WAGGONER CARR, Attorney General of Texas and candidate for the U.S. Senate, was in Sonora last Thursday for a breakfast and talk at the 4-H Center with a group of his supporters.

AT SONORA BREAKFAST Average Citizen Needs Protection From Criminally Insane, Says Carr

In a flying tour of West Texas last Thursday, Democratic Senate candidate Waggoner Carr hit out at the need to protect the public from vicious crimes such as the Whitman reign of terror in Austin recently. In Sonora, Ozona, Pecos, and Marfa, Carr stressed the need for reasoned answers to such great tragedies.

Speaking at a breakfast at the 4-H Center, Carr told about 100 backers from Sonora and Eldorado. "The proposed federal legislation banning the sale of arms to the average citizen is not the answer. We of government must find ways to prevent such crimes, but the banning of arms is not an answer. This right is a part of our Constitution. And in Texas where great distances often separate people, ownership of arms is a necessity. The criminal can always get his firearms even by theft. You cannot stop him by laws that hurt the average citizen."

Carr pointed out that those people in the north and east parts of our nation, who are urging such laws, do not understand the needs of the southwest area. "I agree with Governor Connally that anyone committing such vicious crimes and judged insane should be committed to a mental institution for life. Who is to say that such persons will not commit crime again if released—as has happened so many times in the past."

"We coddle our law violators too much. We are far too concerned with the rights of our criminals, and we forget the rights of the victims. Even more, we forget the rights of the vast majority of our citizens to have their lives and homes and property protected from the crimes of a few. We must regain our perspective so that our citizens can walk their own streets, drive their own highways or even stay in their own homes... in safety and peace."

In addition, though, our main concern must be to find ways to prevent such crimes, Carr noted. "An expansion of our studies of what causes one man to become a criminal... and how to prevent crimes before they occur, must be set in motion. In Texas we have had success in this area, but we must do still more, both in Texas, and in our nation. As your Senator, I will work to see that prevention of crime gets as much attention as does deterring criminals by proper law enforcement."

Commenting on West Texas' water problems, he said, "I am dedicated to bringing into being a cooperative effort of state and federal governments to guarantee a future water supply which will support Texas' booming economy and pop-

Wool and Lamb Producers Scheduled To Vote on Referendum in September

A referendum among wool and lamb producers will be held September 12-23 to determine approval or disapproval of a new agreement with the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc.

The agreement provides for the Secretary of Agriculture to withhold a part of producers wool payments on 1966-69 marketings. The payment deductions will be used by the Council to finance advertising and promotion programs for wool and lamb.

By approving the referendum, producers would authorize payment deductions of up to 1½ cents a pound on shorn wool and 7½ cents a hundredweight on unshorn lambs, compared with 1 cent and 5 cents in the past. The higher deductions would be necessary to finance ASPC's proposed programs.

The referendum will be conducted through county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Anyone may vote who has owned sheep 6 months old or older for at least 30 consecutive days since last January 1. Votes may be cast by individuals, corporations and partnerships.

The agreement requires approval by two-thirds of the total number of producers or two-thirds of the total volume of production represented in the referendum. If agreement is not approved by producers, no deductions will be withheld from payments on 1966 marketings. In this event, ASPC programs will be continued only as long as the present reserve fund permits, or until such time as some other agreement may be approved by producers.

THE ARMED CITIZEN

The expression 'armed citizen' has different meanings to different people. Some think of it as a roughneck walking through the community with a handgun dangling from each hip. Others think of it as a maniac, with a weapon and ammunition, bent on killing his fellowman. To the law-abiding gun owner, however, it means the wherewithal to protect himself, his family, and his property.
In these days of lawlessness on the part of a small minority of people, it is especially important that the basic American right to own and use firearms should be properly understood and properly applied. The vast majority of the people of this nation comply with the laws which have been enacted to make our communities better places to live. They fully appreciate the value of individual freedoms and conduct themselves accordingly. They also fully appreciate the value of life and property and stand ready to guard them against those who disobey the laws.
The taking of a human life is a matter of deepest concern. Nevertheless, our laws rightly recognize the fact that a person may resort to the use of firearms, when necessary, for the protection of himself, his home, and his place of business. Law-enforcement officers cannot at all times be where they are needed to protect the rights of a victim in case of serious violation. In many such instances, the citizen has no choice but to defend himself or his home. If he elects to use a gun, that is his privilege. The important thing is that the individual must have the opportunity to make his own decision, and obviously his decision lacks meaning in such instances if he does not have the right and opportunity to have a gun to enforce that decision.
Because of the right of individual Americans to own firearms and to use them for protection of life and property, they have certain obligations which must be fulfilled in applying that right. Firearms must be handled with safety and with skill. They must be stored in an appropriate place. They must be used with common sense and consideration for the rights of others.
The right to keep and bear arms is a natural right of self-preservation when the sanctions of society and the enforcement of laws are found insufficient to restrain violence. It is one of the rights reserved for the people by the Constitution of the United States to ensure, primarily, the free enjoyment of personal security, of personal liberty, and of private property. Legal interpretations of this right, however, tend to place on an individual the burden of proof that he used his firearm for such purposes only from necessity, and then only as a last resort.
The law-abiding citizen who elects to defend himself and his loved ones, in case the need arises, should learn proper gun handling and, also, should establish in his own mind the exact conditions under which his firearm will be used. By so doing, he better prepares himself to apply the fundamental American right of self-defense and joins the ranks of the armed citizen.

GOVERNMENTAL THINKING CHANGING

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bittered ranch on Dry Devil's River seems alarmed about something he read this week, his letter indicates.
Dear editor:
Most people are so busy earning a living they don't have time to back off and recognize a new trend in governmental thinking when it first crops out, but I found one in a newspaper yesterday which somebody ought to head off before it spreads.
According to this article, a government official was struggling with the same problem every state has, as well as every city and town—how to get more revenue.
"We ought to raise the gasoline tax another cent a gallon," he said, and here's the clincher, "because it hasn't been raised since 1955."
That's what I'm talking about. You mean to say the government is coming around to the idea that a tax rate eleven years old is out of style? You mean they're thinking about going over every tax there is and raising every one that hasn't been raised in a given number of years?
You can see what this will lead to. Take just the gasoline tax. If it ought to be raised automatically every two or three years just to keep from being old-fashioned, you can see what the tax would be 50 years from now.
And since there are hundreds of taxes, most of them pretty well hidden, scattered around on nearly everything you buy, this new trend would let the cat out of the bag.
I tell you, we've got to head this off. Some people are always talking about preserving historic landmarks, why not put tax rates in the same category?
What a shame it'd be to destroy these historic old tax rates and rob future generations of such a splendid heritage.
I hope you will use your influence if you can remember where you put it and nip this in the bud.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

MOVING A PIPELINE was the job that these men had to do as they were working west of Sonora off the Caverns road. The new Interstate Highway 10, which is under construction, will interfere with the old Atlantic pipeline location, so a new one was laid through this rough, rocky pasture.

GREEN NEWS

The tournament has come and gone and so far as I can tell everyone has survived quite nicely. We do want to take this opportunity to thank all the people that helped keep things running smoothly for us.

The barbecue was great—we're just sorry some of those like Jerry Tittle and Billy Smith didn't get to eat any of it.

I can tell you one thing for sure—either the golfers have improved by leaps and bounds or their luck was running good. The women had to give away a record number of golf balls on number nine this year.

Dr. Roy Waterhouse of San Angelo tried to break us. He managed to win at least five new balls. Then there were those like Tommy Thorp, Batts Friend, Jack Allison, and C. D. Downing that carried off two or three apiece. Even the buffers were winning one or two balls.

We're going to have to do some whittling on that circle before the next tournament.

Then Sunday was the day of the Great Embarrassment. Come on you guys, surely you know what

"Fore, please" means. If not there's a bunch of little kids out there that can tell you. GN

We hear that Jimmy Harris had a little trouble leaving the club house Sunday night. What was that about all those coke cases anyway? GN

Bobbie Fawcett made it back from her trip to Ruidoso and Arizona in time for the tournament. We didn't think she'd be able to stay away from something that good.

Bob Teaff tells us he witnessed this comedy out on the course one day last week. The weather was not and dry and there hadn't been any rain for weeks. Peggy Elliott and Jo Neville were playing around when one of them hit a mud hole. One of the first rules of golf is to be neat, so rather than get their shoes muddy they drove the cart in after the ball. Of course they got stuck but quick as lightning they pushed the cart out of the mud hole. Then quite casually they took a long look around and were sure that nobody had seen them.

You can't get away with anything can you? GN

Bud Burke, Stanley Mayfield and Seco Mayfield were seen playing last week. With a little more practice Seco is going to make a good golfer. We saw him make a few drives that would beat some of us anytime.

The women's auxiliary is in the midst of a membership drive so we want to encourage all you women that don't already belong to join. You don't have to play golf to enjoy yourself. We've had some bridge players all along and if we can we'd like to start a group of 42 players this year. GN

August 17th is the next luncheon date for the auxiliary and it will be held at the Holiday Host.

There will be a ladies handicap partnership that morning so all you golfers be sure and get out there Wednesday. We will draw for partners the morning of the 17th and play will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Soon it will be time for school and football games, but until then we'll all just have to make the best of summer vacation—ha. Speaking of football, the team should start practicing pretty soon. The cheerleaders are preparing themselves by practicing every afternoon and working on posters. They won two ribbons when they went to cheerleading school at Texas Tech. Sonora can really be proud of them.

Karen Davis, who moved to New Mexico, visited in Sonora last weekend.

Cindy Johnson has returned to Seattle, Washington, after a visit with her grandparents.

Whenever anyone drives up to Lambert's now, he will see Stephen Whitworth busily working.

Bill Karnes and Cleve T. Jones III came home last weekend from Fort Worth.

Sandra and Carol Adamson are leaving for a two-week vacation in Florida. They have a pretty new car.

Peggy Lynne Grobe has been visiting her roommate in Garwood. Bed-ridden Brenda Browne dislocated her spine in a diving contest at Camp Capers. Dan Countiss, from Corpus Christi, brought her home and spent the weekend in Sonora.

Kay Archer is going to Marfa next week.

Jimmy Wilson, who has been working in California this summer, will be home soon for a while before he returns to Texas Tech.

Mrs. Fred Van Shoubrouek of Lom Poc, California and children, Fred, Sandra, and Jones visited Mary Johnson recently. They also visited Mrs. Clara Allison in San Angelo.

Junior rodeo enthusiasts will compete for ribbons to be awarded to the first six places in each go-around and for trophies and ribbons to the winners based on the average scores and times of the two-night show. In addition, the top cowboy and cowgirl will be awarded trophy saddles in recognition of their rodeo skills and competitive spirit.

New Play Begins At Theatre

A melodramatic comedy chronicling the adventures of a husband and wife vaudeville team suddenly swept into a Communist conspiracy in Czechoslovakia at the time the Iron Curtain was falling on that country, will be the next attraction at the Point Summer Theatre.

The play is "The Great Sebastians," which was first acted with great success by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in New York in 1956, and it is being presented at the Point from Wednesday, August 3 through Sunday, August 14. Charles Krohn and Jeannette Clift, who delighted Point audiences in "Mary, Mary," will have the Lunt and Fontanne roles here in a production directed by William Hardy. The play begins with the Sebastians giving a regular mind-reading performance. As part of their third-rate vaudeville act, Sebastian will work up and down the aisles of the Point Theatre's auditorium, selecting persons and objects in their pockets for his wife to identify, while she is blindfolded on the stage.

Much of the comedy's hilarity stems from the revelation of how they perform these tricks when they later practice a new code. They are a pair of lovable hams, who always hate to take that last bow and think their fake routine is one of the greatest works of art since Michelangelo.

In addition to Krohn and Miss Clift, the large cast to be seen in the Point's production of "The Great Sebastians" will include Sam Havens, Che Moody Knight, Edwin Child, Pam McCormick, Betty Havens, and William Hardy.

Tickets for "The Great Sebastians" are $1.50, $2.25, and $3.00. Performances are Wednesday through Sunday evenings at 8:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling EM 7-5710, Ingram, or by writing Box 176.

Editor's Note: The following picture and article appeared in Sunday, July 10. The Devil's River News appreciates the opportunity to reprint the article.

Road to Success Not Easy

By JAMES E. VANCE
Star-Telegram Ranch and Farm Writer

SONORA—Recalling the ups and downs that led to success must give people like Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hunt a lot of satisfaction.

Their path was rocky, but Hunt never lost his optimism. That, and the help of friends, made him one of the most successful and widely respected ranchers in West Texas.

"All we had when we got married was a bunch of old poor ewes," Mrs. Hunt laughed. "And they weren't paid for," Hunt added. "It took us 15 years to recover from the depression of the early '20s. I guess everybody I knew did something for me."

HUNT HOLDS RANCHING second only to his family. Son James ranches near Sonora. Daughter Nancy is Mrs. James L. Powell. The Powell ranch is at Fort McKavett.

An uncle, the late Judge James Cornell of Sonora, gave Hunt, at 17, a job on his ranch. Hunt's mother and brother remained in Brackettville.

"He let me become a partner," Hunt explained. "The late John S. Allison of Sonora loaned me money to buy 1,700 sheep. We paid $4 for ewes and $2.25 for lambs. They were from Mexico. We were in business as Cornell and Hunt."

Hunt also bought his first cattle a short time later, just in time to lose them a few years later. "Sheep dropped from $20 to $7 or $8, and I sold cows for $19 a head and threw in the calves," he said. "I just kept staying in with a little bunch of sheep. Somehow, we finally paid off the balance to the loan company."

Hunt and Velma Sevell of Sonora were married in 1926. They lived on a 6,000-acre ranch lease in Edwards County. That was in the Model-T Ford era.

"It took us three hours to go 40 miles to Sonora," Mrs. Hunt said. "There were 20 gates and you can guess who opened and closed them. But I enjoyed it. We didn't go to town often."

HUNT CREDITED the late Cliff Belcher of Del Rio with helping him recover from the big and lengthy reversal. Later it was Jack Neill of First National Bank in Sonora.

"I bought 300 acres in 1931, added 3,000 acres in 1938, and another 13,120 acres a short time later. It was located 12 miles southeast of Sonora. We moved there. James was 7. Nancy was 6 months of age."

Hunt said he learned from old-timers that cattle, sheep and goats were a good combination of livestock. He stocked his land with fine-wool sheep and Angora goats from the flocks of Fred Earwood of Sonora. He bought Hereford cattle from the late Sam McKnight of Ozona.

Earwood and McKnight had developed top-quality livestock. The stock was subject to registration, but Hunt declined to emphasize the paper work. He raises commercial stock.

"I'm not opposed to performance testing of livestock and a detailed set of records," he explained. "Rain governs everything in this country. You may have a good set of records, but if you don't get rain you need to get a new set of records."

Hunt managed his land. He's a walking testimonial for conservation.

"I always was able to stock the ranges heavily, mainly because I controlled bitterweeds. I didn't plant a seed, but did do some terracing. Any time it rains an inch, 100 surface ponds have to be filled before there is any runoff. There's water on every square mile."

On one 4,000-acre place Hunt bought, he revised the watering system and saved 1,130 sheep an aggregate total of 3,390 miles they would have had to walk to get a drink. No animal needs to walk more than a half mile to water, he said.

HUNT SAID RANCHERS should conserve their grass and water and "stock their ranges by ear," depending on amount of grass and water available.

Hunt increased his holding to 63 sections in Sutton, Edwards and Crockett Counties. James and Nancy operate 35 sections of this land. James also has about 40 running quarter horses.

The 28 square miles Hunt operates maintains 4,000 ewes of which 1,100 are dry, 2,750 lambs (a 90 per cent lamb crop), 1,500 goats and 400 cattle. "All our oil wells have been dry holes," Hunt grinned.

However, other investments have afforded income in addition to sales of wool, mohair and livestock.

A few years ago the Hunts remodeled the house in which Mrs. Hunt's parents had lived and moved to Sonora. James and his wife Linda live on the ranch.

James and Nancy were normal ranch kids, going by car to and from school and doing ranch work. Nancy showed steers and also was a Miss Mohair.

Hunt also took time for civic chores around Sonora. He was president of the school board for 20 years, and said his biggest thrill came when he presented diplomas, especially to his own children. Both later were graduated from the University of Texas.

THE FAMILY STILL is close-knit. One of the big pleasures appears to be going places together, including the four grandchildren.

Hunt, with his soft voice and mannerisms, could probably be mistaken for a member of the clergy or a business executive. He goes to the ranch every working day he's at home.

"I don't mind getting tired, but never retired," he said. "I want to be walking and working when the show is over."

Hunt never has lost his optimism. He always believed times were good or would be. He has faith in his part of the country.

"We'll have evolutions, but cattle, sheep and goats were here when we came," he concluded, "and they'll be here after we leave."

Annual Round-up Halfway To Goal At WT Boys Ranch

The annual Round-up for livestock for West Texas Boys Ranch at Tankersley has reached the half-way point in animal units.

This year's round-up started April 18 with a goal of 200 animal units, according to round-up chairman, Roddy Peoples of Midland. The total given to the Ranch so far is 100 head, Peoples said.

"With the late summer and fall movement of cattle and sheep still ahead and the heart-warming response West Texas vouchers are showing to the Round-up, I'm optimistic that the original goal will be reached," the round-up chairman stated.

The livestock so far collected for the ranch, plus many cash donations, has boosted the funds to $15,775 this week. According to Peoples, this is a little short of the hoped for amount with this number of livestock, but he pointed out that the livestock prices have weakened since the original goal was set, and therefore the total so far is proportionately reduced.

"West Texas Boys Ranch likes to see a good rain and a strong market just as much as the ranchers out here do," he joked.

Peoples urged ranchers in the sixty-county area served by West Texas Boys Ranch to remember the continuing need for operational funds at the ranch. Money collected during the drive forms a large portion of day-to-day operating needs such as food and clothing. Any farmer or rancher who would like to contribute livestock may do so by contacting his county wagon boss who will make arrangements, or merely by designating those livestock to be contributed to the ranch when they are taken to market. Auction market operators in West Texas for many years have actively supported the round-up by forwarding the proceeds from the sale of livestock so designated direct to the ranch.

New Color Posters Show Texas' Varied Scenic Attractions

An old Chinese proverb says that one picture is worth a thousand words.

The Texas Highway Department believes it, and prove it recently with the release of a set of spectacular new color posters to help tell the story of Texas' varied attractions.

The Highway Department expects the new posters will be valuable additions to its comprehensive line-up of Texas travel material.

Although they will not be available to individuals for personal use, the posters will be supplied free for display in airline, train and bus terminals, in the offices of travel agents, and at the sites of conventions and expositions where the impressive Texas vistas will be exposed to large numbers of passers-by.

The new posters depict color-saturated scenes at Caddo Lake State Park, an Indian at the Alabama-Coushatta Reservation, an auburn-haired Texas beauty inspecting richly-laden grapefruit trees in the Rio Grande Valley, and a glowing sunset on Texas' subtropical coast.

Along with those entirely new scenes, three popular earlier posters have been slightly revised and reprinted. They include the Alamo, a rodeo cowboy on a bucking horse, and magnificent Santa Elena Canyon in Big Bend National Park. The seven newly-printed scenes will join two currently available posters which illustrate impressive El Capitan mountain in West Texas, and the sun-drenched beach of Padre Island.

In all, the posters represent another facet of more than three and one-half million pieces of printed Texas travel material which the Highway Department distributes free each year.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 79 proposing an Amendment to Article VIII, Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding Section 1-d to provide that all land owned by natural persons designated for agricultural use shall be assessed for all tax purposes on the consideration of only those factors relative to such agricultural use. BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Article VIII, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by adding Section 1-d to read as follows: "Section 1-d. (a) All land owned by natural persons which is designated for agricultural use in accordance with the provisions of this Section shall be assessed for all tax purposes on the consideration of only those factors relative to such agricultural use. 'Agricultural use' means the raising of livestock, or growing of crops, fruit, flowers, and other products of the soil under natural conditions as a business venture for profit, which business is the primary occupation and source of income of the owner. (b) For each assessment year the owner wishes to qualify his land under provisions of this Section as designated for agricultural use he shall file with the local tax assessor a sworn statement in writing describing the use to which the land is devoted. (c) Upon receipt of the sworn statement in writing, the local tax assessor shall determine whether or not such land qualifies for the designation as agricultural use as defined herein and in the event it so qualifies he shall designate such land as being for agricultural use and assess the land accordingly. (f) Each year during which the land is designated for agricultural use, the local tax assessor shall note on his records the valuation which would have been made had the land not qualified for such designation under this Section. If designated land is subsequently diverted to a purpose other than that of agricultural use, or is sold, the land shall be subject to an additional

by Rev. Ross Welch
 We promised you a new perspective for this week's contribution which is a high mesa known as the Divide between the Concho and Colorado rivers in the northeastern corner of Sterling County.
 Sonora had just been refreshed by a good shower when we left Sunday afternoon, but where we have been the story is 'hot and dry' and that is August for you in West Texas. My three brothers and I built the house where we are staying in 1928. It will stand long after we have all fallen.
 Soon after the turn of the century, my father pulled up stakes in Mills County and moved in a wagon to the Divide. It took a week, camping at night along the way.
 The Divide was once a rather prosperous community with two rural schools, a church and a post office (Bliss) supported by 30 or 40 resident families. Many families moved away during the drought following World War I. Those who remained had a hard struggle, combating drought and pestilence, bitter weed and blow flies, plus the man-made hazard of war time debts. My parents held on and weathered the sand storms, but the old house in which they lived was becoming intolerable.
 When ever a storm threatened, our mother called us all together, like a hen calling her chickens, and sent us to the cellar. That was a pleasant place to go ordinarily for the shelves were filled with jars containing jelly, jam, preserves, pickles, honey, berries etc. If it were after frost there might very likely be a sack of pecans on the floor. There might even be a corner stacked with pumpkins and kershaws.
 But there was nothing pleasant about being roused out of a warm bed and herded, half asleep, through the cold rain to a musty cellar to spend the remainder of the night in cramped quarters.
 The elements were kind to the old house and it never fell. When I finished high school in May 1928, we decided it was time to provide a new and better home for our parents.
 Two older brothers had finished high school in 1926, had enrolled in Texas Tech, but lacking financial assistance, had dropped out of college and were working. They came home and we set to work. There was very little money, so we built the hard way.
 My older brother drew the plans. We hauled sand and gravel in a wagon out of the canyons. The other materials we hauled from Sterling City. Following the Biblical instruction, we dug a foundation to solid rock.
 We tore down the old house and barn and used the lumber, however unsuitable, to make the forms. When the forms were set, spaced and secured and the door frames were set in the forms, we tied in the steel and were ready to pour concrete. We cut the mud with hoes in a home-made mixing trough, carried it in heavy buckets and poured it into the frames.
 The next run we set in the window frames and so proceeded to the completion of all walls, raising the forms each time after the concrete set up. None of us had done any building before and we did the work without professional assistance.
 We cut the rafters, re-used the form-lumber for decking and put on the roof, plastered inside and outside and did all the cabinet and finishing work. Lacking in style and beauty, it provided a comfortable home for our parents for the rest of their days. It is around this nucleus my brother is now constructing a much larger house.
 There was only one resentment in my heart. My greatest ambition had been to go to college. I had not earned a dime all summer and the fall semester had started before the house was finished. But I was proud to have had a part in this project.

 Incidentally, at our Class reunion in the summer of 1932 the only one who had earned a college degree was the boy who had played carpenter his first summer after graduation, and thereby hangs another tale.
 I guess I'm not much better as a carpenter than I was 38 years ago, for if memory serves me right, I went to bed many nights that summer with the pointing finger on my left hand throbbing with every pulse beat, because I did not always hit the head of the nail.
 As we drove across the Divide Sunday night, we were reminded of August 1934, when we were married at twilight in the old Moon's Chapel Methodist Church. Flowers in the Sonora Methodist Church Sunday, August 14, will commemorate that happy occasion, for it is our anniversary.
 It is a little sad to go back to the Divide. Most of the homes are gone. The land is now consolidated in the hands of a few. The school buildings are long gone. No trace of the little church building remains. Only the memories live on.
 Sterling City is celebrating her 75th Anniversary this month as Sonora did last summer and Ozona did in June. Too bad it has to conflict with the Welch Family Reunion, August 19 and 20.
 The men of Sterling County are trying to prove that the new West can produce He-men too, by growing long beards.
 Days are hot on the Divide but the nights are delightfully cool.
 We got the frame work up for one part of the new addition... and now we are on our way to Mexico. If we can keep our eyes open, we shall try to let you hear from Los Mochis.

Mrs. Wardlaw Attends Dallas Seminar

Mrs. LaJeanne Wardlaw is one of eleven home economics education seminar students from South West Texas State College who participated in the state In-Service Education Conference for Homemaking Teachers in Dallas August 1-5.
 Topics developed during the conference included the unique contributions of home economics to vocational education, up-dating the curriculum, developing wage-earning programs and provisions for establishing quality programs. State and national home economics specialists acted as speakers consultants during the conference.
 Mrs. W. T. Black was honored with a housewarming last Wednesday morning.
 Mr. and Mrs. Black, James Wesley and Margaret Ruth recently moved into their new home on Allen Drive.
 Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Jimmy H. Harris, James Alexander, D. C. Langford, John T. King, Jerrold Duncan, Albert Ward, and Oliver Wuest.
 The serving table, covered with a yellow linen cloth was centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums.
 As inexpensive as it is tasty! A ring of rice and peas filled with creamed tuna. The white sauce becomes something else again with the addition of grated onion, minced parsley, pimientos and green pepper cut in small pieces. Hard cooked egg slices are another nice addition.

Salvation
 "And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved."
 —Joel 2:28-32
 Salvation will not be bestowed in a shower of thunder or a flash of lightning.
 When Peter repeated the words of the prophet Joel to the multitudes he was not suggesting they climb to the mountain top and cry out for salvation.
 We must conclude that Peter had more in mind an acceptance of the risen Christ and adherence to the principles of Christianity.
 The road to salvation is clearly marked and each man needs only to search his heart to determine if his footsteps are properly directed.

Quanah Newspaper Receives Annual Award of WTCC

The annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce Community Services Award was presented to the Quanah Tribune Chief in San Angelo Saturday morning at the West Texas Press Association meeting.

The award was announced at the annual breakfast, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber. Making the presentation to Mrs. Carroll Koch, publisher of the Quanah paper, was R. W. Hardy of Abilene, vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and president of West Texas Utilities Company. Also present were John Ben Shepherd of Odessa, president of the WTCC, and Jack G. Springer of Abilene, executive vice president.

The Tribune-Chief was honored because of its outstanding work in a number of community service projects, among them an intensive effort to get a mesquite and brush control and eradication project underway in Hardeman County. It resulted in a field day, attended by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman and other top national and state officials, and a great deal of positive work in brush control since then.

The Quanah newspaper, published by Mrs. Koch, assisted by editor-manager Ed M. Eakin, has also been out front in a number of other community projects in its area, including the promotion of a water festival and securing a $900,000 county hospital. It also played a key role in the location of Spartan Industries in Quanah, an industrial plant employing 200 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schwiening of Fredericksburg were in Sonora visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schwiening this week.

High School Students . . .

Don't Leave School !

You'll Leave a Promising Future Behind

If you drop out of school early, you'll be closing the door on many opportunities which mean bigger paychecks, greater jobs satisfaction and more security in the future.

1. None of the professions will be open to you because these demand training beyond high school, and of course such higher education must be preceded by a completion of high school.

2. On-the-job training for skilled and even semi-skilled work has been sharply reduced in recent years because there are now so many people who have already been trained, in high school, to do the work.

Consider the job that is luring you away from school. The pay may look good now, but think about your chances for future advancement. And remember, the pay checks you receive during the years you should be in school will never make up for the money you earn later if you stay in school. The educated person starts higher up the ladder and with the knowledge that's needed in order to climb faster.

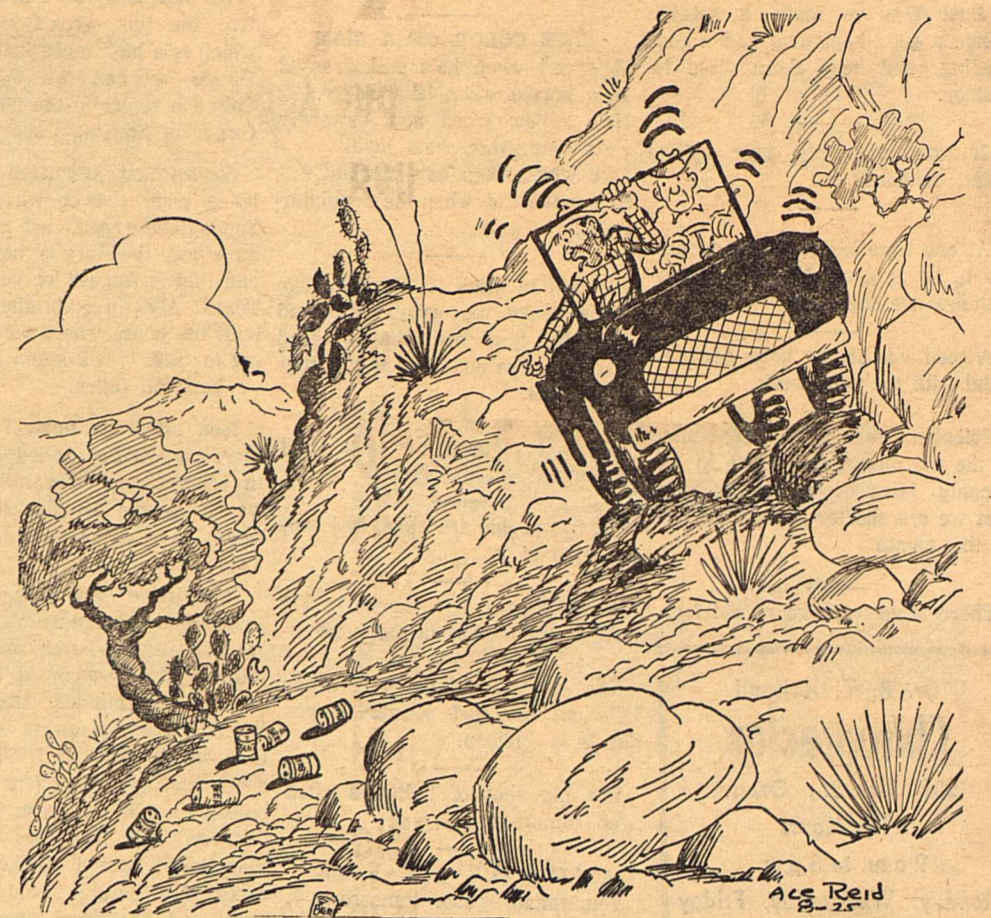

As Benjamin Franklin said, "An investment in knowledge always pays the dividends."
