakers who think Texas Supreme Court Justice John Cornyn should give up his lesser job as an outside administrative judge in San Anto-

Opponents say it will reduce tax revenues in some communities.

Texas Rural Water Association is a statewide tradeassociation representing more than 575 nonprofit water suppliers across the state. In promoting Proposition 10, TRWA claims that unequal tax treatment under current law translates into higher water rates for families and businesses in rural communities.

"About 2.5 million rural Texans are served by nonprofit water suppliers," TRWA Executive DirectorTom Duck said. "In their absence, the state would surely have to finance the provision of water and wastewater service in these areas. As we see it, nonprofit suppliers meet a need that is
