Garment Factory To Begin Operation

Plans were finalized early this week to establish a garment division of the El Dorado Woolen Mills, Inc. in Sonora. Mr. Warren Wallace, formerly connected with the Dallas Sports Wear Company, has been employed by the Woolen Mills as superintendent of the Garment Division, and Mrs. Wallace will assist in training sewing machine operators prior to the opening of the plant.

The plant will be located on Main Street in the building previously occupied by the Sonora Gas Co. Preparation of the building for its new use is to begin immediately.

Work on the building, installation of new machines, and training of personnel is expected to proceed at a rapid pace since the fall season, as clothing production goes, is well underway, and the production of the Sonora plant is needed.

Initially the Sonora plant will produce numerous women's garments already established in the El Dorado line, but plans are to include production of a new men's wear line at an early date.

It is expected that training of sewing machine operators will begin about the second week of September. Production will begin as soon as personnel are trained and all machines installed. Initially the plant will employ about 15 seamstresses, but will, in time, build up to a work force of 30 to 40 persons.

Jackie Gleason To Eat Smoke House Meats

Connoisseurs of smoked meats may be interested in a letter received recently by Freeman Mears at the Branding Iron Smoke House. The letter was written by Larry Borsten, vice-president and general manager of Palm Beach Spa in Palm Beach, Florida, and said:

"Early last month I had pleasure of stopping at your Smoke House, while passing through Sonora, at the suggestion of my good friend, Jack Gilbert, from Coral Gables, Florida. We had a few of your hot, ready-to-eat tidbits and enjoyed them immensely. At that time I told you that I would be in touch with you again for mail-order gifts."

Borsten continued and requested an order for Jackie Gleason and Jack Philbin and said:

"Mr. Gleason is a great lover of smoked and barbecued meats and I am certain that when he gets a taste of your delicacies he will be one of your best customers."

Housing Hearing Nets Praises, Criticisms

A public hearing Tuesday night drew near 50 Sonorans to hear the pros and cons of low-rent government housing offered by the Public Housing Authority of the federal government.

The plan offers low-rent housing to low-income families. Size of the renter's family determines the size house needed, and family income determines the amount of rent to be paid. Usually a fifth or sixth of a renter's income is allowed for rent and utilities. Each town sets a maximum income level for occupants, and a family with an income above this level is not eligible to live in the project.

Low-rent housing is not allowed to be in competition with adequate private housing but is in competition with sub-standard dwellings that command low rents.

Mayor A. E. Prugel opened the hearing by pointing out that the possibilities of low rent housing had first been called to the attention of the city commissioners in March of 1965 by a Houston architect firm. Subsequently, two other firms had called on the commission offering to explain the benefits low-rent housing would give Sonora. Feeling of the commissioners was that initiative for exploration of public housing should come from outside the city government.

In March of this year the Chamber of Commerce board of directors passed a resolution asking the City commissioners to thoroughly examine the low-rent proposition, and upon the commission's request submitted a petition with over 100 voters' signatures for the purpose of showing general interest.

Prugel said that while the commission had been slow to get into public housing, it had been just as and assistant coach; Lynne Stanley, science and girls P. E.; Dennie L. Hays, history, driver ed. and coach; Mary L. Hays, commercial annual and newspaper; Charlotte Wilson, Spanish and social studies; Celeste Prugel, homemaking; and Frances Neely, clerk and secretary.

FAMILY POT LUCK BY HELEN HALE

Salad Main Stays On sultry, lazy-appetite days, have a salad as a main dish to satisfy the need for food. It will often fit best when appetites are lagging.
Cole slaw is a crisp favorite, but will be even more so when you've added some drained, kidney beans to it with salami or ham strips.
Chunks of lettuce, watercress, lots of crumbled cooked bacon, sieved hard-cooked eggs, tomato wedges, radishes, cucumber slices and a creamy blue cheese dressing bring a wave of applause on a hot day.
Chilled pieces of crabmeat, cleaned shrimp, garden lettuce, chopped celery, sliced radishes and olives, black or green, with thousand island dressing are lilyingly refreshing.

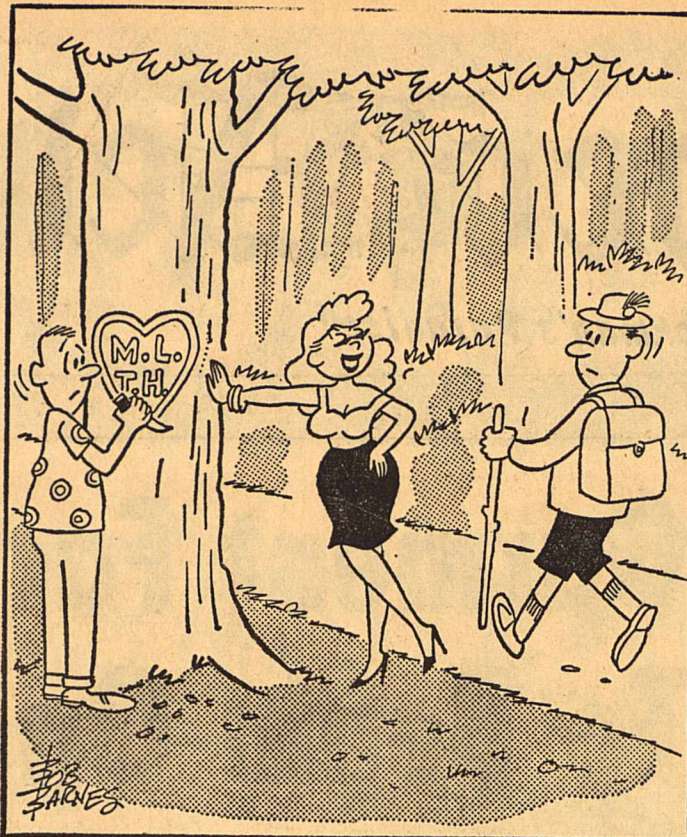

Have you tried a macaroni salad? Cooked macaroni mingled with peas, celery, sliced cooked sausage or cubed, jellyed tongue, pimento and mayonnaise.

Chicken salad goes together with pineapple chunks, halved green grapes, peach slices and toasted almonds sprinkled atop a creamy mayonnaise dressing.

Helen's Favorite Orange Rice Pudding (6 servings) 4 eggs, slightly beaten 3 cups hot, cooked rice 1 1/2 cups orange juice 3/4 cup raisins 3/4 cup orange marmalade 3/4 cup melted butter Mix all ingredients together. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Bake in a moderate (350 F.) oven for 45 minutes or until a knife inserted comes out clean.

TEACHING MACHINES: BEWARE!

Nobody but educators may be interested in buying a new book, Programmed Teaching, published recently by the Philosophical Library, Inc. of New York. But one chapter in the book provides a nice insight into the so-called educational marvel-teaching machines.
The controversial machines, says the chapter's author, Robert B. Nordberg of Marquette University, have "six dangers and one advantage." His comments should be interesting to everyone who thinks that automated teaching devices can replace the teacher.
Says Nordberg of teaching machines' dangers— Teaching machines cannot think. They can only say what they are told to say. They cannot create or receive ideas. Stated plainly, only a qualified teacher can truly guide a child's thinking processes.
Machines cannot paraphrase. If a child does not understand a statement the machine has been programmed to express, the machine will not be able to repeatedly re-phrase the statement until the child can comprehend the real meaning.
Machines cannot encourage a child to be creative. In fact, warns Nordberg, machines may result in dulling any creativity a child may have. Thus, machines lack ability for meaningful teaching.
Machines are dangerous also because they encourage a pre-occupation with details. Unless details, isolated facts and parts are brought together they prove dangerous for effective teaching.
Widespread use of teaching machines will encourage, and possibly promote, a nationalized curriculum. Nationalized educational systems, says Nordberg are "invariably mediocre." A rapid adoption of automated teaching methods would be the last step down the road toward a nationalized curriculum, asserts the author.

The final danger cited by Nordberg seems worst of all. He thinks a proliferation of teaching machines would minimize the importance of the "sheer metaphysical presence of the teacher." Teaching is essentially the meeting of two minds and a human situation in teaching is more effective because it is flexible and direct. Impersonal machines cannot excite a child's curiosity in the way a teacher can.

Nordberg says these are only six dangers involved in teaching machines and that there may be more.

He admits that the one advantage that he cites, however, weighs heavily in favor of the contraptions. Machines can help greatly in teaching rote-learned facts which do not have to be absorbed within the framework of some rationale. For an example, machines might help drill a student in multiplication tables. But they would be incapable of making sense out of an isolated step required to solve an involved algebraic equation. In simple drills the machines will permit a child to go as fast or as slow as he wants in learning simple, cut and dried facts.

The sometimes-expressed fear that teachers had better watch out lest machines take control is not the point in considering the use of these classroom robots, asserts Nordberg. The danger, he says, is that if teaching machines are used too much, teachers may come to approach human learners as if they were robots.

J. A. Wants To Be in on Deals

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River has been reading the international news, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor: According to an article I read last night in a newspaper which fell out from under a tricycle a tourist coming by here had tied on top of his car. I guess the paper was there to keep the paint from getting scratched but it's hard for me to explain the tricycle, the United States has just sold India about two million tons of grain and the terms are so interesting I'd like to get in on a similar deal.

As the article explained, India is paying for the grain, all right, but not in American dollars. It's paying in rupees. And the rupees will be kept in India to promote education.

Can you tell me if such a deal is available in this country? And where do you apply? While I don't have much use for grain, at least by itself, you know the government would include some hogs to go with it, or some steers, or something.

Naturally I don't have any rupees, but that's just a technicality; me and the government can get around that.

For example, in lieu of rupees, why couldn't I give the government a check, with the understanding it would never be cashed? Then I could take the financial gains made from never having the check reach the bank and promote education out here on this bitterweed ranch, and I believe I could easily prove there's a field for it.

As for the type of education, me and India probably see eye to eye on that. For example, you won't catch either one of us promoting agricultural education. In India, farming with a tractor instead of a walking plow will have to wait till they get a nuclear bomb going, and out here farming with anything will have to wait till I'm through resting. It's not quite the same but it produces about the same amount of food.

I am thinking of renewing my subscription to The Devil's River News. How many rupees will it take?

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Prizes were presented to Marilyn Bloodworth and Sammie Espy for winning the partnership play Wednesday. Lu Morgan and Ann Hill would have won if Marilyn and Sammy had stayed home that day. But that's the breaks.

Some of the coaches are going to join the auxiliary so they can play Bingo, Bango, Bongo with the women on Wednesdays. We're always glad to get new members.

There were several interesting sights and happenings out on the course last week, but they aren't things you can write about in the paper. One of them was so interesting though it caused Peggy Elliott to make at least a ten on number two.

We still don't have any of the details on the Labor Day Tournament. All of the officials are out of pocket. Surely we'll know something by next week.

Older SS People May Have Trouble Paying Premium

J. G. Keen, assistant district manager of the San Angelo Social Security Office, said recently that some older people enrolled for doctor bill insurance may be having difficulty paying the full $9 quarterly premium. Older people who are receiving monthly social security or railroad payments have the $3 monthly premium deducted from their benefit checks. Others received premium notices last month requesting them to mail in a quarterly payment of $9.

Keen said that these people may pay $3 or $6 amounts covering 1 or 2 month's premiums but regardless of the amount paid, such payment should be made as soon as possible. Payments may be made by check or money order mailed to the Social Security Administration Payment Center in the envelope provided with the notice of premium due. Payments may also be made at the Social Security Administration District Office at 3000 West Harris, San Angelo.

Keen said some people confuse hospital insurance and doctor bill insurance under medicare. He emphasized the two are separate and distinct. He said premium payment is for doctor bill insurance and only people who have signed up for it are eligible. On the other hand, almost everyone 65 and older is eligible for hospital insurance benefits in a participating hospital. In a real emergency, benefits can be provided in many hospitals that do not participate in medicare.

If anyone has a problem regarding premium payments or social security matters in general, check with your social security representative the next time he visits Sonora. When in San Angelo, come to the office at 3000 West Harris any time from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. For the convenience of the public, office hours are extended until 8:30 p.m. each Monday evening.

Comedy Opens At Point Summer Theatre

Let two ambitious young men from Texas fool around with a play from France and you've got an international combination that might become an international hit.

That is what happened in the case of "The Fantasticks," a harlequinade written by two young men from Texas, Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, on the basis of a half-forgotten old French romance. The result is a delightful hit which has run over six years off-Broadway and is now in its run at the Point Summer Theatre in Ingram.

The Fantasticks, which opened Aug. 17, will run through Sept. 4. Performances are Wednesday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m., and tickets are priced at $1.50, $2.25, and $3.00. For reservations, write Box 176, Ingram, Texas, or phone EM 7-5710.

Larry Smith and Chesley Santoro, both of Houston, will be seen as the boy and girl in love. The plot is simple, but the mockingly sophisticated style of telling the story has captivated audiences around the world. Charles Krohn and Sam Havens play the seemingly hostile fathers of the romantic pair. They build a wall between their offspring, hoping that their children will do what they are told not to and marry.

MRS. RICHARD IRVING SPENCER

Miss VanderStucken, Richard Spencer Wed In Afternoon Ceremony In Boston

Miss Emily Frances VanderStucken became the bride of Richard Irving Spencer Saturday afternoon, August 20, in the Church of the Advent in Boston, Mass. The Rev. Peter Allen officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Emile Felix VanderStucken Jr. of Princeton, N.J., and Mr. and Mrs. Earle Franklin Spencer of Kennebunkport, Maine, formerly of Winchester, Mass.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emile Felix VanderStucken and is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. VanderStucken of San Angelo.

The bride wore a sleeveless gown of ivory peau de soie with an empire waist accenting an A-line skirt. Her flowers were white delphinium, daisies, and baby's breath.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Michael Morasco of Worcester, Mass. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Ann Brown of Boston and Mmes. Richard B. Stewart of Groveland, Mass., Frederick L. The bride's attendants wore delphinium blue linen gowns with empire waists, and bachelor buttons and daisies were the flowers of the matron while blue delphiniums and daisies were flowers of the bridesmaids. All had matching headpieces.

The summer is coming to an end as is evident by the fact that preparations for the beginning of school are being made. With the second week of football practice in session, Thurston McCutchen is limping around on fallen arches, and Jim Elliott has a cracked wrist, and Marty Martinez has injured an arm. The cheerleaders are also busy getting ready for the first football game. They have been practicing and painting signs.

'Horseback' Phone Installed in Ohio

The East has beat the West at its game.

In New Lebanon, Ohio, at Miracle Water Farms, a wall telephone has been installed eight feet high which permits a trainer of cutting horses to conduct business communications in the saddle.

The "horseback" telephone in Ohio was installed in an enclosed arena by General Telephone Company of Ohio, a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation. The telephone is an extension from the trainer's office and is not equipped with a dial since it is utilized only for incoming calls.

E. H. Danner, president of General Telephone Company of the Southwest and Southwestern States, says the East may have thought of it, but the same service is available out where the West begins, too.

The band started practice Monday with the new director, Mr. Charles Brown.

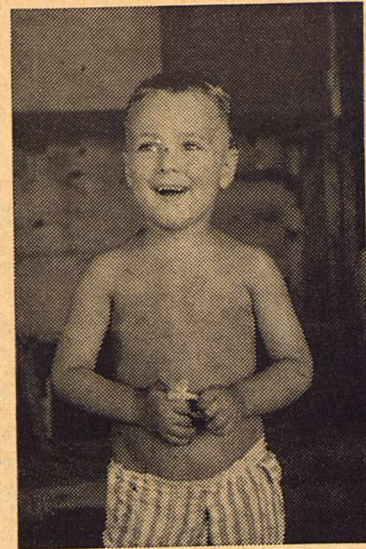

Brenda Browne will be leaving us Friday for El Paso where she will attend Radford School for Girls during the coming school year.

CeeWee Johnson has made it part of the way home. She is in Dallas now visiting Sarah Johnson, but expects to be home soon.

Several kids have been visiting in Sonora lately. Linda White of Stephenville was here visiting Susan Prugel, Paul Hannis and Stewart Howard from Carrizo Springs were here staying with Brent Johnson. Patsy Rainwater arrived in Sonora Saturday. She is visiting her cousin, Nedra Raye. Richard and Lefty Cox were here last week seeing old friends.

Dorr Scherz has been visiting Gary Hardgrave. Trudy Carter stopped on her way through Sonora to visit Yvonne Young and Kaye Ellis. Ronnie Browne of San Diego was in town this last weekend visiting his cousin, Brenda Browne.

We can add two names to our list of injured. Glenda Delrie cut her leg the other day riding horses. Would you believe that the horse fell on her? Kay Archer managed to step on a piece of tin and cut Kaye Ellis is at Camp Capers for a week. She is a counsellor there.

A Parson's Eye View Of Sonora

by Rev. Ross Welch

The chief value of a vacation, I suppose, is to help one appreciate what he has at home. We saw beautiful scenery in Mexico and Texas' Big Bend—and enjoyed it thoroughly, but the most beautiful picture that our eyes looked upon was the one at the end of the trail. I hope all of life is like that.

We slept in some good beds between the Yacht Hotel on Topolobampo Bay and the Stagecoach Inn in Salado; but none felt quite as comfortable as the one in the Methodist Parsonage in Sonora.

We had planned to sort of s-t-r-e-t-c-h—our vacation by returning Thursday or Friday, but the minute our family reunion ended, neither of us could think of anything he would rather do than return home.

We had 98 persons registered at the family reunion, ranging in age from one year to about 84. We renewed acquaintance with those we see only once a year, got acquainted with the new additions to the family, reviewed a little of our family history, participated in various sports and games, held religious services on Sunday morning, ate lunch together, had the clan picture made, solemnly promised to visit each other between reunions and went our several ways, hoping to be able to meet again.

This was the twentieth family reunion for the Welch family. We had the privilege of calling the first one together, following World War II.

Mr. Matt Adams, long-time resident of Sonora who had been in the nursing home at Mason, was returned to the Hudspeth Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon. His friends may want to visit him or send cards.

Summer is drawing quickly to a close. School bells will ring next week. Everyone will be settling down to a regular routine again. This has some advantages also. The most efficient and effective persons we have observed are persons who live disciplined lives. The only way a newspaper can get to its readers on time is to set a deadline when it has to go to press.

Two-hundred new Hymnals have arrived for use in the Methodist Church. This book contains 552 hymns, combining the best in previous hymnals and adding new selections and also contains many others aids to worship.

This is the book that established an all-time record for pre-publication sales. The new hymnals will be put into use at an early date. Sunday is promotion day at the Methodist Church.

Summer rains have kept ranges in good condition. All the ranchers should go into winter with broad smiles on their faces.

The coaches say the football aspirants are looking good in pre-season practice. We went over Monday to get our season tickets. Supt. Rex Lowe says there are lots of good seats left, but confirmations were coming in for reserved seats at a good pace.

Mrs. Welch is a Ballinger girl, so that adds interest for us in the first home game, September 9.

The railbirds advised us, when we went to buy our ticket, not to get within flailing range of Dr. Howell; than whom the local teams have no more loyal supporter.

The other night Mrs. Welch visited one of her former students, the youngest child and the only girl in a family of six children. The cottage was poor, and the furnishings meager. While teacher and former pupil were exchanging confidences, I talked with the mother in Spanish—she speaks no English.

I had heard many times about this unusual family. The children were all above normal in intelligence. The older boys have gone on to earn graduate degrees and to fill positions of unusual responsibility. Two are in the armed forces. The youngest is in high school. She is a favorite of her teachers, excellent student and outstanding athlete.

Yet the home is one in a row on a country lane—distinguished only by the quality of young people who come from it. Talking with the mother revealed part of the reason for this distinction.

She has a desire for her children to gain an education that amounts to a passion. She, too, is very intelligent. She has nurtured her children in the confidence that they could make a place for themselves if they would work hard, live by high moral standards, and take advantage of the educational opportunities offered them. They have proved she was right.

What the world sorely needs is more mothers like this lady.

What to do while the line is busy

- 1 Take for granted that whoever is talking on the line will hang up soon.
- 2 Hope that no one left his receiver carelessly off the hook.
- 3 Think about how reliable a telephone connection is once you get it. And how Gen Tel is constantly at work to modernize and improve service.
- 4 Be patient. After all, you may have talked for 20 or 30 minutes once yourself. So decide not to call the telephone company to report an out-of-order phone.
- 5 Think again about trouble-free telephone service. Then, when you get a line, think of the other party, too.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

THE EASY WAY

Modern youngsters are prone to smile knowingly when a member of the older generation expounds upon the difficulties of the "old days."

Perhaps a bit of exaggeration is involved. Maybe a bit of "color" is added in the effort to impress.

It may not be denied, however, that our present society is geared to the search for the "easy way". We have machines that do everything but think. We can "program" them to provide answers to specific problems; to do specific tasks; to perform an endless number of assignments.

In our individual relationships with our fellow citizens, we have a built-in evaluator. Our conscience weighs for us the merits of our acts and attitudes. It cannot be "programmed" to ignore that which is right or to support that which is wrong.

When a moral issue is involved, conscience indicates to us the easiest way is not always best. We may lose money or friendships if we choose to be "right", but it is easier to live with ourselves if we know we have done our best.

WTU NOTEBOOK—PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

INDUSTRIAL FOUNDATIONS

... to finance industrial growth

Competition between states and cities to improve their competitive abilities to attract new payrolls has increased the forming of Industrial Foundations in Texas. Many industries want and need someone else to own the land, brick and mortar, keeping their money available for plant operations. Industrial Foundations indicate the interest and desire of a community for new industry. Local citizens who participate usually figure that they get a return on their money in a Foundation by having an additional payroll circulating in their community.

- PURPOSE — is to give a community a corporate entity to assist industry to create jobs within the community — can be an existing industry as well as a new one. Foundations usually assist industry that cannot or will not use normal commercial financial institutions.
- EXTENT OF ACTIVITIES — usually are to acquire and develop industrial property . . . construct buildings for lease . . . provide funds for training workers . . . purchase machinery and equipment . . . prepare promotional material and prospecting expenses and any other function that would give the community a competitive advantage for a new payroll.
- ORGANIZATION — is usually by a group of businessmen who are interested in the economic growth and development of their community. A local attorney should prepare the application for the charter and by-laws in order to conform to state laws and internal revenue service regulations. The local bankers' support is very helpful in forming an Industrial Foundation.
- TYPE — of Industrial Foundations vary — profit or non-profit — stock or contributions — the type a town needs depends upon the attitude and characteristics of the local people and its competitive position with other towns to attract new manufacturing payrolls. In most cases, Industrial Foundations are only used to assist industries where labor cost is a big factor in the operation, as the payroll provided is the important thing to the economy of the community.

Make STRONG COMMUNITIES

The Armor of God

"Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."
— Ephesians 6:11

When it seems your will may be bent, stand straight and be constant.

Find your strength by being faithful to your beliefs. Temptation is not always clearly marked and there is often a price to be paid for indifference.

Never give up on God. God is with you. Find God's presence in the strength of your own faith. Let it be your armor, and wear it proudly.

Ernest A. Haner Is New Employee For Sonora SCS

Ernest A. Haner, a graduate from Texas A&M University, is a new employee of the Soil Conservation Service here.

Haner majored in range management in college and moved here from Hebronville. Prior to that he spent two years with the forest service in Oregon.

He is married and has two children, Bridgett 2½ and Ernest Eric 1½.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schnase and children, John Robert and Mary Louise, have returned from a vacation trip to Hastings, Neb. At Hastings they picked up his mother, Mrs. Viola Schnase, and extended their trip to the Black Hills and Badlands of South Dakota.

The agriculture teacher saw an advertisement in a farmers' almanac for a potato-bug kit for "only $1 plus 25 cents postage. Guaranteed to kill potato bugs ruining your crop."

slow to turn down the project. He said that the council had given thought and study to the issue and its possibilities of upgrading the community. "If it's needed we're not going to deny it, if it's not needed, we don't want it." He said that just because the money was available was no reason to accept it, but said that just because it was federal money was no reason to reject the project.

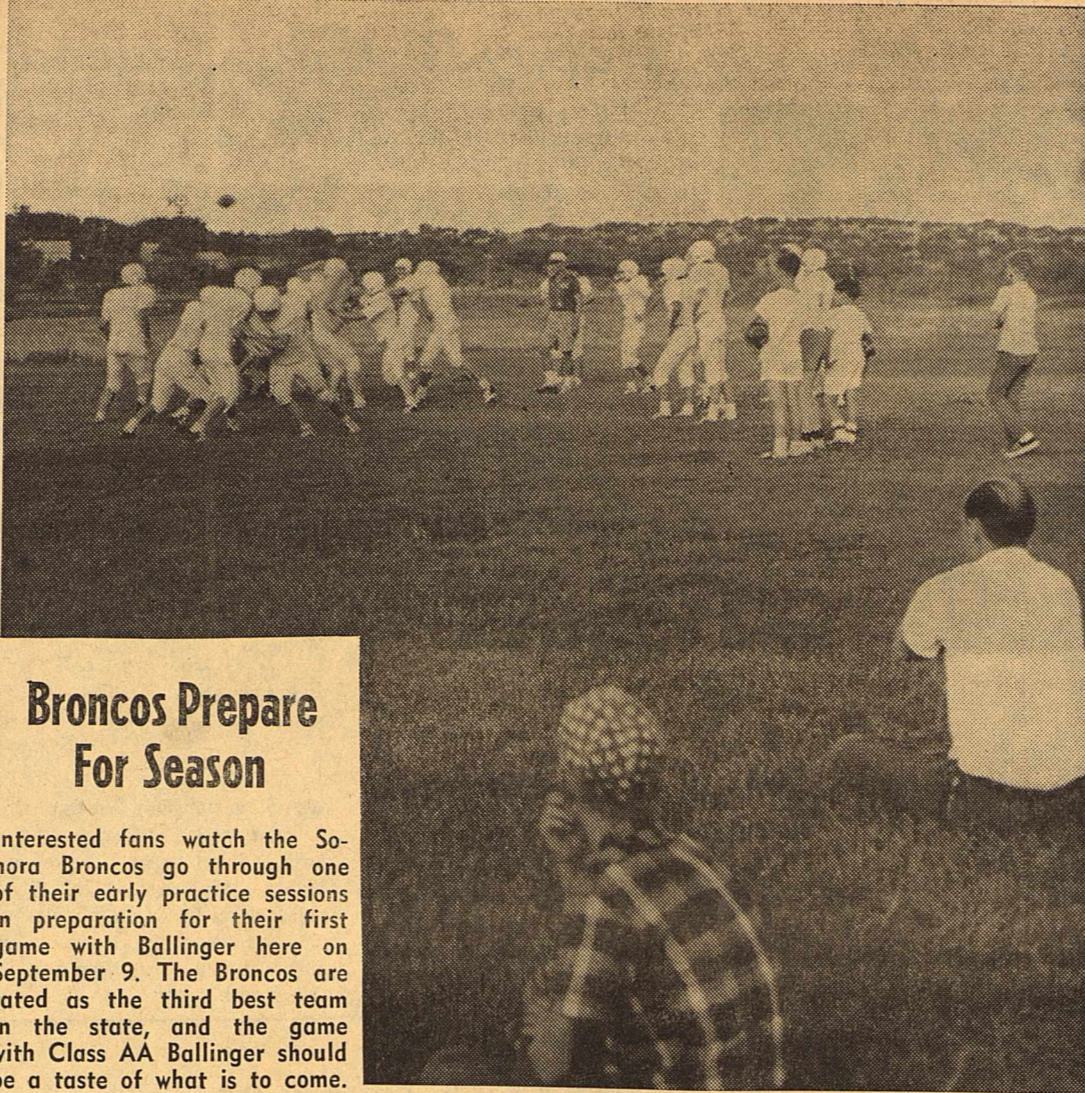

"If you study programs in this community that use public money, you'll find lots of that money came from the federal government," he said.

He quoted examples such as $30,000 federal participation in the $200,000 cost of Sonora's new sewer system, most of the $1,000,000 cost of the SCS dams project, school and road funds that were federal, R.E.A., transportation, and ranch improvement. "Not many kettles can call the pot black," he said.

Homer E. Pace, representative of the Midland architectural, engineering, and planning firm of Pierce, Norris, Pace & Associates, then outlined details of the program and how it has worked in 20 completed developments and some 37 others under supervised development by his company.

Pace said that public housing had been in use in Texas since 1937 and that there were presently 36,000 units built and about 2,000 more in planning and development. He said that presently there was more emphasis on units for the elderly and noted that the population of elderly people in Sonora had doubled in the last 10 years while population as a whole had decreased.

Answering a question about eminent domain, Pace told the group that the Public Housing Authority was very strict with use of this power and that its main purpose was to clear title in a friendly suit where heirs were scattered to the four winds. He said that on occasion it had also been used where only one piece of property was holding up development of a large tract. He said that the City could reserve this right instead of giving it to the Local Housing Authority.

After a question and answer period with Pace, the audience was given a report by Bob Johnson on 10 low-income people who might characterize some of the people who would occupy public housing. He then reported on a public housing project in Anson that had been entered reluctantly and now was being increased for the third time.

Prugel said that the commissioners had agreed to visit some of the projects before reaching a decision. He then called for a vote of those present to determine feeling of the crowd. Of those remaining who voted, 11 indicated approval and 13 indicated disapproval.

One spectator asked if the council would not be in a better position to make a decision after a survey by the Public Housing Authority. W. B. McMillan, a commissioner, said that at that point the Local Housing Authority would be functioning and it would be the decision of the Local Housing Authority whether to build units. Pace had earlier said that both units of government should work very closely until units were actually constructed.

The meeting was adjourned about 10 p.m.

Here is what you can do to aid TRAFFIC SAFETY
Cross only at corners,
Look all ways before you cross,
Stay from BETWEEN parked cars,
Watch for TURNING cars,
Walk on left facing traffic,
Be extra alert on stormy days,
Play away from traffic,
Wear white at night,
Obey the traffic signs.

Remember, Safety Is No Accident, Be Sure to Drive Carefully . . . To protect Our Children.

If You Ride Your Bike . . .
Always use hand signals,
Always stop for stop signs,
Never ride at night without a light,
Always ride in straight lines,
Always ride single file,
Never ride double on your bike,
Never trick or stunt ride,
Never hitch rides,
Always give pedestrians the right of way.
