Board Plans To Examine Petitions, Call Election

Petitions asking a $450,000 bond election are slated to be examined and the election date set at a special meeting of the board of trustees of the Sonora Independent School District.

The special meeting is to be held Monday, April 4, at 7 p.m.

The bonds would finance a new gymnasium, new science hall, new band hall, major renovation of heating and lighting at L. W. Elliott School and Sonora High School, possible new construction at Elliott, and possible new homemaking facilities.

The petitions are being circulated by board members and one has been available in the office of Rex Lowe, school superintendent. Twenty signatures are needed to call the election.

It is estimated that an increase of taxes from $1.50 to $1.75 on the $100 valuation of property will have to be made to pay the bonds.

The School Board voted to petition for the bond election at a special meeting Thursday, March 17, and received the petitions from the fiscal agent at another special meeting Monday, March 21.

Fiscal agent is Carter Johnson of Rauscher, Pierce and Co., Inc., of San Antonio. The board has signed a contract with the architectural firm of Gary and Hohertz and Associates of Big Spring to draft plans for the construction.

Chamber Board Backs Public Housing

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors unanimously passed a resolution to ask the city commission to investigate the possibilities of establishing local housing authority for the purpose of supplying low-rent housing.

The Tuesday night meeting was the first business session to include newly elected officers, and Dick Black, Bob Teaff, Jack Kerbow, John King, Tommy Thorp, Rex Cusenbary, Marion Elliott, and Bob Johnson, manager, attended.

As explained by Homer E. Pace Jr. of Midland in earlier visits and by Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency fact sheets, the City Council must first pass and publish a resolution of intent and then wait 60 days to see how the community accepts the idea. The council must also activate a Housing Board which will appoint a low salaried manager.

The housing project is financed by revenue bonds against the units and will not affect the city's bond structure. These bonds are to run for 40 years, usually at 2 or 3 percent interest, and control of the units remains in local hands.

This program is for cities or counties to provide decent, safe and sanitary rental housing for low-income persons including the elderly, and the program dates back to 1934 nationally and 1937 in Texas. It is set up to be a non-profit operation, not meant to compete with private rentals.

As of August, 1964, there were around 36,941 of these units with perhaps 1,000 more in the talking stage.

After the Local Housing Authority is formed, it proceeds to the selection of a site, acquisition, planning and contracting. The project is constructed complete with landscaping and lawns.

Based upon existing local need, the LHA will make application to the Public Housing Authority for a loan for a given number of housing units. By the Housing Act of 1961, room cost limitations were set at $2,000, except in Alaska and for the elderly, when more is allowed.

When the project is 90 percent completed, the LHA, with the cooperation of PHA, will sell its housing authority bonds on the private market. From money received on rent, the Local Housing Authority will pay operating expenses and that part of the principal and interest which it can. The government, through an annual contribution contract, will take up the slack. After all loans are paid, all units become property of the city.

Only standard of occupancy, besides being acceptable tenants, is the family income maximum, which is set by the local authority. Tenants are screened, put up a security bond and may be asked to vacate as under private ownership. If family income should rise above the limits established for occupancy, the family must move as soon as it can obtain other housing that meets its needs.

The construction contract is awarded to the lowest responsible bidder and approved by the PHA. Federal law requires Local Housing Authorities to establish tenant admission policies that give full consideration to their responsibility for housing elderly persons of low-income, as well as others of the low-income bracket.

Along with consideration for its residents, LHA also keeps in mind the appearance of its units so they will contribute to the improvement of the community. Should tenants fail to take care of their own lawns, LHA can take over and levy a monthly charge.

OTHER BUSINESS
In other business, the board of directors voted to enter Sonora in Operation Sparkle, a West Texas Chamber of Commerce project to get West Texas towns sparkling clean for the influx of tourists in 1968 for HemisFair, the Mexico City Olympics, and Lions and Rotary conventions. The Rev. Rollin Polk is presently working on slides for a presentation to local civic clubs to enlist their aid in Sonora's Operation Sparkle.

The chamber also decided to enlist the aid of WTCC this spring in holding a seminar on tourism for local businessmen and employees who come in contact with tourists.

Jack Kerbow reported preliminary progress in the establishment of a nursing home for Sonora but said that final approval was pending. Chairmen were appointed for tourism and hunting, civic improvement, and industrial development, but acceptance is pending. The board of directors will form the membership committee.

Will Carelessness Cause Your Child's Death?

Your child inert and perhaps even lifeless, all because of carelessness on your part. It will never happen, one thinks, yet it did happen to 600,000 American children last year. Of this number 500 suffered the extreme consequences of poisoning—death. Ninety percent were under five years of age.

With these alarming statistics before us, it is time to stop and think. Congress has even taken a hand and by joint resolution approved September 26, 1961, requested the President to issue an annual proclamation designating the third week in March as National Poison Prevention Week.

These poisonings were in a variety of ways, but all were related to carelessness. One would not dare leave a loaded pistol within reach of a small child, yet medicines are often where they can be reached by inquisitive youngsters.

Many household cleaners that are fine for cleaning are fatal in a child's stomach. Paint thinners and brush cleaners are left, with the expectancy of soon returning to them, but can a child reach them in the meantime?

Health authorities are concerned about these needless accidents and are urging preventive measures. For this reason March 20-26 has been officially designated by President Johnson as a time for national, state and local agencies to promote better protection against such happenings, but care should not be limited to this period of time alone. It is meant only to serve as a reminder that where young children are concerned one should be alert every moment of the day for anything that might endanger their safety.

Modernize Fishing, J. A. Tells Scientists

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Devil's River apparently has been getting his mind off world problems, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
I was sitting on a bank doing a little fishing the other day when I noticed an interesting item in a newspaper I'd brought along to sit on in case the ground was damp.

According to it, an Italian firm is now making a battery-powered fork that automatically winds up spaghetti.

An electric fork, well, why not, if you're going to tackle spaghetti, and that got me to listing all the other things in that line, like the electric carving knife, the electric tooth brush, the electric comb, the electric hair brush, the electric blanket, the electric baby bed that tilts or vibrates at the push of a button and rocks the baby to sleep, electric exercisers, electric dish washers, electrically operated car windows, electric garage doors, electric chairs, well I won't go into that, electric can openers, electric hog trough warmers, electric ... but about that time I got a bite and dropped the newspaper and grabbed my pole.

It was a fairly large fish and I got him to the bank all right and on my stringer, and was catching my breath and deciding to rest awhile before re-baiting when the thought hit me.

What's the matter with American industry, why not an electric fishing pole?

Shouldn't be hard to build. An electric motor to reel in your line if you use a reel, another motor to cast your bait with a small computer in the handle to aim it automatically after a range-finder has indicated where it should be tossed, after your small radar set has shown where the fish are hiding.

As for an electric cane pole, that may take some doing, it's not going to be easy for science to determine where to locate the motor to make it yank the line out of the water, but in the meantime science can certainly perfect an electric fish cleaner.

I can't think of a single reason why in this modern age science can't do something to take the drudgery out of fishing.

If you don't like to fish, have you thought of perfecting an electric golf stick?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Lenten Notes
Ever oven-fried oysters? Dip them first in seasoned flour, then in slightly beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs. Sprinkle both sides with salad oil and bake in a shallow pan in a moderately hot (400°F.) oven until brown, about 15 minutes.

White sauce layered with shrimp, crabmeat or flaked canned or cooked fish, topped with grated cheese and bread crumbs give an "au gratin" dish. Baking will take about 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Whole fish is excellent with a stuffing of rice, sauteed onion and mushrooms.

Slices of bread, eggs and milk beaten together and grated cheese mixed throughout all gives what's known as a "strata." When baked, it's firm like a custard and may be served with tomato sauce.

Serve fish with a pickle sauce for zest: chopped dill pickle added to white sauce with sieved or chopped hard-cooked egg.

Caper sauce is good for fish, too. Melt butter, add to it some lemon juice, chopped parsley, vinegar from capers and capers.

Helen's Favorite:

Date-Pecan Goodies (30 to 40 cookies)

1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 unbeaten egg white

Mix dates, pecans and sugar. Add to egg white. Mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven, 12 minutes or until a light brown in color. Cool. Remove from sheet. If desired, these may be topped with cut-up cherries or colored sugar before baking.

Mouth Breathing in Children Can Lead To Permanent Dental, Physical Damage

Mouth breathing can affect your child's dental and physical health.

Parents generally realize that some oral habits, such as thumb-sucking, when carried on too far in the child's age, affect the teeth in such a way as to push them into abnormal positions. Thumb-sucking is only one of the so-called "bad" oral habits. Mouth breathing can also be detrimental to the child's health. It is often overlooked and undetected.

Mouth breathing means that the individual has a habit of breathing through the mouth. When this occurs continuously, the gum tissues are irritated through the drying effects of the air. The tissues become inflamed, sometimes swollen and even painful.

Mouth breathing can contribute to a different kind of tooth decay pattern than usually seen. The typical mouth breather shows large whitish soft spots around the gum line of the front teeth, the result of drying of the foreign material that collects about the necks of the teeth. A continual mouth breather often develops a change in the position of the teeth, or in other terms, may also develop a malocclusion.

When the child continually holds his mouth open, the muscular support of the tongue and lower lip are lost to the upper teeth. The teeth collapse toward the inside of the mouth, thereby narrowing the dental arch. Often the front teeth will begin to protrude.

When a child continually breathes through his mouth, the air does not pass through the nose, missing the important function that the nose plays in preparing the air for the lungs. As dry, dirty, cold air from the outside passes through the nose, the air is filtered by the hairs in the nose; it is warmed by the large mass of blood vessels that are inside the nose, and is humidified by the moisture that the nose contains. Mouth breathing usually will result in an increase in upper respiratory infections. The child will have more colds, or even suffer a more serious lung problem.

Not every child who breathes through his mouth should be considered a mouth breather, for many children have short upper lips and keep their mouths open while breathing through their nose. Who then, becomes a mouth breather?

Children with narrow faces have a tendency to have narrow airways or noses, easily closed off because of a minor cold. Some children will have enlarged adenoid or tonsil tissue, which normally grows in excess up to about 10 years of age and then diminishes in size. During this period, the airway may be obstructed by the tonsils. The child is forced to breathe through his mouth until he outgrows his enlarged tonsils. He develops a breathing habit not easily corrected.

Mouth breathing is very common between the ages of 4-12 and is easily diagnosed by your physician or dentist. It should be corrected to prevent harmful dental and physical effects.

Federal Tax Matters Clarified by IRS

With tax time rapidly approaching, doubtless there are many questions in the minds of Sonorans concerning the do's and don'ts of income tax.

The following article of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers:

Q—What kind of records should I keep for my income tax return, that I might have to produce if I'm audited?

A—Keep whatever you need to substantiate the income and deductions on your return. Cancelled checks, paid bills, Forms W-2 and 1099, bank books and similar records will be helpful.

Q—Why is my wife's Social Security number so important on a joint tax return? Most of the income comes from my salary.

A—According to the law, your wife should show her account number on your joint return if she had: 1) separate gross income of $600 or more, or $1200 or more if she was 65 or more before the end of the taxable year, or 2) self-employment income, or 3) separate income, such as wages, dividends, or interest, paid to her which the payer is required to report on a return or statement of information.

If the necessary account numbers are not on a return the matching can not be done, necessitating correspondence with the taxpayer. Failure to include your wife's number will delay the processing of your return and any refund due.

Q—I am retired and have no taxable income. Can I still file a joint return with my wife who is still working?

A—Yes. The fact that either the husband or the wife had no income does not prevent them from filing a joint return.

Q—I paid up the mortgage on my home early but was charged a prepayment penalty. Is that deductible?

A—Yes. It is deductible as interest if you itemize your deductions.

Q—When can I start excluding sick pay?

A—There are two rules governing when and how much sick pay may be excluded from income for federal tax purposes.

First, if the amount you receive as sick pay is more than 75 percent of your weekly rate of pay, there is a 30 day waiting period before you are entitled to a sick-pay exclusion.

If the amount you receive is 75 percent or less, the waiting period is seven days unless you are hospitalized for at least one day during your absence from work. In that event, there is no waiting period. The exclusion is limited to $75.00 per week for the part of the first 30-day period in which you are entitled to the exclusion. After that, it becomes $100.00 per week.

Q—My husband and I have separated. Who is entitled to claim the children as dependents?

A—The children may be claimed as dependents by the person who provides more than half their support during the taxable year. Whether this person is you or your husband depends on the financial arrangements worked out between you.

Q—I have inherited $2,000 from my father's estate. Will I have to report this on my return?

A—No, inheritances are not taxable income.

Q—How much can I deduct for state gas tax this year?

A—On page nine of the 1040 instruction booklet you will find the amount that may be deducted for gasoline tax on a state-by-state basis.

Q—What's the law on estimated tax? Who has to file a declaration?

A—In general terms, taxpayers are required to file a Declaration of Estimated Income Tax, Form 1040ES, and make quarterly payments of estimated tax when their tax liability is expected to exceed their withholding by $40 or more. See page

Researchers Say Ranchers Should Put Cattle on Full Feed in 7 to 10 Days

Cattlemen who want to get the most from their investment in feedlot cattle know the importance of getting cattle on full feed as quickly as possible—without harm to the cattle.

Bill Conrad and Ed Neal, in charge of beef cattle research at Texas A&M University's Coastal Bend Experiment Station, Beeville, put test cattle on full feed (high-concentrate ration) in seven to ten days after the cattle are bought.

Getting the cattle on full feed in a hurry is a money-saver, says Conrad. Why? Because feed requirements go up the longer cattle are in the feedlot. Many cattlemen take three to four weeks to start cattle on feed, but it can be done safely in a lot less time, he said.

The seven to ten day figure is by no means a record—but it's a respectable time, most cattlemen agree.

The following program is used by the A&M researchers to get cattle on full feed in a hurry:

First, the cattle are started on the same ration to be used during the entire feeding period. Plenty of trough space is necessary—otherwise some cattle will get more than their allotted share and others will go hungry. Those not getting their share won't progress very rapidly toward full feed, either, said Conrad.

Limit intake for the first two or three days—about four to six pounds an animal each day is used at the Beeville station. The cattle are fed twice a day to reduce risk of bloating or scouring.

One pound of hay per animal is scattered on top of the concentrate. This gets the cattle coming to the trough, since they are used to eating hay or grass. As they sample the hay, the cattle get a taste of the concentrate and begin eating. The hay also acts as a partial filler.

After two or three days, the concentrate is increased about two pounds, and the hay held constant.

Conrad reminds, "Always use the hay to vary the ration with, don't cut back on concentrate—add more hay."

Droppings are observed. If they are loose, the concentrate is not increased and the hay is kept in the ration. The droppings must be in good physical condition before putting the cattle on full feed.

After the seventh day, if the cattle look alert and the droppings are firm, hay is removed and the concentrate kept constant. This keeps cattle from making up for the hay by eating extra concentrate.

Finally, two or three days after the hay is removed, or about the tenth day, provided the cattle look ready, feed is made available free choice. The cattle are now on full feed.

Conrad said visual examination of cattle and droppings is the best indication of when to increase feed, when to remove hay and when to make feed available free choice. He said the seven to ten day figure is not sacred—but at the A&M field station at Beeville they have had outstanding results with it, and believe it will work for others.

"But, each man must decide for himself," said Conrad, "he may want to make modifications of the full feed program to fit his individual operation."

John Eaton and Joe B. Ross attended the meeting of the Tom Green Historical Association Monday night in San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Cashes W. Taylor visited their son, Billie, who is drilling a water well in Sabinal. Mrs. Billie W. Taylor and sons, Kevin and Billie Cash, accompanied the elder Taylors.

Conrad said visual examination of cattle and droppings is the best indication of when to increase feed, when to remove hay and when to make feed available free choice. He said the seven to ten day figure is not sacred—but at the A&M field station at Beeville they have had outstanding results with it, and believe it will work for others.

"But, each man must decide for himself," said Conrad, "he may want to make modifications of the full feed program to fit his individual operation."

John Eaton and Joe B. Ross attended the meeting of the Tom Green Historical Association Monday night in San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Cashes W. Taylor visited their son, Billie, who is drilling a water well in Sabinal. Mrs. Billie W. Taylor and sons, Kevin and Billie Cash, accompanied the elder Taylors.

Conrad reminds, "Always use the hay to vary the ration with, don't cut back on concentrate—add more hay."

Droppings are observed. If they are loose, the concentrate is not increased and the hay is kept in the ration. The droppings must be in good physical condition before putting the cattle on full feed.

After the seventh day, if the cattle look alert and the droppings are firm, hay is removed and the concentrate kept constant. This keeps cattle from making up for the hay by eating extra concentrate.

Finally, two or three days after the hay is removed, or about the tenth day, provided the cattle look ready, feed is made available free choice. The cattle are now on full feed.

The track team won fourth in the Eldorado Track Meet Saturday. Laney Cook was the high-point man at the meet with 27 points. He won a first in the high hurdles, a first in the low hurdles, and a fourth place in the broad jump. Other Sonora winners were Mike Wuest, who won fifth in the shot put; Eddie Howell, who won fifth in the 100-yard dash; and Noe Chavez, who won third in the pole vault. Erwin Seydler of Uvalde was here during the weekend visiting Jackie Cargill.

Very few college kids have been home recently. I just counted three this week. These are Dick McMillan, Jack Hearn, and Johnny Merck.

The one-act play cast is getting nervous already... the contest will be here this year on Tuesday! The district literary meet will be in Eldorado next Friday.

The nice spring weather has really affected some of the kids around here. Vera Beth Wade and Kathryn Grelle have been riding Jane Sawyer's "bicycle-built-for-two" all over town in the afternoons.

The golf team went to a golf tournament in Brownwood Saturday. Don't anyone dare ask Chris Berger, Gary McGilvray, Gary Hardgrave, Jimmy Trainer, or Dick Hamilton what the outcome of that tournament was!!

Quite a few people are looking forward to the junior assembly Friday. Others are dreading it!

The seniors have finally finished their research papers. Relief for them doesn't mean much for the poor juniors. It's their turn now! Shelley Morriss was the only

GREEN NEWS

by Lunetta Morgan
Spring is here and there is no excuse not to write this column; so with a borrowed typewriter and donated paper, we're off.

The Sonora High School Golf Team attended their first meet over the weekend at Brady. Team score was 331 which placed them in sixth position in the small school division. Gary Hardgrave shot a 77, Gary McGilvray 81; Jimmy Trainer 85; Chris Berger 88 and Dick Hamilton 90. A comment of one of the team, "The course is well trapped".

While on the subject of competition play, Sammy Espy was in the foursome that tied for fourth in the select-shot, mixed-team play competition Sunday at the San Angelo Country Club.

Dates to mark on the golfing calendar: April 2 and 3, Men's Invitational Tournament. There has been big planning on this, a bar-b-que and maybe a dance Saturday evening. Also mark April 16 which will be the first partnership tournament for the women. Then April 23, Del Rio is playing host to the Women.

A twosome out the other day was Betty Stewart and Betty Jones.

Recent par shooters were Dub Black and Lee Fawcett. The day Lee shot his good score, Bud Smith was driving up and down the highway heralding the news to anyone within earshot.

We want to express our appreciation to E. L. Harrell for rolling the fairways. Our scores have improved and our drives are longer. And speaking of improved scores, Sammy Espy shot in the low 80's this week. Other women with good scores this week were Bobbie Fawcett, Wanda Cahill and Ernestine Hext.

Pauline Thompson was able to attend the luncheon Wednesday after her recent operation. It was good to see her up and about and hope that it won't be too long before she is out on the course.

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Powers as new members.

Seven teams participated in the March Men's Club Tournament. The team of Jerry Hopkins took the honors.

The Auxiliary has purchased six tables for the Club and thanks goes to Mr. Ben Meckel for his liberal donation.

A closing word to the Golfers: "You all make the news and we will print it."

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

by the Rev. Arno Melz pastor, Hope Lutheran Church

"This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief." 1 Timothy 1:15

ceived by a loving, merciful God and you will be forgiven.

Be honest with yourself, be honest with God, confess your sins and He will forgive you. Jesus did come into the world to save sinners such as you and I. Accept God's forgiveness today; He is waiting for you with open arms. Amen!

In recent articles we have learned that all men know there is a God through the existence of the world, by their conscience and especially from the Bible, which is God's holy Word. Our study of the Bible reveals the great love God has for us sinners. This love was so great He allowed His Son to die on the cross for our sins.

In our text Paul tells us this is a true statement and should be accepted by all, that Jesus came into the world to save sinners. Paul further adds that he who was one of the greatest missionaries, was also one of the chief sinners.

If you are a person that does not attend church, if you are a person that attends occasionally, or if you are a person that attends every Sunday, you still need to make a similar statement. You are a sinner in need of forgiveness. Everyday you disobey God's law; everyday you need forgiveness.

We must confess that we are one of the worst sinners simply because we know we do wrong. Many times people pry into other people's lives looking for faults, when we should be examining our own lives. People might gossip about others, but this is just a smoke screen to hide their own faults. We may fool people by directing their attention to the faults of others, but we must answer to God who can look into our hearts.

If you have been guilty of trying to hide your sins, if you stayed away from church because of your sins, then follow Paul's example and confess your sins to God. Your prayer for forgiveness will be received.

IRS Plans To Mail New Tax Tables To Employers

New Tax Withholding Tables and Instructions for the 65 to 70 million persons who will be affected by Tax Adjustment Act of 1966 are en route to the IRS Regional Service Centers for labeling and mailing, IRS District Director Ellis Campbell Jr. announced this week.

The rates at which tax is withheld have been revised to more closely approximate the rates upon which year-end liability is based. However, this is not a tax increase, since the taxpayer's total yearly liability will not be affected.

Although new withholding rates will not become effective until May 1, IRS is expediting information to give employers and employees maximum time to adjust to the new withholding system.

It is expected that IRS Service Centers will complete labeling and mailing of the Employers' Tax Guide and Employee Fact Sheet (Document 5642) to all employers with 25 or less employees by the end of March.

Tourist Centers Aid More Visitors

A preliminary Travel Industry Report by the Texas Highway Department reveals its Tourist Information Centers played host to a record 753,350 travelers last year. This total is an impressive 133,000 greater or a 17 per cent increase over 1964.

The Department's information centers are located at key points of entry and in the rotunda of the State Capitol in Austin to provide professional travel counseling to the public. Visitors are provided with current travel information, literature on points of interest, travel maps and information about Texas' attractions. Current road condition reports are also available to motorists stopping at the centers.

The importance of the travel industry to the State's economy has long been recognized by the Texas Highway Department. Through its travel and information division it strives to bring visitors to Texas in ever-increasing numbers. This is accomplished by publicizing the State's many attractions and providing information and descriptive literature to prospective visitors.

Record Earnings Reported by Shell

In attaining record earnings for the fourth year in a row Shell Oil Company raised the rate of return on sharehold investment from 13.2 per cent in 1964 to 14.5 per cent in 1965, significantly above the oil industry average, Richard C. McCurdy, president, disclosed in the annual report this week.

This brought the improvement in the rate of return since 1961 to more than 40 per cent. In the same period shareholders investment grew 19 per cent, from $1,477 million to $1,750.8 million.

Shell also set records in production of crude oil and natural gas, refinery intakes and sales of petroleum and chemical products. Total revenues surpassed $3 billion for the first time, amounting to $3,104,918,000.

Post Offices Have Medicare Forms

The newest effort being made by social security offices to see that no person past age 65 misses out on Medicare by not having a chance to sign up utilizes local post offices across the country, according to Floyd B. Ellington, district manager.

A special Medicare application form is now stocked in all post offices. That form can be used by anyone 65 years of age or older who has lost or has not acted on any direct mailings he may have received.

March 31 is the last date this year on which persons born in 1900 or earlier can sign up for the hospital and doctor bill insurance provided by Medicare. Even though the form does not reach a social security office until early in April, a March 31 postmark beats the deadline.

Trainees Needed To Fill Posts
As Game Wardens

Qualified Texans may now apply for the next training school for state game wardens, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Interest in the warden posts, the Department noted, has substantially increased since the Legislature hiked beginning pay to $384 monthly, plus retirement and other benefits.

Each applicant must be in good physical condition, a high school graduate, citizen of the United States, and a resident of Texas for at least one year prior to the date of appointment.

Applicants must be between 21 and 40 years of age inclusive, at least 5 feet 8 inches tall, without shoes, and must weigh at least two pounds and not more than three pounds for each inch of height.

Applications should be sent to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

Those applicants passing the written, competitive examination will be notified to appear for oral examination. Extensive background investigation of each successful candidate will be made by supervisory personnel of the Department.

Twenty men, selected from those ranking highest in the competitive examination procedure, will be appointed to fill vacancies. These men will receive extensive training, including the four-month formal school at Texas A&M.

Upon successful completion of all phases of the training program, the new men will be commissioned as Game Wardens and assigned to a district for duty.

Instructions for applying may be obtained from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Office, John H. Reagan Building, Austin or at the regional office, P. O. Drawer 1590, San Angelo.

COST IS $3 MILLION
Magruder Values Promotion at $12 Million

Wool and lamb producers are getting about $12 million worth of promotion for less than $3 million actually spent, said G. C. Magruder Jr. of Mertzton, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association. He had just finished heading the Texas delegation at the American Sheep Producers Council annual meeting in Denver.

A full report on the Denver session and upcoming promotional plans for selling more lamb and wool will be given at the quarterly TS&GRA meeting in Menard on Saturday, March 26. The Menard meeting begins with registration at 7:30 a.m., committee meetings at 9 a.m., and a lamb luncheon at noon.

It appears that virtually all other wool-producing states will vote in favor of a proposed 50 per cent increase in deductions for promotional activities, this additional money to be divided equally between wool and lamb. These deductions are made from the annual incentive payments on wool and lamb. The Texas delegation to the ASPC will give a full report on this situation at the Menard meeting.

The actual grower contribution through these deductions was originally $3.5 million a year, but last year declined to $2.4 million because of a decrease in sheep numbers. Despite this decline, ASPC has been able to obtain cooperative and tie-in advertising to more than quadruple the amount of promotion actually paid for with the stockmen's dollars.

Sixteen delegates and one alternate represented Texas stockmen in Denver.

Snips, Quips, And Lifts

by Mrs. Lottie Lee Baker

I have always wanted to be a writer—
A composer of poems and such—I think, and I read and I ponder a lot—
But my pen doesn't give out much. I write as I talk—running on and on—I try to be quiet and clever—
But that natural "old me" just will out—
Seems I can't accomplish it ever. Here's a fair sample of my "rhyming" of words—
They don't mean much to the world, I'm sure—
But they help fill this space allotted me—
I hope you can read them and endure.

It's nice to be important, but it is more important to be nice.

Our two most interesting ages are SIX and EIGHTEEN. At six we know all the questions and at eighteen we know all the answers.

Be what you want other folks to be, but try to beat them to it.

Truth needs no crutch—if it limps, it's a lie.

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.

Some people are like a tea bag; never show their strength until they get into hot water.

Who rules the world, now that no one rocks the cradle?

The difference between a prejudice and a conviction is you can explain a conviction without getting mad.

A ship in the harbor is safe—but that is not what ships are made for.

There may be a destiny that shapes our ends, but our middles are of our own chewing.

How to stay ignorant: Be satisfied with your opinions, and content with your knowledge.

They call it legal tender—
That green and lovely stuff—
It's tender when you have it—
But when you don't—it's tough.

A LIFT FOR THE WEEK
Even the longest journey begins with one short step.

Others present at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neil Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Parker, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lane.

The Alexanders served cherry cake, coffee, and iced tea. Table appointments followed an Easter theme.

STRONG CHURCHES Make STRONG COMMUNITIES

SINCERITY

We might imagine this is a squirrel assuming a prayerful pose while satisfying his appetite... like a man pretending to be religious in order to gain the respect of others.

We are not often fooled by falsity, nor do we let it blind us to truth. We know our religion is our richest treasure. But we rate it worthless unless sincere.

Today millions are talking about the world's spiritual needs. Is talking enough?

Isn't faith more than a word... prayer more than a pose?

Attend church every week with your entire family. Support the Church with willing sacrifice. Offer your time and talents to God in your congregation's busy life. And live each day the truths you cherish.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Handle With Care

To clean her rugs, a housewife made use of a powerful cleaning fluid. But, working in a closed room, she inhaled so much of the lethal fumes that she died. Was the manufacturer of the cleaning fluid legally liable for her death?

After a court test, the company was indeed held liable—mainly because of a misleading label on the can. The brand name, in large letters, strongly implied that the product was safe to use. As for danger, the only warning was small and inconspicuous.

Damage suits are rising with growing frequency in the field of "product liability." One key issue is the responsibility of a manufacturer to warn the consumer of possible danger.

Sometimes the matter is covered by specific statutory requirements, such as marking poison with a skull and crossbones. But even without any specific requirements, a manufacturer generally has a duty to give warning, when needed, of dangers inherent in his wares.

For, in this age of synthetic and complex products, the consumer is often unable to detect those dangers for himself.

"Such a dependent society," said one judge, "must exact greater care than in more simple days and must require from manufacturers or producers increased integrity and caution as the only protection of its safety and well-being."

Nevertheless, the law will not blame the manufacturer for every mishap in which his product plays a part. He need not warn the consumer of hazards that should be obvious.

For instance, the manufacturer need not place a HANDLE WITH CARE notice on a hammer, just because it can mash your thumb. Or on a needle, just because it can puncture your skin.

Nor is the manufacturer liable if his warning, although properly given, is not properly heeded.

Thus, a man who was burned by an inflammable adhesive was held not entitled to damages from the manufacturer. He had used the product near an open flame, even though the container carried a plain and pointed warning not to do so.

In short, the manufacturer does owe you fair warning of danger. After that it's up to you.

Former Sonoran Encounters Heavy Gunfire As He Flies Rescue Missions in Viet Nam

"Charlie may put down his hoe and pick up a rifle. The next day he may be selling you something or transporting you in a cab." So states Robert T. Wood, Air Force lieutenant in Viet Nam, in talking about "Charlie," the nickname for members of the Viet Cong.

The lieutenant, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Campbell, graduated from Sonora High School in 1953. He was recently featured in the Denton Record-Chronicle by staff writer Wick Fowler telling about his rescue work on the battlefield. He goes after wounded American soldiers in a helicopter which is often patched up. "If they (referring to the Viet Cong) don't hit a structural member, we just put a patch on and go on," Lt. Wood chuckled. "We sure use an awful lot of green tape."

Regardless of hardships it seems Wood and his buddies are out to get a job done. There are six UH 1-D helicopters in his unit. They work with another unit that flies five.

If the helicopters are on the ground, they can take off and have a wounded man in the hospital in 25 minutes. They evacuate patients to four hospitals and, in backing up the 25th division near Saigon, have carried out 32 patients in one nine-hour day.

The men in Lt. Wood's unit must fly single-ship missions. They do not have enough pilots to fly formation.

They are not equipped to counter the intensive gunfire that often meets them since they carry only pistols. Two M-60 guns and ammo would cost them the weight of one patient. Anyway, they are much too busy with patients to use a rifle.

Lt. Wood told of one incident when three empty helicopters came in for a load just as a truck struck a mine. "We set the helicopters down before they got the people out of the truck and we had them out of there in less than six minutes," he said.

In all of his missions he has lost only two patients. One was revived twice by the medic on board. They were bringing him in from the Iron Triangle outside of Bien Hoa. The lieutenant has a lot of praise for the air control units at Tan Son Nhut field. "If it were not for the fighter planes, the gunships and the ground troops, we would never make it," he stated.

His mother, Mrs. Catherine Wood, resides in Lewisville. His wife is living in Fort Worth.

Dallas Cattleman Elected President of TSCRA

Ben Carpenter, widely known Dallas cattleman and businessman, is new president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. He succeeds Fred Wulff of Brady.

Other officers elected at the 89th TSCRA convention in Fort Worth, Mar. 7-9, are T. L. Roach Jr. of Amarillo, first vice-president; Frank H. Lewis of Bay City, second vice-president; and Gus Holmstrom of Fort Worth, treasurer. Joe S. Fletcher of Fort Worth is secretary-general manager.

New directors are J. H. Williams of Natchitoches, La., G. C. McGruder Jr. of Mertzon, Ladd Hitch of Guyton, Okla., Bob Samuel of Madisonville, Rob Brown of Throckmorton, Milton Robinowitz of Richmond, and Gail Dudley of Comanche.

Cattlemen passed 11 resolutions at the meeting. The cattlemen went on record in support of the Land Tax Amendment to the Texas constitution in November, additional research on mesquite and brush eradication, stepped-up efforts to prevent hoof and mouth infestation from Cuba, and enactment of a Texas Feedlot licensing law.

They passed resolutions opposing extension of the Federal Unemployment Compensation law to include agriculture, any proposed federal legislation that would extend the mandatory application of the Federal Meat Inspection Act to establishments operating solely in intrastate commerce, and legislation which would restrict livestock feeding by specific groups or individuals.

Through resolutions, they also opposed amendments to the Packers and Stockyards Act and any other major administrative changes until further guidelines are provided in the report of the National Commission on Food Marketing which is due July 1, and opposed action of the Department of Commerce or that of any other government agency which would bring about restriction of the movement of hides into the export market.

One of the highlights of the convention was an address by Gov. John Connally, and he was presented a saddle at the conclusion of his talk by TSCRA president, Fred Wulff, on behalf of the Association.

Six Flags States Opening April 15

Six Flags Over Texas, the 115-acre theme amusement park located in Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, will open its 1966 season on Friday, April 15, at 2 p.m.

The announcement came from Angus G. Wynne Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, owner-operators of Six Flags, which will be celebrating its fifth anniversary this year.

During the spring season (April 15-May 27), the park will be in operation on Friday afternoons and all day Saturday and Sunday. Beginning May 28 and extending throughout the summer months until September 5 (Labor Day), Six Flags will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Following September 5 until closing day, November 27, the park will be in operation on Saturdays and Sundays only.

Six Flags, which was built at a cost of $10 million, has attracted over 6.6 million visitors from all over the United States since opening in 1961.

The Texas Tourist Development Agency now ranks Six Flags Over Texas as the most popular single tourist attraction in the Lone Star State.
