Incumbent Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman Asks for Re-Election In 21 Counties

State Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo recently announced his candidacy for re-election in the 25th senatorial district which now includes twenty-one counties.

"I am grateful to the people for their confidence and respectfully ask their support," Senator Hardeman said in a brief statement. "My record in office has been predicated on a deep and abiding respect for the principles of our Constitution. It has been my purpose to help maintain a sound, responsive state government and to handle all legislation of local interest with dispatch. This I will continue to do."

Elected to a four-year Senate term two years ago, Hardeman is running for re-election in 1966 as a result of the redistricting law enacted by the last Legislature which re-aligned the state's senatorial districts to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" decision.

The 25th District includes 15 of its previous 20 counties: Brewster, Crane, Crockett, Edwards, Irion, Jeff Davis, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Schleicher, Sutton, Terrell, Tom Green, Upton, and Val Verde. The six counties of Ector, Kinney, Loving, Midland, Reeves, and Uvalde were added to make up the new 21-county district.

Senator Hardeman is recognized as being one of the three most powerful members of the Legislature, the other being the speaker of the House of Representatives and the Lieutenant Governor, who presides over the Senate. Hardeman is presently chairman of the influential Senate Committee on Finance, a member of the Senate Investigating Committee and is serving his fourteenth year on the Legislative Budget Board, the vital legislative research arm on finances to fulfill needed state services.

During nine regular and several special sessions of the legislature, Hardeman has served as chairman or as a member of all major standing committees of the Senate, thus giving him experience and seniority valuable to the people he represents. His fellow senators honored Hardeman by selecting him president pro tempore of the Senate during which time he served as acting Governor of the State. He is respected as an authority on constitutional law and on Texas and American history. He was accorded honorary life membership in the Texas State Historical Association for outstanding services rendered to Texas, which is the highest honor the Association bestows. Only five other persons currently hold this honor. Hardeman also has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by the Texas Heritage Foundation in recognition of "Distinguished and Meritorious Public Service in Preserving the Texas Heritage."

Senator Hardeman has resided in San Angelo since coming to Texas in 1932 from Tennessee. He is a life-long Democrat and holds membership in the Sons of the American Revolution, Sons of the Republic of Texas, Sons of Confederate Veterans, the American Legion, and the Elks Lodge. A lawyer, Hardeman is partner with Earl W. Smith and Justin A. Kever, both former district attorneys, in the law firm of Hardeman, Smith, and Kever in San Angelo. He formerly served as mayor of San Angelo and as a member of the House of Representatives from which he resigned in November, 1942, to volunteer as a private in the U.S. Air Force. He was graduated from Officer Candidate School and served in the judge advocate general's department, assigned to the 2nd Air Force. He was honorably discharged with rank of captain in February, 1946. Hardeman reentered politics and began service in the Senate in 1947.

Hardeman is married to the former Geneva Moore, daughter of the late Lawrence Moore and Mrs. Moore of Schleicher County, Texas. They have two young sons, Mark and Bryan. The Hardemans are members of the Church of Christ.

Senator Hardeman said the next legislative session will involve "numerous matters of vital importance to Texas and the 25th District" and that he plans to counsel with as many people throughout the 21-county district as possible during the campaign.

Ranchers Reminded Of Jan. 31 Deadline

The final date for signing shorn wool and unshorn lambs and mohair applications is January 31, Mrs. Lea Roy Aldwell, ASC office manager, reminded ranchmen recently.

Mrs. Aldwell announced that all sales documents that have been received by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office for shorn wool and unshorn lambs and mohair that were sold in the 1965 marketing year for the incentive payment program are now ready for the producers signature on the application form.

"If you have not turned in your sales documents for the 1965 marketing year on shorn wool, unshorn lambs, and mohair please do so at your earliest convenience, to avoid confusion of the last minute rush," said Mrs. Aldwell.

She added that it would be most helpful for the county office if all ranchmen sign the applications as early as possible.

Two Burglaries Committed During Week

Two burglaries have been reported by sheriff Herman Moore in the last week.

The Rock Inn, owned by Roy Pope, was broken into late Friday night. Moore reported that the burglars gained entrance by breaking a window. Money from the juke box and cigarette machine, as well as records and cigarettes, a television set, radio, and the pay telephone were reported missing.

The National Building Center Inc. also suffered a loss of tools and money from the coke machine, when burglars entered the building through a broken window late Monday night, Moore said.

Magazine Features Caverns, Contains Article by S. Neal

The January issue of "The Texas Outlook", the official publication of the Texas State Teachers Association, sports a picture of a portion of the Caverns of Sonora on the cover and an article by Sonora English teacher, Smith Neal.

A note in the interior of the magazine has the following to say of the Caverns: "The nearest thing to icy splendor that Texas has to offer is not ice. The icy sparkle on our cover this month comes from crystal and cave coral in the Caverns of Sonora. Located off U.S. Highway 290 eight miles west of Sonora, the Caverns' formations represent 60 million years of growth so far. These are live formations, still growing. "Note tourists in lower center—resting during the mile-long trek open to the public in the Caverns. Though not as vast as Carlsbad Caverns, the Caverns of Sonora, say experts, contain the most colorful and delicate formations to be found in underground caverns." This issue also contains an article on high school English by Smith Neal, junior and senior English teacher at SHS. In the article, Neal gives his opinion of how English teachers should evaluate their students' writing, as well as a report on what colleges expect of their freshman students.

2A-1 Lions Meet Here

former Miss Jo McClelland of Sonora. Herbert Field and Claude Flores, local Lions Club presidents, assisted with the conference. Co-chairmen of ladies entertainment were Mrs. Herbert Fields and Mrs. A. E. Purgel.

Thompson pointed out that a recent survey indicates that Sutton County leads the world in per capita Lions membership with 52.3 members per 1,000 population. He added that Sonora was the smallest town ever to host such a meeting in District 2A-1.

Deadline for paying poll tax to be eligible to vote in any city, county, state, or federal elections that may be held in 1966 is January 31, Herman Moore, County sheriff, tax assessor-collector reminded Sutton County citizens recently.

Commission Eyes Retirement Plan

The members of the City commission met with J. Robert Brown, assistant director of the Texas Municipal Retirement System, at the commissioners' meeting January 10. The commission voted to compile figures in relation to adopting the system.

The commission discussed the constructing of a slaughter house and appointed commissioner Fred Earwood and city manager R. M. McCarver to draw up plans, specifications, and cost estimates for submission to the commissioners court.

The telephone rate ordinance to do away with the four-party service in Sonora was read for the second time at the commissioners' meeting and if it is adopted will be passed at the next regular meeting.

The city manager presented his report to the mayor who authorized it to be published in January.

BAYLOR COACH WILL BE BOOSTER BANQUET SPEAKER

John Bridger, head coach at Baylor University, will be guest speaker at the annual Bronco Booster Club football banquet Thursday, January 27 at the school cafeteria. Norman Rousselot said that tickets would be on sale Friday.

LANEY COOK (3) gets ready to get into the air for a shot at the basket in last week's Ozona-Sonora basketball game. Watching the action are Carl Teaff (41) and Eddie Howell (31). The Broncos won their second game against Ozona by a score of 59 to 37.

Broncos Take Consolation Trophy, Wuest Named To All-Tourney Team

The Sonora Broncos continued their trophy winning streak as they topped Brady by a score of 77 to 57 to grab consolation honors in the 35th Annual Reagan County Basketball Tournament held in Big Lake, Jan. 6-8.

The Broncos, playing Brady for the third time this year, played an excellent ball game which turned out to be a scoring fest. Mike Wuest led the Broncos in scoring with 25 points as they racked up their eighth win of the 1965-66 basketball season. Wuest was also named to the All-Tournament team.

Also scoring in the double figures for Sonora were Laney Cook with 18, Eddie Howell with 14, and Grady Roe with 11.

Sonora lost for the first time in the tournament to the Crane Golden Cranes by a score of 62-47 to put the Broncos in the consolation bracket. The Bronco defense hit a slight cold spot in the game and the Cranes won with a fairly wide margin. Their big gun was 6 foot 5 inch Bob McKay, who netted 22 points. Leading the Broncos was Cook with 16 points followed closely by Wuest with 13.

The Cranes eventually won the tournament by beating the host team, Big Lake, by a score of 51-44.

To gain a spot in the consolation finals the Broncos beat Sterling City for the second time this year with a final score of 68-33. Wuest again led the Broncos with 15 points while Howell came in second with 10. Every player on the Sonora squad got into the game and most of them added to the lopsided score.

Broncos Fall In Clash With Triple A School

The Sonora Broncos were thwarted in their efforts to overcome Class AAA Del Rio in a basketball game played here Monday night. The Wildcats held on to an early lead and won by a score of 87 to 76.

This high scoring contest was marked by long jump shots, quick passes, and fantastic lay-ups by both teams. Del Rio opened up the scoring quickly in the first quarter as they netted some 29 points and held the Broncos to 18.

Sonora, however, came back in the second quarter to pull within eight points of the much-taller Wildcats. The score at halftime was Sonora, 41, and Del Rio, 49. The third quarter was perhaps the quarter that "told the tale." Sonora managed to drop in only 11 points while Del Rio tallied 21. This brought the score to 70-52 in favor of Del Rio with just eight minutes remaining in the game.

The Broncos outscored the Wildcats in the final quarter but Del Rio's eighteen point lead proved to be too much for Sonora to overcome.

Almost half of Del Rio's 86 points were scored by 6 foot, 6 inch Gene Salmon as he netted 37. Bobby Read came in second for Del Rio with 19 points.

Leading the scoring for the Broncos was Carl Teaff with 21 points. Next came Mike Wuest with 16, Laney Cook with 12, and Eddie Howell with 11.

Score By Quarters:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total
Sonora	18	23	11	24	76
Del Rio	29	20	21	17	87

The "B" team game which preceded the varsity contest was also won by Del Rio. The final score was 59-42. Leading the scoring for Del Rio was Ray Driskell with 20 points, and Richard Perez paced Sonora with 13 points.

Both the varsity squad and the "B" team will play McCamey here Friday night. McCamey won a game played on their own territory against Sonora earlier this season, but the Broncos will be out to settle the score. The "B" team game begins at 6:15 p.m. and is immediately followed by the varsity contest at 8:00 p.m.

WHO'S THE BOSS?

Who's the boss? Is it the employer or the labor union? It is neither.

Collective bargaining, as now carried out, seems highly illogical and one-sided. Labor and management "bargain." Labor asks for something and if they do not get it they often strike.

The two finally come to terms, and then that industry or that business usually must increase prices to pay the increased labor cost. That increases living expenses, so labor demands more. It is all a vicious spiral, entirely ignoring those not benefited by wage increases, the consumers. It also overlooks those who make jobs possible by their investments.

Here is a way to make "collective bargaining" fair to all. Put representatives of industry, labor, and capital on one side of the bargaining table.

On the other side of the table put an equal number of representatives of the consumers and have some real bargaining.

This would show labor, capital, and the employer that their interests are identical and while each is entitled to a profit the real boss with whom they must bargain is the consumer who must pay for what they produce.

J. A. Discusses Possible Politician Substitution

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River takes a sidelong glance at a new machine in use in Washington.

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a copy of a newspaper which was used for packing in a box of cups and saucers somebody sent here during the holidays—if people were more thoughtful they'd use a bigger variety of newspapers for such purposes and not tear them up into shreds—at any rate, according to it, the Democrats now have and the Republicans are planning on getting one of those huge machines which they use for answering mail.

As I understand it, the machine can memorize the names, including first names and nicknames, addresses, and various bits of information about millions of individuals.

A Congressman just hands the machine a list of all his constituents with all the details about each one he has found out about. Then when he wants to write them a letter, explaining why he voted for or against something, or was opposed to a pay raise but was over-ruled by the majority, or wanting to know how they feel about some pending bill, all he has to do is write the letter and hand it to the machine, which in turn writes the same letter to everyone of them, each one addressed individually and by nickname if desired, with little personal touches thrown in, and then signs them all and addresses the envelopes.

Now I have been thinking about this and while it sounds like real progress and a great time-saver, I believe those boys ought to be careful.

After getting prompt and efficient mail service from this machine, some voter may get the notion it could have other uses. If it can answer the Congressman's mail, why can't it receive it too? Instead of Congressmen having a machine to write to the voters, why couldn't the voters have a machine to write to instead of a Congressman?

If it can learn every voter in the district by his first name, answer 10,000 letters an hour, and digest the views of a million people in 30 minutes and vote accordingly, all it would have to do is learn how to shake hands, and where would that leave the Congressman?

This thing has vast and explosive possibilities and if I was a Congressman I'd get that machine surrounded with enough entangling legislation to keep its use from getting too widespread.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The observation and study of wildlife can be a very interesting and rewarding hobby. Birds and other forms of wildlife are so common that we often take them for granted. In so doing we fail to appreciate an important part of our natural heritage.

A ranchman recently remarked that he had never seen a little (young) roadrunner. With the roadrunner being one of our most abundant birds in this area it does seem strange that we never see a "little" one.
We don't see little roadrunners because like the dove, hawks, pigeons and many others the young birds do not leave the nest until they are practically full grown. This is in contrast to quail, turkeys, and ducks, where the young leave the nest as soon as they are hatched.

The roadrunner, a member of the cuckoo family, is native to southwestern United States to central Mexico. The bird is a resident of all of Texas, but is more common in arid southwest. The nest of sticks is hid in a bush or low tree and contains three to five white eggs. The food of the roadrunner consists of insects, snakes, and lizards.

Speaking of snakes—last August 13—while making a range survey on the George E. Allison ranch, I walked within a foot of a rattlesnake on a low caliche ledge. The snake did not strike, and a well aimed blow with a sharpshooter shovel completely severed her.
The blow exposed a small snake, and further examination revealed 12 unborn snakes, each neatly wrapped in its placental covering. I estimated that the snakes would have been born within a week since they were 8-10 inches in length, and complete with well marked diamonds and the button trademark. (The snakes are now in formaldehyde in the Soil Conservation Service office and may be seen).
This snake raised some interesting questions and provided some answers that I did not know before. A "litter" of 12 was larger than expected but I have now heard that 12 to 20 is not uncommon. The snakes would have been born much later than I suspected—August 15 to September 1. They were also much larger than I expected a young rattler to be.

Incidentally, there is a belief, not accepted as true by most snake authorities, that a rattlesnake with young will swallow them if excited, and disgorge them after the danger is passed. I have found several people who have seen rattlesnakes swallow their young, but I am looking for someone who has seen them being disgorged. My personal opinion is that rattlers may swallow their young when excited but that the little snake simply becomes part of the day's meal!

Roadrunners Seldom Seen Until Grown 53 Texas Counties Report Screwworms In 1965; Sutton County Reports 1 Case

by E. B. Keng
Soil Conservation District Technician

MISSION, Jan.—Texas farmers and ranchers detected more than twice as many screwworm infestations in 1965 as during the previous year, but the total was still negligible when compared to what they used to experience before the screwworm eradication program came along, according to eradication officials.

Livestock authorities have estimated that up to one million screwworm infestations occurred annually in the southwestern United States before agricultural researchers learned the livestock insects could be eradicated by overwhelming them with billions of screwworm flies reared in a plant and sexually sterilized with atomic radiation. Sterile flies mate with fertile flies and prevent reproduction. Nearly 17 1/2 billion sterile flies have been dispersed during the past four years.

Statistics maintained at the screwworm eradication center, near Mission, revealed that 466 infestations were recored in 53 counties during 1965. The previous year, a total of 223 cases were found in 65 counties. Sutton county recorded one screwworm case in 1965.

The majority of the infestations were detected in counties adjacent or near the United States-Mexico border, leading eradication authorities to believe that most of them were the result of fertile screwworm flies migrating out of Mexico. In 1964, cases were scattered over much of the state, including the Panhandle and East Texas.

Also contributing to the increase in infestations, according to officials, were weather conditions on both sides of the border which were ideal for screwworms to develop and spread.

Screwworms have been eradicated from all states except California and Arizona, where eradication activities are currently underway, and a barrier zone of live sterile flies has been stretched across northern Mexico to prevent reinfestation. Screwworm outbreaks can be expected to continue to occur in states bordering on Mexico, officials declared, until this barrier zone can be extended farther south.

Eradicators hope to expand the barrier in the coming months and thus reduce outbreaks in the United States. They plan to disperse the majority of the flies produced in Mexico this winter and spring to wipe out colonies of fertile flies that could survive near the international boundary.

Veterans' Pension Recipients Urged To Return Form

Veterans and dependents of deceased veterans who are being paid pension by the Veterans Administration were recently reminded by P. J. Mims, manager of the Houston regional office, to complete and return immediately the income questionnaires received by them.

Mims warns that unless these questionnaires are returned by January 31, it will be necessary to stop payment. He also warns that in addition to stop payment, it may become necessary to request the return of all payments made during 1965.

Mims stated that those required to complete questionnaires received them with their pension check at the end of November.

Low Carbohydrate Diet Termed Illusion

The eat-and-drink-all-you-want low carbohydrate diets are an illusion, the Nutrition Foundation warns. In fact, the Foundation reports, carbohydrate in the diet is essential for normal utilization of body fat under any reducing plan, and an absence of carbohydrate can cause profound and menacing changes in the chemistry of the body.

should be eaten every day. Cut down on the quantities if you need to lose weight, but do not skip essential nutrients, concluded Dr. Rivers.

In the past year, many have gone on—or have been tempted to go on—a diet low in carbohydrate to lose weight. Low carbohydrate diets have been circulated under various names—the Drinking Man's Diet, the Mayo Clinic Diet, the Air Force diet, etc.

The Mayo Clinic and the Air Force, incidentally, have disclaimed any interest in or sponsorship of a low carbohydrate diet, reports the foundation.

An analysis of the hazards of the low carbohydrate diet has been published in Practical Forecast for Home Economics, by Dr. Jerry M. Rivers and Marjorie M. Devine of Cornell University.

Low carbohydrate diets call for avoiding desserts, breads, potatoes, and some fruits and vegetables. Alcohol and beverages which do not contain sugars are permitted.

Many people in the United States desire to lose weight. And a person following a low carbohydrate diet will lose pounds initially—but this loss, Dr. Rivers points out, is due to loss of body water and not due to the loss of body fat. It is not the true weight loss that the overweight should achieve by a permanent change in eating habits and in activity. So the low carbohydrate diet is an illusion and perhaps a dangerous one, he said.

Dr. Rivers states that energy-giving carbohydrates are a nutrient necessary for the digestion of fat. If the diet is deficient in carbohydrate, the body attempts to compensate for the lack of energy by breaking down fats and proteins, the other components of meals.

The breakdown of fats for energy, in the absence of carbohydrate in the diet, leads to the accumulation in the blood of chemicals called ketones. This is a sign of a profound alteration of the body chemistry, the ultimate results of which are unknown. Further, if the body is forced, by lack of carbohydrate in the diet, to breakdown proteins in food for energy, an extra work load is placed on the kidneys.

A low carbohydrate diet also causes the body to pour out sodium. This increases the output of urine and does in fact produce a temporary weight loss because the body loses fluid, but the long-range effects of this shift in the chemistry caused by a lack of sodium also remain unknown.

Dr. Rivers stated, "The use of diets extremely limited in carbohydrates should be left in the hands of the practicing physician."

In most cases, overweight is due to overeating or to lack of physical activity. It is not a few impulsive acts of overeating but rather a continued pattern of eating beyond the body's energy needs. The problem for the overweight, therefore, is to adjust patterns of living and food habits to achieve a safe and permanent weight loss. Adequate amounts of protein, fat and carbohydrate, as well as sufficient supplies of minerals and vitamins

Over a period of 42 years, the crime committed most often in Washington, D. C., was selling ice cream cones.

It seems that in 1921, as a health measure, the sale of ice cream in less-than-pint containers was forbidden. Yet, through the years, millions of less-than-pint cones were sold in brazen defiance of the law. They were licked in plain sight by residents, tourists, Congressmen, perhaps even Supreme Court justices. Not until 1963 did Congress finally end the scandal by repealing this obsolete law.

In Elko, Nevada, crime ran even more rampant. A 1918 ordinance, passed during the great flu epidemic, required everybody to wear a flu mask in public places. Not until 1964 did the city council let people breathe easier by revoking the ordinance.

Hundreds of such laws remain on the books in various communities around the country. How does this happen?

The reason is simple: there is far more incentive to put a law on the books than to take it off. As the original stimulus for a law fades away, people gradually lose interest in it. No one obeys, no one complains, no one prosecutes.

Yet, these dead letter laws may do real harm. For one thing, they may breed disrespect for law itself. For another thing, they may give law enforcement officials too much leeway. If not probable, it is at least possible that a person might suddenly be prosecuted for doing something which he has been doing, in all innocence, for years. Accordingly, as part of a broad drive to modernize criminal law, bar associations and other attorney organizations are trying to clean out these legal anachronisms.

It is not any easy job. Some laws are plainly useless. But others, while rarely invoked, may still have a useful deterrent effect. Still others might represent a kind of gentleman's agreement whereby the community salutes a moral standard in principle while ignoring it in practice.

But it is a job well worth doing. No law should remain on the books for no better reason than that it has been forgotten.

Good Results Observed In Experiment Of Supplemental Vitamin A and Cattle

COLLEGE STATION, Jan.—The uncertainty surrounding the use of supplemental vitamin A for range beef cattle is being cleared up by ag researchers. Vitamin A plays a vital role in reproductive performance of mother cows and in growth of young animals. Research indicates vitamin A is more critical for heifers than older cows.

A. A. Melton, animal husbandman at Texas A & M University's Livestock and Forage Research Center, McGregor, has come up with some revealing information concerning vitamin A. Melton did the research in Culberson County, in the Trans-Pecos area of Texas.

In his latest test, 70 yearling heifers were bred to calve as two-year-olds. Thirty-five heifers were used as the control group and were given no supplemental vitamin A.

The other half were injected with two million units of vitamin A one month before the breeding season began and again two months later. Three weeks before calving they were given another two million units, for a total of six million units of supplemental vitamin A.

Melton said the vitamin A was injected so both groups of cattle could graze on the same pasture and to ensure accurate measurement of the dosage. But he added, "Cattle can be fed supplemental vitamin A in concentrates if desirable—and it may be more economical."

Results of the test at calving time were as follows:

From the 35 heifers injected with vitamin A, one calf was lost at calving time and 23 heifers needed help having their calves.

In the group which got no supplemental vitamin A, seven calves died at calving. Two of the heifers also died at calving time and 28 heifers needed help calving. Researchers are reluctant to draw definite conclusions from the limited information — but indications are that the supplemental vitamin A played an important role in the better performance of the treated group.

The cattle in the test were on grass pasture, but it was dried out considerably from a prolonged drought period. Melton noted, "This is when supplementary vitamin A usually pays off for cattlemen—during dry years."

In an earlier A & M test, on the Joe T. Lane ranch near Alpine, heifers given vitamin A calved an average of five days earlier than the heifers which got no supplemental vitamin A. The average adjusted weaning weights from the group given vitamin A was 23 pounds more than calves from untreated heifers. Again, researchers believe supplemental vitamin A could have been responsible for the higher weaning weights and earlier calving dates.

Although vitamin A deficiency is noticed more frequently in western counties where there is often a lack of green vegetation, it may occur in areas of higher rainfall when excessive nitrogen is applied as fertilizer. The excessive nitrogen may accumulate in plants and block the conversion of carotene to vitamin A in an animal. The result—vitamin A deficiency.

The dietary source of vitamin A is carotene, which comes from green vegetation. In dry years, or in dry regions, mother cows may be deprived of green vegetation for several months before the calf is born. This causes two conditions:

1. The vitamin A supply of the mother cow may be depleted, thus limiting her reproductive performance.

2. A limited supply of vitamin A in the newly born calf. This is made worse by the fact that there will be little vitamin A in the milk since the cow's supply is low.

Doses of supplemental vitamin A seem to solve both these problems under normal circumstances, say A & M researchers.

YOUR

by the Rev. Rodney C. Dowdy pastor, First Baptist Church

Last week we discussed man's creation. We concluded that man was created for the purpose of fellowship with God. Not only are we to have continued fellowship with God, but also we should reserve special times for daily communion with Him.

May we suggest in a practical way how to enjoy His presence. The apostle Paul admonishes the Christian "Pray without ceasing." (1 Thess. 5:17) The suggestion is made that we should always be in tune with God's will. We can be in the attitude of prayer as we drive our cars, walk down the street, wash dishes, or work on the ranch.

There also must be special times when we cease from physical activity for the purpose of meditation and prayer. We read that Jesus was alone in the mountains and prayed. Before any great decision or decisive activity Jesus withdrew from friends in order to be alone with God.

In Acts 3:1-11 the Bible records that Peter and John went together into the temple in the evening for prayer. This suggests not only a definite time of prayer but also the beautiful experience of having a "Prayer Partner."

Prayer must be more than a time to make our request to God for personal desires. True prayer includes elements of thanksgiving, adoration, and confession. The story is told of a little boy who did not pray one night as he went to bed. His grandmother asked him why he did not pray before he went to bed. The little boy answered his grandmother, "Sometimes I don't want anything."

Let us remember that prayer is not a substitute for work and service. Prayer prepares us for greater service. A little chorus our children sing will help us.

"God answers prayer in the morning,

Snips, Quips, And Lifts

PORTRAIT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

You have before you a huge, shining white canvas stretched upon the easel. In the year, 1966, you have a commission to paint a picture upon this canvas. It will take 365 strokes of your brush to complete it; you have at your command all of the colors of oil paints known to man. You may choose and blend your own colors before transferring them to the canvas. The colors you choose will determine the beauty and value of the finished picture at the end of the year.

Life is a blending of light and shadow. Each day as you apply your brush stroke, be careful you do not have too much black, dull gray, or brown—for these will mar the beauty of the picture you are gradually completing. Remember that you alone are the artist, that you alone can determine the value of your production.

At the end of the year, when the final blending of colors has been accomplished—will your work of art be radiant and glowing with all of the beautiful colors of hope, happiness, courage, and work well done? Or will it be dull, grayish looking—desolate and depressing to look upon?

The colors you apply each day on the canvas of your life will determine whether you will produce a masterpiece of great worth—one that will inspire and show noble living—or whether it will be a smudge blur of shadows where no light shines through.

At this moment your canvas is ready, your colors are arrayed for the blending, your brush is at hand for the first stroke.

What color will you apply today?

A high-powered New York business man was suddenly called to an important meeting in Chicago. It was scheduled to last a week, and he had to be on a plane within an hour. However it was necessary for him to contact his wife before he left. This was not so easy as she was on a shopping tour of the department stores. Suddenly the man came up with a brilliant idea. He ordered his secretary to cancel all of his wife's charge accounts. It worked—she telephoned in a rage within ten minutes.

When people climb into their automobiles, they leave 99 per cent of themselves somewhere else, and try to drive with the 1 per cent they have left. They look where they are going, but their minds are back in the kitchen, on the golf course, with a girl friend, or planning a party. It's no wonder they have accidents.

What's A GARNISH

SUSAN'S mother is a wonderful cook. She'll teach her little girl all about garnishes and dumplings and preserves... and about dozens of other skills that will help Susan to be a talented homemaker herself, one day.

We pass our own store of knowledge on to our children because we want to make things easier for them in the future. They will need all the preparation we can give them in order to cope with a life that grows ever more complex.

ABOVE all, we owe our children the opportunity to learn about their best Friend, God. Awareness of His loving presence will give them confidence and courage whatever they do, wherever they go. Through regular church attendance, they can absorb the inspiring principles of Christianity... the most valuable recipes for modern living that exist.

Horehound Growth Should Be Curbed

Horehound is growing vigorously on many ranches this time of the year, reminds County Agent D. C. Langford.

The county agent said that the horehound is a noxious plant on sheep and goat ranches. The burs cling to wool and mohair—with the result of buyers paying a lower price for the product.

One of the most successful methods of control is repeated treatments using solutions of 2,4-D or 2,4,5-T applied with a hand gun or with a broadcast, boomless nozzle, said Langford.

Extension Leaflet 598, "Noxious and Poisonous Range Plant Control" contains the proper rates of chemical to use.

Langford explained that spraying should not be done when the day temperature is less than 40 degrees. A light frost will burn the terminal growth, but after a few warm days, the plant will begin growing and spraying can be continued.

Spraying needs to be done before the plants begin to mature seed, he continued. Several sprayings per year are necessary to keep horehound under control. Also, spraying will need to be continued for several years to keep the plant from maturing seed.

The chemical sprays react slowly during cool temperatures and some failures are possible. If poor kills result, retreatment should be done when the plants are growing faster, concluded Langford.

Health Officials Renew Importance Of Rabies Control

A renewed emphasis by state authorities is being placed on animal vaccination against rabies after a definite upswing in this virus disease has been noted since early fall.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, State commissioner of health, said there is definitely an increase in animal rabies cases in many parts of Texas since September. And in the first week of the new year at least 12 cases have been confirmed by the state health laboratory.

The confirmation came from animal head autopsies performed on dogs, livestock, and some wildlife.

The number of cases back in the fall reached four or five, but the figure jumped to 12 in November and 27 through December 25. No single area of the state has been cited as leading the statistics, since the increase appears to be statewide.

In light of this, health authorities are stressing renewed animal rabies control programs at city and county levels of enforcement to protect the human population against having to take treatment or dying from the infection.

State health officials emphasize that a complete continuing rabies control program must include the following phases: 1. Public education regarding the seriousness of rabies exposure and the relative ease with which rabies can be controlled in the animal population through concerted effort; 2. Vaccination of all owned dogs and cats; 3. Pick-up and elimination of all stray dogs and cats; and 4. Wildlife control procedures in the county areas and the eradication of those in cities and their fringe areas.

20 Deaths Blamed To Hunting Season

Death took no holiday afield during the closing days of the fall game harvest as three new fatalities raised the total to 20 during the current season, according to unofficial reports to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Yet authorities considered the death toll, possibly incomplete, actually moderate in view of the enormous number of people bearing firearms since the first hunting phase began September 1 with the opening of the north zone dove season.

They reasoned that in addition to the almost 600,000 who bought hunting licenses, an additional 150,000 exempt for assorted reasons ran the overall total participating to 750,000. It was estimated most of these made several field trips while armed. On the basis of 750,000 hunters, not allowing for the multiple sorties, the hunting death rate from guns was one for every 37,000 nimrods.

Two of the three latest casualties died from typical self-inflicted wounds. One man hastily pulled a loaded big game rifle, muzzle first, toward himself from across the hood of a pickup. Another sustained a fatal wound when his loaded rifle, resting on the floor of his pickup cab, muzzle up, fell toward him and was discharged.

The third accidental death involved a 17-year old boy, fatally shot when a youthful hunting companion dropped a loaded shotgun as they walked through the woods.

The new fatalities raised the big game hunting death toll from gunfire to seven, none of whom succumbed to the age-old tragedy of being mistaken for wild game.

Six of the twenty gun victims died from self-inflicted wounds. Two perished in handling guns in tree deer blinds. Two pulled loaded guns—one rifle and one shotgun—toward themselves from cars. The one man died in the pickup incident and the other was killed climbing through a fence with a loaded gun.

Dr. Howell Named County Health Officer

Dr. J. F. Howell was re-appointed county health officer by the County commission at a meeting held January 10.

The Commission also set the salary of county employees, excluding elected officials and their deputies, with a 5 percent raise. All elected officials and deputies will receive the same salaries as in 1965.

The commission checked the treasurer's quarterly report.

Steed Asks Return Of March of Dimes Donation Envelopes

The March of Dimes asked everybody in Sutton County an important question recently.

"If enough of them send back the right answer," said county chairman J. L. Steed, "there will be more help and hope for the babies born next year with birth defects."

The question, contained in the March of Dimes mail appeal that went to area homes, is asked by hundreds of thousands of American mothers each year:

"Why did it happen to my baby?"

"Unfortunately," declared Steed, "the scientists are unable to give a specific answer except in a few cases. They know how to detect and control certain body chemistry defects which cause severe mental retardation. They also know that many expectant mothers who contract German measles—as in the massive 1963-64 epidemic—will give birth to defective babies. Most of these children can benefit from medical treatment."

"But until science learns more about the hundreds of birth defects which occur in some 250,000 American babies each year, the best help we can give these mothers is a gift to the March of Dimes," the campaign chairman said.

He noted that the March of Dimes is the largest single national source of private support for research and care in birth defects. Included in this program are more than 50 March of Dimes-financed treatment centers where teams of medical experts are developing better methods of treating birth defects victims.

"Your response to the March of Dimes mail appeal," added Steed, "can bring closer the day when far fewer mothers will have to ask that tragic question 'Why?'"
