Large Attendance At Drug Meeting

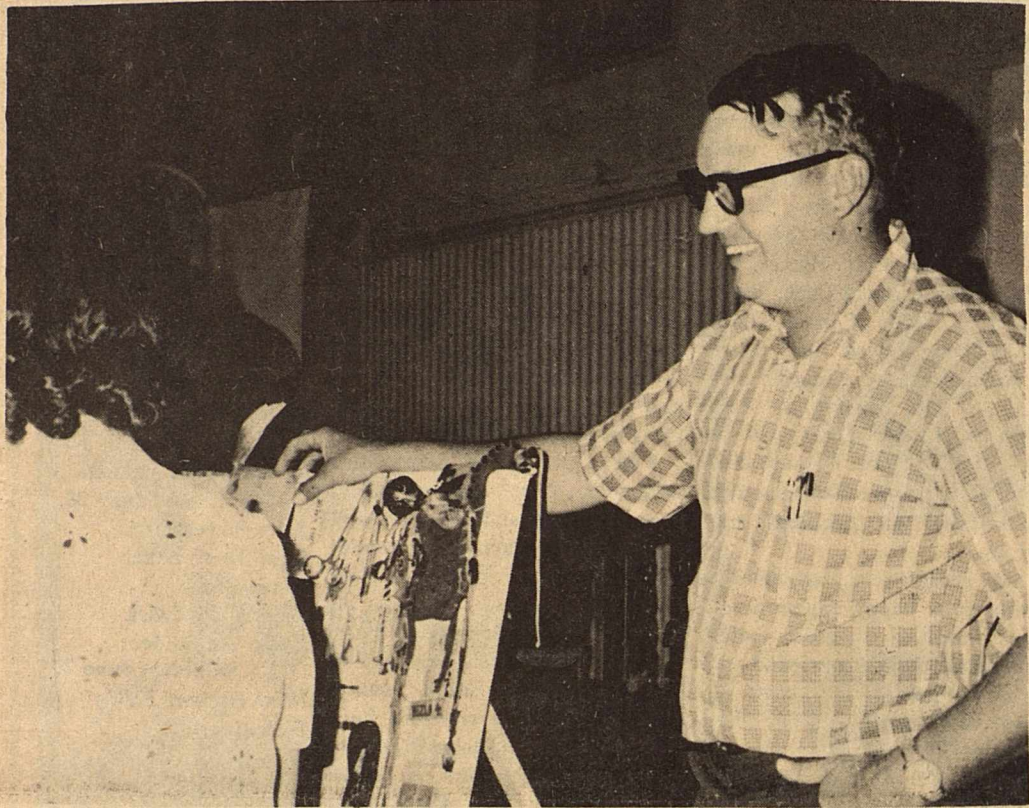

Approximately 380 interested Sonora citizens attended a Drug Educational Program, sponsored by the Sonora Volunteer Fire Department, Monday night at the 4-H Center. Louis Olenick, Fire Chief, introduced Bill Webster of the Sutton County Sheriff's Department, who acted as master of ceremonies for the evening. Out of town guest speakers were Carl C. Williams, agent in the Field Service Division with the Texas Commission of Law Enforcement; David Norwood, Kermit Assistant Police Chief; Byron Smith with the Department of Public Safety, Narcotic Service.

The program concentrated on marijuana—the plant, how it is packaged and retailed, the reaction of its use on an individual, and its relationship to other drugs. Emphasis was placed on recognizing the symptoms of users and the importance of cooperating with local law enforcement officers in curbing drug abuse.

The Fire Department should be complimented for their efforts in making this informative program available to the people of Sonora.

Carl Teaff, chairman of Fire Department pleased with the interest shown by 380 people committee sponsoring the drug program seems in attendance.

Youngsters attending the drug educational program look over some of the paraphernalia on display while Carl Williams, background, answers questions from others.

Twenty-Six Year Career Devoted To Teaching 3 R's

By Shirley Hill

In the fall of 1948 Superintendent of Sonora Schools, A.E. (Polly) Wells was in need of a substitute teacher for the first grade class but "I can't teach first grade", was the first reply to his request when he called trying to fill this teaching assignment that was to last a few days until the regular teacher could arrive.

That teaching assignment ended May 22, 1974 when Mrs. Autrey (Myrtle) Bridges retired from a teaching career of 26 years. This twenty six year tenure was devoted entirely to teaching Sonora's first graders the three basic R's... reading, riting and rithmetic.

When Myrtle Bridges first started her teaching career in the Sonora Schools her classroom was in the hallway of the now Junior High Building. Part of the hallway was boxed off in order that she might have a classroom and the first grade teacher smiled when she told of how many times her class was disrupted due to someone trying to get in or out of the building via her so-called room.

The teaching profession of this never to be forgotten Sonora teacher began when she entered Carroll Baptist College in San Antonio, following her graduation from high school. Her parents put her on a bus at her home town of Bartlett to the City of San Antonio, where she was supposed to be met by a representative of the school and a cousin, whom she had never met. Being a very timid person and not being away from home before, Mrs.

Bridges said that this was probably the longest ride she had ever taken.

Adding to her education, she later attended classes at San Marcos and A&I in Kingsville, where she taught school part time in addition to attending classes.

Her first full time teaching job was in the fall of 1929 with the Banquete School System near Corpus Christi. She taught fourth and fifth grades there until the time of her marriage to Autrey Bridges in 1934. During that time female school teachers were required to be in town at least three weekends per month, attend no dances, have no dates during the week, attend church regularly and teach a Sunday School Class if at all possible. Following marriage, she was required to retire from the school system as in addition to the other rules for women teachers, they were not allowed the privilege of a husband.

During her five years at Banquete she made a top salary of $100 per month, plus residence privileges. During the depression years, her top salary dwindled down to what was then referred to as script, which was really just a piece of paper stating that if the school system ever received any monies, teachers could redeem these certificates for greenbacks. But with this meager salary she was able to save enough to attend summer school classes.

Following her first year at Sonora Schools, Myrtle Bridges returned to college at Mary Hardin Baylor and received her Bachelor of Science degree.

Among her first year first graders at Sonora Schools were such familiar names as Dan Carter Cauthorn, the Moore twins, John and Jack, Jerry Potmesil, Wesley Franks and Jerry Baldwin. Most of these students as well as the ones she has taught since, are still referred to by her, as her students, and it was evident that she had kept up with their activities and successes as they years passed.

The hardest times, she recalled, in adapting youngsters to school, were those of whom had been raised on the ranches and were unfamiliar with town living. During her earlier years of teaching, ranching families lived mostly on the ranch and few if any had homes in town until the time came when youngsters had to be put in school. She told of youngsters, mostly boys, who were 'whipped' all the way to school, not once but a number of times. Among some of her most memorable requests came from one such youngster who suggested that she "get a baby-sitter for those other kids and take him back to the ranch."

Another suggested that maybe a little pat on the head would make him feel some better. Mrs. Bridges expressed regret that she had not kept a daily log in her years of teaching to record events and near disasters occurring either to her, her students, or both.

The Bridges are members of the Methodist Church and Mrs. Bridges has taught a Sunday School class in the church almost every year since she started teaching in the public schools. She stated that she had taught from nursery through adult.

On May 26, 1974, Mr. and

Mrs. Bridges celebrated 40 years of marriage and she stated that since retirement they would at last get to spend some time together. Mr. Bridges, who retired twelve years ago from the dry cleaning business, said he was not sure about her plans when she first mentioned retiring as she immediately began renovating a garage located at the back of their home.

Retirement means many things to many people and retirement to Myrtle Bridges means doing all the things she hasn't had time for in many years...sewing, handwork, artwork, etc. Her home was decorated with many items of her handwork she had completed in the past years and many others were on her agenda. She quickly added however, that her plans also included doing some substitute teaching from time to time as she had every intention of keeping in touch with the kids. Mrs. Bridges had high praises for Mrs. J.T. (Donna) Hill, who will take over where she left off...teaching first grade.

In addition to Mr. Wells, who was superintendent at the beginning of her tenure, Mrs. Bridges has worked under four additional superintendents. A.E. Broadhead, Rex Lowe and Ralph Finklea followed Mr. Wells and our present superintendent, Ken McAllister.

On May 22 graduation exercises were held on the campus of the school. She was presented with a gift of appreciation concluded by what else to a teacher who has meant so much to so many Sonora youngsters...a standing ovation...from the the large crowd of parents, friends and fellow faculty members.

Undiluted Dedication

The farther the government enters the field of health care the more imperative it is for people to recognize an essential element of high quality health care. That is the element of dedication, an integral part of the life of a medical professional. The Hippocratic Oath taken by students receiving medical degrees sets forth an ethical code for the medical profession to follow. It explains much of the behind-the-scenes work within the medical profession directed toward the advancement of health treatment standards for all people.

An excellent illustration of this work is the program headed by the American Medical Association to improve medical care in the nation's prisons. This is a three-year project to develop a certification process for all prison and jail health facilities. The first year phase of a three-stage plan is already underway. It is hoped that by the third year certification can be instituted gradually to encompass jails and prisons of all types and sizes. In proposing the program, the AMA states, "The gross inadequacy of health and medical services for prisoners in our nation's jails, prisons, and juvenile detention facilities surfaces periodically, sometimes through a press exposure of jail conditions, sometimes as one of the complaints resulting in jail or prison disturbances. After these brief public exposures, the problem again submerges and is forgotten."

Significantly, the doctors in the U.S. are not forgetting and, in accordance with the traditions of the medical profession, are endeavoring to do something about the problemas physicians, not as a political attempt to carry public favor. As one prison expert has noted, "...there are no votes behind bars. It there were, half the politicians in the country would be actively campaigning for better conditions in the jails."

No incident lays bare with greater clarity the difference between a politically-dominated medical system and a system that adheres, by the very nature of its practitioners, to the principle that every person has a right to the best the medical arts have to offer. Fulfilling that task is the goal of medicine—a goal undiluted by a search for public acclaim and voter favor.

Cost Versus Benefit

Automobiles cost as much as a home did 30 years ago. A big cause is inflation. But added to this is a cost of superbumpers, air bags, catalytic mufflers and other expensive emission control devices, electric seatbelt-warning beepers and all sorts of other gadgets mandated by law. A good many people rip out all the warning buzzers in an effort to preserve their sanity and sneakily dismantle the gas-consuming pollution control equipment in an effort to keep rolling. Still, all these devices must be bought and paid for with every new car. Some of them are good, others are nonsense.

Every law passed to protect the environment or the consumer results in higher prices paid by everyone. It is time to take a hard look at the cost relative to the benefits that can be expected from any legislation contemplated in the many areas of safety and environmental or consumer protection. If we don't watch out, we may be protected right out of our pocketbooks.

becoming a major threat to the freedom and material welfare of the American people.

One of the most far-reaching legislative proposals being developed in congress provides for a new consumer protection agency. For two years, knowledgeable legislators and industry leaders have worked with the House of Representatives Government Operations Committee in an effort to assure that any such agency created by Congress would not become a Frankenstein monster. Without limitation, such an agency, in the name of consumer protection, could intervene in the orderly investigations or activities of other governmental agencies and superimpose its own authority on them or on any other legal, regulatory or investigative action in the nation being taken in behalf of consumers. Apparently, efforts to limit the proposed new agency's powers have failed. The direction is toward the creation of a new federal superagency with almost unlimited authority to advocate causes and disrupt and obstruct, virtually without restraint, any enterprise or economic activity moving across the landscape.

New agencies established by legislation inevitably expand the areas of their jurisdiction beyond dimensions set forth in the original enabling legislation. At this time, inflation is bordering on the uncontrollable, shortages of essential products from petroleum to bathroom tissue are evident, and the need to move ahead in the orderly development of the nation's resources is apparent. It would be the ultimate of political folly to create another federal agency with superpower to further disrupt the economic life of the U.S.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To The People of Sonora: There comes a time in one's life when a very difficult decision must be made, and such a time has come for me. Three years in Sonora has enabled me to make many friends and the way in which the community has treated me has been wonderful. However, due to conditions and circumstances which exist in Sonora and the opportunity to teach and coach in Andrews, I feel that I must make this decision. The most painful part of this is that I will have to leave the best bunch of kids I could ever hope to associate with.

Words are inadequate to express my feelings towards many of these students. I feel that some of these kids could not mean any more to me, even if they were my own.

My three years in Sonora have been filled with many wonderful experiences. As a coach, I could not have hoped for anything better or have wished for anything different. I was fortunate to be hired by Mr. McAllister and Bill Scoggins in 1971. I worked with Coach Wuest in football my first year and I could never thank him enough for his help and advice in coaching junior high athletes. I also coached 7th grade basketball and felt at that time, and still do, that they have a great future. Some of those players were Clay Hicks, John Elliott, John David Cook, Parker twins, and Bo Carroll. Junior high track won the district championship by a margin of 48 points. Such people as Larry Finklea, Hector Perez, Gil Favela, Robbie Hard, Frank Gallegos, and Will Wallace helped to make that an excellent track group.

My second year also was filled with many happy experiences. I was moved to 7th grade football and was really impressed with what that group could do, especially mentally. They had a season of 6-1, the only loss being to Ozona, 12-8. This group included Johnny Creek, Tobin Joy, Robert Harris, Feto Romao, Michael Kinard, Cody Savell, Ricky Hard, Jeffery Weston and many others. This group also had a 7-4 basketball season. However, one of my biggest thrills was during track. I had a group of boys, some of them being Zeke Gamez, Craig and Gregg Parker, Clay Hicks, Chip Savell, Louis Samaniego, Mike Doss, Mark Hemphill, and John Elliott, that exhibited dedication and hard work that was unbelievable. This group of boys had experienced tough luck in other sports, and in fact, some people had labeled them losers. This entire group performed to near perfection and won district, and haven't slowed down yet.

My last year has also been no less rewarding. I worked with Coach Kelso in J.V. football, coaching the backs and ends. We finished with a 6-4 season, losing three of the games in the last three minutes of the game. It was this year that I became associated with new kids, such as Ronnie Surber, Jack Lawson, Chris and Tony Mathews, Rick Cearley, Jim Gully and Larry Kirby. This was a high quality group to add to the already present great kids. My J.V. basketball was also very rewarding as the boys had a 12-0 record against district opponents, averaging 55 points a game and giving up 28. Tennis also was an unforgettable experience. The entire group was great fun and having a state champion in Cora and Carol just added to that. Other outstanding tennis players were Luara Gibbs, Bill Finklea, Sheila Alexander, Mike Street, Debra Tittle, Melissa Gibbs, Debbie Howard, Beverly McDonald, Dennis Dunnam, Ray Upton and a good J.V. team.

As I have summarized, I have been very fortunate in my three years. There have been times I have wanted to say to myself that I have done a pretty good job, but I quickly come to my senses and realize that with the type of kids I have, I should do well.

One of my greatest disappointments will be not being with the Seniors of 75. As freshmen, I had them for my first year here and quickly realized that they had that little something extra and I wanted to see them graduate. This is not to downgrade any other class as

The Devil's River Philosopher Sez.... Now Is The Time To Worry About Un-Filled Seats In Congress

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River encounters a problem which he soon abandons.

Dear editor: It makes you stop and think. Twenty-eight Congressmen, according to an article I read in a newspaper last night, are quitting Congress this year.

That's right. Twenty-eight are just not going to run again, not counting others who're going to run for something else.

Some of the 28 are quitting because of old age and a satisfactory pension but a lot of them, including some young ones, are quitting because they just don't like the job, and I got to wondering: what if the trend continues? What if Congress convenes next January for a new session and discovers half of the seats are empty? What kind of country would we have if we couldn't get a quorum to serve in Congress? It's like asking what kind of a university could you have if they all have been quite impressive, but your first class and your first team become just a little closer to you. This class has exceptional athletes, brilliant students, and outstanding class leaders. This class is also very versatile. Paul Browne has been to state several times, Claire Langford and Carol McAllister have won state, Blaine Crawford is an outstanding math student, and Lindsey Hicks is a world class roper for his age.

I have mentioned many students, but have omitted many more. Those that I have left out mean just as much but it would take too much space to list everyone.

This is getting long but I must mention people that have really been great. The entire faculty could not have been more fun. Who could ever forget people like Mrs. Prugel, Mrs. Kordzik, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Cook, Mr. Neal, Mr. Tedford, or any of those 'single women teachers.' Also, I could never hope to be associated with a greater bunch of high school coaches. Tally Kelso kept me on the sidelines during football, Wayne Potter taught me how to act on the bench during basketball, and J.T. Hill and Bill Harle have had to put up with me for two years. As I mentioned before, Oliver Wuest has been a great help for three years. These are a very special group of men and their families are equally as special. Mr. McAllister has also been good to me and after knowing his family for nearly nine years, they all mean a lot to me. The last person I will mention by name cannot be adequately described. Bill Mayfield is a once in a lifetime principal and to say that being under him was great would be an understatement. I hope I can be under others in the future as great as he is.

I am leaving a place that I have considered home. The people who have had me in their homes, some many times, could never be thanked enough. Many, many people will be missed. However, leaving this great group of kids really puts a 'lump in my throat'. I will really miss them.

Anytime any of you are in Andrews, come see me. You really would be a happy sight for me. Decisions must be made and you cannot look back. Thanks a million for each one of your friendships and for the privilege of working with your children.

Sincerely yours,
Travis Harkins

nobody came out for the football team?

Now I can understand why a man maybe wouldn't want to serve in Congress and risk ruining his reputation when he could stay at home and probably never get caught, but somebody's got to do it. You can't have un-passed legislation piling up in Washington any more than you can uncollected trash in a city. Of course some will argue that the two aren't parallel, that at least a city does have a place to bury its trash but when congress passes a law it spreads all over the country.

However the more I contemplated the problem the more I concluded it's like most problems...more awful in contemplation than in reality. I have a notion a swarm of candidates will be contesting those 28 vacated Congressional seats and when the roll is called in January 28 new faces will show up.

As I have long contended there never was a man some woman wouldn't marry or an office somebody wouldn't run for.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

A CASE OF BALANCE

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rocks are held in check by perfect balance. You wouldn't want to be sitting nearby if they weren't!

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessity for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place. The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

A Bishop Looks at Life

By Bishop Everett H. Jones
WHAT CAN I SAY?

Recently a young boy on a bicycle was accidentally struck by a car and was killed. The woman who drove the car was a friend of mine. She was not only crushed by her part in this tragedy, but came to me and asked: "What can I say to these heart-broken parents?"

I replied in approximately these words: "You do not need to tell them how unintentional and unavoidable this accident was; I am sure they know that.
"But you can tell them that you share their sorrow, and how you reach out in love and prayer to them and to their boy."

"You can tell them that their love for him is but a faint reflection of God's love for him. In this experience God is sharing their sorrow. We know this because Jesus was so deeply moved by the sorrows of those around him, and Jesus is our best clue to the mind and heart of God.

"Not only does God share their grief but He is beside them to give comfort and strength equal to their need.
There are questions we cannot answer (e.g. the eternal Why?) but we can live with these unanswered questions if we trust Him and know that He has a loving plan for us, both in this life and beyond.

We make great mistakes
as Christians to say, in a case of this sort, that a life has been 'cut short.' We have no right to describe this boy's life as 'cut short'...merely because earlier than some others, it has been transferred to another setting.

"The fact that this life did not reach fulfillment here is no proof that it will not do so elsewhere. For Christians the evidence is all on the other side. The very incompleteness of his stay on earth strengthens our confidence that there must be a further stage of life in which the gifts which God gave him will gain the ends for which He designed them."

This new classroom unit at Sonora Elementary School is to be ready for the fall semester.

last week by a narrow margin of 211 to 204. This should kill the proposal, for this year at least.

It's not that land planning is not desirable, under proper conditions. My objection to the bill was my concern about allowing the federal government to dictate to the States, counties and cities, what standards would have to be observed in the management and use of private property.
It was proposed, in effect, to deny the property owner use of his land if not in conformity with dictates from Washington.
That we don't want. If there is to be any controls on such planning and use, it should be under local direction.

Unless some meaningful steps can be taken to help the producers, immeasurable losses are inevitable to producers, and even more so to feeders because of expensive investments in high priced feeder animals.

Agriculture Department Seeking Landowners Holding Land Since 1874

Farmers and ranchers in Sutton County whose families have held the same land since 1874 or before will be honored by the Texas Department of Agriculture's "Family Land Heritage Program", according to Commissioner John C. White.

The program, which will be initiated July 1, will pay tribute to those families who have proved their respect for and dedication to the land, White said.

This county has some of the oldest establishments in the state, with a long history of dedicated service to the agricultural community and I hope that every qualified family will take this opportunity to be recognized by the people they have served, White said.

Applications and rules for the program may be obtained by writing Commissioner White, P.O. Box 12847, Austin 78711.

Any family who is certified by Judge J.W. Elliott will qualify for the honor. An applicant need only show a continuous family relationship between the founder of the homestead and the present owner.

The land must have been in use for agriculture by the family since 1874 or before, must be at least 10 acres and

Those who do qualify by August 31 will be recognized in a special ceremony at the State Fair this year and short history of their family and land will be published in a land heritage directory. In addition, local recognition will be provided to the families for their long dedication to agriculture.

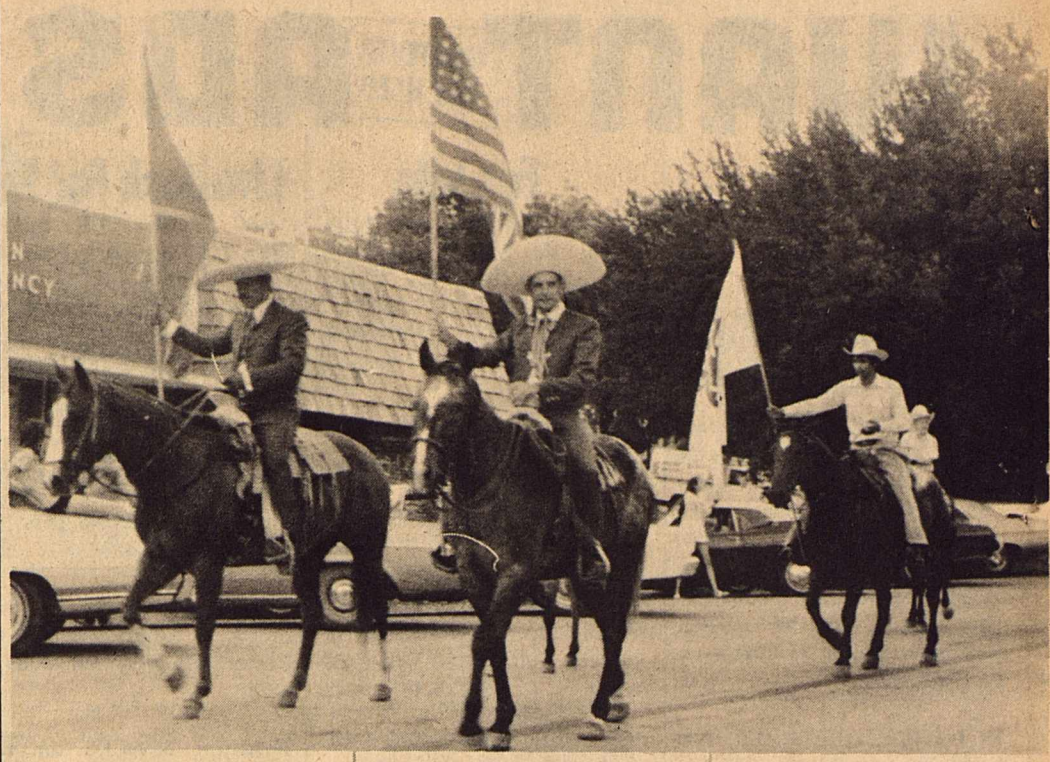

Bob Krueger Visits Sonorans

Less than three weeks after his primary election victory which made him the Democratic nominee for U.S. Congress in the 21st District, Bob Krueger returned to Sonora Friday to thank local supporters for their help and hard work.

Krueger's person-to-person campaign style and his insistence on running on his own record rather than endorsements, paid off when the independent Democrat carried 22 counties in the 32-county district, garnering almost 30,000 votes for Krueger's nomination.

Promising to continue his efforts to earn the voters' trust by being completely open about his personal and financial background, Krueger said, "I intend to run the same kind of positive campaign on my own merits through November."

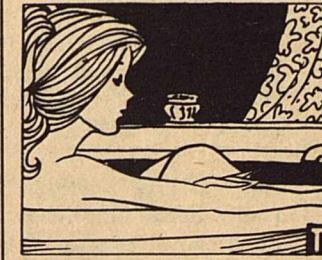

"Letting the people know exactly where I stand on the important issues that concern us all, as well as being receptive to individualized problems...this is the essence of my campaign for serious national responsibility," Krueger asserted.

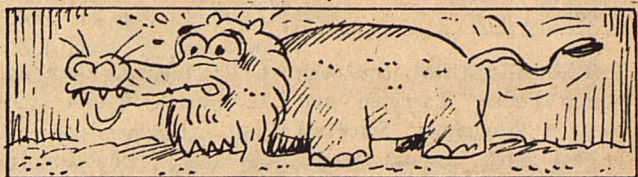

Robert Zapata and Rev. Michael Fernandez led the parade June 14 that started off the three day festivities of the Sonora Junior Rodeo. Father Fernandez, pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church, was chosen best dressed grand entry participant.

Tips For Bathing Beauty

The moments a woman spends alone are rare but all important for her ritual of beauty. So when a tranquil interlude presents itself, take advantage of it. And take a bath.

Let the warm waters refresh your skin, but also let them refresh your mind. Think, fantasize, plan out your future. Use your bath as a kind of private therapy—a time to unwind, delve deeply into your own mind, sense a oneness with your own body. You'll emerge feeling refreshed and calm—a new woman.

Horse Show Scheduled In Mason

The ninth annual District 4-H Horse Show will test the skills of about 140 riders July 6 at Mason.

Competition will be among those boys and girls already qualified in the 20 counties making up District 7 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

District Extension Agent Allen E. Turner said youths will ride July 6 for place on the 20-man team representing the district later this summer at the State 4-H Club Horse Show.

Judges Jim Daniels of Brenham and Doug Householder of College Station will evaluate the boys and girls in halter classes and in the performance classes of western pleasure, reining, pole bending, barrel racing, showmanship and (new this year) western horsemanship.

Judging begins at 9 a.m. at the Mason Fairgrounds, where General Chairman Tommy Chew of Mason will direct all activities and C.W. Capps Jr. of Mason will announce all events.

Superintendents, all of Mason, will be Don Keller of halter mares, Billy Francis of halter geldings, Albert Keyser Jr. of western pleasure, Lee McMillian of western horsemanship, Butch Jones of reining, Gary Zesch of pole bending, Carrol Osborne of barrel racing, and Johnny Bierschwale of the arena.

Two SHS Students Attending ASU's Yearbook Seminar

Becky Welch and Melinda Earwood, two students from Sonora High School are among some 150 yearbook staff members attending the fifth annual Angelo State University Yearbook seminar being held on the Angelo State campus in San Angelo June 23-28.

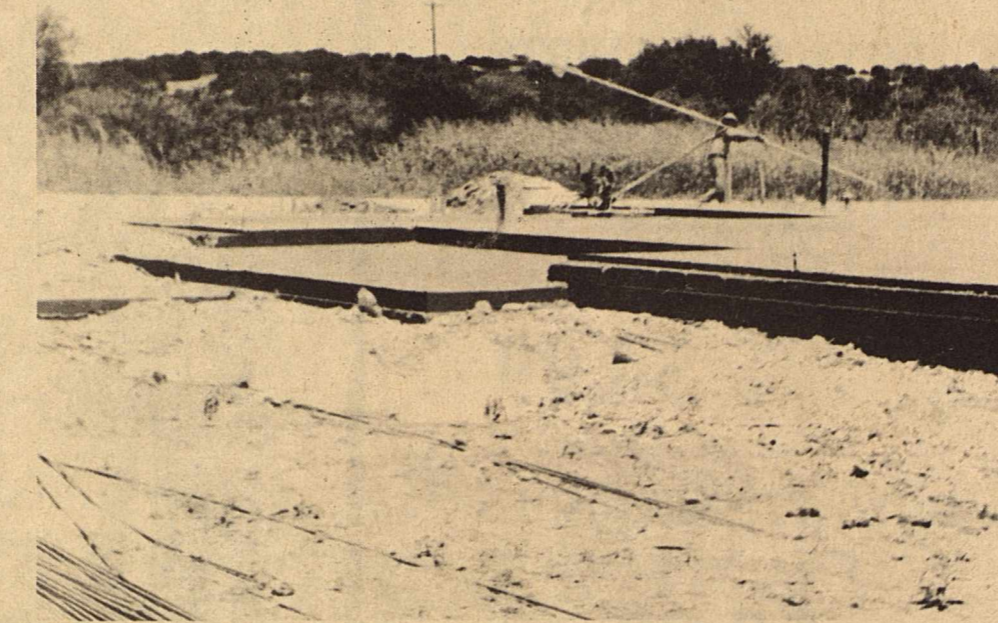

The seminar is made up of five days of intensive instructional sessions aimed at getting the staff members ready for their 1975 yearbooks. The morning sessions will cover all aspects of yearbook production work.

In the afternoon, the participants will divide into smaller groups based upon the size of their respective schools and work in lab-type sessions on actual layouts for the 1975 books.

Activities will draw to a close with noon banquet type luncheon on Friday, June 28.

Construction projects underway to help meet the growing housing problem for Sonora. Apartment units being built by James T. Hunt seem about ready for the brick.

The foundation on this home on Brookside Street looks ready for the 2x4s. Builders are Charles Dayton and Ronnie Montgomery.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

Many people who plan to move do so in the summer. If you're one of those who will be packing up and heading for new territory soon, be sure you select a reliable moving company to transport your belongings.

Because whether it's a cut-glass punch bowl or a well-used tricycle, your household goods probably would be hard to replace.

Attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division warn that some "hot haulers," or illegal moving companies, are in operation and that dealing with them could result in some problems.

For one thing, many of the illegal movers cannot or do not offer proper insurance for your goods.

For another thing, consumers who unwittingly deal with a bootleg moving company could possibly be liable for prosecution under the Motor Carrier Act, enforced by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

There are three classes of moving companies: (1) unregulated ones that can move goods from their base city to another; (2) companies licensed by the Texas Railroad Commission to move goods anywhere within the State; and (3) companies licensed by the Interstate Commerce Commission to move goods between states.

Spokesmen for the Railroad Commission say that many interstate movers have Texas representatives who are also licensed as intrastate movers themselves.

If you plan to move from Wichita Falls to El Paso, for example, you will need a company licensed by the Railroad Commission as an intrastate carrier. Picking a company from the telephone book, as many people do, is no guarantee that you'll get a properly licensed mover.

The best way is to check with the Railroad Commission to see if the movers you are interested in are listed as certified companies or as designated agents for such companies.

In order for a company to be certified, it must prove the need for increased service. Public hearings are held and, if the need is demonstrated, a permit can be granted by the Railroad Commission.

Specialized carriers holding certificates or permits for the transportation of household goods must adhere to certain requirements.

If a mover says offhandedly, "I'll move you to Dallas for $200," beware. He's not a licensed mover, and if he were, he would have to take a look at your goods, give you a written estimate of the moving cost, weigh his truck before and after loading your goods, and check the weight against a fixed tariff rate to determine the actual cost.

He would also have to notify you if the cost exceeded the original estimate by 10 percent or $25.00, whichever is greater. And, in addition, he would have to inventory all of your belongings and give you a copy of the inventory.

Certified intrastate moving companies must also be bonded, carry insurance, pay a licensing fee, and pay transportation taxes. Individuals employing such movers can also take out additional insurance on their goods, if desired.

If you want to lease a truck and move your own goods, be sure you choose a reputable company for that, too. There are statutes that prohibit the leasing of a truck by one individual to another for a move if requirements regarding such things as proper insurance have not been met.

Any questions about regulations involving a moving company can be answered by the Railroad Commission, the Department of Public Safety, or the Attorney General's Transportation Division. For assistance with other consumer problems, call our consumer protection division, your local district or county attorney, or your local better business bureau.

W.L. ALDWELL, EARLY CIVIC LEADER IN Sonora, and through whose influence the Santa Fe Railroad was induced to extend the Orient from San Angelo to Sonora, was unable, due to illness, to participate in the celebrations July 1 and 2, 1930, when the first train was run over the extension. On the first day a number of prominent citizens of this section who worked with Aldwell for the railroad, rode over to his house to say "howdy" to their fellow cowboy and rancher. They include from left to right Fred Berger, T.M. Shoier, "Uncle" Johnnie Johnson, W.J. Fields, Walter Whitehead, Joe Ross, D. Wallace and G.W. Stephenson.

Independence Day reminds me that I want to be financially independent. I put $25 from each weekly paycheck into my retirement fund at the bank. In 12 years, that's over $30,000. At age 65 I can convert to an annuity that will pay roughly $125 a month for life. Added to my Social Security, that's my independence!

Enjoy the pride and peace of mind in building your 'retirement fund'—insured to $20,000 by a Federal Government agency, and growing with compound interest at FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
