Pipe Lines Create County Road Hazard For Workers

The problem of oil and gas companies creating a hazard by laying their pipe lines in close proximity to county roads was discussed by Commissioners Court Monday. The court requests all land owners to consult the County Road Department prior to allowing anyone to lay a pipeline close to a county road.

If a hazard is created the county will be unable to work the roads. An attempt will be made to control the oil and gas companies commencing with Houston Natural Gas, announced County Judge J. W. Elliott.

TAX RATE SET
In other county business, members of the commission approved the budget and set the tax rate at $1.15, remaining the same as last year. Judge Elliott announced that the county is presently debt free.

SCREW WORM CASES
Judge Elliott noted that 15,331 cases of screw worms were reported in Texas in July, whereas only 17 cases were reported in July of 1971. Sutton County reported 189 cases in July, but it was noted that a great many cases are probably never reported.

The commissioners approved a proclamation from Texas Parks and Wildlife in regards to final destination of deer carcasses, or any part thereof.

Copy of a letter from Dalton Merz to Cy Richmond, district soil conservation supervisor, was read to the commission calling attention to some necessary repairs to fences and the removable of brush on dam sites one and six. Superintendent of roads, E. L. Harrell, reported that August flood conditions created much havoc with considerable damage to county roads, consequently work has been delayed. All members of the county commission were present for the meeting along with County Clerk, Erma Lee Turner; County Attorney Waymon G. DuBose, Jr., the four commissioners and county judge.

Seen Any Gerbils In Your Sleep Lately?

Have you ever seen a "clawed Jird"—popularly known as "Gerbil"?

This small, bright-eyed rodent was new to us until Cheryl Beckner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Beckner, aroused our curiosity with their enthusiasm when they were in the news office recently and told us about these unusual pets.

Eleven-year-old Cheryl, who enrolled in the sixth grade here this year, became interested in gerbils when her teacher in Missouri introduced them to the class as a project. The teacher offered them to one of the students after the study was complete. The Beckners, lover of all animals, couldn't resist Cheryl's plea to bring the gerbils home.

The little animals have made many moves with the Beckners as Mr. Beckner works for McVean & Barlow Pipeline Company presently. Although the family has lived in 39 states, the Beckner children are nevertheless encouraged to enjoy animals and nature.

The gerbil is similar in appearance to a hamster, although somewhat smaller. His tail is similar in length to that of a mouse, except that the gerbil's tail has a thick covering of golden-brown fur matching that on his body.

In some ways gerbils resemble chipmunks, with their bright eyes, their habit of sitting on their haunches, and their insatiable curiosity. The gerbil may walk with the jerky movements of an old-time movie, or because of his elongated back legs he may move in hops or leaps.

A full-grown gerbil weighs less than 3 ounces and is never more than three or four inches in length. With age, he will put on some weight. Seldom do they live to be over 4½-years old.

There are fourteen known species. This particular type is Mongolian Gerbil. Gerbils are closely related to jerboas and kangaroo rats but are considered

City Discusses Funding For Improvements

In the Thursday meeting of members of the City Commission, the group met with Carter Johnson of San Antonio to discuss the best method of financing proposed electrical improvements. Johnson represents the firm of Rauscher Price Security Corporation. No action was taken, and the city is presently pursuing other sources.

In other city business a letter signed by Mayor Norman Rousselet was mailed to Senator John Tower protesting the abandonment of 65 miles of rail line from San Angelo to Sonora. Santa Fe has appealed the decision rendered earlier when the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled against the abandonment.

Three high school girls met with the council asking permission to place park benches in the downtown park area. The girls, members of Future Homemakers of America, will sponsor the placing of benches as a community project. The benches will carry no advertisement, however individuals who might like to help with the project should contact Mrs. A. E. Prugel, who will relay messages to the students.

NEW EMPLOYEE
City Manager Alex Binford announced that Terry Hamilton of Andrews has been employed as a lineman to work in the electrical department of the city.

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS in the 21-20 season opener with the Coahoma Bulldogs, Bronco Steve Street had 19 carries with 88 yards; Mark Rousselet, 5 carries for 65 yards; Bruce Kerbow, 13 carries for 50 yards; Freddy Virgin, 8 carries for 35 yards, and Tryon Fields and John Weston, each one for 2 yards. Kerbow punted four times for 33.2 average, and he also caught both passes that were completed out of six attempts. Kerbow scored two touchdowns and Street scored one. Henry Mata kicked extra points after the three TD's. The varsity travels to Llano Friday to meet the Yellow Jackets at 8 p. m. The "B" team will meet Ozona there at 6:30 p. m. tonight (Thursday), while Sonora Junior High will play here beginning at 5 p. m.

Broncos Squeak By Coahoma

Sonora's Broncos had to score 14 last quarter points to post a 21-20 victory over the highly rated Class AA Coahoma Bulldogs Friday night. This fourth quarter effort made the long ride home a little shorter for local fans.

Coahoma's Roland Beal climaxed an 84-yard drive and scored the only touchdown of the first quarter. A two point conversion effort failed.

4-H's Set Plans To Elect Officers

The youth plan to meet monthly and Phil George of Angelo State University has been invited to address them at their next meeting.

Assisting in the organization are coaches Jerry Phillips, Tally Kelso and Dave Porter. Twenty-six athletes were present for the first meeting.

School Approves Buy Of Wallace Property Monday

Trustees of the Sonora Independent School District voted Monday to purchase the George Wallace property for the sum of $5,000, subject to approval of title, etc.

The property is adjacent to the I. C. Stephens home, and is located directly across from the Elementary School. Board members feel that the corner lots could be used for future expansion of the elementary school, for parking area of elementary and junior high personnel, or for possible future site of administrative offices.

In other school business the board approved the financial statement and approved payment of monthly bills.

No bids were received on the vacated houses which the school had offered.

Insurance payment of $11,940, 50 for premiums due on school property was approved for payment.

CAFETERIA CHARGES
The motion was made and adopted that visitors to the cafeteria be charged $1 for meals instead of the prior charge of 75¢. Superintendent Ken McAllister reported that the average number of students presently eating in the cafeteria is 489, including 272 under the free lunch program.

TICKETS FOR LLANO GAME
Reserved seat tickets for the game with Llano Friday night are now on sale in the office of the high school principal. Cost of the football tickets if purchased here are $1.75 for adults and 75¢ for students. If purchased at the gate in Llano the cost will be $2 and $1 for students.

Friess and his family will move to Irving, where he has accepted a job with an oil company, and this particular species is known as the Mongolian Gerbil. Gerbils are clean and odorless, since their diet mainly consists of seeds and other dry foods.

Lions Cite Need For Livestock For Auction Sale

Ranchmen are being reminded by Clint Langford, Livestock collection chairman, for the Lions Club Auction sale that the club is in need of livestock for the sale. The auction will be held at the 4-H Center at 6:30 p. m. September 26.

Langford said Spanish goats seemed to be one of the best sellers at last year's auction with the 33 head that were donated bringing a little over $51 per head.

Producers are reminded that livestock for slaughter may be delivered to the Branding Iron Smokehouse during working hours, except Saturdays.

Art Gallery Opening Planned

Dedication ceremonies for an art gallery in memory of the late Mrs. J. S. Holman have been set for Sunday, 3 to 6 p. m.

The Nell E. Smith Holman Memorial Art Gallery is located at 106 Seventh Street, and is an annex to Will's Museum. Mr. and Mrs. George E. (Bud) Smith will be in charge of the dedication.

Mrs. Holman was the wife of J. S. (Jap) Holman and a sister of Will G. and Bud Smith and Mrs. H. L. Taylor and Mrs. Ralph Trainer. The Smith family moved here from Gillespie County in the early 1900's.

The art gallery annex will house exhibits by local and West Texas artists, Smith announced.

Opening exhibit will be by Mrs. Charles F. (Maxine) Browne and Mrs. Armer (Barbara) Earwood. Both are members of the San Angelo-Sonora Painting Society.

MAXINE BROWNE and BARBARA EARWOOD have spent a lot of time at the Nell E. Smith Holman Memorial Art Gallery for the past several days preparing for the exhibit featuring their work this weekend at the dedication and opening ceremonies. The art gallery was built by Mr. and Mrs. George (Bud) Smith as a memorial tribute to his sister, Mrs. Holman. It is located next to Will's Museum, and all persons in the community are invited to the showing. Refreshments will be served Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Browne said.

GOOD FOOD SENSE

Surrounded by the most abundant food supply the world has ever seen, the United States is fast becoming a nation of nutritional illiterates. This is the opinion of Mr. Henry J. Heinz II, chairman of the H. J. Heinz Company.

Writing in The New York Times, he says, "Despite a wealth of scientific knowledge of nutrition, too many of us do not know what a balanced diet is, and are ignorant of the essential nutrients we need and the foods that contain them... The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that the percentage of households that met or exceeded the department's definition of a good diet dropped from 60 to 50 percent from 1955 to 1965. Nine percent of families with incomes over $10,000 had diets rated poor. The deficiencies broadened over the decade due to decreased use of milk, milk products, vegetables and fruits, and to an increase in snacking."

The food industry authority laid the blame for declining nutritional standards squarely at the door of food faddism and "changing life styles". Many people today seem to follow "fashions" in eating just as they do in dress and manner of speaking. The "in-thing" is to work certain phrases to death, wear ties of a certain length or skirts of a certain width or drop a basic food item from the diet to get on the bandwagon with no questions asked.

The trouble is, speech and clothing styles can change with no harm done. Arbitrary tampering, however, with diet can leave lasting harmful effects. Normal people need a balanced diet—foods that through deliberate self-denial they are not now getting.

Apparently our sophisticated civilization needs to be taught how to eat properly.

LISTEN NOW!

Nothing could shock the complacent consumer more than to drive into his corner service station and find gasoline prices posted at say $2 a gallon.

Now is the time when millions of complacent motorists and everyone else dependent upon a continuing flow of petroleum products should heed the warnings of those who have seen the handwriting on the wall and know what must be done to stave off an irreversible energy shortage crisis.

One of the latter is Mr. O. N. Miller, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of California. Not long ago, in an address, he said in the most explicit way possible, "... that the U. S. is facing a potential energy shortage... exploration in the U. S. has been discouraged by tax increases, environmental restrictions, and administration of the federal oil-import quota system in a manner that often encourages destructive price cutting in the industry. Deterrent to U. S. exploration can and must be corrected by redirection of government policies and by improved prices. When those things occur, domestic exploration will... surge forward again... it is not too late... for solutions—but it is, indeed, late enough."

As a practical matter, there is only one way to show we have an interest in future petroleum supplies—and that is by refusing to go along with the easy assumption that only politicians speak for the public interest. The greatest public interest spokesmen at the moment are those in the energy industry who are trying to awaken us to the facts of our energy-based life before it is indeed too late—before prices become playthings of scarcity rather than incentives for greater production.

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ.....

He Has High Praise For New Boffles That Dissolve In The Bright Sunlight

Editor's note: The Dry Devil's Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River goes overboard this week on a new discovery.

Dear editor:
Since it apparently is impossible to keep people from throwing cans and bottles out of their cars, science has just about come up with a solution, according to an item I read in a newspaper somebody threw out of his car near this place yesterday.

A scientist claims he has invented a plastic container which can be scheduled to self-destruct. Exposed to sunlight, it melts into nothingness, but the time of its melting can be regulated over days or months by changing the formula, so you won't suddenly find yourself on a picnic holding nothing but a handful of sodawater.

But beyond solving the litter problem, this idea has far more practical uses.

For example, all television and radio tapes of political speeches should be made of this self-destructing material. Say a man is running for justice of the Peace on a platform of increased trade with China. It's embarrassing to have his opponent play a recording of his denunciation of all dealings with China when he ran the time before.

Or a judge comes out on the steps of the court house and in the glare of television lights says he's for a thousand dollars for everybody, and three months later says he's not.

Some smart alec for the networks is always going back and digging out these tapes and playing them side by side, and if Congress is on its toes it'll pass a law immediately requiring all such tapes to be made of material that'll melt away.

The right formula for the time schedule on this will have to be worked out. Some say a politician shouldn't be held responsible for what he said a year ago, some say three months would be a more realistic figure.

By the way, come to think of it, this new material, if it works, would certainly be ideal for notes you sign at the bank. And there may even be editors who wish some of their last year's opinions would melt away when exposed to sunlight.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Football season is well on its way and always true of Sonora fans you can tell by the attire on Fridays that Sonora is truly a football loving community. Red and white on Fridays and mostly on Thursdays among the downtown merchants and employees has gotten almost as prevalent as among the school children.

I sometimes wonder if this type of enthusiasm among the fans doesn't alter the outcome on the scoreboard.

Cullen Luttrell, local Texas Highway Department employee has recently been elected president of the Texas Public Employees Association of District 7 Chapter. Mr. and Mrs. Luttrell attended a State Association Convention held in Austin in the later part of August.

Luttrell says that approximately 2500 people were represented at the convention and that he held the voting privilege for 150 persons in his chapter.

—SKH—
Besides washed out streets, some water in houses, we just heard of an accident caused by the washing rains we had in August. Mrs. Pat Brown, wife of our local weather gatherer, fell in the corral and broke her elbow on her left arm. The rain had washed the corral badly and left many rocks exposed. Mrs. Brown said she is progressing nicely, but the weight of the cast is getting pretty tiresome. Get well soon, Mrs. Brown.

Visiting earlier this week with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neil Smith and Linda, were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Drennan of Coleman.

Mrs. Dick Morrison and daughter, Mrs. Janet Young and Mark of Big Lake spent the past week in Grandbury where they attended the wedding of Mrs. Morrison's niece, Miss Jo Ruth Durant. Miss Durant was married September 2 in the Methodist Church with Mrs. Young and Miss Suzanne Morrison serving in the wedding party.

Final plans are now being made for the Sonora Couples Tournament. Looks as though there will be a good group to play. Prizes will be awarded to the winners in four different flights.

Several different people played at the San Angelo Country Club Fiesta this weekend—Jo and J. Neville, Wanda Cahill and Durwood Neville and Sammye Espy and Dr. Roy Waterhouse of San Angelo.

—GN—
Patch Cochran is in California on a well-deserved vacation. Lots of work goes into caring for the golf course, and I think the course looks great. Hope you had a nice trip, Patch.

—GN—
Between the Olympic games and football I haven't had much time for golf lately. I guess I will have to brush up on my game before the weekend. My game I can't do much about, but I can study a few rules and practice my golf manners.

If everyone pitches in and helps this weekend, I think we can look forward to a good time and a nice tournament.

Survival

Medieval knights felt invincible when they strode forth to battle in a suit of armor. Unfortunately, more protection meant less mobility. Finally armor became so cumbersome that it was relegated to museums—the useless antique was discarded—not the man under the metal coverall. He had to adapt to the change!

How many of our ideas and customs have become useless? The world is not static and even some values change. What we cherish must be genuine. That goes for Faith, too. A shallow faith cannot survive the twentieth century—or any era for that matter. But the Christian faith is not superficial, or outmoded! It survives, and continues to reach millions each Sunday—proof that Christianity is not destined for the museum.

BIG AS ALL OUTDOORS and small as a tiny, hand-crafted bead, Tuzigoot ranger Ernest Stephen explains the wonders of the Indian ruins and museum artifacts to visitor Lorraine Strickhauser of La Crescenta, Calif. Stephen, 40, has worked at Tuzigoot five summers and will be one of Cottonwood school's "head teachers" this year.

Teacher Finds Treasure At Tuzigoot

EDITOR'S NOTE: Former Sonoran and local high school graduate, Ernest Carroll Stephen was featured in a recent article in the Cottonwood, Arizona, Independent News. Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stephen, has worked at Tuzigoot five summers, and is one of Cottonwood school's "head teachers" this year. The story follows:

It started out as just another part time job for a young teacher—working weekends at Tuzigoot National Monument as a park ranger.

But, the experience has turned out to be a treasure house of resources for Ernest Stephen of the Cottonwood Elementary school. Not only have the past five summers at Tuzigoot provided him with local historical material for teaching, but his months there have opened the door to another kind of resource; the wealth of human experience.

"It is just a tremendous opportunity to visit here with people from every state and all over the world," Stephen said last week, "people who may be shopkeepers from Germany, a farmer from Oklahoma, a lawyer from Los Angeles, school teachers from Italy or France, or students from Turkey."

"I've visited in some states, but not extensively," says the soft spoken former Texan. "But right here is where I've come to learn the most about different places in the United States and all over the world."

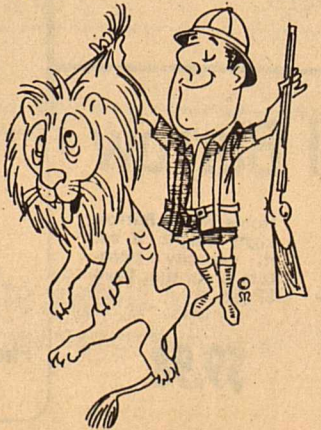

Stephen, who has taught in Cottonwood for seven years, has 18 years of teaching under his belt; most of it in elementary schools. This year, however, he'll be taking on a new role as he becomes one of the school system's "head teachers", a sort of semi-principal for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades at the school.

Because his job will involve him in helping the 15 teachers in his department to plan lessons and "establish a flow" of information between classes, he was especially delighted with one fringe benefit of his five summer sessions at Tuzigoot.

"I've talked to many, many teachers over the summer," he explained, "and I've kept up correspondence with some of them." He displayed a card with the address of Allene Tadlock, a fifth and sixth grade teacher in Madison, Florida, who had visited Tuzigoot this summer.

"She has some fine ideas on teaching," he said. "We're going to have our students become kind of pen pals" they will exchange little booklets on their areas of the country and we also talked about an exchange of slide programs. I can draw on experiences from many teachers I've met here."

THERE'S BIG GAME... IN THE WANT ADS

Tuzigoot itself has provided some grist for Stephen's educational mill in the form of museum curator Emi Escalante, who will make several visits to the Cottonwood school this fall and winter. Mrs. Escalante and her programs will bring mouthfilling terms like ecology, anthropology and archeology to life for fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

These programs can be tied to the other classroom studies and to field trips, Stephen said, and it will be part of his job as head teacher to make them all come together smoothly.

Even more than lesson plans or historic material, Stephen delights in the people he has met at Tuzigoot and, because he is a teacher, especially in the children.

Stephen said that although some people "pop in and whisk through" the museum, the average stay to look at exhibits is 45 minutes.

"I'm constantly amazed at the quality of questions people ask," he said. "It doesn't matter if the people are from another country or the states, young parents, college students, middle aged or retired people. The questions they ask, and the comments they make on our museum are fascinating."

He is drawn to the small children who visit Tuzigoot. "It's perfectly delightful to see parents with little children take them in their arms and read each of the exhibits to them," he said. "We can tell which are the most popular exhibits by counting the number of fingerprints on the cases." The rest of the staff laughingly agreed with him.

Stephen is obviously a man who liked people and will seek out visitors he feels are shy about asking questions. The greatest way to put people at ease, he says, is to ask where they're from.

"Visitors from another country almost invariably speak English, and some of them speak it so well it makes me ashamed to speak only one language with any success. We had a German family here one day, and I wouldn't have known it if the woman hadn't shown me her passport. Even the little children spoke English fluently."

Stephen exchanges small talk, weather reports, historical facts, museum lore and teaching hints with Tuzigoot tourists in much the same manner as tennis players enjoying a good volley. And each contact, he feels, has added to both his teaching ability and his own personal growth.

"My job is a public contact position," he explained. "I'm supposed to be meeting the public, helping them to get the most from the exhibits here."

"But I've gotten much more than I've given."

"THE DEALERSHIP WHERE SERVICE IS STANDARD EQUIPMENT"

don't let outdated wiring
on you!

To avoid the inconvenience and expense of inadequate wiring, include enough wiring for future growth when the home is built. Rewiring later can be costly.

- Adequate wiring is a properly-sized electrical service entrance or fuse box, large enough to handle present and future growth. Adequate wiring is enough circuits—as well as outlets—to let you use electricity conveniently and safely. Adequate wiring is extra circuits and outlets to let you grow, electrically.
- Adequate wiring prevents overloaded wiring. Overloaded wiring is a safety hazard and it wastes electricity... you pay for wasted current you never use.
- For efficient use of electricity, for safety, for economy, insist on adequate wiring when you build or remodel.

I have really appreciated all the kind and thoughtful things my friends, neighbors, and of course, my husband, have done for me while I have had my arm in a cast.

A Bishop Looks at Life

How Can I Help Other People?

By Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of the Episcopal Church

It is an encouraging fact that many young people today have as their life purpose the helping of other people.

In almost all of us there is something of this same desire. We ask ourselves about someone in our own family, a business associate, a neighbor, or a friend who has come to us: "What can I do to help?"

The desire itself is the primary requisite. However, a warm heart is not enough; there is need for great intelligence and imagination. Those going into the helping professions need extensive training. But what can be said to those of us who want to do something, even if we are amateurs?

Much insight comes from asking ourselves, "How have I been helped?" We shall probably remember those who have cared enough to make us feel we are not alone; who have believed in us even when we did not believe in ourselves; who held us up to our highest potential; who have joined us out of our self-pity; whose own lives have made us believe there is meaning and purpose in human existence.

Much wisdom can also come through remembering a few warnings:

Don't try to "take over" another person's life. Don't smother him or her with advice. Don't make decisions for him, but help him to think out his situation, face the alternatives, and decide his own course of action.

Don't think it is kindness to "cover up" the other person's failures and mistakes. It is often necessary to "speak the truth in love." The important thing is to make clear that life is full of new beginnings; that forgiveness is a reality, not just a pious word; that our greatest victories often come out of our defeats, just as the legendary phoenix rises out of its own ashes.

Be quick to recognize when the situation is beyond your competence. Don't try to be a general practitioner or a psychiatrist. The person may need the kind of spiritual help best given by a trained and experienced pastor.

Keep in mind the goal of your helpfulness. It is not to create a dependent person. It is to rehabilitate a life; to help a person build on his own talents and abilities; and to enable him to discover sources of personal security.

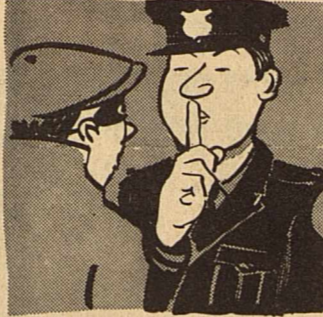

One of the greatest satisfactions in life is to feel that you have helped another person to find himself that he in turn can become a helping person.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"I Just Killed My..."

Poking fun at the law, a cartoon shows a man rushing into the police station to confess a murder. But the desk sergeant frantically waves him into silence. "You don't have to say a word," the sergeant explains, "until you have seen a lawyer." This may be good cartooning. But it is bad law. The sergeant has no obligation to interrupt a confession that is offered voluntarily. Furthermore, the man's statement may be used against him in court.

Consider an actual case: A motorcycle officer siren a motorist to the curb and asked to see his driver's license and registration slip. After a moment's hesitation, the man shrugged. "Well, I guess you've got me," he said. "I stole the car."

Brought to trial later for car theft, he claimed that his confession could not be used against him because the officer had failed to warn him of his rights.

But the court found nothing wrong with the confession, since the man had made it of his own free will.

What kind of pressures do taint a confession as "involuntary"—hence inadmissible in court? Obvious examples are the use of physical violence or mental intimidation. Such methods run afoul of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination.

But a confession may also be ruled out because it was obtained by the unfair use of promises or temptations.

In one case, a man under questioning about a robbery was informed that his wife—also being held—would be released if he would confess he had committed the crime.

He did confess. But this time, his confession was held to be inadmissible in court. The judge said a confession obtained by offering such a powerful temptation had one great drawback in the eyes of the law: It was all too likely to be false.

FHA'ers Seek Useable Benches

Have any outdoor benches you don't ever use? Don't throw them away—the FHA wants them.

Connie Gutierrez, Irma Velardez and Evangelina Pimentel met with the City Commission last week and secured permission to place some benches in the downtown park area.

The Future Homemakers of America hope to have about $100 to spend on the project, and by re-doing used benches instead of buying new lumber, they hope to be able to finance the project. They feel the addition of benches will provide enjoyment for local people as well as provide a place for travelers to relax a few minutes before continuing on their way.

ably smaller. Although the correct name is "clawed jird", the more popular name is gerbil. They were first brought to this country from, of course, the desert areas of Mongolia. Other species are found in the steppes or desert areas of southern Russia and parts of China, India, the Near and Middle East, Mongolia and into North Africa.

The first gerbils were imported as laboratory research animals and were used for research on many diseases, including tuberculosis and rickets. Gerbils are still used in lab work, but because of their lovable and placid disposition, they have been adopted as pets and for the past five years, bred extensively for this purpose.

They are slightly more expensive than the hamster, domesticated rat or mouse. They are clean and odorless, mainly because the diet consists of seeds and other dry foods. He is affectionate and soon learns to recognize "the hand that feeds him". Readily tamed he will eat from your hand and enjoy having his back and ears scratched. The Beckners have two Pekinese that love a romp with the gerbils too.

Gestation period is only 23 to 24 days, so they can multiply rapidly creating a problem unless only one sex is kept as pets.

Though he will nap when things are quiet, he is naturally diurnal, which means that he is awake most of the day. Even at night, when he does most of his sleeping, he is easily awakened.

A healthy gerbil is always active, and unless he is sleeping he is never still. . . making pretty good companions for an active small boy or in this case. . . a small girl!

Farm Prices Show Slight Drop . . . Turkey Production Declines . . . Five Counties Added to Fire Ant Control Area . . . Food and Fiber Pavilion Readied . . .

Prices received by farmers and ranchers as of the middle of August showed a seven point drop from a year ago. But prices are 18 percent above 1971.

All meat animals were down from a month ago, but were at higher levels compared to a year ago. Poultry and eggs were below a year ago. Milk prices were up; wool and mohair were unchanged from last month, but showed some increase from a year ago.

The all-crops index was up four percent from a year ago. The majority of field crops were down from last year with the exception of wheat, rice, potatoes, and cotton which were above last year.

Only one farm commodity—calves—was above full effective parity. Cotton, for example, has a parity of 55.16 cents per pound. The price average was 30 cents per pound. Grain sorghum price averaged $2.08, but the parity is $3.33 per hundredweight.

Wheat averaged $1.55 compared with $1.38 a year ago.

LIVESTOCK prices included: hogs averaged $27.70 with full parity at $30.60. Beef cattle parity is $36.80; average price was $33.20. Calf parity is $44.20; average price received by farmers was $44.20.

Parity price for eggs is 44.9 cents per dozen; average price to Texas producers was 34 cents per dozen.

TURKEY production in Texas is expected to be four percent under the 1971 levels, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reports. The current crop is estimated at 8,015,000 birds compared with 8,378,000 raised last year. Texas is now the sixth ranked state in turkey production.

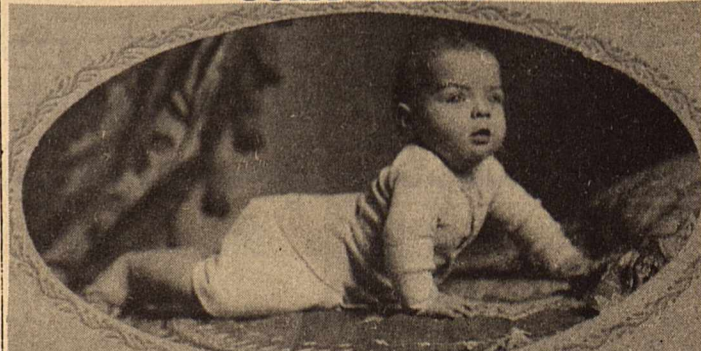

Nationwide, turkey production is expected to be higher by seven percent this year compared to last year. Minnesota is the number one turkey producing state in the nation with an expected 20,700,000 birds this season.

FIVE Texas counties have been added to federal regulations relating to the imported fire ant control program. The counties are Nueces, Smith, Trinity, Victoria and Walker.

A total of 36 counties in Texas are now under federal regulations relating to fire ant control. They are located primarily in the coastal bend area of the state.

RED MEAT production in Texas and the nation has shown declines from a year ago. In Texas, commercial slaughtering plants reported a one percent decline in red meat production; nationwide, commercial production of red meat is down 11 percent. Commercial meat production includes slaughter in federally inspected and other slaughter plants, but excludes animals slaughtered on farms.

GUESS WHO!

This cute little bald-headed baby is no longer a baby, but he is once more bald-headed! He has lived all his life in Sonora—in fact, his parents were early-day settlers. You still see him around town pretty often, although he is an avid fisherman! We thought everyone would know last weeks 'guess who'—in case, you didn't, he was John Butterfield, the band director.

Edith Phillips Who Grew Up Here Heads El Paso School After Retirement

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Edith Phillips, who once was a teacher in Fort Stockton, and later served as executive director of the American Red Cross chapter for Pecos County, has returned to a parochial school job in El Paso after retirement from public school teaching in San Antonio. She is the subject of the following feature story in the El Paso Herald Post in a recent issue. This article was taken from the Fort Stockton Pioneer News.

Mrs. Edith Phillips

Mrs. Phillips, the former Edith Cooper, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Cooper, pioneer Sutton ranch people. She attended schools here.

The story follows: Mrs. Edith Phillips has the reputation of a woman who can do anything, among some south El Paso families.

For many years she worked as welfare director and social worker with Rev. Harold Rahm at Our Lady's Youth Center. She left town in 1963 to teach in the public schools in San Antonio.

Mrs. Phillips returned to El Paso after nine years to take on the responsibility as principal of Sacred Heart School. Sacred Heart School is one of the oldest in the city. It was founded in 1892 by the Catholic Society of Jesuits. It has served the people of South El Paso since that time.

"The school and the parish in general seem to be faltering with the movement of people to different sections of the city," Mrs. Phillips said.

"One of the main reasons for the decline is the Chamilal Treaty and for the trade of lands. This is the first year the school won't have a kindergarten. We are trying to fill the classes now, and we won't know how many students the school will have until registration is completed."

She was born here, and lived and worked for a time in Fort Stockton. She attended the American University in Washington, Texas Western College, (now UTEP) and Sul Ross.

One incident that many South El Pasoans remember happened when Mrs. Phillips was working at Our Lady's Youth Center. A traffic accident in Deming, N.M. took the lives of five El Pasoans from South El Paso. There was one survivor, a 14-year-old girl who had remained in El Paso. She had been notified of the accident and was asked to come to Deming to identify the bodies.

Mrs. Phillips and the Youth Center staff went to work to see if they could help. She drove an aunt and uncle to Deming to learn that the funeral cost would be $1,200, more than the family could afford. Through phone calls and personal contact, Mrs. Phillips managed to get cemetery space donated in Deming, bus transportation provided for some 40 friends and relatives of the victims, and proper passes were arranged with the government to have the relatives in Mexico admitted to the U.S. for the funeral.

The story of her concern for the survivors was well known in the southside as a result of the incident.

Enrollment Up At Local Schools

Total enrollment in the three school levels climbed to 840 as of Monday. This figure does not include 42 students who are enrolled in the kindergarten program.

A total of 335 pupils are enrolled in the first through the fifth grade; 217 in Junior High and 246 in High School, according to superintendent of schools, Ken McAllister. James Pollard serves as high school principal; Bill Gosney, junior high and Clay Cade, elementary principal.
