Sonora Students Take Part In Preview ASU

Five Sonora students, Dennis Ray Dunnam, Debra Christine Hard, Jack Martin Sykes, William Baker Thompson and Floyd Ray Upton; were among some 476 students who recently took part in Preview ASU 1974 at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

The annual summer orientation program for new students entering Angelo State in the fall attracted new students from throughout the state.

Participating students spent one full day during the week long program on the Angelo State campus attending informational sessions on all phases of University life. In addition, the students met with academic advisors who assisted them with planning their fall class schedules right down to the room number.

Those who completed Preview ASU and who pay their fees prior to August 23 will have little else to do but check into their residence halls for the start of the fall semester on September 3.

Mohair Council Needs Finances

The Mohair Council of America, created nearly nine years ago to help stimulate the use of mohair fiber through promotion, advertising and market development programs may be out of business by 1977 if some means of supplemental financing is not found by mohair producers.

"We have a very serious problem that must be resolved at an early date," observed James T. Hunt, council president.

Farsighted industry leaders of 1966 recognized the need for a coordinated voice in promotion and advertising of the mohair product, particularly in view of the soaring popularity of synthetic fibers, thus the Council was organized and initiated its first promotion programs for mohair in 1967.

The Council's need for supplemental financing directly relates to higher mohair prices received by growers during the last two years. The funding program began over two years ago when the price of mohair, influenced by expanding world-wide demand, went over the 80.2 cents per pound government price level. As a result of the higher prices being paid to growers during the 1972-73 market years, no incentive payments were made and consequently no new promotion fund deductions have been available, Hunt explained. In the past, the Council has been funded through a deduction of 1 1/2 cents per pound from mohair support payments made during marketing years 1966-71. The Council recently began its second consecutive year of operation using funds from its reserve, Hunt said.

When growers and council directors meet at Junction on August 15, a proposal for future funding of Council operations is expected to be presented for their consideration, Hunt said. The meeting will be of vital importance to the future of the industry and he urges all mohair growers, council directors and interested mohair tradesmen to make a special effort to attend.

Band Booster Meeting Set

A meeting of the Band Boosters Club has been scheduled for Thursday, August 15 at the band hall, according to band director, John Butterfield. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Butterfield stated that all parents and all interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

A Calendar of Fact & Opinion

--Red tape is expensive: The Chamber of Commerce of the United States is spearheading a campaign in Washington against several proposals that would make it easier for federal agencies to pile more paperwork on business. According to the U.S. Senate's small business committee, this is why: As of December 31, 1971, there were 5,298 different types of public forms, not counting tax and banking forms. Business firms and individuals spend an estimated 130.5 million man hours per year filling out federal forms, not counting tax forms. It costs small businessmen an estimated $18 billion a year to fill out required government forms and it costs government about the same amount to print, shuffle and sort the forms.

... "Streaking is waning but couldn't help noting," it is written in a publication in the Salt Lake Area Chamber of Commerce, "one or two quips by Don Tewkesbury of the Seattle Post Intelligencer of how famous people might have 'streaked' to fame: Calvin Coolidge--'I do not choose to streak.' Leo Durocher: 'Nice streakers finish last.' Greta Garbo, 'I want to streak alone.' Admiral William Halsey 'Streak hard, streak fast, streak often.'"

... "It is comforting to know," columnist George F. Will is quoted in the Public Utilities Fortnightly magazine as saying, "that there are no experts on the future and that we do not know where we are going. It also is imperative that the government, which is full of experts, acknowledge this. In government, as in everything else, wisdom begins with knowing what it is that we do not know. If the government today commits us to long-term policies based on today's imprecise long-range predictions about future economic realities, we may be plunged back into the economic stagnation from which mankind has only recently emerged." OooO "One must choose, in life, between making money and spending it. There's no time to do both."--Edouard Bourdet (1887-1945).

News Letter

By O.C. Fisher This may be a good time for me to briefly reflect upon a few recognitions which have been accorded me in view of my pending retirement from Congress at the end of this year.

On August 1 I was in San Saba on invitation from the prestigious San Saba County Property Owners Association. Although San Saba County, "the Pecan Capitol of the World", was removed from the 21st District 10 years ago, I was privileged to represent that county during the preceding 22 years.

I was honored to receive from my San Saba friends a beautiful wooden plaque made of a cross section of a native pecan tree, with a battery powered open clock on the front. On the Texas-shaped plaque is a brass inscription expressing to me appreciation for many years of devoted service to the people of San Saba County.

Naturally I was deeply moved and most grateful for this generous recognition. My long time friend former Speaker of the House Reuben Senterfitt made the presentation, along with a sterling silver peeled half pecan shaped tie tac. Principal speaker at the large banquet gathering in the High School auditorium was Reagan Brown, on Governor Briscoe's staff, whose entertaining and down-to-earth message was enthusiastically received. Mr. Brown presented me a personal commendation letter from the governor.

New officers for the property owners association were installed. Businessman and civic leader Harry Shapiro, was installed as new president, succeeding Johnson Kuykendall. The San Saba event was one of more than 15 special occasions when I have been honored thus far this year. Space here will not permit me to describe each of the 15. They make me feel humble and exceedingly grateful for the many friendships and associations which have inspired them.

A Bishop Looks at Life

by Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of the Episcopal Church OUR TESTINGS TODAY

In any difficult period, whether it is in our national life or in our personal life, it is valuable to recognize that a time of adversity is a time of testing. It is a time when the inner quality of our life is revealed. Moreover, it is valuable to define for ourselves as accurately and honestly as we can how we are being tested. As I have thought about this, here are a few of my conclusions:

We are being tested in terms of our patience. We Americans do not like to wait for anything. We want action, effective action, at once. In our impatience we are tempted to quick solutions that are superficial and inadequate. But some problems in our lives and in the political and economic life of the nation demand careful, thoughtful, and disciplined action over a period of time.

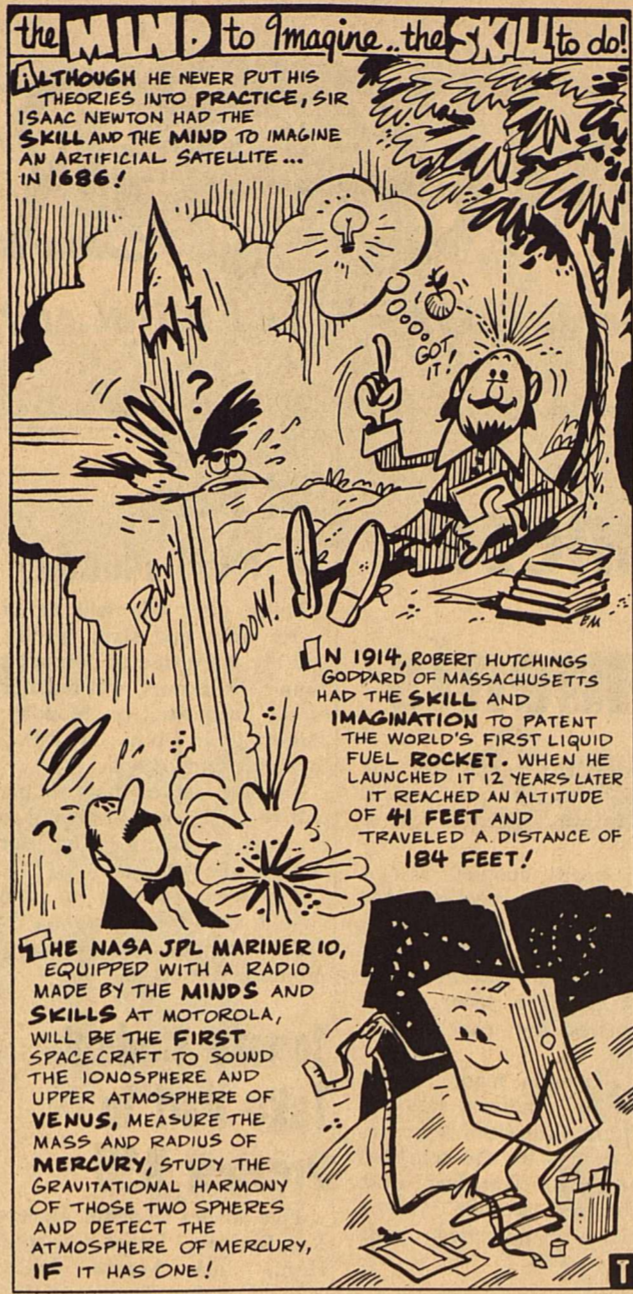

We are being tested in terms of moral insight. It is not enough for us to condemn the flagrant shortcomings of trusted national leaders. We need a new realization of God's moral laws that govern all human relationships. How could we fail to be in a time of confusion and suffering when we have lost our moral bearings; when we have filled our lives with so much that is cheap, shoddy, vulgar, and ugly; when we are so far below our best! Our crisis is as much moral and spiritual as it is political and economic. The new day that we long for must not only come in Washington, D.C., but in the soul of each one of us.

We are being tested in terms of our ability to deal with weakness and failure. We Americans like to indulge in the fantasy that we have had an unbroken record of success and achievement. This is part of our present shock; we cannot believe what we see. The fact is that we have had the failures, personally and nationally, that are common to mankind. If our coming Bicentennial is to have any lasting value, we need to look back not only on our great moments but also on those times when we have fallen short of our national ideals. There is much we can learn from both parts of our history.

It is even more important for us to recognize that there is a creative way to face weakness and failure. Human failure is real but it need not be final. It can be the impetus to a strong new beginning. This had happened many times in man's history. The Apostle Paul said, "When I am weak, then I am strong." (2 Corinthians 12:10) He meant that when he faced his weakness and turned to God for forgiveness and help, when he recognized his need for power beyond his own, then he was able to turn a testing into a spiritual triumph.

In medieval Europe, people thought that the Devil combed a goat's beard every day.

Viewpoint

BY T. DRISKELL

The events of last week were truly epic. The captain of the ship who has repeatedly vowed he would never leave it, dived over the side. The impression remaining is that in our society the truth is a relative thing -- relative to its time frame with situational overtones. Nevertheless since the helmsman jumped ship, it might be a good time for some retrospective looks.

Even with his undesirable traits, Richard M. Nixon, as a president must be considered far more effective than Eisenhower's "golf game", Kennedy's "touch football" or Johnson's cannibalistic "great society". On the credit side, he did conclude the Vietnamese stupidity, he did establish a more realistic foreign policy, and rebuild relations with China and Russia. Overall, I believe Richard M. Nixon must for his overt activities, be considered to have been a very effective president.

It is somewhat like a barefooted boy in a rattlesnake den, however, every stone turned over raises new problems. If the deeds were bad enough to warrant deserting the ship, can immunity from criminal prosecution be granted? If immunity is granted, remembering all of the young men who sacrificed their entire futures while serving under the direction of the president in staff functions he controlled and was responsible for. If they are convicted and he is granted immunity, our system of justice is a sick thing. The inclusion of "justice for all" in the theory behind our government has no meaning if partial immunity is granted. Immunity must be totally absent or blanket for all involved, because "all" can hardly be interpreted as an exclusive word. Accepting gratuities, political favors, house improvements, and misappropriation of campaign funds are other matters.

The other day I saw some prairie dog holes down in the eastern part of the county and in my musing I was contemplating how much urging, or political blackmail, if you prefer, it would require to have the contributors to the last Republican campaign fund to fill those holes with dollars. It is only too obvious that they have stuffed vast fortunes down holes before, and it can hardly be considered other than silly when it was for an election which was already, as they say, "in the sack".

In perspective, the offender is not a group of people but our political organization and outdated laws. Congress is aware that reforms are needed to insure that our national political campaigns are financed by money from the U.S. Treasury, rather than the gleanings of blackmail or the favors with a price-tag market. Removing political contributions from allowable income tax deductions would do wonders if the fable about the "Goose that Laid the Golden Egg" has relevance. A detached view of Watergate, and the impeachment proceedings must leave the question of innocence or guilt as well as degree, and fear at the possibility of investigative competence which is on a par with legislative competence.

President Ford is a conservative and should do things according to the book. He should, supported by Southern conservatives, have far more legislative power than one would initially anticipate. Can he avoid severe political and economic repercussions? No, the Democrats have spent forty years building our economic "house of cards" on a cliff no less and the anticipation of our national benefits from being subjected to the judgment level demonstrated on Cape Cod a few years back is somewhat bleak. Heads we lose, tails we lose -- until we learn that every pot has a bottom, and we must count at least to the point of balanced expenditures against income, we are going to remain losers.

The Devil's River Philosopher Sez....

In Defense of Postal Service, He's Looking For Picture Subject

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-wood ranch on the Dry Devil's River defends, if you want to put it that way, the postal service this week.

Dear editor: A lot of people have criticized the postal service over the past couple of years, mainly because it's worse now than it was 25 years ago, and I have been wondering how this affected the managers of the system in Washington. What was their reaction? Well, I was flipping through a magazine the other day and ran across a page ad from the postal service, and while it didn't mention much about service it did point out that lots of new things are happening in the organization, prominent among which were plans for some interesting new stamps.

Now this may sound frivolous to some but that's because they haven't figured out, as I believe I have, what's behind it. You know, the postal service people have used stamps with pictures of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Calvin Coolidge, Teddy Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Eisenhower, the Statue of Liberty, the Wright Brothers and scores of other historic people and places, but they never have found a picture to go on a stamp that'll get a letter to where it's going on time.

This is not to say the post office has given up. On the contrary, I believe it's searching day and night, so long as no overtime is involved and all holidays are observed, to find the right picture and we should all lay off and see if those folks can come up with it. In the mean time if any of the readers of the Devil's River News have any suggestions for such a picture, send them in. The first guy that suggests a tortoise has to stand in the corner. Just to change the subject, would you say that some people in high places have forgotten that old saying, "No use lying over spilled milk"? And also, I notice a lot of people in Washington are saying politicians need a new code of ethics. They're right. The one they've got is too hard to live up to.

Yours Faithfully, J.A.

Except for heavily soiled items, most loads will come clean in either a cold or warm wash. Look into cold wash detergents. DAVENPORTS OBSERVE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. W. Herman Davenport of Las Cruces, New Mexico, observed their 64th wedding anniversary August 6 at their home.

In observance of their anniversary, Bruce King, governor of the state of New Mexico, bestowed the honor of Colonel, Aide-de-Camp to the staff of the Governor of the State, to both Mr. and Mrs. Davenport. They are the parents of Hershel Davenport.

Kay Kerbow And Don Holdridge United In Methodist Ceremony

In candlelight double ring ceremonies held Saturday, August 10, Miss Kay Kerbow became the bride of Don Holdridge of De Leon. The couple was wed at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. John Weston of Harlingen officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kerbow are parents of the bride. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holdridge of De Leon.

Bouquets of white gladiolas, mums and daisies decorated the church. Two candelabras provided background for an entwined arch. Lighting the candles were Jack M. Sykes and Eddie Alexander. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white organza with pearl studded Peau d' Ange lace with the classic look. Lace outlined the sheer yoke, encircled the waistline and accented the long, tapered sleeves. Embroidered tulle ruffles cuffed the sleeves. Lace rimmed the slender skirt and attached train above an embroidered ruffle. A camelot cap of lace held the edged veil, falling to floor length.

The bride carried a bouquet of white gladiolas atop a white Bible, carried by her mother at her wedding.

Miss Jamina Du Bose of San Antonio was the bride's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Terry Hines of Monahans, Mrs. Eddie Sutton of Dimmitt, Miss Martha Gerling of Austin and Miss Jessie McCutchen.

Attendants dresses were of organdy and cotton, fashioned in semi-empire lines. The bouffant sleeves were gathered into fitted cuffs. Lace encircled the high waist and accented the collar. They carried bouquets of light blue mums and stephanotis, centered with a gardenia.

Serving his cousin as best man was Mr. Bill Clark of Gorman. Groomsmen were Joe Bob Huddleston and Mike Huddleston of De Leon, Bruce McFadden of Fort Stockton and Floyd Luker of Brownwood.

Seating guests were Bruce Kerbow, brother of the bride; Ron Johnson of Pasadena, Bill Hyatt of Johnson City, Barry Turner of Brookshire and Bill Asher of Liberty Hill.

Mrs. James Wilson presented traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Dennie Hays of Seguin who sang, "The Wedding Song".

The bride's mother wore a dress of pink topped by a pink floral jacket. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of apricot floral with matching accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Sonora High School and Southwest Texas State Teacher's College in San Marcos. She will be employed by the Austin School System in the fall. Mr. Holdridge is a graduate of De Leon High School and is a senior student at Southwest Texas State Teacher's College. The couple will make their home in San Marcos following a wedding trip to points of interest in Texas.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony. Serving in the houseparty were Mmes. Larry Hill, Clayton Hamilton, George Wallace, Clint Langford, Wesley Sykes, Warren Hemphill, Grosse Mohler of Seguin, Robert Duff of Waco, and Misses Becky McKay of Austin, Brenda Turner of Irving, Marsha Mitchell of Irving and Regina Trainer.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

Yucca and Yellow Bee

Something wonderful happened yesterday. I was walking in Grandma's garden, feeling a great sadness that she would never again walk there with me. Her favorite flower, the creamy-blossomed yucca, stood out delicately against the blue sky, breaking my heart with its loveliness. A yellow bee trembled over it a moment, then settled on a pearly petal. Bright-hued blossoms waned in the gentle breeze, pond ripples sparkled in the sun, and for one golden instant, I felt her presence. A prayer she'd taught me years ago came to my lips, "Grant me, God, eyes of the Spirit to see, in the beauty of Your world, reflections of infinity."

I thought of how clearly Grandma had seen God's goodness. Her love of God and devotion to His Church had shone in everything she said and did.

Because of her devotion I too felt God's love all about me. I knew then and there that I would never be lonely again with the Church to sustain and guide me.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NEWS

By Roy McGaugh Roy McGaugh and Jose Valdez, ministers for the Church of Christ, announce increased attendance and interest in all aspects of the church. Steady growth has been evidenced since Mr. McGaugh's arrival in June and Mr. Valdez in July.

Mr. Valdez has organized a gospel meeting to be conducted in Spanish August 14-17 in the main auditorium. Lionel Cortez, the speaker, is well known in the Lubbock area, and in Argentina, for his profound ability to proclaim God's word.

When these men began their work here in Sonora, there were only two Bible classes being conducted. Now six classes are being taught regularly on Sunday mornings and Wednesday nights.

Mrs. McGaugh opens the newest class Sunday morning at ten a.m., August 11, with her cradle roll. She has met great success in this type class and she is also well experienced. In places where she has taught similar classes before coming to Sonora, many of the children, ages zero to two, learn to say God, Christ, Bible, Heaven, before they form the words, Mama and Daddy.

The public is invited to attend these assemblies in a growing church.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill Attorney General

Planning funeral arrangements can be a difficult, confusing task-and an expensive one, too. It is hard to make such important decisions in an atmosphere of grief and sadness, harder still to seek out the facts necessary to make informed decisions at such a time.

It may be easier for Texans to make responsible choices should the need arise if they have gathered sufficient information in advance about legal requirements, alternatives to the traditional funeral service and burial, and what questions to ask when arranging a funeral.

As for legal requirements, contrary to what many think, there is no Texas law requiring embalming, although in most cases it is a practical necessity.

The State Health Department, the agency with the authority to set regulations in this matter, requires only that a body held more than 24 hours either be embalmed or refrigerated, unless death was due to communicable disease, in which case it must be embalmed.

If a body is to be shipped by common carrier, it must either be embalmed or enclosed in an airtight metal casket encased in a shipping case, or in a casket encased in an airtight metal or metal-lined shipping case.

There is also no Texas law that says a casket or other burial container must be placed in an airtight vault before final disposition, although some cemeteries-both municipally owned and private-do have such a requirement.

As a matter of fact, as the Texas Funeral Directors Association points out, there is nothing in Texas law that REQUIRES a family to use the services of a licensed funeral director. The specific requirements of the public health and vital statistics laws of the State would make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, however, for an untrained person to handle, transport, or bury the dead. And any person performing such services for the public or for free MUST be licensed as a funeral director or embalmer.

A growing, although still decidedly small, segment of the population is investigating and choosing alternatives to the traditional funeral service and burial, according to some studies.

Some persons choose cremation, others donate their bodies to medical schools, or will certain organs such as kidneys or eyes to organ banks. Still others join memorial societies which handle the details of burial, cremation, or body donation at a lower than average price for members who pay a fee to join.

While any of these alternatives generally will be less expensive than a traditional funeral and burial, many people choosing them do so not only for economy but for reasons of personal preference. It's worth noting that persons who donate organs still have the option of a traditional funeral and burial.

For the majority of Texans who still favor the traditional funeral and burial, our Consumer Protection attorneys strongly advise acquiring information in advance when there is time to think logically about such matters. They suggest that you consider, or have others consider, the following when making funeral arrangements:

* Are you or your friends and family familiar with the funeral home and its reputation for good service?

* What is the least expensive service offered by the funeral home and what does it cover? What is added to this for a more expensive service? Do you consider the additional items worth the extra cost?

* Inquire about the price of the casket, services, and other charges before discussing any insurance, pension, or government death benefits due to the family of the deceased.

* Ask what is included in the total cost of the service. Be sure you know about the services or goods that will result in extra charge (newspaper notices and police escort are often considered "extra").

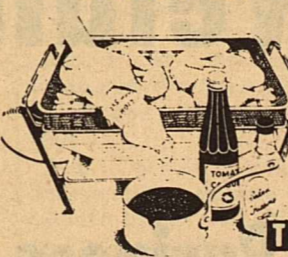

* Find out about cemetery charges. In addition to the plot or mausoleum space, there usually are charges for opening and closing the grave or crypt, and there may be charges for maintenance of "perpetual care." If you buy a plot or crypt in advance, there may be additional charges for transferring or selling it if you move or decide you don't want it.

Some cemeteries require an airtight vault, an extra cost. Others require a certain type of marker or monument, which is also additional.

The recent Federal Trade Commission study of funeral pricing in Washington, D.C. revealed that persons making funeral arrangements need more information about prices, options, and policies for particular funeral homes and more comparative information for different funeral homes in order to make informed decisions in selecting a funeral home and making arrangements for a service.

Our attorneys say the only way to acquire this information at present is to ask specific questions, either in advance or at the time of arranging a funeral.

Meat Price Break Good News

With meat and poultry prices down, barbecue fans can now look forward to more than the formerly anticipated number of cookouts. Whether you barbecue over charcoal, gas or electric, the sauce is all important. Here's a quick one as easy as one two three.

QUICK BARBECUE SAUCE
1 cup tomato catchup
1/4 cup Karo dark corn syrup
1/4 cup bottled Italian dressing
Stir together catchup, corn syrup and Italian dressing. Brush on meat or poultry during cooking. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Construction Craze In The Capital

WASHINGTON, D.C. (LLNS) If some members of Congress have their way, millions of tax dollars will be spent on more marble covered buildings... but not in your hometown.

Here on Capitol Hill, Congress is spending bushels of tax dollars to build ornate palaces on top of ornate palaces for themselves. For example, take the Rayburn House Office Building. The construction of this edifice cost $120 million. Although Congress received heavy criticism for the costs, Speaker of the House Carl Albert (D-Okla.) is pressing to obtain funds for yet a fourth House Office Building. On Capitol Hill, all told, several dozen Federal and municipal building projects are under construction, or soon will be.

A July 10th Associated Press story stated: "The expansion of facilities for the House and Senate underscores the shift in power from state and local governments to Washington."

Capitol Hill newsmen Sam Smith describes the proliferation of Federal buildings in much the same way one would describe the growth of a cancer. He says untold numbers of existing small homes have been, or will be, engulfed as the arms of the Federal bureaucracy lengthen. Smith asserts, "The size of new buildings is only matched by the egos of Congressmen."

Modern politicians fail to realize, Smith maintains, that "little symbols keep Congressmen humble." As part of the current construction craze in our Capital, the Dirksen Senate Office Building is to be renovated at a cost of $60 million. Dozens of small homes were razed to make room for the new Library of Congress building being constructed at a cost of $90 million. And, it appears the major portion of this sum may be lost... for 230 Congressmen have signed a petition favoring House acquisition of the building, designed specifically for use as a Library of Congress Annex. In retaliation, the Library of Congress may commandeer several more blocks of private dwellings to compensate for the potential loss of their "new" building.

The bickering between Federal agencies goes on and on, but in the end they all win and the private Washingtonian homeowner and small businessman lose. For example, $19 million in construction for a new building which will contain the ever-expanding United States Tax Court is planned.

Not to be overlooked is the proposed new Department of Labor building which will take $95 million in tax money, and the new HEW structure totaling $40 million. A grand total of more than one billion dollars.

A completely accurate world map was not possible until aerial photographs were taken on a survey during World War II!

Screwworm Cases Number More Than Last Year's Totals

Screwworms continued to push northward on their annual summer migration during July, while livestock owners and the U.S. Department of Agriculture worked together to stop the migration and eradicate the livestock pests already in Texas.

Screwworm infestations are marked higher in Texas this year, and far fewer in Arizona and New Mexico than they were in 1973.

Dr. M.E. Meadows, Jr., director of the Screwworm Eradication Program, says the 546 confirmed cases in Texas in July compare to 350 the same month last year. The total falls below June's 628.

Two screwworm cases were found in Howard County, Arkansas, and one in Roger Mills County, Oklahoma, during July. Prompt measures were taken to combat infestations in those two counties, as well as new infestations in Coryell, Taylor, Stonewall, Montley, Montague, Lavaca, Mills, Sterling, and Culberson counties in Texas. Each of those counties marked its first 1974 case during July. Sutton County has recorded four cases.

Female screwworm flies deposit their eggs on the edges of wounds in warm blooded animals. Emerging larvae enter the wound to feed on live flesh.

Female screwworm flies usually mate only once during their lifetime. If they mate with a sterile male, any eggs produced do not hatch, ending the life cycle.

Sterile, but sexually active, flies are released in areas of known screwworm infestations. The sterile male release technique, along with careful treatment of all wounds on animals by ranchers, is working toward eradication of the parasite.

A massive infestation of Gulf Coast ticks in late summer and fall of 1973 pre-disposed the ears of thousands of animals for screwworms. Noting that August is the month when screwworms in tick wounds usually become evident, Meadows urges livestock owners to promptly submit samples from all infested wounds.

Leading the Bronco Marching Band this year will be Miss Laura Gibbs as drum majorette. Flaire Lane, Becky Cavaness, Lesa Joy, Anne Villarreal, Lucy Morriss and alternate Jane Wallace, will perform with the band as twirlers.

Hunting, Fishing Licenses Renewable

Somewhere in the recesses of your wallet is a crumpled, soiled piece of paper which should bring back memories of crisp fall days.

It's last year's hunting license.

To replace the license which expires the last day of August, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials have already mailed one-half of some 2 1/2 million total hunting and fishing licenses for the coming year.

The new licenses will be available August 16 at all

TP&WD Enforcement offices and bonded license sales deputies such as major sporting goods stores.

Fees are the same as last year: $8.75 for a combination resident hunting and fishing license, $5.25 for resident hunting; $4.25 for resident and non-resident fishing and $37.50 for a non-resident hunting license.

This year's fishing license will be valid for one year from the date of purchase.

Three turkey tags are on the new hunting licenses and must be used much the same as are deer tags. New licenses are printed on a special paper which is resistant to tears and water—something which should prove useful to both outdoorsmen and game wardens trying to decipher licenses dunked in water and otherwise roughly handled.

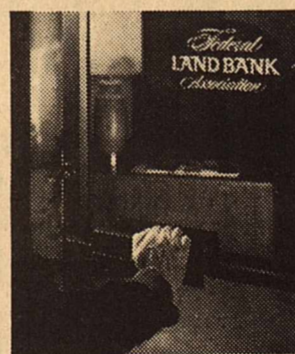

Both deer and turkey tags are easily separated from the rest of the license by perforations and there is also a perforation on the edge of each tag where a string or wire can be inserted for attachment to harvested game.

September 1, 1974, is the date when new hunting and fishing licenses will be required.

Galaxy Ball Date Scheduled

The 1974 Galaxy Ball will be held September 7 at Saks Fifth Avenue in Houston. Proceeds will go to benefit the Texas Association for Mental Health, which works to promote better mental health for all and to secure better treatment and cure for the mentally ill. Raffle tickets are being sold for 22 prizes to be featured at the statewide ball. The $1 tickets, which represent a donation to mental health, can be purchased in Sonora from area chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Finklea. The Galaxy Ball is the only annual state wide benefit of its kind in the United States.
