SEE ANYTHING WRONG with this twenty dollar bill? Better look again! This bill was passed to a local businessman unnoticed and was not caught until it reached the bank. In case you can't find anything wrong, the one dollar bill has had four corners torn off and the corner of probably four different twenty dollar bills taped to the corners very carefully. The brazen con artist made a $19 profit each time he or she was able to dump one of these completely worthless bills off to some unsuspecting merchant.

Fashion Show Re-Scheduled

Merrill Family Visits Mexico

Dr. and Mrs. Leo Merrill and Patti returned this week from a 3-day visit in Monterrey, Mexico. Dr. Merrill was in Mexico to speak on grazing management systems for use on semi-arid rangelands at a meeting of ranchers, research and professional people and students. The program was sponsored by the Monterrey Technological Institute.

Sutton County Club Names Gold Star 4-H'ers

Two Sutton County youths will be in San Angelo on November 7 for the Annual District 4-H Gold Star Banquet.

Sponsored by West Texas Utilities Company, the banquet is in honor of the boy and girl Gold Star winner from each of the 20 counties in District 7 of the Texas A. & M. University Agricultural Extension Service.

Sutton County honorees are Maggie Galbreath, 16 year old daughter of Mrs. Margaret Galbreath, and Billie Galbreath, and Larry Finklea, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Finklea.

Maggie has been active in the Sutton County 4-H Horse Program for the past eight years serving as president of the horse club in 1972 and 1973. Outstanding honors won by Maggie include eight champion and reserve champion awards in the County 4-H horse show, the grand champion halter mare of the District 6 4-H Horse Show in 1971 and the high individual award in District 6 Junior Horse Judging in 1971 when she was also a member of the winning junior team. She has also won many halter and performance awards at county and area horse shows. Maggie is a junior leader for 4-H horse judging.

Larry Finklea is also an eight year veteran of 4-H work, is past-president of the junior 4-H Club and is parliamentarian of the senior 4-H club. Larry has exhibited horses and angora goats and has participated in Wool, Mohair, Range, Plant and Livestock judging.

Outstanding honors won include high junior individual Sonora Wool and Mohair Show 1970 and 1971, Junior High individual award state 4-H wool and mohair judging contest 1971, junior high individual award angora goat judging T. A. G. R. A. Contest 1971 and second overall high senior individual Sonora Wool and Mohair Show 1973. Team awards include State 4-H Champion Junior and Senior Range team, state

4-H champion grass team, and overall high junior team Sonora Wool and Mohair Show.

Larry has exhibited champion angora goats at the county show, the Hill County District Show in Kerrville and the San Angelo Fat Stock Show. He is also a junior leader for wool, mohair, grass and range judging.

The District Gold Star event will be held at 11:30 A.M. in the Rio Concho Manor where State Representative Tom Massey, Curly Hayes and W. R. Ramsey of West Texas Utilities are to address the winners and present the Gold Stars.

The Gold Star is the highest 4-H honor to be earned on the county level and is awarded by the Extension Service in recognition of outstanding achievement, leadership and overall contribution to the county 4-H program.

Preparations Underway For Dresser Atlas Office Home

By Shirley K. Hill
Land is being cleared and foundation being laid in preparation for a new building that will serve as the new home of Dresser Atlas. The new metal building will be located on Interstate State 10 property owned by Joe David Ross located behind the Dairy Mart. A five year lease has been signed on the property and hopes for completion are soon after the first of the year, with the contract date reading February 1.

Dresser Atlas, now located on Crockett Street, came to Sonora in early 1972 with only three employees--an engineer in charge and two service men.

They now have fifteen families in the Sonora area with four of these being locally employed men.

Jim Bowerman, location manager for the firm, says there is a desire of the company to hire as many local persons as possible but with most persons in Sonora being established, there are only limited possibilities and most employees came from the Odessa area.

In addition to these employees, a secretary has been hired and is in Odessa at this time, in training. Bowerman stated that she should be in the office in a couple of weeks.

Bowerman, who is a two year employee of the firm, is married and has a two year old son. Like most others, he and his family live in a mobile home. They purchased the mobile home, not because they particularly wanted to live in one, but because of the housing shortage in Sonora, he added. Most employees, coming from large cities, found the housing in Sonora, impossible, and were a little concerned at the lack of recreational facilities in the area.

Dresser Atlas crews, who are on 24 hour call, run electronic surveys after gas wells are drilled to determine the location of gas and to complete the well for production purposes. Since rig-time is so expensive, Bowerman noted, employees must go when the well is ready and service is required, and work until such time their job is completed. This may come at any given time, day or night. Their job usually takes from 12 to 14 hours to run the survey on each well. This survey may take much longer in some areas.

Most work is being done at the present time in Sutton and Edwards Counties but Dresser Atlas also services Kimbell, Crockett, and Schleicher Counties and others if the need arises and there is no work in this area.

Plans now are that Dresser Atlas employees and their families will be a permanent addition to our community.

Broncos Win 7-6 Over Wall Team

A five yard offside penalty was marked off against the Wall Hawks on the first play of the game Friday night when the Broncos met the Hawks on the Wall field.

The first quarter of the game saw a number of penalties against both teams with the Broncos being penalized twenty yards, five for offside and fifteen for clipping.

The quarter ended with Wall in possession of the ball on the Bronco's twenty five yard line and the score stood at 0-0.

A holding penalty against the Hawks on first down play was offset by a pass interference call against the Broncos to give the Hawks an automatic first down which put them in field goal position. Their kick was far wide of its mark and the Broncos took position on their own 20 yard line.

Another fifteen yard penalty for holding and a five yard penalty for delay of the game, both against the Hawks, gave Sonora a good scoring opportunity but the Hawk defense stopped any scoring threats the Broncos had in mind.

A long pass from Hawk quarterback David Motl to his end Darryl Weishuhn was intercepted by Bronco Juan Perez and gave the Broncos the ball.

Sonora set up a tight line and quarterback Paul Browne fired the ball to end Randy Hill who carried the ball in for the Bronco's only touchdown. Henry Mata kicked the extra point and gave the Broncos a 7-0 lead at the end of the first half.

A series of downs by the Broncos forced them to punt and a call against the Hawks for roughing the kicker pushed them back 15 yards.

Both teams showed great defensive efforts throughout the game and the only fumble of the game was on Sonora's second down attempt and was recovered by the Hawks. After a series of downs the Hawks were again in field goal position, which was again wide of its mark.

More penalties against the two teams saw the end of the third quarter with the score still 7-0.

Sonora, for the first time was in field goal position, shortly into the fourth quarter. Mata's kick was blocked by the Hawk team.

A long drive late in the fourth quarter put the Hawks on the 5 yard line. A short pass gave the Hawks their first six points and a try for a tie or win. The Hawks set up position for a 2-point conversion which was blocked by the Bronco team.

The remaining minutes of the game were strictly defense with both teams stopping any scoring threats.

Broncos Donald Thompson and David Snodgrass were both injured in Friday's game.

Chamber of Commerce Office Moves Nov. 1

Effective November 1, 1973, the Sonora Chamber of Commerce office will move from Morgan and Hunt Insurance Office at 210 Main Street to the home of Mrs. T. K. (Dee) Nevill. Mrs. Nevill will continue the services offered by the Chamber of Commerce from an office in her home on Highway 277 North.

The telephone number for the office will remain the same and merchants are reminded to direct inquiries and traffic to the new location.

Devil's River Motel To Open November 7

With paving due for completion this week and final touches being added, the Devil's River Motel, is scheduled for opening Wednesday, November 7.

Joe David Ross, owner of the new motel, says that an open house will be scheduled for a later date and hopes that Sonorans will come out at that time and visit.

Mrs. Kyle (Elaine) Donaldson has been employed as motel manager with Mrs.

Granville Barker as assistant manager. Mrs. Donaldson and her family will live in the manager's apartment at the motel.

Alexander Brothers of San Angelo have been in charge of construction and Travis Pfulger has served as superintendent on the job.

A sign, 56 feet in height, will be placed at the motel site at a later date, added Ross.

Family Tree Imbedded In Other Nations

Everyone living in the United States, unless he or she happens to be a full-blooded American Indian, will find the roots of their family tree imbedded in other nations around the world, with the majority originating in Western European countries as well as Africa and Asia. For 150 years, our forebears streamed to the land of liberty from all corners of the globe. They made English their language and the United States their home, and what a home it has been stretching from ocean to ocean with virtually every kind of land and climate and resource that man could wish for.

We became "Americans" and had little need for foreign nations. Mostly, they caused us trouble. We didn't understand their languages and every so often we had to go to war because of them, either to help our friends or chastise our enemies. The wealthy among us traveled abroad for business or pleasure, but few tourists from other nations penetrated into the hinterlands of the United States. But the world has turned; and, in the years since World War II, it has grown vastly smaller, and the interests of nations and peoples in both an economic and cultural sense are becoming more closely entwined.

One of the manifestations of this smaller world is the dawning of a new age of foreign tourism in the United States. It is expected that some 3.5 million visitors from Belgium, Italy, France, Switzerland, Australia and other nations will spend their vacations rediscovering America during 1973—a 22 percent increase over last year and five times the number that came in 1962. The fact that the Travel Service of the U. S. Department of Commerce has kept figures on the number of people from other nations coming to visit the United States only since 1962 is indicative of the small number of such visitors before that time as well as traditional U. S. indifference to foreign tourism.

A Wall Street Journal feature article describes this new age of tourism and the reasons for it. Affluence and technology are the primary factors which have made foreign travel a personal experience for millions of individuals who, a few short years ago, would never have had an opportunity to leave the shores of their native lands. The jet airplane has made faraway places accessible in terms of time and cost for the person of average means with a two-week vacation. Rising levels of affluence in developed countries around the world have put money for vacation travel in the hands of millions of people. Dollar devaluation has reduced the relative cost of travel in the United States for the people of other nations who now find that their money buys a greater number of dollars than it used to.

Most of these new vacation visitors from overseas are seeing the United States for the first time. Many are traveling as part of organized excursions. One typical 15-day guided trip costs from $1,000 to $1,200 depending on the point of origin and the currency exchange rate. Meals and drinks may add another $200 to $400. Some of the special features include boat rides into the jaws of Niagara Falls, California rodeos, western barbecues in Arizona and a visit to John F. Kennedy's gravesite in Arlington National Cemetery. Typical tours may originate in New York City and travel through such places as Chicago, San Francisco, Monterey (California), Las Vegas and the Grand Canyon.

The Journal quotes one tourist who summed up both the United States and its people in one concise phrase: "Good America. Friendly people." By observing, by traveling across the country and talking with the people they meet, most visitors gain an insight concerning the freedoms and standard of living in the United States. As one traveler put it, "Materially, it is in America very good. There is so much choice to eat and drink, and everybody has cars. At the same time, I have seen and heard spiritual interests. People... are calling for God. They have the freedom to say it. That is not so bad. Contrary to what they had heard and read many visitors are, as the Journal reports, ".....

pleasantly surprised by how little crime they find here.... Only a few have had brushes with the street thugs and violence which does exist on the streets of many of the nation's major cities.

The increased tourist travel from overseas which the U. S. is now enjoying can only be considered a plus factor for everyone involved. In the first place, last year Americans spent much more on foreign travel than visitors to our shores spent in this country. To the extent that increased tourist trade from overseas reduces this deficit, our balance of payments picture will be improved. The best hope for a peaceful world is based on closer people-to-people contact such as tourism provides and on mutual economic interests whose development is immeasurably aided by such contact.

Talk to a visitor from another nation if you get the opportunity to do so. Through another's eyes, the United States often seems to have an endless abundance of places to go, food to eat, products to buy and friendly people to meet. Great cities dot the land from ocean to ocean and border to border with scenic wonders of natural beauty in-between. The vitality and power of the U. S. is awesome. Looking at America through another's eyes can, indeed, be a most-refreshing experience.

News Letter

By O. C. Fisher

The ArabOil Combine, which recently announced a graduated cutback in their oil output by from 5 to 10 percent per month, will if carried out naturally aggravate our needs during the foreseeable future. It will require a new look at our policies related to the potential domestic supply.

While as of this time Middle East oil accounts for no more than six percent of our consumption, long-range plans to meet our ever-increasing demands call for an increase from Arab sources. For example, Saudi Arabia is now our third largest foreign source. Imports from that one country now amounts to nine million barrels per day, and the U. S. has counted on this amount more than doubling by the end of this decade. Arab oil policies are obviously clouded by our policies toward Israel and our sale of armaments to the Israelis.

In view of the pending Arab cutback, this source of substantial future supply becomes more dubious, particularly so if the Arab-Israeli war is prolonged. While oil is a factor, President Nixon has indicated our efforts to promote a lasting Arab-Israeli peace is on a basis of merit and not on the basis of oil shortages. We must not allow blackmail to dictate our decisions.

To meet this problem we must seek other alternatives and encourage stepped-up production from our own reserves. The Arabs are pursuing oil policies which may come back to plague them. After all, those countries with one-product economies must have customers for the oil they produce.

As our energy crisis becomes more serious, we have no alternative but to tighten our belts, stretch out our supply, and turn to other sources to meet our demands if the Middle East States choose to pursue their ill-conceived blackmail policy. For one thing, the Congress has wisely and belatedly approved the construction of the Alaska oil pipeline which will open up a vast source of additional oil.

Of all the things that can be said, either pro or con about the Nixon administration—that it has been boring, is not one. It has been an elastic drama stretching across the pathos of tragedy through the efficiency of astuteness, past extraordinarily poor judgement, into political ineptness, and on to comedy.

Watching, one is left with the same impression one gets when talking with the so-called author of a ghost written book. Without regard to personal involvement, or the personnel involved, it is the greatest theatrical for the money in history. Shakespeare did not have such an ability to shift gears although he was very good at amalgamating comedy and tragedy. If one can ignore the seriousness of a non-functional executive branch, it is probably the outstanding entertainment of the last four decades. It is surprising that one group of professional entertainers (from an effectiveness standpoint post-Watergate what else can they be considered?) can cover such a wide range.

Look for example at the tapes, the reversals are reminiscent of Illinois old 77 (Red Grange) in a broken field. One decision, then in awe of the reaction a retraction, delay and stretching the dramatic climax were the only gains. Admittedly the delay might have given time to recreate the tapes, but with the luck they have enjoyed it will probably hang out.

Investigators (special that is) are delightful. It is a concept of life which is enough to turn a man to crime as a way of life. How does it work? You appoint an investigator (special) to investigate the possible wrong doings and if the thumb you are holding on him slips—you fire him. Then you administer the comedy (or is it satire?) coup de grace and appoint another. In this league, batting percentage is computed, not on what you reveal, but on what you can keep covered up.

The "alert" was reminiscent of the brinkmanship which Dulles (under Eisenhower) and the Democrats have engaged in since 1949. Could its purpose have been a diversion? A more concrete effect can be appraised on the Russians with whom the administration claims such fine relations. How would you feel if you suddenly found a ring of nuclear weapons around you put on alert? One is only left with a big why? Would Russia have really moved her troops into the Middle East? The area climate is hostile, and logistics support for Russian troops would have raised tremendous problems. Russia's pattern has

Judge Taken To Task For Blasting Inaccuracies In The Newspapers

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter weed ranch on dry Devil's River is not, we hope, in contempt of court this week. Dear editor:

A while back, before the country turned up one day missing a Vice President, the judge in the case, concerned about what is called leaks to the press, said such publicity can be damaging to a defendant, adding that "the press frequently is partly inaccurate and sometimes wholly inaccurate."

While in this case I doubt if what the press reported was half as damaging as what the defendant did, I am intrigued by the judge's statement about the press. I do not believe it would stand up in court.

I mean, as nearly any judge will tell you, you've got to be specific with your evidence before it's admissible. To say that the press is sometimes wholly inaccurate takes in too much territory. Just because the New York Times say was inaccurate rate in one of its articles doesn't mean The Devil's River News was too. And to be fair, if The Devil's River News makes a bust, surely the judge wouldn't blast the New York Times for it. Those folks up there have got enough troubles of their own without taking on ours.

It seems to me the judge was saying something out of court he'd throw out if said inside his court. Besides, in this case, what the press reported about the Vice President was so accurate he quit.

In other words, when a judge says the press is sometimes wholly inaccurate he ought to be more judicial and say whether he's talking about the New York Times, Time Magazine, Newsweek, or The Devil's River News. Maybe even the San Angelo Standard Times.

I would not go so far as to say that sometimes judges are wholly inaccurate, but if they were always right we'd have no need for an appeals court to overturn their decisions or a Supreme Court to overturn the appeals court.

Since there's no place else to turn when you get to the Supreme Court, it's sometimes wise to duck before you get there.

If there are any inaccuracies in this letter, blame it on the Middle East. Yours faithfully, J. A.

Adventures in Salad Making

Here's a fish story you can really believe. Once you prepare Fresh Fish Salad as suggested below, you, your family and your guests will really be hooked on it. It will net you compliments all around. So catch on to this new school of thought about making fish, and diners will scale up their requests for more. Here are the ingredients:

FRESH FISH SALAD

- 1 lb. lean fish (cod, turbot, flounder, sole or other) baked or poached, boned, skinned and flaked, or 3/4 lb. (2 cups) precooked, lean filet broken into chunks
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
- 1/3 cup Pfeiffer Russian Dressing
- paprika
- lettuce

With light hand, mix fish, parsley and dressing together until well combined. Arrange in lettuce lined bowl, or individual lettuce cups. Dust with paprika. Makes four servings as a main dish; six as an appetizer.

Don't let this one get away.

Be brave, Ronnie! It will hurt a little, but it's worth it. No matter how old we are, life requires courage. And we show our greatest courage when we are terribly afraid but fight on through the fear.

Moral courage is sometimes much harder than the physical kind, but whenever we stand up for what our God-given conscience tells us is right, regardless of sneering opposition, we win a shining victory...

... and we keep our self-respect.

It is never too late to start living courageously. If you are facing a life situation that is draining your courage, why not pray about it in church tomorrow? The Christian Gospels assure us, without a shadow of a doubt, that strength will be given us whenever we need it and as much as we need. Remember that life is not a lonely battle. God is always with you.

Bulls, Profits To Be Studied

Scheduled here November 12 is a field day for the study of bull performance and selection.

Sponsored by the Sutton County Beef Cattle Committee, the program begins at 9 a.m. at the 4-H Center, and after lunch, at the facilities of a co-sponsor, the Big Oak Cattle Evaluation Center near Eldorado.

"If you are concerned about the growthiness and the weaning weight of your calves," says Dr. Thomas L. Woodward, "then the information available November 12 will be of value to you." He is area livestock specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System at San Angelo.

Those at the field day will hear authorities discuss the effects of performance testing on the pounds of calf weaned, and the combination of performance records with visual appraisal in selecting herd sires.

A successful area rancher will describe the results of his using performance-tested cattle, and another speaker will demonstrate the use of ultrasonics in measuring fat and muscle.

Lunch will be served at the 4-H Center by the Big Oak personnel.

Program Launched To Make Texas Number One In Agriculture

Governor Dolph Briscoe asked for a vast expanded rural development program and launched a campaign to make Texas No. 1 in agricultural production during the Governor's Conference on Rural Development here Tuesday.

More than 2,000 community and organization leaders were on hand for the conference, first of its kind in the state.

Attending the meeting from Sonora were Mayor Norman Rousselot, Preston Love, County Commissioner, W. B. McMillan, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Edwards Plateau Soil Conservation District and James Hunt, a member of Governor Briscoe's Rural Industrial Committee.

Six major speakers discussed various aspects of the conference theme, "Planning Today for Tomorrow's Balanced Growth," and community leaders reviewed the state's rural resources and outlined ways to utilize these resources more fully for a better Texas.

"We will make every possible resource available to help people in rural areas achieve maximum support for a more abundant life," Briscoe said in his keynote address on "Planning for a Rural-Urban Balance."

Briscoe emphasized that of people from rural areas has created many dilemmas in the cities, and said that high priority must be given to rural development and job opportunities, orderly development of natural resources, improvement of services and facilities, better rural labor market service, more emphasis on vocational training, improved health service and adequate housing.

"Agriculture alone cannot solve the problems of rural Texas, but can be a great factor in the solution," Briscoe declared. "You have done a magnificent job in the past in making agriculture great in Texas, so let's make it even better."

Dr. John E. Hutchison, Director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said that Texas appears to have the necessary resources to achieve the goal of becoming No. 1 in agriculture. "Among the state's advantages are available land resources plus the technological and knowledge reserve from agricultural research for expanding production of all phases of the livestock industry; food and feed grains for domestic and export; cotton and other natural fibers; fresh and processed vegetables, fruits and nuts; soybeans and sunflowers; sugarcane; mariculture, and expanding processing industries near production areas."

"The increasing economic momentum of Texas agriculture is another favorable factor, with the percentage change for the state's agricultural income from 1968 through 1972 a whopping 48 per cent, compared to an upward change for Iowa of 36 per cent and for California of 28 per cent during the same period."

Based on both gross and net income projections through 1980 on trend and potential, our goal appears to be realistic. To become No. 1 will require total cooperation and mutual support of all agencies and groups and each segment of the agricultural industry," Hutchison said.

Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White said, "Texas should become No. 1 in the quality of life, agricultural opportunity and profits, as well as agricultural production." He recommended a state program similar to the Veteran's Land Board to assure funds for young people getting into full-time agriculture, improved water resources, a do-it-yourself rural development program and recreation development in rural areas.

Texas Cong. W. R. (Bob) Poage said there is "no effective way to deal with national urban concentration problems until we solve rural problems." He pointed out that locating industries in rural areas has paid for itself, and said he hopes for further implementation of the 1972 Rural Development Act soon.

Dallas County Judge W. L. Sterrett said rural development "is important to the city dweller in assuring adequate food and fiber and maintaining that delicate economic balance so essential to survival."

Roy B. Davis, chairman of the 25-member Texas Rural Development Commission, suggested policy directions, programs and additional research needed to reach the commission's objectives for building rural Texas. Workshops that followed focused on housing, transportation, economic development, health, education, human and natural resources and general government.

The "Christmas Seal People" are involved in year-round work through research, health education, and community service to combat lung diseases such as emphysema, asthma, and tuberculosis. As the fight mounts against the lung irritants like air pollution and cigarette smoke, the slogan "There's More to Do—Give More To Christmas Seals," is especially fitting. More people every day are struck with some form of crippling lung disease. In addition, the seals spread good cheer in the holiday season through their use on holiday cards and packages.

Every day we pour tons of pollution into our West Texas air. Christmas Seals have joined into the fight against this pollution and the damage pollution does to our lungs. You can help through your Christmas Seal donation.

The Christmas Seal agency has undergone a name change during the current year. Formerly the Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, the agency is now the American Lung Association of Texas. The new name better reflects the aim of the association to prevent and control lung disease.

For further information on the activities and programs of the big country area of the American Lung Association of Texas, contract your local board member or write the big country headquarters at 1862 W. Beauregard, San Angelo.

All contributions to the 67 year old Christmas Seal agency are tax deductible.

We're certainly one up on the English when it comes to bowling. When we play ten-pins, they play nine-pins.

Patrons To Receive Christmas Seals

This week, postmen throughout the big country area began delivering thousands of Christmas Seal Letters to homes and offices to mark the opening of the 1973 Christmas Seal Campaign, according to Dr. Charles Browne and Mrs. Dennis Dunnham, R. N., Board Members from Sutton County.

The "Christmas Seal People" are involved in year-round work through research, health education, and community service to combat lung diseases such as emphysema, asthma, and tuberculosis. As the fight mounts against the lung irritants like air pollution and cigarette smoke, the slogan "There's More to Do—Give More To Christmas Seals," is especially fitting. More people every day are struck with some form of crippling lung disease. In addition, the seals spread good cheer in the holiday season through their use on holiday cards and packages.

Teen Scene

By Carol Weston

The Broncos defeated the Wall Hawks last Friday evening with a close score of 7 to 6.
Since the offense was not in a very good field position throughout the game and was unable to get off and going, the defense carried a large part of the load.

The coaches felt that the defense played a very fine game Friday night and mentioned Mark Parker, Bob
Whitehead, Richard Dunnam,
Curtis Mooney, William
Thompson, and Sam Hernandez as several members of the defensive unit who made an excellent job of defending the Broncos against the Hawks.

This Friday evening, the Broncos will play the Junction
Eagles; the game will begin at 7:30 in the Bronco Stadium.
SHS

There will be a Pep Rally

the Seventh Grade Colts were defeated 0 to 8.

The Junior Varsity and Junior High teams will have an open date in their schedule this week. Their next games will be on Thursday, November 8,
