Editor's Note: The upper right hand corner of the front page of The Devil is reserved each week for what we consider the most important happening of the week.

This week "Miss Palmer"—we use quotes because Anne Palmer, Sonora High School English teacher for 18 years, has come to represent "the true embodiment of everything that's excellent" in the minds of students, ex-students, teachers, and parents—this week "Miss Palmer" happened to the Lions Club. We have never heard a more honest, straightforward and fearless message than hers. You could have heard a pin drop while she spoke.

That's the reason "Miss Palmer" and her talk on "Our Youth—Their Today and Their Tomorrow—If They Have One" is in the upper right hand slot. Thanks, "Miss Palmer", for a proper dressing-down.)

1960 Football Schedule Set

Coach Joe Turner announced this week the 1960 football schedule for Sonora High School. It will be as follows:

- Sept. 2, Rocksprings, there.
- Sept. 9, San Felipe, there.
- Sept. 16, Iraan, here.
- Sept. 23, Menard, there.
- Sept. 30, Alpine, here.
- Oct. 7, Rankin, here.
- Oct. 14, Ozona, here.
- Oct. 21, Junction, there.
- Oct. 28, Eldorado there.
- Nov. 4, Open.
- Nov. 11, Big Lake, here.

Attendance emphasis for each night has been named as Youth Night, Monday, November 30; Ladies' Night, Tuesday, December 1; Men's Night, Wednesday, 2, Family Night, Thursday, December 3; and Pack the Pew Night, Friday, December 4.

With the opening remark: "I notice some of my ex-students left early today, and others of you are probably saying, 'I hoped I'd never have to hear that old battleaxe again,'" Miss Anne Palmer proceeded to light the fuse on the blockbuster she dropped in Lions' laps Tuesday at noon.

Speaking on "Our Youth—Their Today and Their Tomorrow", Miss Palmer questioned that our youth will have a tomorrow. The present Scientific Revolution is giving our young people an ever greater feeling of insecurity, she said. Science and scientific accomplishments and automation—things so far above the comprehension of the youth who read and hear of them—are unconsciously destroying individuality.

We must think in terms of the world and the solar system now, she intimated. We must realize that without extending aid of some sort to the "have not" nations in Asia, Africa and South America we stand to lose in a turmoil which will overshadow any conflict in the world's history, Miss Palmer said.

The much-publicized "problems" of today's teenagers Miss Palmer laid directly to the present generation's misplaced emphasis on material things, and our neglect of the development of a sense of spiritual and moral value in our children. We pamper their bodies, feed their desires for luxuries, and overlook the importance of education in forming the well-rounded, well-adjusted adult.

Our schools here in Sonora, she said, are overcrowded and understaffed. The lack of teachers she attributes to the high teacher turnover brought on by inadequate salaries. We spend billions for luxuries, Miss Palmer stated, and pennies for education. The only solution to our local problem of underpaid teachers is to increase our budget, she said, and the only way to increase our budget is to raise our taxes.

During the drought it was impossible to raise taxes because landowners were hard put to meet living expenses. Now that the drought has broken—taxes should be increased in order to assure our children an education which will fit them for business and professional life.

Touching on the foundations of democracy, Miss Palmer cited the Greek nation in its day of supremacy. The Greeks knew that liberty depended on self-restraint and that happiness is the activity of the soul. Yet it was their love of luxury that led to their downfall. The West, she said, has set its mind against the spirit and has never been able to grasp the twofold aspect of all human beings.

"Materialism destroyed the Greek and Roman civilizations, their ideals grew dim. Our morality is failing, we wonder why we should try to be good," she concluded, "Will our youth have a tomorrow? If they do, they'll have to make it themselves—we have succeeded only in leaving them a mess."

Austin Firm Low Bidder On Dry Devil Sites 5 & 6

Bids for the construction of flood prevention structures at Sites 5 and 6 were opened Tuesday by Judge J. W. Elliott. Lyles and Davis Construction Co. of Austin, Texas was the apparent low bidder with a bid $239,944.42 for the two structures. As is customary on all contracts, the contracts, the equipment and financial condition of the low bidder will be checked before the contract can be awarded.

Sites 5 and 6 will bring under contract for construction a total of 9 of the 13 dams planned for Dry Devil's River and Lowrey Draw. Sites 9, 12 and 13 are now complete except for minor details, and Site 10 will be completed soon. By May 1, when a flood might normally be expected to occur, Sonora should have substantial flood protection.

Jess Radle and Son of Waco have been awarded a contract to build Sites 7 and 8, and are expected to start moving equipment in this week. Two more structures are planned to be advertised during December.

Six bids were submitted at Tuesday's opening. Bids ranged from the low bid to $374,117.85, or a spread of some $134,174. The Soil Conservation Service engineers estimate was $216,302.68.

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bond were their rson Dr. Frank L. Bond of San Antonio, Dr. George Reeves of Dallas and Baxter Adams of Houston.

Devil's River Philosopher Fears Wave Of Honesty May Dry Up 90 Per Cent Of Political Speeches

Editor's Note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on Devil's River seems slightly serious this week, but you never can tell.

Dear editor:

As I understand it, a wave of honesty is sweeping the television industry, for reasons everybody knows, and the thing may get out of hand.

For example, some people are demanding that politicians write their own speeches, and while it would be interesting to see what some of them would say, it'd be interesting only once. The second time up, nobody'd listen. Ninety per cent of the speeches would be eliminated.

Going even further, some people are demanding that television comedians write their own jokes. It's hard to see how some of their jokes could get any worse, but left on their own, they probably could swing it. This might be good for honesty, but it'd be hard on entertainment.

Honesty is a fine commodity, but you've got to understand the use of it if you intend to hold your audience, your neighbors, your friends, your wife, etc.

On the other hand, if every politician was required to write his own speeches, the speeches might not be as good, but they'd be scarcer. This thing needs exploring further.

At the same time, the world needs a little more self-reliance. It always has embarrassed me a little to see some big-shot arrive from an important trip to a foreign conference and step out of his airplane and, before a vast television audience of millions, pull out a sheet of paper, put on his glasses, and read: "I'm awfully glad to be back home. Thank you very much." When a man can't trust himself to say he's glad to be back, without a script, he ain't inspiring much trust generally.

There aren't enough leaders in the world who know what they think until they've had a staff conference to tell them. The symbol of leadership, where it used to be the mighty oak, now seems to be the common hedge, rows and rows of it, neatly trimmed and watered.

I don't know the solution to this problem. Don't be looking at me. My banker yesterday asked me how I was doing this year and I cleared my throat and said I don't know yet. Maybe a scrawny hedge anybody can see through is better than no landscaping at all.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Devil's River Philosopher Comes Out In Favor Of Movie Actress Trying To Learn Cattle Business

Editor's Note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on Devil's River thinks he has a new idea this week, but we doubt it'll work.

Dear editor:

Brand new ideas are pretty scarce, so when one comes along I go out of my way to recognize it and hold it up to public gaze.

I have now found one and would like to enlist your help in getting it spread around in the right places.

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night, a prominent movie actress a while back bought 500 cows, and then when a bunch of them started dying and having other trouble she turned in on her income tax a claim for expenses involved in learning how to become an efficient cattle raiser.

The government is arguing this is not a legitimate claim, and I would like to see everybody rise up and protest that it is. If we can get the government to recognize it's perfectly legitimate to claim tax deductions for the costs of learning how to raise cattle efficiently, the door will be opened wide for tax relief regardless of how high the tax rate goes. Congress can take the debt ceiling off completely and not bother me.

For example, take my ranch out here. If I can claim some deductions for inefficiency, I believe I could manage to get off scot free for years to come. Raising is something it takes years to learn how to do efficiently, and the cost of learning it ought to be deductible.

And also, in case something slips up and I do have a good ranching year with a taxable profit, that'll be the year I take up movie acting, with the cost of learning to be taken off my income tax. I figure my deductions for learning how to become an efficient movie actor will last for years, because it looks like a profession that's hard to learn. At least, I know some movie stars who've been at it for years and haven't succeeded.

Furthermore, this opens up all sorts of possibilities for you town people. The cost of learning how to become an efficient dry-goods merchant ought to be deductible. The same applies to grocerymen, bank clerks, filling station men, plumbers, electricians, television repairmen, why even school teachers, and it's possible there may be one or two newspaper editors scattered around the country who could get in on this.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Seat Belts Lessen Injury Chances Say Experts

Consider these bits of information as you whiz down the highway in your car:

1. Seat belts cut your chances of getting hurt in an auto accident in half.

2. The risk of death or serious injury in an auto wreck is five times greater if you are hurled from the car than if you remain inside . . . seat belts help keep you there.

3. Safety men estimate 5,000 lives could be saved each year if seat belts, properly installed, were used in cars.

These are some of the facts safety experts are armed with in their attempt to popularize the use of auto seat belts.

Seat belts are a positive step a motorist can take toward safety and a constant reminder to keep his safety guard up. Also, contrary to much thinking, seat belts help reduce driving fatigue.

Is the risk of being thrown from your car in a crash exaggerated?

No! A recent study showed that in actual crashes, 55 percent of the doors open. Of the persons killed, 47 percent were thrown from the car.

However, experts do not claim seat belts are the sole answer to traffic accident problems, but they do know their widespread use could go a long way in reducing traffic injuries and fatalities.

Wool Incentive Set At 62 Cents For Next Year

A shorn wool incentive price of 62 cents per pound and a mohair support price of 70 cents per pound have been announced for the 1960 marketing year which begins April 1, 1960. These prices are the same as for the first five years of the program running from 1955 through the 1959 marketing years, according to A. B. Wooten, extension economist.

Yearly production of shorn wool is moving toward the 300-million pound goal set by the low. Estimated 1959 production is 252 million pounds, the highest since 1946, and compares to 234 million pounds in 1955, the first year of the wool payment program. Stock sheep numbers increased 3 percent during 1957 and 4 percent during 1958, and on Jan. 1, 1959 were the largest since 1948.

ASC offices are completing payments for the 1958 marketing year, the fourth year of the program. The shorn wool payment rate for the 1958 marketing year was 70.3 percent, the percentage required to bring the average price of 36.4 cents per pound of shorn wool, grease basis, up to the 62-cent incentive level. This results in a payment of $70.30 for every $100 received from the sale of shorn wool, Wooten noted. The payment rate on unshorn lambs was $1.02 per hundred-weight of live lambs marketed.

The payment rates for the 1958 marketing year were higher than anticipated because prices received by growers for wool declined to the lowest since 1941, reflecting the drop in wool prices in the world market of 40 percent from mid-1957 through early 1959.

Through August 31, 1959, payments for the 1955, 1956, 1957 and 1958 marketing years were approximately $207.8 million. A small percentage of 1958 payments is yet to be made. From this amount, approximately $11.4 million was deducted for the self-help advertising and sales promotion program for lamb and

Years Reports On Snyder Forum

By Nova Crawford

The Student Council of Sonora High School met Monday, November 16.

J. L. Alderdice spoke to the council about students' conduct in the halls and asked that the running and other such actions be eliminated.

Three reports were made concerning the recent Forum meeting in Snyder. Jetty Young who attended the Foreign Exchange meeting told about the exchanging of students from one country to another. Exchange students must not only be intelligent, but talented in several fields. The sum of money needed to bring a student to the United States is $750.00. Students usually spend nine months from August to June.

Kay Shurley reported on how to better relationships between the Student Council and students and teachers. Some suggestions were to publish Student Council minutes in the school paper, to hold open meetings, to choose non-Council members for committees, and to present a Best Teacher Award near the end of school.

Sarah Lu Hardy who attended the meeting on "So You're Elected-Now What?", reported that her group discussed carrying out all promises made during campaigning.

J. L. Alderdice said that individual reports on amounts of money spent by the Council and reasons for spending it will be given each student.
