Swim Classes To Pay Pool Fee

Those students desiring to take the free Red Cross swimming lessons and senior life saving courses being offered at the City Swimming Pool are reminded that although the lessons are free, there will be a charge for admittance to the pool.

Mrs. Melissa Teaff, who is in charge of the lessons, says that all children are required to bring the full week's dues for pool admittance on the day they register.

Children under 12 will be charged at 35c per day and those over 12 will be charged 75c per day.

Swimming Pool To Open

The City Swimming Pool will open Monday or Tuesday providing improvements and repairs are completed on schedule. Oliver Wuest, pool manager, anticipates repairs to be finished this weekend.

The pool will maintain the same schedule as last year with a 2-6 p.m. opening daily. There will be some night swimming which will be announced later.

Persons will be charged 35c for those 12 and under, and 75c for those who are over 12 years of age.

Wuest stated that swimming suits are the ideal clothing for swimming and if blue jean cut-offs are worn, they must be hemmed and clean. Heavy clothing, which removes chlorine from the water, will not be permitted.

Drinks, food and smoking are not permitted in the pool area and any extra swimming equipment which presents a problem to other swimmers or involves a safety hazard, will be barred. Running, scuffling, pushing and other forms of play around the pool will not be permitted.

Wuest also noted that only one person will be allowed on the diving board platform or ladder at a time with only one bounce or spring on the end of the diving board. Divers must dive to the front of the board, not to the side, as this is a hazard to other swimmers as well as the diver.

Pool personnel ask that all these safety rules be observed so that all those enjoying the use of the pool may have a safe and enjoyable summer.

I have property which has sustained damage. Who do I report the damage to, the agent or the company? How long will it be before the claim is paid?

Rather than try to contact the company itself, you should contact the agent who wrote the policy. This procedure will usually save time since the agent has all the policy information necessary to report your claim. It depends upon the type of claim as to when it will be paid. If the damage is a result of a major storm, it sometimes takes slightly longer to service due to the excessive numbers of claims turned in. Normally you should be contacted within a week's time. If the damage is quite extensive, your agent should be made aware of this fact. It might be necessary to make immediate, temporary repairs to prevent further damage.

Texas Weather Warnings

Two phrases that should be part of every Texan's vocabulary are "tornado watch" and "tornado warning".

The National Weather Service is constantly monitoring the skies and will issue a "watch" anytime a squall line which has the potential of spawning tornadoes begins to develop. "Watches" are usually posted for broad areas spanning hundreds of miles. It is not uncommon for a city or town to be included in a watch dozens of times without ever having a tornado.

For this reason there is a danger of becoming complacent. Although no one expects that people will "drop everything" when a watch is posted, they should become conscious of the weather and monitor broadcasts for developments.

In spite of great technological strides, the human eye is still the best instrument for locating a tornado. Since radar isn't effective in spotting most tornadoes, many communities have organized networks of trained volunteer spotters.

To be effective, a spotter must be trained because there are many weather conditions which resemble tornadoes but are not. These tornado look-alikes will confuse one untrained eye. More often than not, the classic funnel tornado will be clearly visible in West and Central Texas. In the Eastern states and East Texas the funnel will often be obscured by rain so that it is heard rather than seen clearly.

As potentially dangerous squall lines pass through an area, that community's trained tornado spotters are deployed to scan the skies for trouble.

If a twister is spotted, a "tornado warning" is signaled. Warnings are issued for much smaller areas and may mean that residents may have only a few minutes to take shelter. If a warning is issued, persons in that area should immediately watch for danger and be ready to take cover at a second's notice.

Interviews with people who have lived through tornadoes indicate that the most prevalent sound associated with tornadoes is that of freight trains passing close by or jet planes roaring overhead.

Anyone who thinks they have spotted a tornado should immediately notify law enforcement officials.

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ.....

CIA Weather Predictions Not Really Surprising

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River is astonished at a weather report by the CIA, his letter this week says.

drouth, but if it keeps on raining and the weeds are about to take their crop and if they don't the crop may drown out anyway, see what they say. I have never seen a farmer or orchard owner who could find anything favorable about a hail storm, a drouth, a late freeze, or rain on a hay crop ready to be baled.

The CIA folks are right, we're going to have unfavorable weather for the next 40 years, but somebody ought to tell them we've had it ever since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, but still we've managed to make a crop most of the time.

Yours faithfully,

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—If your yard is the only one on the block that doesn't look like a well-tended park, there may be a variety of reasons. You may be too busy to spend time on lawn and garden care, you may be physically incapable of such strenuous work, you may not have the proper tools and equipment, or you may just not have the inclination.

For whatever reason, many consumers who want the pleasure of having a well-cared-for yard for spring and summer outdoor living turn to professional yard care services.

Established, reputable, professional yard care services can be a boon to the homeowner. Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys have learned. In many cases, they do a better job than the novice who lacks specialized equipment and who may not know how to select and apply fertilizers and pesticides properly.

Consumers who are considering such services can choose those which specialize in jobs such as lawn maintenance, tree trimming, lawn and tree spraying, and landscaping, among others. There are total-care services and those which offer either year-round maintenance or service only during warm weather months, too.

However, our Consumer Protection attorneys caution homeowners considering such services to investigate carefully before committing themselves to a contract for work, or for advance payment for a job.

As with all such contract work, it's important to decide what you want done, then get at least three estimates from different firms or individuals. You should get recommendations from friends or relatives who have used such services, or check with the Better Business Bureau to determine the reputation of a firm you don't know.

If you're entering into a contract for a continuing service, be sure it spells out precisely what work is to be performed for what length of time and at what total cost per month or year. If you are contracting for a one-time-only major job, be sure that the dates work is to be started and completed are included.

Our attorneys urge consumers to exercise care when dealing with itinerant yard care specialists who solicit business door-to-door. Often this may only be a student who wants to earn some spending money for the summer by mowing lawns.

But if the solicitor is seeking large yard care jobs that involve considerable sums of money, be cautious. You are protected by the Texas Home Solicitation Act, which allows you to cancel any contract for $25 or more by midnight of the third business day. If you're dealing with an unscrupulous itinerant, though, your check may be cashed and spent the same day of the transaction, and the yard care "specialist" may be in the next town by the time you decide you didn't get your money's worth.

If you do deal with an itinerant, never pay for a job in advance, and always inspect the completed work carefully before paying for it.

For assistance with a consumer complaint, get in touch with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division or your county or district attorney.

What Are The Odds?

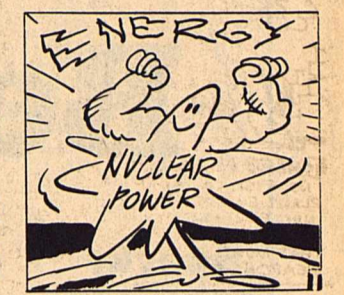

Probability gives 1 chance in 8,192 for a family of 13 children being all males or all females.

The chance of being dealt the 13 highest cards in a 13 card bridge hand is 158,753,389,899 to 1.

In a random sampling of 50 people, the chance of more than one of them having the same birthday approaches certainty.

Scientists are becoming more and more certain that nuclear power is an inevitable answer to our energy needs. A statement by 31 eminent scientists, including 11 Nobel prize-winners, says, "Uranium power, the culmination of basic discoveries in physics, is an engineered reality. We can see no reasonable alternative to an increased use of nuclear power to satisfy our energy needs."

Random sampling is a process in which a few individual items, chosen entirely by chance, are tested in order that probability then can be used to forecast with accuracy the characteristics of large numbers of similar items.

And they can worship God . . . in the church they choose . . . and bring their children . . . and support their church . . . and volunteer their talents in its work. Nobody can padlock God's House - or turn it into a museum!

A Source of Protein
Late in the 19th Century, a St. Louis doctor prescribed "Roasted Peanuts" to patients who were suffering from protein deficiencies.

Peanuts, ground to a paste, proved to be a reliable source of Protein; besides being readily digestible.

Curiously however, the doctor's innovation never made it as a medicinal remedy. (In fact, his name has never been recorded.) Instead, his tasty treat, originally marketed as an aid to health, was taken off the drugstore-shelves and sold in groceries, where, under the label of "Peanut Butter", it quickly gained popularity.

Our prompt prescription handling, and dependable medical supply service has made us very popular with our customers at BRONCO PHARMACY, 116 N.W. Concho. Why don't you try us, too? You'll find all your pharmaceutical needs at BRONCO. Emergency Rx Service... PHONE: 387-3569.

THE BICENTENNIAL KITCHEN

Chicken Pilau Is Colonial Favorite Of Charleston

The low country of South Carolina, centered around Charleston, is much different from the rest of the state. It is in these marshes by the sea that the first plantations took form, when landowners discovered that the marshy lowlands along the banks of the Ashley and Cooper Rivers were ideal for growing rice. Few foods seem so fitting to South Carolina as pilau. No doubt, the idea of this rice dish came to South Carolina by early traders from India in the days when Charleston became a great seaport. Southern cooks changed the ingredients from oil to tomatoes, and cooked it so that the dish came out dry and greasless.

Rice, of course, is the main ingredient in a Pilau—pronounced pelos in Charleston. From there the ingredients vary greatly. There are pilaus with squab or okra, with tomatoes or eggs, with shrimp or chicken.

This version of Charleston's Chicken Pilau is a hearty, economical meal-in-itself. The chicken and rice, cooked in chicken broth, are flavored with celery, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Versatile stick Blue Bonnet Margarine is used for sauteing the vegetables and adding rich flavor to this tempting rice dish.

Accompanied by a hot bread such as corn bread, Chicken Pilau is ideal for family meals.

CHICKEN PILAU

- 1-1/2 cups sliced celery
- 3/4 cup coarsely chopped onion
- 3/4 cup diced green pepper
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 1 can (1-pound) tomatoes, undrained
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 (2-1/2-pound) broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces
- 1-1/2 cups uncooked rice
- Chopped parsley

Saute celery, onion and green pepper lightly in margarine in Dutch oven for about 5 minutes. Stir in chicken broth, tomatoes, salt, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Add chicken. Cover; cook over medium heat until chicken is partially cooked, about 20 minutes. Stir in rice. Cover; cook over low heat for about 25 minutes. Remove cover; cook until rice and chicken are tender and liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Arrange chicken and rice in large serving dish. Garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

KITE FLYING CAN BE DANGEROUS

Many varieties of kites are filling the spring skies. Flying snake, bat, box and all the other kinds of kites can be delightful—and dangerous.

Children know by heart the catalog of objects that can snare kites. Youngsters have found an equally wide variety of ways to injure themselves getting the kites down. The Texas Medical Association says telephone and electric lines present primary danger sources.

Many children have been warned not to climb utility poles but they poke at trapped kites with sticks, rods and have even been known to use lightweight irrigation pipe. Phone or electric companies or even the fire department in some towns might rescue a kite. However, usually a kite is doomed if it gets tangled in a potentially dangerous utility line.

Aside from his high-flown scientific discoveries with a kite and a key, Benjamin Franklin proved kites do conduct electricity. String and wood are not the best conductors but youngsters can get a charge out of a tangled kite.

Many electric lines are deadly because they do not have any insulation at all. They can carry anywhere from 7,200 to 138,000 volts DC. Even a small, supposedly well insulated residential line usually carries about 120 volts DC, enough to injure or kill someone.

Most phone lines carry between 24-48 volts DC and are well insulated if they are in good shape. These lines are usually located 8-10 feet below electric lines if they are on joint-use utility poles, according to a telephone company spokesman. It can be very difficult to tell the difference between more dangerous electric lines and phone lines. Also some phone lines carry more than the usual voltage, insulation can be wearing out or a kite can act as a conductor. Electricity conceivably can travel from an electric line through a kite touching the line, to a phone line and from there through a string or stick to a person.

Other efforts to handle kites can bring about disaster. People can run in front of cars, fall into holes and crash into other hazards while attempting to keep a kite aloft—or avoid utility lines. String can cut or "burn" hands if improperly handled. Some people, trying to find a substitute for breakable kite string, use fine wire and have a shocking experience when the wire touches a utility line.

FANCY THAT!

An all-purpose flower is the rose. It is used to express love, to cheer the sick, to decorate homes. Not only have poets and gardeners long admired its beauty, but so probably did the caveman, since fossil roses dating back 15 million years have been found!

An all-purpose vegetable is the potato. It is cooked in many ways to make many dishes for many kinds of people. Unknown to the world until the Spanish found Inca eating it in 1530, the potato has since grown in size, quality and popularity. Today, the world potato crop is second only to the wheat crop!

An all-purpose insecticide that not only protects roses and potatoes but many other flowers, fruits and vegetables is Spectracide® with Diazinon®. Its spray kills many chewing and sucking insects, keeping your garden beautiful and productive all year round!

Because of meteoric material falling from the sky the earth's weight increases by about 100,000 pounds a year.

A Bishop Looks At Life

By Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop Of the Episcopal Church

There are still "Beckoning Frontiers" A few days ago a book was published by Trinity University Press giving the life-story of a most remarkable man who spent the latter years of his life in San Antonio. The book is called "Beckoning Frontiers"

WATERHOLE #9 IS OPEN
You can get good steaks at the WATERHOLE #9

and is a biography of the late President of Trinity University, James Woodin Laurie. The author is R. Douglas Brackenridge, Professor in the Department of Religion at Trinity.

The book holds unusual interest for me because as a fellow-board member I was closely associated with Jim Laurie (this is the name by which he was universally called) from his arrival in San Antonio in 1950 until his retirement and death in 1970. Few associates in my life have meant as much to me as my friendship with him and his devoted wife Dorothy.

It is not often that a man lives to see such an impressive monument as the present Trinity University come into being under his own leadership. It has been called "The miracle of Trinity Hill"; as a moderate-size liberal arts college it has won national and even international recognition. As I read this book, I asked myself: What were the secrets of this remarkable man and his achievements?

The first answer is that he was a man of deep Christian faith and commitment. He came from a long family tradition of such commitment.

Jim Laurie kept a personal notebook, in which he recorded his innermost thoughts. After his arrival in San Antonio, he wrote: "Accepted the Presidency of Trinity University. God will be my co-pilot. Have no fear. This can be the center of gravity for a wide area. Be sincerely Christian. You are entering a new field. God will guide you in it all. Move as fast as you can. No need for lagging. God is at the controls."

In his inaugural address he said, "We have no false hopes, no illusions, yet we have no sense of insecurity. We have the calm peace of the knowledge that the job we are doing is a worthy one in the sight of God and of man."

A second notable fact is that Jim Laurie could be so successful in a role of academic leadership when all of his previous experiences had been in the pastorate. He was wise enough to learn technical academic procedures from such trusted colleagues as Dean Bruce Thomas. What he did have in abundance was a deep pastoral concern for people; this was immediately felt by the trustees, the faculty, the students and the community. He was not just "the President" but a trusted, caring, intimate friend.

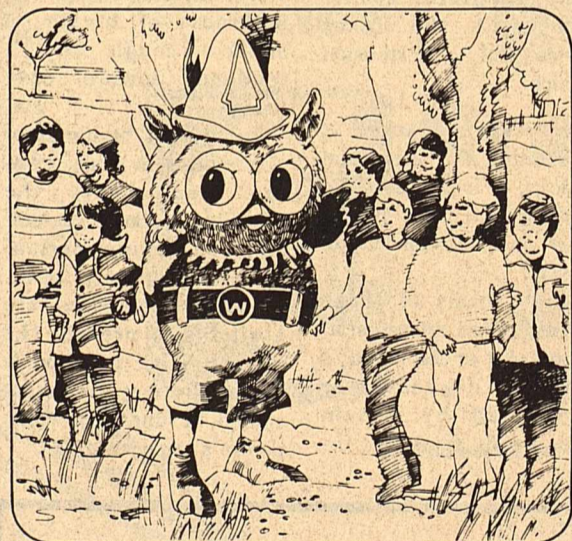

While Jim Laurie built buildings and raised millions of dollars he seldom asked people for money. He shared with them his vision, especially of the world's need for the kind of Christian leaders Trinity could produce. People became excited at the prospect of investing in this worthy enterprise.

The title of this biography is well chosen. He always saw beyond the present to the future. "There are no more geographical frontiers in America," he said, "but there are great frontiers of the spirit and of the mind. In these there is a challenge for pioneering leadership."

Here is a book I would like to put in the hands of every graduating college student in America today. It would give each of them a vision of what God can do thru a person wholly committed to Him.

"Beckoning Frontiers" is available at the Trinity University Bookstore and in other bookstores of the San Antonio area.

Canine Heartworm Disease Can Be Serious Problem

Heartworm disease can be a serious problem in dogs unless owners take the proper action, says Cling Langford, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Heartworm disease is debilitating and often fatal to dogs. It is caused by a worm which lives in the heart and adjacent blood vessels.

Small forms of these worms, called microfilaria, are present in the blood of an infected dog and can be transmitted by certain mosquitoes from an infected dog to one that is free of the disease.

Langford lists some of the symptoms of heartworm infection as being shortness of breath, a shallow cough and a tendency toward easy tiring.

To prevent problems of heartworms in dogs, owners should have the animals checked periodically by a veterinarian, advises the county agent. Excellent remedies are available to prevent the disease. If an infection is already present, treatment should be under a veterinarian's supervision.

Geraniums Brighten Yard

Geraniums are an excellent choice to brighten summer landscapes, contends a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Geraniums are easy to grow and will tolerate a wide range of conditions," says Everett Janne. "All that you need is a good soil mix and a well lighted area. Geraniums can be planted in a garden or grown in tubs, pots or hanging containers."

Janne notes that there are two disease-free varieties available from most garden centers and nurseries--Carefree and Sprinter. They produce flowers with colors ranging from deep red to white.

"Locate geraniums where they will receive plenty of light," points out the Texas A&M University System specialist. "However, some mid-afternoon shade is helpful."

"When preparing the soil, add a complete fertilizer at the rate of one or two pounds per 100 square feet.

"Space geraniums about 15 inches apart so that they will have plenty of room to grow and won't need pinching. They'll also flower earlier."

With proper care, geraniums will thrive and brighten up any landscape or outdoor area, believes Janne.

Bob Krueger's Weekly Report

In an earlier column, I examined one of the problems with the new Federal Election Commission, and the legislation passed in 1973 which established the commission. That column pointed out that, really, by allowing taxpayers a checkoff provision so that they might deduct $1 from their taxes in order that it be contributed to either the Republican or Democrat Party, the law is using the federal Treasury to subsidize the two major political parties. For this reason, the law is unfair. Independent parties such as the American Party and La Raza Unida have no opportunity to gain such access to the federal Treasury. If Mr. Connally, Mr. Reagan, Mr. McCarthy or Mr. Wallace were to be nominated by a third party, they would receive no support from the Treasury but the Democratic or Republican Presidential candidates would. For that reason, I believe the law to be inherently unfair.

Recently, I received a letter from a San Antonio constituent who noted that even the Internal Revenue Service has become politicized in this process. She wrote, "I am enclosing a communication from the IRS reminding my daughter, Patricia, that she failed to designate the $1 political contribution. Obviously she did not choose to designate this dollar or she would have checked it off affirmatively."

I phoned the IRS to ask why that agency was spending time, labor, postage, and money to "remind" someone that she might contribute when obviously she had chosen not to. In response, I was told that the IRS has been sued by Common Cause in 1973, which claimed that the IRS had not publicized the checkoff provision apply to the taxpayer.

In the process of trying to respond to the Common Cause charges, the IRS spent vastly more in mailing costs than it received back in political contributions, and both mailing costs and the contributions are themselves deductions from the federal Treasury.

In my judgement, the IRS should not have settled the suit out of court with Common Cause and should not have agreed to send such reminders. The government must assume that individuals can take on some responsibilities for themselves, and it should not expect to need to remind the people that they are free to either check off or not to check off political contributions, as they choose. I have expressed my view to both the IRS and Common

Police Reports

An accident occurred in the 500 block of SE Crockett Street at approximately 2:50 p.m., May 19. Vehicles were driven by Lupe Salinas Noriega and Karon Pennington Sikes, both of Sonora. The accident was investigated by Officer Dick Jones.

City police investigated the poisoning of a dog at the Charles Washburn Residence May 21. The dog was found dead in front of their fenced-in yard at 103 Poplar.

Several families called and requested close patrol of their homes while they are on vacation or out of town for other reasons.

On May 20 at 11:30 p.m., Chief Bill Webster answered a call to the Bill Mobley residence in reference to the Mobley's daughter, Denita, who was having what is believed to be a reaction to a dosage of LSD. The Sonora High School senior was taken to the local hospital where she was admitted after being treated by Dr. David Owensby. Miss Mobley had been attending the annual senior beer-bust.

Breakfast Honors Ministers

The Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District hosted a breakfast May 19 at the Sutton County 4-H Center in observance of Soil Stewardship Week. Honor guests at the breakfast were local ministers.

Following the breakfast, ministers were presented a program on conservation by Virgil Polocsek, District Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service. He spoke to the group on work that has been done through the years in this district including flood prevention structures, built several years ago, and how they have helped to recharge our underground water while at the same time helping to prevent flooding. Good and bad range management was presented and how range can be improved by using the proper techniques.

Each year one week is set aside in observance of Soil Stewardship. During this week each individual is asked to take time to give thanks for the many things soil and water furnish us throughout the year.

FCC To Expand Radio Space

The Federal Communications Commission will soon expand the radio band space available to citizen band radio users according to Congressman Bob Krueger (D-Tx) who recently conferred with FCC Chairman Richard Wiley.

Wiley recently appeared before the Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee on which Krueger serves. At that time, Krueger asked Wiley why so few channels have been provided to "C.B." users, since there are some 12 million citizen band radio operators, in the United States. The result, according to Krueger, is difficulty in broadcasting and receiving due to overcrowded channels.

Krueger's remarks and questions came in response to a meeting he had in April with C.B. operators within a 200 mile radius of San Antonio. At that time he promised C.B. users that he would seek a commitment from Wiley and the FCC to expand the radio band space available as soon as possible.

"Mr. Wiley's statements," Krueger said, "indicate that the expansion will be forthcoming." Krueger also indicated that he will seek in writing a definite date by which the expansion will be made.

"C.B. radio is, among other things," Krueger added, "a new form of communication among highway travellers who seek to break down the anonymity and monotony of highway travel in our mobile, fast-moving society."

"Particularly in Texas, where it is not uncommon to drive for hours to get to your destination, this new form of communication is important to businessmen, ranchers, and people who because of their work must travel great distances."
