Texas Schools To Celebrate 116th Birthday

(Editor's note: The following is a letter submitted by Bob McMinn, principal of Sonora Junior High School, and chairman for Public Schools Week in Texas.)

Dear Parents and Friends,
This is the year that Texas Public Schools celebrate their 116th birthday. In honor of this event, Governor Preston Smith has designated March 2-6 Public Schools Week in Texas.

During this period of time you are encouraged to visit the Sonora Public Schools. This is an opportunity for you to experience first hand what your school is doing. It is also an opportunity for you to thank yourself for the kind of education you are providing your young people.

"We should always remember that human freedom is not a gift to man; it is an achievement by man, and as it was gained by vigilance and struggle, so it may be lost by indifference and supineness."

You will be glad — and your child will, too — that you visited a public school — his school.

City Adopts Ordinances And Sets Election Date

Two ordinances were adopted at the regularly scheduled meeting of the city commission held at the City Hall February 2.

Ordinance 58 defines nuisance personal property, directing removal and impounding of same when found in public places; providing a lien thereon and sale to satisfy lien and redemption.

The ordinance states in part that any vehicle or other property or obstruction placed, left standing, parked, erected or left in violation of any ordinance of the City of Sonora, left unattended for more than 48 continuous hours on any public street, alley, sidewalk, park or other public place be removed by city employees and taken to City pound.

The commission feels that junk cars and other obstructions left on streets are a hazard to lives of people traveling on the streets; therefore, existing problems necessitated the passing of the ordinance.

At the meeting an order was established for procedure for the City election to be held April 4, when qualified city voters will be called on to elect three city officials.

Sonorans will elect a mayor and two commissioners. Mrs. James L. Robbins, City Secretary, will serve as clerk for absentee voting. Persons who offer themselves as candidates for the office must file with the City Secretary, thirty days before the said election, and pay a filing fee of $10.00.

OTHER CITY BUSINESS

At the city council meeting February 2, Glenn Scallom, representing Community Properties Inc., Sonora TV Service, met with the council and a rental agreement between the city and TV service was entered into and attached to the franchise agreement with the company.

It was agreed that two percent gross revenue tax per year will be charged to every organization, person or association using streets, highways, easements, alleys, parks or other public places in the City of Sonora as a condition to such further occupancy, and pay to the City annually for such privilege a rental equal to two percent of the gross receipts received by such person, etc.

Council members voted to continue to furnish electricity and water to the golf course after a review of the club's financial situation.

The discussion of the City's insurance program resulted in a meeting of the commission which was held February 20, to further discuss the insurance plans and needs.

Some discussion was held on the hiring of a City Marshall, but no action was taken at this time.

APRIL ELECTIONS

Along with the city officials to be elected at the April 4 election, an election of two trustees to the School Board will also be held. Incumbents Bill Morris and L. P. Bloodworth are both seeking re-election.

No filing announcements have been made to date regarding city posts open this year.

Norman Rousselot is filling the unexpired term of A. E. Prugel, who resigned from the office of Mayor last April. W. B. McMillan and Walter Pope, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. T. K. Nevill, are commissioners whose terms expire.

Deadline for filing for a place on the Sonora Independent School Board and the City Council is March 4.

TS&GRA To Hold Spring Meeting

Directors and members of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association will hold their tri-annual spring meeting in Brackettville March 6-7. Headquarters for the two-day meeting will be Fort Clark Guest Ranch.

Guest of honor will be Congressman Graham Purcell, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee's Sub-committee on livestock and feed grains. Other special guests will be Dr. Carl Buchheister, president emeritus of the National Audubon Society; Dr. Elvis Strah, NAS president; Gene Setzer, chairman of the NAS board; and Ed Harte, Corpus Christi publisher and NAS director. "We feel quite honored that this distinguished group of dignitaries can be on our program", stated Joe York, Jr. of Brackettville, TS&GRA president.

Of special interest to Angora goat producers will be a goat improvement program scheduled for 10 a. m., Friday, March 6. Dr. Maurice Shelton of Texas A&M's Livestock and Forage Research Center at McGregor will head a discussion on goat breeding.

TS&GRA committee meeting will start at 1:30 p. m. and continue through 5 p. m. At 5:30 the Association will host a reception honoring Congressman Purcell. This will be followed by a no-host dinner in Piedras Negras, Mexico. This general session will begin at 9 a. m. Saturday, highlighted by Congressman Purcell's speech. York also stated that activities had been planned for the ladies.

Though the old MacDonald Hotel building was demolished some time ago, rubble still remains as this unsightly mess indicates. See Editorial page 2.

Editorials-Features-Columns

The most effective single force in building a good community is a good newspaper.

Hazardous, Unsightly Mess Viewed By Sonorans Daily

During the height of World War II bombings a local man was heard to say that in the event of bombings in United States, he would move to Fort McKavett. His reasoning was that bombardier pilots would assume the place had already been bombed.

A similar situation certainly exists in Sonora at this time. At least Fort McKavett's devastation came about from gradual deterioration of the old buildings from many years of nature's destructive forces.

Here the rubble was man-made and has created a most objectionable eyesore to all who have to view it daily.

With the advent of spring and summer and the hopeful influx of tourists, a spot that could be made attractive remains to be a hazardous, unsightly mess after the passing of many weeks. Although those in charge of cleaning up the lumber company lot are to be commended for their efforts in trying to remove the rubbish, much work remains to be done on the hotel lot, and a crash approach to clearing the area is vastly needed.

Regardless of the efforts put forth by local businessmen in the downtown area to make their store fronts inviting, this pile of rubbish catches the stranger's eye first and most likely remains as a lasting impression of our city.

Whether we like it or not, we are judged by outward appearances. Is this the picture we want to leave with our visitors? How long must we assume this lackadaisical attitude and continue to tolerate such unpleasantness within our city?

THE POT AND THE KETTLE

Simply by existing, man unavoidably contaminates the environment. Each individual in miniature is an energy-producing power plant. He consumes fuel—carbohydrates, fats and oils, proteins and other materials he chooses to regard as food—which is turned into the energy required for muscular and mental activities. He radiates waste heat to the environment. He eliminates other wastes that are radioactive. Counting only the effects of his bodily functions, he is a major polluter of ground and surface waters.

In a remarkably clear statement, a West Coast utility official explains the positive environmental advantages of the nuclear power plant. The point he makes is that through developing the technology of the atom, needed energy for the progress of civilization can be produced at a minimum price to the environment. Thermal discharges of a nuclear power plant can be handled in many alternate ways, minimally harmful to the water or air environments. Nuclear plants can be integrated into agricultural and industrial complexes efficiently utilizing the by-product heat that is now wasted. Furthermore, nuclear power plants can almost totally mitigate air pollution now caused by combustion energy, and finally in the official's words, "—radiation from nuclear plants is on the ragged edge of a philosophical zero, if not actually at that point, and can be safely controlled." Those who wish to avoid radiation totally must start by dispensing with food and drink. Even normal drinking water has more radioactivity than a typical nuclear power plant's low-level liquid wastes.

When man — the fuel burner — becomes indignant or fearful of nuclear electric power generation, he places himself in the position of the pot calling the kettle black.

CROCODILE TEARS

A new and long overdue kind of consumer protector has appeared in Washington, D.C. He is an accountant who is registered as a professional lobbyist for the American public. His goal will be to undertake to protect the public against the inequities and abuses of the power of taxation. As reported in The New York Times, the accountant gave the following among the reasons why he appointed himself as a tax protector of the public. In the last three years, the average American's salary has risen sharply, but his spending power is less. He got tired of hearing government bodies and business firms "trumpet that they must grow or die" while average citizens were "not allowed to grow or even maintain their status quo. He became tired of being told the trouble is "a mysterious abstraction called inflation" when it seemed clear to him that the real problem was "undisciplined, uncoordinated and unchecked taxing" at all levels of government.

The kind of tears that consumer protectors, especially the breed that hold public office, shed over the sufferings of consumers at the hands of the nation's producers and distributors of necessities and luxuries could only come from a crocodile. There is little sincerity in their concern as long as they persist in ignoring the far-greater consumer problems of taxation, government spending and inflation.

Talk about a guaranteed annual income has given rise to an updated version of Aesop's fable about the Little Red Hen:

Once upon time there was a Little Red Hen who scratched about and uncovered some grains of wheat. She called to her neighbors and said to them: "If we work together and plant the wheat, we will have some bread to eat. Who will help plant the wheat?"

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Duck. "I demand guaranteed annual bread," put in the Goose.

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen -- and she did.

The wheat was planted, grew up, but the ground became dry from lack of rain. "Who will help me water the wheat?" asked the Little Red Hen.

And the Goose, the Duck, the Pig, and the Cow replied, "Not me."

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen -- and she did.

When it came time to grind the wheat into flour, all said "No." "I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the Duck.

Then came the time to bake and again all said "No." "That would be overtime for me," said the Cow. "I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the Duck. "I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the Pig. "If I helped and the others didn't, you'd be discriminating against me," explained the Goose.

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen -- and she did.

Five loaves were baked. "I want some," said the Cow. "So do I," said the Duck. "And I want some," said the Pig. "I demand my share," said the Goose.

"No," said the Little Red Hen. "I'll take my time and eat the five loaves."

"Excess profits!" cried the Cow. "Capitalistic leach," screamed the Goose. "I demand my equal rights," grunted the Pig.

A commotion developed and the Farmer came and ordered the Little Red Hen to keep one loaf and give the other four to the suffering neighbors.

And they lived happily ever after, including the Little Red Hen who smiled and smiled and clucked "I am grateful, I am grateful."

But her neighbors wondered why she never baked any more bread!

Philosopher Joins Pollution War In His Own Very Peculiar Fashion

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River takes a close look in a sidelong fashion at the pollution problem this week.

Dear editor:

Generally speaking, I'm in favor of whoever's President of our country or my bank, figuring both do the best they can with what they have to work with, so I sat up and cheered — I figure you can cheer just as well sitting as standing — when President Nixon announced he's declaring war on pollution.

Consequently I wasn't prepared when a neighbor came by and asked me if I'd read everything he'd said about pollution. "Mostly the headlines," I said. I didn't figure a man had to memorize all the streams and lakes and cities now polluted in order to endorse the idea of cleaning them up. A war on pollution is a war on pollution and you leave the details to the generals.

"You should have read it all," he said, straightening up a fence post he'd been leaning against. "He said pollution is not only a national problem, it's a local problem, and said everybody ought to start with his own premises, make everything tidy and ship-shape. When you gonna re-build this fence? Is that a 1918 or 1920 car chassis grown up in weeds over there? If that barn of yours sags a few more feet to the north without falling over it's gonna become a tourist attraction."

He went on like this for several minutes when I got up and walked off; saying some people read too much.

The trouble is, he has a point, and I got no peace of mind until I ran across an article in a newspaper which I picked up in my driveway as a first step in the anti-pollution war.

According to it, the government is furnishing the money in some cases to plant shrubbery around unsightly junk yards along the main highways. If you can't get rid of the old cars, hide them.

I have reviewed the situation on this bitterweed ranch from one end to the other and have decided it would be easier and cheaper to comply with the anti-pollution drive by just planting shrubbery around it. This way me and the government could both go about our way in peace. Please advise where you apply for funds for this. We've got to get this country in shape.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

A Bishop Looks at Life A Practical Lent

By Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of the Episcopal Church

"How can a custom as old as Lent have any practical value or use today? What can I do to make these forty days meaningful in my own life? Both of these questions have been put to me recently, as we approach Ash Wednesday (February 11) I offer these answers:

- You can decide at least one thing you will do, or not do, to make it easier for your wife (your husband) to live with you in this period. (You might do the same for your employer)
- You can develop a broader mind by reading a newspaper or magazine with an outlook different from what you usually read.
- You can stop being positive your way is the only way.
- You can stop holding a grudge beyond the statute of limitations.
- You can begin to listen when someone tries to tell you something he considers important.
- You can stop shutting your mind to something before you try it or try to understand it.

Life is not just a play. In the play an actor has no choice. But in real life you, the actor, have many choices, and how you play the part is up to you.

But still you need direction, coaching, encouragement. All these you can find in your church, for the Supreme Author of all life can give you inspiration and faith. In church, in the silence of your heart, you will hear His voice and understand.

Easter Seal Appeal Letters Being Delivered This Week

Easter Seal appeal letters are being delivered this week in Sutton County, according to Mrs. Erma Lee Turner, who is County Easter seal representative for Easter Seal Society for crippled children and adults of Texas.

As representative, Mrs. Turner serves as local contact for disabled persons needing Easter Seal rehabilitation services and also is treasurer of the Easter seal appeal in Sonora.

The Easter seal society offers physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs, and special equipment loans to enable disabled persons to make the best use of their abilities to overcome handicaps. These services are financed by the annual Easter seal appeal.

The society also provided for research into the causes and cures of crippling conditions, finances public education programs, and provides scholarships for training of professional personnel to staff rehabilitation centers.

She pointed out all of these programs are important if Texas is going to continue to provide the best in rehabilitation services for its own disabled citizens.

During 1969, the Texas Easter seal society helped to provide treatment and services to 20,378 children and adults who were in need of rehabilitation services. These services are available to any disabled person who can benefit from help provided by the Easter seal society, Mrs. Turner added.

The 1970 Easter seal campaign will run through Easter Sunday, March 29. She urged increased support for the Easter seal society and its program of services to crippled children and adults.

Natural Resources Of Texas

MY STAKE IN THE NATURAL RESOURCES OF TEXAS
by KAREN HEMPHILL

In the early 1800's the people of Texas did not worry about ruining the land because there was such an abundance that they never dreamed there would be so many people and so little room as there is today. When living conditions became crowded they could move on west and find open range or cheap land. This situation no longer exists.

Today many people are ruining our natural resources by throwing waste in rivers and streams, polluting the air with smoke from factories and automobiles and misusing the land. As President Nixon said in his State of the Union message, people leave an unsightly trail everywhere they go. Everyone has his own stake or part in taking care of the natural resources which Texas possesses. We must do our part to keep these resources alive because living without fresh water, pure air and productive soil would not only be unpleasant but impossible.

Our water resources are being polluted by water flooding the oil wells with salt water to get the oil out faster. When this salt water is put into the ground it is thought that much of this water seeps into the rivers and lakes near us. A farmer may want to irrigate from this lake or river not knowing it contains salt. He pumps this water onto his land thinking he is going to have better and larger crops but instead completely ruins his land. This is when people should have more consideration for the land and the water resources. Farmers and ranchers should not abuse their land by constant planting of one crop or over grazing their pastures.

If people don't take this seriously and take more precaution about how they treat our natural resources we will have a grave problem on our hands sooner than we think. Our stake in the natural resources of Texas is to see that these problems are solved before it is too late.

Land area of Texas is 263,513 square miles.

TEEN SCENE

by Kay Kerbow
The 24th annual speech meet was held this weekend, beginning with the Thursday night mixer. Everyone seemed to enjoy the dance and the participants actually mingled with participants from other schools.

There was still the usual squabbling between "kickers" and "cats" over the music for dancing. We acquired a new nickname from the Denton kids—"goat ropers". Who knows what interesting names we might acquire in future years!!
-KK-

While everyone enjoyed the meet from the fun point of view, Sonora students did well in the contests also. Kelly Sentell placed third in Dramatic Interpretation. Missy Brown also made the finals in the event, but did not place in the first three places.

Rick Street and Sarah Allison both came in third in Bible Reading. Street also placed second in Poetry Interpretation. Kelly Sentell also competed in the finals in the girls' Poetry Interpretation.

Sue Pettiet made the final round in Humorous Declamation. Rick Hill won Sonora's only first place by winning the Prose Reading event. Sonora placed three in the Junior Declamation first three places. Jim Pollard and David Wallace won first and second respectively while Maggie Galbreath won third in the girls' finals.

The one-act plays were won by Denton, as usual, with San Angelo winning second. Denton presented "Exit the King" while San Angelo Central presented Henry IV, Part I.

After the one acts, a dance was held in the cafeteria. It proved as much fun as the mixer if not more. Quite a few new dances were invented in the process of attempting to learn dances brought in by others. Isn't that right, Kerry?
-KK-

I don't know which was funnier, "kickers" trying to dance "cat" or "cats" trying to dance "kicker" style.

A barbecue and awards assembly ended the successful tournament. Plans are already being made for next year's speech meet according to two junior girls... and I don't think it has anything to do with what selections would be most likely to win.
-KK-

Six weeks tests began yesterday with the 7th period test. 1 - 3 - and 5 will be held Thursday and 2 - 4 - and 6 occur Friday.

The Junior and Senior banquet and prom is to be held April 3. George Chambers band is scheduled to play.

April 4 is the Eldorado track meet, so the boys will probably have an earlier curfew, much to the annoyance of the girls.

An interesting item appeared in this week's edition of the Ricksprings newspaper, "The Texas Mohair Weekly". The item said, "The printer's devil had a heyday last week with the editor's copy and left Mrs. Warren Hutt's name off the announcement of the new granddaughter, Julie Beth Hutt." Wonder if the newspaper's publisher, being Mr. Warren Hutt, had any explaining to do?

New Camaro. Feb. 26th.
We've never announced a car at this time before. But then nobody's ever announced a car like this before.

Super Hugger
If it were an ordinary sportster, we'd have introduced it at the ordinary time. Instead, we took the time to build a whole new Camaro. We started with a sleek new shape and a low road-hugging stance. And added more hood. A faster fastback. Wider doors. And new deeply contoured bucket seats. The instrument panel wraps around you. With enough dials to make you think you're piloting a 747. There are four transmissions. And six power plants up to the Turbo-Jet 396 V8 that you can order.

Pick the one that best suits your driving. Then go pick on an open road. And make it one with plenty of twisting turns. Because Camaro has a remarkable new suspension. And standard front disc brakes for a leech-like grip on the road.

New Camaro. The Super Hugger. Other sportsters always feared it might come to this. And they were right. Only their timing was wrong. Putting you first, keeps us first.

Cattle Lice Most Damaging Cattle Parasite

It costs money to feed cattle lice and the returns are negative. In fact, explains County Agent Clint Langford, these parasites are among the most damaging of all beef cattle parasites.

Cattle infested with lice spend a great deal of time rubbing against fences, posts or other convenient objects. Cattle on feed do not gain as they should and more feed is required for a pound of gain.

Infested cows lose weight and their calves become prime targets of the pests. Reduced weaning weights of calves can hit the pocketbook where it really hurts, says the agent.

Eradication Program In 9th Year

Screwworm eradication officials, at the eighth anniversary observance of the program February 14, said they are looking forward to another successful year, although many livestock owners apparently believe there is little room for improvement. Several factors could change the picture quickly, however.

It was on Valentine's Day of 1962 that the first plane load of irradiated flies was dispersed over South-Central Texas, launching the program which has resulted in many millions of dollars of savings to stockmen of the Southwest United States.

Dr. S. C. Gartman, director of the Mission-based program, noted that striking results became apparent almost immediately after the initiation of the biological control program. Screwworm infestations were reduced 70 percent the first year; and the following year by 99 percent. California and Arizona joined the battle against screwworms in 1964, and marked improvement was seen immediately in those areas.

"As we begin our ninth year of operation, we have just completed eight weeks without a confirmed screwworm case. We would like to see more of such weeks. However, a number of cases are being reported approximately 180 to 200 miles from the Texas and Arizona borders in Mexico, and research has shown that fertile flies can travel this distance. So, increased vigilance on the part of producers is in order," Dr. Gartman added.

He reported that a feasibility study to develop plans for a ship based screwworm plant for Mexico is currently underway and due completion this spring. The Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation authorized the study in its continuing effort to move the eradication program southward into Mexico.
