Sonora Broncos came out of the field house Friday night prepared to give the Llano Yellowjackets a tough night...which they did. The Broncos held the Yellowjackets to a 13-7 score and will face the tough Crane Golden Cranes this Friday night in Crane. This will be the first district game for the Broncos. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

After Losing To Llano 13-7 Broncos Prepare For Crane

By Bob Granger

Using a crushing ground game, the Llano Yellowjackets were able to get revenge for their 1974 loss to the Broncos. Coach Ken Gray felt the 1974 loss really hurt Llano's chances for a district championship. The Broncos put up quite a battle against the powerful Jackets but could not contain the Llano ground game consistently enough to win. This had to be the year for the Jackets as they have 22 seniors on their roster.
About midway through the second quarter Llano took over on their own 33 after a Sonora punt. On the second play, Russell Romer broke loose for a 45 yard gain to the Bronco nine yard line. Two plays later, Romer bolted into the end zone for the first touchdown of the game with 5:36 left in the first half. Ricci Shanks booted the PAT to give Llano a 7-0 lead.

After the second half kickoff to Llano, the Broncos were able to hold off the Jackets and force them to punt. After the punt, the Broncos launched an eight play drive from the Llano 39 yard line. David Snodgrass romped into the end zone with 6:20 left in the third quarter. John David Cook added the PAT to tie the game at 7-7.
Early in the fourth quarter the Broncos were unable to move the ball and were forced into a punt situation. On the punt, Llano sent everyone after the punter, blocking the punt, and then taking over on the Sonora 23 yard line. Again, Romer took charge and stormed into the end zone from 12 yards out to put Llano on top 13-7. The try for the PAT was not good.
The Broncos tried valiantly to come back but it just wasn't enough, as Llano held the Broncos from scoring and walked off the field with a hard fought 13-7 win.

Four Screwworm Cases Reported During Week

A record number of four screwworm cases was reported in Sutton County during the past week. This is the highest weekly total for 1975 and indicates that the screwworm situation could become critical if ranchers fail to check livestock regularly, treat all wounds, postpone all surgical operation until after frost and report all worm cases to the Mission laboratory.
Cases during the week were reported on the W. S. Allison ranch, 17 miles west of town; the Nancy Bloodworth ranch, one mile west; the R. A. Halbert ranch, 15 miles east, and the Alfred Schwieng, Jr. ranch, 35 miles east of town.
With fall calving in progress ranchers should check newborn calves for fly blows and postpone castration, dehorning and branding operations until after frost. Rams that are in the pasture with ewes during fall breeding should also be checked regularly and bruised heads should be treated with fly repellent.

Quartely Reports Due October 31

Comptroller Bob Bullock has reminded the 230,000 retail businesses in Texas that October 31 is the deadline for filing their quarterly sales tax returns.
"It's only a few days away and any return filed after that time means nothing but problems for us and for the taxpayer," Bullock said, noting that tardy reports can carry financial penalties.
Reports due October 31 cover the July-August-September quarter. Forms for the reports were sent to all sales tax permit holders by Bullock's office in September.
"Late reports are usually nothing more than oversights but that doesn't keep them from being a problem anyhow," said Bullock.
Any retail merchant with questions should contact the nearest field office of the Comptroller's Department, Bullock said.

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ.....

A Close Look At The CIA Reveals

.... Very Little, If Anything

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River takes a look at the CIA this week, but we aren't sure what he sees.
secret of something like the atom bomb is like trying to keep the secret of the bicycle or the motor-scooter, nations might be just as well off trying to take care of their own business right out in public.
As for the CIA, I'm sure we need it, but its men seem to be trained for just a few things. For example, it would have been handy to know, and not hard to find out, that Russia had a short grain crop two years ago and again this year, but the CIA simply has nobody in its outfit trained to look out the window and see if Russia needs a rain.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dear editor:
Since I don't even know what's going on in Sonora I couldn't be expected to know what's going on in Portugal, but an item in the paper about that country caught my attention the other day.
According to it, the CIA, after denying it, reluctantly admitted the U.S. contributed about 10 million dollars to Portugal in its struggle against Communism. The CIA said it was against national security to reveal this secret and did so only because Congress demanded to know. At the same time, it said it was justified in contributing the money because Russia had given about as much to the Communist side in Portugal.
I don't know anything about the CIA, but I figure if it knew what Russia was giving, Russia probably knew what the U. S. was giving, and the only group in the dark about the matter was you and me. As the Watergate gang learned, it's hard to undetectedly transfer money from one country to another, say from Mexico to Washington.
I may be wrong about this, but it seems to me in a situation like Portugal or some other countries we've taken a hand in, our furnishing money and arms to the government to keep it from going one way, and Russia's furnishing money and arms to get it to go the other way, is like a basketball team taking money from one side to throw the game its way, and then taking money from another side to throw it the other way.
Actually, in this day and time, when trying to keep the

-SHS-

Any adults that are interested in furthering their education should contact Dr. Otte at SHS. There is no tuition required and more people are needed. If more are registered, there is a possibility for Sonora to obtain a GED test-center.

-SHS-

For those of you who have not heard, SHS has a newspaper! It's full of student's actions and opinions, and will be called Caballo Diablo.

Harvest Moon Popcorn

In double-digit inflation days, you can still be a happy hostess who doesn't have to spend "the mostest" if you serve America's all-time favorite "penny snack" for your informal parties. Even fancied up with extra flavorings and fixings, popcorn still costs out to just cents per generous serving. Harvest Moon Popcorn is such a treat. Team it with mugs of fresh apple cider, and you have just the right fun fare for everything from hoedowns to fifth quarter get-togethers. It's a winner every time.

Harvest Moon Popcorn

- | | |
|---------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup melted butter | 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder |
| 1 teaspoon dillweed | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce | 2 quarts popped popcorn* |
| 1 teaspoon lemon pepper | 2 cups canned shoestring potatoes |
| 1/2 teaspoon onion powder | |

Combine dillweed, Worcestershire sauce, lemon pepper, onion powder, garlic powder and salt with melted butter in a small saucepan. Put popcorn and shoestring potatoes in a large bowl. Pour butter/dillweed mixture over popcorn and shoestring potatoes; toss. Spread popcorn mixture on a jelly roll pan (15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1-inch) and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes, stirring once. Makes 2 1/2 quarts.

*1 ounce of unpopped popcorn kernels (2 tablespoons household measure) makes approximately 1 quart of popped corn.

The Face of Faith

with a courage that rests neither on prowess nor weapon. The countenance shines with a joyous light . . . a light that seems to reflect some mystic Sun though the world around is cast in shadow and gloom.

I see the Face of Faith each Sunday . . . the face of a child . . . perhaps your child!

I am her Sunday School teacher — and the joyous light of that striking face inspires me to seek more faithfully in the worship and work of my Church the help of God.

You are her parents. How that confident, expectant radiance must inspire you!

Sometimes a face is striking. It isn't the sort of face you're accustomed to. It's a face you wouldn't have expected to see. But you have seen it! That's why you call it striking.

The Face of Faith is like that . . . The eyes seem lifted toward the hills, to a source of strength. The lips are firm

Bob Krueger's Weekly Report

Last week the House voted overwhelmingly, 397 to 18, to override the President's veto of the School Breakfast and Lunch Program. I was one of only 18 voting against this bill, and several of my friends in Congress jokingly asked me, "What's the matter, Bob, don't you care about hungry children?" And they knew, of course I did. But sometimes, even when one knows a bill will pass overwhelmingly, he should call attention to what the bill really does.

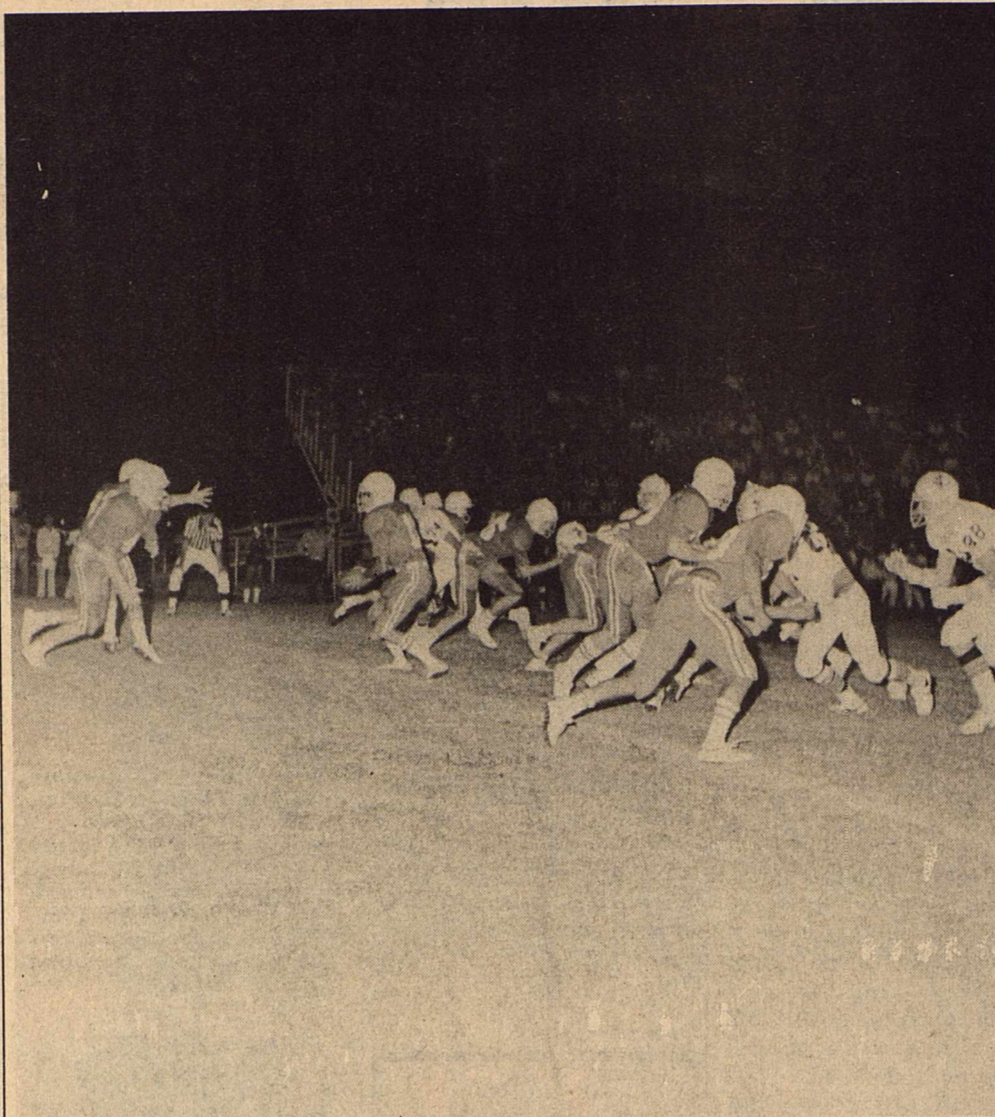

If the bill had made money available only to children from families with genuine financial need, I would have strongly supported it. But it does not. It gives government subsidies for meals to children from families who earn as much as $10,000. Most people who earn that much are able to afford to feed their own children.

The people whom I represent still hold to that notion that Lincoln expressed so well: that government should not do for people what they can do better themselves. Government lunches do not taste as good as the lunches that mothers prepare. And they cost more. Most Americans are willing to support programs providing food for those in need. But they know that it costs more to pay taxes to the government and then, after a good deal of paperwork has been done, and employees paid, to get the government subsidy for food. They would rather have bought the food for their children in the first place, if they could afford it and to leave the subsidies to those who genuinely need it.

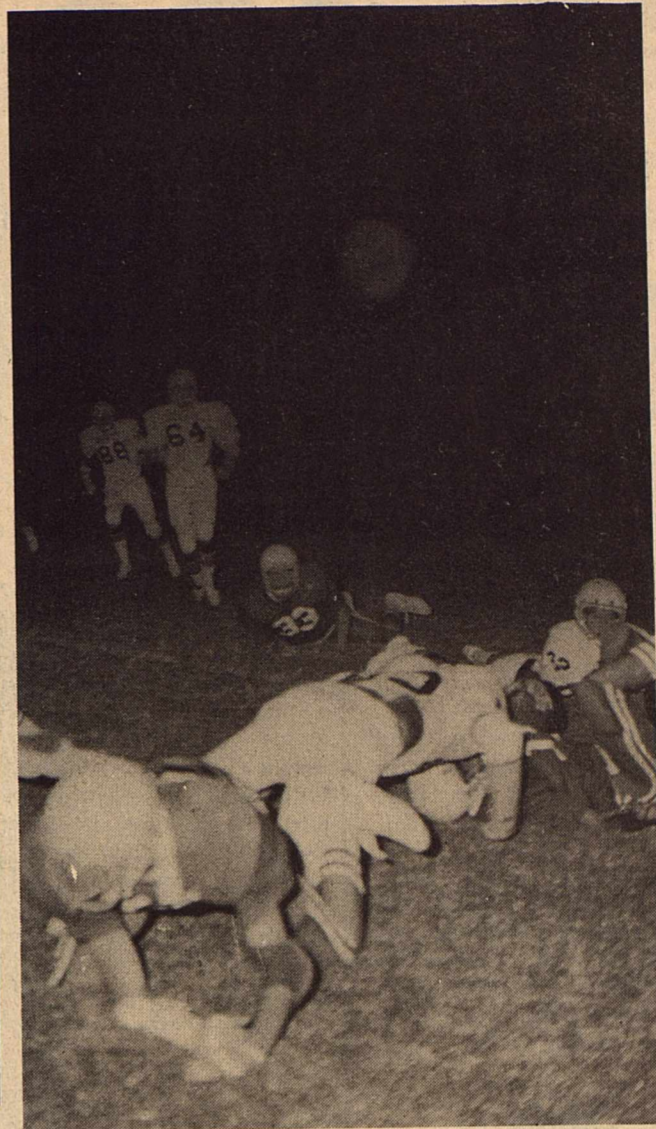

Most people want less government, not more, and they want their money to be directed where there is genuine need, not where there is simply an opportunity to spend more money. The school lunch program which the Congress passed had a number of good features that I would readily have supported, including food for needy children and for expectant mothers who run the risk of undernourishment. Had the funds been directed to these sources, they would have been well spent, and well within the existing budget rather than exceeding them by one quarter billion dollars as this bill did.

A principal in one of the small rural schools in our district pointed out that his program requires his school to offer breakfasts as well as lunches. This means, he continued, that instead of getting a good country breakfast at home, many students have to catch the school bus for as long as 1-1/2 hours before they can have breakfast. And the breakfast they then receive tastes worse than what they would have had at home, two hours earlier.

My philosophy professor used to remind us, "The road to hell is paved with good intentions." I suppose the road to some pretty bad breakfasts is well paved with good Congressional intentions as well.

Ideas for Better Living

With today's busy lifestyle, it is difficult to assure that your family always gets complete, nutritious meals. Everyone in the family seems to be home for meals at a different time. A big help to the homemaker in handling this situation is a microwave oven, which offers speed, convenience, versatility and energy savings to its users. According to a home economist for the Admiral Group of Rockwell International, there are several ways homemakers can make better use of the appliance.

Staggered Schedules

Complete balanced meals can be prepared and portioned for those family members who come home after the normal dinnertime. As these stragglers arrive, their individually portioned dinners can be reheated in a matter of minutes in the microwave oven. This method of heating assures fresh, just-cooked flavor, which is not possible with conventional methods of reheating.

Tailoring Recipes

Homemakers using microwave ovens for the first time should remember that the cooking times listed in cookbooks written for conventional cooking methods are much too long for microwave ovens. Most microwave oven manufacturers include with their products cookbooks written especially for microwave cooking.

These cookbooks, which list cooking times appropriate for microwaves, will help consumers enjoy the many benefits of microwave cooking. According to the home economist, it's fun, safe and convenient.

Butter-Baked Washington Russets

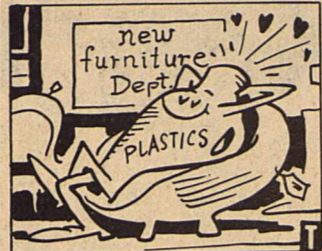

Here's a glamorized version of roast potatoes, featuring Washington State Russets. The "Golden Baked Russet Potatoes" are baked with butter as they bake, then coated with bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese when almost done.

4 medium Washington Russet potatoes
 1/2 cup butter, melted
 1/4 teaspoon onion salt
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon packaged bread crumbs
 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

Peel potatoes. Slice each crosswise every 1/4 inch, cutting to within 1/2 inch of the bottom. Place in buttered baking dish. Drizzle with half of butter; sprinkle with salt. Bake at 425° for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with crumbs and remaining butter. Bake 20 minutes longer. Sprinkle with cheese and bake 10 minutes or until tender, basting with butter in dish. Makes 4 servings.

A Bishop Looks at Life

By Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of Episcopal Church Remember That God Invented Eating

No religious writer in this century has been more widely read or more highly respected than the late Oxford don, C. S. Lewis. He combined profound scholarship and deep personal experience of God with the ability to put spiritual truth in simple and popular terms.

In one of his books, Lewis makes this arresting statement: "There is no use trying to be more spiritual than God. God never meant man to be a purely spiritual creature. That is why He uses material things like bread and wine to put the new life into us. We may think this rather crude and unspiritual. God does not: He invented eating."

I find several much-needed reminders in this most unusual religious statement. I am reminded that God gave me a body and expects me to take care of it. The body is the temple of my soul; it is the instrument thru which I do God's work in this life; it is to be treated with reverence, not as the end of life but as an essential means of life.

There is a place in life for physical pleasure. The extreme paganism of our time which exalts every form of physical excitement and self-gratification is often a reaction to what is considered the pale, lifeless, and unexciting pattern of life taught by the Bible and the church. This is a completely erroneous impression. The Bible from beginning to end is a book of joy, praise and thanksgiving. Jesus shared in all the normal pleasures of life; he said that he had come to give people the fullness of life and joy. In my own experience, the happiest people I have known have been devoutly religious.

Lewis also reminds us of what we call the sacramental meaning of life. God does not leave His love in a vacuum; He puts it into visible and material form. He gives us the physical resources to sustain life, and then as an extra expression of love He fills the world with beauty. The Christian finds the supreme visible manifestation of this love in the gift of Christ and his life, teaching, death and resurrection.

The essence of Lewis' statement is that there is no sharp separation between the material and the spiritual. Our human love must always find outward and visible expression. The mother washing her baby's diapers may be as spiritually engaged as her sister saying prayers in church. The honest business man performing a needed service for the community may be as spiritual as his brother who is a priest at the altar. It is not a matter of one or the other; it is a matter of one supplementing the other.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

All you Campers — One thing that's easy to forget when packing for a camping trip, but mighty important to have with you, is a stocking cap. (And the new ones are in all our stores right now — by the hundreds.) It's about as handy as a sleeping bag on those chilly nights, and makes a good head protector during the days.

You're not likely to forget your sleeping bag, but if you want it to last a long time you should never spread it on the bare ground. Put something down first to keep the dampness of the ground from penetrating the bag. An old rubber sheet, a tarp, even old newspapers or tinfoil will do.

Speaking of foil — I'll never know how anyone ever camped out without aluminum foil. It's worth its weight in gold. And that's saying something at today's gold price. Of course it doesn't weigh much though — which also makes it easy to take along.

If you don't take prepared foods, you can cook in foil. You can shape any sized pan or cup out of it. With foil and an old coat hanger (for making a handle for your foil pan and also for making a fork) you've got the essentials.

Well, you do need a campfire if you're going to cook.

So, to build your fire, be sure it's out of the wind. And if the wind is blowing too hard, you can always build a wind screen — out of foil, of course.

So, for goodness sake, don't forget the foil when you go camping, hunting or fishing.

Hunters and fishermen, who are also photographers, find a plastic bag comes in mighty handy. Use one to protect your camera from water, spray and possible rain damage.

If it's raining don't let that keep you from firing away with the camera still in the bag. Use the same camera setting, the same lens opening and the same shutter speed that you would use if the camera was outside the bag.

Needless to say, the bag must be of clear, clean plastic, neither colored nor discolored.

And for you hunters — if you're in the woods and need a quick fire, take an empty, used shotgun shell and split the cardboard covering down the side in a half-dozen places. Then spread the wax-treated paper apart and stand the shell on end.

Apply a lighted match and the old hull will burn well, and start your campfire in a hurry. The shell alone is hot enough to make a good handwarmer.

Cities Approving Gas Rate Increase

Officials of Lone Star Gas Company revealed that nearly 70 percent of the Texas cities in which the company has requested rate increases have given their approvals to new rate ordinances. Out of a total of 383 cities in which the company is seeking rate relief, 283 have granted the company's request. Five cities have refused to act on an ordinance, with the remaining cities pending action.

On June 30 Lone Star received an order from the Texas Railroad Commission authorizing an increase in its intracompany city gate rate to $1.0399 per thousand cubic feet (Mcf) of gas. The order also authorized an automatic monthly pass-on to residential and commercial customers of increases in the company's costs for purchased gas. Since the June 30 order, Lone Star distribution managers have been applying to city councils for rate increases in the towns affected.

Lone Star officials also revealed that the company has filed appeals to the Railroad Commission in Austin as a result of actions by two towns involved in the rate program. Appeals were filed during the past week for the cities of Sweetwater and Farmersville, and hearings are expected to be set by the Commission shortly.

Reptile Authority Issues Warning

A veteran reptile authority in San Antonio suggest that hunters and others who frequent the outdoors learn to avoid rattlesnakes by knowing their habits.

Joseph Laszlo, head of the San Antonio Zoo's reptile garden, says rattlesnakes have set patterns of activity, which can be anticipated, depending on the weather, time of day and season of the year.

He points out rattlesnakes take to cover during extreme hot and cold weather, but can be expected to be on the move at any time of the day or night when the surface temperature ranges between 70 and 88 degrees.

Laszlo cautions laymen to be especially alert in the early evening when the sun goes down, the rattlesnake's favorite time to search for food.

He warns that even when not moving rattlesnakes still may be encountered, particularly in dry country, lurking under cactus, mesquite bush or tree, in high weeds or grass, behind a fallen log, in a roadside ditch, fence line, hedgerow or on a rocky ledge.

"Hikers and others who find it necessary to walk in these places should wear stout leather boots, knee-high leggings or snake-proof pants, and should never sit or climb without first checking the area carefully," Laszlo suggests.

He recommends that hunters use a flashlight in going to and from their deer stands in the early morning before daylight and in the evening after dark.

He also notes that where rats, mice and rabbits are plentiful, it is almost certain rattlesnakes will be in abundance, too.

Despite every precaution, a number of unwary laymen become snakebite victims every year. Fortunately, a San Antonio physician and surgeon has pioneered a new technique for first aid in the field, using crushed ice over the wound in place of the more painful "cut and suck" ordeal.

The ice cools the venom, without freezing the injured member, and slows down the poison until the victim can be brought to a proper medical facility.

The new first aid measure, which has been popularized by San Antonio's Emergency Medical Services technicians, has led to the introduction of a new first aid kit, named "Snakebite Freeze", which contains chemical ice packs for use where ice is not always readily available.

The kit, which can be stored in hunting vehicles and camps, now is available at pharmacies, sporting goods stores, farm and ranch outlets or from Amerex Laboratories, 307 Nakoma, San Antonio, Texas 78216.

The Girl Scout Cadets are going to sell "Pumpkin Insurance". Pumpkin Insurance? It means, the girls are going to make cards and sell them for $1.00 per card. If you buy a card and your house or car gets "toilet-papered" or covered with shaving cream on Halloween night, we will clean it up. These will be on sale after next Monday.

In the near future we will go to San Angelo for a get-together for Scouts. The money raised from the pumpkin insurance will go for this trip.

Bronco Sideline Shots

By Bob Granger

Congratulations to Coach Ethridge and the seventh grade Colts for their big victory over Irion County. It was their initial outing in Sonora, and many fans came out of the ball park buzzing about their execution of plays on offense and the way they hit. The future looks real bright in Broncoland if these boys continue to improve.

Those were some cheerleaders that represented the Llano Yellowjackets at the pep rally Friday. I believe Sonora's cheerleaders are cuter and more petite. That's for sure.

The Junior Varsity will travel to San Angelo to do battle with the J. V. from Lakeview at Lake View Stadium Saturday at 2 p.m. Might want to plan a shopping trip for before the game or afterwards to see these boys play. The 7th and 8th grade Colts entertain Ozona here Thursday afternoon.

In district 7AA action last week, Alpine defeated Reagan County 41-12, Ozona raked Brady 14-0, Crane blasted Van Horn 47-7, McCamey beat Stanton 21-19 and the Broncos fell to Llano 13-7. I still believe the district race is going to be wide open all the way to the finish in November.

If you can, attend the pep rally at the high school gym Friday. Let's send these boys to Crane with our enthusiastic support. Your support at the pep rally would really help them.

Congratulations to Jane Wallace on being named Band Sweetheart. Jane was crowned during halftime ceremonies Friday night at Bronco Stadium.

The Broncos travel to Crane Friday to play the Crane Golden Cranes at 7:30 p.m. We know it is to be another tough one, but to win you have to play the tough ones to get there. You can bet the Broncos will give it all they have and come home with their first district win of 1975.

Police Reports

City police investigated a report October 7 regarding a child being bitten by a dog in the J&V Mobile Home Park. The owner of the animal was contacted and advised to confine the dog.

At 6 p.m. on that day a minor traffic accident occurred at the corner of Crockett and Concho Streets. Drivers of the autos were Richard L. Ramsey and Billy E. Cartwright. Patrolman Joe Fincher was the investigating officer.

On October 10 another minor traffic accident occurred in front of the local post office. Involved in the accident were Mrs. Merle Alley and Mrs. Bill Savell.

On October 12 police answered a call regarding a group of young children playing around the Scout Hut. Officer Fincher advised the children that only adult-supervised groups are allowed in the vicinity.

City Patrolmen issued a total of seven citations during the week. Citations were for speeding, failure to yield right-of-way, parking in no parking zones and improper starts.

Quick Quiz!

Distances are sometimes deceiving. To be able to see just the tip of a 200 foot oil rig that is 54 miles out at sea, how high above sea level would you have to be (a) 62 feet (b) 262 feet (c) 1,662 feet?

ANSWER
"C" is correct. You would have to be standing 1,662 feet above sea level. That means that if you stood on top of the Empire State Building, you would still need a 412 foot ladder to see even the tip of that oil rig.

Cattlemen Hold Associational Meeting Wed.

Independent Cattlemen's Association members of Sutton County met Wednesday night at the 4-H Center to encourage more ranchers to join the organization. Citing some of the reasons for joining I.C.A. cattlemen believe... "it is responsible for keeping the American way of life going and preserving the individual's right to own and operate his farm and ranch. It has saved you, the farmer and rancher, many dollars that you otherwise would have been paid in taxes or have not been able to earn by losing the land which you own. It has gotten people involved and needs your involvement to make it even more successful."

Some of the major accomplishments cattlemen attribute to the organization is that it has become the largest livestock association in Texas, and has over 100,000 members. Cattlemen say they have informed National and State leaders of livestock and agriculture problems including the President and Congress, State Legislatures, Federal and State Agency officials and the public. Other accomplishments include changes in the Emergency Livestock Loan Act; supported new state law prohibiting state agencies and subdivisions from purchasing and using imported beef and supported State Legislation to tax open-space land on its capability to produce and not on the fair market value.

The association now publishes the Independent cattlemen's magazine to inform membership of its activities and provide educational research data to improve ranching and farming techniques. They have been involved with a number of bills that were passed and defeated on the State and National level.

Some of the major goals are to promote and protect the livestock producer and the agricultural industry. Other aims include to influence state and federal policy makers by providing accurate information, recommendations and constant involvement; control imports-promote exports, as well as cooperate closely with all agricultural organizations to accomplish a common goal that would always protect agriculture.

They plan to oppose state and federal land use legislation; support a system of production and marketing and labelling which will assure the availability of the highest quality of meats to the public, and in the publication of information to help the housewife choose the best for her family.

The organization proposes to keep outside countries from interfering with the supply and demand of the United States of America. They would like to house the organizations of agriculture in one building with meetings regularly with all heads to set policy and protect the industry and consumers and be an advisory board to all state and federal departments.

The I.C.A. is headed by T. A. Cunningham as president and the head offices are in Goliad. Serving on the Board of Directors is Bill Whitehead, local cattleman. George Wallace is president of the local association, and additional information can be provided by him or Whitehead.

Ninety-One Attend Horse Clinic

Ninety-one local and area 4-H leaders, 4-H members and other interested people attended a 4-H Horse Clinic at the Sonora Park Association arena Saturday, October 11.

B. F. Yeates and Doug Householder, Texas A&M University Extension Service Horse specialists, conducted the program which featured 4-H leader training in basic horsemanship.

The two specialists demonstrated many training techniques, riding their personal horses and using a remote mike to communicate with the group as they put their horses through the training session.

They also put local 4-H members and their horses through the different performance events that they participate in at county, district and state 4-H horse shows. They made numerous suggestions on how 4-H members could improve the performance of their horses through the proper use of the right equipment, through improved riding habits and through improved techniques of training their horses.

Friday afternoon the two specialists conducted a leader training session for local leaders on developing and conducting the local 4-H program. They emphasized the need to have a planned program with a calendar of scheduled 4-H horse events for the year.

Yeates cautioned the group not to lose sight of their primary 4-H goal of developing boys and girls into better citizens through their participation in the horse program rather than putting too much emphasis on winning. He felt that a program that is well planned should provide an enjoyable experience for the boys or girls and allow them to develop their potentials to the level of their abilities and desires.

All boys and girls between the ages of eight and 18 are invited to participate in the Sutton County 4-H Horse program. For information concerning the 4-H program contact the County Extension Agent's office, telephone number 387-3101.
