Chamber Of Commerce Meeting Called For Monday Night At Grade School

By H. V. (Buzzie) Stokes The membership of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce is called to meet on Monday evening, February 9, 7:15 p.m. at the Elementary School Auditorium for the purpose of approving a constitution and by-laws, to make committees appointments and form plans for future operations. The board of directors will have their monthly meeting immediately following this meeting. These plans were made at the last monthly meeting of the Board.

The local Chamber of Commerce is working on many projects for the over-all betterment of the community, some long range, some immediate. The mafor activity of the office to date has been to tell people they can't move to Sonora for lack of houses of the kind they desire. Right now we do have some apartments available.

The Retirement Home committee met all Sunday afternoon with men from San Antonio and San Angelo, working out details for launching the project, looking at sites and making overall plans. This was a joint meeting with Lions Club officials.

President Edwin Sawyer urges all members of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce and other interested parties to attend the open meeting, February 9 at the Elementary Auditorium.

Cape Horn To Fairbanks Tour Resume After Bicycle Repairs Here

(Editor's Note: This week we conclude the story begun last week about Armin Honegger, 21-year-old Swiss youth who is making a bicycle tour of both North and South America.)

Then he told us the most amazing part of his story-his budget allows him 25c per day in expenses. How can he manage it? He eats one meal a day-that of meat or cheese, raw fruit or vegetables, and bread or crackers. "You see, I buy enough for several days at once," he explained. We looked at his husky frame, his muscular legs in shorts and bicyclist's boots and at the small bag of bologna, crackers and oranges and still could not believe it. "When I get to California," he said, "I will eat much fruit because it is cheap."

Where does he sleep? His pack includes a small tent which he pitches by the roadside at night. "In this country," he added, "it is better to sleep over the fence. Too close by the road is dangerous." But Armin likes the busy highways since he often gets a

"big-ride"-a lift in a truck or pickup that allows room for his bicycle. "Big rides" account for his time of eight days from Laredo to Sonora with two days spent in Corpus Christi as a guest of the town.

Armin's stay in Sonora lasted little longer than he had planned, but Jack and Susie Mackey moved him into their home until his bike was repaired-an "extra" for Armin which the Chamber of Commerce took over.

He came in on Thursday to Mrs. R. A. Steen last week bought one-third of the stock of the Corner Drug Store from L. W. and A. C. Elliott, who own the balance of the stock.

The store was organized a few years ago with three equal ownerships of stock by the Elliotts and the late R. A. Steen, July 1, of last year Mr. Steen sold his stock, and it is this interest that Mrs. Steen has purchased. She was also elected vice-president of the company. She will continue to serve as clerk and bookkeeper.

Carl Morrow, who succeeded Mrs. Steen as manager in July, will continue with the firm as general manager.

Season End, But Wildlife Faces TroUBLE

It's completely over. The 1958-59 hunting season except for rabbits and squirrels in some counties, ended with the close of the quail season January 16. Duck and goose season ended January 14.

It was the heaviest season since controlled hunting, according to the Director of Law Enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission.

"More people killed more quail and deer than in years," the Director said. "Despite this heavy kill our wardens also report an abundance of game still in the field. Our concern now is for the carry-over. Rats are responsible in many areas for a tremendously heavy loss of quail. In areas they have destroyed the food and the quail are literally starving to death."

A heavy freeze or prolonged bad weather might also be damaging to the deer population, where there is a surplus, or where the feed crop is insufficient, the Director warned.

He also reminded hunters that wardens still will be busy in the

Special Course In To Be Offered

A precedent-setting venture in chronic disease management has been launched by the State Department of Health. Immediate beneficiaries are 12,000 patients housed in Texas' 587 licensed nursing and convalescent care homes.

Built around nutritional and nursing needs of oldsters, the program promises to be the biggest boon to their health and comfort since passage of the nursing home licensure law in 1953. It works like this:

On request of county health officers and local health department directors a nutritionist, a chronic disease nurse and two sanitarians instruct local health department staffs and nursing home operators in proper care of elder citizens, many of them disabled by chronic illness to the point of being bedfast.

A physio-therapist will be added to the team later. Many people are lying helplessly in bed, dependent on others for every need. With help they might learn to feed and bathe themselves—making the differ-

The program is purely educational, intended solely to help local communities meet their responsibilities toward aged and infirm citizens.

Half the course is spent in explaining and demonstrating to local health department staff members what their tasks are regarding nursing homes in the county, and in detailing how those tasks can be accomplished.

Standards which homes must meet before being licensed are carefully discussed. Nurses are taught how to handle chronic disease patients. Sanitarians are encouraged to make frequent inspections, and to impress on home operators the importance of scrupulous personal and premise cleanliness and improved nursing care.

The object of such instruction is to help local health department personnel become proficient in assisting and advising nursing home operators in providing higher standards of care.

Operators come in for their share of attention in a section of the course designed to meet daily problems they encounter. Discussion subjects, selected by operators themselves, range from records the law requires to be kept to special diets.

Natural Gas Provides...
LIFELINES for TOMORROW
in PIPELINES planned TODAY

In the next few years, the people in the West are going to have a lot of new neighbors. The western states served by El Paso Natural Gas Company and its subsidiaries are growing three times as fast as the rest of the nation.

There are good reasons for this rapid growth — climate, scenery, a dynamic economy. New businesses are starting, old businesses are expanding.

Spurring this progress are energy supplies — natural gas, liquid petroleum, water power and solid fuels. They fuel business machinery, heat homes, power mills, provide the basic essentials for the comforts of life.

Today, natural gas is the West's fastest growing source of energy. Use of natural gas is expected to rise an estimated 86 per cent in the decade ending in 1966.

It's our job to see that the West gets that gas. We are constantly searching for new reserves, developing them and then building the pipelines to deliver the gas to distributors and industries, from wells hundreds of miles away.

This effort pays off in the assurance that years in the future — even with demand growing at a record pace — the West will have the energy supplies essential for continued growth.

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By Rev. Allan Guthrie

"Be ye doers of the Word and not hearers only."

Sometimes we try to separate life into compartments. We deliberately remove some of our attitudes from Christian influence. Yet the whole claim of the New Testament is that Jesus demands a total commitment to him.

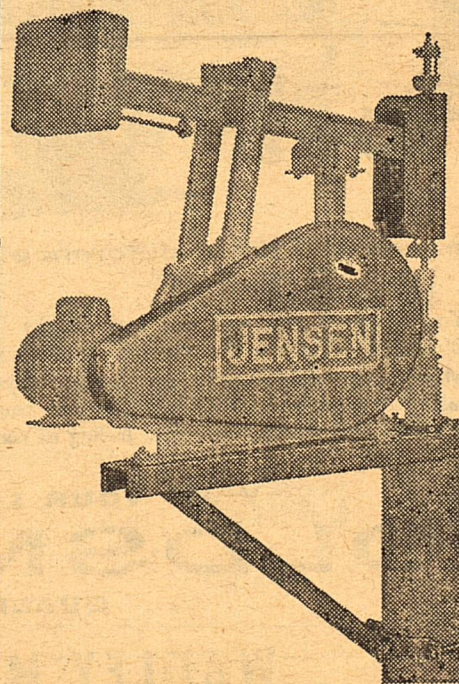

It is said that during the time of the expansion of Christianity into Europe some Saxon tribes, when converted, entered the river for baptism with their right arms held aloft. They were willing to be baptized, all but their fighting arms.

So sometimes we withhold part of ourselves. Let the words of James, "Be ye doers of the Word and not hearers only", be applicable to all of life. At home, in our vocations, in our attitudes toward social and political matters, in our church relationship, we should earnestly seek the highest knowledge and best understanding of the will of God that can come to us.

The Devil's River Philosopher Says Average Driver Can't Use Enough Gas To Pay For 8-Lane Highway

Editor's Note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on Devil's River must be a little tax-conscious, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
I was sitting by the fire the other night flipping through a magazine when I ran into an article saying the United States government is looking for inventors, and it went ahead and listed a long string of things

Start Safety Training At Home

By J. O. Musick
General Manager
Texas Safety Association

Like charity, safety should begin at home—then be followed up at school and in the community.

Regrettably, far too few parents realize the importance of proper home training in the development of safety habits. Habits that may in later years mean the difference between a healthy, fruitful life or one of injury, regret and, possibly, an early death.

By proper home training I don't mean just plain, "No! No! Johnny—that'll hurt." Certainly, the kind I'm speaking of requires direction and the dictation of the do—and-don't's type but the most important lessons will be learned from parental example.

Tell a child to be careful when riding a bicycle, or not to dash into the street, is of little avail if he sees father driving past a stop sign, or mother jay-walking to the dress shop across the street.

If you doubt that parents are safety thoughtless, ask any school patrol boy. He will tell you that it is generally the parents who have the least regard for traffic safety rules; it is the parents who do the double-parking (" . . . I have to get back home; . . . it's only for a minute; ad infinitum"), who get out from the wrong side of a car or disregard crosswalk markings.

Any one of these, and dozens of other such careless habits, are not of tremendous importance when singled out, but when viewed in the whole—as a child might do—they build an attitude in the youngster's mind (one of careless respect) that lasts a lifetime.

Without question, a universal respect of safety rules, for the common good is the ultimate answer to our safety problems—whether they be at work, play, home or in traffic.

How great is the need for proper traffic safety training? It is great enough that if our present traffic habits go unchallenged we can expect every second pre-school child in Texas today to experience a traffic accident before he or she reaches voting age.

Let me hasten to add that such a statement isn't so far fetched in the light of present facts.

This year, according to Texas Safety Association records, two and a half million Texas will operate more than four and a quarter million motor vehicles in excess of 40 billion miles. And, in so doing, they will pile up a total of nearly 275,000 accidents. The cost? It has been conservatively placed at $275 million.

Indeed, this is not a bright picture and promises to worsen as Texas population increases with greater and greater rapidity.

What can we do to extricate ourselves from the horns of this traffic dilemma? The first step should be taken in the home, through consistent safety training by both parents. Secondly, by careful examples. Finally, by combining the first two steps to build healthy safety attitudes.

this country needs to have invented.

Now I never have invented anything, outside of a few excuses, but I've had a lot of experience trying to keep other people's inventions running, and what impressed me by that list was what it left out. It left out what looks like the Federal government itself ought to be the first to think of and put at the head of the list.

What this country needs, over and above all other gadgets and labor-saving devices and handier hydrogen bombs, is a new source of tax revenue.

It doesn't make any difference whether it's President Eisenhower in Washington, Governor Daniel in Austin, or the governor of any other state, including Alaska, and the mayors of most cities and towns, everybody is looking for a new source of tax revenue.

Right now, everybody seems to be in a rut, and about all anybody can think of is to put a new tax on cars and gasoline. Any time any official has to wrestle with the problem of finding new revenue to balance a budget, he generally comes up with the idea of raising the tax on gasoline.

This makes sense, in one way, as most people will give up nearly everything, including groceries and clothes, before they'll stop driving their car.

But I'm afraid they can go too far in this direction. Of course their argument is that we're building 30 billion dollars worth of new highways across the nation, not counting all the side roads and local highways, and the best way to pay for them is to tax the users.

Well, I'll tell you. You can tax a driver to pay for a simple highway, one he uses every few days, and it makes sense, the user ought to pay, but it's going to be mighty hard to tax a man going one way for three more lanes going in the same direction and four more going in the other. The average man just can't use enough gasoline to pay for an eight-lane highway, unless they make cars that burn eight times as much gas, and I think they're working on that too.

The problem is too big for me, but if a man wants to go down in history two notches ahead of Thomas Edison, Alexander Graham Bell, Robert Fulton, and the Wright Brothers, let him invent a new source of tax revenue. And I think he'd better hurry.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

TAX FACTS #3

Claiming Dependency Exemptions

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

WHEN you total up the exemptions on your 1958 tax return, remember that you are permitted to claim at least one exemption for every qualified dependent — and this includes yourself.

Count your exemptions carefully because each one takes $600 off your taxable income. Take one for yourself and two if you are 65 or over. This rule applies to both husband and wife on a joint return, and an added exemption may be taken if either is blind.

In addition, you are entitled to one exemption for each person who fits the definition of a dependent, but the extra exemptions for age and blindness cannot be taken for a dependent.

To qualify for an exemption a dependent must:

- (1) Have received more than one-half of his support from you unless you file a Multiple Support Agreement (see below).
- (2) Have less than $600 gross income unless he is your child and under 19 years of age — or a student of any age.
- (3) Not file a joint return with his spouse.
- (4) Have been either a member of your household or closely related to you, as defined in the official instructions.
- (5) Be either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the U. S., Canada, Mexico, Canal Zone, Panama, or (in some cases) the Philippines.

Who Qualifies

Your exemptions usually depend on whether you and your dependents qualify under these rules at the end of the year. However, if your husband or wife died during the year you can file a joint return and take the same exemptions that both of you would have otherwise had.

If you shared with others in the support of a dependent, but none of you provided more than half, you may still be able to arrange for one member of the group to have the $600 exemption. You might agree, for example, to take turns claiming the exemption each year.

The one who claims the exemption must have contributed more than 10 per cent of the support, and he must have been a member of the group who collectively provided the necessary "more than one-half support." Each member of the group must have been entitled to claim the dependent except for the support requirement.

Multiple Support Agreements

In order for one person to have the exemption all other members of the group who contributed over 10 per cent must sign declarations that they will not claim the dependent. The Internal Revenue Service provides Form 2120 (Multiple Support Agreement) for this purpose.

Taxpayers who are supporting dependents, but are not able to file a joint return, may qualify as the "head of household," and be entitled to use a special schedule of tax rates that give you half the benefits of income-splitting.

If you qualify as a "surviving spouse" you should not file a tax return as a "head of household." The tax of a surviving spouse is computed on the same basis as a joint return and gives the full benefit of income-splitting. A "surviving spouse" is one:

1. Whose husband or wife died in the preceding two years (1956 and 1957).
2. Who maintains a home for a legally qualified dependent (the dependent in this case must be a son, step-son, daughter or stepdaughter).

The official instructions that come with your tax forms give further information on how to claim your dependency exemptions. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service.

W. E. Caldwell, 77, Former Sonoran Dies In San Angelo

Funeral services for W. E. Caldwell, 77, were held Monday in Johnson's Funeral Home, San Angelo, with the Rev. Ennis Hill, pastor of First Methodist Church, officiating. Masonic rites were held at Fairmont Cemetery.

Born October 31, 1881, in Meridian, Caldwell died early Saturday, January 24, in Shannon Hospital, San Angelo after a brief illness. He moved to San Angelo in 1898 but had also lived in Temple, Bronte and Sonora. Mr. Caldwell was manager of West-Texas Lumber Co. in Sonora. He was secretary of the Sonora School Board from 1918 to 1928. A former president and charter member of the Lions Club and a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, he was also active in the Methodist Church.

After returning to San Angelo in 1944 he became an owner of West Texas Lumber Co. He retired in 1955. He was a Shriner and a member of the Suez Temple.

Survivors include two sons, W. E. Caldwell of Houston and James G. Caldwell of San Angelo; two daughters, Mrs. Loula Belle Dunn of Odessa and Mrs. Elizabeth Flathers of Amarillo; two brothers, James R. Caldwell of Sonora and Leonard M. Caldwell of Del Rio; two sisters, Mrs. John McCabe of New York, N.Y. and Mrs. J. W. McDaniel of San Antonio; and two granddaughters.

tell us goodbye and pedaled off on U.S. 290 for Ozona, Fort Stockton, Pecos, Carlsbad Caverns, Grand Canyon, California.

Then he plans to go up the Pacific coast to Washington, then east to Glacier Park, and through Canada to Fairbanks and the realization of a dream.

What does he plan after Alaska? Armin hasn't decided. He may go south and east to New York or west to Asia but he will eventually return to Motorenstrasse 3, Zurich 5, Switzerland, where his parents and a sister will be waiting to hear his fabulous story.

What will he tell them about America? America is much like Europe really, Armin thinks. Although Europeans believe American women spend little time at the job of keeping house, Armin finds that their families still come first for Mrs. America. The principle difference, he says, is in our children—"American children are much more independent," he concluded, "which may be the reason for your high crime rate among young people."

And what of Armin's future? He plans to be a merchant and

WEAR IT WITH PRIDE!

Your 4-H emblem symbolizes worth-while ideals and goals — and the combination of get-up-and-go and stick-to-it-iveness that makes for successful farmers and responsible citizens. You bring that quality to your Club work, and the work helps to develop it.

We're proud of you 4-H members, and of all that you do. Keep it up! If you think that we can be helpful to you anywhere along the line, please call on us.
