laude and as a University Undergraduate Fellow, Wade Clay Richardson majored in animal science.

Second Rabies Case Confirmed

Another rabid skunk has been killed in the city limits of Sonora according to a report received at the local Animal Hospital Monday.

Penn Baggett, who lives at 507 Water Street, killed the skunk in his back yard last week. The animal was attacking his dog when he became aware of its intrusion.

The first case of confirmed rabies was in a skunk killed at the Junior High School several days ago.

Police Chief Jerry Kemp said Monday that the animal leash law would be strictly enforced and that all persons owning animals are reminded that they must have a current vaccination tag and be either penned or leashed in the owner's yard.

A fine of up to $200 can be imposed on any person who is found to be the owner of a pet who is not confined and properly tagged.

All pet owners are being asked to cooperate with the police and help keep this from becoming another epidemic like Sonora had in 1974.

Parents should be on the alert and warn children to leave all animals alone. Rabies is a disease of animals but can be transmitted to humans directly from an infected wild animal or indirectly through a pet or a domestic animal.

Bold, friendly or apparently tame wild animals, night animals such as skunks and fox, that are seen in the daytime, should be reported at once to your local police department. These animals do not become tame.

Pets that have difficulty in walking, eating or drinking or show signs of excitement or viciousness when they are normally quiet should be taken immediately to a veterinarian.

Another sign to be alert to is animals that tear at or scratch an old wound.

According to a release by the Texas State Department of Health 50,000 persons are bitten each year in the United States by animals. More than thirty thousand of these require anti-rabies treatments.

Local 4-H'ers Entered In 4-H Roundup

Texas 4-H Roundup brings together the top youth talents in the state in judging contests and various demonstrations and skill events. Their goal is to be the best in Texas. Some 1,600 4-H boys and girls will be at Texas A&M University June 7 and 8 for the annual event which has become a highlight of the 4-H year. Competition is kept in the 36 events which range from public speaking and livestock judging to demonstrations on safety and use of electricity. A new contest in method demonstrations has been added that is open to all members regardless of their project interest. A major event of 4-H Roundup is the State 4-H Food Show on June 7, with judging of entries beginning at 9 a.m. All other competition will be on June 8, with some events beginning as early as 6:30 a.m. In addition to the various contests and demonstrations on June 8, a special luncheon will be held in honor of 28 outstanding 4-H adult leaders in Texas. These leaders are selected on the basis of two from each of the 14 Extension Service districts, notes McArthur. Wrapping up Roundup activities will be a special recognition program at 8 o'clock that evening at which winners in the day's competitive events will be presented. Proclamation

The well-being of our people depends upon the production of ample supplies of food, fiber and other products of the soil. The quality and quantity of these products depend upon the conservation, wise and proper management of the soil and water resources. The 197 Soil and Water Conservation Districts throughout Texas provide a practical and democratic organization through which landowners are taking the initiative to conserve and make proper use of these resources. Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, in appreciation of the value of the soil to the public welfare, and desiring to honor those who protect it, do hereby proclaim May 15-22, 1977, as SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK in Texas. In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 4th day of April, 1977. Dolph Briscoe Governor of Texas

Sonora Minister Speaks

One of the most difficult ideas for us to get into our heads as human beings is the realization that we cannot earn God's love and forgiveness. His grace is freely given to all without exception. And perhaps the reason we find it difficult to accept or believe this is that it undercuts our pride, our feeling that we are better than someone else, and therefore God loves us more than he does them. This is a false pride, an arrogance. Jesus Himself had something to say about this when he was talking to the pharisees, those who felt that they were the elect of God, and thus better than other people. Their feeling of self-righteousness came from what THEY had done, not what God does. Jesus told them that such an attitude itself would stand between themselves and a meaningful relationship with God. In fact he told them the harlots and publicans would enter the Kingdom of Heaven before they would. We need to consider the meaning of the phrase, "God is no respecter of persons". This means that in the eyes of God, no person is better than another. Any time we use derogatory terms when we talk of other races, nationalities or social classes, our false pride is showing. When we think we should have extra privileges because of who we are or what we do, our false pride is showing. Be careful of your attitudes toward others; always look at them through the eyes of the Lord. Paul Terry, Pastor First Methodist Church

Letter To The Editor

Dear editor:
The people from Sonora wish to pay tribute to Father Michael Fernandez, pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church. He came to Sonora in 1962 and has served as pastor for this community ten years. Unfortunately he will be leaving us this month. He served this community not only as pastor but friend and counselor to all of us.

He taught us to love one another and to be united always regardless of race, color or creed. We will be losing a great friend who did so much for this community and was always ready to help us no matter what. We will miss him.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
This letter is to add to the Devil's River Philosopher.

The Supreme Court should look more at the reasons behind misbehavior than simply trying to prevent future misbehavior by paddling a child. All this accomplishes is hostile feelings and possibly future retaliation in other words two wrongs do not make a right.

As a former student of Sonora Schools I have seen students paddled then shamed. Wouldn't it be more logical to counsel with the children and find out why he/she is misbehaving? Is it because he is anxious about a home situation, is he/she just eager for a special after school activity, is he/she just trying to get the attention he/she so desperately needs, or is physical illness or discomfort the reason. Most often a good teacher can recognize these situations and will handle them accordingly without paddling the child. Paddling is an easy way to say we don't know and we don't care why or what is happening within the child. There are other means of discipline and I have seen them work in Sonora. One is called assertion and not aggression!

Respectfully,

Lorie Michelle Olson

Oil Production Declines

DALLAS--Despite 12 months of production at or near the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all of Texas' oil fields, the state's crude oil production last year declined for the fourth consecutive year.

The 1976 output of the nation's No. 1 oil producing state was almost 1.2-billion barrels and pushed the state's cumulative production since 1889 to just over 41.5-billion barrels. But last year's output was almost 32-million barrels below 1975 production and more than 111-million barrels below the all-time peak production year of 1972.

Jack S. Blanton, Houston, president of Dallas-based Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, says that an acceptable national energy policy must acknowledge that the expense of exploration and production today has greatly increased the cost of replacing this oil.

"Adequate prices and other incentives to encourage petroleum development must be forthcoming. Not only production, but reserves of one of Texas' most valuable natural resources have been dropping as each year we produce more oil than we find," says Blanton, an independent oil company and refinery executive.

The following chart shows production figures for the state's top producing counties in 1976. The five, all with production in excess of 50-million barrels, occupied the same rank with their 1975 production:

County	Barrels
Scurry	83,071,294
Yoakum	79,677,101
Ector	65,593,044
Galnes	61,016,272
Hockley	50,954,979

In addition to the top five, eight other counties topped 30-million barrels in production last year. They included:

County	Barrels
Andrews	49,704,235
Gregg	48,907,825
Wood	45,981,125
Refugio	36,447,912
Crane	36,351,590
Pecos	33,643,903
Brazoria	33,186,267
Harris	31,730,710

Texas county to produce more than two-billion barrels of crude oil in the history of recorded production, remains the all-time leader with a cumulative total through 1976 of 2,549,507,979 barrels. Ector County, through the end of last year, had produced 2,073,536,067 barrels.

Other counties with cumulative production in excess of one-billion barrels include the following:

County	Barrels
Andrews	1,803,287,641
Rusk	1,582,473,149
Scurry	1,372,606,328
Crane	1,185,983,717
Harris	1,164,398,276
Brazoria	1,055,905,647

Briscoe Proclaims Trans.Week

By official memorandum last week, Governor Dolph Briscoe named the week of May 15-21 as Transportation Week in Texas.

"Nothing affects the lives of every citizen as transportation does," the governor noted in his official statement. "All industrial production, all the agricultural bounty of our state, every necessity must be moved from producer to consumer."

The governor said Texans, "in a measure larger than most Americans," must be able to move freely across the great distances and the great cities of the state.

The five modes of transportation -- highway, rail, air, water and pipeline -- are such in Texas that they generate 30 per cent of the total state product.

The observance is sponsored by Traffic Clubs International in cooperation with the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials. Local traffic clubs in Texas, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and the Texas Good Roads/Transportation Association are participating in the observance in Texas.

Activities include speeches, open houses and exhibits and other events.

Tower Blasts Carter's Ill Conceived Plan

By Sen. John Tower

WASHINGTON — President Carter's long-awaited "Energy Medicine Show" finally made it to town, predicting a dire future for the vitality of the American way of life unless some extreme potions are administered immediately.

Unfortunately, the "good doctor's" cures could be worse than the disease.

The President's energy package, delivered in two parts, went to great lengths to convince us of a national need to conserve dwindling petroleum resources. Hardly anyone would deny that conservation is part of the problem today. As a Nation, we've paid scant attention to sound conservation principles, and this much of the President's plan—"to make us believers"—is proper and in consonance with the warnings those of us from producing states have been sounding in the Congress for over ten years.

Whether or not conservation should be the centerpiece of a comprehensive national energy policy, however, is an entirely different matter. We're a Nation faced with an existing and serious scarcity of fuel. Measures aimed solely at conservation don't begin to arrest uncertainties about what our future energy needs may be.

The Carter plan proposes an elaborate, federally managed system of pricing mechanisms, tax incentives and fuel conversion requirements centered around a conservation ethic.

I remain convinced that a rational and realistic energy policy must encourage increased production of oil and gas coupled with a greater reliance on coal and nuclear power, among other alternative energy sources.

The President's plan does appear to give some needed support to coal use, and to a lesser extent nuclear power, yet there are inconsistent references to environmental quality spoken in almost the same breath. But the plan seems to rule out the degree of oil and natural gas production I believe we must rely on for the long-term economic growth of Texas and the Nation.

Texas and Texas industry will suffer disproportionately under the President's proposals.

Extended and revised price controls on crude oil are unrealistic and would discourage exploration and production. It is absurd to continue existing price controls while taxing the consumer price artificially up to the world oil price—not to mention the bureaucratic nightmare that would result.

It amounts to an added burden to consumers nationally, and addresses only demand—not supply. A more intelligent approach would be to move steadily toward price decontrol which would both dampen demand and provide the necessary capital to explore for new sources and produce them.

Federal controls on intrastate production of natural gas will likewise retard production and merely spread shortages around the Nation. The President's proposals will lead to Federal allocation of all natural gas and will result in mandated reductions in the industrial use of natural gas in Texas so that gas could be redistributed for residential use in other parts of the country.

Gasoline taxes would severely penalize Texans, as well as consumers in other western states who of necessity must drive further distances, with no mass transit systems available.

America has always been a growth intensive country. And it's the President's disregard for this tradition in his energy plan I find particularly disturbing. He seems to be calling for a retreat from growth. America's reliance on ingenuity and technology have been the keys to our industrial strength and world preeminence, and that is evidenced nowhere better than in Texas.

I don't believe energy policies that preach conservation to the exclusion of resource development and production are in that spirit. We've always solved our problems by rolling up our sleeves and by relying on technological growth as our ace in the hole. It should be no different now.

Coastal States Declares Dividend

Directors of Coastal States Gas Corporation declared the first cash dividend on common stock in the company's 21-year history.

At their meeting held in conjunction with the company's annual meeting of shareholders, the Coastal board set the quarterly payout at 7-1/2 cents a share payable on July 1, 1977 to holders of record on June 1, 1977.

Coastal's previous distributions on its common stock have been a stock dividend in 1968 and stock splits in 1963 and 1969. Regular quarterly dividends have been paid on the company's three issues of preferred stock.

CSG Reports Record Qtr Net Income

At its annual meeting of stockholders held in Houston, Coastal States Gas Corporation reported record net income of $22.1 million for the first quarter of 1977, equal to $1.09 per share on average shares and $1.01 on a fully diluted basis.

Earnings for the same period in 1976 were $15.7 million equal to 76 cents a share on average shares or 72 cents fully diluted.

In his address to the annual meeting, Coastal's chairman and chief executive officer Oscar S. Wyatt, Jr., said the company was off to a good start in 1977 and he predicted the full year would be one of considerable progress.

Review Team Sees Sonora Research Work

Fred Campbell's Wool and Mohair Report

Foreign wool sales continue sluggish. This time period is nearing the end of the wool season in Southern Hemisphere countries and offerings are not as good as earlier in the year. Furthermore, the Japanese have over-produced wool yarn and have cut back their buying of grease wool in Australian sales.

In the U.S. wool continues to move but at somewhat weaker prices. An abundance of grease wool supplies and a weak demand are blamed.

Texas wool sales last week focused on the sales of short wools in Del Rio and Sonora. About 900,000 pounds were offered in sales and virtually all sold. Prices in Del Rio and Sonora ranged from the mid 80's to 1.01 1/4 in Sonora and 1.045 in Del Rio with the bulk of the paint free wools bringing 95c to 1.00 and the wools with branding paint in them about 5-7c less. Sales of 12 months wool are being made mostly on a private treaty basis and un-reported. Sales are currently being made by our warehouse of both graded and ungraded wools. Prices are on the strong side of the current market.

Mohair prices have risen sharply as existing supplies dwindle. Some sales of adult mohair have been made this past week at 2.80 to 3.00 and kids up to a reported 4.40. The unsold mohair in Texas is now estimated at from 250,000-500,000 pounds.

Future Military Use of Wool Appears Hopeful

Segments of the wool industry have been concerned lately that wool use in U.S. military uniforms may be phased out. A recent meeting at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base brought the problem into a somewhat tighter focus, ending on a hopeful but not carelessly enthusiastic note.

The meeting included representatives from all branches of the military, the textile industry, and the wool producers industry.

Among wool grower representatives was Helyn Kuhn, assistant executive director of the American Wool Council's Advertising and promotion department, and Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association executive secretary Bill Sims.

Reports by Sims and Ms. Kuhn indicate that the military is operating its uniform reevaluation program armed with a certain amount of inaccurate data, but that the Defense Department appears willing to consider corrective input from the wool industry.

The problem originally began partly because of government speculation that wool supplies might prove inadequate in times of emergency. As a result, various degrees of synthetic blends are being considered.

The military plans to conduct live wear tests of different fabrics over a period of a year, the results to contribute to a revised uniform plan between 1980 and 1985.

The head-to-head meeting revealed that the wear tests would be extremely subjective, rather than scientific.

Numerous objections to such testing, and offers of assistance by such textile representatives as Burlington Industries, resulted in the promise of a change in procedure by the military.

The entire basis for the reevaluation was questioned, with some success. The military's fear that wool production would fall short of demand by 1985 was countered by industry data showing clean wool production running more than five times current government requirements.

The Blueprint for Expansion, with its goal of doubling production by 1985, was also noted.

Government data showing mill capacity at seriously low levels was questioned by the textile industry, whose representatives claimed they could process at least 10 times the current levels.

Too, mills now handling synthetics could be switched to woolsens if necessary.

A cost comparison of woolsens versus synthetic fabrics was also discussed. Wool spokesmen brought out the fact that synthetics prices were rising steadily and at present competitive levels were still only allowing even the largest producers to break even.

TS&GRA Meeting Date Set

TS&GRA will hold an important meeting on Friday, May 27, in Eldorado, Texas at the Eldorado Restaurant. Registration will begin at 10:30 a.m., and the meeting will start at 11:00 a.m. A Dutch Treat meal will be served at 12:30 for those attending and will cost $2.75 each.

Bob Sykes, District Five Chairman, has planned a two part program. The first part of the program will be devoted to an explanation of the new Estate Tax Law as it pertains to farmers and ranchers. This law is very complex, and you would all do well to learn all you can about it.

The second part of the program will include a report on Association activities by Bill Pfluger, Association president, and Bill Sims, executive secretary. They will also report on legislative work in Austin and Washington, D.C. Election of directors to serve the district for 1977-78 will be held at the end of the meeting.

Producers Fight Worm

Livestock producers this year are again working hard to control—and hopefully eradicate—screwworms in Texas. Gov. Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed 1977 as the year to stamp out this costly pest.

While major control efforts must be carried out by livestock managers in every Texas county, people interested in wildlife are also concerned with the success of the program, reminds Clint Langford, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Screwworms will parasitize various wildlife species, especially big game animals such as deer. Unlike domestic livestock, these animals cannot effectively be captured and treated for screwworm infestations.

While no comprehensive studies have ever been conducted on the effects of screwworms on Texas deer, wildlife managers generally agree that fawn mortality is probably the most significant form of loss to this parasite, Langford adds.

In areas where deer numbers are high and the carrying capacity of the range has been reached or exceeded, removal of screwworms probably will have little measurable results on herd quality, wildlife biologists emphasize.

Under these conditions, fawns not taken by screwworms in the spring may die from some other cause such as malnutrition later in the year, they indicate.

"In those areas with unfilled habitat and low deer numbers, removal of screwworm mortality may allow herds to expand to a more desirable level, however. This would increase the amount of venison which could be harvested from those rangelands by hunters," says the county agent.

Adult deer may also fall victim to the screwworm fly, the county agent reminds. "For example, when bucks shed the velvet from their antlers, wounds around the head are likely sites for fertile female flies to deposit eggs.

The result may be the loss of a harvestable animal which might otherwise have been available during the fall hunting season."

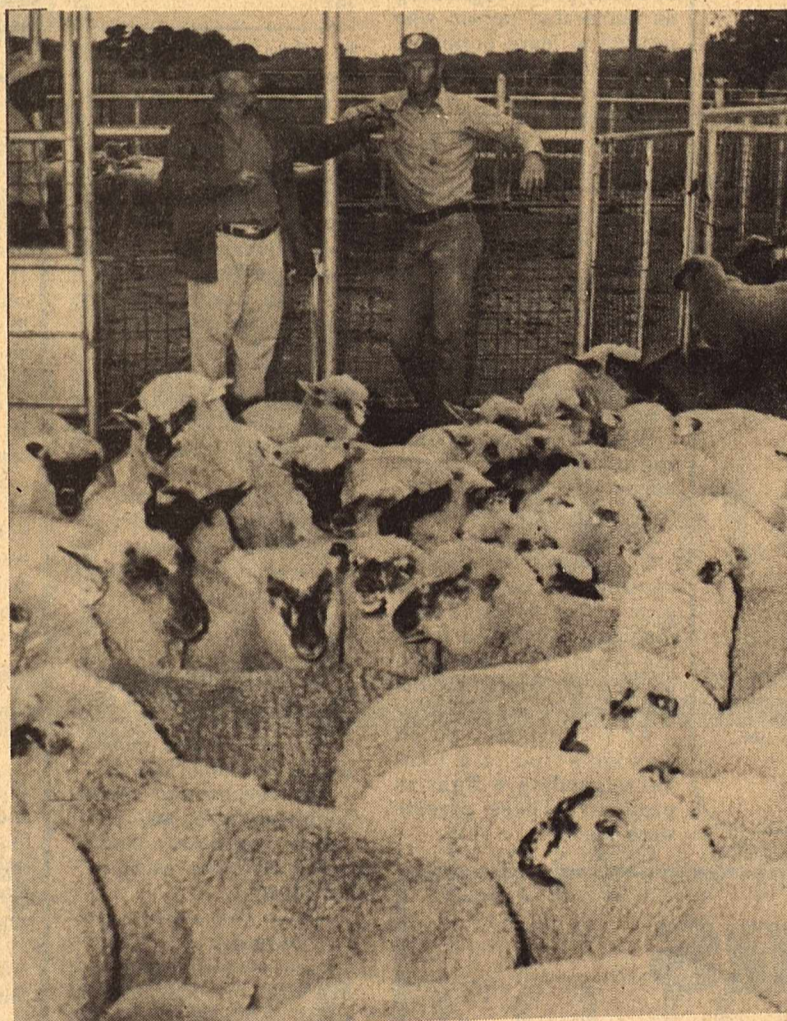

Production of exotic big game, whether for harvest or aesthetic reasons, may also be affected by screwworms. Although some exotic species are more closely confined than native wild animals and may therefore be captured and treated, losses of these animals can be quite costly.

Also, chances for mortality are increased due to abnormal stress during the somewhat difficult capture procedures. Certain rare animals may be extremely difficult to replace, the county agent emphasizes.

"Screwworm control is an important concern for livestock producers, consumers, and wildlife managers.

Removal of the screwworm pest from Texas rangelands may, in some areas, expand opportunities for sound wildlife management programs."
