Villanueva Files For School Board Place 5

As a father of five, Mike Villanueva is understandably deeply concerned with the quality of education offered in the Sonora Independent School System and so is seeking the Place 5 Schoolboard seat currently occupied by Sam Stewart. Villanueva, 43, feels that the Sonora public schools are currently excellent and would like to participate in the continued scholastic improvement of the Sonora school system. An employee of Grider Trucking Company, Villanueva is married to a local girl, the former Amparo Arredondo. Villanueva himself, is a home town boy; he grew up in Sonora, attended the Sonora schools and later moved to Coleman, Texas where he was active in the construction business for some 13 years. Homesick for Sonora, Villanueva moved his family back in 1976. There are currently two Villanueva offspring attending Sonora schools; Mike Jr., a varsity football player at SHS and Michelle who is in the third grade and active in girl scouting. Villanueva has pledged himself to an allout effort to provide all the children of Sonora with a quality education. Villanueva further understands burden for some families and so if elected will endeavor to curtail extra costs. The Villanuevas reside at 305 Santa Rosa and are members of St. Ann's Catholic Church.

The Sutton County Commissioners Court met Monday to consider and discuss the numerous items on their agenda.

The first item on the agenda was a discussion with Oscar Wagner, the contractor of the new jail over the work yet to be done on the jail for the prevention of water damage to the building in case of a flood situation. The contractor has agreed to do the work on the east side of the jail at cost. The cost of the project being $7,000. Concrete will line the diversion and plastic pipe will also be used to divert the water from the building. The Commissioners agreed in a special meeting last Wednesday to formally accept the new jail building, but not the site of the building until the black dirt has been removed. The dirt is expected to be removed immediately.

Don O. Wootan with the Sonora Independent School District asked the Court to drop the Court costs of the suit filed against LoVaca Gathering company in their May, 1979 court case. The LoVaca company has paid $33,000 in taxes, penalty and interest to date. The court costs were $47.00. The court costs were dismissed.

Archie Crenwelge with the Department of Public Safety petitioned the commissioners with a request to buy a new radar system to be installed by the DPS. The old radar which was purchased in 1976 is broken, and the new model desired by the DPS is equipped with all the latest instruments including a "fuzz buster" switch. The unit is expected to pay for itself within two weeks of its installation. The commissioners accepted the proposal to purchase a new radar system.

Bruce Kerbow petitioned the court to request the addition of another full time employee at the local cemetery. After much discussion the court decided to grant Mr. Kerbow's request. The new employee will receive all the benefits of a regular County employee.

The City Council and Mayor Doyle Morgan met with the Court during their meeting to discuss several items of mutual interest.

The construction of the new taxi way at the Sonora Municipal Airport is nearly completed. The taxi way can be used for emergency landing and during the possible resurfacing of the existing runway.

The new taxi way will be prepared to handle single engine airplanes at that time.

County Judge Charles Sherrill and City Manager Jim Dover would like to express their thanks to the Road Department for a job well done.

The City and County then discussed the possibility of drawing up an Intergovernmental Paving Contract to pave the city streets. The city had desired this contract to go into effect this summer, but the Sutton County road department is not prepared for the undertaking of a task such as this. The Road Department is plagued with problems such as manpower, funds and equipment. The department has not increased its manpower in the last 15 years. It has recently purchased a new Caterpillar D-7 to replace the old one that they had for 23 years.

County Judge Charles Sherrill and Road Department superintendent Joe Ed Harrell are expected to meet with the city heads to discuss the possibility of paving the streets next year.

Both the City and the County are deeply interested in the paving of the streets and the Intergovernmental Contract as it will save the tax payers money and help both the County and the City.

Ada Howard, representative of the Big Country Library Association and Linda Fisher, spokesperson for the Womens Club met with the Commissioners to discuss the possibility of the County joining the Big Country Library System based in Abilene, Texas.

The first step for the founding of the Sutton County library was the donation by the Womens Club to the County of the books and other physical property which they had used in their library. Mrs. Howard said the next step in the formation of a public library is to draw up a contract stating the governing body of the library and creating an advisory board to meet with the governing body and advise them of situations within the library. The main goal of the Public Library System, of which the Big Country Association is a member, is to provide better library services and resources to the public which it serves. The commissioners set the wheels in motion to form the new public library with the completion of the membership form from the Big Country Association.

The commissioners accepted sealed bids in their session on an insurance program for the County in the coming year. Three bids were submitted. Doyle Morgan and Web Elliott local insurance Agents submitted bids as did Southwestern Insurance Association of Austin.

The premium for a year's coverage ranges from Southwest Insurance Association bid of $19,324.00 to $22,436.00 by the Elliott Agency, and the Morgan Agency bid premium totaled $25,217.00.

The County dads accepted the bid by the Southwest Insurance Association. The insurance package agreed upon by the Commissioners will include coverage for the newly completed jail, liability and physical damage coverage are also included. The County insurance package will give the county more coverage at a reduced price from last year.

Juanita Mesa Files For School Board Place 7

Juanita Mesa has announced her intention to run for the Sonora Independent School District Board of Trustees Place 7.

Juanita is a lifetime Sonoran. She attended 11 years of classes in the Sonora school system and finished her education in night school classes.

Juanita and her husband, M.G. Mesa Jr. have three children now enrolled in the school system. Ricky is an eighth grader attending Sonora Junior High. Their two daughters, Gail and Anna are enrolled in Sonora Elementary.

Juanita is seeking to fill a place that was vacated by a good and dedicated trustee. She said recently, "I am not running against any particular person or idea, I am running for several ideas which I hope to help the School Board realize."

"The continuation of building and improving school facilities as our children need them, the use of every means possible to attract and keep qualified, dedicated school personnel, and the opportunity to consider every possibility to keep our children in school and learning, are some of the goals that I have set for myself as an elected official on the Board of Trustees."

"I strongly believe that a member of the SISD board must have certain qualifications and that I meet those qualifications in the following ways, I am willing and able to spend the time and effort required to attend to the duties of a trustee. I am aware of the various forces of change in our community, I will be able to conduct the school's business in a way that goes beyond the limited viewpoints of age, race, financial standing, sex, educational background, etc., and I am eager to work with the other trustees that the citizens of Sutton County have chosen for the School Board," she continued.

"I would appreciate the consideration and vote of every individual in the upcoming April 5 election," she added.

Roasting weiners is tricky business for Scouts and leaders alike.

Weekend Campout Enjoyed By All

Five troops of Sonora Brownies, Junior Scouts and Cadettes participated in the weekend campout held this past weekend here in Sonora at the Scout Hut.

The weekend event was planned and overseen by the Cadettes with the help of five fearless leaders, Marlene Evans, Lois Laxton, Jr. Scouts leader, Edna Duren, Cadette troop leader, Janie Balmes, Brownie Scout leader, and Suzie Martinez, Brownie Scout leader.

The campout had been three weeks in the planning stage with the Cadette troop spending the entire weekend at the Hut. The Junior Scouts spent Saturday night, and the Brownies spent the day at camp but returned home at 8:00 Saturday evening.

A list of activities were planned out by the Cadettes including a two-mile nature hike, making candles the old fashioned way, and making collages with twigs, nests, and other assorted articles that they found on their nature hikes.

The highlight of the day was the building of the campfire upon which the scouts cooked their supper. The scouts fought the dust, grass and smoke to eat hot dogs au charcoal and for dessert, s'mores (toasted marshmallows and graham crackers).

Around night time, the campfire was ringed with scouts who performed skits, which was yet another learning experience. In performing the skits, the scouts learned not to be self-conscious. After the skits had been performed, the scouts sang songs.

All the scouts enjoyed the weekend campout, as did the leaders who looked a little worn from the experience. The scouts plan to have more campouts like the one held over the weekend. They hope that more of the Sonora troops will be able to participate in the future campouts.

Chamber Chatter

By Lou Thomas

Beth Boyd, Ozona Chamber of Commerce, reports that record-breaking attendance was noted at their annual banquet. Beth had borrowed the pic of Tumbleweed Smith from the office. Smith spoke at Ozona C of C banquet, and will be the speaker at Sonora's annual Chamber of Commerce banquet on April 10th to be held at the 4-H Center. Shelley Chaney reminds everyone of the bake sale on March 14th, from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. to be held in front of City Hall and Hershel's Foodway Store.

Thanks to Jody Thompson for picking up slogan entries from the schools. A thank you is extended to all the entrants in the slogan contest.

Friendly face around town this week was Hershel Davenport.

Thanks to KVRN Radio Station and the Devil's River News for all that nice, free publicity for our slogan contest and the other news stories on Chamber activities.

On August 28, 1978 a C of C board meeting was held in the Founders Room at the First National Bank with the following in attendance: George Kellogg, George Wallace, Mike Hale, Glen Fisher, Wes Burnett and Jack Kerbow.

Burnett appointed the following to serve on the banquet committee: Linda Hunt, Effie Harle, Mike Hale, John Tedford, Wallace and Fisher.

Some thought-provoking slogans entered in the recent slogan contest were: Sonora-Sweep Up! Trash Out!; The Great Sonora Sweep Up; The Great Sonora Trash Out; A Clean Sonora-The Best Reason For Giving Up The Dirt; People Power Working To Clean Up Sonora; Tomorrow's Name Is Clean Up, Sonora; It's Our Duty, So Let's Show Beauty; Sonora Won't Glitter If You Litter; Aesthetically.....Sonora;

Come On, Sonorans, Do Your Duty...Help Us Out In Our Plan of Beauty; Bronco Pride, Move Trash Aside; Shape Up Bronco Land; Make Sonora A Scenic Showplace; Sonora, #1 In Small Towns; and Sonora Has It All.

Regarding the Honorable Mention slogans printed in last week's release, an error was made. G.E. Hill submitted the slogan 'Sonora', Her Beauty Abounds In The People Who Care!', while Pam Merrill submitted the slogan 'Be O.K., Don't Pollute Today'. Both slogans were in the Honorable Mention category.

The Board of Directors held their monthly meeting on March 5th, with the following in attendance: President Glen Fisher, Vice President Effie Harle, Treasurer Kenneth Land, Ed Carrasco, George Kellogg, Mike Sipes, Don Dooley. Steve Swift was elected to serve on the executive committee, along with Fisher, Harle, Land and Dooley.

Dooley reported on the Texas Industrial Commis-ion seminar in Austin. Harle gave a report on the 'Shine Sonora,' beautification project.

The directors discussed the upcoming annual banquet slated for April 10 at 7:00 a.m. at the 4-H Center. Working on this project will be Fisher, Harle, Kellogg, Carrasco, Dooley, Robert Brown, Lola Jones and members of the Red Carpet Committee. Tickets will be $7.50 and may be purchased at the Wool House, TV Enterprises, Inc. and Sonora Floral & Gifts. Directors approved application for funding from CETA, for clerical help in the office to complete industrial brochures and booklets for use by the Industrial Committee. The directors discussed the need for a permanent office for the Chamber of Commerce, with a variety of buildings, locations, etc. suggested.

Nomination forms are available in the Chamber of Commerce office for the Senior Citizen Award and the Citizen of the Year Award to be given to some outstanding leader at the annual banquet this year. Or, you may call 7-2880 and a form can be mailed to you.

en, Paula Friess, captured 5 gold medals for the Sonora girls. In three individual events - the long jump, triple jump, and 400 m. dash, Paula won first place. Jaycees To Sponsor An Activity Day

The Sonora Jaycees are planning yet another day of summer activity. In addition to the Third Annual Hooten Hollar to be held on April 12, a dance in July, and Sutton County Days Celebration in August, the Jaycees have come up with a day of competition and activity; proceeds of which will go to benefit the Sutton County Community Trust Fund.

Friendly competition will include a Bull Chip Session, (not the throwin' kind, the talkin' kind) which is expected to be a great hit with the hunters and fishermen; a Chicken Flying Contest where a chicken is placed in a mailbox seven feet in the air and pushed out with a plunger to see how far he or she (whatever the case may be) can fly; Armadillo Racing, Washer Pitchin' and Beer Guzzling Contests will round out the days' competition.

Entertainment will be provided by the Los Primos Orchestra and the Sutton County Pickers.

The Jaycees are promising a good time to all who attend and participate in the events.

Currently, the Jaycees are kicking off a membership drive. Young men between the ages of 18 and 35 who would like to get involved in civic activities are urged to get in touch with any Jaycee member and join up with these young civic leaders.

A Sonora Minister Speaks

Paul Terry Sonora United Methodist Church

Lent, the forty five days preceding Easter, (excluding Sundays), has for centuries been a time set aside by the Christian Church for preparation of the individual Church member to receive the Easter event. One of the ways this has been done traditionally is by self denial -- "Giving up" something for Lent. Quite often that which is given up for Lent is something which should not be in your life anyhow. For instance, giving up smoking. Giving up something, to me, has something of a negative idea; I would prefer to think of adding something to life, rather than cutting off something. May I suggest some ideas for adding to life, which might make this Lent more meaningful to you?

First, add a cheerful spirit. It just might surprise you how much a cheery greeting and a smile would add to the day of everyone you meet. And it will return to bless your own life.

Second, add kind deeds. As often as opportunity is presented, perform some kindness to someone who would least expect it. It does not have to be a big production; remember the "Cup of cold water" the Lord mentioned.

Third, add prayer for specific persons you know face difficult decisions or situations. And do be specific in what you are praying for.

Fourth, add a genuine desire to open your life completely to the leadership of the spirit of God, that you may truly receive the joy of Easter.

Now if you cannot be comfortable at Lent without giving up, give up gossip, backbiting, whining, blaming all your troubles on others, and pointing your finger at those hypocrites.

Everyone Is Welcome To Attend

West Texas Gadabout By Sam Pendergrast

MAXDALE - Is the American military complex ready for war? For brush-fire emergencies? Is the "volunteer Army" working? What about women in the service? Who wants the G.I. Bill?

Those are fairly specialized questions, and I hadn't had much first-hand information since I "retired" after three years as an Army medic from Beaumont Army Hospital at El Paso in 1954. And reports you get through the media are sometimes conflicting and often alarmist.

So I was glad to spend an hour recently interviewing a guy who ought to know: U.S. Army Europe Command Sergeant-Major Walter W. Krueger, the top Army enlisted man in Europe, who was on a two-day tour of Fort Hood, Texas.

I had met SGM a couple of years earlier, when he was command sergeant major of the First Cavalry Division at Hood and my brother Tom was personnel sergeant major of Patton's old outfit. Krueger had planned a brief visit with three of his daughters and other friends at my brother's Maxdale farm, so I asked for a few minutes and took an hour for a one-on-one press conference.

Some of his answers were surprising and all of them were reassuring.

The Reedsburg, Wisconsin, native (born in 1933) volunteered for Army duty January 24, 1951, "to fight the Communists" in Korea, kept volunteering for Korea until he got there (even after drawing cushier duty in Germany), and has had no goal since but to be "the best soldier in the Army".

Nearly three decades later, after duty all over the world and two years as one of the fastest-rising enlisted men in the Army, he says of the 175,000 troops of our Seventh Army and "Central Army Group" with whom he deals

"We're ready. In Europe...we are damned ready. We've got the best equipment in the world, the best soldiers, the best non-commissioned officers in the world, and we're able to respond to our commander-in-chief - which is the President of the United States - any time he wants us to go..." He claims no expertise about preparedness outside Europe, but he also gives U.S. Air Force troops high marks. "Those cats are ready to go; they know what they're supposed to do and when to do it..." and he cites the new XM-1 tank developed at Hood as an example of effective new equipment. (It lets you shoot and kill at 50 miles an hour.)

"And it's not just equipment...it's people," he explains. "We're supposed to be facing an enemy that's got us five to one, but we'll whip their a-- because we're better. We're better trained. Our soldiers have been to war...whereas there's no professional army in Russia. They come in for 18...24 months and then they go home. There is no constant career program for enlisted soldiers."

Part of the readiness is due, he thinks, to the American people's increasing appreciation of the soldier, which Krueger says has grown considerably since he donned olive drab in 1951. "Just the remuneration has gone up tremendously...the recognition that a soldier is a first-class citizen has become readily apparent in the last two or three years." It is appreciation well placed, according to the compact and battle-marked fighting man, who took time out from a sometimes bantering interview for a solemn thumbnail report on his military peers: "The U.S. Army Europe today is the largest, greatest deployed peacetime field army that this nation has ever had. We are prepared. We're up-loaded, and we're ready to go. We're dedicated. And we have absolutely no qualms whatsoever about our ability to defeat whoever the Hell decides to challenge the United States."

(And while SGM Krueger declined to discuss any specific blueprints for retrieval of American hostages in Iran, he made it clear the Army he knows is ready to go wherever it is needed and do whatever needs doing in military campaigns large or small.)

NEXT WEEK: Women, Blacks and Drop-Outs in the Army.

Green News

Thanks to the Sonora Volunteer Fire Department who safely guarded the big smoke on the golf course Wednesday. When your ball lands in the draw now...everyone will be watching your next shot. Only one thing went wrong. Cullen just cannot keep out of trouble. A black and white (skunk that is) chased him up and down #7 fairway until he finally had to retreat to his pickup. One of the nicest guys we know, but like it's said, just can't keep out of trouble.

March 23rd, Fairway Frolics, hopefully an annual event, will begin with a general club membership meeting at 12:30 p.m., a team play of golf following, and a supper after golf. Bring a covered dish or salad. Meat and beans will be furnished by the Golf Club.

Sonny Edmiston - El Paso Natural Gas - have again assisted in clubhouse improvements. An extension of the patio roof has been completed. Many golf course improvements have been provided through Sonny and all club members appreciate his efforts.

Golfers are having to stand in line now, to tee off #1. Pleasant weather, pleasant atmosphere, interested golfers and just about one of the best nine hole courses you'll find. Pro shop and party room remodeling has been completed and those of you who have not seen it will have a big surprise. Billy D. Doan and crew have done a great job.

Summer Camps Planned For 4-H Youth

4-H youth from 9 to 19 will have an opportunity to "expand their horizons through camping" at the Texas 4-H Center this summer. And the 1980 summer camping program is better than ever.

Seven camps are planned from July 6 to Aug. 2, points out Sarah Wade, county 4-H program coor-ordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Activities include living and learning in the outdoor environment that encompasses 78 acres of wooded land on the shores of Lake Brownwood in Central Texas. Skills training will be offered in such subjects as canoeing, archery, handicrafts, swimming, shooting sports and ground sports. Youth can participate in all activities.

Like 4-H, camping is "learning by doing," says Sarah. 4-H'ers will develop skills and will grow into more productive citizens as a result of their camping experiences. Learning to adjust in a camping environment, learning to appreciate natural surroundings, and participating as a responsible member of a democratic camping environment are just a few of the experiences offered to campers.

Experienced resource teachers and qualified college-aged counselors will conduct classes, points out Sarah. County Extension agents, adult leaders and counselors will supervise campers at all times. Educational agents, adult leaders and counselors will supervise campers at all times. Educational activities are planned for 4-H'ers leaders and county Extension agents that can be adapted to local 4-H programs.

Additional information about summer camping at the Texas 4-H Center, is available from the county Extension office, adds Sarah.

Mohair Council To Survey The Far East

The Mohair Council of America is sending a market survey team to the Far East, March 16.

Countries to be visited are Japan, Taiwan, and Korea. The Council will be represented by Sid Harkins of Sanderson, immediate past President, and Fred Cambell of Paint Rock, Executive Director. Accompanying them will be George Taylor of San Angelo, immediate past President of the Texas Wool and Mohair Warehouse Association, and John E. Hutchison of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The purpose of this mission is to investigate the current and future use of mohair in these countries. The Japanese have used approximately 10-15 percent of the world mohair clip in the past, but have purchased only limited amounts from Texas during 1979 due to the blending of mohair in the top making process. Because they did not receive the quality top they preferred, the Japanese switched most of their purchases to South Africa. The team will try to recapture some of this business and assess the potential for mohair in Japan, as well as Korea and Taiwan.

The trade mission is being made possible through the Foreign Agricultural Service Cooperator program and the Texas Department of Agriculture, both of whom assist commodity groups in the development of agricultural markets overseas.

4-H Program Needs Leaders

It's almost spring and several more 4-H projects will be beginning soon. Leaders are needed for the 4-H Clothing project and the 4-H Vegetable Gardening Project. The 4-H Clothing project centers around 4-H members learning basic clothing construction, grooming, posture, wardrobe planning, buying of clothing and many more things. This project has been carried by 4-H members for the past 6-7 years. The 4-H vegetable gardening project centers around 4-H members learning basic gardening techniques, garden planning, and many more things. This project is new this year.

To be a volunteer 4-H leader, please call the County Extension offices at 387-3604 or 387-3101. or come by the offices located on the third floor of the City Hall Building.

If you have a few hours a week free-time, like children, and like to work with people, plan on being a 4-H leader.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of race, creed, color, sex, religion of national origin.

EL PASO -- Flying out to the sunspot of the southwest, I tried to focus my attention toward my purpose for making the trip -- to interview an old farm boy that made good.

However, this visit was somewhat different from most I have made in 26 years as a journalist. My assignment to interview and photograph a celebrity like this one was different simply because he seems t. so much like family.

LAWRENCE WELK is indeed a household word. For 25 years, his "champagne" music has come into millions of homes throughout the United States and Canada. The hour-long broadcasts are aired 52 weeks per year.

In a business where the life span of most shows is one to ten years, it appears that the Welk Show continues to grow in popularity. And after meeting the man and visiting with him, I can see why.

From farm boy to small-time bandleader to big-time bandleader to radio to television, that's his story. "I sort of got my start in West Texas, I guess," smiled Welk. "I use to lay music out in San Angelo and Abilene and McCamey for my room and board."

The 77-year-old entertainer remembers San Angelo and the Hilton Hotel (now the Cactus) and the roof garden which was on top of the St. Angelus Hotel.

"I played at the celebration...or the birth of Wink, Texas," Welk remembers. "There was nothing there but an out-house!"

He grew up on a farm near Strasburg, North Dakota. His family was poor. It was a struggle to feed eight Welks. But from a frown to his famous smile, he reflects and adds: "I found out later it was a blessing to have this meek beginning. It taught me how to live and give of myself to others....to understand."

Asked if he would ever retire, Welk laughed and replied: "I had planned to do that when I was 65. Now, I guess I won't. I thought once of being able to play golf, go fishing, travel with my wife."

"Yet, I am never so happy as when I can stand in front of my orchestra and make beautiful music...the big band music that people can dance to or just enjoy," he signed.

"If they can't hum it after we play it, it's not for us," he said. Lawrence Welk credits his musical director George Cates for so much of the excellence of the "Champagne bubbles." He can pick out a bad note out of 40 horns," he explains.

The interview was conducted from the seventh floor of the Holiday Inn here. The Welk Show was presenting its first show of a ten-day road tour across the nation.

Our two hour visit was in a most relaxing atmosphere. Dancer Arthur Duncan joined us. Matter of fact, Arthur set it all up having been an old friend of the Rehab Center and our annual telethon which he danced on. We also made a short film with Pat Atteberry for local TV.

The Welk charisma is tremendous. He has a magic personality. I could still identify him with the farm and many of my kinfolk around Fredericksburg.

"We worked hard on the farm, except in the wintertime," he remembers. "There were few chores in winter-and that's the time I liked best because we had music. My father played accordion, my mother sang, we all danced. Those were happy times."

"I had a recurrent dream in those years...so vivid I can still recall every detail today. In my dream, I was always standing in the center of a huge crowd ---and they were smiling and applauding as I played my accordion."

He smiled and added: "Now Myron Floren does all the accordion playing, they won't let me play on TV anymore...No, I was kidding. I take it in my car and go to Escondido and the Lawrence Welk Country Club. I enjoy playing to the people in the restaurant there."

Sitting with him in his room in El Paso and looking out the picture windows at the mountain range, I could sense the dedication Lawrence Welk has for bands and his fans. "I'm proud of our orchestra, grateful and happy that we've been able to make music for America for all these years, and I want to go right on doing it."

"But if I could get the door open just a little for our young people, if I could help restore to this country some of the strength and moral courage we used to have, the freedom we must have to survive--then I would feel my life had been truly useful."

"This is a wonderful, wonderful country," smiled Welk. As Bernice McGeehan wrote in a recent Saturday Evening Post: Lawrence Welk "seems to personify all that is best in the American character, a man who made good by being good, someone to respect as well as admire."

Back on the airplane on my way to the Concho River, I thought about it all and the day passed. That must be the key!

Largest, Foam Fracture To Be Undertaken March 17

Houston, March 5, 1980--In a partially depleted natural gas well in Limestone County, near the central Texas town of Mexia, Mitchell Energy & Development Corp. on March 17 will undertake the largest, deepest, and most costly foam fracture ever.

If successful, the "frac" some 11,000 feet underground in rock so dense that concrete is porous by comparison -- will revive the well, increase its reserves by some 3 billion cubic feet of natural gas, and permit it to begin producing 2.5 million cubic feet daily. Cost of the project is estimated at a half million dollars.

Presently, the 11-year-old well is producing 50,000 to 75,000 cubic feet of gas daily from the Cotton Valley lime formation underlying the company's Fallon Field. The output is barely enough to justify the well's continued operation.

George P. Mitchell, chairman and president of the Houston-based independent gas and oil company, said some $13 million worth of equipment will be assembled for the record-setting nitrogen "foam frac" by the contractor, the Dowell Division of Dow Chemical U. S. A. He described massive foam fracturing as an evolutionary step beyond massive hydraulic fracturing, a related enhanced recovery technique Mitchell Energy has used with success in the past.

Fracturing has the potential to help tap vast amounts of gas contained in gas-bearing rock formations as the Cotton Valley lime and Devonian shale, Mitchell said. These so-called "tight" formations have such low permeability and porosity that the flow of gas is severely restricted.

Beginning at 5 a.m. on St. Patrick's Day and ending some 14 hours later, a foam mixture consisting primarily of nitrogen, water and sand will be forced under pressure of 9,000 pounds per square inch into the No. 1 Stone well. Approximately two miles underground, a thin, tear-shaped fracture extending more than 200 feet in height and 1,700 feet away from each side of the well bore will open, according to Harry Kozik, Mitchell Energy's manager of special projects.

After completion of the project, the foam will separate into nitrogen and water, which will be extracted from the well. The sand will remain in place to keep the fracture open as a channel for gas to migrate through the dense rock into the well.

The amount of nitrogen used will be more than twice as large as that used in the biggest foam fracturing project undertaken previously -- 20 million standard cubic feet of nitrogen gas, compared with 9.4 million. The 20 million standard cubic feet of nitrogen will cost more than $200,000.

Railroad Commissioners Blast Unwarranted Regulations

The federal government's recent attempts to regulate oil and gas resources under state jurisdiction has come under fire by two of the commissioners on the Texas Railroad Commission.

James E. Nugent charges the Department of Energy (DOE) and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) with an "exceptional and precedent setting attempt" to grab control of those resources.

Chairman John H. Poerner, addressing the Oil, Agricultural and Businessmen Appreciation Day audience, appealed for an end to senseless and excessive controls over oil and gas explorer-producers and the immediate launching of massive searches for new petroleum provinces in the U.S.

Otherwise, warned Poerner, America may soon become "the land of the regulated and home of the fearful."

Crediting Texas and the U.S. economic and industrial achievements of the past to free enterprise-generated opportunities, Poerner said TRC has always supported the free market system and "we have been gratified to see how well it has worked."

At the commission, Poerner stressed: "We do not control prices. We are most concerned with insuring that everybody has a fair opportunity to produce the resources of their land, but we are equally devoted to conservation and the protection of correlation rights."

Poerner expressed concern about "the increasing number of variety, cost and complexity of senseless regulations" pouring out of Washington.

"And," he asserted, "federal regulation inhibits not only the production of gas and oil, but also of alternative energy sources that we sorely need."

Noting that only a fifty of U.S. proven and known fossil fuel reserves have been tapped, Poerner said the nation still has a tremendous energy reserve base from which it can turn back the flood of increasingly costly foreign oil and petroleum products.

Poerner said Washington has a precedent for dealing wisely on energy matters, citing the 1926 enactment of the now-erased 27.5 percent oil depletion provision in the internal revenue code.

"For 50 years, this law helped to sustain our nation's lifeblood industry," he recalled.

"Luckily, that Congress of long ago had the wisdom to realize that as the petroleum industry goes, so goes the rest of the nation. They could not have taken a more farsighted step in the right direction.

"By 1941, the U.S. increased annual crude oil production by 249 percent over the World War 1 level."

Today, however, said the commission chairman, that wisdom has been replaced by "more stringent controls, more complex regulations and more onerous taxes being levied on this vital industry."

Nugent's accusation that the government is attempting to grab control from the states was delivered to industry conservation and oil purchasing representatives at a commission hearing.

The DOE and FERC, through regulations under Sections 103 and 108 of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1979, are striving to interfere with the establishment of proration units and allowables in Texas, Nugent said.

"Furthermore," he observed, "this appropriation of powers concerns matters which the FERC has neither the legal authority, nor the ability to assume."

Nugent pointed out that Texas has nearly nine decades of experience in conserving and regulating petroleum reserves. As administering agency, the commission "has done an outstanding job through the past 60 years in fulfilling its statutory duty of regulating oil and gas" resources within the state, he maintained.

In concluding his remarks, Nugent declared that he "will not be a party to voluntarily handing one of the primary Texas assets (natural gas) over to the federal government to control."

Anti-Windfall Profits Tax Rally Held In Midland

More than 300 people attended the Anti-Windfall Profits Tax Rally February 29th, in Midland, at the Hilton Hotel. The purpose of the meeting was to stir up support for the "Oilfield Roundup" set for the week of March 10th in Washington, D.C. The Roundup sponsors plan for about 3,000 people and several pieces of oilfield equipment to move into Washington on March 10th. There will be a rally on that day and then the volunteers will be talking to members of the Senate the remainder of the week.

The featured speaker at the Midland Rally was retiring Senator Henry Bellmon, who is leading the fight against the oil excise tax. Bellmon said the tax would be the worst mistake ever made by Congress and it would hurt everyone...the consumer, producer and the country. Bellmon hopes the efforts of the Grass Roots lobbying will at least result in restoring the 1,000 barrel exemption for independent producers to the bill. At best, he said, we could kill the tax. Bellmon drew loud applause when he said we need more energy a lot more than we need more government. And the Oklahoma Republican told the crowd that the tax would be as permanent as anything you'll ever see.

Uranium Permit Approved By RRC

The Railroad Commission today approved a revised uranium surface mining permit application filed by Conoco Inc. requesting 400 acres be added to its Site 27 in Live Oak County.

Chairman John H. Poerner and Commissioner James E. (Jim) Nugent acted on Conoco's application and a legal examiner's recommendation of approval during the weekly conference on Surface Mining and Reclamation Division matters. Commissioner Mack Wallace did not attend the conference because of an out-of-town commitment.

Conoco's application requested that Permit No. 008, covering 28 sites, be amended to add the 400 acres for the purpose of providing additional sitation features overburden pile placement, access roads and other related features. None of the acreage is to be mined. The area to be annexed is located adjacent to Site 27, which is approximately five miles southeast of Whitsett and one and three-tenths miles east of U.S. 281. Presently, Site 27 covers 661 acres.

The applicant proposes to return the area, through reclamation, to grazing and or improved pasture land.

No objections to the Conoco application were filed with the Commission. In other Surface Mining Business, the Commission approved an application to add 5.8 acres to the permitted area at the Conoco Mill Site in Karnes County and to increase the storage capacity of the existing tailing pond.

The mill site, which is included in Permit No. 008, is located approximately seven and eight-tenths miles southwest of Falls City and two and eight-tenths miles southwest of the San Antonio River. The site cover 372 acres.

The application for revision proposes to elevate the dam surrounding the tailings pond from 404 feet to 436 feet.
