Takes 14 New Ones on This Street!

In one small area in a certain American town, fourteen new Cadillacs were delivered during the early weeks of the recent spring.

One of the new owners gave a party for the other thirteen-presumably to discuss the virtues of their wonderful new cars.

We suspect it was a most congenial gatheringfor Cadillac owners have many splendid things in

First of all—taking them by and large—they are exceptional people. For the most part, they are men and women who have held to high standards of achievement for many years. They have a common feeling for the finer things in life. And they have a sound sense of values.

But-despite what so many mistakenly believethey are not necessarily blessed with an abundance of this world's goods. For a Cadillac is a practical car to own-and is a splendid selection for the family of moderate means.

The following established facts must surely prove this to be true:

-there are twenty-two models of other makes of American motor cars which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac!

-a Cadillac will travel many more miles on a gallon of gasoline than you could ever logically expect from a car of its size and stature!

-a Cadillac is so dependable and long-lived that it is just about as economical to service and maintain as any car you could buy!

-and, finally-according to authentic used car evaluations—a Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its cost at the time of resale than any other car built in America.

In view of all this, it is no cause for wonder that fourteen wise and practical people, residing in a single neighborhood, should have taken delivery of new Cadillacs during the fleeting weeks of a northern spring.

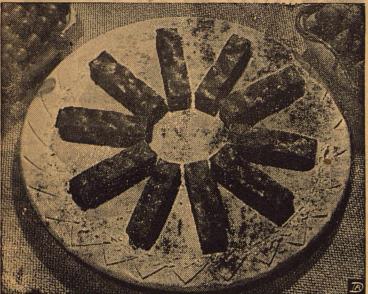

The wonder is that more people don't buy Cadillacs. For when a car combines so much quality and beauty and comfort and prestige-with such outstanding over-all practicality-it is a very wise choice for a very great many people.

Maybe it's the car for you. If you think it is, you are most cordially invited to come in and see us toda

Fruit Spice Bars

Include Fruit Spice Bars as a surprise for the lunch box "toter."

These nourishing bars are also a good answer to the after-school cry, "I'm hungry."

There's always a need for yummy cookies. The spicy goodness of Fruit Spice Bars has won many a special friend. Nuts and raisins add crunchiness and fruity flavor to these quickly prepared bars. You'll find these a welcome filler for the cookie jar.

Plan a surprise package each day to be tucked in the lunch box. Include something a bit different. Stick chunks of pineapple, cheese or small whole pickled beets on wooden picks. Wrap in waxed paper. Spiced nuts, chocolate bits, marshmallows — all are rewarding to hungry appetites. A morning of hard play and work calls for a lunch packed with plenty of food energy. Cookies designed to fit the season and appetite rate high on the totable list. There will be many requests for Fruit Spice Bars after you've once tucked them in the lunch box. These nutted spice bars are even hearty enough to include in dad's These nutted spice bars are even hearty enough to include in dad's

There will be added food iron in these spicy bars when you make them with enriched flour. The molasses contributes its bit to the food iron requirement, also. When cooking and baking with enriched flour, you offer your family a bonus of thiamine, riboflavin and niacin—the three essential B-vitamins necessary for healthy bodies and appetites.

When there's no time to bake cookies or cakes for the school lunch, let the baker assist you. He has a variety of cookies, cakes and pies from which you can choose for those lunch box desserts.

Pack plenty of punch in the school lunch. It pays off for those lively school-age children.

FRUIT SPICE BARS

1 cup sifted enriched flour 1/4 teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon ginger 1/4 cup shortening

1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup molasses
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup raisins 1/4 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, soda, salt and ginger. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add molasses. Blend well. Add eggs and vanilla extract. Mix well. Add flour mixture gradually to creamed mixture, mixing well. Fold in raisins and nuts. Spread batter in greased pan, 7x11 inches. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 30 minutes. Cut in bars. Makes 21 bars, 1x3% inches.

Science & Your Health

The schoolboy who was asked what he thought was the most important part of the body promptly replied, "My skin—because it keeps me from falling apart."

While an important function of the skin is to protect inner tissue of the body, it is more than just a protective envelope. The skin is a living organ, like the heart or lungs. It is a complex mechanism which plays many roles in keeping the body fit and healthy.

The skin is nature's thermostat, helping the body to maintain the helping the body to maintain the same temperature in hot summer and freezing winter. It does this through the action of skin nerves which control blood vessels. These vessels expand in hot weather, allowing more blood to approach the skin surface. This helps speed the skin surface. This helps speed radiation of heat from the body. Sweat glands also help out by eliminating moisture. In winter the vessels contract, cutting down the heat loss.

The skin is also a complete radar network of nerves, ready to warn the brain of danger through the transmission of pain, cold, or the transmission of pain, cold, or heat impulses.

While certain kinds of skin, such as dry, oily, or baby's skin require different care, soap and water generally is the best weapon against skin diseases. These diseases are many, however, and should be promptly treated. Acne, sunburn infections, carbuncles, and eczema are among the best known, but there are a score of others.

Sometimes these diseases are caused by a deficiency, and vita-mins or hormones can eliminate mins or hormones can eliminate them. Sometimes the germ-fighting drugs must be used. Unused Rxs. May Be Dangerous

That old, unused prescription in your medicine chest may be dangerous. Prescriptions and medications deteriorate with age. They should not be reused by the person for whom the original prescription was written, every time he feels sick. Under no circumstance should they be given to someone else in the family.

The best thing to do with a prescription no longer being used is to throw it away- and get rid of the temptation to doctor someone else with the wrong medicationpossibly doing him harm.

For instance, headaches may be caused by low blood pressure or by high blood pressure. But it takes a doctor ot decide the cause. If you given someone with a low blood pressure headache a remedy for high blood pressure headaches, serious injury may result.

Everything points to one outstanding fact - your telephone offers you the biggest bargain you can buy today.

A look at its low cost will prove the true value of your telephone. While the price of almost everything you buy has greatly increased during the past 5 to 10 years, your telephone service costs little more today than it did 10 years ago. And today's service is better, too. Long Discance calls are faster—local service is improved.

Every day in every way your telephone proves that it's still the "best buy" in your budget.
