A Sonoran of Old Days Writes of Friends In Devil's River Country

The Devil's River News received the following in a letter from D. F. Patterson, a former Sonoran, who lives in Blue Mound, Kansas. We wish to pass it on to other Sonorans and Sutton Countians, since it really should, considering its contents, have been addressed to the "old timers" of this section of the country.

"It is forty years now this spring since Mrs. Patterson and I went to Sonora from the little town where we now live. We spent six happy years there. That was in the early days of Sonora, when the Devil's River country was in the making. We met and learned to know and love some of the finest people it has ever been our privilege to know in the world. While it is thirty-three years since our return to Kansas, we have never lost interest in that country and its people.

We have made many trips back there, and somehow always felt like we were coming back home and were among friends. Of course many of our old-time friends are gone, yet the sons and daughters of many of them remain who have carried on in the development of Sonora and the Devil's River country in a mighty fine way. On our various visits it has

Dr. Cox Urges Control of House Flies

Austin, Texas, May 13.—Leaving behind wherever it goes a trail of sickness, suffering, and death, the common housefly has made its annual descent upon this community and is at present trying to force its unwelcome presence into every home and business establishment.

Advise received from Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, as to how best to combat this menace to public health among our citizens, states that complete elimination of houseflies is imperative because typhoid fever, tuberculosis, summer complaint, cholera, intestinal disease, and many other serious ailments are spread from person to person by the visit of the housefly.

"The most effective measure for control is to prevent breeding," Dr. Cox said. "Flies breed in filth and the removal and destruction of all waste matter will deprive the fly of a breeding place. One female fly lays from 600 to 1000 eggs during its life time and in a season which begins in spring and runs through into the fall of the year, she and her descendants will number countless thousands.

"Destroy all breeding places for flies," Dr. Cox advised. "Manure piles, garbage, and other organic filth furnish the required warmth and moisture necessary for the pagation of the fly. Inasmuch as they not only breed in filth but frequent such unclean places as open privy pits, it should not be necessary to urge that flies be kept from contact with food, drinks, and kitchen utensils."

The State Health Officer urged that all windows, doors, and porches be screened so that flies cannot gain entrance to homes and business establishments. The destruction of breeding places and proper screening can eliminate the danger of the fly in homes and public eating places.

H. C. Atchison, Jr., Sutton County agent, is attending the bi-district meeting of county agents, which is being held in San Angelo today.

"Hey, Mister, You Dropped a Watt!"

REDDY: What on earth are you going to do with all those candles?
MAN: Light my home. I'm cutting down expenses.
REDDY: H-h-u-m-m. Then you need about 500 pounds of candles a month to give you the same kind of good light. D'you know what that'd cost?
MAN: Nope. But I guess it'd save me money.
REDDY: Well, let's do some figuring. That many candles would cost you about $200—
MAN: Wow! I couldn't afford that. My monthly electric bill is only three dollars or so.
REDDY: Well, that's just about average. But remember that only about 85c of it goes for light. The rest pays for electricity to run your radio and refrigerator—
MAN: Say, that's not so much when you come to think of it.
REDDY: Right! Electricity's cheaper than it's ever been. You're getting about twice as much for your money as just 10 or 15 years ago.
MAN: How can that be? My bill hasn't changed.
REDDY: Maybe not. Think of the bigger and better lamps you're using and the electric appliances you've added. Fifteen years ago, did you have an electric refrigerator?
MAN: No-o-o.
REDDY: Radio? Electric mixer? Air conditioner?
MAN: No... Say, how come I get so much more electricity for about the same money I used to pay?
REDDY: That's easy. Experience. Training. Well-balanced business methods.

MAN: I don't get it.
REDDY: It's like this. The men and women who run the West Texas Utilities know their job. That job is to give you the best possible service at the lowest possible cost. And they're doing it! Today—when most everything else is going up—ELECTRICITY IS STILL CHEAP!

Son of a gun

War, politics, even the weather, must take a back-seat these days in the minds and interests of Sonora citizens who are concerned with a far deeper and more important problem. That is, in two words, Victory Gardens. The bets, boasts and predictions of each individual about his garden overshadow predictions of when the war will be won, bets on Roosevelt's running for a fourth term, or boasts on who got the biggest rain this week.

—($! * 1/2 lb * $)—

L. W. Elliott, John Lee Nisbet, H. V. Stokes and E. D. Stringer were seen, while having their sixteenth cup of morning coffee the other day, deeply engaged in what appeared to be a very serious conversation. Son-of-a-gun was naturally curious, these four good gentlemen representing, respectively, lawyer, president of the Lions Club, mayor and school superintendent. Surely a development of great import was brewing.

A little eavesdropping, however, revealed the disappointing fact that they were merely arguing over the merits of their victory gardens, each contending that his garden would far surpass the negligible, scrawny output of each of the other's gardens.

And another item on V-Gardens: Hissoner, the Mayor, seeing some fine, sturdy tomato plants in an Angelo store the other day, said, "Give me a dozen of those plants. How much are they?" The proprietor answered, "They are twenty-five cents each." Sez the Mayor, "Give me one." Anyway it was a good plant, as it is now bearing fruit "big as a golf ball."

Mrs. M. G. Shurley heard the other day that potatoes will produce more when the vines are pinched off at the ground in the early stages. She is going to try it now. The hail did the pinching for her.

Of all the gardens in Sonora last year, Dr. Tom White's easily won the blue ribbon, but this year there is real competition. We have large gardens, small ones and what have you? They will not only fill the table this summer, but it is planned that every excess pound be put away for future use. The Community Canning Kitchen will open June 1, according to present plans.

The crop of "arm chair generals" has developed many-fold during the past few weeks. The big question being solved right now, by locals of this classification, is, "where and when the invasion". Rather than to have to read the papers a few weeks hence, just drop in at the Club Cafe now and get a preview. The good thing about this is that these battles are being won with very little bloodshed. In a terrific battle the other day Dr. Howell split an infinitive, but no other casualties were reported.

Mr. Ranchman, don't forget the Lions' Auction Sale on June 23. This is a pleasant and profitable way to solve community civic and charity problems. Plan now to save at shearing time something nice, something that you can be proud of. You will get a lot more pleasure out of your giving by putting more pep into it. People of Sutton County found long ago that pulling together is the one way to solve our local problems. Plan now. The date is June 23, 1943.

We offer the prediction that many babies will be named for John L. Lewis this year, but we feel that the names will sound something like this—John Lewis Schickelgruber or Johnnie Lewis Yamamoto.

This war is the great equalizer. It is making dupes out of here-to-fore big men, and it is making big men out of unheard-of individuals. It takes times like these to prove quality. Some people just can't keep from putting "I" before "we". Most of us felt all along that John L. would sacrifice his country for personal gain. Now it is universally known.

The people of Sonora gave Herbert Mears and his picture on hunting in Alaska a warm reception, but he gave us a cold display. Most of the scenes were filmed in below-zero weather, in some instances up to 76 degrees below, and it was very pretty and interesting. Mears injected into the program much of his own wit and personality, which is a well-known characteristic of the Mears family.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS by BOYCE HOUSE

Texas has many large and medium-size cities—but there was a time when the third best "one-night show town" in the State was a place with only 6,000 inhabitants—Eastland.

C. U. Connelley, founder of the town, used some of his oil wealth along in 1919 to build what was perhaps the biggest and finest theater between Fort Worth and El Paso. After the boom, the showhouse came under the management of A. C. Stalcup, an alert showman, who capitalized on the seating capacity and the network of good roads that linked Eastland to many nearby towns: Cisco and Ranger were only 10 miles and Breckenridge, Brownwood and Abilene were not more than 80 minutes away.

The first big road show to play at the Connelley was "Up in the Clouds"—and your columnist saw the attraction from the very top row in the gallery—that was almost being "up in the clouds!"

Stars whose names were famous a generation ago trod the boards of the Eastland playhouse. Margaret Anglin appeared in "The Woman of Bronze." Willie and Eugene Howard—they're still Broadway favorites—headed a big musical revue. Raymond Hitchcock, one of the great comedians of all time, brought "Hitchy-Koo."

He had attended the Rotary luncheon at noon, and then that night stood in front of the stage as the audience was filing in and greeted the mayor and other leading citizens by name. They were flattered, of course, and the crowd applauded. Afterward, it was learned that the secretary of the club was seated only a foot from Hitchy and murmured the names as the celebrities entered!

The biggest rival of Ziegfeld's Follies came to town—the New York Winter Garden's Passing Show, and that afternoon the bankers and oil men loaded the 50 lovely girls in automobiles and took them for a tour of the oil field.

Capacity audiences thrilled to the melodies of "Blossom Time", laughed at Lasses White's minstrel and chilled at such mysteries as "The Bat" and "The Cat and the Canary."

Scenery, costumes and companies of these road shows were the same as were seen in such metropolises as St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco. The size of the stage and its equipment were such that elaborate lighting effects were possible. Broadway was brought into the land of derricks and mesquite.

All of this was many years ago. Memories cling about the old stage and perhaps it has ghosts of light-footed dancers, glorious-voiced singers and gay, glamorous women.

Shine Philips of Big Spring, druggist-author of the humorous and successful book, "Big Spring", sends one of the letterheads of George McIntire of Sterling City. It reads:

Garden Hints

BY H. C. ATCHISON, JR.

Flea Beetles and Flea Hoppers

Did you notice small, round holes in the leaves of the green beans or mustard greens while walking through your Victory garden this morning? The holes looked as though a charge of small shot had landed in the garden. Well... if you saw such holes then the flea beetle has moved in on you. The beetle is NOT a chummy fellow. He's very shy and you won't see him often. But if you observe a small brown, black or striped insect... that's the unwelcome boarder in your garden. Another characteristic which will help you identify it. When disturbed it jumps like a flea.

The beetle is very fond of young seedlings. So it's important to watch these pests. If they get a head start, they may destroy a large number of your garden plants before you suspect the cause. They feed on the top side of the leaves, and go after cabbage, turnips, tomatoes, eggplants, and potatoes as well as beans, mustard greens and okra.

The preferred method of control is dusting affected plants with rotenone sprays or dusts which have been available locally. If that isn't available, dusting the seedling plants with cryolite or calcium arsenate will do the job. After that use a dust or spray of pyrethrum. If you cannot get these materials, then dust the plants thoroughly with air-slaked lime or Bordeaux mixture. Repeat as often as is necessary. If it rains often you may have to do it five or six times to the situation well in hand. But keep after 'em.

For the control of the flea hopper, which is damaging some local gardens, use Blackleaf "40" or rotenone spray or dust. This insect like the flea beetle, is very small and not often noticed until severe damage has been done to plants. The flea hopper is either white, gray or green, and can be seen jumping from plants when disturbed. This insect sucks the leaves of plants until the leaves lose their green color, dry up and fall off the plant. Several applications of poison are necessary for the control of the flea hopper.

Caution: Cryolite or calcium arsenate are poisonous to human beings and should not be used on the edible parts of plants when they are to be eaten within twenty days after applications. Even then the vegetables should be thoroughly washed. The other insecticides mentioned can be used with safety any time.

Cox Warns of T. B. Symptoms

Austin, May 6.— Urging the importance of early diagnosis as the surest avenue of recovering from tuberculosis, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, declares that the danger of this disease lies not so much in its virulence as in its stealthy attack.

"If a tuberculosis patient realized his plight in the earliest stages of the disease, immediate treatment could very likely save his life," Dr. Cox said.

The victim usually has sufficient warning of the onset of the disease, but all too frequently ignores them.

"The warning signs are usually noticeable enough to attract attention," Dr. Cox said. "A cough that persists, loss of weight, easy tiring—if any of these symptoms are present, delay in seeking proper medical attention only lessens the chance of arresting the disease."

"It is the better part of valor, in the presence of such symptoms, to seek the advice of the family physician without delay," Dr. Cox asserted. "Early diagnosis and early treatment are the real foes of tuberculosis. To deprive oneself of their immeasurable results at best in a long period of treatment, and all too frequently in premature death."

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

Almost everybody's figuring what things'll be like after the war. I talked about that today with Jeb Crowell. Jeb—he's a veteran of the last War—says: "One thing's sure, Joe. The boys this time won't return and find what we came back to."

Then he went on to mention Prohibition... and I ought to say right here that Jeb's a man of moderation... a glass of beer or two is all he'll ever take. It was the principle of the thing that bothered him.

"Passing a law behind our backs," he says, "was violatin' just what we were fightin' for. The very principles we fought for in 1776. Law-makin' without representation is one of the most undemocratic things we can do."

I guess we're all agreed on that. Most folks admit we made a mistake once... but the boys who are fighting this war can be pretty sure we won't pull anything like that again!

FAIR WARNING

The time for talk should be ended, and action, definite and conclusive, should be next on the program of the tragic show starring John L. Lewis, dictator of the United Mine Workers. The country is fed up with Lewis' theatrical but dangerous stunting for the edification of his dues-paying followers. This nation wants no unnecessary hindrances today in its life and death struggle.

If the Gallup Poll showing 86 percent of the people favoring legislation to outlaw strikes were not enough, the same agency's tabulation last week showed 64 percent of war workers, including union members favoring a law banning war industry strikes. When organized labor itself gets fed up, even its star performer may well watch his step.

The Connally anti-strike bill, which had lain dormant in the Senate since early in the war, passed last week by a vote of 63-16. And certain lobbyists had had the idea that it didn't matter what stringent bills the House passed; labor chiefs could get them pigeon-holed in the Senate labor committee.

John L. Lewis himself unwittingly helped pass the Texan's bill out of the Senate. He slapped himself in the face.

Legitimate and responsible labor, more interested in the welfare of the nation and the average working man than in any particular labor leader, has been having John L. Lewis nightmares lately. But it is beginning to wake up now.

ANOTHER WEST TEXAN IN NIMITZ' FOOTSTEPS

West Texans has another representative now in the high offices of the U. S. Navy here in Washington. He's Lt. Comd. Charles C. Kirkpatrick of San Angelo, just named flag lieutenant, or aide, to Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet.

"At 35, he's one of the outstanding killer-dillers of all service arms and holds three Navy Crosses and the Army's Distinguished Service Cross," says the Washington News. A sub commander, he sank 11 war and merchant ships, some of them in Japan's own front yard. Commander Kirkpatrick tells me that Texans predominate in the Pacific fleets. One reason is that they have faith in the top man of the navies fighting Japan—Admiral Chester C. Nimitz of Fredericksburg, Texas, who took over after Pearl Harbor.

IMPORTED LABOR

Lt. Col. Jay Taylor, deputy war food administrator, is in charge of the farm labor program now. Just back from a tour over the country explaining his program—which still has some red tape—this Texan advises that a farmer or ranchman desiring to obtain Mexican laborers should first of all contact his county agent or his closest office of the United States Employment Service.

TEXANS FORTUNATE

Washington service stations today were about out of gasoline again. Washington would pay a billion dollars for those West Texas oil fields.

Butter Sellers To Register Sales

According to information received by the local rationing board from the San Angelo district OPA office, persons selling butter must register with the rationing board between May 3 and May 14 as a primary distributor. At the time of registration, he must furnish the board a list of persons to whom he has sold butter and the points he has received for butter sold on the basis of eight points per pound.

In the future, they are to furnish a monthly report of their customers and the surrender points to cover.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKoun

WHEN Colonel Darryl Zanuck was in a plane returning from Africa, where he had been since the first days of the American occupation, a fellow passenger sitting next to him remarked, "I understand you've just come back from the Tunis Front. How was it?"

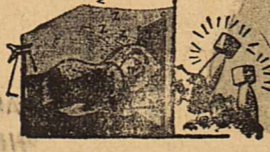

DARRYL ZANUCK

Zanuck made his reply in two words: "Good show," he said. "Good show" was an expression he had learned from the English in Algiers—a term which they use for every out-of-the-ordinary event, from a kitchen wagon that's broken down, to a particularly bloody battle. The Yanks have been quick to pick up this bit of British understatement.

Colonel Zanuck in private life (which he has very little of nowadays) is head of the Twentieth Century Fox Studios. Since Pearl Harbor, he has flown over 100,000 miles in the services of the United States Army Signal Corps, including four flights across the Atlantic, two flights to the Aleutian Islands, and the expedition to North Africa, where he went as head of the unit sent to film America's fight there. Now he has authored "Tunis Expedition," the first book out on the battle for North Africa being waged by the American Expeditionary Force.

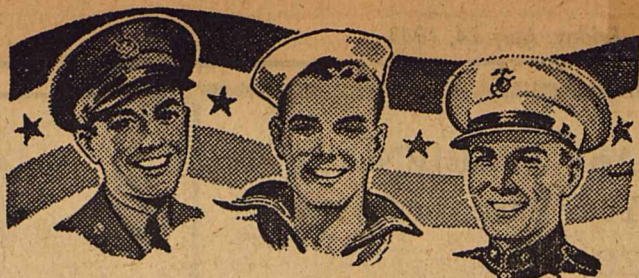

On one occasion, Colonel Zanuck tells, he unwittingly slept all night in a hotel while two unexploded 500-pound bombs lodged next door. Not only the hotel but the whole surrounding block had been evacuated, and the next morning when the gendarme in charge saw Zanuck wandering sleepily out of the front door, he seemed unsure whether to arrest him or give him the Croix de Guerre for bravery.

The official story of the British Commandos will shortly be told in a book titled "Combined Operations," which is to be distributed by the Book-of-the-Month Club in June, along with "Winter's Tales" by the Danish Baroness, Isak Dinesen. "Combined Operations" will be published anonymously, though the author is Hilary St. George Saunders who also wrote "Battle for Britain" and "Bomber Command," two other books concerning the British phase of the war. Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of Britain's Combined Operations, will write the preface.

Virginia Paxton, wife of an American correspondent, tells some amusing incidents about their early experiences in South America in her book, "Penthouse in Bogota." On their first morning her husband consulted his Spanish dictionary and then proudly announced he was equipped to order breakfast. He gave his order to the waiter, who looked bewildered and then vanished. Eventually the manager came to their rescue. It seemed that the young man, instead of requesting fried eggs, as he had thought, had been demanding that the waiter bring him two orders of "fried Thursdays."

When you know something of interest about a member of the armed force from the Sonora area, write or telephone us. We'll appreciate it and the men in uniform will be glad to hear about their friends and buddies in other parts of the world. This feature page will act as a clearing house for the activities of the service men, many of whom receive the News.

Nelson Merck, writes "Was sure glad to hear from you, and I think of my old Sonora friends so much. I sure would like to meet up with some of my old buddies over here.

I was through Sonora before I left, and I saw lots of my friends and people that I knew. The town had changed a lot though. I was surprised to see that the town had built out past the school house.

The war does look better now. I believe it will be over this year, anyway I hope so. Well, I will close. Give my regards to my old friends."

Capt. Savell Lee Sharp writes from somewhere in the Southwest Pacific, "Today is Easter Sunday, but it might have been any other day as far as most of us were concerned. Things went on as usual. We had an air raid warning but never did see any planes, so I suppose it was a false alarm.

I still can't tell you where I am, outside of saying that I'm in the South Pacific. I can tell you a little about where I've been, and a little of what I've seen. As you probably guessed we came over on a ship, but never saw anything to be afraid of. We had one or two submarine scares, but didn't see any. Nevertheless it gave us a pretty good scare. About the most interesting things I saw in the ocean were the flying fish. They were very pretty, and some of them were good flyers. The main thing I'll remember tho, I think, was having to wash, bathe, etc., in salt water.

I'll tell you a couple of places I've been and you can look them up on your map. One place was the French island of New Caledonia. It was kind of pretty, but the set-up didn't appeal to me so much. Also I have been to the New Hebrides Islands mainly the one, Espiritu Santos, which is a very beautiful island. All the coconut plantations that you've heard of are just as pretty as you imagined. The climate isn't so bad either. Of course it's hot in the day, but it cools off at night until you need a blanket. However, it is late fall and nearly winter, and that may have something to do with it. One of the main things that made New Caledonia so bad and Espiritu Santos so wonderful was the fact that the latter had so few mosquitoes and the former had so darn many.

Speaking of mosquitoes, this place is full of them, but I think after we have been here a while we can get rid of most of them. It is hotter too than any place I have been."

Pfc. Odell "Stumpy" Odom writes, "I am dropping you a line to let you know that I am safe, sound and happy. The mosquitoes are bad and malaria is serious down here, but I hope I don't get it. We are pretty well settled down, and I like it so far, but it is only temporary. I will certainly be glad when we really settle down to business.

Our first sergeant and the postal clerk are telling their fish stories, and you know how big the fish are that guys miss, and all that stuff, well they are no different here.

We have crossed the equator. The only thing I need is soap and razor blades and I don't even need those too bad. I have a beard that is really rugged as all get out, and red as a turkey's snout. They have quite a fad around here for beards.

We can't say anything that may disclose our position so don't worry about me, and we will take care of ourselves the best way possible. We have an alert practically every night, and we miss quite a bit of sleep, but we can do without it just for a little while anyway. Nothing serious though has happened.

I haven't had any mail in over a month and that is the worst part.

It is dark now and I can hardly see what I am writing.

We have been working pretty hard here lately at least most of the guys have, but all I have done is check over some stuff, and see that it all comes ashore and to check off what does. No manual labor, just brain work.

Hope to spend Christmas at home, and I figure I will, at least I hope so.

There isn't a darn thing to write so will sign off for this time."

W. C. Gilmore, M1c, writes, "Tis Sunday afternoon, and it has been very much an afternoon of rest and relaxation. First I got a hair cut (crew type) then had a good cold shower, then clean clothes, and had some pictures taken. If they turn out alright I will send you one of how the well dressed man looks on this island.

The boys are all betting now when we might get back to the States. It's all a matter of guess, of course, and one is as good as another. So far I've only one bet up, and that is that we will eat Christmas dinner in the old U. S. A. Here's hoping I'm right.

Another busy week has gone by the way side. The time is slipping along so fast it is hard to realize we have been here for over five weeks now.

Yesterday afternoon we took a little holiday and had quite a scenic tour of the country surrounding our camp area. Every once in awhile I get to take scouting trips looking for materials to use in the shop, so that it makes it nice to have a change of scenery. There are lots of interesting places hereabouts.

The mosquitoes are terrible. Tell everybody hello for me."

Pvt. Harold Briscoe who is stationed at Camp Robinson, Arkansas, states, "We are almost finished with our training here, and are very busy. We are even working at night now.

I won't go to school until after this basic training is finished. I am pretty sure I will go to school but not for certain. I don't know where I will go from here. They are sending some of the boys from here to Camp Barkley in Abilene. I hope I get sent there before I go to school. We will start shipping out next week sometime.

We went into summer uniforms Saturday, and they are much cooler. It is certainly hot here now. We go out on night problems and most of the guys hide and go to sleep. We are going out again tonight.

We sure see good shows here and for only 15c. The Camel Caravan show was here night before last. It was a good show, but they didn't have any movie stars with them."

Pvt. J. R. Hudson, writes, "How does this find everybody? As for me, I'm swell and doing a little bit of everything. We are all doing swell and having a good time.

How is everything at home? As dead as usual, I guess, and maybe a little deader.

Well I can't think of anything to say so will quit."

Pvt. Paschal Odom who is in the Ranger Unit of the Army writes, "I have just started getting mail and I haven't gotten but four so far, but I got one from home so I am satisfied. I wrote Wayland Stubblefield, but haven't heard from him yet. I don't know where Nelson is, but maybe Wayland does.

I hope to see you all soon, but I doubt it. Tell everyone hello for me. I have to stop and go to chow."

Marine Pvt. Roy Cooper says, "How are all of you today, fine I hope. I am getting along great. I received a package for my birthday today. Sure was glad to get it.

You know it is hard to write a letter because there is nothing I can say. I have seen a good many of the boys that were in my platoon. I sure enjoyed seeing them again. Tell everyone hello for me."

Flight Officer Alan W. Saunders who is in India writes, "Well another day has gone and I am still here. I haven't done any flying since I wrote last. I was scheduled to go over, but developed engine trouble.

I went to town and bought some kerosene lanterns. We don't have any lights here. I am using them up to a native hut, all the women run inside and close the bamboo mat that they have for a door. Only the men stay outside. I got one family to come back out by giving all the men cigarettes, and giving them some for the women and girls. They soon saw I meant no harm, and they came outside. I got a picture of one of the girls weaving cloth. It is really a sight, watching them weave and dyeing cloth. One of them was raking thread and pulling it across some green herbs of some kind, and dyeing it green. One of the old men went in the hut and came out with a big silk worm, and cocoons and showed us how they took the cocoons and pulled them apart, and then made thread and then took the thread and made cloth. It was very interesting to watch. One of them wanted to give me a chicken for a gift, but I told him I couldn't use one, so he gave me a mello of some kind and some nuts which I took.

Well I will write later. I fly the morning and when we fly we get up at 3:30, so we have to turn in early."

Pvt. R. W. Hill, who is stationed at Mitchell Field, N. Y. states, "I am off K. P. now. We just have three days a month. It is not hard work anyway. I weigh about 225 or 230 pounds. I sure am fat. You can tell the army is not hurting me.

It looks like I'll never get a furlough. I could really use one about now.

We sure have some big planes here, I was up again last week. We went on another bombing mission. It sure is fun."

Seaman 2-c Vernon Cook writes from New Caledonia, "How is everything back home now?"

Marine Pvt. James D. Trainer, who is stationed in San Diego, California, spent several days here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Trainer.

Marine Pvt. Pat Brown, who is stationed at San Diego, Calif., visited here with his father, Jim Brown, for a few days.

Everything here is fine with the exception of rain, and I do mean rain. I'm not used to much rain this time of the year, but I am about to become that way down here.

I don't suppose my seabag has gotten there yet, but it should be there before long now. I didn't keep many clothes because I never need them down here. Especially my blues.

I have been working in the post office for the last few days, and it isn't a bad job at all. I am going to buy some stamps this afternoon and write some letters."

Ed. note-- Seaman Cook has been transferred to the Commandos.

Cpl. Herbert Speece, who is stationed at Randolph Field, writes, "With Easter a week behind, it has really settled down for some pre-summer weather. A fore-taste of what is to come in the next few months.

This afternoon we marched over to the rifle range and fired the sub-machine gun. It was quite interesting. I got 27 hits out of 28 which is about average for the targets we were using.

I have been thinking of trying to come up to Sonora for the past month, but they have me pretty much restricted on this pass business. I can hardly get off the sions. I was too busy to leave while field, much less take lengthy excursions. The last class was here, and now that I have time, I can't get a pass. Maybe I'll be out sooner or later.

I'm looking forward to the day when they open the swimming pools. They were to open April 15th, but they have been installing filter systems and haven't completed them as yet.

I finally put in my application for meteorology cadet the other day, and now they are trying to talk me into turning it down, but as yet I don't know much.

There is a "Home Talent" entertainment at Hangar "R" tonight, and I think I'll attend."

Lt. Charles "Bill" Caraway writes from somewhere in the southwest Pacific, "How is everything going at home? I am doing fine only I get a little lonesome now and then. Say, if you know any of the boy's APO numbers who are in the southwest Pacific, send them to me. I'll probably know where they are and I might be able to run into a few of them. Tell all hello for me and write often."

A LOOK AT THE BOOK
 BY DR. BOB JONES, JR.
 PRESIDENT OF BOB JONES COLLEGE
 Cleveland, Tennessee

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you" (Matthew 7:7). Asking presupposes the power of giving. No man asks another for something which he knows he is unable to grant. One does not riches of a poor man or food of a man who is hungry. No wise man asks a favor of one who is powerless to grant his request. Asking of God, we are making our request to the One who has power "to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think" (Ephesians 3:20). The man who rightly asks is the man who asks in faith, believing that God is able to grant and that God is willing to grant.
 The matter of prayer goes beyond asking, however. We are told to seek, and promised that in seeking we shall find. God sometimes expects us to seek for the answer to our prayer. We may even say he expects us to help Him to answer it. I have known young men who were studying for the ministry to pray the Lord to send them money to meet the needs of their educational expenses when they were too lazy to go out and make the effort to raise the money. It is good to ask the Lord to send, but it is better sometimes to pray, "Lord, direct me in my search and send me where I will find the thing which I desire." Some folks pray for a deepening of their spiritual life, yet never seek to find deeper spiritual life in earnest communion with the Lord and in study of His Word. Some pray for patience but never seek the tribulation which worketh patience.
 True prayer goes still further. "To him that knocketh it shall be opened" (Matthew 7:8), is the promise. Some people are not willing to knock and wait for the door to swing wide. They try to tear it open themselves or break it down. God in His own good time will remove the obstacles. When He is ready the door will open. Perfect prayer harnesses itself to the will of God. Perfect faith waits for the answer to come in His own way at His own time.

THE ASS THAT STARVES WITH HIS MASTER
 Both are hungry. For both there is not much promise of food. Why? Because they live in Greece.
 Because in Greece the Axis took every scrap of food and every source of food—and deliberately left the people, the dogs, and a few useless burros to starve and to die.
 Remember the farmer of Greece as you eat your Friday evening supper. Remember him the next day, as you market your produce. Remember—and buy Bonds. All the U. S. War Bonds that you can. Buy Bonds with every cent that you don't actually need to run your farm.
 Buying Bonds will not only help win the war, but will provide you with a nest-egg for the future. They are the best investment in the world today. They never sell for less than you paid for them. They increase in value every year. In ten years, they are worth a third more than you paid. And you can cash them any time after sixty days if you need the money. WAACS IN NORTH AFRICA—Allied unity was displayed recently in Algiers, North Africa, when American, British and Fighting French troops staged a Tri-Nations parade.
